Sociology professor Wilson disagreed with his colleagues, however, and is quite optimistic of the students' chances of bringing about change.

He thinks, "draft resistance could prove to be the most efficacious technique in the arsenal of peace movements. I think there is a real possibility for a massive draft resistance on the national scale."

All five concluded by saying that they would support the protestors morally and with legal advice when sought. Mr. Braunthal pointed to the Valley Peace Center for local students seeking draft counseling. It does not provide positive answers, however, the government teacher added, only alternatives. Canter made it clear, however, that he did not have answers or suggestions for those with problems, but only if the student's mind is made up.

DEMONSTRATION . . .

(Continued from page 1)

insults and remarks on the part of the hecklers.

The demonstration ended at approximately 1:30 with continued jeers and threats of violence by the hecklers. Despite isolated incidents, the demonstration was an obvious success.

Another demonstration is planned for today in Northampton at noon.

800 Drop-Outs

Nearly 800 undergraduates failed to meet requirements to remain members of their classes during the academic year 1966-67, according to the Registrar's Office.

Spring semester 1967 took the heaviest toll with 464 dismissals, as compared to 335 for fall semester.

In the statistics recorded for the spring semester, nearly 75%, or 345 of the 464 dismissals, were male students. The remaining 119 dismissals were female students. The dismissals by classes ranged from the senior's low to the freshmen's high. The Class of 1967 had 1,711 members and recorded only seven dismissals or .4 of 1 per cent of the total enrollment. Of the 3,211 members of the Class of 1970, 9.5% or 305 of them were dismissed.

Despite the rise in enrollment, the number of dismissals for spring semester 1967 were fewer than the 576 recorded for spring semester 1966.

Doherty Silent

Chief John Doherty of the Amherst Fire Department told the Collegian last night that he could not comment upon the report given by University Treasurer Kenneth W. Johnson to trustees Saturday because he had not seen the report or news releases about it.

Th report commented upon the fire safety efforts of the University: plant protection, insurance surveys and fire safety personnel. The report stated that the Amherst chief is kept fully informed of changes in water supply and access roads.

Doherty recently criticized the university for what he called slow progress in dealing with fire conditions on the campus.

SUG BOARD

Nomination Papers Available in RSO

for representatives:

Class of 1971

Class of 1970

Class of 1969

Class of 1968

PAPERS DUE TUESDAY, OCTOBER 31

Election Tuesday, Nov. 7

TRYOUTS

for

ENRICO IV

An Intense, Intricate and Illusive Drama

by LUIGI PIRANDELLO

Monday and Tuesday, October 23-24

7:00 p.m. 119 Bartlett

Everyone is welcome

Man Slays Six Co-Workers

LOCK HAVEN, Pa. (AP)—A 39-year-old father of four children went berserk Monday morning at the paper mill where he worked, shot and killed six friends and wounded six others before police wounded and captured him in a field behind his home.

Lee Held, a school board member described as "an avid hunter" and "a quiet, peaceful man, devoted to his family," started his crazed rampage minutes after he arrived at the Hammermill Paper Co. He was a laboratory technician there with 21 years service.

Police said a dispute among riders in his car pool apparently set Held off. He walked into the plant at 8 a.m., whipped out two revolvers and without warning sprayed bullets with deadly accuracy. The toll there: five dead and four wounded, three critically.

Lock Haven is a semi-industrial town, surrounded by farms in the center of Pennsylvania. It is an area regarded as providing the best hunting in the state.

Held and the other injured are in Lock Haven Hospital which police heavily patrolled.

When the shooting began, many Hammermill employees were too stunned to move, saying they had thought all along that he was just joking. Others fell to the floor, huddled behind desks and machines as the guns spat out the bullets.

Held was driven to work by Mrs. Geraldine Ramm, a neighbor in his home town of Loganton, 17 miles southeast of Lock Haven. He then went to the parking lot and took a station wagon. He drove to the Lock Haven Airport, a mile away, where Mrs. Ramm worked for the Piper Aircraft Corp.

It was then about 8:15. He fired several times into the Piper office, managed to hit Mrs. Ramm before he returned to the station wagon and headed to Loganton.

There shortly before 9, police said he forced his way into Floyd Quiggle's home and killed him as he lay in bed. He then shot and wounded Quiggle's wife, Donna, 26.

The investigation by State Police Capt. John Grey indicates Held tarried a while, taking weapons and ammunition from Quiggle's gun case. Then he ran outside, behind his own house and into a field to avoid a police posse waiting for him.

Scores of bullets were fired as Held engaged about a dozen officers in a shootout. He lurched ahead, even as he was hit again and again by the encircling police. Then he sank to the ground, slowly, but kept pumping lead from the smoking guns in his hands.

Israel Demands Vengeance for Sinking Ship

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Egypt braced for possible Israeli reprisals Monday as Prime Minister Levi Eshkol denounced the sinking of the destroyer Elath by Egyptian Soviet-made surface rocket missiles as "an act of war in open sea."

Israeli newspapers demanded vengeance for the attack that sent the Elath to the bottom of the Mediterranean Sea off the Sinai Peninsula coast Saturday with probable loss of 53 lives.

"We expect renewed Israeli aggression any time," an Egyptian official said in Cairo. "Our armed forces are constantly on the alert."

Israeli government leaders conferred with military officers in Jerusalem, informed sources said. Officials were tight-lipped over what course the government might take.

Claiming the Elath was a mile inside Egypt's 12-mile limit, Cairo asked that U.N. observers be sent to Port Said at the north end of the Suez Canal near where the sinking occurred.

Israeli officials, who reported the Elath was a mile or more outside Egypt's territorial waters, declared the request for U.N. observers was Cairo's attempt to head off Israeli reprisal.

"This despicable attack was launched without any cause," Eshkol told Israeli nation in a broadcast.

"It was a wanton and unprovoked attack. The blood of our sailors, like the blood of our civilians and soldiers, will not be shed wantonly."

In the midst of the latest Mideast crisis, Marshal Matvei V. Zakharov, Soviet military chief of staff and deputy defense minister, arrived unannounced in Cairo. Western diplomats in Moscow said they believed the Kremlin was concerned about the possible consequences of the Elath's sinking and Zakharov had gone to Egypt to look over the situation.

Dayan Blames Nasser

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel's soldier hero, Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, accused Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser on Monday night of personally ordering the missile attack that sank the Israeli destroyer Elath.

Israeli sources said Soviet naval personnel possibly supervised the firing of the Russian-made missiles.

Dayan spoke at a memorial meeting, near his Tel Aviv home, for Israelis killed in the Saturday night incident.

Holding Nasser personally to blame, Dayan noted the incident came five months after the Egyptian president closed the Strait of Tiran in the prelude to the Middle East war in June.

"Israel knows how to take care of itself and what steps to follow," Dayan said.

Earlier Monday, Prime Minister Levi Eshkol denounced the sinking of the destroyer as "an act of war in the open sea."

One authoritative Israeli source said Soviet technicians probably were present when the Soviet-built missiles were fired. Other Israeli informants added that Russians possibly supervised the firing.

As Egypt braced for possible Israeli reprisals, newspapers in Israel demanded vengeance for the attack that sent the Elath to the bottom of the Mediterranean off the Sinai Peninsula coast Saturday with the probable loss of 53 lives.

'The Pill' Found Safe by Doctors

NEW YORK (AP)—A survey of nearly 7,000 obstetricians and gynecologists shows that 95 per cent of them feel "the pill" is safe and prescribe it—so long as the patient is healthy.

But a majority will not prescribe the oral contraceptive for women who have histories of phlebitis, breast cancer and other diseases. The survey showed—although in many cases the doctor decides that pregnancy would be harder on the patient than the pill would.

The survey was made in a questionnaire prepared by the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, and distributed to its fellows, 90 per cent of whom replied. Results are described in the current issue of McCall's magazine, which initiated the survey.

The study shows that 87 per cent of the specialists give the pill more often than any other contraceptive device and only 76 doctors, out of the 6,733 whose replies were tabulated, feel it is too hazardous.

Two Trailer Trucks Stolen with Shoes

WORCESTER (AP)—Police continued their search Monday for two trailer trucks stolen from a Worcester freight company, each containing $100,000 worth of new shoes.

The trucks were reported stolen Sunday night from the Jones Motor Freight Company.

Truckers End Strike In Violence

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Steel haulers voted Monday to end their nine-week rebellion that spread violence and vandalism across eight states and bottled up an estimated half a million tons of steel in mill warehouses.

William Kusley, the man who started the wildcat walkout in protest against a three-year national contract negotiated by the Teamsters Union last spring, said in Gary, Ind., that the trucks would roll again Tuesday morning. He said 67 per cent of the 10,000 to 20,000 striking drivers approved a settlement that promises the drivers $10 an hour for every hour they wait at mill loading docks after four hours, a 5 per cent general hike in shipping costs and a special committee to represent the independents before the Teamsters.

The steel haulers, who own their trucks and contract out individually, each a minimum of 73 per cent of shipping costs under the Teamsters contract. They had originally asked for a 6 per cent boost in their share of costs and $15 for every hour they wait after two hours.

Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond P. Shafer who called together the seven-state mediation panel that drafted the settlement a week ago, said "I extend my heartfelt thanks to all the representatives of the governors who worked so diligently to bring about this result."

Hart acknowledged that he was taking a calculated risk last Friday when he told the strikers they could stay out until "hell freezes over" if they rejected the second proposal. The idea, he said, was to pressure the truckers into returning to work.

A dynamite blast wrecked his summer home near Butler, Pa., Sunday, but no one was home.

The bombing was the last of a rash of beatings, shootings and bombings which stalked the dispute from the beginning.

Here's A Football Primer

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—What do college coeds know about football?

The Oklahoma Daily, University of Oklahoma campus newspaper, conducted a survey. Here's a sampling:

Q. What is a first down?

A. A first down is the first player tackled.

* * *

Q. Who is the OU coach?

A. Is his name Cross? (School president is Dr. George L. Cross.)

* * *

Q. What is a safety?

A. Safety is the precaution the player takes. You know, the helmet and pads and things.

* * *

Q. What do the initials DHB stand for?

A. A double halfback. No, I guess that would be a whole back.

Reviewed: A Man For All Season's

By MEREDITH GOETTEL

It pays to keep your mouth shut—for a while, anyway. This is Sir Thomas More's stratagem in A Man for All Seasons, now being held over at the Academy of Music in Northampton.

More's refusal to sanction Henry VIII's marriage to Ann Boleyn results in his being charged with high treason. The remainder of the picture is his unwillingness to compromise on his principles.

A vivid picture of 15th century court intrigue and of 15th century Engish life, it is worth seeing for the photography and costuming.

The dramatic film is based on a play by Robert Bolt who wrote the screenplay. It is the dialogue, so ingeniously written, that gives the film its impact.

Hot Line Becomes Hot Line

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Marijuana plants were found growing Monday in the garden of Chancellor Roger W. Heyns, proving that the day of the student prank is not yet gone.

Sgt. Joseph Halleran of the campus police said the plants apparently had been transplanted to the garden sometime Thursday night.

Whoever did the transplanting wanted his handiwork to become public. The Daily Californian, student newspaper, was notified about the plants via an anonymous telephone call.

WMUA—ACTION 67

TUESDAY 7:00

OPEN HOUSE, WINDOW SIGNS, LOCAL POLICE, STUDENT POWER, DINING COMMONS, AREAS

Without facts—It can be Confusing !

DEAN FIELD, Dean of Students
Dr. Noffsinger, Asst. Dean of Students
Jim Burke, Central Area Coordinator
Jim Collins, President Student Senate and host Pete Ward

DISCUSS THE FACTS ON ACTION 67
TUESDAY 7:00

Keep up with the campus on WMUA 91.9 FM

FRESHMEN:

FOR A STRONG VOICE IN THE SENATE

ELECT

MARGIE O'NEIL SENATOR-AT-LARGE

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Cut Down on Comps

There is pending before the Student Senate a measure that would eliminate much of the hypocrisy concerning complimentary tickets and reserve seating.

Nobody exactly knows what the present situation on "comps" is. But there are indications that comps or "invitations" have been distributed for social events this year as they have been in the past.

While we do not believe that giving a free ticket to members of the committee planning the event, to the holders of certain offices, or even to a few friends of some members of the committee, is in itself bad, we do believe that the number of free passes should be kept to a minimum.

The obvious reason for limiting the numbers of comps is the expense. It is the student body, principally in its class tax, that must pay for the free tickets. To a certain extent, comps are an overhead expense: they may make the difference in how hard the publicity committee works. Thus, more people may attend the event.

But not every comp given, or which a member of the committee may give, has utility. Many, we suspect, merely increase the so-called prestige of the giver.

We feel that the various committees charged with holding certain events will be better able to resist demands made of them for free tickets, if a clear policy of limiting comps is put into effect by the Student Senate.

We do not wish to tell a committee chairman that he cannot distribute comps. We would expect, however, that responsible students will comply with regulations asking for the number of comps issued, and to whom issued, and the number actually used.

It would also be useful if the social committees would indicate why they are giving such passes as they give. This request might be fulfilled in a few words, such as "member of the planning committee," "COLLEGIAN photographer," or "personal friend of planning committee chairman."

We urge the Student Senate to pass the bills which would legitimize, regulate, and minimize complimentary invitations.

Time Has Come

"Nothing is more powerful than an idea whose time has come" —Daniel Webster.

Time magazine writers have essayed in favor of it, students march for it, Playboy crusades for it, brave men go to jail for their belief in it and still Massachusetts says it is illegal — abortion.

Abortion is a subject which strikes deep at the roots of men's religious and cultural mores. To legalize abortion in all types of situations seems to many to be condoning murder. But let us be pragmatic. Isn't a higher goal being served when a desperate mother, who cannot afford another child, can get a safe, medical abortion rather than resort to a coathanger?

Many poor women today are aborted by quacks and vicious fakes. Since these women are determined to abort, wouldn't the common good be served by having legalized abortion in Massachusetts. Or are women to remain condemned to bearing unwanted children due to lack of birth control information or death by puerpera fever due to desperation?

Many young women conceive from an experience which is meant for pleasure only and they neither want nor can afford a baby. Isn't the life, the wishes and mental health of the mother more important than that of an unborn organism? And what future does an unwanted, unloved child have—an orphanage? It is not murder to destroy a fetus that is not a person; a person is one who can learn and function. A baby does not begin to be a person until it is pulled out of its mother and takes its first breath.

The fact that abortion is illegal in Massachusetts is an insult to the rights of citizens. If a woman does not want a baby she doesn't have to bear one. What right has the state to legislate who can or cannot have abortions and under what conditions? One has only to read letters in Playboy from women who have needed abortions, yet due to laws forbidding abortion in their case have had to resort to dangerous methods to see the crying need for repeal of anti-abortion laws. A woman's body is her own and the state has no right to tell her what she can't do with it.

People who want abortions, for whatever reason, social, economic, due to rape, etc., will get them somehow. Massachusetts should provide for the good of its people—this is the duty of government—by providing them with safe, clean means of abortion.

The matter of abortion is a decision which belongs to the individual and his conscience, not to a religion or to a legislature to condemn or denounce. You can't legislate or arbitrarily create morality and force your will on others.

Legal abortions and free access to birth control material will no more encourage promiscuity than capital punishment deters killers—those who are going to, will.

Massachusetts was the first state to pass a civil rights law which should never have been needed. It is time now for Massachusetts to follow Colorado's lead and pass a human rights law legalizing abortion and the free sale of birth control materials—both for the good of its citizens and in recognizance of the rights of women to live their own lives and to use sex as they see fit—for personal pleasure or for procreation.

Massachusetts calls itself the "Cradle of American Liberty" but how can it do this when its citizens' sexual liberty is suppressed. Such "old" countries as Denmark and Germany allow free distribution of birth control material and information and have legal, safe abortion, but America, "champion of freedom loving peoples," does not.

David Baskin
Editorial Staff

Sam Spark Speaks Out

'That's Education Baby'

Much has been said, pro and con, about Dr. Drum's teaching methods. Perhaps the most interested observers of his techniques are the faculty. If Drum's course proves successful, education here on campus may be revolutionized. Let's look in on a possible History 101 class in the not too distant future.

The class is being held at Bradley Airfield because today's lecture topic is "The Airplane."

As the class waits patiently for their hero to arrive, they are serenaded by the Box Tops singing, "Give me a ticket for an airplane." They all know that this song was handpicked to make their minds more conducive to learning about airplanes.

Suddenly, with a whoosh, Prof. Trumpet lands on the airfield in a replica of the first airborn machine. Trumpet sheds his helmet and goggles and soothingly speaks into the microphone, "Wright brothers—1903—Kitty Hawk—Airplane—Baby."

The class applauds as a unit for with those few cryptic comments by their peerless leader, they have mastered the fundamentals of man's first attempt to fly.

As the loudspeakers blare "White Rabbit" by the Jefferson Airplane, Trumpet announces that his next demonstration will relate airplanes to the present day world.

An American fighter plane comes streaking toward the base. Trumpet fires an anti-aircraft missile at the plane. It's a direct hit. The plane and the pilot come crashing down to earth. Trumpet explains, "That's what it's like in Vietnam. Real people are getting killed everyday in airplanes."

Most of the students understand the necessity for killing the pilot. But one slow learner who didn't realize the value of the demonstration asks if it weren't possible to have had the demonstration without destroying a human life.

Trumpet eyes the student sympathetically, shrugs, and says, "That's education, baby."

Homecoming Success

Despite some difficulties, the '67 Homecoming Weekend was a success. Without the work of the many members of the Homecoming Committee, the weekend would never have developed.

Few people know of the many last minute cancellations that the committee had to cope with. For this reason alone, the committee members deserve the thanks of the students. After all, they only get complimentary tickets and whatever pleasure or problems that come with putting on a show.

Chairman Mike Garjian and the committee tried new ideas. Some were well received while others were criticized. But at least they tried new ideas.

The two shows for one night will probably be a reality with all big weekends in the future. Also, there will probably be more attempts to get different as well as popular entertainers.

The football team, however, really made the weekend with their victorious comeback against U. R. I. Without this important winning the weekend would have been far less exciting.

One point should be remembered about such big weekends, it is not only a form of entertainment for students, but it is also a service to the visiting alumni and the community. If it wasn't for the University, the area would never be able to attract such performers as Donovan, The Happenings, or Stan Getz.

All letters to the editor must be typed at 60 spaces and doubled-space. They should not exceed 60 lines. Letters are subject to editing and condensation. Every letter not printed will be answered.

Campus Comment

Collegian—I Love You

To the editor:

I love the Collegian!

I'd love you - all even more, if I could see more of you — like every day.

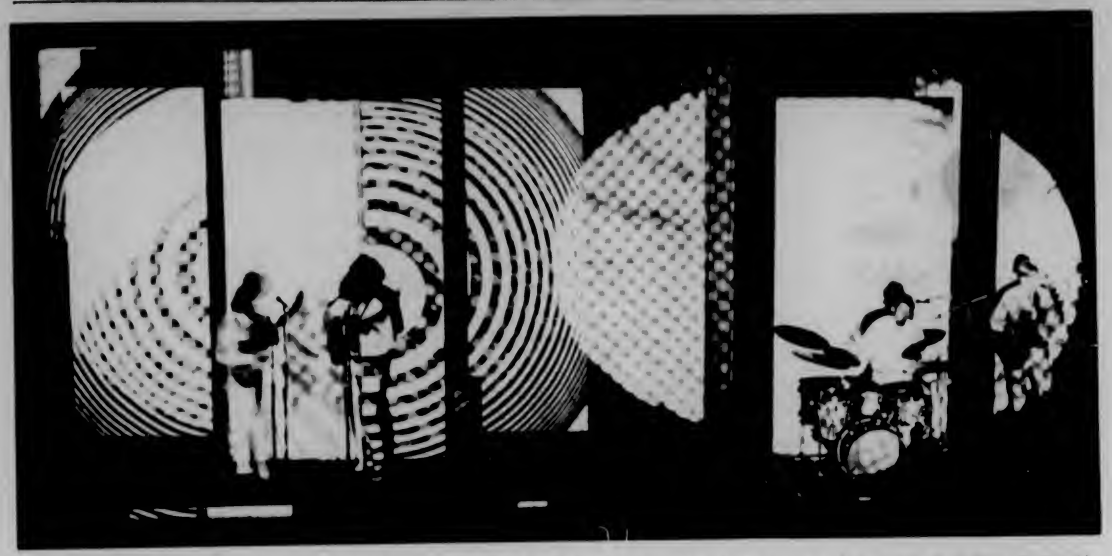
But by the time I can get to pick up a copy of you at Southwest, you have been long - gone.

Please let us Southwesters see more of you.

Lovingly,
N. C. '68

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union . . . University of Massachusetts . . . Amherst, Mass.



EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Chester S. Weinerman '68
MANAGING EDITOR ..... John H. Dean, Jr. '69
BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Charles Smith '69
News Day Editor: Sally Dolgin '69, Editorial Day Editor: Dick Geikie '68, Sports Day Editor: John Sullivan '71
News Editors ..... Ron LaBrecque '70, Richard Kline '70
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Glenn Briere '69
Advertising Managers ..... Dot Silvia '69, Sharon Kramer '69
Editorial Chairman ..... Pat Petow '68
Photo Editor ..... Paul Boliver '68
Sports Editor ..... Tom FitzGerald '69
Editorial Staff
Day Editors: Nancy Bourgoin '69, Bob Brill '70, Dick Geikie '68, Paul R. Hallock '69, Ellie Skinner '70.
Copy Editors: Michael Coffey, Barbara Goldrick, Paula McCarthy, Sue Wallace, Madalyn M. Weiner.
Cartoonists: Nancy Regina Foxe, Wendy Hamilton, Joan McLaughlin, Dave Sharry, Charles A. Volkmann.
Writers: Kent Barcly, Dave Baskin, Roger J. Bouchard, Keith M. Bromery, Pat Flaherty, Robert Gorman, Harry Koltin, Philip Lerner, Janice Maroney, John McNally, Abbie M. O'Meara, Bill Sacherek, Sam Spark, Elaine Sullivan, Tim Roche, Sue Wallace.

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Published at the Massachusetts Daily Collegian, Student Union, UMass., Amherst, Mass. 01002.
Member of the Associated Collegiate Press. Member of the Collegiate Press Service of the United States Student Press Association. Member of the Associated Press—The Associated Press is entitled exclusively to the use for reproduction of all the local news printed in this newspaper as well as all AP news dispatches.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed five times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; three or four times weekly the week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amended by the act of June 11, 1934.
Subscription price: $6.00 per year; $3.50 per semester.

The Daily Collegian Editorial Page welcomes comments from members of the faculty and administration on all subjects for a regular guest editorial feature.
Material should be typed double-spaced at 60 spaces and signed by the writer.

"The New Life" play while eight slide and three motion picture projectors are focused against them and the white backdrops during Al Rubin's psychedelic light and sound show Friday night in the Student Union ballroom.

Inter-Campus Exchange

USC Shares UMass Parking Problem

UNIVERSITY OF SOUTH CAROLINA — Parking problems are near the crisis stage here at USC. Vice president of Business Affairs Harold Brunton said there are now 420 student parking places on campus. For the 2,500 people on the payroll of the University there are 775 parking spaces.

The University is presently trying to acquire property around the campus. The money comes from meters, fines, and school decals.

The Traffic Institute, founded last year, is due to present a report next month on the situation. In the meantime the USC Administration is looking for acceptable suggestions.

UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY: Social probation and a 72 dollar fine was given to Kappa Sigma fraternity as the result of a hazing incident.

Eleven Kappa Sigma pledges had been arrested by Fayette County police while they were hitchhiking—clad only in trenchcoats.

The Kappa Sigma pledge committee now has to present a report to the IFC detailing the pledge programs for the semester, and biweekly follow-up reports.

This was the third incident involving UK fraternities acted on by the Judicial Board under the new IFC constitution.

VANDERBILT: A survey by the school's newspaper, The Hustler, finds three frats with a racial stipulation clause

The survey reveals that there are three clauses which could be interpreted as discriminatory either racially or religiously.

National membership clauses of Kappa Alpha, Phi Delta Theta, and Sigma Nu could prohibit Negroes if invoked, but all three nationals have approved waiver articles which would permit the pledging of a Negro student at Vanderblit.

Kappa Alpha has a white Gentile clause which is intended to keep boys of Negro, Oriental or Jewish background from pledging. Phi Delta Theta has a clause that states that a member must be acceptable to all Phi chapters in the nation. Sigma Nu's exclusion clause reads, "free-born of free ancestry."

Although the three frats show discrimination, a waiver on the clause is an easy thing to obtain from the national fraternities, as was the case with the Vanderbilt frats.

WMUA Lists Programs

Tuesday, Oct. 24
- LISZT: A Faust Symphony
- SCHUMANN: Piano Concerto
- SCHUBERT: Magic Harp Overture

Wednesday, Oct. 25
- VAUGHN - WILLIAMS: Fantasy on a Theme by Thomas Tallis
- HONEGGER: Sym. #5
- STRAUSS: Le Bourgeoise Gentilhomme
- RESPIGHI: Suite #1
- SIBELIUS; Pelleas and Melisande Suite

Thursday, Oct. 26
- (History of Music: Secular Vocal Music of the 16th Century, 16th Century Instrumental Music)

Canada Joins U.S. In Rescue

INUVIK, Northwest Territories (AP)—The United States and Canada joined Monday in a long-distance rescue attempt of three polar fliers who survived a plane crash in the Yukon wilds for eight days.

The rescue plan sent a U.S. Air Force helicopter from Eielson Air Force Base at Fairbanks, Alaska, and a Royal Canadian Air Force single-engine Albatross winging toward the Blow River valley. This is about 90 miles southwest of Inuvik, where the downed fliers anxiously awaited rescue.

The three are pilot Thor Tjentveit, 30, Fairbanks; Rolf Storhavg, 22, Oslo, Norway, and Einar Pedersen, 48, chief navigator for Scandinavian Airlines System. They disappeared Oct. 14 on a 500-mile flight from Fairbanks to Inuvik, the start of an attempt to establish a route for light aircraft from Alaska to Europe.

A search plane spotted the three men, wearing bright orange coveralls, Sunday and, in response to a dropped message, they embraced each other to show they were unharmed.

AP News Briefs

NEW YORK (AP)—Nobel Prize-winning novelist John Steinbeck, 65, underwent successful surgery Monday for a ruptured spinal disc at University Hospital, New York University Medical Center.

A hospital spokesman said Steinbeck's condition was satisfactory after the two-hour operation. Steinbeck has been in the hospital since Oct. 8.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has launched a seventh Melniya communications satellite, it was announced Monday.

The announcement said this Melniya would be used, like its predecessors, in transmitting television programs, telephone calls and telegraph messages throughout the country.

VANCOUVER Wash. (AP) — An 18-year-old boy died after inhaling propane gas from a small bottle, a coroner said Monday.

Coroner Kenneth Ellertson of Clark County said Frank A. Chaney of Vancouver died Friday after sniffing the gas.

The bottle is normally attached to a blow torch head and is often used in do-it-yourself projects. It is sold widely in stores.

Ellertson said the boy apparently had been experimenting with inhaling different chemicals. Death was listed as accidental asphyxiation.

WINOOSKI, Vt. (AP)—Tuition, room and board for students at St. Michael's College will increase $300 a year beginning with the 1968 summer term, the college announced Monday.

Tuition at the liberal arts college for men will be increased from $1,350 a year to $1,500. Room and board rates will be increased from $850 an academic year to $1,000. Some 1,300 students are enrolled in the college.

Money! Money!

University Economics Association will sponsor a talk on the stock and bond markets tonight. Mr. William Craven will talk on "How to make Money on the Stock Market". He is of the Springfield brokerage firm Paine, Webber, Jackson, and Curtis.

The talk will begin at 7:30 in Machmer W14. All Economics majors and other students and faculty are invited.

At the Looby Counter of the Student Union, a University Lost and Found service is maintained. Articles found on campus may be brought there until claimed.

Book Review

The Painted Bird

By DAVID M. GIZA

The Painted Bird, by Jerzy Kosinski, Pocket Cardinal edition, 1966.

Big exam. Study, Eat Supper. Study/Midnight. Study. Allnighter. Study. No breakfast Exam. F, if you're lucky. Tough, this college life.

Back to the dorm. Pick up Kosinski's book. Become thoroughly impressed by a staggering amount of literary praise framed in the first three pages. Read the book (it's short-213 pages) you won't be mystified or preached to—directly, anyway. But Kosinski will throw you into some pretty ugly situations. Thrown is the right word. It's impossible to sit by and be a passive spectator. You will feel the boy's pain when he's beaten, tortured, scared and hunted. When he vomits, bleeds, screams, and pleads, you'll be aversely affected. (Unless, of course you're a sadist. Then relax—you've probably found your Bible.) You'll feel uneasy throughout the book, so get accustomed to that queasy feeling right away. But, for practical benefits, you'll immediately forget about your own troubles. Why? Well, this tiny Jewish boy lives in the Nazi era. He watches

(Continued on page 6)

Student Bar?

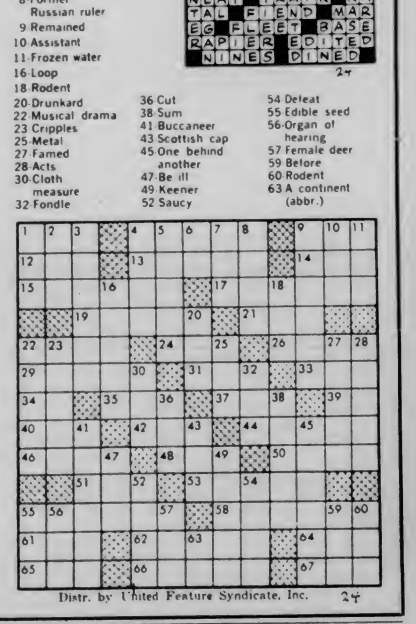
KINGSTON, R.I. (AP) — Dr. F. Den James, acting president of the University of Rhode Island, rejected a student proposal today to have a student bar on campus.

Dr. James said the bar would not contribute to the "goals and objectives" of the university.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

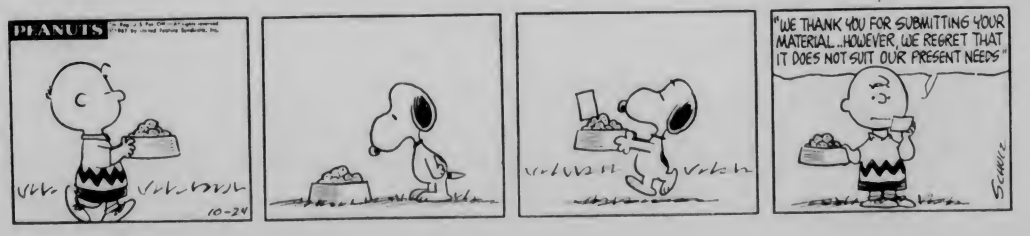
Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

P	A	I	N	T		W	A	F	E	R
M	A	T	T	E	R		A	C	U	M	E	N
A	R	E	S		E	A	G	E	R		P	O
R	E	S		C	A	P	E	S		B	A	R
E	N		A	L	T	E	R		G	R	O	M
S	T	U	D	I	E	S		B	R	A	D	S
		S	E	N	D		G	R	O	W
E	R	U	P	T		T	R	A	I	L	E	D
N	E	A	T		T	R	A	I	N		R	A
T	A	L		F	I	E	N	D		W	A	R
E	G		F	L	E	E	T		B	A	S	E
R	A	P	I	E	R		E	D	I	T	E	D
		N	I	N	E	S		D	I	N	E	D



24

ACROSS



1 Pronoun
4 Tilting
9 Capuchin monkey
12 Native metal
13 Specks
14 Nervous twitching
15 Alcoholic beverage
17 Promenade
19 Portions of medicine
21 Beam
22 Butter substitute (colloq.)
24 Tiny mark
26 Care for
29 Analyze, as sentence
31 Gratuity
33 Female deer
34 Printer's measure
35 Shade tree
37 Openwork fabric
39 Symbol for tellurium
40 Corded cloth
42 Parcel of land
44 Carried
46 A continent
48 Pale
50 Youngsters
51 Tear
53 City in Italy
55 Tolled
58 More frigid
61 Dine
62 Flowers
64 Period of time
65 Exist
66 Rends
67 Encountered

DOWN

1 Part of fireplace
2 Be mistaken
3 Schoolbook
4 Helps
5 Played with
6 Pronoun
7 Once around track
8 Former Russian ruler
9 Remained
10 Assistant
11 Frozen water
16 Loop
18 Rodent
20 Drunkard
22 Musical drama
23 Cripples
25 Metal
27 Famed
28 Acts
30 Cloth measure
32 Fondle
36 Cut
38 Sum
41 Buccaneer
43 Scottish cap
45 One behind another
47 Be ill
49 Keener
52 Saucy
54 Defeat
55 Edible seed
56 Organ of hearing
57 Female deer
59 Before
60 Rodent
63 A continent (abbr.)

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 24

Spring Fashions: Mod to Mall

By NADEANE WALKER
AP Fashion Writer

LONDON (AP) — Bonnie and Clyde gangster styles triumphed at the Associated Fashion Designers show Monday.

Apart from the much-applauded Bonnie numbers, with flared black skirts to just below the knee, it was nearly a clean sweep for the miniskirt, miniculotte and minishorts. One designer, in two minds about it, stuck in a schizoid number with a mid-calf skirt ripping off a breakaway fastener to show brief black shorts underneath.

If you never saw a femme fatale in shorts, just wait.

To the tune of "Anything Goes," Simon Massey models paraded formal shorts in champagne chiffon trimmed with rhinestone glitter. Another mannequin threw off an ostrich hemmed floor-length chiffon cape to reveal bare-bellied Turkish trousers. A naughty-nice chiffon blouse was sweetly ruffled and demure in front, but all bare behind.

The general theme of the show, which is the first indication of what will be in the shops come spring, was a nostalgic harking back to the 1930's.

Carnaby Street also has gone back to that gangster period for teen-age males, suits with broad shoulders and wasp-waist jackets, chalk-stripes and wide-brimmed hat. This style, and that now showing for the ladies, stem straight from the current movies about Bonnie Parker and Clyde Barrow, Southwestern outlaws of the 30s, and "The St. Valentine's Day Massacre," about Chicago's garage slaughter of seven gangsters in 1929.

In Monday's showing, the nostalgic look was carried out in a long-bodied if brief skirted line, with jersey tunic tops a favorite.

The show is the big event of the London fashion season, and perhaps 1,500 buyers from England and abroad were here to see it.

ATTENTION CANDIDATES

The Daily Collegian invites all candidates for the Class Elections to submit a letter to a Candidates' Forum to appear in the issue of Wednesday, October 25, one day preceding the elections.

All letters to the editor must be typed at 60 spaces and double spaced. They should not exceed 40 lines — in the case of letters for the Candidates' Forum. Letters are subject to editing and condensation. The writer's signature and address must be on the letter.

Letters are due by 12 noon on Tuesday, October 24.

WMUA Top 15 Superhit Survey
Week Ending Friday, Oct. 27

WEEK ENDING OCTOBER 27, 1967

No.		Last Week
1.	TO SIR WITH LOVE—Lulu	1
2.	PEOPLE ARE STRANGE—Doors	4
3.	HOW CAN I BE SURE — Young Rascals	2
4.	THE RAIN, THE PARK, & OTHER THINGS—Cowsills	10
5.	INCENSE AND PEPPERMINTS — Strawberry Alarmclock	14
6.	HOLIDAY—Bee Gees	13
7.	GET ON UP—Esquires	7
8.	SOUL MAN—Sam and Dave	5
9.	LET IT OUT—Hombres	18
10.	NEVER MY LOVE—Association	3
11.	HEY BABY (They're Playing Our Song)—Buckinghams	8
12.	I'M WONDERING — Stevie Wonder	15
13.	LET LOVE COME BETWEEN US —James and Bobby Purify	6
14.	LOVE IS STRANGE — Peaches & Herb	17
15.	EVEN THE BAD TIMES ARE GOOD—Tremeloes	27

Book Review

(Continued from page 5)

people burn, sees people raped, muses over gouged eyes, and gazes at rats feasting on a live human. Not to be entirely passive, this tot is hung by his wrists from a ceiling, thrown into a manure pit, forced under an icy lake, seduced, tortured, stoned, etc. One mightmare follows another. An interesting life for a boy of six.

This book isn't an exercise in mental abstractions. Kosinski's story is straightforward, clear and logically developed. His style isn't stream of consciousness (cf. Joyce, Knowles, and company), nor is his prose wittily garnished with eloquent locutions (cf. possibly Milton). Facts and feelings are offered to the reader in a "normal" language (cf. Golding). Al of this makes the book very easy and enjoyable to read. If you liked "The Grapes of Wrath", or "Lord of the Flies", then read this book. "It's worth the time.

U.S. Navy Strikes Haiphong

U.S. Navy jets hammered Haiphong again Monday in the campaign to paralyze North Vietnam's main port. U.S. Army troops clashed with the Communists in an intermittent seven-hour battle south of Da Nang.

Carrier-based U.S. warplanes struck Haiphong's railroad yard for the second straight day and also attacked a major highway bridge in raids aimed at clogging the city's wharves and warehouses with supplies brought in by sea.

Late reports from the northern provinces told of brisk ground fighting 24 miles south of Da Nang. U.S. spokesmen said elements of the 3rd Brigade, 1st Airmobile Cavalry Division, killed 46 Communist soldiers in the seven hours of fighting around a fortified village. Casualties to the cavalrymen were listed as 15 killed and 17 wounded.

Protest Extends To High School

A 19-year-old Wakefield High School student who says he is "burned up" over anti-Vietnam war demonstrations has planned a sit-in to support American soldiers in Vietnam — and he has asked every high school student in the state to join him.

Paul Christopher says he has sent circulars to every high school and private secondary school in Massachusetts asking them to send delegations to Wakefield Common next Sunday for a demonstration from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

He has asked federal, state and local officials to attend and speak to the students.

Paul, who operates a submarine sandwich shop after school, paid for the curculars with his own money.

Julliard Concert Well Attended

The Juilliard String Quartet performed in Bowker Auditorium before an audience of more than 400 people. Coming to Amherst from New York, for this single concert, the quartet played works from Haydn, Schoenberg and Ravel, so magnificently that the audience called them back for an encore with a rousing ovation.

Last night's concert, sponsored by the University Music Department, lasted about two hours and is one of approximately 150 in a typical year for the quartet.

GOT A GRIPE ABOUT THE FOOD?
GOT A GRIPE ABOUT THE LINE?
EACH COMMONS HAS A STUDENT SENATE COMPLAINT AND SUGGESTION BOX.
USE IT.

For new plants and equipment, daily newspapers in the U.S. and Canada spent more than $148 million in 1966 and weekies another $50 million. Newspapers have spent more than $1 billion for new plants and modernization in the past decade.

The Interfraternity Council
Formally Announces
FRESHMEN and UPPERCLASSMEN RUSH
For the Following Houses
Beginning Friday, October 27, 1967

	Oct. 28 Sat.	Oct. 29 Sun.	Oct. 30 Mon.	Oct. 31 Tues.	Nov. 1 Wed.	Nov. 2 Thurs.
DELTA CHI COLONY 15 Fearing St.					OPEN FORMAL 10:00 P.M.	OPEN FORMAL 10:00 P.M.
PHI SIGMA KAPPA GRAD HOUSE 382 N. Pleasant St.		OPEN FORMAL 10:00 P.M.		OPEN INFORMAL 10:00 P.M.		OPEN INFORMAL 10:30 P.M.
PI LAMBDA PHI 375 N. Pleasant St.	INFORMAL OPEN HOUSE 1-5 P.M.		FORMAL OPEN 8:00 P.M.		INFORMAL OPEN 8:00 P.M.

Collegian Photo by Ken Bates

SWAP Pre-Conferences Examine Campus Problems

The groundwork has been laid for this weekend's SWAP conference. The agenda of the conference was discussed by representatives of student organizations, dorms, Greek houses and prominent faculty members last night.

The pre-conference committee suggested a 4-level framework for campus social problems:

- The fundamentals of student freedom and responsibility.
- The interelated role of students, alministration, and faculty.
- The role of the trustees and their actual effect on campus.
- The peculiarity of a state university.

The Student Government pre-conference meeting examined two pressing problems: the Senate and the decentralization of student government. Concerning the Senate, four general inter-related areas were discussed:

- The extent of the Senate's power.
- How much jurisdiction the Senate should have over classes ?
- How much jurisdiction the Senate should have over the R S O groups ?
- What jurisdiction should the Senate have over the judiciary?

Decentralization was the other immediate problem discussed by the Student Government pre-conference. The following questions were mentioned:

- What form should student government take ?
- Should student government be set up like state government or as separate autonomous governments?

The decentralization of student government presented a lively debate, each side staunchly supporting its beliefs.

The Academics area provided a host of problems:

- The new pass or fail system.
- The possibility of a different cumulative system.
- The separate college system.
- The possibility of a better appeal system for students who feel that their professors have prejudice in grading.

The advent of the pre-conference has provided a systematized agenda for the SWAP conference this weeknd, and all involved expect a spirited discussion of the serious problems facing the campus. It is hoped that at least a dent may be made in solving these problems.

Judge Bans Sequel to Film

BOSTON (AP) — A Superior Court judge Monday barred possible production of a sequel to the film "Titicut Follies," which depicts patients at Bridgewater State Hospital for the criminally insane.

Judge Joseph Ford issued an injunction preventing Frederick Wiseman, the producer, and the Bridgewater Film Corp. from making another movie from extra footage shot at the hospital.

He took under advisement the petition of Special Asst. Atty. Gen. Edward B. Hanify which would prevent Wiseman and the corporation from spending any money made on the film.

Hanify said the inmates of the hospital are entitled to the money.

Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson obtained a court injunction barring showing of the film in Massachusetts. It is in commercial distribution elsewhere.

A hearing was ordered Nov. 20 on whether to grant a permanent injunction.

The director of the treatment center for sexually dangerous persons at Bridgewater Correctional Institution said Monday he refused permission to photograph his patients for the "Titicut Follies" film.

Dr. Harry L. Kozel said he objected because "it was morally and legally wrong and it would interfere with their treatment and rehabilitation."

Dr. Kozol testified late Monday before the Special Commission on Mental Health which is investigating the controversial film of inmates at Bridgewater.

Dr. Kozol said, "nine of the patients from the center were filmed in other areas at the institution" despite his objections in writing to Supt. Charles W. Gaughan four days after filming started.

"I have great anxiety about one of them right now," he said. "He is out on parole and I dread the moment when there is positive identification of him. I dread the effect that it will have on him."

Dr. Kozol said he had not seen the film and never met its producer Wiseman.

Operation Dialogue Premieres Movie

Operation Dialogue is the subject of a public meeting sponsored by LAOS, Laymen's Academy for Oecumenical Studies. The meeting will be held on Wednesday, October 25, at 8 PM at 14 Boltwood Avenue, Amherst.

Mr. Clifford C. Coles, the director of Operation Dialogue of The President's Association, affiliated with the American Management Association of New York City, will present a film and speak at the meeting.

This will be the first public showing of the film prepared to describe Operation Dialogue to national television audiences.

Operation Dialogue is a nationwide attempt at breaking down community barriers by bringing together leaders of various sectors of the community: business, government, labor, education, religious, etc.

He had previous associations with the Federation of Protestant Welfare Agencies, Children's Aid Society, New York City Department of Welfare and Department of Hospitals.

He is a graduate of Shaw University, Columbia University School of Social Work and pursued doctoral studies at Teachers College of Columbia University.

Mr. Robert Collen, Personnel Manager of Rodney Hunt Company in Orange and a member of the LAOS Program Committee will serve as chairman of the meeting. The public is invited.

Rhody Goes Back Home

Rhody, the University of Rhode Island ram, is safely back in its pen on the URI campus after its adventurous weekend. It was taken early Friday morning by a group of Mill House residents, who traveled to the Kingston campus.

The URI mascot was marched, complete with blue horns, in the UM Homecoming Parade.

NOTICES

SKI CLUB
For all members, and nonmembers who wish to pay their deposit for the Sugar Bush or Stowe trip and pay their club dues, they may do this at the RSO office. See Carolyn Davis, 8:30-1:00 P.M.
Meeting October 30 at 8:00 P.M. in Morrill Auditorium. All committee members and heads must attend.

NEWMAN CLUB
Choir practice on Tues., Oct. 24 from 7-9 P.M.
Philosophy class with Fr. Bennett on Wed., Oct. 25 at 7:30 P.M.

HEYMAKERS SQUARE DANCE
Wed., Oct. 25 in WoPe at 7:30 P.M. there is a dance. All members urged to attend, especially females.

HILLEL
On Oct. 24 at 8 P.M. in Helen Hills Chapel, Smith College, Theodore Bikel will speak on "The Roots of Our Commitments". Contact UMass Hillel office for transportation.

MARKETING CLUB
On Oct. 25 at 7:30 in Colonial Lounge there will be a student-faculty discussion. Bring ideas. Refreshment served.

OUTING CLUB
Those going on the Knox Cave trip will meet at 8 P.M. Wed., Oct. 25 in Middlesex Room. The $5 for expenses will be collected at this time.

COMMUTERS CLUB
Meeting in Middlesex Room on Thurs., Oct. 26.

ACM
Meeting on Oct. 24 at 7:30 in room 114 Eng. E. Speaker is Col. Edward J. McCray, Director of Air Warning and control systems. Also bylaws will be discussed and voted on.

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA
On Oct. 24 at 6 P.M. there is an exec. board meeting in Middlesex Room.
At 6:30 P.M. there is a general meeting in Middlesex Room.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB
Each week, one of the 55 countries represented on campus will be highlighted at 6:30 P.M. coffee hour at the Governors Lounge, S.U.
This Wed. at 6:30 Mr. Sidney Vaughn will speak on "The Peace Corps and Progress in Africa."

SCUBA CLUB
Elections will be held on Oct. 25 in Curry Hicks, at 7:30 P.M. Meeting of instructors at 6:45 P.M.

ECONOMICS ASSOC.
On Tues., Oct. 24 at 7:30 P.M. in W 14 Machmer, Mr. William Craven from stock brokerage house of Paine, Webber Jackson & Curtis will discuss "How to Make Money in the Stock Market."

COLONEL'S CADRE
Meeting on Oct. 24 at 7:30 P.M. in Dickinson Hall for all sisters.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORG.
Meeting Tues., Oct. 24 at 6:45 P.M. in Worcester Room, S.U. All invited.

COMPUTER SCIENCE
"Computer Science 121 and 225 for Second half of Fall semester will begin on Thursday, Nov. 2.
Comp. Sc. 121 meets Tues., Thurs. and Sat. at 9:05 in Eng. Aud.
Comp. Sc. 225 meets on Tues. and Thurs. at 1:25. Check Computer Science bulletin board for lab sections, day and time.

AIR FORCE
Apply now. January grads. Office Training Selection Specialist is in Hampden Room of S.U. every Tues. from 9 to 3. For more information call Sgt. Charles Petrella at main office in Holyoke, Collect, 536-0546.

U. S. Lands Fresh Troops in Vietnam

SAIGON AP—With 4,100 fresh troops from the United States, the U.S. Army began a beef up Monday of its fighting power in the most dangerous sector of the Vietnam war—the 1st Corps area below North Vietnam's border.

The landing of troops of the 198th Light Infantry Brigade from ships at Chu Lai will boost U.S. manpower in the northernmost provinces of South Vietnam to 111,000 and bring over-all U.S. manpower in the whole of South Vietnam to 468,100.

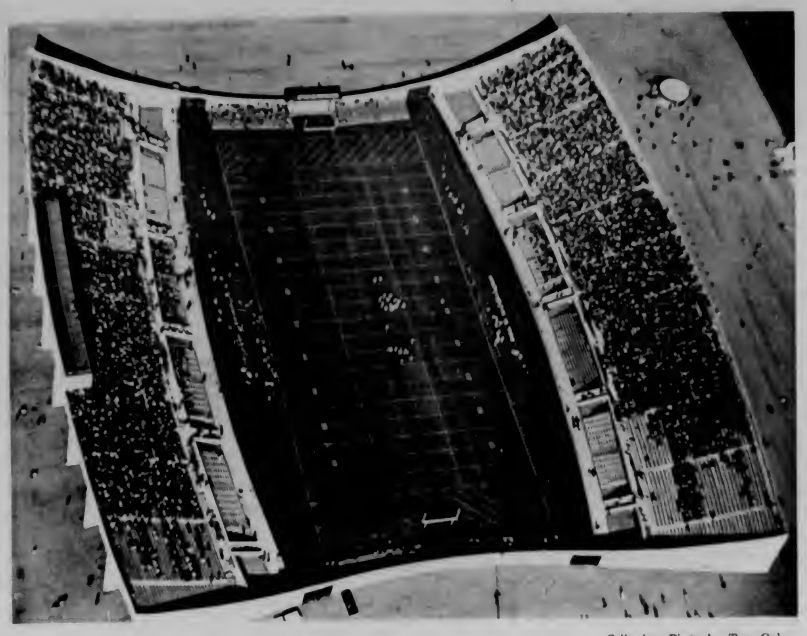
The new troops, activated only in May at Ft. Hood, Tex., will be coming ashore over the next few days for assignments with the Army's American Division, which has been spreading out over the five northern provinces since April.

The American forces in the 1st Corps area oppose 55,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong guerrillas inside the provinces themselves and another 37,000 or so North Vietnamese reported encamped in and above the demilitarized zone which separates North and South Vietnam.

The 1st Corps area is considered dangerous because it provides the Communists their most efficient and shortest supply lines from North Vietnam. Troops and men infiltrate through the DMZ and by way of the Ho Chi Minh trail through Laos.

The area's three million people are heavily infiltrated by the Viet Cong and oppose any form of central government.

U.S. Commanders believe the Communists may be readying new assaults against U.S. Marines guarding the DMZ and the areas 25 to 30 miles south of the buffer zone. The Leathernecks underwent relentless artillery bombardment throughout September.



The landing of the 198th Brigade at Chu Lai came during another lull in the ground action in South Vietnam. But U.S. planes took advantage of a break in North Vietnam's foul weather Sunday and carried out raids designed to destroy the Red's ability to supply their forces in the South.

The Navy reported the loss of one plane during raids in the area of the port city of Haiphong. The downed A4 Skyhawk was the 707th announced loss over the North. The pilot was listed as missing.

Pilots reported heavy damage to a railroad yard 1.7 miles from the heart of Haiphong and to a drydock and oil dump in a naval facility seven miles northeast of the port. Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots hit at targets around Hanoi and in the southern panhandle.

Thanks for supporting me in the Primaries
RICHARD McANIFF
Candidate for Vice-President '71

MEMBER AMERICAN GEM SOCIETY
Diamonds
Don't Be Fooled By Extravagant Claims
WE CARRY
FOUR GRADES
OF 1/3 CARAT DIAMONDS
THEY RANGE IN PRICE FROM
$195.00 TO $325.00 THE STONE
1/3 CARAT 195.00
1/3 CARAT 235.00
1/3 CARAT 250.00
1/3 CARAT 325.00
WOULD YOU LIKE TO SEE THE DIFFERENCE ?
WE WOULD LIKE TO SHOW YOU !
E. J. Gare & Son
New England's Oldest Jewelry Store
Founded 1785
112 Main Street Northampton

Collegian Photo by Tom Gale

ROAR OF THE WARPAINT, SMELL OF THE CROWD—A throng of 16,100, shown in this aerial photo, spends an excitement-filled afternoon during Saturday's football victory at Alumni Stadium. The three-year old Stadium, which seats 20,000, is by far the largest of any Yankee Conference school.

Victory, But Bare Facts

Defense Was Naked, Too, On URI's Opening Bomb

By TOM FITZGERALD
Sports Editor

"Watch for the bomb on the first play," Coach Fusia warned the Redmen before Saturday's game. But Rhode Island quarterback Larry Caswell promptly pitched an 84-yard touchdown pass to Frank Geiselman in the Homecoming weekend's second best surprise.

The first of course was the nude go-go girl at the Friday night dance.

Fusia would have been more disturbed by the ease with which Rhody scored that first touchdown, after only 20 seconds had elapsed. If the Rams had maintained that pace, they would have won 1080-0, provided they missed all the other conversions too.

And if Rhode Island had won, the Saturday night quarterbacks would have had a field day with the UMass decision to try for a field goal from the URI 15, while winning by only 28-24 with six minutes left. Ed Sherman's attempt was wide to the right on the fourth-down-seven situation.

After the game, Fusia defended his strategy with the facts that the offense had stalled and that URI would have had to score a two-point conversion along with a touchdown to strengthen its Yankee Conference title hopes. The Rams had tied punchless Vermont, 0-0, the week before.

But the Redmen stole the game in the fourth quarter, and unlike the UMass students who had stolen the URI mascot, a live ram, Friday night, they wouldn't give back their booty.

UMass strategy in keeping only one man in single safety on punts came into focus when Steve Parnell fumbled as he caught both a punt and Rhode Island's Vince Sheehan near the end of the first half.

Fusia said that the UMass formation is geared to a long return with as many blockers as possible, because of the new rule change forbidding interior linemen on the punting team from crossing the line of scrimmage until the ball is kicked.

"We gave them two easy touchdowns," said Fusia. "We were full of mistakes, foolish penalties and fumbles. The Redmen were penalized 67 yards during the afternoon, including three clipping penalties in the first half. UMass also fumbled twice.

Intramurals

PMD Crushes DC, 46-6, To Take Spartan Title

By DON LARIVEE
Staff Reporter

Phi Mu Delta highlighted last night's intramural football action by trouncing Delta Chi, 46-6. Ray Rigney completed 16 out of 37 passes as PMD clinched the championship of the Spartan division of the fraternity league.

In the Independent League, the Flaming A's routed the Rotten Rosters, 38-12, with Steve Brown completing 13 of 25 passes. The Del Vikings squashed the Toads, 14-0, as John Canty completed 11 of 30. The Accounting Association miscalculated the Knights and lost, 7-0.

In the South Tower League, the Crushers impeached the Senators, 20-6, and the Washington Senators brought the Huskies to bay, 31-0. The Bulldozers won by forfeit over the Monuments, and there was a double forfeit between the Oaks and the Pines.

In other fraternity action, ASP bit LCA, 12-6, with Dave Woodcock throwing 18 completions out of 30 passes. AEP downed TKE, 7-6, and KS overran SAM, 35-7. PSD sank PSK, 20-13, with Pete Dawson completing 13 of 27.

Here are final fraternity standings resulting from last night's action:

Spartan		Trojan
PMD	5-0	QTV	5-0
ASP	4-1	KS	4-1
LCA	3-2	PSD	3-2
AEP	2-3	SAM	2-3
TKE	1-4	PSK	1-4
DC	0-5	PLP	0-5

Tonight's Intramurals

6:30	1	Smashers - Spartans
	2	Leopards - Panthers
	3	Bruisers - Marauders
	4	Seagrams - Lions
	5	Bruins - Broncos
	6	Black Bears - Buffaloes
7:30	1	Chestnuts - Grants
	2	Cherries - Birch
	3	Courtesy - Dynamos
	4	Roman Numerals - Tophids
	5	Chem Club - Land Arch.
	6	Red Shirts - Colonial Comets

Football Statistics

Scoring	Td	Pat(1)	Fg	Pts
Landry	5	0	0	30
Driscoll	3	0	0	18
Sherman	0	9(10)	2(3)	15
Decembrele	1	0	0	6
Lovell	1	0	0	6
UMASS	10	9(10)	3(3)	75
Opponents	7	7(7)	0(1)	51

Rushing	Att	Gain	Loss	Net	Ave	Lgst
Landry	60	405	30	375	6.2	73
Driscoll	34	127	6	131	3.5	17
Grasso	10	84	0	84	5.2	18
Tutino	17	78	3	75	4.4	14
Decembrele	17	51	2	49	2.9	6
Hairston	7	36	3	33	4.7	17
Sarno	3	21	0	21	7.0	10
Cochrane	9	16	0	16	3.0	5
Lovell	2	3	0	3	1.5	2
UMASS	162	821	44	777	4.8	73
Opponents	133	587	97	490	3.6	65

Passing	Att	Comp	Int	Yds	Td	Pct	Ave Comp
Adams	2	1	0	14	0	.500	14.0
Landry	39	16	3	217	0	.410	13.5
Coltin	3	1	0	18	0	.333	18.0
UMASS	44	18	3	249	0	.409	13.8
Opponents	57	29	3	390	3	.509	13.4

Pass Receiving	No	Yds	Td	Ave/Catch	Lgst
Grasso	6	98	0	16.3	37
Carty	6	86	0	14.3	19
Warnock	3	30	0	10.0	14
Young	2	17	0	8.5	14
Hairston	1	18	0	18.0	18

Punting	No	Yds	Ave	Lgst
Warnock	14	564	40.3	52
Rogers	1	33	33.0	33
UMASS	15	597	39.8	52
Opponents	17	603	35.4	59

Punt Returns	No	Yds	Td	Lgst	Ave
Parnell	9	70	0	40	11.6
Frye	1	12	0	12	13.0
Rogers	2	5	0	11	3.5
UMASS	9	87	0	40	9.6
Opposition	14	119	0	18	8.5

Kickoff Returns	No	Yds	Td	Lgst	Ave
Parnell	6	181	0	57	30.1
Frye	2	36	0	18	18.0
Grasso	1	8	0	8	8.0
UMASS	9	215	0	57	23.9
Opponents	14	340	0	49	17.1

Interceptions	No	Yds
Rogers	1	33
Smith	1	11
McArdle	1	0

Team Summaries	UM	OPP
Total First Downs	53	47
by rushing	29	30
by passing	13	17
by penalty	3	0
Own Fumbles	5	6
own fumbles lost	3	3

Collegian Photo by John Kelly

VICTORIOUS VICTOR—UMass coach Vic Fusia is congratulated by his URI counterpart, Jack Zilly, after the Redmen's victory.

Booters Seek 4th Win at WPI

Fresh off an important win against Rhode Island, the UMass soccer team takes a breather from Yankee Conference action as it travels to Worcester tomorrow for a game with always-tough Worcester Polytechnic Institute.

Coach Larry Briggs' Redmen will be seeking their fourth win of the season against one loss. The three wins are all in Yankee Conference competition, with the one loss coming to another non-conference foe, Trinity.

UMass will be looking for another sharp performance from senior Marty Smith, who leads the team in scoring. Smith, a 5'9, 155-pounder from West Springfield, scored two goals and assisted on the third in UMass' 3-1 win over Rhode Island.

UMass beat WPI, 1-0, in a thriller at Amherst last year. The Redmen lead the all-time series, 17-6-4, although two years ago the Engineers were New England champs.

The Redmen play another independent game at home on Saturday against Tufts. That game will be followed by the toughest of the year, against unbeaten cross-town rival Amherst College.

On The Warpath

CROSS-COUNTRY vs. Springfield (at Springfield, 4 p.m.)

CROSS-COUNTRY (Fr.) vs. Springfield (at Springfield, 4 p.m.)

Collegian Photo by John Kelly

BOTTOMS UP—Rhode Island fullback Brent Kaufman (above) takes a swig during Saturday's game at the Stadium. Back in action (at right) Kaufman is upended by Bruce Gombar (53) and Marty Scheralls (72) after a short gain. The 6'-195 pound URI junior gained 60 yards in 19 carries and scored a touchdown.

Collegian Photo by John Kelly

Forecast
Fair and Warmer

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

New England's
Largest College
Daily

VOL. XCVI, NO. 83 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1967

Israel Retaliates for Sinking of Destroyer

United Nations Called Into Urgent Session

By CHARLES STORER

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The U.N. Security Council was called into urgent session Tuesday night at Egypt's request to deal with what Egypt called "new and premeditated, flagrant aggression" by Israel.

Egyptian Ambassador Mohamed A. El-Keny, denouncing Israeli shelling of the city of Suez at the southern end of the canal earlier in the day, asked for the meeting in a letter to Ambassador Senjin Tsurueka of Japan, council president for October.

The shelling began, he charged, immediately after an extraordinary meeting of the Israeli cabinet and could not be considered an isolated incident.

It went "far beyond" any minor violation of the cease-fire, the ambassador said, and cannot be considered less than "full military operations, which are an act of war "under the U.N. charter."

El-Keny had said in his letter that he was confident that "all the facts which prove the Israeli guilt and responsibility will be confirmed" by the U.N. observers.

He also contended that Israel could not justify its actions as reprisal for the sinking of the Israeli destroyer by Egypt last Saturday.

The military operations carried out by Israel were conducted "systematically against civilian and industrial installations, not against military targets."

(AD) Wirephoto—Conflict erupted again in mideast as Israel resumes fighting over sunken destroyer. Above photo taken during June conflict.

Refinery Complex in Flames; Artillery, Mortar Fire Rages

Egypt and Israel fought a roaring battle of artillery and mortars at the southern end of the Suez Canal Tuesday that caused heavy damage in Egypt's Port Suez. A huge refinery complex there was left blazing and Egypt charged the port's inhabited area was "almost demolished."

The Israeli bombardment was seen in Tel Aviv as Israel's answer to the sinking of the destroyer Elath by Egyptian missiles Saturday with the loss of 47 lives.

A Cairo communique claimed an Israeli Mirage jet was shot down and 10 tanks destroyed, but this was denied in Tel Aviv. A later Egyptian communique said Egypt's gunners also destroyed four fuel dumps and three ammunition dumps and five rocket launchers.

Each side accused the other of starting the battle. A report from U.N. observers in the Middle East said Israeli initiated artillery fire on a Port Suez refinery. Israel said it opened up on Port Suez only after Egyptians began firing from adjacent Port Ibrahim.

Lt. Gen. Odd Bull, chief of staff of the U.N. Truce Supervision Organization, UNTSO, added the exchange of fire spread North and included small arms, mortars and heavy artillery. The main fire, however, was concentrated on the Port Taufio area, he said.

There was no word of casualties in Port Suez. But Egypt already had evacuated about half the 250,000 population because of tension along the cease-fire line where the June war was halted with Israeli forces drawn up on the canal's east bank.

Arthur M. Schlesinger will lecture tonight in Student Union Ballroom at 8 p.m. on Vietnam.

Gallup Poll Report

Illicit Drug Use Wildly Exaggerated

Reports of mass student involvement with the illicit drugs marijuana and LSD are wildly exaggerated, according to the Gallup poll.

Only about six percent of the nation's college students have ever tried marijuana and not more than one percent have experimented with LSD, according to a survey of students in 426 colleges by the noted pollster.

The poll was taken by Dr. George Gallup's American Institute of Public Opinion for the Reader's Digest; Results are published in the magazine's November issue, for October 26.

For all the outcry about drugs on campus, a majority—fifty-one percent—of the students questioned said that they did not even know a single student who had tried marijuana or LSD. And they estimated with reasonable accuracy that only about four percent of those on their own campus had tried drugs.

However, when asked how many of their fellow collegians across the nation used drugs, the students interviewed jumped their estimates to a very high 13 percent. This higher guess for "outside" campuses could be a reflection of exaggerated news accounts about drug use on campus, the Digest suggests.

Projected to the nation's six million college students, the Gallup figures indicate some 300,000 drug users — a sharp contrast to the reported "millions." Moreover, the percentage applies only to those who have tried drugs. It is likely that a far smaller group are regular users.

Accompanying the poll is an article exploding some of the myths about "mind-expanding" drugs such as LSD. Author Dr. Donald Louria, an associate Professor at Cornell University Medical College and president of the New York State Council on Drug Addiction, says there is no evidence to support claims that LSD increases creativity. More likely the opposite is true, he states.

He notes for example that in one study a group of accomplished pianists played under LSD's influence. Although each thought he played superbly, all reacted with distaste when the recording was played back after the LSD had worn off.

As to the claim made by Dr. Timothy Leary and others that LSD is an aphrodisiac, Dr. Louria says that it is "totally spurious."

When an LSD hallucination may have highly erotic content," he writes, "the drug is, if anything, an anti-aphrodisiac."

Against this background, it is encouraging that the students questioned in the Gallup poll were not only reluctant to try drugs themselves, but felt that those who were "on" marijuana or LSD were "lost, mixed up sick." Far from being the "in" group, those who take drugs are seen by their fellows as victims rather than heroes.

The Daily Collegian has added one new telephone number and changed another.

The new number, 545-0344, has been assigned to the Sports staff, while business and advertising has been changed from 549-0716 to 545-0311.

The News Desk, or "Hot Line," remains 545-2550 as does the Editor's number, 549-1311.

Serious Inadequacy Noted In Off-Campus Housing

By KEITH BROMERY
Staff Reporter

In a recent article published in the Amherst Record by John Farleigh, it was pointed out that a serious inadequacy in off campus housing has arisen. The article stated that the problem lies not in the scarcity of housing itself, but in the inadequate number of low rent housing afforded to students. The article went on to say that the problem has and will continue to get worse as the University annually raises its quota of students.

Robert W. Gailey, a staff assistant in the Placement Office, said in a recent interview that, "Many students don't come to UMass just because of the scarcity in off campus housing." He went on to say that students are often forced to accept either low rent, slum-like housing or pay ridiculously high rent for apartments in town. It is also not very unusual, said Gailey, for students to have to accept housing many miles away from both the University and the Town.

"A major holdup in solving the housing problem, said Gailey, is the fact that no one has done a detailed study as to exactly what is needed and how much is needed."

Gailey is a member of the Interfaith Housing Committee, a private organization of townspeople who are working together in trying to solve the housing problem which now faces them as well as the University. The committee is presently seeking to acquire taxable money from the 221D-3 Federal Housing Act which appropriates money to local communities in an effort to help these communities help themselves in solving their own housing problems.

Gailey stated that according to the program drawn up by the housing committee, individual apartment units will be made available at an approximate cost of $80 a month for a one bedroom unit with all utilities and $95 a month for a two bed room unit with utilities.

When asked why the University wasn't undertaking the project, Gailey said, that if the University were to initiate it's own housing project, the town would lose the tax revenue which they would receive if they were to sponsor the program themselves. In other words, besides providing badly needed housing, the program as set up by the housing committee will also provide the town with tax money or property tax from the project amounting to approximately 20% of the total value of the property. A further reason for the University's noninvolvement in the project, said Gailey, is the fact that the University did not wish to take on the huge management responsibilities which would result from such a program.

Yahoo Seeks To Re-Publish

A new effort is underway on the part of concerned students to give new life to Yahoo, the campus humor magazine. For over a year now, Yahoo has been in a confused state due to Administrative objections to its publication, and due to confusion on the part of Yahoo as to its future plans.

However, the issue has been cleared up as of late. What is at stake, according to Yahoo staff member Dave Stevens, is whether any campus publication shall be prevented from publishing due to fears about its content based, not on the present, but in the past. Yahoo feels the precedent of a campus publication being suppressed or discriminated against is dangerous to all student publications.

Yahoo will hold an open meeting for prospective staff members on Thursday, October 26, at 7:30 in the Middlesex Room at the Student Union. At this meeting, plans for attaining permission to re-publish without surrendering the right of Free Press will be discussed. All interested students are invited to join the Yahoo staff and help the humor magazine re-publish.

Sukkot Festival Social Will Be Held Thursday

The Sukkot Festival Social, which was postponed on October 18 due to rain, will be held, instead, on Simhat Torah, this Thursday evening, October 26, at 7:00 P.M. in the Sukkah located behind Rabbi Kowal's residence, 1047 N. Pleasant. Simhat Torah is a time of gay celebration, hakafot, songs, and dancing with the Torah in joy of beginning the new annual cycle of Torah readings. Hillel hopes for a spirited and spiritual evening, with services followed by a lawn party with music, refreshments and dancing. All Jewish students are invited. Warm, casual dress is advised.

In event of rain, Hillel will hold Simhat Torah services, Thursday evening, in the Student Union Council Chambers, and the lawn party social at the Rabbi's Sukkah will be on Friday following Sabbath services in the Worcester Room at the Student Union.

More than 350 newspapers cooperate regularly with local schools on Newspaper in the Classroom programs.

Senate Meeting Wednesday

The Student Senate meeting for Wednesday, October 25, 1967 wil convene in the council chambers of the Student Union at 7:00 p.m.

Under old business will be the consideration of two bills. One calling for the submitting of a written report to the Ways and Means Committee of the Senate concerning the disbursement of complimentary and reserve seat tickets for events sponsored by the Homecoming Committee. The other calling for an authorization of the Ways and Means Committee to examine the disbursement of complimentary and reserve seat tickets for future events with the purpose of formulating a recommendation on policy concerning the disbursement of such tickets. The Senate will vote on a move to recommend to the Academic Matters committee of the Faculty Senate that undergraduate and graduate exams not be placed together in courses for the purpose of establishing a grading scale.

Under new business, there will be a move to accept the constitution of the Southwest Patriots. A lengthy bill calling for a revision and clarification of present financial policies and procedures with regard to R.S.O. organizations will be given attention. This bill delineates the financial requirements which the Senate should lay down for the organizations which it funds. The justification for these requirements is that the organizations are considered to be creations of the Senate and therefore should be subject to certain requirements or financial safeguards set down by the Senate.

President Johnson confers at White House with H. Ladd Plumley, (left) chairman of the National Emergency Committee of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency, and Sigurd S. Larmon, NCCD President, on the citizen's role in fighting crime.

President Urges Citizen Effort To Fight Crime and Delinquency

WASHINGTON, D.C. (MNS) — President Johnson has met with members of a newly-organized anti-crime group to ask their aid in the fight against crime and delinquency.

Citing the need for combatting delinquency, as one method of cutting crime, President Johnson pointed out that "One out of every six boys in our land will go to juvenile court before his 18th birthday" and that "The rate of repeated crime is highest among criminals who began as juvenile delinquents."

The new citizen organization, the National Emergency Committee, was established by the National Council on Crime and Delinquency. It is headed by H. Ladd Plumley, Chairman of the Board and President of the State Mutual Life Assurance Company of America, and a former President of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Plumley, a distinguished leader in dozens of business and betterment groups, explained that the new Emergency Committee plans to seek citizen leadership, provide guidance to individuals and civic and social organizations who wish to fight crime, and raise funds to expand the work of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency.

The National Emergency Committee, said Mr. Plumley, has devised a series of volunteer projects which permit the private citizen or organization to assist the police, courts, and correctional programs, Labor, business, service organiaztions, and concerned citizens will be asked to participate.

Mr. Plumley urged people who wanted information on how to participate, to write to NEC, National Council on Crime and Delinquency, 44 East 23 Street, New York, New York 10010.

NCCD, the organization behind the new National Emergency Committee, is a 60-year old nonprofit, private agency that works to prevent and control crime by offering technical know-how and fostering Citizen Action Programs, now active in 19 states. The President of NCCD is Sigurd S. Larmon, former Chairman of the Board of Young and Rubicam; the Chairman of the Board is Judge Caroline K. Simon of the New York Court of Claims.

Weekend Arrests

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Justice Department said its final figures showed a total of 667 persons arrested during the weekend antiwar demonstration. Of these 499 were males. Nearly all these arrested were charged with disorderly conduct, and a few with simple assault.

IF YOU BELIEVE THIS CAMPUS COULD USE A GOOD HUMOR MAGAZINE. HELP US RESSURECT YAHOO.

MEETING THIS THURSDAY, 7:30, MIDDLESEX FOR ALL PEOPLE INTERESTED IN JOINING THE YAHOO STAFF.

There is work to be done.

Newsprint used by newspapers in 1966 (9 million tons) was up seevn percent over the year before, the largest one-year increase on record. Using newsprint consumption as an indicator of volume in the newspaper business, its growth has exceeded the rapid growth of the U.S. economy as a whole since World War II by 211.3 vs. 207.2 (GNP index).

J. N. Lanoix will hold a graduate seminar in public health at 3:30 today.

The subject of the seminar, to be given in room 406 of the Public Health Building will be "Environmental Health Activities Of The World Health Organization."

Lanoix is the Chief of Environmental Health Activities of the World Health Organization in Geneva, Switzerland.

Our Average Student Reads 4.7 Times Faster Than His Starting Speed

WITH EQUAL OR BETTER COMPREHENSION

The internationally famous EVELYN WOOD Reading Dynamics Institute

INVITES YOU TO ATTEND A FREE DEMONSTRATION OF THIS UNIQUE METHOD

Where you will:
- See an amazing documented film about Reading Dynamics.
- Learn how Reading Dynamics can help you to faster reading, improved comprehension, greater retention.

HOW DID IT START?

Eighteen years ago Mrs. Wood made a startling discovery that led to the founding of Reading Dynamics. While working toward her master's degree, she handed a term paper to a professor and watched him read the 80 pages at 6,000 words per minute — with outstanding recall and comprehension.

Determined to find the secret behind such rapid reading, she spent the next two years tracking down 50 people who could read from 1,500 to 6,000 words per minute. She studied their techniques, taught herself to read at these faster rates. Now, after years of testing, you can benefit from this great discovery.

AN OUTSTANDING SUCCESS

Results have been reported in Time, Newsweek, Business Week, and Esquire. Demonstrators have appeared on television with Jack Paar, Garry Moore, and Art Linkletter.

Describing Reading Dynamics' impact on some of our nation's legislators, Time said, "Washington has seen nothing like it since the days when Teddy Roosevelt read three books a day and ran the country at the same time."

Senator Herman E. Talmadge, Georgia: "In my opinion if these reading techniques were instituted in the public and private schools of our country, it would be the greatest single step we could take in educational progress."

Senator Proxmire, Wisconsin: "I must say that this is one of the most useful education experiences I have ever had. It certainly compares favorably with the experiences I've had at Yale and Harvard."

A Reading Dynamics class at St. Louis University had an average beginning speed of 357 words per minute, an ending speed of 1,810 words per minute. Average comprehension rose from 73% to 83%.

HOW IS IT DIFFERENT FROM OTHER COURSES?

No machines are used. You learn, instead, to use your hand as a pacer — a tool you always have with you.

Conventional rapid reading courses aspire to 450-600 words per minute. Most Reading Dynamics graduates can read between 1,500 and 3,000 words per minute, and many go even higher.

GUARANTEE

We will guarantee to increase the reading efficiency of each student by AT LEAST 3 times with equal or better comprehension. We will refund the entire tuition of any student upon the completion of his course who does not obtain at least the tripling of his reading efficiency as measured by the beginning and ending tests. This guarantee is conditioned upon the student's attending all of the required classes (or making up any missed sessions with an instructor). He also must have completed the required number of homework hours according to directions. For further details call the number below.

FREE DEMONSTRATION

TOMORROW NIGHT

Thursday, October 26, 8 P.M.

Peoples Institute 38 Gothic St.

Northampton 584-8313

After very successful concert tour with the McCoys at Lake George

THE LAST RITES

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1967

8-12 P.M. — Ballroom

Admission 50c

REMEMBER ON THURSDAY, OCT. 26

VOTE

JOEL WILSON

FOR

VICE PRESIDENT

CLASS OF 1971

UMass Professor, Dr. Politella, was recently selected president of the National Council of College Publications.

Dr. Politella Elected President of the NCCPA

The 500-member National Council of College Publications Advisers has elected a University of Massachusetts journalism professor as its president for the next two years.

Named as president at its annual convention in Chicago, recently, (Oct. 20) is Dr. Dario Politella, associate professor of journalistic studies at the Amherst campus.

Since he had served as interim president for the last year after the resignation of his predecessor, the new term of office will give Dr. Politella the longest tenure of any president in the 13-year history of the organization.

A founder of NCCPA in 1954, Dr. Politella has also been coordinator of NCCP's Commission on the Freedom and Responsibilities of the College Student Press in America. The study group was formed in 1966 to study the possibility of arriving at universal guide lines and Bill of Rights for student publications.

Dr. Politella joined the UMass faculty in Summer 1965 as a visiting professor from his post in the mass communications department at Ball State U., Muncie, Ind. He had also taught journalism subjects and advised student publications at Syracuse University and Kent (O.) State U.

During a five-year period away from campuses, Dr. Politella served in New York City as managing editor of Skyways Magazine, associate editor of Flying Magazine, television script writer for CBS-TV, senior publicity account executive for the O. S. Tyson and Co., Inc., advertising agency, and as east coast public relations representative for the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation.

A 1947 editor-in-chief of the Collegian, student newspaper at UMass, Dr. Politella was graduated from the Amherst campus with a B.A. in language and literature.

Besides publishing in other fields, Dr. Politella is known for his speeches and articles on the student press. He has appeared in The Quill, Moderator, Scholastic Editor, Photolith, College Press Review, School Press Review, Editor & Publisher, and The College Publisher.

He is editor of The Collegiate Journalist, the tri-annual publication of Alpha Phi Gamma, the national collegiate journalism honorary fraternity.

NCCPA recently published his latest work, a 341-page Directory of the Colllege Student Press in America.

He is a native of Lawrence, Mass., where he served as editor-in-chief of The Lawrencian, the high school student newspaper.

Central Voice Now Printing

By PETE WARD

The newly formed Central Area Coordinating Committee, (CACC), published the first issue of its new area newspaper, The Central Voice. The new media is geared to report area events and news that might not be covered by the regular campus media.

It is part of the CACC effort to promote regional unity in the central area through social—interaction. Besides the Central Voice, the committee plans many events for the benefit of the residents of the Central Area.

The Central Area stretches from the Hills residence hall to Butterfield and Van Meter. Once a major part of the University, it has suffered from some neglect in recent years due to the massive building programs on other parts of the Campus.

Until recently, the area was not often listed on some official University maps. The CACC was founded to offset this problem in the social-news media realm.

Also working to improve the conditions of the Central Area are the local Presidents Council, and the newly organized Central Senators Caucus, formed of the Student Sentors from the area. The three organizations hope to put the Central Area on the map in more than a literal sense.

Halftime Show Was Deemed A Huge Success

By RANDI KINNER
Staff Reporter

Half-time activities at the Homecoming game on Saturday were met with cheers of unanimous approval from the spectators.

It seems like our UMass Band, Precisionettes, and twirlers had done it again. When the UMass Band came parading forth, marching to their snappy drum beat, all eyes were upon them. The only sound was the "super sound" of the UMass Band playing "Carbaret". It was a beautiful sight and sound on a beautiful Saturday afternoon.

An added treat was the dance routine done by the band members while they were playing. It was enjoyed whole-heartedly by the audience as was the over-all ease of mobility of all the band members from one formation to another. As everyone could see, it must have taken many long practices and hard diligent work to accomplish this performance.

Performing also on the alumni stadium field were the UM Precisionnettes accompanied by the percussion section of the band. Their precisioned mobility from one formation to another was also accepted with cheers of approval from the audience.

Rounding out the homecoming game half-time activities was the twirlers' routine accompanied by the UMass Band. It was a pleasure to watch the girls twirl their batons in rhythm to the music.

As everyone who was there knows, the half-time activities were sensational and added much to Homecoming Weekend.

Cadet Sgt. Albert G. Bungard, a sophomore from Platoon, Company, has been selected as the outstanding sophomore cadet of the week in the Army ROTC Brigade.
Cadet Bungard finished first in a competition involving nearly one hundred other sophomore cadets. His selection was based on his overall military appearance and on his knowledge and understanding of drill.

ROTC Changes Entrance Rules

Students who will have two academic years remaining in the University at the beginning of the 1968-1969 academic year may be eligible for admission to the Air Force ROTC Professional Officer Course. This two year program is open to both undergraduates and graduate students and will prepare them for an Air Force Commission.

Applicants must pass the Air Force Officer Qualification Test, be physically evaluated, and recommended by an interview board of Air Force officers. Those who qualify will attend a 6-week Field Training Course in the summer of 1968 to prepare them for entry into the program.

Once enrolled, cadets receive

(Continued on page 7)

UMass Book Chosen by AAVP

Amherst, Mass. — "A Check List of the Publications of Thomas Bird Mosher of Portland, Maine," published by the University of Massachusetts Press, is one of 25 books selected for the American Association of University Presses' 1967 Quality Book Show.

Compiled and edited by Benton L. Hatch, UMass associate librarian, the book was chosen for its attractive monotype composition, Fabriano deckle paper from Italy, outstanding treatment of the title, proportions of the printed page, the selection of materials and color scheme for the case.

Leonard Baskin, professor of art at Smith College, and UMass English Professor Sidney Kaplan were co-designers of the edition, which was printed by Baskin's Gehenna Press in Northampton. Every line of the Van Dijk monotype was worked over by hand to produce the most attractive page possible. Each of the 500 volumes includes an original Baskin woodcut.

The subject of the book, Thomas Bird Mosher, was a scholar, book collector, and poet who had a masterly flair for the art of book publication. The 770 imprints that the Mosher Press published from 1891 to 1923 are recorded chronologically in the Hatch volume.

Notably well printed, Mosher's publications sold widely without regard to copyrights, permissions and payments, earning him the title of the "Portland Pirate." His books made a distinct impression on his literary era and are now all collector's items.

The AAUP Book Show travels to all American university presses and will visit UMass late this year.

This man is:

A. Juggling
B. Throwing pizzas
C. Discussing Venezuelan architecture
D. None of these

C is correct. Pictured here, Associate Professor Peter Van Deursen Haven discusses Venezuelan architecture at Central University in Caracas with students enrolled in World Campus Afloat-Chapman College during the Spring 1967 semester at sea.

This group was one of many to fan-out over Caracas for various course-related field experiences during the several days the s.s. RYNDAM, campus and dormitory for the traveling students and faculty, was docked in the South American port. Professor Haven now teaches art courses at the University of Miami, Florida. His students have transferred credits earned aboard the floating campus to their home campuses and have resumed regular classes. One is from South Dakota, majoring in Sociology at Tabor College in Hillsboro, Kansas; another is a junior in Political Science at San Francisco State College; a third is a sophomore in Latin American Studies at Indiana University and still another a business student at Santa Monica City College in California.

As you read this, more than 500 students, representing 200 colleges and universities throughout the country, accompanied by a distinguished faculty, already have embarked from New York for the Fall 1967 semester which will take them to ports in Europe, Africa and Asia, returning to Los Angeles via Honolulu.

Students are now enrolling for the Spring 1968 semester and will depart from Los Angeles to engage in shipboard study supplemented by visits to ports in Peru, Chile, Argentina, Uruguay, Brazil, Senegal, Morocco, Spain, Greece, Turkey, Yugoslavia, Italy, Portugal, The Netherlands and Great Britain, terminating in May in New York.

To discover how you can include the Spring semester at sea in your college plans, complete the coupon below and mail at once.

World Campus Afloat, Director of Admissions
Chapman College Orange, California 92666

Name _____ (LAST FIRST)
Name of School _____
Campus Address _____
City _____ State _____ Zip _____
Permanent Address _____ Tel. _____
City _____ State _____ Zip _____
Interested in:
☐ Fall 19__ ☐ Spring 19__ semester at sea.

Campus State _____
Present Status:
Freshman ☐
Sophomore ☐
Junior ☐
Senior ☐
Graduate ☐
M ___ F ___
Age _____

SAFETY INFORMATION: The s.s. Ryndam, registered in the Netherlands, meets International Safety Standards for new ships developed in 1948.

FRESHMEN!!

- For Liberalization of Open House Policy
- For Reduction of Academic Requirements
- For Effective Freshmen Representation

ELECT

MARGIE O'NEIL

SENATOR-AT-LARGE

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Low Rent Housing

On the UMass campus where some 75% or better of the students reside on campus, it would seem that we have done far better than most in providing housing facilities for all. This is true for the majority of unmarried students, but surprisingly not so for the married ones.

In all there are two University-owned apartment units which house married students, the University apartments and the Lincoln apartments, both of which give priority to faculty members and graduate students, leaving the undergraduate students with virtually nothing. Of about 150 total units available, faculty members live in approximately 70 of them.

Because of this lack of facilities students are often forced to accept either dilapidated, broken-down housing in town or, in many cases, go miles away from both town and University to pay ridiculously high prices for private apartments.

There is presently a group of townspeople who have banded together to form the Interfaith Housing Committee in an effort to combat this situation now facing them and the University. This committee has already drawn up a set of building codes and is presently seeking to acquire federal funds to subsidize a housing project. If passed, the program will both provide low rent housing for students at a reasonable distance from the University, and provide money to the town in the form of property tax.

We wish to commend the members of the Interfaith Housing Committee for their work on this project, and we express the hope that they will continue their fine work in helping to alleviate this pressing and serious problem.

— THE EDITORS

Down This Way

The Nervous Twitches of the Eye

THAT ELEGANT EDITOR of The New Yorker, E. B. White, wrote once, in an essay entitled Air Raid Drill, "Maybe if everybody in the world stood still for a quarter of an hour and looked into the eyes of the next man, the mischief would come to an end."

We live in the nervous generation of The Hatch and L S D. In these busy times, it is so against the grain of a man to stand still for ten seconds that to look into the eyes of any man for more than one becomes insulting and obscene.

If the fear of atomic warfare is colloquial, banal, and negligible, the fear of love is increasingly haunting and real. The fear of stopping to love is crushing people into lines, the box office as unrewarding as self-consciousness, inferiority, uselessness, despair, the show as uneventful as death. The neurotic eyes of men focus only inward and jump around within their peripheries, never pinpointing outside objects at any length. And, ironically, the eye (Jean-Paul Sartre would come to our defense) is the most fascinating and beautiful part of man. Besides its physical attributes (color, glassiness, clearness, tenderness), it enables us to look further into the workings of other people than would be possible with only the ear and the mouth. The eye tells what the ear cannot hear, what the mouth cannot say.

We suspect that the reason for the nervous twitches of the eye (also, the reason that people go incognito via sunglasses) is that people are afraid to trust, to love, for fear that they will be hurt. In a limited sense, this excuse is legitimate. Otherwise, and for the most part, it is nonsensical. Any perceptive individual can judge the true motives of others with ease.

It occurred to us to look for a direct etymological relationship between the noun "eye" and the personal pronoun "I." There is none. We had in mind that just such a relationship would unify all the things that the two objects do have in common. We found the most notable equation in Hamlet's quip to Horatio instead. "In my mind's eye, Horatio" draws the comparisons. The eye can give us clues to the "I." In the sense that two person's "I's" are never the same, neither do any two persons' eyes have uniformly identical qualities.

Conceivably, under methods like the careful techniques used to identify a person by his fingerprints, one could find the "I" in any man. Why subject a person to pure science, though, when interpretation, judgment, and imagination would be wiped out? It would then be impossible to find in a person what of him is him. People would be like index cards or dixie cups—memorized, thrown away, forgotten. Where people are concerned, it is a mistaken notion that knowledge implies predictability. The mystery in the human eye (the same mystery that excited the poet to look upon the sun or upon God as eyes) is like the mystery of the ocean—that unknown essence which, if it were known, would make each of us a god, and quite dull.

No matter how true, it is regrettable that we cannot sustain a few more steady glances into human eyes without feeling embarrassed, intimidated, afraid. We can always look into the eyes of a big, beautiful hound—eyes larger, glassier, clearer, and "deeper" than the eyes of most men—and have little to worry about, though something, it seems, would be missing.

Mr. White's idealism makes us look forward to that time, perhaps terrified in the middle of an invasion or vigilant in the track of a hurricane, when we will be thankful to look and to see. It will be in these times, maybe in the quiet of some secret shelter, when it will be possible to love long and without fear and to recognize, once again, that the lines "While with an eye made quiet by the power/Of harmony, and the deep power of joy,/We see into the life of things" still hold true.

— Paul Robert Hallock

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
Student Union . . . University of Massachusetts . . . Amherst, Mass.

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Chester S. Weinerman '68
MANAGING EDITOR ..... John H. Dunn, Jr. '69
BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Charles Smith '69
News Day Editor: Jon Mickelson. Editorial Day Editor: Paul R. Hallock.
News Editors ..... Ron LaBrecque '70, Richard Kline '70
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Glenn Briere '69
Advertising Managers ..... Dot Silvia '69, Sharon Kramer '69
Editorial Chairman ..... Pat Petow '68
Photo Editor ..... Paul Boliver '68
Sports Editor ..... Tom FitzGerald '69

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.
Published at the Massachusetts Daily Collegian, Student Union, UMass., Amherst, Mass. 01002.
Member of the Associated Collegiate Press. Member of the Collegiate Press Service of the United States Student Press Association. Member of the Associated Press—The Associated Press is entitled exclusively to the use for reproduction of all the local news printed in this newspaper as well as all AP news dispatches.
Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed five times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods, three or four times weekly the week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 3, 1879, as amended by the act of June 11, 1934.
Subscription price: $6.00 per year; $3.50 per semester.

Campus Comment

Celestial Censorship

A group of interested friends and myself ventured from the security of our sign-free environment to view the lunar eclipse early Wednesday morning only to find that it was not visible due to the haze of the early morning sky. Of course we were disappointed that this educational experience had been missed, but then we realize that some things are beyond man's control.

As we related this experience to a young student senator who was also up at this weary hour celebrating his stand against Senate Bill S-3, he looked at us with dismay, as if we had transgressed the very Laws of God by our natural interest in this thought-provoking "sign" from above. "You fool!" he exclaimed. "Did you think that the Administration would allow such things to be visible from University grounds? The Administration knows that MOONS ARE OBSCENE, so they had it taken down!"

Paul L. Terry
Assistant Head of Residence
John F. Kennedy House

Correction

To the Editor:

As Belchertown Volunteers, we are grateful to Mr. Glendon for his article on the volunteer program. However, the time and place of departure of the bus to the Belchertown State School for the Mentally Retarded have since been changed to 1:15 at the Newman Center, every Saturday.

All students are welcome. No fees or past experience is required.

Aline McDonald—President
Leonard Radin—Secretary-Treasurer
UM Volunteers for Retarded Children

Public Image

To the Editor:

I would like to thank the Collegian staff for arranging to have a prompt reply printed to my letter of Oct. 23, regarding the censorship of last Friday's show. In reading Mr. Scanlon's reply, I note that his apparent disapproval of sex (which is actually rather trivial since I expected someone to raise an objection) has been subordinated by a much larger issue. Mr. Scanlon's statement that the show was "inappropriate for a State University" seems to suggest that if UMass was a private school, there would have been no objection to the show. Mr. Scanlon's remark is the climax of the school's one big problem: WE WORRY TOO MUCH ABOUT OUR PUBLIC IMAGE! This is a partial answer to the recent problem of window signs (the wrong people might see them). Certainly, President Lederle has a responsibility to maintain accepted standards of conduct and decency but it seems as if the entire administration has gone overboard to the point of limiting freedom of expression in students. I don't think private colleges have this problem. It is indeed ironical that a school backed by the vast resources of the State is restricting this essential part of a liberal education instead of furthering it.

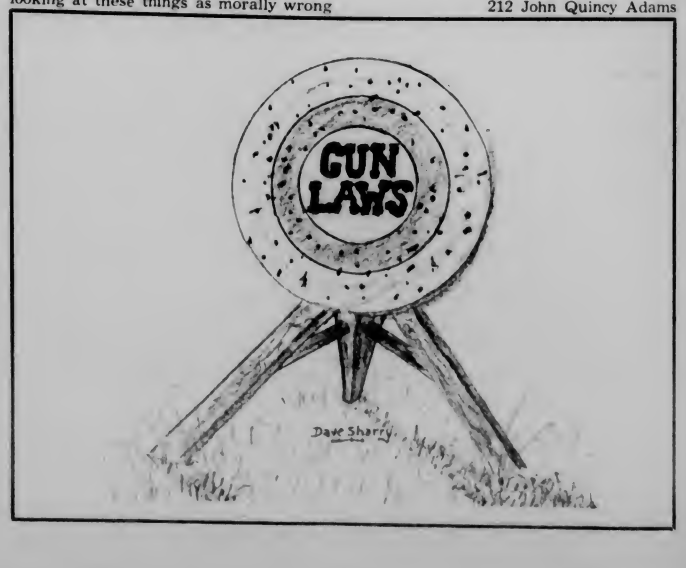
Jeffrey Drucker

Utopia?

To the Editor:

At present, there is much protest directed specifically towards the Vietnam War, and, in my opinion, this is underlined by a protest against society itself. Love thy neighbor is the rallying cry. Idealistically, I am all for this, as I dread a third world war as much as anyone; however, the word "idealistically" is the source of my disagreement. Many protestors advocate the overthrowing of the current American social structure, but I have yet to hear what would be a practical (i.e., workable) replacement. I feel that man has adequately proven over the last two thousand years that he, at his present evolutionary stage, is incapable of loving his neighbor and/or existing without controls over his personal drives.

I feel that the present American society is handling its problems in about the best way possible. Two hundred years ago, today's social problems were not even considered problems at all. The "masses" were poor, discriminated against, and generally ignored. That was life and it was accepted as such. If nothing else positive can be said about America-1967, at least credit should be given to it for looking at these things as morally wrong and attempting a remedy.



Before society can be radically changed, I feel that man himself has to be changed. The prospect for any organization (R.S.O. approved or not) developing a remedy for these faults is bleak to say the least. Right now we can only work with the rather inadequate material we have in man.

The only thing I see in the social dissention is the tearing down of a relatively workable setup and replacing it with a glowing idealistic utopia. I contend that if you give man utopia (i.e., complete personal freedom) at his present state, he will destroy himself almost immediately.

My suggestion is to protect, YES, but do so within our realistic social culture and offer something positive to society. If you do not like war, discrimination, or any of the other social evils, join the Peace Corps, cut the march on Washington to study towards a degree in social welfare, or teach in the Roxbury section of Boston. All this will help promote "love of man", but in an obviously more practical manner.

Then again, maybe its just much easier to march down Pennsylvania Avenue.

Deborah Russ '69
212 John Quincy Adams

Freshman Class Officers Candidates' Forum

Carroll

I would like to thank the members of the freshman class for their strong support in the primary election and ask for their continued support on election day October 26.

Now that the field has been narrowed to two candidates the time for a choice has come, you, the members of the Class of 1971, must decide who you want to be representatives of your class.

In choosing, you must all look for a man who will serve you. Someone who puts the interests of the class above all petty personal drives. You must elect an active, concerned and experienced president. Given the opportunity to serve the freshman class I would strive to act honestly and diligently in their behalf.

Thank you,
Tom Carroll

O'Neill

The office of Freshman Senator-at-Large is an important one. We freshmen find ourselves in the same situation in that few of us are familiar with the specific functions of student government. Past accomplishments have no bearing on future responsibilities. Former glories will not solve today's problems. As Senator-in-Large, I will represent the class of '71 and voice their opinions in the Student Senate. I know I have the ability and I hope the Class of '71 will give me a chance to prove this.

Margie O'Neill
406 Thoreau House
Class of '71

Final Election—Thursday, October 26

FRESHMAN CLASS OFFICE CANDIDATES

PRESIDENT

Tom Carroll	320 Webster
Joseph Tabacco	519 Grayson

VICE-PRESIDENT

Joe Wilson	327 Grayson
Richard McAniff	1817 Kennedy Upper

SECRETARY

Andi Barenboim	420 Coolidge Lower
Suzanne Baier	407 Thoreau

TREASURER

Martin Shapiro	709 Adams Lower
Pam Klein	333 Crampton

SENATOR AT LARGE

Margie O'Neill	406 Thoreau
Edward Hill	229 James

Tabacco

Being a candidate for President of the Class of '71 I would like to take this time to thank my classmates for the honor of being able to run for the highest office in the class.

It is my sincere hope that this enthusiasm and support for class activities continues through our years at the University, and that we strive to make this, the 100th class to enter UMass, the best Freshmen Class yet.

We must accept the responsibility for our place at the university, since this is the largest class to enter in the history of the school. It is this idea that gave me the desire to work and serve the class to the best of my ability in the years ahead.

I can only ask you to consider me in your important choice for President of the Freshmen Class, on Thursday, October 26. Thank you for your great support.

Joe Tabacco
Candidate for President of the Class of '71

Norton

As a candidate for Vice President in the primaries I missed winning second place by 22 votes. Because of the very poor showing by the Freshman class in voting (approximately 10% voted), I feel the true feelings of the class were not shown. Because of these two factors I decided to run as a write-in candidate.

Before I entered the contest I spent seevral hours speaking with Senators and upper class officers to discover what the job of Vice President of the Freshman class entails. I discovered it mostly contains the duties of setting up social functions, but in the past few classes had large social functions in the Freshman year. I believe I am qualified for this because I found out the sources of information for the running of such social events. I also have had experience at setting up dances in high school; and I played a part in the running of a non-profit coffee house last summer.

Another part of the office is legislative in nature. The officers of the class meet with senators at a Constitutional Convention. In this Constitutional Convention the class can try to pass favorable legislation. If I am elected I hope that any Freshman who wants something done will call me for I believe the only true representative of the class would be the one or ones who listen to, and represent the members of the class.

I make no promises other than that I will do the best job I possibly can.

Your Write-in Vice Presidential Candidate
ED NORTON

All letters to the editor must be typed at 60 spaces and doubled-space. They should not exceed 60 lines. Letters are subject to editing and condensation. Every letter not printed will be answered.

Campus Comment

REBUTTAL

To the editor:

We were quite interested in the editorial titled "DID YOU SAY TALENT" which you wrote for Monday's paper and signed by the editors.

There are several points which we feel should be mentioned. First we thank you for the fine comment on the "Happenings" and we are sure they will re-appear in the near future on campus. But from here on, our opinions differ to a great extent. Each group was viewed individually by the Homecoming Committee. As the weekend was planned, they hired groups according to the effect they desired with regard to audience emotion. The "Boys from New York City" were intended as a novelty act to "break the ice" in the audience for the remaining acts. We are quite positive they did this judging from audience reactions.

As for the "Blues Magoos", they have been playing for college audiences throughout the nation in the past and there is no reason to feel that audience reaction at the University would be any different. We would be interested to see how many students feel the way you do about them.

The "Box Tops" had appeal to the Springfield audience which was necessary for financial reasons. The appeal was evident by the fact that their song "The Letter" was on the top of the charts for four weeks. It is ridiculous to conclude that they were rubbish as you implied.

From all past indications, the audience for Soul on this campus is not very limited, as you stated, but quite extensive. Mitch Ryder is considered by national agents to be the best of the White Soul performers. We share the opinions of Billboard Magazine, William Morris Agency, Premier Talent Agency, and General Artists Corp., the largest names in the entertainment world, over your own. To say that Mitch was untalented was absurd; to compare him to the "Happenings" was an obvious lack of knowledge on your part, for two artists so diverse cannot be compared (Compare the Beatles to Stevie Wonder then tell us he is not talented because he does not receive the same audience reaction—your comparison is as illogical).

Finally as far as the editorial is concerned, there are a few things we would like known:

1. You signed the editorial with "THE EDITORS". We realize that it was probably an "oversight" on your part, but you forgot to add that the Board of Editors never read the editorial! Is this a presence of confidence on their part, or a lack of something else? I later spoke to one of them, and he added that he enjoyed the show and did not expect the editorial as it appeared!!

2. The Daily Collegian often cuts editorials, we hope you did not delete this one, though you threatened to do so.

3. You say that the weekend lacked talent, now how about the Daily Collegian?

Mike Garjian, Homecoming Chairman '68
Jeff Humber, Vice-Chairman '68
Mary Shelia Ryan, Secretary '68
Pat McMahon, Treasurer '69
Jill Wolfe, Executive Committee '69
Claudia Dembsky, Exec. Committee '68
Mary Ann Schmoyer, Exec. Com. '68
Bette Rappaport, Exec. Com. '68
Paul Flaherty, Exec. Com. '68
Jeff Timm, Exec. Com. '69
Wayne Thomas, President Jr. Class
Dick Wood, President Sr. Class
Bob Joyce, Greek Week Chairman '69
Larry Marcus, Exec. Com. '69

VOTE Thursday

A Choice . . .
Not An Echo . . .
ELECT
ED HILL
FOR FRESHMAN CLASS
SENATOR

Alfred Hitchcock's
"MARNIE"
Friday, Oct. 27
Mahar Auditorium — 7 and 9 P.M.
50c
Sponsored by Jr-Panhellenic Council

CAMPUS POLITICAL COVERAGE ON WMUA
WEDNESDAY, OCT. 25
7:00 . . President James Collins, Student Senate
STATE OF THE CAMPUS ADDRESS—Live
Keep up with the campus on WMUA 91.1 FM

DVP presents
Arthur Schlesinger
Pulitzer Prize winning historian;
Special Assistant to Presidents
Kennedy and Johnson
in lecture
"The Dilemma of Vietnam"
8 p.m. Wednesday, October 25
Student Union Ballroom

WMUA Program

WEEK OF OCTOBER 25th

3:00 pm AFTERNOON A GO GO
5:30 MUSIC THEATER
6:00 UNITED NATIONS REPORTS
6:30 NEWS, SPORTS
7:00 STUDENT GOVERNMENT 1967-1968—Coverage of Student Senate President James Collins' State of the Campus Address and interviews with prospective freshman class officers
8:30 THE ART OF JAZZ
9:30 MUSICALE
11:30 NEWS
11:40 NIGHT SOUNDS
1:00 am NEWS
1:05 SIGN OFF

THURSDAY, October 26
3:00 pm AFTERNOON A GO GO
5:30 MUSIC THEATER
6:30 NEWS AND SPORTS
7:00 MEET THE CAMPUS NEWSMAKERS
8:00 FOLK SPOTLIGHT
9:30 MUSIC THROUGH THE AGES—a weekly series focusing on the history of classical music
11:30 NEWS
11:40 NIGHT SOUNDS
1:00 am NEWS
1:05 SIGN OFF

FRIDAY, October 27
3:00 pm AFTERNOON A GO GO
5:30 MUSIC THEATER
6:30 NEWS AND SPORTS
7:00 CAMPUS POLITICS—a review of the week's happenings in student and faculty government with host Pete Ward
7:30 OLD TUNES SHOW
8:30 FRIDAY NIGHT SURVEY SHOW—the brand new top ten survey is "broken out"
1:00 am NEWS
1:05 SIGN OFF

SATURDAY, October 28
9:00 am THE CHILDREN'S HOUR
10:00 NEWS
10:05 SWINGING SATURDAY
1:15 pm SPORTS SPOTLIGHT — pregame interview
1:30 FOOTBALL—UMass at Boston University
4:00 THE ART OF JAZZ
7:00 THE SOUNDS OF NOW
8:00 STANDING ROOM ONLY — folk music by request
11:00 NEWS
11:10 NIGHT RIDE—WMUA's all-request program

SUNDAY, October 29
10:00 am SOUNDS OF SUNDAY
12:00 NEWS OF THE WEEK IN REVIEW
12:30 pm POETS' CORNER
1:00 SHOWCASE—show tunes by request
4:00 SUNDAY OPERA
8:00 SOUTH AFRICAN BROADCSTING CORP. FEATURE
8:30 CLASSICS — classical music by request
12:00 NEWS
12:00 am SIGN OFF

SWAP Busses Will Leave
Fri., Sept. 27
3:30 and 4:00
From the Student Union

Rev. Campbell To Speak At First Baptist Church Sunday

"If We Should Get Serious" will be the subject of a talk to be given by Rev. Will D. Campbell at the First Baptist Church, Sunday, Oct. 29 at 8:00 p.m. Rev. Campbell is the Director of the Committee of Southern Churchmen and has long been active in civil rights work.

Sponsored by the Massachusetts Baptist Foundation for Campus Ministry, Rev. Campbell will seek to evaluate the civil rights movement in the light of Black Power and the recent "hot" summer. He strongly feels that a new perspective is urgently needed in the whole field of civil rights.

Our recent past history since 1954 has produced artificial milestones in terms of laws, court decisions and protest activities. These milestones are now millstones around the white man's neck, causing a blockage of future progress in this area.

Sensing the need of a new perspective, the Mass. Baptist Foundation has asked Rev. Campbell to come and speak at various places in the North. He is a native of Mississippi, attended Wake Forest College, Tulane University and Yale Divinity School.

Prior to his present post with the Committee of Southern Churchmen, he was a campus minister at the University of Mississippi and worked out of the Southern Field Office, Department of Racial and Cultural Relations of the National Council of Churches.

Author of Race and The Renewal of the Church, Rev. Campbell has recently been working extensively with the Klan in various parts of the South.

Semantic Antics Return to UMass

On a previous visit to our campus Dr. Gwyn Walters, faculty member at Gordon Divinity School, spoke on "The Existential Christian."—a strange combination.

His title for Friday, October 27 is yet more of a highbrow-hybrid and, knowing his semantic antics, we suspect hints at an amalgam of 'sex' and 'situational'.

The term might even stretch to 'sexistential' which might just fit some of our current ethics. The latter, Dr. Walters believes, sells us short on sex whereas the Christian ethics of sex provides a healthy basis for its true experience and expression.

Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship invites the campus community to hear Dr. Walters speak on Friday, Oct. 27 at 7:15 P.M. in the Plymouth Room of the Student Union.

Senate Debates Gov't. Spending

The Senate, after spending an afternoon debating whether to go along with government spending curbs similar to those voted by the House, put off a decision Tuesday at least for a day.

Pending before the Senate is a resolution to provide temporary spending authority for federal agencies whose regular appropriations have not yet been voted by Congress.

The House, in acting on the measure last Thursday, added to it directives to President Johnson to reduce expenditures by $6 billion to $8 billion in the current fiscal year that began last July 1.

The Senate Appropriations Committee killed these directives last Friday and approved instead a simple extension of spending authority for the agencies involved until Nov. 15.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., seeks to attach to the measure a rider which would direct a five per cent cut in appropriations other than these for defense and for outlays required by law such as interest on the national debt.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., wants to add a direct spending limitation of $131.5 billion for the year except for some leeway in Vietnamese war spending.

But Sen. Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., 90-year old chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said the House provisions were designed to effect economics "by blind, across-the-board reduction" and that it was impossible to know their real effect.

Vigorous Training For ROTC

Junior members of the ROTC Brigade, and Freshmen team members of the Bay State Special Forces recently underwent a vigorous program of basic Individual Tactical Training (ITT) conducted by the Senior Cadet Officers of the Brigade.

The program designed to familiarize the cadets with some of the basic skills necessary to every soldier, was divided into four areas of instruction and carried out under adverse weather conditions.

Following a demonstration by senior members of the Bay State Special Forces of a rifle squad's formation and its reactions under fire, the 50 trainees were divided into four sections.

These four sections, rotating classes at 35 minute intervals were then given instruction on, and practically applied the techniques of camoflage, crawling through open fields and under wire, recon patrols, and battle drill.

According to Brigade Commander Cadet Colonel Earle Richardson, this ITT was most beneficial to the participants in preparing them for their summer camp obligation, and for the tactical operations planned by the ROTC Brigade later this year.

NOTICE

SKI CLUB
For all members and non-members who wish to pay deposit for Sugarbush or Stowe trip and pay club dues, do so at RSO office. See Carolyn Davis, 8:30-1:00 P.M.
Meeting on Oct. 30, at 8:00 P.M. in Morrill Aud. All committee members and heads must attend.

NEWMAN CLUB
On Wed., Oct. 25 there is a Philosophy class with Fr. Bennet at 7:30 P.M.

HEYMAKERS SQUARE DANCE
On Wed., Oct. 25 in WoPe at 7:30 P.M., all members urged to attend.

ANTHROPOLOGY DEPT.
On Thurs., Oct. 26 at 8 P.M. in Mahar Aud., Asin Balliet, Assoc. Prof. of Anthropology at Univ. of Montreal, narrates sections of his films of the Netsilik Eskimos.

COMPUTER SCIENCE
Computer Science 121 and 225 for Second half of FALL semester will begin on Thurs., Nov. 2.
Comp. Sc. 121 meets on Tues., Thurs. and Sat. at 9:05 A.M. in Engineering Aud. Comp. Sc. 225 meets on Tues. and Thurs. at 1:25 P.M. Check.

OUTING CLUB
THOSE going on Knox Cave trip will meet at 8 P.M. Wed., Oct. 25 in Middlesex Room. $5.00 for expenses will be collected. Those who went to Lake George have $2 coming back. See John Lersch, 215 Chadbourne.

ARTHUR FIEDLER SYMPHONY
Free undergraduate admission with ID to the Arthur Fiedler Yumiuri Nippon Symgony Concert on Nov. 2 at 8:00 P.M. in Cage.

SCUBA CLUB
Elections held, at 7:00 P.M. on Wed., Oct. 25 in Curry Hicks pool. Meeting of instructors at 6:45 P.M.

WINTER CARNI CONCERT COMM.
On Oct. 26 at 8:30 P.M. in Norfolk Room there will be a meeting of all juniors interested in working on Winter Carni Concert Committee.

INTERVARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP
Memorial Hall will be open on Wed., Oct. 25 at 5:30 for a prayer meeting. All welcome.

COMMUTERS CLUB
Meeting on Thurs., Oct. 26 in Middlesex Room.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB
Prof. H. Sidney Vaughan will speak on the Peace Corps in Africa on Wed., Oct. 25 at 6:30 P.M. in Governor's Lounge.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORG.
Weekly meeting will be on Tues., Oct. 31 at 6:45 P.M. in Worcester Room, S.U. All invited.

KENNEDY FILM SERIES
On Oct. 25 at 8 P.M. in Mahar Aud., two films will be shown, American Crisis, and V.D. Epidemic.

CHRISTIAN ETHICS LECTURE
Dr. Gwyn Walters of Gordon Divinity College will speak on Christian versus Sexuational Ethics at 7:15 P.M. in Plymouth Room, S.U. on Fri., Oct. 27. All welcome.

HILLEL
Shmini Atzereth Services at Hillel on Wed. 7-7:30 P.M., Plymouth Room, S.U. On Thurs. from 9-10:00 A.M. also in Plymouth Room.
Simbat Torah services Thurs. 7:00, 1047 N. Pleasant St. Followed by lawn party social. If inclimate weather, at Council Chambers, S.U.

SENIOR ENGINEERS
AI Ch. E and IEEE present the inside story on Campus job recruiting. Dr. Short of Chem. Engr. Dept. a campus recruiter for 5 years, will speak on Thurs., Oct. 26 at 7:30 P.M. in EBE Aud.

JUDSON FELLOWSHIP
On Oct. 29 at 8 P.M. in First Baptist Church, Rev. Will D. Campbell, will speak on "If We Should Get Serious." Well-known civil rights activist offers new perspective to the movement.

LOST:
Wallet, tan, Sat. night between Southwest and Cage, important. Must be returned, even without money. Call Corinne Grunwald, 6-8337.
Lady's prescription sunglasses in off-white case. Amber frames. Lost Sept. 21. Call 546-9917.
One beige Loden Fog raincoat at Kappa Sigma. Please contact Barbara 6-6781.
Suede jacket, lost while hitchhiking. Call Sharon, 546-9845. Reward.
Blue cub scouts knife lost Friday night. A disappointed boy would appreciate its return to S.U. Lost & Found.
TWO RINGS. Class ring '67 green stone initials KAC, and a birthstone ring, bloodstone dark green with red spots on stone. Reward. Contact 626 Emily Dickinson, 6-6691.

PINNINGS:
Joyce Keil '71, J.Q. Adams to Peter Merrow '70, J.F.K.
Martha Somers '70, Van Meter, to Mark Weinbaum '69, Sigma Phi Epsilon.
Linda Novack '70, Van Meter, to Robert Kalinoski '69, Butterfield.
Carol Days '70 Emerson to Geoffrey Kane '70, Nichols College.
Judith Brody '69, Thoreau to Edward Clemsan '69, Suffolk Univ.
Ann Maloney '69, Univ. of Maryland, to Tom McPhee '69, John Adams Upper.

ENGAGEMENT:
Lois Harris '68, Coolidge, to Donald Goodman '68, AEPi.
Pam Noblet '69, Thoreau to Jack Da Lus '68, Bristol College.
Sandra Lynn Obhandt Nutley, N.J. to Dean Wisecarver '69 MacKimmie.

Can The Waldorf-Astoria, a solidly entrenched member of 'the establishment' initiate a meaningful dialogue with the youth of America?

We can try.

By telling it to you like it is: if you want to enjoy Thanksgiving in New York City, first check out The Waldorf's—

MINI-RATE SCHEDULE FOR STUDENTS

$ 9.00 per person, 2 in a room
$12.00 per person, 1 in a room
$23.00 for 3 persons in a room

At The Waldorf, you'll be right around the corner from the swinging East Side scene of "nowness." Maxwell's Plum, Friday's, Mr. Laffs, and all those other friendly spots between 48th and 65th Streets are just a short walk from our location on Park Avenue between 49th and 50th. That means you can stay at New York's finest hotel at bargain rates and save a bundle on taxi fare. When it comes to eating, well, The Waldorf's famed Oscar is a bargain, too. And wouldn't you just know... it's a Hilton. Haw's that for a college try?

Just call or write

The Waldorf-Astoria

301 Park Avenue, New York, N. Y. 10022 Tel. (212) 355-3000.

Attention
Class of 71
PLANT
JOE TABACCO
in the
PRESIDENTIAL SEAT
October 26, 1967

NOW
Daily 6:40-9:00
Sat. and Sun.
2:00-4:40-6:45-9:05
"A Lusty-Bawdy Romp"
AMHERST Cinema

Coming "BONNIE and CLYDE"

ELIZABETH TAYLOR
RICHARD BURTON
in TAMING OF THE SHREW
in color

LATE SHOW THIS FRIDAY 11:30 P.M.
Your last chance to see
"BLOW-UP"

Dining Commons Menu October 25-28

WEDNESDAY

BREAKFAST
Maltex
Cold Cereals
Omelet
Apple Struddle Coffee Cake

LUNCH
French Onion Soup
Grilled Cheese Sandwich
Lima Beans
Sloppy Joe—Roll
German Fried Potatoes
Chocolate Pudding

DINNER
Pot Roast—Gravy
Liver and Onions
Parsley Potato
Sliced Carrots
Spice Cake

THURSDAY

BREAKFAST
Oatmeal
Cold Cereals
Pancakes/Syrup

LUNCH
Green Pea Soup
Ham Grinder
Fruit Salad Plate
Potato Chips
Hermits

DINNER
Fried Chicken—Cranberry Sauce
Whipped Potato
Braised Beef
Buttered Rice
Lemon Meringue Pie

FRIDAY

BREAKFAST
Farina
Cold Cereals
Scrambled Eggs
Doughnuts

LUNCH
Tomato Soup
Haddockburger—Roll
Tartar Sauce
Peppersteak
French Fries
Green Beans
Fudge Cake

DINNER
Fried Scallops—Tartar Sauce
Cube Steak
Buttered Potato
Broccoli
French Apple Squares

SATURDAY

BREAKFAST
Pettijohn
Cold Cereals
French Toast/Syrup
Cornmeal Muffins

LUNCH
Vegetable Beef Soup
Hamburgers—Roll
Potato Chips
Sliced Onion
Omelet—Chipped Beef Cream Sauce
Buttered Peas
Toll House Cookies

DINNER
Chicken Chow Mein
Fluffy White Rice
Dry Noodles
Sliced Carrots
Cold Beef Plate
Macaroni Salad
Gingerbread/Whipped Cream

Tony Lynes To Speak

Tony Lynes, secretary of the Child Poverty Action Group of London, will speak at the University of Massachusetts on Thursday, Oct. 26.

The crisis in the British welfare state will be the subject of Mr. Lynes' talk at 4 p.m. in Room W27 of Machmer Hall, sponsored jointly by the UMass economic, government and history departments. Questions will follow the talk and the public's invited.

Mr. Lynes has been active in the development of British social policy. For several years, he was a member of a research team that produced some of the most important studies of British social security and social services.

He helped to formulate the Labor Party's social policy while that party was in opposition, and under the present Labor Government, he served as a member of the Ministry of Social Security.

He is presently involved in efforts to influence the Labor Government to pursue a more vigorous attack on poverty.

Mr. Lynes is in the United States to participate in a conference sponsored by the Office of Economic Opportunity in Washington this month.

To Whom It May Concern

The general body of the Indian Association of the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. 01002 has elected the following office bearers for the year 1967-1968.
President: Mr. Mukti Lal Das
Vice-President: Miss Chitra Raghavan
Secretary: Mr. Ashok Kapur
Treasurer: Mr. Inderjit Singh
Committee Members: Mr. Kailash Bhatnagar, Mr. C. M. Parekh, Mr. H. C. Mongia, Mr. K. N. Bheemaiah, Miss Minu Chaudhuri

Campus Center Progresses . . .

Survey Planned to Study Quads' Interest in Becoming Residential

By ANNE SYMANCYK

Northeast Quad is asking itself a lot of questions and the answers may prove the need for developing a more active residential unit.

A preliminary survey taken last April tried to determine to what extent, if at all, the Quad residents wanted to change from traditional to residential. The results, according to Mrs. Isabelle Gonon, Northeast area coordinator, were sufficiently encouraging to promote a new survey being planned to determine depth of interest.

Of 1,250 Quad residents more than 1,100 area women—412 responded to the Spring survey. Of these, 246, or more than half, lived in the Quad because of its convenient location. Only 36 (about 8%) lived there because they did not want a residential college.

The type of program preferred would stress a combination of social, cultural and educational events. An interest was expressed for use of the North Dining Commons as a center for meetings, a library and a film series.

Joel Stoneham, assistant director of food services, has already given permission for use of some of the Common's facilities, once a week, on an experimental basis.

Of those responding 83¾ desired a printed newsletter. Mrs. Gonon feels that this could start as a calendar of Quad events, then grow, depending on interest.

Some interest was indicated in groups discussing such topics as art, creative writing and the opera. The same degree of interest was shown for bus trips to museums; plays in Hartford, Boston and Stratford and trips to historical sites. Nearly 70% wanted a critique before or after of University plays, films, concerts and speakers .

Educationally, a large majority was interested in regular, informal get-togethers with faculty associates. In response to topics for lectures or discussions, 88% were interested in current events, 79% in community service such as Vista and 76% in civil rights. Other areas of interest were academics, foreign policy and moral and religious issues.

Success of residential activities depends solely on its residents, Mrs. Gonon has said. What they want to make of their facilities and talent is up to them, she added. As an incentive, she noted, revenue from vending machines, available to sponsor some activities, is increasing regularly.

R. O. T. C. . . .

(Continued from page 3)

$50.00 per month and, if they meet the criteria, can take the Flight Instruction Program to get a private pilot's license.

Students desiring information about the program are invited to contact AFROTC personnel in Dickinson Hall, (Telephone 5-2437).

Interested students should apply as soon as possible.

MASS. CLASSIFIED

Help Wanted

Babysitter wanted on Tuesdays 8:30 to 5:30. Call 253-7258.

Part time sales work Monday and Wednesday afternoons. Experience in retail sales helpful. Apply in person only. Mathews Shoes, 39 South Pleasant Street.

AUTOMOBILE

Ford Wagon — '57, Standard Six R&H, Great Transportation, Snow Tires, New Inspection Sticker; Best offer. Bill Nugent 253-9210

1966 Renault R-8, perfect condition, 4 dr., 4 speed floor shift, 37 miles per gal., just 20,000 miles. Must sell. $1150 or best offer. 549-0228.

1965 Chevrolet Malibuss 327 cu. in., 4 speed, power steering, black vinyl top and interior, excellent condition. Call 256-6139 after 6:30 p.m.

FOR SALE

Motorcycles:
1965 BSA road/rocket, 650cc, $625.
1959 Triumph, 650cc, $475.
Call Eoinings, 665-2576.

TUTORING

Former teacher of freshman English at UMass, wants to tutor students of freshman or advanced English courses. Age 27. Call 253-2073.

For Rent

24 feet Room
Refrigerator, cooking facilities, center of town.
Leader Rooms
159 North Pleasant St.
Apply at Bowling Alley.
$16 a week

OPPORTUNITIES

Do you want part-time money. Set your own hours. Earn from your efforts and those of other people you introduce to this opportunity. No car necessary. For interview call:
Fred Corrigan, 365 Appleton St. Holyoke, Mass. Tel. 534-1604

WANTED

We are in desperate need of good dog for hunting season, and handler to hunt with. Transportation provided. Call Greg 546-8826, or Pete or John 584-6865

Roommate to share 3 rm. Apt. in N. Amherst. Call 549-06411.

Secretary-Stenographer desires full or part time position. Please call 253-9806.

Babysitter in my home Mondays and Wednesdays 9-11:00, occassionally 8-3:30 until middle of January. 253-5568.

PERSONAL

Murray is "dropping in." He says he cannot live without all you beautiful people. Watch for "Be nice to Murray Week" (next week)
Love,
Murray

T. L. Bently:
No Schlitz on Draft." When you're out of Schlitz, you're out of beer."
Please don't jump.
Life Must Proceed.

LOST

Lost pocket watch in vicinity of Morrill Hall. Call 253-3601 Reward.

Former CIA Spy Said to Write In USSR Paper

A Soviet newspaper published Tuesday an article reportedly written by a former agent of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency named John Smith, who purportedly spied for the Americans in the armed forces and Defense Ministry of India.

The newspaper Literary Gazette said Smith, who was from Quincy, Mass., now is a Soviet citizen living and working in Moscow. The U.S. Embassy here said it never heard of him.

The news agency, Tass, even before the Literary Gazette appeared summarized the article, the burden of which was that Smith and his wife carried out operations in India sometime after 1950. It did not say what became of Mrs. Smith.

In Washington, the State Department confirmed that a John Discee Smith worked for it in the 1950s, but disclaimed any knowledge that he has defected to the Soviet Union.

Press officer Robert J. McCloskey said Smith, now 41, was a communications clerk with the department from Oct. 29, 1950, to Dec. 29, 1959, when he resigned for what he said were personal reasons.

McCloskey said there is no record that Smith "worked for anyone other than the Department of State as a communications clerk," and "there is no reason to think that he was ever employed by the CIA."

"Priests Are Human" Says Rev. John McCall

Priests who lose sight of their "Witness for Christ" get sidetracked and may end up with emotional disturbances, a New England-wide meeting of Catholic bishops and heads of religious orders was told Monday.

Religious training should consider that priests are human as well as religious, said the Rev. John McCall, S.J., a clinical psychologist at Boston and Weston Colleges.

The biggest problem among seminarians is "the number of people who come in for false reasons," he said.

Better psychiatric screening is needed to find weaknesses, he said.

The panel heard discussion of homosexuality and alcoholism, and Father McCall termed the former "a real and increasing problem."

Most of our seminarians are pretty healthy young men," he said, "but like any group in society, they could get healthier."

"The hardest thing for any human to do is to put his cards on the table about himself," said Dr. William Moran, a Boston psychiatrist.

Young men aspiring to the priesthood should ask "do we know what we are giving up?" in terms of their sexuality, he said.

Seminary teaching of an ideal which can't be realized leads to fantasy, and "sows the seeds of neurotic behavior," Fr. McCall said.

Spanish Dept. Lists Lecturers

Guest lecturers hosted by the Spanish Department this semester will be Professors Ciriaco M. Arroyo and Gregory Rabassa, announced Professor Bancroft, Associate Head for Spanish.

Prof. Arroyo is from the University of Pennsylvania. He will lecture on "Ortega y Gasset and Heidegger" on Monday, November 6.

"After Modernism: New and Old Directions in Brazilian Literature" will be Professor Rabassa's topic December 5.

Each of these lectures will be held in S.B.A. 120 at 8 p.m. to be followed by a discussion and coffee hour.

The University Store now has books on its language shelves relevant to Professor Arroyo's lecture. These include Being and Time by Heidegger and The Dehumanization of Art and Other Essays and Revolt of the Masses by Ortega y Gasset.

CLASS OF 1971

ELECT

RICHARD McANIFF

VICE PRESIDENT

October 26, 1967

"Turn Ideas into Actions"

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
Sports
WEDNESDAY, OCT. 25, 1967
Page 8 Vol. XCVI, No. 83

'My First Choice'—McGuirk

O'Connell Named Assistant Athletic Director

Robert W. O'Connell, UMass business manager of athletics since 1961, has been appointed assistant director of athletics, it was announced to the Daily Collegian yesterday by Warren P. McGuirk, director of athletics and dean of the School of Physical Education.

O'Connell, who succeds the late Chet Gladchuck, has been acting assistant athletic director since Gladchuk was hospitalized last year with cancer.

"We're very happy to have him in the assistant athletic director's office," said Dean McGuirk. "He was my first choice. When he expressed interest in the job I didn't have to think of anybody else."

McGuirk added, "He has a good background in purchasing and of course he's so familiar with our operation."

A native of Cambridge, O'Connell is a graduate of St. John's High School in Cambridge and received a BA degree from Boston College in 1938.

During World War II he served with the Marine Corps and was discharged as a major after four and a half years of duty.

He worked as a training specialist for the Veterans Administration following his discharge from the service and for 11 years was assistant purchasing manager at Boston University.

The chief duty of the assistant athletic director, O'Connell told the Daily Collegian last night, is scheduling most of UMass' intercollegiate competition. He will handle schedules for all sports except football, which will remain under Dean McGuirk.

During his six years as financial manager, O'Connell handled all the athletic department accounts, particularly in the areas of scholarships, tickets and athletic equipment. "In that job you're dealing strictly in dollars and cents," he said.

Although he'll be moving into a new office, O'Connell said, "I've already got my feet wet." He's been working on winter sports schedules for several weeks.

Another duty of the assistant athletic director, he said, is to ensure that the University complies with regulations of the ECAC, NCAA and Yankee conference in its intercollegiate athletic program, as for instance in the eligibility of junior college transfers.

O'Connell is married to the former Helen McLaughlin of South Boston and resides in Amherst with his wife and two daughters, Nancy and Laura.

Collegian Photo by John Kelly

ON THE MONEY—Rhode Island flanker Henry Walker takes a Larry Caswell pass as Bill Frye of UMass closes in to make one of his 10 unassisted tackles, a UMass record.

Yan-Con Again Names Landry

UMas quarterback Greg Landry, Connecticut linebacker Henry Palasek and New Hampshire halfback Bob Rudolph have been chosen as the top offensive, defensive and sophomore players in the Yankee Conference for their performances last Saturday.

Landry led the Redmen to a come-from-behind, 28-24, win over Rhode Island in a battle of unbeaten Conference teams. In addition to running 37 yards for the winning TD, Landry netted 112 yards rushing and completed 12 of 19 passes for 154 yards and another touchdown. His passing enabled him to set a new UMass career yardage record of 2,511 yards.

Palasek, 6'2, 190-pound senior, sparked UConn to a 21-0 Conference win over Maine. UConn remained in the Conference race as Palasek blocked a punt, recovered a fumble and made several key tackles in crucial situations.

Rudolph, a pesky 5'5, 155 pound halfback, led New Hampshire to a 30-6 Conference victory over Vermont. Rudolph returned four punts for 109 yards, one of which set up a touchdown, and scampered for a 63-yard touchdown run from scrimmage.

Other nominations were—offense—halfback Charlie Yanush (Maine), halfback Jim DeWitt (Connecticut), quarterback Ed Walsh (New Hampshire), quarterback Jack Stroker (Vermont) and fullback Bill Bjerke (Rhode Island); defense — end Paul Mlinar (Massachusetts), linebacker Ken Kuzman (Rhode Island), halfback Ken Zuch (Maine), halfback Kurt Vollherbst (New Hampshire) and linebacker Colin Hurd (Vermont); sophomores — end Mike Healy (Rhode Island), safety Steve Parnell (Massachusetts), end Gene Benner (Maine), flanker John Crisp (Connecticut) and defensive tackle Pat O'Riley (Vermont).

Harriers Swept by Springfield

SPRINGFIELD—Placing a man in the second slot and sweeping positions 4 through 9, the Springfield College Cross Country team defeated UMass yesterday, 24-37.

UMass' Charlie Lang and Paul Hoss continued their individual battle for first place. Lang took the lead early and was never headed. His time of 22:54 was the third fastest ever run on the Springfield course.

Hoss clocked 23:16, fifth fastest on the course. Marc Gelinas finished 10th, followed by Greg Bowman. Bill Donaldson placed 16th.

Coach Ken O'Brien said that the Harriers expected depth in the Springfield team, and were hampered by the temporary loss of Ron Ryan.

The freshmen won their meet with Springfield in a 16-45 sweep. Ron Wayne, Leo Duart, Tom Derderian, and Larry Paulsen claimed the first four slots.

Bob Benschimol and Phil St. Pierre finished 6th and 7th.

The varsity record dipped to 4-3. The freshmen are 3-2. Both teams face Holy Cross in Worcester Saturday.

Redmen on the Warpath

SOCCER—vs. W.P.I. (at Worcester, 3 p.m.)

Tonight's Intramurals

TOUCH FOOTBALL

Time	Field	Opponents
6:30	1	Bismarks-Colonials
	2	Bouncing "F"-Courtesy
	3	Packers-Dynamos
	4	Maples-Pines
	5	Trojans-Elms
	6	Rams-Hicks
7:30	1	Hemlocks-Redwoods
	2	Aces-Maroons
	3	Eagles-Lemons
	4	Phillies-Limes
	5	Selohasa-R. Numerals
	6	Hoovers-Hi-lo's
8:30	1	Seagrams-Smashers
	2	Academics-Marauders
	3	Lions-Ironmen
	4	Bruisers-Spartans
	5	Cherries-Blacks-Bears
	6	Birch-Bruins
9:30	1	Grants-Baracudas
	2	Buffalos-Broncos
	3	Leopards-Cougars
	4	Patriots-Jaguars
	5	Colt "45"-Commanchees
	6	Colonials-Panthers

Up-To-Date Grid Stats

Football statistics in yesterday's Daily Collegian did not include the Rhode Island game. Up-to-date stats follow:

Scoring	Td	Pat(1)	Pat(2)	Fg	Pts
Landry	6	0	0	0	36
Sherman	0	14(14)	0	2(4)	18
Driscoll	3	0	0	0	18
Grasso	2	0	0	0	12
Decembrele	1	0	0	0	6
Lovell	1	0	0	0	6
Warnock	1	0	0	0	6
UMASS	11	13(18)	0(0)	2(4)	103
Opponents	10	8(9)	1(1)	1(2)	75

Passing	At	Comp	Int	Yds	Td	Pct	Ave/ Comp
Adams	2	1	0	14	0	.500	14.0
Landry	58	28	3	371	1	.483	13.2
Collins	3	1	0	18	0	.333	18.0
UMASS	63	30	3	103	1	.476	13.1
Opponents	90	48	3	679	3	.527	14.1

Punting	No	Yds	Ave	Lgst
Warnock	19	718	39.3	52
Rogers	1	33	33.0	33
UMASS	20	751	39.1	52
Opponents	23	825	35.9	50

Interceptions	No	Yds
Rogers	1	22
Smith	1	13
McArdle	1	1

Fumble Recoveries

McArdle	1
Scherali	1
York	1
Smith	1
Mlinar	1
Stevens	1

Rushing	Att	Gain	Loss	Net	Ave	Lgst
Landry	79	538	51	487	6.1	73
Tutino	35	147	3	144	4.1	14
Driscoll	31	127	6	121	3.5	17
Grasso	28	102	0	102	4.4	18
Decembrele	17	51	2	49	2.9	6
Hairston	10	19	3	46	4.6	17
Cochrane	8	20	0	23	2.8	7
Sarno	3	21	0	21	7.0	10
Lovell	2	3	0	3	1.5	2
UMASS	211	1061	65	996	4.7	73
Opponents	172	781	152	579	3.3	65

Pass Receiving	No	Yds	Td	Ave/Catch	Lgst
Warnock	10	142	1	13.2	25
Grasso	7	103	0	14.8	37
Carty	6	86	0	14.3	19
Hairston	3	47	0	15.7	18
Young	2	17	0	8.5	14
Tutino	1	15	0	15.0	15
Cochrane	1	2	0	2.0	2

Punt Returns	No	Yds	Td	Lgst	Ave
Parnell	11	140	0	40	12.7
Frye	2	18	0	12	9.0
Rogers	2	5	0	11	2.5
UMASS	15	163	0	40	10.8
Opponents	14	119	0	18	8.5

Kickoff Returns	No	Yds	Td	Lgst	Ave
Parnell	9	240	0	57	26.6
Frye	3	46	0	20	15.3
Hairston	1	19	0	19	19.0
Grasso	1	8	0	8	8.0
UMASS	14	313	0	57	22.3
Opponents	19	319	0	49	16.7

Team Summaries	UM	OPP
Total First Downs	70	67
by rushing	18	37
by passing	19	30
by penalty	3	0
Own Fumbles	7	10
own fumbles lost	4	6
No. Penalties	20	11
yds. lost penalties	170	102

Intramurals

Numerals Score Shutout

By DON LARIVEE
Staff Reporter

In last night's intramural action, the Roman Numerals defeated the Tophids 34-0. Both games played in the American League were forfeits, Red Shirts over Colonial Comets, and Dynamos over Courtesy Taxi.

Birch cut down Cherries, 25-12, as Rich Goldberg completed 14 of 23 passes. Also in the East League, Broncos stampeded Bruins, 26-18, Buffaloes blasted the Black Bears, 33-13. Grants won by forfeit over Chestnuts.

Central Lower action saw Smashers defeat the Spartans, 12-7. Seagrams clipped Lions, 19-6. Bruisers forfeited to Marauders, and Ironmen forfeited to Academics. The Chem Club won by forfeit over Landscape Arch.

Leopards mauled the Panthers, 21-13, in the North Tower League.

Ernie Rescues Redmen With Linebacking Feats

By KEVIN O'REILLY
Staff Reporter

"I'm glad he's on our side," says Coach Fusia of offensive guard Ernie Smith. "He works up to potential, and is, in every sense of the word, a real competitor."

Ernie Smith picked up two strategic fumbles and helped the UMass Redmen edge past URI, 28-24, Saturday at Alumni Stadium. The 5'10, 197 lb. senior from Forge Village has been a consistent rescue player for eight years.

SMITH

Smith attended Westford Academy, where he was captain of the football, basketball and baseball teams. Smith has a 2.5 cume and has started on the Redmen football team for four years.

He played varsity baseball as a catcher in the spring and holds the intramural wrestling championship for Kappa Sigma.

"He's a coaches' and players' type of ballplayer," says Fusia. "Right now he's handling our defense, and is important on offense. He loves to work. He's coachable and knowledgeable.

New Naiads List Meeting

Fourteen girls have been chosen as new members of the Naiads:

Virginia Brooks, Beverly Craig, Majorie Doherty, Ellen Dolliver, Lesley Fisher, Cathy Fitzpatrick, Jill Harrison, Sue Jackson, Jane Jaworski, Sally Norris, Alicia Regele, Susan Sills, Sandra Smith and Bambi Wilson.

All Naiads will meet tonight from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

Collegian Photo by John Kelly

CASWELL RAMMED—Redmen Paul Mlinar (left) and Bruce Gombar (right) nail URI quarterback Larry Caswell for a loss during Saturday's 28-24 win.

Forecast
Fair and Warmer

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

New England's
Largest College
Daily

VOL. XCVI, NO. 84 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | THURSDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1967

Schlesinger, LBJ Re-View Vietnam

Schlesinger Says "LBJ Alibis War"

By RICHARD S. KLINE
Daily Collegian News Editor

Arthur Schlesinger, former adviser to Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, last night condemned the Johnson administration for its handling of the war in Vietnam.

Speaking at the UMass S.U. ballroom to about 1500 people as a guest of the Distinguished Visitors Program, Schlesinger claimed that over a 32 month period the war in Vietnam has proven the Johnson administration wrong in every reason they have for justifying escalation.

He listed seven "basic propositions" which he says have been violated by the present conduct of the war. These propositions included direct attacks on the Johnson administration and the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Schlesinger said the bombing of North Vietnam has not broken its will, but hardened it, and the infiltration of men and supplies from the north has not been slowed because of the bombing. He said that "the administration has always assumed that while we escalate, they (North Vietnam and the Viet Cong) would remain still. They have always been wrong."

He stated that although the Johnson administration stated that escalation would lessen American casualties in the war, it actually has increased it considerably. "Over one half killed since 1961," said Schlesinger, "were killed last year."

Schlesinger called President Johnson's investigators into the South Vietnam election the "team of innocence abroad," and said that the South Vietnamese Special Election Committee met the election with "less enthusiasm."

He said that Johnson "cannot seriously believe that Ho Chi Minh presents the same threat to us today as did Hitler in World War II." He also said that "dissenters in the U.S. are not responsible for the failure of escalation." This is the administration's great alibi of the war.

Schlesinger accused Republican presidential hopeful Richard Nixon of being "the hawkiest hawk up to now." But, he added, the former Vice-President is studying the polls.

"If the election of '68 doesn't offer a clear choice in Vietnam," Schlesinger said, "then there is something wrong with our political system."

Schlesinger concluded with the charge that the Johnson administration "lacks the moral and intellectual courage to admit that it's wrong," and that "this nation must meet the responsibility in the next election."

ARTHUR SCHLESINGER

N'mpton Demonstrators Arouse Response

By LORRAINE BALCH
Staff Reporter

Monday's demonstration in Northampton errupted into an open clash between students of Northampton erupted into an lege and the Amherst-Smith Students for Democratic Society.

Members of the rival groups later dispersed to meet with Martin Glazer, professor at Smith to discuss opposing issues. A common ground was established in the groups' belief to the right to dissent. Steps toward securing a peaceful solution to the dilemma was the prime objective of the meeting.

Two demonstrators arrested during Monday's protest march appeared in Northampton court on Tuesday. Paul Farrell, 19, of 304 Crossett Dormitory, Amherst College pleaded innocent to a charge of disturbing the peace. His case was continued to October 31. Hector Trembly, 44, of 21 Hamden St. pleaded no contest to the charge and was fined $15. The two demonstrators were reportedly fighting over the possession of an American flag.

Neither campus police nor Amherst police confirmed a report that the FBI would be on campus to question students who discarded their draft cards during the demonstration.

Demonstrator adds her plea to protesters and hecklers participating in the anti-war marches in Northampton.

Auto Contract Ratified

Ford workers have ratified by a substantial margin a new three-year national contract between the United Auto Workers Union and the company, the union announced Wednesday night.

The union said the new contract received the approval of 90 per cent of Ford production workers and 70 per cent of skilled tradesmen.

A statement issued from UAW international headquarters in Detroit said the company had been notified of the approval by Ford workers at 10 p.m.

It aded: "Local unions having unresolved local issues have been instructed to devote full time to reaching agreement of these issues and the union has pledged its full cooperation in assisting these unions in efforts to achieve a satisfactory resolution of local problems."

UAW President Walter Reuther said Ford workers should begin returning to their jobs Thursday and Friday, pending settlement of local agreements to supplement the national contract.

Pro football, the Army or coaching. Greg Landry is content to see what tomorrow brings. For a penetrating look at an unusual athlete, student and person, see what Page 7 brings.

ATTENTION ALL STUDENTS

Any student who believes he has been mistreated, falsely charged or wronged in any other way by the Amherst Police within the last year is urged to relate his story to the Daily Collegian.

All information will be kept strictly confidential. No names or particular cases will ever be cited in the paper without the volunteer's consent. All confidences wil be respected. But it is imperative that we know cases of mistreatment if the present conditions are to be rectified.

Please step forward. Your courage will be greatly appreciated and honored by the Daily Collegian as well as by the community.

—The Editors

"Titicut Follies" Scandal Shakes Senate to Action

BOSTON (AP)—The Massachusetts Senate gave initial approval Wednesday to a bill authorizing construction of a new $6 million maximum security hospital for the criminally insane at Bridgewater.

Action on the bill came as a special commission on mental health continued State House hearings into the production of the controversial "Titicut Follies" documentary film on the present Bridgewater institution.

The bill must also pass the House.

The bill, developed by a special commission set up to study Bridgewater inmates, was one of several proposals in recent years to replace the century — old structure.

Another special commission reported to Gov. John A. Volpe last month that a new state hospital for the criminally insane should be built.

The film Titicut Follies was assailed by legislators after a private showing last week. They

(Continued on page 2)

LBJ Names Peace Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new bipartisan citizen's committee—with such members as former presidents Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower—threw its prestige Wednesday behind President Johnson's embattled Vietnam policy.

As the new Citizens Committee for Peace With Freedom in Vietnam was unveiled at a news conference—chaired by Democratic former Sen. Paul H. Douglas and General of the Army Omar Bradley—a bipartisan resolution urging a new attempt to end the war was introduced in the Senate.

The resolution would urge the administration to press for action on a Vietnam resolution pending in the United Nations for more than 21 months.

'It's time for the United Nations to fish or cut bait," said Mansfield.

At the news conference, Douglas acknowledged the idea for forming the citizens committee was his. But he rejected speculation "our project would be the final action in an administration counterattack aginst its Vietnam critics."

The gist of the committee's view, Douglas said, was in this paragraph of a statement released at the news conference and signed by the members:

" We are opposed to surrender, however camouflaged. Yet nothing we advocate can be interpreted as unnecessarily risking a general war in Asia or a nuclear war in the world. We favor a sensible road between capitulation and the indiscriminate use of raw power."

Gallup Notes New Viet Views

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP — The number of Americans who are disillusioned about the Vietnam war has nearly doubled in the past two years, according to the Gallup Poll.

A poll taken of 1,585 persons, published Wednesday, showed 46 per cent consider American involvement in Vietnam a mistake. The poll in August 1965 showed only 24 per cent thought American action was a mistake.

The latest poll was made in 325 separate localities and those interviewed represented a cross-section of the nation's population, George Gallup said. Gallup's poll organization, the American Institute of Public Opinion, estimated the survey represented a shift in the sentiment of 25 million Americans.

Collegian Photo by Gori

Shining Shoes as Bright as Their Smiles, the Scrolls polish leather at the Student Union.

SEA Presents Professor Wilson To Speak On Summer Rioting

William J. Wilson, assistant professor of Sociology at UMass, will be the special guest at the University worship service, this Sunday in Mahar Auditorium. Dr. Wilson, well-known professor and lecturer of Race Relations will be addressing the topic "A Time of Shock", referring to the Negro rioting occuring throughout the country this past summer. He will be discussing immediate as well as ultimate reasons for the violence, and will project implications of these actions for the future.

Wilson will be speaking in the informal atmosphere of the worship services organized by a new group of students on campus, Students for Ecumenical Action (SEA). The uniqueness of these services has already made a heavy impact on many UMass students.

Experimentation, freedom, communication, and relevancy are among the elements concerning those students who plan the services. They see the need for student expression, involvement, understanding, and services concerning current issues on campus and in the world as more important than tradition and rigid structures in the services.

One may recall the "Celebration of Joy" last Spring, services on "War and Peace", "The Detached American", "The Meaning of Worship", and "Thoughts on Gena's Thoughts" as examples of the concerns expressed through this medium of worship.

The reason for this trend of the "Student Church" to become more involved and concerned with social issues was stated by SEA's mentor, Mary Sayre: "The religious community is that group of people whose concern is for the condition of the world. Not only must they be concerned, however, but they must be aware of events taking place, sensitive to needed change, and willing to take an active part in bringing it about."

"Often, the Church has been criticized for its role in Civil Rights, in politics, and in education; but if there is no involvement in these areas, and in every area concerning human life, I feel the Church is not only ignoring its responsibility but it is ignoring its people. At that point, the institutional church ceases to be the Church, and those responsive and responsible persons who are performing these needed acts take on this role—be they students, educators or politicians."

U.Vt. Cynic Calls For De-Curfewing

By PAT LANG
Staff Reporter

Latest agitation for abolishing curfews on New England college campuses is rising at the University of Vermont.

In a recent editorial, the editors of The Vermont Cynic, student newspaper, attacked the 11:30 curfew for women as a "puritanical hang-up." They went on to urge that "the administration could follow the example of our leading universities in abolishing women's curfews."

The "leading" universities they mentioned included Boston University, Bennington College, Purdue, the University of New Hampshire, and the University of Massachusetts.

NOTICES

SKI CLUB
For all members and non-members who wish to pay deposit for Sugarbush or Stowe, trip and pay Club dues do so at RSO office. See Carolyn Davis, 8:30-1 P.M.
Meeting Oct. 30, at 8 P.M. in Morrill Aud. All committee members and heads must attend.

COMPUTER SCIENCE
Comp. Sc. 121 and 225 for the second half of the FALL semester will begin on Thurs., Nov. 2.
Comp. Sc. 121 meets on Tues., Thurs. and Sat. at 9:05 in Eng. Aud. Comp. Sc. 225 meets on Tues. & Thurs. at 1:25 P.M. Check Comp. Sc. bulletin board for lab sections, day and time.

HILLEL
Simhat Torah Services at Hillel on Thurs. 7 P.M. at 1047 N. Pleasant St., followed by Lawn Party Social. If inclimate weather, services at Council Chambers, S.U. on Friday, 9-10 A.M., in Plymouth Room, S.U.

ARAB ASSOCIATION
There will be an informal coffee hour Thurs., Oct. 26, at 7:30 P.M. in Worcester Room. Come, bring your questions and topics for discussion.

QUAKER MEETING
Mt. Toby Meeting of Friends on Route 63, Leverett at 10:30 A.M. on Sundays.
Third Wed., at 7:45 P.M. is business meeting.
Fourth Sunday, fellowship lunch.
Student meeting, phone 253-5404. Meeting information, phone 253-5253.

SENIOR ENGINEERS
AICH E and IEEE present the inside story on campus job recruiting. Dr. Short of the Chem. Engr. Dept., a campus recruiter for 5 yrs., will speak. It will be Thurs., Oct. 26 at 7:30 P.M. in EBE Auditorium.

ANTHOPOLOGY DEPT.
On Thurs., Oct. 27, at 8 P.M. in Mahar Aud. Asin Balici, Assoc. Prof. of Anthro. at U. of Montreal, narrates sections of his films of the Netsilik Eskimo.

OUTING CLUB
People who went to Lake George check bulletin board.

COMMUTERS CLUB
Meeting on Thurs., Oct. 26 in Middlesex Room.

WINTER CARNI CONCERT COMM.
On Oct. 26, at 8:30 P.M. there is a meeting in Norfolk Room, S.U.

NEWMAN CLUB
"Joy in the Morning" will be shown at 6 and 8:30 P.M. on Friday, Oct. 27. Members free. Non-members 50c.

ARTHUR FIEDLER CONCERT
Free undergraduate admission (with ID) to Concert with Yomiuri Nippon symphony on Nov. 2, at 8 P.M. in Cage.

JUDSON FELLOWSHIP
On Oct. 29 at 8 P.M. in First Baptist Church Rev. Will D. Campbell, will speak on "If We Should Get Serious." Well-known civil rights activist offers new perspective to the movement.

INTERVARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP
Prayer meeting will be held in Memorial Hall, Oct. 26. All welcome.

LOST:
Industrial Soc. notebook Monday, in vicinity of Bookstore. If found, call 6-7325.

FOUND:
10 Kodak photographs in vicinity of Zeta Nu. McLaughlin is name on the package. Call Warren (days) 253-2807.

PINNING:
Doreen Ann LePoer '69, Crabtree, to Robert Allen Morse '68, Deerfield, Mass.
Esther Marx '69, Lambda Delta Phi, to Fred Wikander '68, American University.

Dining Commons Menu October 25-28

WEDNESDAY
BREAKFAST
Maltex
Cold Cereals
Omelet
Apple Struddle Coffee Cake
LUNCH
French Onion Soup
Grilled Cheese Sandwich
Lima Beans
Sloppy Joe—Roll
German Fried Potatoes
Chocolate Pudding
DINNER
Pot Roast—Gravy
Liver and Onions
Parsley Potato
Sliced Carrots
Spice Cake

THURSDAY
BREAKFAST
Oatmeal
Cold Cereals
Pancakes/Syrup
LUNCH
Green Pea Soup
Ham Grinder
Fruit Salad Plate
Potato Chips
Hermits
DINNER
Fried Chicken—Cranberry Sauce
Whipped Potato
Braised Beef
Buttered Rice
Lemon Meringue Pie

FRIDAY
BREAKFAST
Farina
Cold Cereals
Scrambled Eggs
Doughnuts
LUNCH
Tomato Soup
Haddockburger—Roll
Tartar Sauce
Peppersteak
French Fries
Green Beans
Fudge Cake
DINNER
Fried Scallops Tartar Sauce
Cube Steak
Buttered Potato
Broccoli
French Apple Squares

SATURDAY
BREAKFAST
Petitjohn
Cold Cereals
French Toast/Syrup
Cornmeal Muffins
LUNCH
Vegetable Beef Soup
Hamburgers—Roll
Potato Chips
Sliced Onion
Omelet—Chipped Beef Cream Sauce
Buttered Peas
Toll House Cookies
DINNER
Chicken Chow Mein
Fluffy White Rice
Dry Noodles
Sliced Carrots
Cold Beef Plate
Macaroni Salad
Gingerbread/Whipped Cream

SWAP Busses Will Leave
Fri., Sept. 27
3:00 and 4:00
From the Student Union

TITICUT FOLLIES . . .

(Continued from page 1)

contended the rights of patients were violated. Producers Frederick Wiseman of Cambridge contended he obtained signed releases or oral approval from every patient photographed.

Rep. Robert A. Belmonte, R-Framingham, filed a bill Wednesday designed, he said, to protect the civil rights of incompetent persons under the protection of the Mental Health Department.

Our Average Student Reads 4.7 Times Faster Than His Starting Speed

WITH EQUAL OR BETTER COMPREHENSION

The internationally famous EVELYN WOOD Reading Dynamics Institute

INVITES YOU TO ATTEND A FREE DEMONSTRATION OF THIS UNIQUE METHOD

Where you will:
- See an amazing documented film about Reading Dynamics.
- Learn how Reading Dynamics can help you to faster reading, improved comprehension, greater retention.

HOW DID IT START?

Eighteen years ago Mrs. Wood made a startling discovery that led to the founding of Reading Dynamics. While working toward her master's degree, she handed a term paper to a professor and watched him read the 80 pages at 6,000 words per minute — with outstanding recall and comprehension.

Determined to find the secret behind such rapid reading, she spent the next two years tracking down 50 people who could read from 1,500 to 6,000 words per minute. She studied their techniques, taught herself to read at these faster rates. Now, after years of testing, you can benefit from this great discovery.

AN OUTSTANDING SUCCESS

Results have been reported in Time, Newsweek, Business Week, and Esquire. Demonstrators have appeared on television with Jack Paar, Garry Moore, and Art Linkletter.

Describing Reading Dynamics' impact on some of our nation's legislators, Time said, "Washington has seen nothing like it since the days when Teddy Roosevelt read three books a day and ran the country at the same time."

Senator Herman E. Talmadge, Georgia: "In my opinion if these reading techniques were instituted in the public and private schools of our country, it would be the greatest single step we could take in educational progress."

Senator Proxmire, Wisconsin: "I must say that this is one of the most useful education experiences I have ever had. It certainly compares favorably with the experiences I've had at Yale and Harvard."

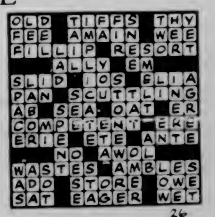
A Reading Dynamics class at St. Louis University had an average beginning speed of 357 words per minute, an ending speed of 1,810 words per minute. Average comprehension rose from 73% to 83%.

HOW IS IT DIFFERENT FROM OTHER COURSES?

No machines are used. You learn, instead, to use your hand as a pacer — a tool you always have with you.

Conventional rapid reading courses aspire to 450-600 words per minute. Most Reading Dynamics graduates can read between 1,500 and 3,000 words per minute, and many go even higher.

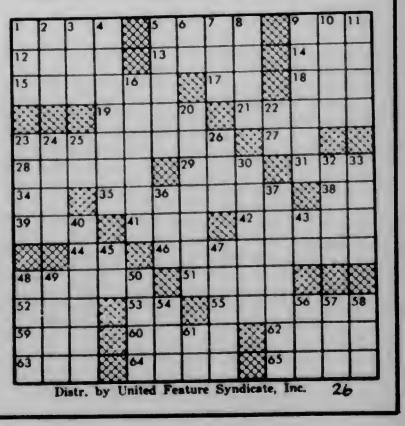
GUARANTEE



We will guarantee to increase the reading efficiency of each student by AT LEAST 3 times with equal or better comprehension. We will refund the entire tuition of any student upon the completion of his course who does not obtain at least the tripling of his reading efficiency as measured by the beginning and ending tests. This guarantee is conditioned upon the student's attending all of the required classes (or making up any missed sessions with an instructor). He also must have completed the required number of homework hours according to directions. For further details call the number below.

FREE DEMONSTRATION
TONIGHT
Thursday, October 26, 8 P.M.

Peoples Institute 38 Gothic St.
Northampton 584-8313



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

ACROSS
1-Wampum
5-Covers
9-Worm
12-Sandarac tree
13-Metal
14-Born
15-Mother or father
17-Preposition
18-Permit
19-Is ill
21-Happiness
23-Bridge support
27-Exists
28-Part of step
29-Dawn goddess
31-Spread for drying
34-Spanish article
35-Rats
38-Note of scale
39-Crafty
41-Click beetle
42-Make amends
44-Teutonic deity
46-Concentrated
48-Gastropod mollusk
51-Gloomy
52-Above (poet.)
53-Babylonian deity
55-Rules
59-Hurried
60-Helps
62-Country of Asia
63-Bitter vetch
64-Plumlike fruit
65-Slave

DOWN
1-Soft food
2-Period of time
3-Swiss river
4-More impressive
5-Name
6-Conjunction
7-Vessel
8-Supercilious person
9-Join
10-Observes
11-Places
16-Hunter
20-Scotted
22-Chinese mile
23-War god
24-Man's nickname
25-Pronoun
26-Measure of weight
30-Sculptured likeness
32-Sea eagle
33-Act
36-Physician (colloq.)
37-Unproductive
40-Longs for
43-Conjunction
45-A state (abbr.)
47-Pertaining to Norway
48-Painful
49-Approach
50-Meadows
54-Be ill
56-Aeriform fluid
57-Negative prefix
58-Compass point
61-Note of scale

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 26

LSD Trip Results in Murder

Defendant Acquitted As Insane

By ARTHUR EVERETT
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Stephen Kessler was acquitted by reason of insanity Wednesday night in the murder of his mother-in-law, a deed he attributed to an LSD trip into the uncharted world of hallucination.

Kessler, 32, a lanky, stoop-shouldered Harvard graduate and former medical student, went on trial Sept. 26, charged with the first-degree murder of Florence Cooper, 57, his mother-in-law. She was stabbed 105 times in her Brooklyn apartment.

A defense psychiatrist testified that he talked to Kessler after the slaying, and that the defendant told of taking an LSD trip the morning of the murder.

"The chair began to bleed," Kessler was quoted as saying.

"It turned to wax and the wax began to drip as though it were melting. My feet were 10 feet from my head."

It was believed to be one of the first homicide cases to involve the substance that has become a familiar symbol of the drug-oriented hippie culture in the United States.

A State Supreme Court jury to 11 men and one woman three times reported itself hopelessly deadlocked during its 12 hours of actual deliberations. Each time the court sent the panel back to try again.

The verdict came at 6:20 p.m.

Kessler burst into tears at the acquittal, flung his eyeglasses on the defense table, covered his face with his hands and cried: "I still say I don't know what happened. I had no reason to kill her. I loved her."

Justice Edward Thompson directed after the verdict: "I order the defendant to be committed to the custody of the commissioner of mental hygiene to be placed in an appropriate institution in the State Department of Mental Hygiene or the State Department of Correction."

Kessler could gain his freedom by proving that his insanity was temporary and that he now is of sound mind.

News Briefs

Svetlana Alliluyeva, daughter of former Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin, has donated $250,000 from the proceeds of her book to build and maintain a hospital in the village of Kalakankar, India.

It ws the largest grant she made from proceeds of her book, "Twenty Letters to a Friend," discussing her childhood in Russia.

LISBON, Portgual (AP)—A newly formed Family Planning Association began operating Wednesday under the careful watch of the Roman Catholics.

The organization, formed by some progressive Catholics and headed by three priests and a doctor, plans to open a center for birth control information and guidance in Lisbon within two months.

ARACADIA, Fla. (AP)—Six children of an itinerant fruit picker's family died Wednesday of what authorities said was poisoning caused by agricultural insecticides.

A seventh child, 3-year-old Dianne Richardson, was reported in critical condition at Aracadia General Hospital.

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon indicated strongly Wednesday he will enter the March 12 Republican presidential primary here.

He told newsmen there is "no serious chance that I will not enter" the nation's first presidential test. He said he viewed Michigan Gov. George Romney as his main opponent.

Nixon said that he sees four major issues for the 1968 campaign—Peace, the cost of living, urban problems and law enforcement.

Register Now To Donate Blood For Shortage in Hampshire County

To help relieve the critical shortage of blood in Hampshire County, the County Red Cross is currently conducting registration for its annual blood drive at UMass.

Students can register in the Student Union Lobby from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. or in their dorms in the evening. Tomorrow is the last day that students can register for the drive, for which the clinic will be held on November 14, 15, and 16 in the Commonwealth Room.

The Hampshire County Red Cross introduced a blood insurance program some years ago that enables it to continue its present policy of free blood for all in need, and yet obtain adequate amounts.

The program includes several provisions that apply to the families of UMass students that give blood. By donating a pint of blood, a person becomes a member of the Insurance Program.

Membership entitles the donor and his immediate family to any blood that they may need during the next twelve months. Members of the program and their families can receive free blood without having to replace it, while non-members are required to replace pint for pint as soon as possible.

Blood supplied to hospitals by the Red Cross is not charged for, while hospitals and doctors charge for administering blood, and blood supplied by other agencies usually costs up to $30.00 a pint.

Students are urged to register for the drive, not only because blood is urgently needed, but because they and their families can benefit from the Blood Insurance Program.

Expo 67 Closes Sunday

OTTAWA (AP) — Expo 67 will close up Sunday with a total deficit of about $250 million—above five times the originally predicted cost—an informed government source said Wednesday. As of last week, the fair's revenues were $116 million, or 95 per cent of projections, but operating expenses had climbed beyond expectations.

The first master plan in 1963 anticipated a $47.5 million deficit.

U.N. Demands Cease Fire To Fighting in Suez Area

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)— The U.N. Security Council, meeting urgently to deal with fresh violence in the Middle East, Wednesday night unanimously condemned violations of the Egyptian-Israeli cease-fire and demanded an end to fighting in the Suez area.

The resolution, offered as a stop gap compromise between competing resolutions put forward by the United States and the Soviet Union, also expressed regret over the casualties and property damage from the recent violations.

It reaffirms the "necessity of the strict observance of the cease-fire resolutions" adopted by the council last June during the six-day Arab-Israeli war.

It further calls upon the Israelis and the Arab nations to "cease immediately all prohibited military activities in the area and to cooperate fully and promptly" with U.N. peace observers in the area.

IF YOU BELIEVE THIS CAMPUS COULD USE A GOOD HUMOR MAGAZINE. HELP US RESSURECT YAHOO.
MEETING THIS THURSDAY, 7:30, MIDDLESEX FOR ALL PEOPLE INTERESTED IN JOINING THE YAHOO STAFF.
There is work to be done.

Faculty Students May Attend Any N.E. State Univ.

With the academic year 1967-1968, UMass will consider as in-state students, the children of faculty members of those New England State Universities affording reciprocal arrangements.

The program will be offered for a period of three years. Those participating in this arrangement are UConn, UMaine, UNH and URI.

Admissions officers at the universities will exchange lists of applicants interested in this program.

Any questions concerning this procedure may be referred to Wiliam D. Tunis, Dean of Admissions and Records.

All R.S.O. Treasurers

If you haven't yet submitted your group's Signature Authorization Cards to the RSO office, please see or contact MR. DEMERS at 545-2351. As of Monday, November 6, only those signatures which are in the RSO Authorized Signature File will be accepted on all forms, including contracts, purchase orders, check requests, Duplicating Orders, etc.

GOT A GRIPE ABOUT THE FOOD?
GOT A GRIPE ABOUT THE LINE?
EACH COMMONS HAS A STUDENT SENATE COMPLAINT AND SUGGESTION BOX.
USE IT.

S.E.N.D.O.F.F.

FOURTH LEVEL - 69 SO PLEASANT ST
HANDMADE DRESSES
AMHERST, MASS 01002 - (413) 253-5412
DAILY 12-6
SAT. 10-6
(Closed Mon.)

Please don't zlupf Sprite. It makes plenty of noise all by itself.

Sprite, you recall, is the soft drink that's so tart and tingling, we just couldn't keep it quiet.
Flip its lid and it really flips. Bubbling, fizzing, gurgling, hissing and carrying on all over the place.
An almost excessively lively drink.
Hence, to zlupf is to err.
What is zlupfing?

Zlupfing is to drinking what smacking one's lips is to eating.
It's the staccato buzz you make when draining the last few deliciously tangy drops of Sprite from the bottle with a straw.
Zzzzzlllupf!
It's completely uncalled for. Frowned upon in polite society. And not appreciated on campus either.
But. If zlupfing Sprite is absolutely essential to your enjoyment; if a good healthy zlupf is your idea of heaven, well...all right.
But have a heart. With a drink as noisy as Sprite, a little zlupf goes a long, long way.

SPRITE. SO TART AND TINGLING, WE JUST COULDN'T KEEP IT QUIET.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

No Legislation Needed

Now pending in the Congress is a new Internal Security Act, which its Senate sponsor, Dirksen, predicts will have "teeth" in it. The reason for the bill is that the act of 1950 has been declared unconstitutional in so many parts that the Subversive Activities Control Board which was set up is powerless.

On the one hand the action of Congress in writing a new bill, meeting Supreme Court objections, provides a better way to legislate on this subject. But the fact of the matter is that the subject doesn't need legislating on.

We in this country don't need a board to expose the international threat of Communist organizations and members. The possibility of violating the civil liberties of the citizens outweighs whatever dangers Communist thought has internally.

Massachusetts Senator Edward Brooke's advice, to abolish the Board outright, should be yet followed.

This is a matter which pertains directly to college students and college organizations. Many who fear, such as J. Edgar Hoover, are fond of labeling groups: Hoover has said of Students for a Democratic Society, "Communists are actively promoting and participating in the activities of this organization."

We agree with the New York Times which has editorialized:

"This country is big enough and strong enough and has laws enough to control the handful who would attempt to subvert it without seeking refuge in shabby legislation harking back to the discredited McCarran Act and similar laws of the early fifties."

—THE EDITORS

The Credibility Gap

by JANE ROLAND
Editorial Staff

Amazing the influence the mass media has over all of us.

I saw the huge crowd that assembled in Washington DC in August, 1963 — the big civil rights march "for jobs and freedom." The press reported 250,000 people, an accurate account. But then, the press was highly favorable to that rally — it was a nice, Sunday picnic, back in the days when civil rights were still fashionable to most Northerners.

In fact, the mass media were even somewhat favorable to last April's demonstration in New York against the war in Vietnam. It was a nice peaceful group of students and middle-aged women — marchers remaining always within the law. So reports of the number present ranged from a dubious 40,000 to a closer 70,000.

The press, in fact most of the Institutions and general population of America is not, however, ready to accept massive civil disobedience. Then again most of America is not yet ready to participate in civil disobedience—but that number is growing by large proportions, as people's frustration overcomes their fear of jail.

Many, many more than 40,000 people met this weekend at the Pentagon parking lot for a continuation of the Rally that drew well over 100,000 in fact, close to 200,00 people to Washington.

The question is how any reporter who thinks himself a representative of a "responsible" press could possibly report the numbers of a crowd of people using the early morning figures of 40,000 when the rally did not reach its peak until about 3:00 in the afternoon.

I remember the way the crowd looked at the 1963 Civil Rights Demonstration with an estimated 250,000 marchers. And I remember the way the crowd looked this weekend in Washington—and cannot understand how anyone could possibly estimate under 100,000—for that matter, under 150,000, people, around the mall.

It becomes not just exaggeration, but wilful lying by the mass media — lying which is then extended to a disappointing crowd of 40,000. . ." by radio station news analysis.

No demonstrator was disappointed by the turnout, but all were by the slanted reporting that cut figures by three quarters, focused on slight outbreaks of violence, and made no attempt to understand the civil disobedience.

This disappointment gives way to fear —for the question is not really the wrong count of this weekend, but the realization of the power of the press and the importance of its role.

People whose contact with news is solely within the generally accepted mass media, pro-war people who want to laugh at a bad showing of their opponents, hecklers in Northampton whose main source of information is the Springfield Union or the Record American— they will be able to return to their quiet neighborhoods, assured that the dissent in this country is still minor.

But most important, if such is the misinformation between the capital of our country and the rest of the land, the obvious question is how honest are the facts, particularly the figures, coming out of Vietnam.

The so-called "Credibility gap" is no joke—it is a serious case of a misinformed public which cannot be expected to make rational decisions as regarding the war in Vietnam, or anything else, on the basis of the false information, coming daily from the mass media of this country.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
Student Union . . . University of Massachusetts . . . Amherst, Mass.

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Chester S. Weinerman '68
MANAGING EDITOR ..... John H. Dean, Jr. '69
BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Charles Smith '69
News Day Editor: Margie Flanders, Editorial Day Editor: Ellie Skinner, Sports: Paul Schlosberg
News Editors ..... Ron LaBrecque '70, Richard Kline '70
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Glenn Briere '69
Advertising Managers ..... Dot Silvia '69, Sharon Kramer '69
Editorial Chairman ..... Pat Petow '68
Photo Editor ..... Paul Boliver '68
Sports Editor ..... Tom FitzGerald '69

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.
Published at the Massachusetts Daily Collegian, Student Union, U.Mass., Amherst, Mass. 01002.
Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, Member of the Collegiate Press Service of the United States Student Press Association, Member of the Associated Press—The Associated Press is entitled exclusively to the use for reproduction of all the local news printed in this newspaper as well as all AP news dispatches.
Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed five times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; three or four times weekly the week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amended by the act of June 11, 1934.
Subscription price: $6.00 per year; $3.50 per semester.

Viewpoint

Petition for New Policy

There's been a great deal of discussion recently on the subject of open house policy. Specifically, the issue lies in whether or not each dormitory should be able to establish its own open house policy. I feel that it should.

Many students want their dorm to have more than the legal number of open houses presently allowed them. That number is one per month. Such was the case with John Adams Upper House.

This dorm had a letter sent to the Student Senate, The Dean of Men's Office, and the Coordinator of Student Activities stating that this house would hold an open house once a week during the month of November if the house so desired. In other words, John Adams Upper decided to have more than the legal number of open houses per month to pressure the administration into making a decision concerning open house policy.

However, since the sending of that letter it has come to our attention, through the assistance of James Collins, Student Council Pres., that it would be unwise for such action on our part to be taken, for a decision by the administration SHOULD be given by the end of the present semester. Upon reappraisal of the situation, the house then decided to rescind the letter.

Instead, John Adams Upper along with the support of other dorms within Southwest, is in the process of formulating a petition stating reasons why we feel each dorm should be able to formulate its own open house policy. We are very hopeful that a single, unified petition for all of Southwest will emerge from this. We will then obtain as many signatures as possible in support of the petition and its proposals.

We feel that this would be an extremely effective way in which to demonstrate to the administration the amount of support behind the proposal for a new open house policy. We do not now feel that holding illegal open houses will further the cause. But an indication of strong student support through a petition would unquestionably show the position of the students.

Therefore, I strongly urge that each dorm on campus formulate its own petition and that this petition be signed by as many residents of that house as possible. In this way, if a unified effort by the campus at large is enacted, the administration will see the feelings of the students and will have to consider it strongly in their final decision.

The institution of a new open house policy is a positive step in the direction of student government. Let's show the administration how strongly we feel that the old open house policy of one open house per month should be abolished. If each dorm can present its own petition with hundreds of signatures attached to it, then the result will be positive overall campus support for the initiation of a new open house policy for the University. Get a petition; show your support!

President, John Adams Upper Steven Winer

Campus Comment

"Over There"

To the Editor:

This letter comes from an isolated Air Force site located 300 miles northeast of Adana, Turkey. The site itself is located on a mountain 7,500 ft. above sea level; it serves as a communications link between two major bases located in this country.

The following airmen, stationed on the site, would appreciate corresponding with any girls at your school who desire to write.

Please address the letters with the airman's name and the following address:
Tuslog Det. 179 APO New York 09051

Capt. Raymond C. Lamson
A2/C Raymond H. Kerr
A2/C Bruce Papet
A2/C John J. Boronda
A2/C James L. Harpring
A2/C James C. Bailey
A1/C Scott Whiting
A2/C Austin J. Johnson
A2/C James E. Vaught
A2/C Robert L. Chandler
A1/C Roger T. Roberts
A2/C Ted V. Wyatt
A2/C Robert E. Snow
A2/C Ronald A. Patton
A2/C Walter R. Porter
A2/C Nick J. Piccolo
A2/C Dick Campbell
A1/C Elliot Gitten

"Lase the Lazy Louts"

To the Editor:

Had the Collegian printed a photograph rather than "words" in its report of Tuesday, October 24th on Webster's prize-winning float, literate readers could have recognized what the total Webster dorm knew last Friday: that the verb for using a laser gun is "to lase."

Our float was entitled "Lase (not laser) the Lazy L. because we found out that the verb to lase had just been admitted to Webster's Third New International Dictionary (Unabridged) by way of the 1966 Addenda which has just been published.

A copy of that Addenda was presented to Webster House by Dr. H. Bosley Woolf, Managing Editor of the G. and C. Merriam Company of Springfield on the occasion of our celebration of Noah's 209th birthday, Monday, October 16. Webster House's copy of the Third New International Dictionary has in it only the noun, laser.

Luther A. Allen
Faculty Resident
Noah Webster House

Carry On, Dr. Drum

To the Editor:

It seems that after reading a recent English assignment on the function of universities, I have come up with some interesting observations. Since Dr. Drum has been criticized for his "bizarre" teaching methods, I would like to quote from an essay in my freshman English III text, Inquiry and Expression, on the topic of "Universities and their Functions" (part III), authored by the English philosopher, Alfred North Whitehead.

"The whole art in the organization of a university is the provision of a faculty whose learning is lighted up with imagination. This is the problem of problems in university education; and unless we are careful the recent vast extension of universities in number of students and in variety of activities—of which we are so justly proud—will fail in producing its proper results, by the mishandling of this problem. The combination of imagination and learning normally requires some leisure, freedom from restraint, freedom from harassing worry, some variety of experiences, and the stimulation of other minds diverse in opinion and diverse in equipment." Also, "for successful education there must always be a certain freshness in the knowledge dealt with."

I would like to know why is there such controversy on Dr. Drum's techniques when he but follows the lines of one of our own texts? If his methods are so "terrible," what can we do about it? Should we dispose of a standard text or dispose of a qualified human being? I think that there should be an end to this nonsense and to allow Dr. Drum to carry on with his work without critical observations.

George C'Miel

Parody on Exams

And it came to pass that early in the morning of the last day of the quarter there arose a multitude, smiting their books and wailing.

And there was much weeping and gnashing of teeth, for the day of judgment was at hand and they were sore afraid. For they had left undone those things that they ought to have done and had done things which they ought not to have done, and there was no help for it.

And there were many abiding in the dorms who had kept watch over their books all night, but it naught availeth. Yet some there were who arose smilingly; for they had prepared for themselves the way, and made straight the path of knowledge. And these wise ones were known to some as the burners of midnight oil and to others they were known as the curve-lousers. And the multitude arose and ate a hardy breakfast.

And they came to the appointed place, and their hearts were heavy within them. And they came to pass, but some passed not, but only passed out. And some of them repented of their riotous living and bemoaned their fate, but they had not a prayer. And at the last hour came among them one known as the instructor, he of the diabolical smile, and passed papers among them and went upon his way.

And many and varied were the questions asked by the instructor but still more varied were the answers which were given, for some of his teachings had fallen among fertile minds, others had fallen fallow among the fellows, while still others had fallen flat.

And some there were who wrote for an hour, others wrote for two, but some turned away sorrowful. And of these, many offered up a little "bull" in hopes of pacifying the instructor for these were the ones who had no prayer. And when they had finished, they gathered up their belongings and went away quietly, each in his own direction, and each one vowing to himself in his manner: "I shall not pass this way again." But it is a long road that has no turning.

Student Spokesmen

Addressing the delegates at the 50th annual meeting of the American Council on Education, University of Kentucky President, John W. Oswald, predicted that students will soon be members of the University's Board of Trustees.

Oswald said the argument for student representation is not valid.

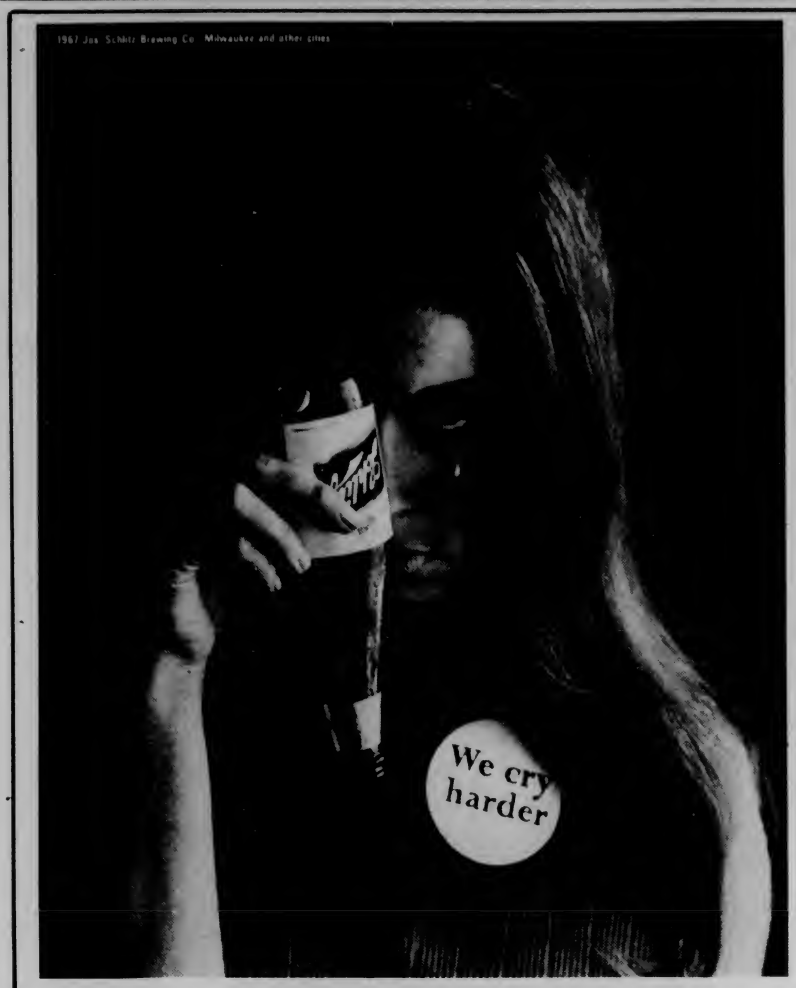
"They are present at board meetings and frequently speak on issues that are of concern to them; but I question that a student, who serves for one year, can be an adequate spokesman for his large constituency," Dr. Oswald said.

Advertising revenue of daily newspapers in 1966 ($4.9 billion) broke all newspaper records, topping 1965 revenue by 9½ percent and nearly doubling the dollar volume of television. Advertising revenue of weekly newspapers in 1966 is estimated to exceed $675 million.

Circulation of 8,023 weekly newspapers was an estimated 26,888,230 last year, an increase of 800,000 over 1965 and an increase of 39 percent since 1950.

The Welcome Mat
is always out
For the Students and Their Folks
who come to Northampton from North or South or East or West
Northampton is famous for its schools. . . and its favorite sons. . . AND, of course,
Jack August's
· Where Sea Food is a Specialty
Open Tues., Wed., Thurs. to 7:30 p.m.
Fri., Sat. to 8:30 p.m.
Sunday to 8 p.m.
Bring your out of town guests to our famous restaurant; we'll take the "fuss" and "muss" out of your life, and your friends will like it, too!

GNOMON 5c first copy of a page



SELLS 3c each 2nd thru 10th

XEROX 2c each 11th on up

COPIES
103 N. Pleasant St.
Amherst, Mass.
253-7393

The Interfraternity Council
Formally Announces
FRESHMEN and UPPERCLASSMEN RUSH
For the Following Houses
Beginning Friday, October 27, 1967

	Oct. 28 Sat.	Oct. 29 Sun.	Oct. 30 Mon.	Oct. 31 Tues.	Nov. 1 Wed.	Nov. 2 Thurs.
DELTA CHI COLONY 15 Fearing St.					OPEN FORMAL 10:00 P.M.	OPEN FORMAL 10:00 P.M.
PHI SIGMA KAPPA GRAD HOUSE 382 N. Pleasant. St.		OPEN FORMAL 10:00 P.M.		OPEN INFORMAL 10:00 P.M.		OPEN INFORMAL 10:30 P.M.
PI LAMBDA PHI 375 N. Pleasant St.	INFORMAL OPEN HOUSE 1-5 P.M.		FORMAL OPEN 8:00 P.M.		INFORMAL OPEN 8:00 P.M.

This man is:

A. Juggling
B. Throwing pizzas
C. Discussing Venezuelan architecture
D. None of these

C is correct. Pictured here, Associate Professor Peter Van Deursen Haven discusses Venezuelan architecture at Central University in Caracas with students enrolled in World Campus Afloat-Chapman College during the Spring 1967 semester at sea.

This group was one of many to fan-out over Caracas for various course-related field experiences during the several days the s.s. RYNDAM, campus and dormitory for the traveling students and faculty, was docked in the South American port. Professor Haven now teaches art courses at the University of Miami, Florida. His students have transferred credits earned aboard the floating campus to their home campuses and have resumed regular classes. One is from South Dakota, majoring in Sociology at Tabor College in Hillsboro, Kansas; another is a junior in Political Science at San Francisco State College; a third is a sophomore in Latin American Studies at Indiana University and still another a business student at Santa Monica City College in California.

As you read this, more than 500 students, representing 200 colleges and universities throughout the country, accompanied by a distinguished faculty, already have embarked from New York for the Fall 1967 semester which will take them to ports in Europe, Africa and Asia, returning to Los Angeles via Honolulu.

Students are now enrolling for the Spring 1968 semester and will depart from Los Angeles to engage in shipboard study supplemented by visits to ports in Peru, Chile, Argentina, Uruguay, Brazil, Senegal, Morocco, Spain, Greece, Turkey, Yugoslavia, Italy, Portugal, The Netherlands and Great Britain, terminating in May in New York.

To discover how you can include the Spring semester at sea in your college plans, complete the coupon below and mail at once.

World Campus Afloat, Director of Admissions
Chapman College Orange, California 92666

Name _____ LAST FIRST
Name of School _____
Campus Address _____
City _____ State _____ Zip _____
Permanent Address _____ Tel. _____
City _____ State _____ Zip _____
Interested in:
☐ Fall 19__ ☐ Spring 19__ semester at sea.

Campus State _____
Present Status:
Freshman ☐
Sophomore ☐
Junior ☐
Senior ☐
Graduate ☐
M__ F__
Age _____

SAFETY INFORMATION: The s.s. Ryndam, registered in the Netherlands, meets International Safety Standards for new ships developed in 1948.

Beat B. U.

THE BROTHERHOOD OF
— Pi Lambda Phi —
invite all FRESHMEN & UPPER-CLASSMEN to an OPEN HOUSE on Saturday, October 28, 1967
at 375 North Pleasant St
1-5 P M — Informal — 1-5 P M

FREE DELIVERY TO UNIVERSITY—6 to 11 p.m. every night

RAPP'S DELICATESSEN

AND RESTAURANT
— Two Locations —

AMHERST, MASS. Next to Peter Pan
STORRS, CONN. Rts. 195 & 44A—Next to A&P

SANDWICHES

Corned Beef	.85
Pastromi	.85
Roast Beef	.85
Tongue	.90
Rolled Beef	.85
Salami	.70
Bologna	.65
Liverwurst	.65
Turkey	.85
Tuna Salad	.55
Egg Salad	.50
Bagel with Cream Cheese	.35
Bagel with Cream Cheese and Lox	.75
American Cheese	.45
Swiss Cheese	.55
Chopped Liver	.85

SALADS

Potato Salad	.25
Homemade Coleslaw	.25
Sauerkraut	.20
Macaroni	.20

DESSERTS
Cheesecake
Almond Horns Almond Tarts
Choc. Chip Cookies Brownies
Eclairs Cake Others

BEVERAGES
Canned Soda .20
Pepsi — Sprite — Coke — Grape
Root Beer — Orange — Ginger Ale
Diet Pepsi

Order a Pickle
Try Swiss Cheese, American Cheese or Coleslaw on your Sandwich—Be Brave
"ENJOY AT RAPP'S"
Phones: Amherst 256-6759 — Storrs 429-6429

AMHERST Cinema
Now Showing
Daily 6:40 - 9:00
Sat. and Sun.
2:00-4:30-6:45-9:05
PLUS
Select Short

LATE SHOW FRI. 11:30 P.M.
"BLOW-UP" "BLOW-UP"

DON'T

fight it.

Get Eaton's Corrāsable Bond Typewriter Paper.

Mistakes don't show. A mis-key completely disappears from the special surface. An ordinary pencil eraser lets you erase without a trace. So why use ordinary paper? Eaton's Corrāsable is available in light, medium, heavy weights and Onion Skin. In 100-sheet packets and 500-sheet ream boxes. At Stationery Departments.

Only Eaton makes Corrāsable.®
EATON PAPER CORPORATION, PITTSFIELD, MASSACHUSETTS

Collegian Photo by John Kelly

WITH FUSIA DURING DARTMOUTH GAME

Daily Collegian
Cartoon by John Sullivan

'Just Quite a Guy'

Fusia, Pro Scouts, Uncle Sam All Hum the 'Gregorian Chant'

by MARTHA CURRAN
Sports Day Editor

Mention the word draft to Greg Landry and he'll respond in terms of the NFL or the AFL sooner than the USMC or the USA.

Landry, a 6'3", 200 lb. senior from Nashua, N.H., is the Redman quarterback, the team's leading passer, rusher and scorer. He's a likely draft choice—the National and American Football Leagues are right up front with Uncle Sam bidding for his services.

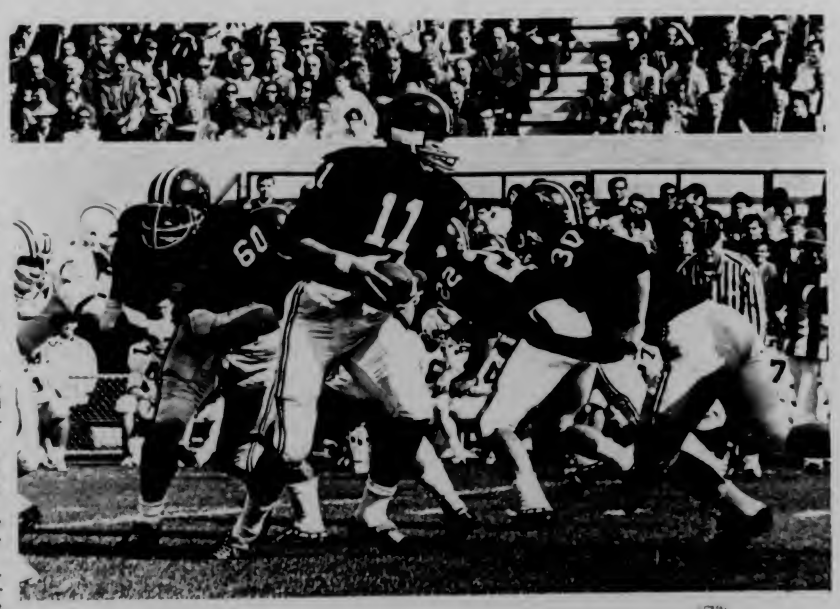
On the football field, Greg wears a helmet, shoulder pads, a jersey uniform and the number 11. Off the field, he wears a button-down, pin-stripe Oxford and beige slacks. He has a natural, relaxed air and responds to questions with quiet enthusiasm.

Greg lives in Nashua with his parents and three brothers. Affection and devotion characterize the Landry family. Greg smiled, thinking about it. "They come from Nashua every game day to watch."

This summer Greg did waterworks construction and spent the last two weeks of leisure helping his former coach with varsity practice at Nashua High School. He wants to do graduate work in physical education or education and take a coaching position in New England. Football is his life.

'It's a rewarding feeling, giving knowledge to others," he says. 'I've had great coaches and I'd like to follow in their footsteps, achieving similar success and getting equally rewarding experiences; for example, seeing a smile of accomplishment on a boy's face after mastering a difficult skill." His first chance comes next semester when he goes on the education bloc.

The 16-credit course load Landry carries includes a three-hour lab in physiology. He studies at the Newman Center or in Goodell Library. An early riser, he averages seven-and-a-half hours of sleep a night. On a game day, he'll be up by 8:30 and, after attending Mass at the Newman Center, he's off to breakfast at the team's training table. A meeting of the coaches follows, and then Landry, as quarterback, reviews the dozens of diagrammed plays and statistics compiled on each opponent.



The team's performance sets the tone for the weekend and Greg is free to celebrate—very rarely to commiserate — until Sunday evening when meetings and practices begin another round.

Last Monday night, after meeting with the coaches and viewing movies of the Rhode Island game, he was watching "I Spy" on Kappa Sigma's color television. It was a rare moment of relaxation for the busy ball player. Greg ate an ice cream cone and laughed at something. A half-hour later he presided over a house meeting and his term as vice-president of the fraternity house expired with the election of new officers. Then homework and sleep.

Off-season, he plays football, baseball and volleyball on Kappa Sig's intramural teams.

By his own admission, Greg is not a rah-rah footballer. He is "conservative, an observer." Coach Fusia says Greg "manifests leadership quality without being a holler guy. He is extremely coachable and well-disciplined, both as an athlete and as a man."

Scouts describe him as the "total football player." Coach Fusia, who can't speak highly enough of Greg, calls him "the true image of the type of student athlete we need here on campus. He reflects well on the University and the Commonwealth. He's just quite a guy."

BACK IN THE LIMELIGHT

Some Candid Quotes From Co-captain Landry

On the football team:

• "The key to winning is team unity. In preparation for the game, the whole team is essential—they all provide the competitive spirit which builds up during the week and explodes on a Saturday afternoon. Team unity is the process of growing into persons."

• "Ball players are a different breed. They're well-rounded and represent a little bit of everything."

• "The quarterback leads the team. He has to make the right call at the right moment. He shows his worth in how well he can manipulate the team . . . scoring as well as keeping the ball from the opponent."

• "Desire sparks the team. We don't like to lose."

On football:

• "On the field it's a lot of fun and a little work. Off the field it's a lot of work."

• "I like the excitement and tension of the game."

• "The teams in the Yankee Conference are equalizing somewhat."

On the University:

• "I'd go through the whole experience again except for that first day, freshman year."

•"There are four small universities here: Southwest, Orchard Hil, the Quad and the traditional southeast section."

"I'd like to come back for graduate study."

Redmen Hope to Pin 5th Straight on BU

UMass Travels to Boston For Terriers' Homecoming

By GLENN BRIERE
Assistant Sports Editor

Talk on Commonwealth Ave. these days is that Boston University is way overdue. The Terriers, whom many said were the best football team in New England at the start of the season, are now on a four-game losing streak.

Thus it is a B.U. team that will be fighting for a winning season when it meets UMass at Nickerson Field in Boston Saturday at 1:30. If the Terriers show their potential, the Redmen will have their hands full.

B.U. has even more at stake in this game than trying to salvage some local prestige. The Terriers have yet to beat UMass under Coach Warren Schmakel, now in his fouth year at B.U. Although UMass has won the last four games in the series, the Terriers still hold a 7-5 edge.

Saturday is B.U.'s Homecoming game, so B.U. will have still another source of incentive.

The Terriers won their first two games over Bucknell and Colgate. But then the roof fell in and they lost to Temple, 22-16, Harvard, 29-14, Buffalo, 6-0, and Holy Cross, 20-17. The question that New England football experts have been pondering is, where did they go wrong?

The biggest reason, perhaps, is the passing attack. It was supposed to be the best in New England with Tom Thornton at quarterback and rapid Reggie Rucker at split end. But neither has lived up to his potential and Schmakel has soured on both. In fact, neither will start Saturday.

Nevertheless, the Terriers have experience, especially on defense, along with size, speed and aggressiveness. If their passing attack, which has been erratic, can come to life again, B.U. will be hard to beat.

Replacing Thornton at quarterback will be junior Dan Lucca, who also started against UMass last year when Thornton was benched by Schmakel. A 5'10, 175-pounder, Lucca is a good running quarterback with a much-improved arm. He has completed 14 of 34 passes for 143 yards and one touchdown.

The other half of B.U.'s disappointing pass duo, Rucker, has been benched in favor of Nick Stipanovich at split end. Rucker, a 6'2, 180-pound speedster from Washington, D.C., who returned a punt 71 yards against UMass last year, will remain on punt and kickoff returns.

Stipanovich, a 6'2, 190-pound junior, sat out most of last season after he broke his leg in an automobile accident, but he appears to be recovered this year. He has 10 receptions for 185 yards.

In the backfield, tailback Pete Dexter, 6'2, 185, was B.U.'s best runner last year and leads the team in rushing this year with 23 yards. However, he was injured in the Buffalo game and his replacement last week, sophomore Bob Calascibetta, gained 140 yards against Holy Cross.

Schmakel had special praise for Calascibetta, a converted end, calling him "a gusty runner." A 5'9, 175-pounder, Calascibetta may make B.U. fans forget about Dexter.

RAY NORTON

WILSON WHITTY

B.U.'s defensive tackles—best in New England?

Wingback Neil Smith is the Terrier's best receiver with 16 catches for 194 yards, all in the last three games. He made some unbelievable catches in the last two games. A 195-pound senior, he has the best hands on the squad.

Rounding out the backfield is sophomore fullback John Rafalko.

The offensive line is big and experienced. John DeLucca, a 6'3, 220-pound junior, and Bob McWeeney, a 6'1, 220-pound senior, are excellent tackles. Sophomore John Doriss, a 220-pound guard, is expected to have a great career at B.U.

At tight end, sophomore John Cambest has put letterman Howie Redgate on the bench. A 190-pounder, he is a fine receiver and blocker.

Defense is B.U.'s forte, with nine of last year's starters back. The defensive line is especially strong.

The five-man front wall is composed entirely of seniors. Tony Gallagher, a 220-pound end, is regarded by many as pro material. The other defensive end is Chuck Tibaldi, a versatile 200-pounder.

The tackles are two of the best in New England, Ray Norton and Wilson Whitty. Norton, 6'2, 240, was an All-East selection last year whose favorite means of rushing is running over his opponent. Whitty, a 6'3, 218-pounder, represents another eyeful for the pro scouts.

Rick Stawitzky, a 210-pounder, is the middle guard. Two years ago he sat out a season with mono but returned last fall and appears to have regained his sophomore form.

Jim Wittorff, a junior letterman, will start at linebacker Saturday, along with veteran Bill Campbell, a 215-pound senior who wears number 63, traditionally worn by B.U.'s best linebacker.

B.U. enjoys three of last year's four defensive backs. Captain Dick Farley, a senior, is an outstanding safety who has intercepted six passes. Juniors Fred McNeilly and Jay Donabedian return at cornerback, and sophomore safety Fred Barry is the only new face.

Hot Sportline

For the latest results of UMass games (any sport) Sunday through Thursday nights, dial the Daily Collegian Hot Sportline — 5-0344. Metawampe's grid picks may be available to callers every Thursday night. Sorry, no verses will be read over the phone.

Collegian Photo by Ken Steevns

ANCHORS AWAY — Rowing off into the mist, the UMass varsity crew prepares on the Connecticut River for Saturday's third annual Head-of-the-Charles Regatta. For details see tomorrow's Daily Collegian.

Y-C Standings

	Conference			Overall
	W	L	T	W	L	T
UMass	3	0	0	3	1	0
UConn	2	1	0	2	2	0
UNH	2	1	0	3	1	0
URI	1	1	1	3	1	1
UVM	1	2	1	1	3	1
UMaine	0	4	0	0	5	0

This Week's Games

Massachusetts at Boston U.
Vermont vs. Norwich
Maine at Boston College
New Hampshire vs. Northeastern
Rhode Island vs. Bucknell
Connecticut vs. Davidson

The goalie for UMass in Saturday's soccer game with Rhode Island was Steve Kramer, not Tom Malone as reported in Monday's Daily Collegian. Malone has been out with an injury since the first game of the season.

Goalie Kramer Hurt

Soccer Squad Loses to W.P.I., 3-2

WORCESTER — The varsity soccer team lost yesterday, 3-2, to Worcester Polytech.

W.P.I.'s Cannon scored the first goal five minutes into the first period on a penalty kick. Gerry Cellilli of UMass tied the score in the second period on a penalty kick.

UMass took the lead after two minutes of the third period when Rick Rosoff scored on an assist by Marty Smith. W.P.I. evened it all five minutes later with a Spitz-Best assist, and claimed the lead for the rest of the game with an Orfitelli-Blaisdale corner kick.

ROSOFF

Redman goalie Steve Kramer left the game in the third period with an injury. Teammate Phil Bozenhard sparked the Redmen's defense.

W.P.I. took 16 shots, five corner kicks and the goalie counted 10 saves.

UMass had 19 shots, 5 corner kicks and 9 saves

The boosters, now 4-2 overall, face Tufts Saturday on home territory. Amherst will come up the road to challenge UMass Wednesday in what promises to be the toughest game of the season. Vermont comes to UMass Nov. 4 to play the game that should decide the Yankee Conference championship.

Intramurals

Higney's Arm Paces Aces to Title Upset

by DON LARIVEE
Staff Reporter

Led by the passing of Wayne Higney, the Aces upset the Maroons, 21-6, to capture the Northwest League championship, in the featured game of last night's heavy intramural slate.

Higney tosed three touchdown passes, completing 16 of 22 throws. On the receiving end of nine of his passes was John Thomas, who scored two of the Aces' touchdowns.

In the South League, the Rams hacked the Hicks, 7-6; the Trojans squeezed by the Elms, 26-25, and the Hi-Lo's dammed the Hoovers, 34-6. There was a double forfeit between the Maples and the Pines.

The Black Bears won by forfeit over the Cherries in an East League non-game.

The Phallics squashed the Limes, 12-6, in the North Tower League. Also, the Academics dispersed the Marauders, 26-6, and the Lemons soured the Eagles, 26-12. The Patriots won by forfeit over the Jaguars.

In the Grad-Faculty League, the Roman Numerals beat the Selohssa, 21-20. Among the Independents, the Packers blasted the Dynamos, 14-6, and the Bouncing F's won by forfeit over the Courtesy Taxi.

• • •

Monday night's late action was highlighted by SPE's victory over TEP for the Athenian Division title. The teams were tied, 13-13, at the final whistle but SPE was declared the winner, having scored more first downs.

• • •

Entries in the campus singles handball tournament must be submitted to the intramurals office by Nov. 8, with a limit of two entries per unit. Play begins Nov. 15.

Forecast
Fair and Warmer

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Fifth Straight
Loss
for BU

VOL. XCVI, NO. 35 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | FRIDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1967

Class of 1971 Elects Officers . . .

Tabacco Top Vote-Getter As Freshmen Elect Officers

By ELAINE LONARDO
Staff Reporter

Close to 900 members of the Class of '71 voted Joseph Tabacco into the presidential seat by almost 2-1. He tallied 556 votes over opponent Tom Carroll's 305.

Today's Election turnout almost matched the fall of '66 voting when 1,060 ballots were cast.

The closest race was for secretary, in which Suzanne Baier edged out Andi Bareboim, 443 to 396.

In the contest for Vice President, Joel Wilson was voted in over Richard McAniff, 441 to 327.

In other contests, Martin Shapiro, 459, won over Pam Klein, 379, for Treasurer, and Edward Hill 485, over Margie O'Neill 350, for Senator-at-Large.

Tabacco's winning campaign promise was that he would "accept the responsibility for our place at the university, since this is the largest class to enter in the history of the school. It is this idea that gave me the desire to serve the class. . ." He has expressed his determination to make the Class of '71, the 100th class to enter the university, the best ever.

Describing himself as "extremely happy", when the votes were counted, Tabacco was called from choir class by his three campaign managers to get the news.

Back at the dorm Thursday night, Joe and his campaigners were "celebrating" when called by the Collegian. Joe remarked that he was excited, would do his best, and was going to have two hourlies today.

"New" Index Says Editor

A "new" Index that reflects the vitality of a burgeoning university has been planned by the 1968 yearbook staff according to Editor Rich Sadowski.

After attending the three-day convention in Chicago of the Associated Collegiate Press with 1,400 other student editors of newspapers, magazines and yearbooks, a quintet of Index editors went into planning session at Evanston, Ill. They came out with a preliminary draft of the 1968 book which, they agreed, "has possibilities of revitalizing campus interest in the yearbook as a vital historical document that reflects the vitality of the new UMass," Sadowski said.

Attending the weekend planning session with representatives of the American Yearbook Co. were Marion Cimini '69, Janice Wroblewski '68, Richard Milley '68, John Sandhaus '68 and Sadowski.

SWAP Busses Will Leave
Fri., Sept. 27
3:00 and 4:00
From the Student Union

Last Chance To Register For Blood Drive

Today is the last day that UMass students can register for the Hampshire County Blood Drive for which the clinic will be held November 14, 15 and 16.

Anyone in normal health between the ages of 18 and 59 is eligible to give blood. Parental permission is necessary for those under 21. A Committee of University Women will mail letters to parents asking permission and giving information about the Red Cross Blood Insurance Program.

The Student Blood Drive is sponsored by the Campus Religious Council and the University Women. The registration tables in the Student Union have been manned by APO, Protestant Student Organizations, Pan-Hellenic, Hillel, GSS, IFC and the Newman Club.

Involved in the planning of the student drive are Ned Freeland, Dave Roones, Chuck Shultz, Anita Pruchansky, Moe Bernstein, Barry Hagmann, Angela Boduch, Linda McGeary, Stephen Stefanik, Ronald Matuson and Billy King.

'Yahoo' Staff Reorganizes; Will "Strive for Quality"

By RICHARD S. KLINE
News Editor

A new effort to republish Yahoo, the UMass student humor magazine, was launched last night. Other points disclosed at the meeting of thirty students were:

- It would be a "new" magazine, "striving for quality.
- The resignation of editor-in-chief Eric Kramer.
- A pledge to seek funds from the Student Senate.
- The desire to keep the present name of the publication.
- The intent to stay as an "on campus" publication.

When the Massachusetts State Legislature created a furor over a cartoon that appeared in Yahoo, Dean of Students William Field ordered the magazine to cease publication. This was in May of 1966. Last year, a deadlock between the Student Senate, the Communications Board of the University, the provost (Oswald Tippo), and Yahoo resulted in the publication's lying dormant for the entire year.

Speaking for the publication, Pete Ward, Rick Cooper, and Dave Stevens stated that although the old Yahoo "was at times pretty much of a garbage can," it would now be a "new" magazine striving for quality. "It's going to correspond with the quality of the University," said Ward.

"At many times in the past, Yahoo has not been a genuine campus humor magazine," according to Ward. "But," he continued, "we think that the potential for creative satire and humor on this campus is immense. There is no need for a campus humor magazine to rely on grossities as its mainstay. In fact, this is to insult the intelligence of today's University student."

The three spokesmen emphasized that Yahoo has had some award winning editions in the past and that these should be one of the bases for future issues of Yahoo, as Yahoo.

Daily Collegian Photo by Bob Gus

Approximately 30 students attended the first Yahoo reorganization meeting last night. (See story).

It was clearly stated that Yahoo has, at present, no intentions of being anything other than an "on campus" publication. "I don't think that we should even say that we're thinking about it," said Ward in reference to Yahoo's becoming an off campus publication.

"The concept of being a campus humor magazine got lost somewhere," said the representatives as they stressed the fact that a major function of the magazine will be to "provide an outlet for creative satire for the University community."

Ward said, however, "I don't look for an issue of Yahoo coming out in the immediate future, i. e. this semester. There's a tremendous amount of groundwork to be done involving students and administration."

The representatives of the publication adjourned the meeting after 1½ hours of discussion and announced that another meeting for old and new staffers would be held Thursday, November 2, at 8 p.m.

FBI Agents Visit Campuses; Question Students on Draft Cards

(Ed Note: William Borders of The New York Times filed this report out of New Haven, this week.)

Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation are visiting several college campuses to question students who turned in their draft cards last week during the anti - war demonstrations.

The investigation, which Government officials in Washington confirmed after objections by students at Yale brought it to light, is also reported to include students at Harvard and the Universities of Connecticut and Massachusetts.

A Justice Department spokesman said:

"It's safe to assume that it's going on in any part of the country from which we have draft cards, but I can't go into the details of the investigation."

Apparently most of the students questioned were holders of draft cards that were collected at scattered demonstrations last week and turned in to the Justice Department in Washington last Friday in a protest against the war in Vietnam.

The Selective Service Act requires most men over 18 years of age to have draft cards or discharge papers in their possession. The law, which is under review by the United States Supreme Court, carries a maximum penalty of a $10,000 fine and five years in prison.

In New Haven an F.B.I. source confirmed the investigation at Yale, but said no ar-

(Continued on page 2)

Daily Collegian Photo by Bob Gus

Daily Collegian copy editor Diana Cornell turned back the clock last night after the final deadline in preparation for Sunday's staff. Everyone should remember to return to Eastern Standard Time this Saturday night.

Arthur Fiedler to direct Japanese Symphony at Curry Hicks Cage next Thursday evening.

Japanese Orchestra Here Under Fiedler's Direction

Arthur Fiedler, renowned conductor of the Boston Pops, will direct the Yomiuri Nippon Symphony Orchestra of Japan at the University of Massachusetts on Thursday, Nov. 2.

The 8 p.m. concert is sponsored by the UMass Concert Association and will be held in Curry Hicks Cage.

The performance is open to the public and tickets may be purchased at the Student Union box office or at the door. Students will be admitted with identification cards.

The concert program will include Rossini's Semiramide Overture, Prokofieff's Classical Symphony, Chopin's Piano Concerto No. 2 in minor excerpts from Bernstein's West Side Story and the Offenbach Suite from Gaiete Parisienne.

Miss Hiro Imamura, a graduate of the University of California at Berkeley and a third generation American of Japanese ancestry, is the piano soloist on the tour. She will play Chopin's Piano Concerto No. 2 in F minor.

Mr. Fiedler was guest conductor for the orchestra in 1965 while in Japan and suggested the 8 week American tour. Under Mr. Fiedler's direction, the name Boston Pops has become as familiar to the music-minded citizens of the world as to its patrons in Boston. He is currently celebrating his 37th year as its conductor.

Consisting of 100 male musicians, the orchestra gave its inaugural concert in September 1962. Each year, the orchestra gives 10 subscription and 12 popular concerts, approximately 25 special concerts, along with radio and television appearances and concert tours within Japan.

Mount Holyoke To Host Meeting Of Journalists

SOUTH HADLEY, Mass — The editor-in chief of Time, Inc., a noted author and a distinguished trustee of Mount Holyoke College will be the keynote speakers at a Writer Editor Conference, the first of its kind to be held at Mount Holyoke, on Founder's Day Weekend, November 3, 4 and 5.

Co-sponsored by the College and the MHC Alumnae Association, this conference is in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Alumnae Quarterly, the official publication of the Alumnae Association. Under the editorship of Mrs. Robert McClung, '45, the magazine attempts to express differing points of view on current issues and to interpret student activities and attitudes to the alumnae body.

Hedley Donovan, editor-in-chief of Time, Inc., since 1964, will be the lecturer Saturday evening. The Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of Minnesota and Rhodes Scholar is a trustee of New York University and of the National Center for Education in Politics. His daughter, Helen, is a junior at Mount Holyoke.

Speaking Friday evening on "Writing as a Married Woman's Career" will be Louise Hall Tarp, noted author. Her works include "Mrs. Jack", "The Peabody Sisters of Salem", and a number of other books including biographies of Julia Ward Howe, Horace Mann and the Agassiz family.

The Founder's Day Service in Abbey Memorial Chapel Sunday morning will be the setting for the third guest speaker, Germaine Brée. A newly-appointed trustee of Mount Holyoke, Miss Brée is a noted authority on modern French literature and is professor of the Institute for Research in the Humanities, University of Wisconsin. She has been chairman of the Fulbright Award national student selection committee and, among other citations, has received an honorary degree from Mount Holyoke.

Open to alumnae, husbands, students of the College, and friends who share an interest in writing and editing, the conference will provide an opportunity for registrants to participate in a series of informal discussions led by alumnae authors and editors who have achieved professional success.

From Friday noon to Saturday evening, 15 alumnae will present five different panels on non-fiction, poetry, fiction, editing and children's literature.

Woodrow Wilson Grants To Seniors Now Available

Seniors in good standing, who plan to go to graduate school, are eligible for a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship. With the assistance of the Ford Foundation, the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation has made available at least $2,000 per student to 150 out of 1,000 Woodrow Wilson Designates. The Designates are prospective first-year graduate students chosen from the present seniors in the colleges and universities of the U.S. and Canada.

Social Science and Humanities majors who plan a career in college-teaching are primarily eligible. Science and mathematics majors who plan to teach may also be nominated, but must apply simultaneously for a National Science Foundation Fellowship. College graduates now in the armed services are eligible if they are free to enter a graduate school in 1968-69. Not eligible are students seeking professional training or non-citizens of the U.S. or Canada.

An unmarried Woodrow Wilson Fellow or a married Fellow without children will receive a living stipend of $2,000 for one academic year. Married male Fellows with children receive an additional allowance of $1,000 for the first child and $250 for each additional child. The Foundation also contributes up to $1,000 toward graduate tuition.

A student who feels he is qualified to apply for this fellowship should first contact his advisor for an evaluation of his qualications. The student himself cannot apply for this program; he must be nominated by a faculty member.

Professor Thomas Wilkinson of the Sociology Department is the local campus representative. All department heads have information concerning the program and nomination forms. Forms sent to the candidate upon nomination must be returned to the regional chairman by November 20, 1967.

Deadline for the nominations is October 31, 1967.

SUMMER IN BOLOGNA

Applications are now being taken for the University of Massachusetts 1968 Summer Session in Bologna. Application forms may be obtained from the Department of History, Room 129, Arnold House. Enrollment in the program is limited, consequently, early application is advisable.

FBI . . .

(Continued from page 1)

rests were imminent. He explained:

"The idea is to find out whether the boys who turned their cards in are in fact eligible for the draft, whether they did it voluntarily, and things like that."

At Yale and other colleges, the agents working in pairs, were reported to have interviewed students in their dormitory rooms, in hallways and in dining rooms.

The students said they were asked first whether they had their draft cards with them, and if not, why not. In some cases students reported having lengthy philosophical discussions with the agents about the war.

"They were very polite and they didn't browbeat me or anything, but God — it sort of shakes you up" said one Yale undergraduate, who declined to identify himself.

In a notice posted this afternoon at the Yale Divinity School of the Dean, the Rev. Robert C. Johnson, called the F.B.I. interrogations "disruptive" and said:

"No agent has the permission of the Dean to be on divinity school property for this purpose."

One law-enforcement source pointed out that agents could disregard the notice if they wished but he speculated that it would probably make them "tread lightly to avoid a big deal."

Some students discussed their interrogations here late last night at a hastily called "solidarity" meeting in Dwight Hall, the office of the Yale religious ministry, attended by more than 100 war foes who had either turned in their draft cards or were considering doing so.

"I say this is intimidation, and I protest it," said a 31-year-old Yale divinity student who is a veteran of military service and the father of three children.

In a letter to The Yale Daily News today, several members of the law school faculty advised the students that they did not have to talk to the agents, and they announced a special telephone number for legal advice.

Among those signing the letter were Dean Louis H. Pollak and Clyde W. Summers, Garver Professor of Law, who is also chairman of the New Haven chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union.

"You have the absolute right of silence," Professor Summers said last night at the meeting, "and there is none that can take it away, short of a subpoena."

Daily Collegian* Hotline
545-2550

AMHERST Cinema
LATE SHOW
FRI. 11:30 P.M.
YOUR LAST CHANCE TO SEE IT!
Plus
"Road Runner"

"BEST FILM OF 1966!"
National Society of Film Critics
A Carlo Ponti Production
Antonioni's
BLOW-UP

NOT PART OF REGULAR FRIDAY EVENING SHOW!

MOUNTAIN PARK ROUTE 5 HOLYOKE
EVERY SAT.—8 P.M.
COLLEGE MIXER
THIS SAT. IN PERSON
2 BANDS
TECHNIQUES From Boston
& FIFTH GENERATION
BALLROOM AVAILABLE SUN. TO FRI.
FOR FRATERNITY, SORORITY PARTIES, ETC.

Freshmen • Upperclassmen
The brotherhood of
— Pi Lambda Phi —
Cordially invites you to an Informal Open House
Saturday, October 28, 1967
1-5 p.m. 375 North Pleasant St.
COME MEET OUR BROTHERHOOD

DISAPPROVAL OF SDS MAY CAUSE LOSS OF FUNDS

WASHINGTON (CPS)—One United States Congressman thinks the Federal Government should deny funds to any college or university which permits Students for a Democratic Society to have an organized chapter on its campus.

"SDS has been infiltrated by the Communists, and therefore I think all colleges throughout the United States should ban SDS from their campuses," says Rep. Joe Pool, (D-Tex.).

Pool, a member of the House Committee on Un-American Activities (HUAC), said he is currently investigating SDS, but he has not decided if he will introduce legislation in Congress concerning the student organization.

However, he strongly believes Congress should stop giving Federal money to colleges which have SDS chapters. "Why should Congress furnish money to any organization or institution that is fostering disloyal and unpatriotic acts against the United States?" Pool asked. He said college administrations, by merely permitting SDS on their campuses, are showing their approval and in a small way promoting the goals of the organization.

Pool said he is opposed to SDS because its members are "trying to destroy our national security by getting rid of the draft—they are sabotaging our war effort.

SDS members are "informing our young people of both legal and illegal ways to avoid the draft," the Congressman said. "They may not be breaking the law themselves because of the First Amendment, but they are getting other people to break the law."

Pool said any college which has such activity on its campus should not receive "the taxpayers' money. We should not use tax funds to pay for draft resistance."

"I am sure the majority of the members of Congress will be interested in stopping this SDS group and their attempts to destroy our security," Pool added.

"I believe in freedom of speech and freedom of the press and all the other principles in the First Amendment," Pool said. "But you have to draw the line when an organized group actually tries to destroy the very strength of our armed might, the draft."

The Congressman said if SDS members "are teaching people to violate the law and to engage in illegal acts, it is not a violation of the First Amendment to stop them. They have exceeded their rights to freedom of speech and the press. These people are getting close to advocating the overthrow of the government when they do this."

Pool said young persons who turned in their draft cards this week should be prosecuted. He also voiced strong disapproval of the anti-war protest at the Pentagon October 21.

Although Pool is conducting his own investigation of SDS, he said he also has asked HUAC to investigate "SDS and other organizations which are trying to stop the draft." He said he wants HUAC to have "a formal and widespread investigation to see if our internal security laws need tightening."

Pool said the acts of SDS members "would be treason if we were in a declared war. The fact that we are in an undeclared war does not alter the situation in my mind."

Asked if SDS is the only organization colleges should ban from their campuses, Pool said, "I don't think colleges should recognize such organizations as the Ku Klux Klan, the American Nazi Party, or the Communist Party either."

New Brothers

The campus has a new fraternity, the Kappa Nu Chapter of Pi Lambda Phi. Formed as the Phi Kappa Nu colony in 1965, the colony received its charter last May, becoming the 43rd chapter of the national fraternity.

Located at 375 No. Pleasant St. the PLP house was refurnished by the brothers-in-residence.

The fraternity has ben active in intramurals, fleiding a football team and tennis entries, with bowling and basketball coming. Pi Lam is also active in the IFC and the FPA, and has chairmen among the inter-Greek committees.

All freshmen and upperclassmen are invited to Pi Lam's forthcoming smokers to see for themselves what this new fraternity has to offer.

The Daily Collegian has added one new telephone number and changed another.

The new number, 545-0344, has been assigned to the Sports staff, while business and advertising has been changed from 549-0716 to 545-0311.

The News Desk, or "Hot Line," remains 545-2550 as does the Editor's number, 549-1311.

R. M. Brown Speaks Sunday In Area

One of Protestantism's chief observers at the Second Vatican Council in Rome, Robert McAfee Brown, will preach at Smith and Amherst College services Sunday.

His topic will be "God's Pseudonyms." The 11:30 a.m. service will be in Helen Hills Chapel at Smith and the 5 p.m. service will be in Amherst's Johnson Chapel.

A professor of religion at Stanford University, he is well-known for his publications, including "The Spirit of Protestantism" and "The Ecumenical Revolution," and for his lively engagement in public issues.

Look Magazine has just published his views on draft resistance. He has also given prominent leadership to the inter-faith National Committee of Clergy and Laymen Concerned for Vietnam.

Professor Scheff Guests at Hillel

This Friday evening, following the 7:00 P.M. Sabbath Service in the Student Union Worcester Room, Professor Edward Scheff of the Speech Dept. will speak on CENSORSHIP IN THE FREE SOCIETY. It wil be followed by a discussion period and Oneg Shabbat.

The presentation will include a brief history of American censorship with reference to the political philosophies of such men as Walter Lippman and Justice William O. Douglas and the stands taken by organizations such as the National Association for Decent Literature. Prognostications for the future of censorship by various commentators will also be discussed.

Professor Scheff has done extensive research into the field of communications, specializing in propaganda and censorship. He received his M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Kansas.

DISTINGUISHED AIR FORCE ROTC CADETS

Distinguished Cadets Air Force ROTC Names

Air Force ROTC Detachment 370 recently announced the names of those senior cadets who have been designated Distinguished Air Force ROTC Cadets by Major Davis L. Oakes, Professor of Air Science. The individuals selected are: left to right, Robert R. Franke, Emile A. DesRoches, Carl O. Gustafson, Jr., Leonard E. Schmidt, Howard B. Low, William J. Liquori, and Robert A. Hoffman. Cadets Charles E. Blumsack, Jordan R. Cohen, and Robert G. Oppenheimer also were designated, but were not available for the photograph.

Selection is based on an evaluation which considers the "Whole Man". The individuals are carefully screened and must possess high moral character, demonstrated leadership qualities, and distinguished scholastic abilities.

Those nominated become eligible for consideration as Regular Air Force Officers upon commissioning.

Kentucky U. Votes Ombudsman

Nearly 1,000 students at the University of Kentucky went to the polls this week to overwhelmingly support a student ombudsman to receive and investigate their complaints and to present them to the University administration.

The vote apparently ended a heated controversy within Student Government.

At the year's first SG meeting, President Steve Cook appointed Ellie Bullock and Robert Valentine to an executive committee serving as ombudsman, but the assembly three times refused to approve his action.

Of the 984 students voting in the SG-sponsored referendum, 681—or 69.1 per cent—favored a student in the position.

The professional look costs less . . .

RESUMES

THESES

MANUSCRIPTS

beautifully typed on IBM Executive typewriters

AMHERST SECRETARIAL SERVICE

65 University Drive
Telephone: 253-7717

DVP Applications

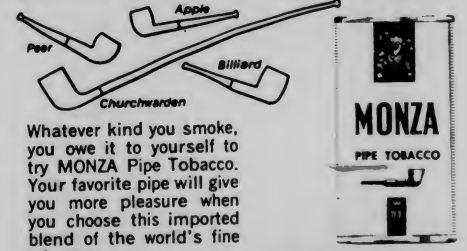
AVAILABLE IN RSO OFFICE

Must be returned no

Later than Friday,

November 3.

FRESHMAN & TRANSFER STUDENTS



Sorority Round Robins

Sunday, November 5, 1967

Student Union Commonwealth
Room 12:30-5:30

STAMP IT!
IT'S THE RAGE
REGULAR MODEL
ANY 3 LINE TEXT $2
The finest INDESTRUCTIBLE METAL POCKET RUBBER STAMP ½" x 2". Send check or money order. Be sure to include your Zip Code. No postage or handling charges. Add sales tax.
Prompt shipment. Satisfaction Guaranteed
THE MOPP CO.
P. O. Box 18623 Lenox Square Station
ATLANTA, GA., 30326

What kind do you smoke?

Whatever kind you smoke, you owe it to yourself to try MONZA Pipe Tobacco. Your favorite pipe will give you more pleasure when you choose this imported blend of the world's fine tobaccos.

move up to MONZA
THE IMPORTED PIPE TOBACCO ONLY 30¢ A POUCH

For a COMPLIMENTARY pouch of MONZA PIPE TOBACCO, send 10¢ to cover postage and handling with this coupon to:

ROMICK'S INTERNATIONAL, INC.
P. O. BOX 3033, DEPT. 181
NO. HOLLYWOOD, CALIF. 91606
(Please Print)

Name _____
Street _____ City _____
State _____ Zip _____

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

The Turn In

Recent reports in a New York newspaper indicate that Federal Bureau of Investigation agents are visiting UMass as well as other colleges from which students have "turned-in" their draft cards.

Officials in Washington have confirmed the investigation.

While one agent explained that the FBI was conducting the investigation to see whether the students were "eligible for the draft, whether they did it voluntarily, and things like that," the government under the present statute may arrest students for not carrying the selective service information.

We do not believe that men should be subject to arrest for not having in their possession draft cards or discharge papers.

Only one set of identification papers needs to be carried in this country—drivers' licenses and automobile registrations.

Identification of drivers and vehicles is often necessary in accident cases or in cases involving violations of motor vehicle laws but there is no reason for the United States to require that every male citizen carry on his person his status with respect to military service. We are not in a state of war, but even if we were, would possession of service papers be necessary?

We do not believe so. The selective service department has adequate records with which to bring prosecutions against those who are unwilling to serve in the armed forces.

For the Supreme Court, in the case which it now has under review, not to declare the relevant parts of this act unconstitutional would be a contradition in a "free" country.

—THE EDITORS

The Guilt of Neglect

Last week, the Sociology 101 classes of G. Putnam Barber were treated to a guest lecturer. He was Professor William J. Wilson of the Sociology Department and he poignantly recounted the plight of the Negro slum-dweller and the grave consequences it holds for our country.

Mr. Wilson based his remarks on Charles E. Silberman's "Crisis in Black and White" which deals with the Negro ghetto.

As the riots of last summer have shown, the despairing Negro populace is voicing its dissatisfaction with the destitute life that affluent America has provided it with in a manner as violent as the environment they are forced to live in.

Silberman describes the migration of Southern Negroes to the North in search of jobs to replace the menial farm chores they lost as a result of racial hostility or mechanized farming. They found jobs readily in Northern cities during the labor shortages of the war years. By 1960, 60% of the Negroes outside the Deep South were living in the nation's twelve largest cities.

Urban populations doubled and tripled under this great influx of people. Like most "immigrants", they settled in the poorer sections of the cities with their own kind living much as they did back home. As immigrants, they would have to undergo the process of "acculturation" before they could be accepted by the society they now lived in. But, Silberman says, it did not work for the Negro—"for all his culture and wealth, a Negro remains an alien in his own land."

Thus, the Negro is rejected by American society. This rejection "dominates the lower-class Negro's life" and he gradually loses respect for the whites, their laws, and their society. His very behavior becomes a protest. Said James Baldwin, "To be a Negro in this country and to be relatively conscious is to be in a rage almost all the time."

The bitter truth to this statement has been proven in Watts, Detroit and Newark. Professor Wilson noted that moral appeals to the American people have done little to alleviate the situation. How much violence will it take to make them act?

Nor is this apathy absent from the college campus. Dr. Lawrence Johnson of the marketing department here at UM has stated: "If I mention in my classes that 37% of Negro families earn under $3000 or that a white high school graduate has better job opportunities than a Negro college graduate, students respond with shock and disbelief. Most are oblivious to the problems facing the Negro.

He also said that the black student is invisible, neglected. Dr. Johnson is the faculty advisor to the Afro-American Club on campus. These societies have sprung up in every major college across the nation and aid the colored student with the many educational, social, and economic problems that beset him—problems most white students never have to face.

Ending his lectures, Prof Wilson urged that communication centers could be set up by interested students to explore the problems of the Negro in the ghetto and seek possible solutions. He expressed confidence that there are enough motivated students on this campus to organize such a venture.

We are left with a challenge. How many will accept it? The racial problem is both real and urgent, though it has been forgotten in the wake of the current Vietnam crisis. It has been forgotten long enough. It should be solved now. Or do we need another riotous summer and another. . . . .

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
Student Union . . . University of Massachusetts . . . Amherst, Mass.

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Chester S. Weinerman '68
MANAGING EDITOR ..... John H. Dean, Jr. '69
BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Charles Smith '69
News Day Editor: Dan Epstein '70. Editorial Day Editor: Nancy Bourgoin '69. Sports: Jan Curley '69
News Editors ..... Ron LaBreeque '70, Richard Kline '70
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Glenn Briere '69
Advertising Managers ..... Dot Silvia '69, Sharon Kramer '69
Editorial Chairman ..... Pat Petow '68
Photo Editor ..... Paul Boliver '68
Sports Editor ..... Tom FitzGerald '69

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.
Published at the Massachusetts Daily Collegian, Student Union, UMass., Amherst, Mass. 01002.
Member of the Associated Collegiate Press. Member of the Collegiate Press Service of the United States Student Press Association. Member of the Associated Press—The Associated Press is entitled exclusively to the use for reproduction of all the local news printed in this newspaper as well as all AP news dispatches.
Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed five times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; three or four times weekly the week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amended by the act of June 11, 1934.
Subscription price: $6.00 per year; $3.50 per semester.

Campus Comment

Paper Doll World

To the Editor:

Gena Corea wrote a lengthy and highly emotional essay indicating she was leaving these hallowed halls because she didn't want to take the foreign language requirement. She then flies us off to New York to trip the light fantastic over subways and boats with a couple laps around the world thrown in for good measure. Then we are brought abruptly back to stuffy, mean, old UMass, where the Deans and Profs don't understand us and our thirst for knowledge is cruelly nipped in the bud.

This past summer, I served with Miss Corea on the Summer School Judiciary Board. After a couple of weeks, she handed in her letter of resignation, indicated that she was completely appalled at our Gestapo techniques, and took her marbles and went home.

Gena Corea is living in a paper doll world. She cannot or will not face up to the realities and responsibilities of life. She obviously looks upon most of us as "scared-to-death conformists," "will-less adults," and in general, hard-hearted, uncaring, automatons, blundering mechanically through life with novacained senses.

Now, let me say that I loathe foreign languages. I also have suffered unbelievably trying to get through my Math requirements. But—I will not shut myself off from being educated because they don't appeal to me.

As for Dr. Ryan Drum, I agree with Miss Corea that his method of teaching is exciting. But take a closer look—Dr. Drum didn't slam his dusty Botany text closed and withdraw with disgust into his scholastic shell. He's still here—making a success out of a previously dry course.

I don't think Gena Corea wants an education. She can't or won't face the frustrations, disappointments, and experiences that are bound to crop up, so how can she possibly know the beauty, fulfillment, and joy of overcoming them?

Gena Corea looked at College Life, cried, and said: "I'm dropping out. I want no part of your world." I looked at College Life and laughed and said: "I'm staying! I LIKE IT HERE!!"

Sonnie Falandes

Where, Oh Where, Was Janis?

To the editor:

Homecoming 1967 was, as you agreed, "a complete insult to the tastes of anyone past pre-adolescence." This response was one of the very few comments of the Daily Collegian to deviate from University policy.

While I do not want to dwell on this subject, I would like to mention another aspect of Homecoming events, which met with my disapproval, the failure of the Homecoming Committee to keep a promise.

Students paid $3 for tickets to the Sunday concert, to see and hear Donovan, Stan Getz, and Janis Ian. Though the female performer was not to be the center of attraction, I know that I and several of my friends bought tickets especially to see this young vocalist.

Furthermore, every ticket purchased for the concert was bought on the assumption of hearing the three performers. I realize that Janis Ian's failure to perform may not have been due to efforts of the Homecoming Committee. However, I do believe that the student body is entitled to an official explanation.

Steven Bloom '71
Webster House

Obeying the Law in Vietnam?

To the editor:

The U.S. military intervention in Vietnam is wrong because:

1. It violates the 1st Commandment: Thou shalt not kill; or, are we forgetting the Ten Commandments?

2. It violates the Golden Rule: Do unto others as ye would have them do unto you; or, are we forgetting the Sermon on the Mount?

3. It violates International Law: Vietnam, North and South, is one sovereign nation and we have no right to interfere in its internal affairs; or, are we forgetting our own Civil War?

4. It violates the UN Charter: Member nations are to refrain from the use of force in international relations; or, are we forgetting our commitment to that organization?

5. It violates article 1 of the U. S. Constitution: Wars are declared by Congress, representing all the people; or, are we forgetting that our nation is a republic?

6. It violates our Declaration of Independence: It is a right of peoples everywhere to establish whatever form of government is best conducive to their safety and happiness; or, are we forgetting our political heritage?

7. It violates the clear admonition of George Washington: No foreign entanglements; or, are we forgetting the teachings of our wisest, most selfless American?

8. It violates the homely truth of Abe Lincoln: We cannot do for others what they should do for themselves; or, are we forgetting the down-to-earth, common sense by which this nation rose to greatness?

9. It violates the wisdom of Ben Franklin: Don't pay too much for the whistle. Every American personal income tax dollar now goes down the Vietnam sewer and 100,000 of our finest youth have already been killed, wounded or maimed; or, are we forgetting our most important commitment that to future generations of Americans?

10. It violates the dictum of Jesus: Cast out the mote in thine own eye, then thou shalt see clearly how to help thy neighbor. We have plenty to do at home; or, are we forgetting Jesus?

Think America; or are we forgetting how to think for ourselves?

Kenneth D. Tomkinson

Part I:

Agression from the North

by PATRICK FLAHERTY
Editorial Staff

A great manifestation of American ignorance has been the failure to understand the nature of the war in Vietnam. Although it began as a truly indigenous civil war in the south, massive American intervention carried the war to the North and changed its character.

The resulting confusion has produced a misconception on the part of the American public; totally indifferent to the war, it was easily propagandized into believing that our role in Vietnam was to protect the South from the North. This is another one of Johnson's "myths" perpetuated to gain support for America's effort to impose their choice of a political reality on South Vietnam.

Our President's policy, as stated publicly, is based on two false pretexts: 1) that North Vietnam instigated the war in the south, and our presence is in response to "northern aggression", and 2) that escalation of the war is the responsibility of North Vietnam.

Since the arguments against the above are usually labelled "communist propaganda", I find it most fitting that my words of condemnation come largely from American government officials. The naive viewer before understanding the difficulty of ending this war must realize that 1) our government is aware of the large population of the Viet Cong. It works reportedly to win the hearts and minds of the people, obviously because their support is elsewhere; 2) that the war could not be won in the south, so it was carried to the north in the hope that Hanoi would pressure the southern rebels into giving up battle.

I shall dispose of both "pretexts" in my coming articles.

As Others See Us

Visitor Claims UMass is 'No Man's Land'

(Ed Note: Columnist Wayne Smith of the Greenfield Recorder recently described the new traffic pattern on campus as "UMass No Man's Land." Here's what he said.)

Perhaps the University of Massachusetts has reached the point at which it no longer needs or desires attention from the public. Perhaps. But we don't think so.

We do not believe the University deliberately is making it rough figuratively and literally for the public to take a look at what it's doing. We do not believe, in fact, it can do without the public.

At this time, nevertheless, there is a situation which repels the public from attending University functions, including lectures, concerts, plays, films and other cultural events because of the inaccessibility of some of the University halls.

These places in truth are the very same ones which have been serving University students, faculty and public for years. Some of them, in fact, are well established fixtures within the campus. But to get to them, to locate them, to get out again can be a formidable barrier to pleasure and safety.

Recently we had occasion to attend the opening of the University Theatre season at Bowker Auditorium. This is the same old hall which has been used for plays, concerts and various other activities for generations. It is within sight of the main highway, North Pleasant St., and up until this year has been in easy reach of car and pedestrian.

But how do you get to Bowker now? Don't ask. Don't even ask a student.

Blocked at the conventional entrance opposite one of the dining commons, we drove south to the next intersection which leads the traveller towards the Curry Hicks Cage, thence back of the old chapel and up to the front of the Student Union. But just beyond there's another barrier which blocks passage to the Bowker parking lot.

A left turn up a slight grade through a passage hardly wide enough for one car, not to mention meeting several, then down another grade and to the right. But to where? There are no signs, no notices, no directions as to what alley, what pitted pathway, through what pot hole one must progress.

We stopped and asked what seemed to be a student how to get to Bowker. We have never before seen anyone more surprised.

"Bowker?" he asked. What's that. Never heard of it."

When we explained that it was an auditorium in the University's Stockbridge buildings, which is agricultural, he was even more puzzled.

Never heard if it. I'm not in agriculture," was his reply.

missed the alley and turned again. Suddenly we found ourselves in a broad expanse of field, grass on one side, fresh diggings on the other. The road was getting narrower. There was no way to turn 'round. We went a little farther, turned to the left when we could see cars sailing along at 80 mph in the distance, thinking that surely if they could, so could we.

A couple of minutes later, however, we were face to face with a mound of earth, no way to turn around, nothing to do but back up all the way to where we started. We had tried this only about 20 feet when we slid off the dirt road, gummy with mud from the rain, into a softness which immediately trapped the rear end of the car. And there we sat, churned, and envisioned a night on the Plains of old Amherst.

WHAT IT USE TO BE LIKE . . .

We proceeded, found a parking spot beside a new building, and started to walk. We had not gone far when we realized we were several hundred rods from the building, could see the old parking lot and that if somebody else had found it so could we. We drove again. This time we backtracked, took another turn up another rocky alley and came out in the general area desired. We parked, saw the show, and then headed home.

But if getting into the lot was like travelling a maze, getting out was more so. We first asked a night watchman the best way back to the Main road. He, too, was puzzled, but did his best.

"You go down that-away just a short distance," he said, "Then turn to the right. Don't go too far. Take a left and then another right. You'll see a small alley. Don't go into that. Just keep going. You'll come out on North Pleasant St. eventually".

Actually we doubt he had ever followed his own directions or, in fact, had ever tried to find his way out of the Bowker lot in darkness on a rainy, windy night.

We tried to follow directions, took the right turn, then the left,

Fortunately, however, the car was no more interested in this grim prospect than we and with a lurch took off again and we sailed backward into comparative safety and continued backing almost to Bowker when we noted others taking an opposite turn. Again, if they can do it, why can't we?

We did, and ultimately just as the man said, we came to North Pleasant St., and a sigh of relief.

We're not going to do it again, however. We're not going back by night until we have had a chance to cruise the campus by day to find what's left of any traffic order and if in truth, it's possible to park anywhere within less than two miles of a desired location without running the risk of getting sand-trapped, mud-trapped, or getting your sides bashed in by some other driver who couldn't care less and doesn't bother to tell you after he's done it.

And that's a tale which precedes this muddied madness.

Men of the Underground Rise to Defend Art Carney

Boston sewer workers today rushed to the defense of comedian Art Carney, who also happens to be an honorary member of their union.

"Until people started watching Carney, they didn't know a thing about sewers," declared one irate member of Local 445, Sewer Division Employees, AFL-CIO.

"Now people know we're working underground. They know we're there."

Carney, who plays Norton, a sewer worker, on the weekly Jackie Gleason TV Show, was recently criticized by a New York consulting engineer for lowering "the image of sewers and the men who go down to make them function."

Dr. Morris M. Cohn, who happens to be the author of a book called "Sewers for Growing America", criticized Carney during a talk given at the Water Pollution Control Federation Conference.

"I, for one," he stated, "am not hilarious over the characterization of a sewer worker as portrayed by Carney."

Cohen said he was disturbed that some associations concerned with water pollution have made Carney "an honorary member of our learned profession."

He said that sewers are the "conduits of civilization," and that sewer workers were "the protectors of urban sanitation and safety."

Cohen added: "Man's civilization can be traced by his sewer systems as clearly as by his architecture and works of art."

However, several local "protectors of urban sanitation" are up in arms over Cohn's remarks about their favorite comedian.

Anthony Perullo, 48, of Bennington st., East Boston, was president of Local 45, when Carney was made an honorary member 10 years ago.

"I'm still proud to have him in our local," declared Perullo, who has been a sewer worker for 20 years. "If I had it to do all over again — I'd enroll Art Carney again. I'm a fan. I watch him every time he's on."

Perullo's high opinion of Carney was shared by William Hannigan, 52, of Margin st., Hyde Park, who has been in the trade for 30 years.

"I think that guy Cohn is taking himself too seriously," said Hannigan. "I enjoy Art Carney. I've always liked him. I don't think he's harmed us. He's made people aware of us; that's for sure. I'm proud Carney's an honorary member of the Boston local."

Jerry Murnane, 53, of Maxwell st., Dorchester, has been a sewer worker for 32 years.

"Let's face it," he said, "sewer work is a tough and dirty job. Carney has made life a bit happier for us. He's put a little fun into our work, and we enjoy it.

"I don't understand Mr. Cohn's attitude. Sewer workers are definitely not the college type. But it's difficult work, and the men do it to the best of their ability. A man like Art Carney has given us something to talk about; something to laugh about. What's wrong with that?"

One tning is certain: Dr. Morris M. Cohen, the New York consulting engineer and author of "Sewers for Growing America," will never be made an honorary member of Local 445.

Gangland Killers Remain At Large

BOSTON (AP) — Two of seven men named in secret indictments in connection with a 1965 gangland killing remained at large Thursday.

Three men were arrested a few hours after the indictments were returned Wednesday by a Suffolk County grand jury following two days of hearing witnesses.

Two others already were in prison on other charges, including underworld informer Joseph Barboza Baron, 35, of Swampscott, who spent almost two hours on the stand on the last day of the grand jury session.

Daily circulation of newspadaily is about 10,000 and of the median-size weekly, 3,000.

Circulation of the median-size papers in the U.S. and Canada last year rose to 61,397,252, a gain of a million over 1965 and an increased of 20 percent since 1946.

Convict Threatens New York Coeds

OLEAN, N.Y. (AP) — A young convict burst into a women's dormitory at St. Bonaventure University Thursday, menaced several coeds, a woman dean and a security guard with a rifle and then fired on police closing in on him.

Minutes later, police gunfire resulted in the surrender of Gary F. Ayers, 21, whose parents live at Millport, near Elmira.

He was not injured although 11 bullets struck the automobile in which he was attempting to flee.

Ayers and Richard R. Gingrich, 21, of Anneville, Pa., escaped Tuesday from White Hill State Correctional Institution at Camp Hill, Pa., a Harrisburg suburb.

Police said they had four shotguns and two rifles plus ammunition they took during a burglary shortly after the escape.

The pair, driving a stolen station wagon, was halted by a police roadblock at a railroad bridge across Route 17, adjacent to the university campus.

Gingrich was captured within moments near the bridge. Ayers fled to the dormitory.

MASS. CLASSIFIED

Help Wanted

Babysitter wanted on Tuesdays 8:30 to 5:30. Call 253-7258.

Part time sales work Monday and Wednesday afternoons. Experience in retail sales helpful. Apply in person only. Mathews Shoes, 39 South Pleasant Street.

Typist need with thesis experience for a short or long term project. Call 545-2392 Tues., Wed., Thurs. days, 253-3822 evenings.

AUTOMOBILE

1965 Chevrolet Malibuss 327 cu. in., 4 speed, power steering, black vinyl top and interior, excellent condition. Call 256-6139 after 6:30 p.m.

1964 red MG Sports sedan excellent condition. Just the thing for those winding, snow-packed roads to Stratton or Snow. Make offer over $450. Call 253-7919.

LOST

Lost pocket watch in vicinity of Morrill Hall. Call 253-3601. Reward.

WANTED

Roommate to share 3 rm. Apt. in N. Amherst. Call 549-06411.

Secretary-Stenographer desires full or part time position. Please call 253-9806.

Babysitter in my home Mondays and Wednesdays 8-11:00, occasionnilly 8-3:30 until middle of January. 253-5558.

For Rent

24 feet Room
Refrigerator, cooking facilities, center of town.
Leader Rooms
159 North Pleasant St.
Apply at Bowling Alley.
$15 a week

For Quick Results . . .

TRY OUR

CLASSIFIED ADS.

LOCKSMITH SERVICES

KEYS &

RUBBER STAMPS

CHENEY LOCKSMITH

90 N. Pleasant St

253-7010

Historic Portraits Of Amherst on Display

13 portraits of the Amherst family, beginning with the grandfather and father of Jeffery, Lord Amherst, for whom this town is named, will be on display through Nov. 12 in the Mead Art Building at Amherst College.

The exhibit is believed to represent the most significant collection of family portraits in the United States. They are distinguished especially as works of the most eminent portrait artists of the mid-18th century, among them founders and leaders of the Royal Academy in Britain.

The Amherst family portraits include three of Jeffery, Lord Amherst, who as commander of the British forces in the New World, 1758-63, brought about the fall of French power in America. In honor of his military successes, eight towns in the colonies were named for Amherst. His subsequent reorganization of the conquered territories was so successful that he was called ". . .the greatest administrator produced by England since the death of Marlborough . . ."

All but one of the portraits are among the College's own holdings. Seven were recently acquired from the present Earl Amherst, Jeffery John Archer Amherst, whose formal titles are Baron Amherst of Montreal, Viscount Holmesdale, and Fifth Earl Amherst of Arakan. Earl Amherst will visit the campus on the weekend of Nov. 3, 4 and 5 to view the collection and meet with the Trustees of the College.

The present Earl Amherst — fifth and last in the line of succession received an honorary doctor of law degree from Amherst College in October 1959, on the occasion of the bicentennial celebration of the Town of Amherst.

The collection is open to the public Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Sunday from 11:30 to 5.

Cadet of the Week

Cadet Bruce F. Forrestall, a freshman from 1st Platoon Company A has been selected as the outstanding freshman cadet of the week in the Army ROTC Brigade.

Cadet Forrestall finished first in a competition invoiving nearly 200 other freshmen cadets. His selection was based on his military appearance and on his knowledge and understanding of drill.

'Reformation' Due

Professor Nils Astrup Dahl of the Divinity School of Yale University will present the last in a series of lectures commemorating the 450th anniversary of the Protestant Reformation at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Amherst, Sunday, at 7:00 p.m. The title of the lecture is, "Justification By Faith Today."

"Justification" is theological term used to describe God's acceptance of the sinner. Disagreement over justification was a major factor in the split between the Roman Catholic and Protestant churches. In recent years the doctrine has been the subject of intense discussion. Theologians have begun to search for more contemporary ways in which to state the teaching. Dr. Dahl's lecture will seek to take a fresh look at the subject and comment on the recent consideration of the question.

Britain-Egypt Talks Resume

LONDON (AP) — Qualified authorities reported Thursday that Britain and Egypt have agreed to resume diplomatic relations broken by President Gamal Abdel Nasser in 1965 over the Rhodesia crisis. The provisional agreement was said to provide for a timetable which, if observed, will see the two countries exchanging ambassadors within a month or so.

Favorite British candidate for ambassador is Sir Harold Beeley, who held the post until Nasser's rupture with the British.

Future use of the Suez Canal figured as a key factor during Beeley's recent fence-mending talks with Egyptian officials in Cairo.

"It was intolerable," said Wilson, "that any nation should shut the canal to international shipping." He took care, however, not to blame either Egypt or Israel for the closure which has lasted since the June 5-10 war.

Ford Thinks Small

NEW YORK (AP) — The Ford Foundation may think small colleges are in trouble but Dr. Edward J. Bloustein, president of 400-student Bennington College, disagrees.

The liberal arts college for women in Vermont, and other small colleges like it, provide "a face-to-face, person-to-person education on a human — scale level" that the large college cannot provide, Bloustein said Thursday at a news conference.

McGeorge Bundy, president of the Ford Foundation, warned last week that small colleges faced "imminent bankruptcy." Bennington, said Bloustein, is beginning an $11-million drive for building and endowment funds.

SWAPers Set

The 1967 SWAP conference, this weekend, will include discussion of pertinent problems of Student Government, Social and Academic Affairs.

To be heard on a problem, or to add a pertinent problem to the agenda, students are invited to contact any SWAP representative:

University of Mass. Concert Assoc. — Marie R. Roberts
Class of 1970—Bruce Balboni (Pres.), Steve Weisman (Treas.), Glenn Mangurian (U.P.), Rebecca Stedman (Sec.)
Class of 1969—Wayne Thomas (Pres.), Ralph Stoddard (V.P.), Patti Aspinwall (Treas.), Jill Wokf (sec.)
Class of 1968—Dick Wood (Pres.), Jeff Humber (V.P.), Claudia Demiski (Treas), Cindy Hunt (Sec.) E. T. Mellor
Panhellenic Council—Myra Banner—Bonnie Ellis, Mary Harrigan, Marie Ruwet, Edwina Kuja
Maroon Keys—Peter W. Murphy
Daily Collegian—Chet Weinerman and Jack Dean
Mass Index—John Sandhaus
Revelers—Phil Dube
General Court of Justice—Stephen Albernaz
Student Union Governing Board—Neal Whitman
Arcon, Univ. Guide Service—to be named later
Student Union Program Council — Rick Volpe
Coolidge Middle—Alice A. Mitchell
Thoreau House—Nancy Doyle
Webster House—Robert Ross ('69), 724 Webster
Van Meter South—Patricia Bourke
MacKimmie Hall—Charles A. Eaton, Jr.
John Adams Lower (T5) — Brian M. Dolan
John F. Kennedy Upper—Dave Gentry
Hills North—Roger Fuller (Pres.)
Butterfield Dorm—C. Ronald Kelcourse
George Washington Middle (6) — Ashley B. Richards
Mills House—Richard Goldberg
Greenough House—David Knowlton
Kennedy Lower—Mary Barlsham
Van Meter North—Pamela Dodley ('69)
Emerson House—Fran Procak
Brooks—Gale Palmer
Crabtree—Linda MacCutcheon
Mary Lyon House—Joan Bishop
Coolidge Lower—Phyllis Levine (Alternate Maureen Aherne)
John Quincy Adams (M) — Donna Kay Shumaker
John Quincy Adams Upper—Pat Smith
Knowlton House—John Bourbonnais
John Q. Adams Lower—Jacqueline Ayers
Crampton House—Ellen Cleary ('69)
Eugene Field—Gail Moser (Pres.)
Dwight House—Dale Cashman
Melville House—Nancy Baltakis ('69), 329 Melville
Emily Dickinson—Linda Shriber

Busses will leave from the Student Union at 3:30 p.m. and 4:00 today.

Sholem Aleichem At Hillel Brunch

Sunday morning at 11 a.m., Hillel will sponsor its second lox and bagel brunch of the semester. It will be in the Student Union Ballroom. The featured program will be dramatic readings from the renowned Yiddish writer Sholem Aleichem, who wrote in the period around the turn of the century.

The selections to be read will capture the taste of life in the small, fictional, Polish town of Kasrilevke. Hillel's program committee encourages maximum attendance to hear fellow students bring the milieu of the shtetl (the small town of Eastern European Jewry) to life again.

The Brunch is 50¢ to members, $1.10 for others. Members are reminded to bring their cards. Membership cards can be purchased for this year ($5) at the Brunch. Hillel hopes that all Jewish students will do their share in financially supporting Hillel. Holders of cards do receive discounts at all Hillel events.

Hillel's Brunch committee looks forward to seeing you at the Brunch and dramatic reading.

PRE-LAW STUDENTS

A representative of the Syracuse University School of Law will conduct individual interviews, Monday afternoon for interested seniors in the Alumni House at Amherst College. All seniors interested in interviewing should sign up in the Pre-Law Adviser's office, Whitmore Hall.

At 7:45 p.m. in the Council Chambers of the Student Union, a representative from the George Washington University School of Law will conduct a group meeting for all interested pre-law students, regardless of class standing.

NOTICES

SKI CLUB
All members and non-members who wish to pay deposit for Sugarbush or Stowe trip and pay dues, may do so at ISO. See Carolyn Davis, 8:30-1:00 P.M.
Meeting on Oct. 30, at 8 P.M. in Morrill Aud. All committee members and heads must attend.

HILLEL
Sabbath Services Friday 7 P.M. in Worcester Room; Speaker is Dr. Scheff, Speech Dept. On Sat., at 9:30 A.M. there are services in Worcester Room.
Sunday morning at 11:00 A.M. in Commonwealth Rm there is a Brunch. Dramatic readings from Sholem Aleichem.

COLONEL'S CADRE
On Fri., Oct. 27 there is meeting at Dickinson Hall at 7:30 P.M. to prepare for Halloween party at Cushman School.
Mon., Oct. 30 meet at 1 P.M. at Dickinson to go to Cushman School. Uniform. Will return for 2:30 classes.
Thurs., Nov. 2, coffee hour at 11:15 A.M. at Dickinson Hall, uniform.
Tues., Nov. 7, at 9:40 A.M. in Dickinson Hall to serve coffee for Gen. Lemmon—uniform.
At 11 A.M. review—invited to reviewing stand.
At 7:30 P.M. joint meeting with Scabbard and Blade. Col. Wiseman will show slides, coffee, uniform, at Dickinson Hall.
Any questions, call Bonnie Newingham at Dwight.

STUDENT RELIGIOUS LIBERALS
Meeting on Sun., Oct. 29 at 7 P.M. at Unitarian Society in Amherst. Topic is "Is Idealism no Longer 'In'?" All interested invited.

SPEAKER ON SUMMER RIOTS
SEA Is sponsoring a talk by Dr. Wilson on Summer Riots on Sunday, Oct. 29 at 11 A.M. in Mahar Auditorium.

ESPERANTO CLUB
Meeting Mon., Oct. 30 at 7:30 P.M. in Plymouth Room. All welcome.

MOVIES
On Tues., Oct. 31 at 8 P.M. Geo. Washington Middle is sponsoring two films: "Casablanca," and "The Last Hurrah" in Mahar Auditorium. Admission is 50c.

INDIAN ASSOCIATION
On Sat., Nov. 4 at 7:30 P.M. in Memorial Hall, the DIWALI Festival will be celebrated. Indian documentary films will be shown, Indian snacks will be served. Admission is 50c per member/guest.
Members wanting to invite guests are asked to contact one of the following numbers before Nov. 2: 253-7004, 546-9949, 584-2700 (Ext. 207), 546-6998, or 253-2733.

COMPUTER SCIENCE
Comp. Sc. 121 and 225 for second half of FALL semester begins on Thurs., Nov. 2.
Comp. Sc. 121 meets Tues., Thurs. and Sat. at 9:05 in Eng. Aud. Comp. Sc. 225 meets on Tues., Thurs. at 1:25. Check bulletin board for lab sections.

JUDSON FELLOWSHIP
On Oct. 29 at 8 P.M. in First Baptist Church Rev. Will D. Campbell will speak on "If We Should Get Serious." Well-known civil rights activist offers new perspective to movement.

ARTHUR FIEDLER CONCERT
Free undergraduate admission with ID to Yomiuri Nippon Symphony Nov. 2 at 8 P.M. in Cage.

INTERVARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP
On Fri., Oct. 27 at 7:15 P.M. in Plymouth Room, Dr. Gwyn Walters from Gordon Divinity School will speak on "Christian versus Sexuational Ethics."

UMOC
People who went to Lake George should check bulletin board.

HALLOWEEN PARTY
For faculty and graduate students' children on Mon., Oct. 30 at 6:30 P.M. in Ballroom. Games, refreshments, entertainment, and a costume parade.

PINNINGS:
Lorraine DuBois '69, Amherst, Mass., to Gary Robitaille '69, Kennedy.

ENGAGEMENT:
Irene J. Lever, Boston Mass., to Robert A. Hoffmann '68, Mills.
Carol A. Clayton '68 to William R. Roop III '67.

B'water Law Is In

BOSTON (AP)—A bill to build a new $6 million Bridgewater State Hospital was passed by the Senate Thursday.

Nearly 68 million newspapers are distributed to schools for classroom use and study during the school year.

Nearly 48,000 teachers in 17,000 U.S. and Canadian junior and senior high schools are using newspapers regularly as textbooks in their classrooms.

June Grads START A CAREER IN BANKING
BANK EXAMINER AIDES
SALARY $6,500
plus: LIBERAL FRINGE BENEFITS WHILE YOU TRAIN PROMOTION OPPORTUNITIES TO OVER $24,000
► NO EXPERIENCE NEEDED ◄
Begin your career July 1, 1968. Write immediately for application which must be filed by Nov. 3, 1967.
FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT YOUR PLACEMENT OFFICE ON CAMPUS OR FILL IN COUPON BELOW AND MAIL TO
NEW YORK STATE BANKING DEPARTMENT
PERSONNEL OFFICE, 100 CHURCH STREET, NEW YORK, N. Y., 10007
PLEASE PRINT
Name
Address

Hallowe'en Party
for faculty and grad students' children
OCTOBER 30 at 6:30 P.M.
S.U. BALLROOM
Games—refreshments—entertainment costume—parade

After very successful concert tour with the McCoys at Lake George
THE LAST RITES
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1967
8-12 P.M. — Ballroom
Admission 50c

Alfred Hitchcock's
"MARNIE"
Friday, Oct. 27
Mahar Auditorium
7 and 9 P.M.
50¢
Sponsored by Jr-Panhellenic Council

Footrick Has Hopes

Harriers Aim for Upset at Holy Cross

By JOEL FOX
Staff Reporter

"The only way we can beat Holy Cross is for our third, fourth, and fifth runners to break up their combination of third, fourth, and fifth runners."

This is the strategy that cross-country coach Bill Footrick hopes will work for the Redmen when they take on highly touted Holy Cross tomorrow in Worcester.

The coach figures that Holy Cross has a fair shot at the New England title this year, but he hopes that the Crusaders' lack of solid depth and a superb effort by the Redmen will be the ingredients of an upset.

Footrick has plenty of respect for sophomore Crusaders Art Dulong and Art Martin. "Dulong is probably unbeatable," he said. "And if Martin takes a second we can still take the meet if our third through fifth men come through for us."

The coach thinks that Redmen Charlie Lang and Paul Hoss have an excellent chance of beating Martin, taking some pressure off the other UMass runners.

Thus far the young Holy Cross team has lost only to Springfield. UM will be coming off a loss to Springfield when they face HC. The Redmen and Crusaders lost to Springfield by nearly the same score.

While the varsity attempts to even its record at 3-3, the freshmen harriers, led by Leo Duart and Ron Wayne, go after their fourth win against the HC frosh.

Conference Statistics

Leading Scorers

Player	TD	EP	FG	PTS
Landry, Mass	6	0	0	36
Mitchell, Vt	5	0	0	30
Petrillo, Conn	5	0	0	30
Bjerke, RI	3	6	1	27
Geiselman, RI	4	0	0	24
Kaufman, RI	4	0	0	24
Vollherbst, NH	0	11	4	23

Rushing Offense

Player	Atts	Yds	Avg
Landry, Mass	79	487	6.1
Mitchell, Vt	137	471	3.4
Petrillo, Conn	65	246	3.7
Bjerke, RI	55	235	4.2
Couturier, NH	54	222	4.1
Phillips, NH	48	220	4.6
Tutino, Mass	35	144	4.1
Yousuh, Me	41	128	3.1

Passing Offense

Player	Att	Comp	Int	Pct	Yds	TD
Petrillo, Conn	53	27	4	.509	315	1
Simpson, Vt	69	35	3	.507	336	0
Walsh, NH	63	32	3	.507	392	2
Landry, Mass	58	28	3	.483	371	1
Caswell, RI	140	63	1	.450	816	6
Wing, Me	98	44	5	.448	463	1

Leading Pass Receivers

Player	No.	Yds	Avg	TD
Benner, Me	33	442	13.4	1
Walker, RI	21	210	10.0	0
Kaiderling, Vt	20	276	13.8	2
Geiselman, RI	19	391	20.5	3
Crisp, Conn	19	232	12.2	0
Kuhman, Vt	18	138	7.6	1
Bartlett, NH	11	130	11.8	0
Warnock, Mass	10	132	13.2	1

Kicking Specialists

Player	PAT'S	FG'S	PTS
Vollherbst, NH	11(12)	4(5)	23
Sherman, Mass	13(14)	2(4)	19
Bjerke, RI	6(10)	1(1)	9
Lawrence, Conn	6(7)	1(4)	9
Scribner, Me	4(4)	0(0)	4

Leading Punters

Player	No.	Ave	Lg
Warnock, Mass	19	39.3	52
Phillips, NH	18	39.2	65
Spinney, RI	37	38.4	60
Mugford, Conn	13	36.3	49
Morris, Me	37	36.2	58
Daigneault, Vt	35	36.2	49

Punt Return Leaders

Player	No.	Yds	Ave	Lg
Estey, NH	7	194	27.7	70
Parnell, Mass	11	140	12.7	40
Krot, Conn	5	48	9.6	17
Mazanec, Vt	7	65	9.2	17
Harney, Me	8	56	7.0	18

Kickoff Return Leaders

Player	No.	Yds	Ave	Lg
Mazanec, Vt	3	1:0	47.3	98
Parnell, Mass	9	240	26.6	57
Harney, Me	11	221	20.1	24
Di Yeso, Conn	6	88	14.6	18
Estey, NH	2	24	12.0	19
Frye, Mass	3	46	15.3	20

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

UMass' frosh football team will be seeking their first victory in third outing of the year when they take on the Rhode Island frosh at Alumni Stadium today at 2:30 p.m.

There undoubtedly will be a few changes in the line-up but not many as the frosh have looked well against some of the toughest freshman competition in the East.

Two weeks ago they lost another tight one to the Poston University frosh, 14-7. In both games the UMass defense looked impressive while the offense faltered against BU.

With no game last week, the team will be well rested for URI in the Little Redmen's first outing against a Yankee Conference team.

Sports Hotline 545-0344

"They'll Be Ready for Us"--Fusia

(Continued from page 8)

of total offense.

"They'll be ready for us," said Fusia. "We can't afford to make as many mistakes against them as we made in the first half against Rhode Island."

Bits and Pieces—Fusia said there would be no line-up changes...UM's defensive secondary has taken a lot of criticism for mishandling Frank Geiselman, Henry Walker and Mark McGroary, but the defensive line certainly didn't have one of its better games either. URI quarterback Larry Caswell spent more time in the pocket than the Catman does in the Hatch. And the Webster float could have followed Bill Bjerke through the hole in the UM line on his 16-yd. TD in the first quarter.

The URI offense was probably the most imaginative ever seen at Alumni Stadium. On one play stellar end Geiselman took the ball on a double reverse and was looking down field for a receiver. Incidentally, why wasn't Caswell even nominated for the weekly Yankee Conference honors?

Attendance at last Saturday's game was only 16,100, far below last year's record Homecoming crowd of 18,700 for the BU game. Ticket manager Wally Novak said there are now almost 2,000 season ticket holders.

Varsity "M" Club award winners last week were Bruce Cochrane on offense and Kent Stevens on defense...Bob Santucci's play in the Rhody game was hampered by a fever. He had lost 18 lbs. in two weeks..."We still haven't put 60 minutes together," said Fusia.

* * *

Basketball coach Jack Leaman does much more these days than just run the team through drills. Tomorrow he'll be one of the featured speakers at the Garden State All-star Basketball Coaches Clinic, Saddle Brook, N.J. His topic—Man-to-Man Offensive Attack...Cross-country coach Bill Footrick, who retires this year, received an award from Edward Steitz, director of athletics at Springfield Coll., Tuesday after a meet. The trophy symbolized Footrick's stature among the New England coaching fraternity.

TUG-O-WAR RUNNERUP—Members of the Chadbourne Maroons tug-o-war team, which finished second to TKE in the recent campus tournament, are (first row, from left) Labbe, Arsenault, Correia, Schubach, Nault; (second row) Kuniewich, Cunningham, Gonnella, Costa and Mullane.

Crew Squad Journeys To Boston for Regatta

Sunday will be a big day for Coach Dave Clarke and his oarsmen as the UMass crew team travels to Boston for the Third Annual Head-of-the-Charles Regatta.

The regatta, over a three-mile course on the Charles River, is patterned after the world-famous "Head-of-the-River" races in England. In the East, crew coaches look upon it as a goal for their fall training programs.

Last year, over 400 oarsmen from 35 colleges and rowing clubs competed in the races. Crews from Harvard, Northeastern and M.I.T., as well as the world famous Vesper Boat Club of Philadelphia, battled for places in 12 divisions ranging from novice single sculls to senior eight-oared shells.

This year, the regatta will start at 12 noon and is expected to last four hours.

UMass will be entered in four of the 12 events. The varsity crew will row in the senior eight-oared division and the junior varsity crew in the junior eight-oared race.

Freshmen coach Mike Faherty will represent UMass in the junior lightweight single sculls race. Last summer, Faherty rowed for the Riverside Boat Club in Boston and is now an accomplished sculler.

Rounding out the field for UMass will be Howie Chapin, who will row in the novice single sculls race. Chapin is a relative newcomer to sculling, but has made surprising progress and should provide stiff competition for the rest of the field.

The Head-of-the-Charles will finish off Coach Clarke's fall crew program. After this race, the crewmen will head indoors to the basement of Memorial Hall where they will begin an extensive weight-training program.

All oarsmen are requested to attend a meeting in the crew room, Memorial Hall, Monday at 4:30 p.m. Other students interested in rowing are also invited to attend.

S.E.N.D.O.F.F.

Happy Hour Entertainment

Debby Palais

Q-Club

AMHERST Cinema

NOW SHOWING
On Screen
6:40 - 9:00

Sat. And Sun.
2:00-4:30-6:45-9:05

COLUMBIA PICTURES PRESENTS
ELIZABETH TAYLOR
"BEST ACTRESS" (for "Virginia Woolf")
RICHARD BURTON
IN THE FRANCO ZEFFIRELLI PRODUCTION OF
THE TAMING OF THE SHREW
PANAVISION / A NOVA FILMS INTERNATIONAL / EAI PRODUCTION

NEXT WED.: "Bonnie and Clyde"

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

PEAG TOPS ESS
ARAR IRON NEE PARENT TO LET AILS BLISS
ABUTMENT IS RISER EOS TED
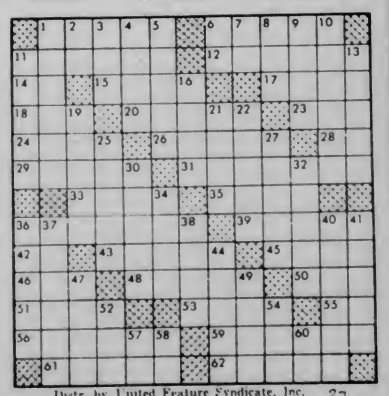
EL RODENTS RE
SLY DOR ATONE
ER CENTERED
SNAIL DOUR
OER EA REIGNS
RAN AIDS LADS
ERS SLOE ESNE



27

ACROSS

1 Pointed arch
6 Animal
11 Rasped
12 Giant slain by Athena
14 Chinese mile
15 Walk
17 Harbor
18 Snake
20 Leaves out
23 Slender finial
24 Center
26 Place in line
28 Preposition
29 Growing out of 31 Renting
33 Story
35 Transgressed
36 Suavity
39 River of forgetfulness
42 French article
43 Essence of roses
45 Weak food
46 Unusual
48 Eel fisherman
50 Man's name
51 Metal fastener
53 Lamb's pen name
55 Suffix: pertaining to
56 Girl's name
59 Has a constant desire
61 Rain and hail
62 Prepare and serve food

DOWN

1 Prayer
2 A state (abbr.)
3 Possessive pronoun
4 Reject
5 Dropsy
6 Bishop (abbr.)
7 Babylonian deity
8 High mountain
9 Plumlike fruit
10 Game fish
11 Frosting
13 Sharp pain
16 Pellet
19 Talk idly
21 Cravats
22 Gastropod mollusk
25 Babylonian hero
27 Slaves
30 Choice part
32 Fiber plant
34 Suffix: diminutive
36 By oneself
37 Commemorative disks
38 New England university
40 More hallowed
41 Heroic events
44 Memento
47 Face of watch
49 Girl's name
52 Falsehood
54 Perform
57 Compass point
58 Latin conjunction
60 Pronoun

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

27

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
Sports
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1967
Page 8 Vol. XCVI, No. 35

'CALL OF THE WILD'?

Improved Defense Needed vs. BU

By JOHN GEDSUDSKI
Staff Reporter

Jack London should have been required reading for Vic Fusia and his staff this week. They're probably wondering how dangerous some animals become when wounded.

The animals in question are the Boston University Terriers, who lost their 4th straight game last Saturday. UMass seeks its 3rd straight victory when it meets B.U. at Nickerson Field tomorrow at 1:30 p.m.

B.U. won its first game over Bucknell, 20-16, on a juggling 54-yds. TD catch by Reggie Rucker, prompting one fan to shout, "We are Number 1. 8 more to go."

A B.U. victory over Colgate a week later reinforced the widespread notion that the Terriers were indeed New England's finest. And of course the Boston press led the cheers.

Then came four straight losses. Temple, 22-16, Harvard, 29-14, Buffalo, 6-0, and Holy Cross, 21-17, all took turns muzzling the Terriers.

Thus the boys from Beantown will be risking a losing season when they face the Redmen. B.U has other sources of incentive. It will be Homecoming on Commonwealth Ave. And the Terriers have lost four straight to UM, and Warren Schmakel has beaten his other opponents at least once in his three years as B.U. coach.

The Terriers have a veteran defensive unit with 10 of last year's starters back. Their front five is one of New England's best and safety Dick Farley has already intercepted six passes.

Offensively B.U. has veterans throughout the line-up, but costly fumbles have continually put pressure on the defense.

Junior Dan Lucca is expected to start tomorrow in place of erratic Tom Thornton, the regular quarterback. Thornton has completed 35 of 80 passes this year.

Outstanding tailback Pete Dexter was injured in the Holy Cross game but replacement Bob Calascibetta, a 5'9-175 lb. soph, came through with 140 yds. in 34 carries against the Crusaders.

BOB SANTUCCI
Bout with fever.

Wingback Neil Smith has developed into the Terriers' clutch performer and has caught 16 passes in the past three games for an average of 18.4 yds. Not to be overlooked is speedster Reggie Rucker, who is an ever-dangerous threat as a receiver and kick returner.

Meanwhile, Fusia's Redmen know they must correct the mistakes that put them in a 2-TD hole against URI last week. UM won that game, 28 - 24, only through the last minute heroics of Greg Landry.

The status of tailback Tim Driscoll and fullback Ed Sarno, both injured two weeks ago, is still doubtful. Junior John Tutino turned in a fine performance in Driscoll's place and will start at B.U.

Another top game is expected from Landry if the Redmen are to win their third straight game since losing to Dartmouth. Landry, averaging 215 yds. of total offense per game, has already broken the all-time New England total offense career mark of 3,564 yds. set by B.C.'s Jack Concannon.

The senior has 3,902 yds. and could become New England's first player ever to exceed 4,000 yds.

(Continued on page 7)

PROBABLE STARTING LINE-UPS

OFFENSE

UMASS				BOSTON U.
83 Warmack	Jr 6'2	193	SE	81 Stipanovich	Jr 6'3	195
71 Cooney	So 6'0	226	LT	70 DeLucca	Jr 6'3	220
63 Glogowski	Sr 5'10	185	LG	62 Doriss	So 6'2	220
51 Schablik	Jr 6'1	205	C	51 Butterfield	Sr 6'0	205
60 Santucci	Sr 6'0	205	RT	66 Marcus	Jr 6'0	205
74 Mitchell	Sr 6'1	219	RG	74 McWeeney	Sr 6'1	220
82 Carty	Sr 6'4	228	RE	86 Cambest	So 6'1	190
11 Landry	Sr 6'3	200	QB	17 Lucca	Jr 5'10	177
22 Grasso	So 6'0	180	WB	26 Smith	Sr 6'0	190
45 Tutino	Jr 5'9	176	TB	32 Calascibetta	So 5'9	179
30 Cochrane	Jr 6'0	202	FB	31 Rafalko	So 6'1	205

DEFENSE

84 York	So 6'1	202	LE	84 Gallagher	Sr 6'3	220
72 Scheralis	So 6'4	230	LT	72 Norton	Sr 6'2	240
53 Gombar	Sr 6'0	198	MG	50 Stawitzky	Sr 6'1	210
66 Stevens	Sr 6'0	210	RT	78 Whitty	Sr 6'2	218
89 Mlinar	Sr 6'0	233	RE	89 Tibaldi	Sr 6'0	200
64 Gray	So 6'1	181	LLB	65 Wittorff	Jr 6'0	215
65 Smith	Sr 5'10	190	RLB	63 Campbell	Jr 6'0	215
34 Campbell	Sr 5'10	180	Chief LCB	11 Donabedian	Jr 6'1	196
24 Frye	Jr 5'9	185	LCB RCB	24 McNeilly	Jr 6'1	195
25 McArdle	Jr 6'0	185	RCB LS	37 Barry	So 5'11	175
40 Rogers	So 6'2	192	S RS	42 Farley	Sr 6'0	187

Lack of Interest Shown In UM-BU Ducat Sales

By STEVE ROSS
Staff Reporter

According to ticket manager Wally Novak, "There is a lack of student interest" in this week's encounter at B.U. As of Thursday noon, only 300 of 1,400 tickets had been sold, and sales were not picking up.

Novak is baffled by the lack of interest. "We had such a great game with URI that you'd think interest would be greater. Maybe everyone is in financial difficulty and can't afford the $4.00 for a good seat," he shrugged.

Two years ago, when Greg Landry led a magnificent 34-18 comeback, the UMass side was packed. Considering that Nickerson Field is only ten rows high on the visiting side, it shouldn't be too difficult to fill it even at this late date.

Nickerson Field (capacity 16,000), formerly B.U. Field (capacity 24,000), formerly Braves Field (Capacity 38,000), is the humble abode of the Terriers. Along with Fitton Field, B.U. could be the worst place to watch a football game. The place hasn't been the same since Eddie Matthews left in 1952.

B.U. has used Braves Field for quite some time. They shared the field along with B.C. in the 40's and early 50's while hustling some of the nation's best teams and more than held their own. Harry Agganis starred for the Terriers in the early 50's, and B.U. has never been top notch since.

Braves Field was remodeled in 1960 for the Patriots. Magically the place became B.U. Field. It housed the Pats for three years until they picked up and moved half a mile away to Yawkey's Ball park.

After that move, B.U. took out the visiting side stands and replaced them with soccer bleachers. That's how it has been since 1963, and the Redmen will try to win their third in a row there tomorrow.

Dial the MDC's
Hot Sportline
5-0344

METAWAMPE'S GRID PICKS

Marching through the South last week with a 10-1 record, Metawampe enjoyed another fruitful Saturday as he compiled a 48-14-1 record overall. The Daily Collegian's answer to Ogden Nash humbly makes another offering.

UMASS 17, BOSTON U. 14 — B.U.'s offense fails to click, as Redmen win on Sherman's kick.

DARTMOUTH 20, HARVARD 15—In spite of Harvard's home field sod, Blackman's boys will rate the nod.

AUBURN 33, MIAMI 21—Auburn has a team at last; Miami's going nowhere fast.

MISSISSIPPI 17, HOUSTON 14—Cougars wish they had forgotten their tragic trip to Land of Cotton.

NORTH CAROLINA ST. 10, DUKE 6—Devils zig and Devils zag, but Wolfpack has it in the bag.

TENNESSEE 24, LOUISIANA ST. 13—Now that Vols have drowned the Tide, No league foe will wound their pride.

NOTRE DAME 29, MICHIGAN ST. 9—Curfewed Spartans sadly sigh, "Ara isn't out to tie!"

WYOMING 25, ARIZONA ST. 12—Wyoming undefeated is; Sun Devils get their chance but fizz.

COLORADO 21, OKLAHOMA ST. 0—Cowboys try to lasso Buff, but find the herd a mite too tough.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA 40, OREGON 7—Trojans' speedy backfield plucks the feathers right off helpless Ducks.

Virginia 20, VMI 12
West Virginia 10, VPI 9
Miami (O.) 21, Bowling Green 7
N. Texas 34, Cincinnati 10
Dayton 35, Ohio U. 14
Purdue 39, Iowa 14
Kansas 27, Iowa State 7
Louisville 30, Wichita 6
Minnesota 24, Michigan 3
Missouri 13, Oklahoma 7
Ohio State 21, Illinois 16
Tulsa 40, So. Illinois 14
Toledo 13, Kent State 9
West Michigan 24, Marshall 6
Northwestern 32, Wisconsin 20
Xavier 14, Villanova 3
Arkansas 31, Kansas State 14 (N)
Texas Tech 10, SMU 9 (N)
Texas 7, Rice 0 (N)
Texas A&M 13, Baylor 0
Nebraska 21, TCU 7
Colo. State 20, Air Force 0
Indiana 27, Arizona 21
Brigham Young 40, Utah 28
Washington 13, California 0
Oregon State 30, Washington State 14
El Paso 41, New Mexico 12.
Boston College 41, Maine 7
Colgate 22, Brown 12
Connecticut 16, Davidson 13
Holy Cross 21, Buffalo 20
Cornell 35, Yale 12
New Hampshire 24, Northeastern 17
Rhode Island 32, Bucknell 28
Vermont 14, Norwich 0
Army 7, Stanford 0
Rutgers 14, Columbia 0
Navy 27, Pitta 15
Princeton 29, Penn 13
Penn State 21, Syracuse 13
Delaware 19, Temple 17
Alabama 14, Clemson 12
East Carolina 21, The Citadel 3
Fla. State 23, Miss State 6 (N)
Florida 26, Vanderbilt 16
Georgia 33, Kentucky 7
Mem. State 14, So. Miss. 10 (N)
North Carolina 7, Wake Forest 8
So. Carolina 17, Maryland 0 (N)

Intramurals

Chem Club Cops Crown

By DON LARIVEE
Staff Reporter

Highlighting last night's intramurals, the Chem Club counted out the Roman Numerals, 25-19, in a playoff for the championship of the Grad-Faculty League.

Bob Risacher of the Chem Club completed seven passes out of 14, for one touchdown.

In the East League the Birch barked against the Barracudas, 26-6. Rich Golbberg had 2 touchdown passes, completing 12 of 19.

* * *

Rosters for the upcoming basketball competition close Nov. 6 with play to begin Nov. 13. Courts will be available Monday for practice, but teams must make reservations at the intramurals office.

Trophies will be awarded this year to the campus, fraternity, dorm and independent champs, with individual awards to be presented to the campus high scorer and rebounder. Awards will also be given to members of the all-star teams, to be picked immediately after the season.

Foes, Too, Face Rugged Games

Despite the fact that there are no Yankee Conference games this week, all Redmen foes will be in action Saturday.

In what could be the decisive Ivy League game, two unbeatens, Dartmouth and Harvard, will tangle at Cambridge.

Rutgers, which put up quite a battle before bowing to Army, 14-3, last week, will be favored when it meets Columbia.

The Eagles of B.C. will try to get back into the win column when they host Maine at the Heights. B.C. has dropped the last three games while the Black Bears have yet to win.

Small college powerhouse Northeastern will do battle with a scrappy bunch of UNH Wildcats at Durham. Husky fullback Bill Curran has been getting rave notices all year and this will be his first test against a major foe.

URI will have to pull itself together after last week's heartbreaking loss to the Redmen if they plan to beat Bucknell.

Finally UVM gets a chance at its second win when it entertains rival Norwich at Burlington. Bob Mitchell is back at 100% so it should be a long day for the Cadets.

Soccer Squad Opposes Tufts

Seeking to get back on the winning trail, the UMass soccer team will play Tufts tomorrow at Varsity Field starting at 10:30 a.m.

The Redmen will be trying to bounce back from a tough 3-2 loss to Worcester Polytech on Wednesday. The team is also looking for its first non-Yankee Conference win of the season.

Soccer Coach Briggs expects a rugged game from the Jumbos, probably being decided by one goal. Briggs says, "that Tufts has its best team in ten years."

The Jumbos have gotten off to 4-3 start so far this season.

Tufts have a high powered offense scoring 29 goals in their seven games this season. The offense is paced by Bob Foster and Tom Barnes, both high on the list of scorers in the New England Soccer League.

Briggs expects few lineup changes for the game. Goalie Steve Kramer is expected to start despite a slight leg injury. Gary Gibbons and Wilkie Ward will share the outside right post while Paul Johnson is expected to see more action after his fine performance in the W.P.I. game.

The Freshman Soccer team will travel to Springfield for a 3 p.m. match today.

Redmen on the Warpath

FOOTBALL—vs. Boston U. (at Boston, tomorrow, 1:30 p.m.)
FOOTBALL (Fr.)—vs. Rhode Island (at home, today, 2 p.m.)
SOCCER—vs. Tufts (at home, tomorrow, 11 a.m.)
SOCCER (Fr.)—vs. Springfield (at Springfield, today, 3 p.m.)
CROSS-COUNTRY — vs. Holy Cross (at Worcester, tomorrow, 11 a.m.)
CROSS-COUNTRY (Fr.) — vs. Holy Cross (at Worcester, tomorrow, 11 a.m.)

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

New England's Largest College Daily

VOL. XCVI, NO. 36 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | MONDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1967

Daily Collegian Photo by John Kelly, III

TO BOSTON WITH LOVE(LL) . . . Sophomore Greg Lovell carries for a good gain in Saturday's game with Boston University which the Redmen won, 24-0.

Landry Stars

UMass Blanks BU, 24-0

By MIKE CURRAN
Staff Reporter

What was supposed to be the Redmen's toughest game turned out to be their easiest victory as they topped Boston University, 24-0, before an estimated 10,000 fans at Nicherson Field Saturday.

The win, UMass's fourth this season against one loss, featured the passing of Greg Landry and a spirited defense which kept the Terrier offense off-balance all day.

Two Redmen sophomores from greater Boston area, Craig Lovell and Gerry Grasso made most of the B.U. Homecoming festivities. Lovell, seeing his first action since Maine game, gained 73 yards on 17 carries while Grasso turned two passes into touchdowns.

UMass' first score came after Ernie Smith intercepted a Terrier toss at the Redmen 41 yard line. Thirteen plays later Bruce Cochrane burst into the end zone from two yards out. Landry's third down aerials to Nick Warnock and Cochrane were the big plays on this drive.

Early in the second period two more outstanding defensive plays set up the UMass scoring machine. Paul Campbell blocked a B.U. punt. Then after a Redman fumble, Mike McArdle made a leaping interception of a Dan Lucca pass to give UMass the ball on the Terrier 42. On first down Landry went for the bomb, but his pass was just a little behind Warnock and the junior end was tackled after making the reception at the four. There the visitor's offense stalled, however, and they were forced to settle for a 21 yard Ed Sherman field goal.

Later in this penalty-filled quarter, (13 infractions were detected in all,) the Redmen got their second TD. A third down B.U. punt put Landry and Co. in business at the Terrier 45. From there an excellent mixture of running and passing brought UMass in.

The six-point play itself was a beauty. Grasso took a Landry toss at the seven-yard line, then broke two tackles on his way to score.

Sherman's automatic conversion toe made it Visitors 17, Home 0 when time ran out in the half.

In the scoreless third period, Boston University finally got a serious drive underway. On fourth and one at the UMass 18,

(Continued on page 8)

Governor Volpe Speaks

Teen-agers Rally in Support of War

WAKEFIELD, Mass. (AP) — An estimated 25,000 persons, most of them teen-agers, gathered on the town common Sunday for a boisterous, and sometimes unruly, rally supporting American men fighting in Vietnam.

Police Chief J. Merritt Wenzel, who made the crowd estimate, said police arrested one man for disturbing the peace and broke up a fight between a group of teenagers and three young anti-Vietnam demonstrators.

Several fights were broken up after the hour and 15-min. rally.

The trio—2 men and a girl—were given a police escort from the common.

Paul P. Christopher, 19, a Wakefield H. S. senior, organized the demonstration two weeks ago after he became "burned up" about anti-Vietnam demonstrations.

He sent fliers to high schools in the state asking students to come to a patriotic rally "so big, so loud and so successful that it will be heard by everyone of our GI's in Vietnam."

Paul called the hour and 15-minute demonstration a "complete success" despite the incidents.

Paul said he saw some "bearded, long-haired kooks" in the crowd waving flags and shouting patriotic slogans with others. He said he thought they were "sincere."

(Staff Photo by Louis Wolfson)

PAUL CHRISTOPHER

About 10 "Hell's Angels" motorcyclists led cheers for the public officials who spoke to the crowd from a bandstand on the common. Some of the cyclists lighted firecrackers during the speeches.

One of the speakers, Gov. John A. Volpe, said patriotism may be considered old fashioned by some, "but it should never be considered out of fashion."

A number of veterans' groups attended.

Vietnam Ballot Starts Monday For Undergrads

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian will conduct a Vietnam Ballot next week which will be open to all undergrads.

The Ballot will ask the question, "What should we do in Vietnam now?" and will offer four possible answers plus an open-end answer.

The answers range from the extreme dove to extreme hawk positions and include the positions of continuing what the government is presently doing and also the position of stopping the bombing and offering to negotiate.

The Ballot will be held in the Student Union lobby Mon., Nov. 6 and Tue., Nov. 7 from 9 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Students will be required to show their i.d. before voting.

Mid Semester Grades

The mid-semester grade period ended on Sat., Oct 28, 1967. First semester freshmen and first semester transfer students will be graded in their courses. The mid-semester grade reports will be available from advisers on Tue., Nov. 7th and during the remainder of the week.

IF YOU BELIEVE THIS CAMPUS COULD USE A GOOD HUMOR MAGAZINE. HELP US RESSURECT YAHOO.
MEETING THIS THURSDAY, 7:30, MIDDLESEX FOR ALL PEOPLE INTERESTED IN JOINING THE YAHOO STAFF.
There is work to be done.

Valley Center to Coordinate Peace Group Efforts to End War

By GEORGE CERULO
Staff Reporter

War dissidents have established a new peace center in Amherst.

The Valley Peace Center which had its opening reception Oct. 15 in the Grace Episcopal Church parish house hopes to coordinate the efforts of area peace groups working for the end of war.

The center's Executive Committee includes Dr. John C. Weston, Jr., and Dr. Ronald Rubel, both UMass English professors, and Dr. Dean A. Allen, UMass health services clinical psychologist.

The center will function regularly in the Amherst-Northampton area to serve as a focus of interest and action in the cause of peace. Among the more important functions of the center are providing a readily available draft-counseling service, a place for discussion and a channel for volunteer labor in behalf of peace organizations and the public at large. On occasion it will sponsor lectures and forums and solicit support for political candidates the center favors.

The center will soon open a permanent office in Amherst. Dr. Allen told the Collegian that a site may be selected this week.

The center has hired two part-time staff members to help supervise the volunteer help, who do the bulk of the work. Since expenditures will be kept at a minimum, the day to day functions of the center will be done by volunteers.

One of the center's first services to this area was helping students arrange for busses to Washington for the peace demonstration.

Other activities are being planned for the growing membership. So far, about 100 have paid the $6 membership fee.

Secretary of State Rusk to Speak At Mount Holyoke College Next Week

The Honorable Dean Rusk, Secretary of State, will be the Flora Belle Ludington lecturer at Mt. Holyoke College November 8 at 8 p.m.

Rusk will arrive at Westover A.F.B., Chicopee, around 5 p.m. the evening of the lecture and will be escorted to the College by Mr. Holyoke Pres. Richard Glenn Gettell.

Rusk began his career as an Assoc. Prof. of government and dean of faculty at Mills Coll. He has been the assistant chief of the Division of International Security Affairs of the Dept. of State, special assistant to the Sec. of War, director of the Office of U.N. Affairs of the Dept. of State, Asst. Sec. of State, Deputy Under Sec. of State, Asst. Sec. of State for Far Eastern Affairs and Pres. of the Rockefeller Foundation.

He is a grad of Davidson Coll. and was a Rhodes Scholar at St. John's, Oxford. He has received LL.D. degrees from Mills Coll., Davidson Coll., Univ. of California, Princeton U., Emory U., Louisiana State U., Amherst Coll., Columbia U., Harvard U., Rhode Island U., Valparaiso U., Williams Coll., George Washington U., Oberlin Coll.; a D.C.L. from Oxford Univ.; and L.H.D. degrees from Westminster Coll. and Hebrew Union College.

He served with the U.S. Army from 1940-46 and has received the Cecil Peace Prize, the Legion of Merit and Oak Leaf Cluster. He is a member of the American Society of International Law, Phi Beta Kappa, and the Century Club of New York.

Members of the Mt. Holyoke Coll. community will be admitted to Mr. Rusk's lecture by I.D. card only. Doors will not be opened to the public until 7:45 p.m. and they will then be admitted only if there are still seats available.

B52 BOMBER SHOT DOWN

SAIGON (AP)—About 1,000 Viet Cong attacked U.S. and South Vietnamese positions 70 miles north of Saigon Sunday but were repulsed with losses of 10 percent after breaking into the defense perimeter.

The fighting raged for nearly 14 hours at the rubber plantation town of Loc Ninh near the Cambodian border. A U.S. spokesman said 107 enemy soldiers and 2 American soldiers were killed. Ten U.S. soldiers were wounded. South Vietnamese casualties were 14 killed, 2 of them civilians, and 37 wounded.

Without confirmation in Saigon, Hanoi radio asserted that a B52 strategic bomber was shot down in a raid just north of the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam Sunday. The broadcast said the giant bomber

(Continued on page 5)

DR. FRANK L. BOYDEN, left, chairman of the University of Massachusetts Board of Trustees, welcomes George Kumtumanji, right, minister of natural resources of the central African nation is Arless A. Spielman, dean of the UMass College of Agriculture. The minister, during a 14-day U.S. tour, spent three days at the University conferring with University agricultural and administrative officials and visiting with Malawi students at UMass. The University has a six-man team in Malawi under a U.S. Agency for International Development contract helping develop the new nation's agricultural extension and education system. Students from Malawi and other African nations study at the Amherst campus under International Training Program of the UMass College of Agriculture.

Polymer Scientist Begins Study Of Properties of Cholesterols

A UMass polymer scientist has begun a study of the basic properties of cholesterols that may add new knowledge about arterial deposits that lead to heart disease.

Dr. Roger S. Porter of the UMass Polymer Research Institute, who also heads the University polymer science and engineering program, will make the three-year study under a $60,000 grant from the National Institute of Health.

The UMass Polymer Research Institute has developed highly sophisticated techniques for studying the basic structure and properties of polymers and will apply some of these techniques in the cholesterol research project.

Dr. Porter's research will focus on a characteristic that cholesterol substances share with many polymers: liquid crystal behavior. This means that the substance can be liquid in mobility but have molecules arranged in structured order similar to a solid. Such substances are in effect in an intermediate state between a liquid and a solid.

The study will attempt to define temperature ranges that affect this liquid-crystal state and probe the heat and volume changes involved in liquid-crystal transitions. Dr. Porter will work with cholesterol derivatives representing human blood stream environments.

"What we hope to find out essentially is under what condition these substances remain combined in the bloodstream and under what conditions they deposit themselves as solids," Dr. Porter said.

The results are expected to be useful in the planning of experimental diet programs and in all studies of the cholesterol deposits that are a major cause of heart disease.

The liquid crystal forms to be studied are also expected to be of value as low molecular weight models for the developing new research area of liquid crystals formed by high polymers.

GOT A GRIPE ABOUT THE FOOD?

GOT A GRIPE ABOUT THE LINE?

EACH COMMONS HAS A STUDENT SENATE COMPLAINT AND SUGGESTION BOX.

USE IT.

New Members Initiated In Alpha Lambda Delta

The UMass chapter of Alpha Lambda Delta initiated thirteen new members in ceremonies held yesterday in the Council Chambers of the Student Union. Alpha Lambda Delta is a national honor society for freshmen women.

The sole eligibility requirement is a 3.5 cumulative average for the first semester or for the first two semesters of the freshman year. Those members initiated yesterday on the basis of their 1966-67 cumes were: Barbara C. Anderson, Mary Ann Bozek, Elaine J. Canter, Joyce M. Crooker, Linda Daignault, Sharon Day, Martha Geissler, Barbara J. Gross, Carole A. Hoefner, Anne L. Johnson, Victoria I. Kucyn, Marie L. Landry and June Scull.

The ceremonies were conducted by President Linda Gibbs and advisers Dean Helen Curtis and Miss Leonta Horrigan. Following the initiation was a reception in the Colonial Lounge for new members, their parents and invited guests. The guests included Dean of Students William Field, Mrs. Oswald Tippo, wife of the Provost, and Mrs. John W. Lederle, wife of the President, poured the tea.

Counseling Center Evaluated Student Body in Mass Studies

By PAULA SWENSON
Staff Reporter

"Students are too modest when they evaluate themselves," said J. Alfred Southworth, director of the UMass Counseling Center, in a Collegian interview.

The Counseling Center, housed in the Whitmore Building has been conducting mass studies of the non-intellective factors of the student body. In addition to its function as counselor for the academic and emotional problems of the individual student, the Counseling Center has a new role in researching and understanding the student body as a whole.

The studies give administrators a sense of how students feel about themselves as persons and scholars, as compared to students across the country, said Southworth. One study indicates that UMass students are too modest when evaluating themselves, he stated.

A poll was conducted last spring to gauge how students felt about the changes in Residence Hall policy. The results of this poll have been extremely useful in setting up Residence Hall policy for this year, Southworth said.

Amherst College Professor Receives Award for Distinguished Teaching

Benjamin H. DeMott, professor and chairman of the department of English at Amherst College, is one of ten outstanding faculty members from colleges and universities across the country to receive the Danforth Foundation's 1968 E. Harris Harbison Award for Distinguished Teaching.

The Harbison Award presentation was made Wednesday evening at a dinner in honor of the recipients in Washington, D.C. The award seeks to honor teacher-scholars who excel in the art of teaching in the significance of their scholarly contribution, and in their concern for students as individuals, the Danforth Foundation said in announcing the selections.

Each recipient has the option of selecting either a $10,000 cash grant or a period of freedom from his usual academic responsibilities for one semester, to be used as he deems most helpful to his teaching and scholarship. The awards have been given annually since 1963.

Professor DeMott teaches courses at Amherst in 19th and 20th century continental fiction, in tragedy and comedy. His book, You Don't Say, A Study of Modern American Inhibitions, was published last year. He is also the author of Hells and Benefits, A Report on American Minds, Matters, and Possibilities (1962), and a 1959 novel, The Body's Cage, as well as frequent essays, stories, articles, and reviews in learned and popular periodicals.

A member of the Amherst faculty since 1951, he holds a B.A. degree from George Washington University and an M.A. and Ph.D. from Harvard. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and a former Guggenheim Fellow.

Phi Sigma Seeks New Members; Brotherhood Has Not Disbanded

Since the Fall of 1966 Phi Sigma Kappa's chapter house has been occupied by a sorority. Contrary to popular belief, Phi Sig did not lose its charter nor did it disband. The brotherhood moved out due to financial instability and a lack of active members.

Since that time, however, Phi Sig has been striving toward the ideal on which it was founded in 1873 here at UMass and on which it has developed into a growing national fraternity with over 85 active chapters. Using these principles as a guide the brotherhood has more than doubled its membership and has found new strength within itself—apathy no longer exists.

At present Phi Sig is holding its rush functions at the "Grad House" 382 North Pleasant Street. With a unified and strenghtened brotherhood the white-pillared house at 510 North Pleasant St. will again be occupied by Phi Sigma Kappa.

The Four College Student Co-ordinating Committee is holding a bus picnic Thursday, Nov. 2, on the Four College Evening Bus.

Sandwiches and beverage will be supplied free by Smith College to all who board the bus. It will arrive at the Student Union at 7:10 p.m. and will make its usual rounds to Amherst, Mount Holyoke, and Smith Colleges before returning to the University.

Because of space problems on the bus, we will need an idea of how many people to expect. Therefore, if you intend to take part, would you please call 546-9815 before 7:00 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 31.

UAW, Chrysler Corporation Meet To Study New Contract at Ford

DETROIT (AP)—Bargainers for the United Auto Workers and Chrysler Corp., the union's No. 2 strike target, met Sunday to study a new contract which the UAW won at Ford Motor Co. and hopes to match or better at Chrysler or General Motors.

Negotiators for both sides met for about an hour Saturday after the union announced it was going to Chrysler with the Ford pact in hand before visiting the industry giant, GM.

Douglas Fraser, director of the UAW's Chrysler Department, and William M. O'Brien, Chrysler vice president for personnel, led their respective bargaining teams into eight sub-committee meeting shortly after 10 a.m. Sunday.

Fraser said Chrysler was picked rather than GM because "we have some particular problems here at Chrysler that we don't at GM."

Two factors contributed heavily to the union's choosing Chrysler next rather than GM, a union spokesman said.

The 94,000 hourly rated and 9,000 salaried workers represented by the UAW at Chrysler will get the benefit of increased wages if a settlemnt is reached and a long strike occurs at GM.

Disappointed in its failure to win equal pay for Canadian and American workers from Ford, the union feels Chrysler will be an easier target on this issue than GM.

"Canadian wage parity is going to be a very crucial issue in these negotiations," said Fraser. "It's a top priority item."

DVP Applications

AVAILABLE IN RSO OFFICE

Must be returned no

Later than Friday,

November 3.

NOW
ENDS TUES.
On Screen
6:40 and 9:00

AMHERST Cinema

ELIZABETH TAYLOR
RICHARD BURTON
Taming of the Shrew
in Color

Starts Wed.
"BONNIE AND CLYDE"

IMPROVE YOUR READING
Speed & Comprehension
STUDY SKILLS!
5-week rapid reading course
Mondays & Tuesdays 7-8:30
Starting Nov. 6
Registration: Oct. 30, 7-8 p.m.
School of Education Rm. 125
No tuition charge

Walking Campus Planned

Parking Problems Create Headaches

By JOHN SHOEMAKER
Staff Reporter

The University, trying to correct parking problems created by its growth, is coping with 9,000 vehicles and the knowledge that this figure increases almost daily.

Long-range planning includes the creation of a walking campus with parking facilities at a few central campus areas and at many perimeter places.

According to Robert W. Kittle, assistant to the treasurer, plans provide for the construction of a 1,000 car garage to be part of the new campus center. The administration hopes the garage will be completed about the time the campus center is finished in a few years.

Mr. Kittle explained that parking space will be available to rent, although the fee is still indefinite. The rented parking spaces will be "available to any member of the University community," Mr. Kittle claimed. While visitors and conferees are expected to use the new facility, most unreserved spaces will be taken on a "first come, first served basis," he said.

When the parking plans were made for this fall semester, it was known that approximately 4,000 staff cars were to be registered. There are about 3,900 spaces in the control lots (including the large SBA lot) for staff personnel, Mr. Kittle said. This meant that the 5,000 undergraduate and graduate students with cars were going to be assigned parking areas on the perimeter of the campus, such as F lot and North lot.

However, the situation is different from that planned, he admitted. Many student parking lots are filled to capacity while many staff control lots are not full. The reasons for this include absences of staff, registration of more than one vehicle by staff and different times that teachers come to work leaving empty spaces for part of the day.

To correct this problem, Mr. Kittle has already redistributed more than 300 student vehicles into control lots. Mr. Kittle is personally conducting a survey of the problem and any changes will be made through him. A student who wants his assigned parking area changed, especially graduate students, must submit a request to Mr. Kittle in writing and have it approved by his department head. He will judge each request individually to insure an element of planning and control.

Mr. Kittle asks students to "make your needs known" and "ask for help." The administration intends to "serve the campus community" and does not interfere with any program," he said.

In the meantime, parking facilities are being expanded at North lot and control point 2 across from Hills House, North

(Continued on page 5)

Musical Comedy Performed By UMass Operetta Guild

By SANDRA BORNSTEIN
Staff Reporter

The Operetta Guild at UMass doesn't perform operettas. "Musical Comedy is the most popular form of American theatrical entertainment," according to the business manager of the Guild.

Miss Betty Scheinfeldt believes that musical comedy, which the Guild performs, is an element in opera but a quite distinct and independent form. Musical theater presents plays that contain musical accompaniment and enhancement through songs. Whereas, operetta is a light form of opera in which the entire presentation is sung, she explains.

The Operetta Guild finds itself trying to overcome the traditional conception of opera which its name evokes. When founded, the Guild did perform operettas but since the 1950's they have been presenting musicals.

Well-known shows attract large audiences and also provide "real" entertainment. According to Miss Scheinfeldt, musical theater is a medium of entertainment and the Guild's productions are presented for enjoyment value. Moreover, she declared, once the audience is in the theater, its attention is captured by the music for the entire performance.

The Guild productions are enriched with many qualities. The most important and impressive element is that a professional director is hired. His efforts are assisted by good actors and actresses, a student orchestra, and overwhelming enthusiasm, Miss Scheinfeldt said.

Catholics, Protestants Debate Aid For Parochial Schools in New York

NEW YORK (AP) — New York quarrels over an old issue, spending tax money for parochial school children, are threatening the tentative ties so recently developed between Protestants and Catholics in the United States.

The strain is most acute at the state and local level, where taxes — and tuition bills —are pocketbook realities. In this area, the spirit of Christian unity, so strong in theological circles, remains largely an abstraction.

"National organizations have worked together and talked together all along on these problems, and are still talking," said the Rev. Dean Kelley, head of the Religious Liberty Department of the National Council of Churches.

"But there's a lot of the old hard-nosed polemics showing up in some state and local communities."

Interreligious contacts in New York have virtually broken down in an increasingly bitter debate over a provision of a proposed new state constitution, to be submitted Nov. 7 to the voters for ratification.

The provision would repeal the so-called "Blaine Amendment," which bars government aid "directly or indirectly" to parochial schools. It would substitute the less precise language of the U. S. Constitution which merely requires separation of church and state.

Although there are exceptions, Roman Catholic organizations generally support the change, while Protestant and Jewish organizations oppose it.

UMass Seniors Found Guilty Of Drunkenness; Plan Appeal

Chester S. Weinerman and Stanley M. Levco were found guilty of drunkenness Friday afternoon; the sentence was pronounced in Northampton District Court by Judge Luke Ryan.

The trial, which lasted over four hours, was sparked by considerable contradictory testimony between the defendants and the police. Four police officers testified for the State, while two witnesses — James G. Collins and Frances Boronski — and Dean of Students William F. Field testified for the defense.

The police testified they saw Levco staggering across Amity Street and saw Weinerman standing by a tree. The defendants denied these charges, claiming Weinerman skipped across the street.

In his summation statement to the Court, the prosecuting attorney stated that the story of the defense was not credible. "In cases of credibility, we must believe the police officers who have nothing to gain, who are sworn to tell the truth. In this light the Court must find in favor of the police officers," he claimed.

The UMass seniors announced that they were appealing the case to the Superior Court.

Amherst College Receives Grant

Announcement has been made of a $1 million grant to Amherst College by Trustees of the Arthur Vining Davis Foundation of New York City toward the cost of a new $7 million Science Center now under construction at Amherst.

The Davis Foundation grant, together with $2.3 million raised toward a new science building during the recent Amherst Capital Program, signifies that approximately half the funds needed for the new facility are now in hand.

NOTICES

STUDENTS FOR POLITICAL ACTION
Meeting today 6:30 P.M., Machmer W26. Election of officers, discussion of anti-war activities, support for farm workers, and campus programs. Everyone welcome.

PRE-MEDICAL SOCIETY
Meeting Monday, November 6, 7:30 P.M. Morrill Auditorium. Dr. Lester Dewis, Dean B.U. Medical School. Also U.M.E. plans.

EDUCATION CLUB
Meeting November 7, 8:00 P.M. Hasbrouck 20. Poverty program and Education in India. Slides—Illustrated by Miss Ellen Miller, Salem State Faculty Member. Refreshments. All are invited.

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA
There will be an exec. Board meeting at 6:00 P.M. and a general meeting at 6:30 P.M. in the Middlesex Room.

ESPERANTO CLUB
Meeting today at 7:30 P.M. in the Plymouth Room, Student Union. All welcome.

HALLOWEEN PARTY
Halloween party for faculty and graduate students' children, Monday, October 30 at 6:30 in the Ballroom. There will be games, refreshments, entertainment, and a costume parade.

NEWMAN CLUB
Inquiry Class every Monday at 8:15 p.m. in Room 2.

ARTHUR FIEDLER
Free undergraduate admission with I.D. to the Yomiuri Nippon Symphony Concert.

SKI CLUB
Meeting Monday, October 30, 1967. Morrill Auditorium.

MOVIES
Tuesday, October 31, 1967 at 8:00 p.m. Casablanca with Humphrey Bogart, Ingrid Bergman.
The last Hurrah with Spencer Tracy and Basil Rathbone. Mahar Aud., admission 50c, sponsored by Geo. Washington

MASS. CLASSIFIED

Help Wanted

Typist needed with thesis experience for a short or long term project. Call 545-2392 Tues., Wed., Thurs. days, 253-3622 evenings.

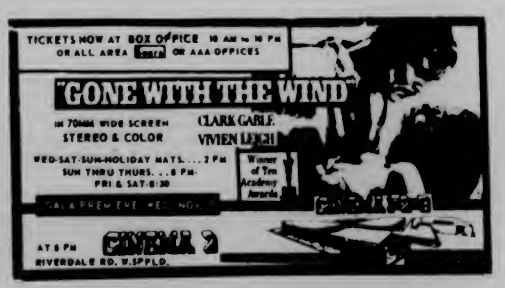
For Rent

24 feet Room
Refrigerator, cooking facilities, center of town.
Leader Rooms
159 North Pleasant St.
Apply at Bowling Alley.
$15 a week

FOR SALE

Sports car tires for sale—two 5.60-15 Firestone snowtires, tubeless whitewalls. One 5.60-15 regular tubeless whitewall. Call day 545-2405, night 546-9952.

LOST



Valuable panasoning tape recorder from my car 10/26 behind the Baptist Church, North Pleasant St. Essenial for work. Contains important tape that cannot bbe duplicated. Please return. Reward for information or return. Call 545-2260.

WANTED

Roommate to share 3 rm. Apt. in N. Amherst. Call 549-0641l.

AUTOMOBILE

1964 red MG Sports sedan excellent condition. Just the thing for those winding, snow-packed ronds to Stratton or Snow. Make offer over $450. Call 253-7919.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

OGIVE BEAST
GRATED PALLAS
LI STEP PORT
ASP OMITS EPI
CORE ALINE ON ENATE LEASING
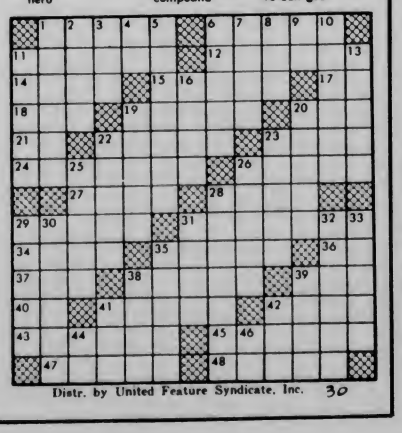
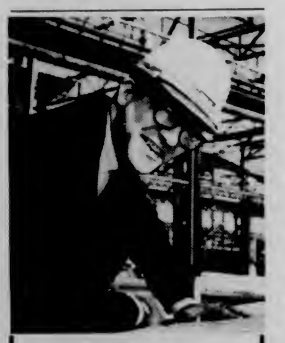
TALE SINS
AMENITY LETHE
LE ATTAR SLOP
ODD EELER ELI
NAIL ELIA IC
ELAINE ITCHES
SLEET CATER



ACROSS

1-Arouse to action
6-Slumber
11-Strike out
12-Foam
14-Butter substitute (colloq.)
15-Capital of Tibet
17-A state (abbr.)
18-Chinese pagoda
19-Sow
20-Metal fastener
21-Latin conjunction
22-Canonized person
23-Cloth measure (pl.)
24-Searching
26-Stop
27-Zest
28-Arrow
29-Chairs
31-Mollify
34-Path
35-Gun
36-Bone
37-Man's name
38-Partners
39-Humorist
40-Pronoun
41-Kind of cloth
42-Diminish
43-Most recent
45-Operator
47-Remains at ease
48-Satiated



3-Sign of zodiac
4-Army officer (abbr.)
5-Shouting
6-Incline
7-Final
8-Greek letter
9-What (colloq.)
10-Dangers
11-Lavishes fondness on 13-Wash lightly
16-Suspend
19-Aches
20-Piece of dinnerware
22-Any of rays
23-Weird
25-Babylonian hero
26-Hails
28-Guards
29-Killed
30-Christian festival
31-Ceremony
32-Nullified
33-Chemical compound
35-Rages
38-Light rain
39-Fly in breeze
41-French plural article
42-Suit
44-Pronoun
46-Sun god

DOWN

1-Tell
2-Appellation of Athena

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 30

JOE MENDELSON
BSChE, U. of Maryland, is a plant engineer at our Sparrows Point, Md., Plant, biggest in the world. Only four years out of college, Joe has already developed nearly 80 major engineering projects, some with multi-million-dollar price tags, from basic planning through engineering and construction.

MANAGEMENT MINDED?
Career prospects are better than ever at Bethlehem Steel. We need on-the-ball engineering, technical, and liberal arts graduates for the 1968 Loop Course. Pick up a copy of our booklet at your placement office.

An Equal Opportunity Employer in the Plans for Progress Program

BETHLEHEM STEEL
BETHLEHEM STEEL

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

We and They

A record budget request of $51,828,389 for fiscal 1969 (July 1, 1969-June 30, 1970) has been made by the UMass Board of Trustees.

A University statement explained that "Most of the increase is directly related to the cost of enrolling an additional 2,300 students at the Amherst and Boston campuses and an expanded summer school, the cost of operating new buildings, and long-term investments in library books, academic equipment and building renovations."

- We who got in and who know friends that didn't, know what it means to enroll an additional number of students.
- We who no longer have to criss-cross the campus to see several administrative officials in the same day, believe new buildings are justified.
- We who have gone to summer school and find we can take upper-level courses, as well as survey courses, appreciate the expansion of summer school.
- We who crowd the library to study await the breathing spaces promised in the library addition. We who hunt the library for books look forward to the day when most of the "catching up" of the acquisitions department will be accomplished.
- We who use the old and the new microscopes understand the utility of academic equipment and its upkeep.
- We who visit our instructors in their separate offices see in building renovation education furthered.
- We who have had new and "great" faculty appreciate the past emphasis on faculty expansion and merit increases in pay.
- We are concerned, however, that the present budgetary requests for the crucial areas of "academic support" have been cut back seriously in recent years to the point of, according to University statements, hampering the operations.

We are concerned that the Fine Arts Teaching Center, providing facilities for art, music, and drama, has not yet received legislative support. The requests for additional planning and construction phases of the Center were defeated again this year in the House Ways and Means Committee. But we will ask again.

We support the "record" budget request of the Board of Trustees.

— THE EDITORS

Paying for Higher Education

The tidal wave of the postwar baby boom is striking at the colleges and universities. Its force is magnified many times over, as more and more of our high school grads point toward higher education.

Despite the efforts of private schools to expand to accommodate the thousands, public institutions are receiving the major impact, putting a serious strain on the tax dollar.

Recently, the University of Massachusetts trustees voted to submit to the governor a whopping budget request of nearly $52 million for fiscal 1969, an increase of almost $12 million—about 30%.

The big push, with enrollments continuing to mount, is to catch up on the so-called academic support areas that have been neglected in the past few years in favor of boosting faculty salaries to the competitive level. Library expansion at Amherst and the Boston campus will require more than $1.5 million of the increase. Critical needs exist in equipment, educational supplies and maintenance, where expenditures have not kept pace with the expansion.

The latest survey of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges gives Massachusetts higher education a pat on the back for its efforts, noting that the 374% increase over eight years in tax-contributed dollars to higher education places the commonwealth among the first three in the nation.

But, lest we become smug about it, the survey notes further, "Massachusetts shows one of the largest increases in state appropriations, but is still at the bottom of the country in (1) per-capita support of higher education, (2) the proportion of residents to whom public higher education is available, and (3) the proportion of high school grads who go to college."

The cost of education is necessary — but high. And it will go higher, not even to improve, but just to keep pace.

Reprinted from the Worcester Telegram

Greeks and the Dining Commons

Greeks are required to eat at the Southwest dining commons if they reside there.

To non-Greeks, this may seem like a trivial matter. Sorority girls in particular have felt the brunt of the blow. In several of the smaller houses a girl is not able to live in the house until her senior year. If a sorority girl is also not allowed to eat her meals at the house, she is deprived of a vital source of contact with her sisters. As we all know, meal time is one of the few times when we can relax with our friends and discuss the day.

In a sorority or fraternity, lunch and dinner are the only times in the day when the entire house is gathered together. It may be the only opportunity for a girl not living in the house to see and talk with the sisters. In many houses, after-dinner announcements are a regular feature. The girl who is not there to hear them may never be told what was said. Having all the sisters or brothers eat together each day contributes to the sense of unity and fraternal closeness in any house.

Thus the Greek living in Southwest feels somewhat cut off from the house. A change in policy is needed.

by J. M., Editorial Staff

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union . . . University of Massachusetts . . . Amherst, Mass.

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Chester S. Weinerman '68
MANAGING EDITOR ..... John H. Dean, Jr. '69
BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Charles Smith '69

News Day Editor: Jan Curley. Editorial Day Editor: Bob Brill. Sports Day Editor: Peter Pascarelli.

News Editors ..... Ron LaBrecque '70, Richard Kline '70
Editorial Chairman ..... Pat Petow '68
Sports Editor ..... Tom FitzGerald '69
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Glenn Briere '69
Advertising Managers ..... Dot Silvia '69, Sharon Kramer '69
Photo Editor ..... Paul Boliver '68

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.
Published at the Massachusetts Daily Collegian, Student Union, UMass., Amherst, Mass. 01002.
Member of the Associated Collegiate Press. Member of the Collegiate Press Service of the United States Student Press Association. Member of the Associated Press—The Associated Press is entitled exclusively to the use for reproduction of all the local news printed in this newspaper as well as all AP news dispatches.
Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed five times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; three or four times weekly the week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amended by the act of June 11, 1934.
Subscription price: $4.00 per year; $2.50 per semester.

Polis

'Cultural Revolution'

by BOB BRILL, Editorial Day Editor

NOTE: Great appreciation is extended to Professor Franklin Houn of the Government Department for his help in compiling the information contained in this article. Further information on the subject of China in this context may be found in Professor Houn's forthcoming book A Short History of Chinese Communism.

Communist China is presently going through a great social disorder called the cultural revolution by the ruling elite. What is causing this chaos? What are the goals of China's leaders? Where will all of the turmoil lead? An attempt will be made to answer these questions and at the same time to give some insight into the cultural revolution.

The events leading up to the "cultural revolution" can be traced to the period of China's "Great Leap Forward" economic policy of the late 1950's. With the failure of this policy, some of the top officials in the Chinese Communist Party began to lose confidence in the leadership of Mao Tse-Tung. Beginning in 1961 these "erstwhile" followers or "revisionists" attempted to modify the official economic and intellectual policy of the Chinese Communist Party by relaxing governmental controls. They allowed freer intellectual and political expression. They promoted the restoration of individual farms and greater autonomy for the managers of state enterprises with the hope of bringing about better economic conditions.

Various playwrights were commissioned to indirectly ridicule Mao and his policies by the use of historical analogies in their plays. The revisionists advocated a change in the educational set-up to place a greater emphasis on professional training and to eliminate ideological training in the Armed Forces. Finally the revisionists desired the help of Soviet Russia in building the Chinese Army and supplying China with heavy military equipment.

Mao then proceeded to set up a rival dual threat, embodied by the revisionists inside China and by the similar policies of Khruschev in Russia. He saw the attempted policy changes as a "bourgeoise" cancer spreading throughout the world communist movement and remembering the disastrous results of his "Hundred Flowers" campaign of a few years before, during which he relaxed cultural controls he took steps to eliminate the dissenters. He formally took Khruschev to task for following the "Capitalist road" and thus precipitated the Sino-Soviet dispute. Mao felt that Soviet aid would not be worthwhile if it meant compromising his idealogical beliefs. He also thought that the Russians could not be relied on to side with China in the event of a U. S. attack. He knew that only 12-13% of the land in China was arable so that every farmer would not get an equitable share. He further believed that the farms would eventually fall into fewer and fewer hands.

He felt that ideological education was far more important than academic training since ideology would teach the youth of China to be selfless and they would not be able to become "prostitutes" who would sell their talents to the highest bidder.

Mao began to reorganize the Politburo in 1966 by purging dissident elements and launching a mass campaign to criticize and repudiate their efforts. He removed Liu Shao-Tchi, his heir apparent, who was the leader of the "revisionists" and the chief party organizer and replaced him by the Defense Minister, Lin Pao. Mao also removed the Mayor of Peking, Peng Chen, Liu's lieutenant.

Mao then proceeded to set up a rival power organization (revolutionary committees) at every level of government, since the bureaucracy was fully controlled by supporters of Liu. This rival organization was composed of pro-Mao elements such as: revolutionary cadres, "revolutionary rebels" (militant adults), the "Red Guards" and the People's Liberation Army (PLA) held in reserve. The revolutionary committee's major task of "assaulting the strongholds of the bourgeoise" will explain in part the ravages of the "Red Guards."

The role of the PLA in the cultural revolution has been kept to a minimum. If it took an active part the revolution would lose the appearance of a popular reaction to the revisionists. Once the Army gained control it could not be counted on to relinquish it. Mao would finally have incurred a debt which he would be forced to honor.

The cultural revolution is also being used by Mao as a teaching device. Active participation in revolution instills fervor and elan in the minds of the young people. Future officeholders will have an example of what lies in store for them if they deviate.

Though it is always difficult to predict the future a number of things appear inevitable. The cultural revolution will have the ultimate effect of unifying China behind Mao. The purging of many of the other members of the Central Committee will allow young politicians from the provinces a chance at governing. If these predictions do in fact come true, then the upheaval going on in China, at present, will have served a useful purpose for the Chinese Communists.

HAVE YOU HEARD ABOUT THE VIETNAM POLL ?

Campus Comment

Civic Duty

To the editor:

"Too bad they didn't break his damn neck." This rational and intelligent response is supposed to have been uttered by Northampton's draft board chairman, James Faulkner. I am surprised; I had traditionally thought that all city employees were intelligent and responsible. But within the last two weeks Mr. Faulkner has proved, in both word and deed, that this statement is not only unbased, but naive.

Mr. Faulkner, you sit back at your desk and refuse to listen to intelligent and rational people. Mr. Faulkner, you threaten the young men under your draft jurisdiction. You say: Do not become involved in the present demonstrations or you will march in Vietnam! Well, Mr. Faulkner, so far these young men have not called your bluff, but the events of the last week are too much for any conscientious person to accept! Mr. Faulkner, you have proved that you are not capable of holding any responsible civic position. Moves must now be taken to correct the wrong you have imposed upon Northampton.

Action is being taken to organize those conscientious citizens of Northampton who believe that the present situation must be rectified immediately by any means necessary. Mr. Faulkner, you delight in the sight of broken necks, then watch your reflection; your neck may soon be (symbolically) BROKEN !

Richard J. Duggan

All letters to the editor must be typed at 60 spaces and double-spaced. They should not exceed 60 lines. Letters are subject to editing and condensation. The writer's signature and address must be on the letter. Letters which are unsigned will not be printed. Names will be withheld on request. Letters not printed will be answered.

Veitnam Action...

(Continued from page 1)

crashed in the southern part of the zone.

If true, the B52 would have been brought down with a Soviet SAM, the only missile in the North Vietnamese arsenal capable of hitting the high-flying bombers. In two years and four months of flying missions from Guam and later from Thailand, no B52 has been shot down.

Two B52s collided and crashed into the China Sea off Vietnam July 6, and 6 of the combined crews of 12 were rescued. A B52, with two of its eight engines conked out, tried to make an emergency landing at the Marine base of Da Nang south of the demilitarized zone, two days later and crashed, killing five of the six crewmen.

Claiming this was the third B52 shot down, the Hanoi broadcast said three other U.S. planes were shot down southeast of Hanoi. This also was without confirmation in Saigon.

However, the U.S. Command reported 16 American planes were lost over North Vietnam last week, matching the worst previous week since the bombings of the north began two years and nine months ago. That worst week was last Aug. 21-27. The command said the number of U.S. fliers missing during the week rose to 17.

South of the demilitarized zone, Communist gunners sent 40 rounds of mortar and rocket fire into the Marine and Air Force base at Dong Ha Sunday, setting off four fires. One fire was in a fuel dump at the airstrip. The shelling failed to close the airstrip.

There was no word on casualties.

The Dean and Director of Admissions of the Georgetown University School of Law will discuss Law School curricula and requirements for admission to the Georgetown University Law School on Tuesday, October 31 at 8:00 p.m. in the Council Chambers of the Student Union. All pre-law students are expected to attend.

On Wednesday, November 1, the Director of Admissions will conduct individual interviews for seniors only. Those interested should sign up in the Pre-Law Advisor's office in Whitmore Administration Building.

Air Force ROTC Detachment 370 initiated its annual class for Cadet Non-Commissioned Officer candidates on 25 October. The program under the direction of Cadet Major Robert A. Hoffman, above, and a staff of advanced cadets meets one evening each week for six weeks. It is designed to prepare freshman and sophomore cadets for leadership positions in the Cadet Wing and to better familiarize them with Air Force customs and courtesies. Upon completion of the course each graduate should possess the self confidence and knowledge for progression in the Air Force ROTC program.

PARKING . . .

(Continued from page 3)

Hadley Road will soon be connected to North Pleasant Street, passing through the total number of parking spaces. "Future planning includes provisions for local traffic to be diverted around the perimeter of the campus" stated Mr. Kittle. It is the aim of the University, he said, to "have as little traffic in the core of the campus as possible."

SUMMER IN BOLOGNA

Applications are now being taken for the University of Massachusetts 1968 Summer Session in Bologna. Application forms may be obtained from the Department of History, Room 129, Arnold House. Enrollment in the program is limited, consequently, early application is advisable.

Dining Commons Menu

TUESDAY

BREAKFAST
Grapefruit Juice
Grapes
Farina
Cold Cereals
Omelet
Blueberry Muffins

LUNCH
Corn Chowder
P.L.T. Sandwich
Potato Chips
Swedish Meatballs
Buttered Rice
Sliced Carrots
Combination Fruit Salad
Cottage Cheese
Lettuce Wedge
Strawberry Shortcake

DINNER
Pot Roast—Gravy
Pork Chops—Scalloped Apples
Parsley Potato
Buttered Beets
Grapefruit-Orange Salad
Jellied Cole Slaw
Cucumber-Radish Salad
Chocolate Cream Pie

WEDNESDAY

BREAKFAST
Grape Juice
Oranges
Pettijohn
Cold Cereals
French Toast/Syrup

LUNCH
Scotch Broth
Hamburger—Roll
French Fried Potatoes
Sliced Bermuda Onion
Egg Salad Plate
American Cheese
Potato Chips
Tomato Salad
Jellied Grapefruit Salad
Pineapple Salad
Orange Cake

DINNER
Fried Shrimp—Hot Sauce
Cube Steak
Whipped Potato
Wax Beans
Waldorf Salad
Cottage Cheese
Green Salad
Baked Custard
Ginger Cookies

THURSDAY

BREAKFAST
Orange Juice
Purple Plums
Maltex
Cold Cereals
Scrambled Eggs
Doughnuts

LUNCH
Garden Vegetable Soup
Frankfurts—Rolls
Potato Chips
Beef Turnover—Gravy
Buttered Peas
Pear-Plum Salad
Cottage Cheese
Cucumber-Radish Salad
Congo Bars

DINNER
Roast Veal—Gravy
English Brown Potatoes
W. K. Corn
Ham-Cheese-Egg Plate
Potato Chips
Garden Salad
Jellied Fruit Cocktail
Apricot Salad
Apple Pie

FRIDAY

BREAKFAST
Apple Juice
Grapefruit Half
Oatmeal
Cold Cereals
Fried Eggs
Hot Biscuits

LUNCH
N.E. Clam Chowder
Fish Fry Plate
Scallops
Fish Square
Fr. Fr. Potatoes
Ravioli
Green Beans
Cole Slaw
Jellied Blueberry Salad
Combination Fruit Salad
Marble Cake

DINNER
Baked Swordfish—Lemon Slice
Meatloaf—Mushroom Gravy
O'Brien Potatoes
Buttered Lima Beans
Peach Salad
Cottage Cheese
Tomato Salad
Butterscotch Cream Pie

SATURDAY

BREAKFAST
Orange-Grapefruit Juice
Bananas
Farina
Cold Cereals
Pancakes/Syrup

LUNCH
Beef Barley Soup
Hot Meat Sandwich—Gravy
French Fried Potatoes
Chicken Noodle Casserole
Buttered Peas
Pineapple Salad
Cucumber-Carrot Salad
Cottage Cheese
Peach Cobbler

DINNER
Stuffed Cabbage Roll
Country Steak
Potato Chunks
Sliced Carrots
Green Salad
Jellied Sunshine Salad
Grapefruit Salad
Brownies

WMUA Program Schedule

TUESDAY
3:00 pm AFTERNOON A GO GO
5:30 MUSIC THEATER
6:00 INTERNATIONAL SCIENCE REPORT
6:30 NEWS AND SPORTS
7:00 EDUCATIONAL FEATURE
8:00 FOLK SPOTLIGHT
9:30 MUSICALE
11:30 NEWS
11:40 NIGHT SOUNDS
1:00 am NEWS

WEDNESDAY
3:00 pm AFTERNOON A GO GO
5:30 MUSIC THEATER
6:00 UNITED NATIONS REPORTS
6:30 NEWS AND SPORTS
7:00 SOUTHWEST FOCUS
8:00 ART OF JAZZ
9:30 MUSICALE
11:30 NEWS
11:40 NIGHT SOUNDS
1:00 am NEWS

THURSDAY
3:00 pm AFTERNOON A GO GO
5:30 MUSIC THEATER
6:00 SCIENCE, PEACE, AND SURVIVAL
6:30 NEWS AND SPORTS
7:00 EDUCATIONAL FEATURE
8:00 FOLK SPOTLIGHT
9:30 MUSICALE
11:30 NEWS
11:40 NIGHT SOUNDS
1:00 am NEWS

FRIDAY
3:00 pm AFTERNOON A GO GO
5:30 MUSIC THEATER
6:00 SCIENCE, PEACE, AND SURVIVAL
6:30 NEWS AND SPORTS
7:00 CAMPUS POLITICS
7:30 OLD TUNE SHOW
8:30 FRIDAY NIGHT SURVEY SHOW
1:00 am NEWS

SATURDAY
9:00 am CHILDREN'S HOUR
10:00 NEWS
10:05 SWINGING SATURDAY
1:15 pm SPORTS SPOTLIGHT — pre-game interviews
1:30 FOOTBALL — University of Vermont at UMass
4:00 ART OF JAZZ
7:00 THE SOUNDS OF NOW
8:00 STANDING ROOM ONLY — country and western music
11:00 NEWS
11:10 NIGHT RIDE—WMUA's all-request program

SUNDAY
10:00 am SOUNDS OF SUNDAY
12:00 NEW OF THE WEEK IN REVIEW
12:30 pm POETS' CORNER
1:00 SHOWCASE show music by request
4:00 SUNDAY DRAMA — feature to be announced
8:00 SOUTH AFRICAN BROADCASTING CORPORATION FEATURE
8:30 CLASSICS — classical music by request
12:00 NEWS

WMUA TOP FORTY

No.	Title	Artist	Last Week
1.	THE RAIN, THE PARK AND OTHER THINGS	Cowsills	4
2.	INCENSE AND PEPPERMINTS	Strawberry Alarmclock	5
3.	TO SIR WITH LOVE	Lulu	1
4.	LET IT OUT (Let it All Hang Out)	HOMBRES	9
5.	NEXT PLANE TO LONDON	Rose Garden	18
6.	HOLIDAY	Bee Gees	6
7.	EVERLASTING LOVE	Robert Knight	30
8.	HOW CAN I BE SURE	Young Rascals	3
9.	GET ON UP	Esquires	7
10.	I'M WONDERING	Stevie Wonder	12
11.	PEOPLE ARE STRANGE	Doors	2
12.	PLEASE LOVE ME FORFVER	Bobby Vinton	29
13.	GO WITH ME	Gene and Debbie	23
14.	LET LOVE COME BETWEEN US	James and Bobby Purify	13
15.	SOUL MAN	Sam and Dave	8
16.	CAN'T STOP LOVING YOU	Last Word	24
17.	BACK ON THE STREET AGAIN	Sunshine Company	22
18.	KENTUCKY WOMAN	Neil Diamond	28
19.	A NATURAL WOMAN	Aretha Franklin	20
20.	I CAN SEE FOR MILES	The Who
21.	KEEP THE BALL ROLLIN'	Jay & Rodgers Movement	26
22.	EVEN THE BAD TIMES ARE GOOD	Tremeloes	15
23.	NEVER MY LOVE	Association	10
25.	LIKE AN OLD TIME MOVIE	Scott Mackenzie	31
26.	EXPRESSWAY TO YOUR HEART	Soul Survivors	16
27.	WAKE UP WAKE UP	Grass Roots	40
28.	I SAY A LITTLE PRAYER	Dionne Warwick
29.	LONELINESS MADE ME REALIZE IT'S YOU THAT I NEED	Temptations
30.	WILD HONEY	Beach Boys
31.	HEY BABY THEY'RE PLAYING OUR SONG	Buckinghams	11
32.	OUR PRECIOUS LOVE	Marvin Gaye-Tammi Terrell	38
33.	LOVE IS STRANGE	Peaches & Herb	14
34.	KING MIDAS IN REVERSE	Hollies	17
35.	CHILD OF CLAY	Jimmie Rodgers	25
36.	YOU KEEP RUNNING AWAY	Four Tops	21
37.	HOMBORG	Procol Harum
38.	BEG BORROW & STEAL	Ohio Express
39.	LOVEY DOVEY	Bunny Sigler
40.	YOU BETTER SIT DOWN KIDS	Cher

PICK: PATA PATA by Mariem Mekeiba

Programming Musicale

MOONDAY, OCT. 30
DVORAK: Sym. No. 7 in d, Op. 70
DUTILLEUX: Sym. No. 2 ("Le Double")
SCHUBERT: Matriegra-Quartet in G
COPLAND: Music for the Theater

TUESDAY, OCT. 31
STRAVINSKY: Cantata
BRAHMS: Sym. No. 2
MILHAUD: Suite Provencal
RACHMANINOFF: Isle of the Dead
WEBER: Hungarian Fantasy for Bassoon & Orch.

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 1
BRUCKNER: Sym. No. 4
BEETHOVEN: Quintet in C
LISZT: "Faute" Sonata

THURSDAY, NOV. 2
(History of Music The [illegible] Baroque-Opera)
MADRIGAL/MOR SO[illegible] VOICE AND LUTE: Dovro Dunque Morire
RECITATIVE: "Tu Se' Morta"

- TONIGHT -

The Brothers of Pi Lambda Phi

invite all Freshmen & Upperclassmen

to a Formal Smoker at 8:00 P.M.

375 North Pleasant Street

INFIRMARY WAITING TIME

varies considerably during the day. It is consistently short early in the morning; it is almost as consistently long in the latter part of the afternoon.

In the interest of saving your time we suggest that you try to make outpatient visits early in the morning, as soon after 8 a.m. as possible.

Also please try to avoid visits from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. unless your problem is urgent (or unless you have classes all day).

University Health Services

The professional look costs less . . .

RESUMES

THESES

MANUSCRIPTS

beautifully typed on IBM Executive typewriters

AMHERST SECRETARIAL SERVICE

65 University Drive
Telephone: 253-7717

Intramural Playoffs Kickoff Action Tonight

Championship playoffs begin tonight in intramural football with the Flaming A's vying with the Dell Vikings at 6:30 for the right to meet the Knights at 8:30 in the battle for the National League title among the independents.

At 7 o'clock, South Tower League champ Adams Smashers squares off against Central Tower winner James Commanchees. The winner will meet the Washington Terrors of the North Tower League tomorrow night.

Also at 7, the Baker Buffaloes of the East League will face the Hills South Hilos of the South League, with the winner to face the Grayson Aces tomorrow.

Frat kingpins QTV of the Trojan Division and SPE of the Athenian Division will battle for a shot tomorrow at the Spartan Division's PMD.

The winner of the Dell Vikings-Flaming A's-Knights playoff will meet the winner of another game tonight between the Colonials of the American League and the Chem Club of the Grad-Faculty League.

Team and individual statistic winners have been announced also. In team competition, the Hills South Hi-lo's took team offense honors by amassing 210 points. The Washington Terrors limited their opponents to six points in capturing team defense honors.

In individual statistics, Junior Wayne Higney, of the Grayson Aces was the leading passer, completing 68 passes out of 100 thrown, for a .680 average. This was just one tnousandth of a point better than (Junior) Jeff Sanborn of QTV, who completed 53 of 78 passes for a .679 average.

Leading all scorers was Senior John Thomas of the Grayson Aces, with 91 points, or an average of 13 points per game. Sophomore Paul Whalen of ASP, led all receivers by catching 39 passes or 5 per game. The leading pass rusher was Junior Bob McQuade of the Gorman Maples, who threw the opposing passers 23 times in eight games, which was close to three per game.

Daily Collegian
Hotline
545-2550

Final Intramural Statistics

Athenian		Spartan		Trojan
SPE	5-0	PMD	5-0	QTV	5-0
TEP	3-2	ASP	4-1	KS	4-1
TC	3-2	LCA	3-2	PSD	3-2
BKP	3-2	ALP	2-3	SAM	2-3
ZN	1-4	[illegible]	1-4	PSK	1-4
APO	0-5	[illegible]	0-5	PLP	0-5

	Points
[illegible]	63
[illegible]	45
[illegible]	43
[illegible] ASP	43

Leading Passer

	Att.	Compl.
Woodcock—LCA	82	123
Sanborn—QTV	53	78
Canatta—ASP	72	113
Higney—PMD	60	112
Miller—SPE	54	95

Leading Receiver

	Catches
Whalen—ASP	39
Sprissler—APO	27
Langworthy—TC	25
Seibert—LCA	22

Leading Pass Rusher

	Stops
Basitis—LCA	8
Chenoweth—SPE	5
Foley—BKP	5
Harrigan—TC	5

Team Offense

	Points
KS	164
PMD	144
LCA	140
ASP	126
QTV	91

Team Defense

	Points against
KS	26
SPE	31
BKP	34
QTV	38
LCA	42

INDEPENDENT LEAGUE

National	W	L
Dell Vikings	4	1
Knights	4	1
Flaming A's	4	1
Toads	2	3
Accounting A	1	4
R. Roster	0	5

American	W	L
Colonials	5	0
Bouncing F's	4	1
Packers	2	3
Dynamos	2	3
Bismarks	1	4
Courtesy Taxi	1	4
*Grad Faculty
Roman Numerals	5	1
Chem Club	5	1
Red Shirts	5	1
Selohasas	3	3
Land Arch	2	4
Cometa	1	5
Tophids	0	6

*In the playoffs for league title in the Grad-Fac on Thursday, Oct. 26, the Red Shirts forfeited their opportunity to play, and the Chem Club defeated the Roman Numerals 25-19, to make them Champs.

Leading Scorers

Verreault—Flaming A's	49
Dadmun—Flaming A's	46
Emerson—Numerals	39
Kurker—Numerals	31

Leading Passer

Pleva—Numerals	45	78
Alberico—Colonials	38	69
Canty—Dell Vikings	60	116
Brown—Flaming A's	56	116

Leading Receivers

Stewart—Colonials	27
Emerson—Numerals	25
Oksanen—Bouncing F's	23
Cavanaugh—Bouncing F's	19
Kurker—Numerals	19

Leading Pass Rushers

Wilmarth—Numerals	8
Kalish—Flaming A's	5
Morris—Colonials	3
Brush—Land Arch	3
Watson—Tophids	3

Team Offense

Flaming A's	152
Numerals	135
Dell Vikings	98
Knights	94

Team Defense

Colonials	19
Chem Club	20
Dell Vikings	45

EAST LEAGUE

	W	L
*Baker Buffaloes	7	1
Mills Birch	6	2
Baker Broncos	6	2
Greenough Grants	6	2
Mills Cherries	4	4
Baker Barracudas	3	5
Brett Black Bears	2	6
Baker Bruins	2	6
Brett Chestnuts	1	7

*League Champions

Leading Scorer

Webster—Buffaloes	38
Ohlson—Buffaloes	37
Kimball—Cherries	37
Lawlor—Grants	32

Leading Passers

Polchlopek—Buffaloes	79	145
Goldberg—Birch	74	131
Stone—Broncos	38	94

Leading Receivers

Webster—Buffaloes	26
Ohlson—Buffaloes	17
Solomon—Birch	17
Leary—Broncos	15

Leading Pass Rushers

Neslon—Birch	10
Mudson—Birch	4
Ashley—Black Bears	3

Team Offense

Birch	167
Buffaloes	140
Broncos	117
Grants	110

Team Defense

Birch	52
Buffaloes	57
Broncos	64
Grants	69

SOUTH LEAGUE

	W	L
*Hills So. Hi-lo's	8	0
Gorman Elms	5	3
Wheeler Trojans	5	3
Hills No. Hoovers	4	4
Gorman Maples	4	4
Webster Rams	3	5
Gorman Oaks	2	6
Gorman Pines	2	6
Hills So. Hicks	2	7

*League Champions

Leading Scorers

Holcomb, F.—Hi-lo's	70
Fredricks—Hi-lo's	76

Leading Passers

Forys—Hi-lo's	100	174
Santos—Hoovers	38	86
Rogers—Maples	39	86

Leading Receivers

Fredricks—Hi-lo's	34
Holcomb—Hi-lo's	33
DeSiata—Rams	32
Campbell—Elms	26
Rowle—Hicks	21
McQuade—Maples	20

Leading Pass Rushers

McQuade—Maples	23
DeSiata—Rams	12
Sampson—Hoovers	5

Team Offense

Hi-lo's	210
Rams	96
Hoovers	89

Team Defense

Hi-lo's	53
Trojans	83

NORTHWEST LEAGUE

	W	L
*Grayson Aces	7	0
Chadbourne Maroons	6	1
Thatcher Redwoods	5	2
Butterfield Lemons	4	3
Chadbourne Eagles	2	5
Grayson Phallics	3	4
Thatcher Hemlocks	1	6
Butterfield Limes	0	7

*League Champions

Leading Scorers

Thomas—Aces	91
Larvey—Redwoods	69
Bakun—Maroons	67

Leading Passers

Alward—Maroons	167	111
Higney—Aces	100	68

Leading Receivers

Thomas—Aces	37
Murphy—Maroons	34
Bakun—Maroons	31
Mooradian—Lemons	29

Leading Pass Rushers

Simonds—Aces	8
Costa—Maroons	6

Team Offense

Maroons	203
Aces	197
Redwoods	183

Team Defense

Aces	38
Maroons	77

NORTH TOWER LEAGUE

	W	L
*James Comanchees	7	0
James Colt 45's	5	2
Kennedy Leopards	5	2
Kennedy Panthers	4	3
Kennedy Cougars	4	3
Kennedy Colonials	3	4
Kennedy Patriots	0	7
Kennedy Jaguars	0	7

*League Champions

Leading Scorer

Salvaggio—Comanchees	56
Pierce—Cougars	50
Hazzard—Leopards	47
Bigelow—Cougars	32

Leading Passers

Rush—Comanchees	12	24
Ward—Cougars	33	85
Mills—Colts	43	99
Mason—Patriots	27	77

Leading Receivers

Salvaggio—Comanchees	21
Bigelow—Cougars	19
Pierce—Cougars	17
Joudrey—Patriots	9

Leading Pass Rusher

Farrell—Comanchees	5
Richwalski—Patriots	3
Kean—Leopards	3

Team Offense

Comanchees	156
Cougars	139

Team Defense

Cougars	65
Leopards	65
Colt 45's	72

SOUTH TOWER LEAGUE

	W	L
*Terrors	5	0
"C" Crushers	3	2
Bulldozers	3	2
Huskies	2	3
Monuments	2	3
Senators	0	5

*League Champions

Leading Scorers

Freitas—Terrors	52
Riley—"C" Crushers	13

Leading Passers

Freitas—Terrors	35	70
Peterson—"C" Crushers	24	50

Leading Receivers

Riley—"C" Crushers	13
Francis—"C" Crushers	12
Simbro—"C" Crushers	7
Dombroski—Monuments	7

Team Offense

Terrors	112
"C" Crushers	52

Team Defense

Terrors	6

CENTRAL TOWER LEAGUE

	W	L
*Adams Smashers	7	0
Adams Spartans	6	1

(Continued on page 7)

If we were happy with the world the way it is, we wouldn't need you.

Kids choke on polluted air. Streets are jammed by cars with no place to go. Italy's priceless art and libraries are ravaged by floods. This is the way the world is, but it's not the way it has to be. Air pollution can be prevented. Better transportation can be devised. Something can even be done about the weather. Many people at General Electric are already working on these problems, but we need more. We need help from young engineers and scientists; and we need help from business and liberal arts graduates who understand people and their problems. If you want to help solve important problems, we'd like to talk to you. We'll be visiting campus soon. Drop by the placement office and arrange for an interview.

GENERAL ELECTRIC

An equal opportunity employer

Toole TD Caps Comeback

Frosh Win First, 14-12, Over URI

By PETE CARROLL
Staff Reporter

Overcoming a 12-7 deficit with a fourth period touchdown, the UMass freshmen defeated the University of Rhode Island frosh 14-12 at Alumni Stadium on Friday.

The Little Redmen drove 55 yards in the final period, with fullback Bob Toole plunging in from the one yard line to cap the drive. Most of the yardage was gained on the fine running of the UMass backs. There was only one pass—a clutch fourth down play from Dick Dyer to Nick McGarry to give the frosh a first down on the URI 25.

Rhode Island opened the scoring in the first quarter, with a 75 yard pass from Kurt Wicks to end Jerry Nestor. Their attempt for the extra point was blocked.

UMass came back in the second quarter to take a 7-6 lead with a 80 yard drive, most of the yardage being on the ground. Pat Scavone capped the drive with a three yard run. Ed Sapienza kicked the extra point. The running of Scavone, Sapienza and Dick Heavey highlighted the drive.

URI came right back for their second touchdown later in the second quarter, with John Bencivegna's scoring on a two yard run. The Rams got three chances for the two point conversion, due to penalties, but failed.

The Little Redmen defense was outstanding in the second half, holding URI scoreless and stopping the Rams four times inside the UMass fifteen yard line. The secondary also intercepted three URI passes.

Coach Dave Kelley was, for the most part pleased with his team's performance. The only part of the Redmen's game which was lacking, was the passing attack. It, however, was effective in the clutch.

Kelley was especially pleased with the booming punting of Pat Scavone, who averaged 42 yards per kick. Dick Heavey's 55 yard quick, the perfect conversion kicking of Ed Sapienza, who is six for six on the year, and the running attack of his backs which was in his own words, "great".

The coach further singled out the performances of John Ayleward, Peter Johnson, Don Shea and Tom Semino as worthy of praise. He also tabbed quarterback Joe Lang as a player to watch in the future.

Kelley said the team has "great desire" and that even after two tough losses, "made no excuses," and came back to win a tough ballgame.

The game was a hard-hitting one with several players getting shaken up. Pierre Marchando, alternate fullback and defensive tackle was injured with a pulled ligament in his leg. He was operated on over the weekend and will be out of action for the rest of the season.

Next Friday, the frosh team take on the Eaglets of Boston College at Alumni Stadium. B.C. is undefeated and ranked, along with Holy Cross, as being strong contenders for N.E. freshmen honors. A UMass victory, coupled with a Boston College defeat of Holy Cross, would thrust the Little Redmen into a position of being considered for those New England honors.

Collegian Photo by Charles Buyukian

Frosh quarterback Dick Dyer (10) is pursued by three URI defenders after making a short gain in action at Stadium on Friday.

Booters Lose to Tufts, 3-2, on Penalty Kick

by WALTER STACHURA
Staff Reporter

A fourth quarter penalty kick by Dan Wood led Tufts to a 3-2 win over the UMass soccer team Saturday at Varsity Field.

The game was a close, rugged encounter all the way.

Garry Gibbons got the Redmen off to a promising start with a low drive into the net at the 4:45 mark of the first quarter. The goal was Gibbons' first goal of the year.

The Jumbos missed a fine opportunity to tie the game when their penalty kick sailed over the net.

The Redmen were not as fortunate in the third quarter. Don Foster and Nathan Barnes scored two quick goals for Tufts early early in the third quarter.

Wilkie Ward tied it at 2-2 early in the fourth quarter. He kicked a loose ball into the net after Gery Ceililli's shot had hit the post.

Ward's effort proved in vain as Wood sent his penalty kick effort high into the left side of the net.

The Redmen had several chances after Wood's goal. Ward hit the top crossbar with a shot and Marty Smith's blast was blocked by a Tufts defenseman after the Jumbo's goalie had gone down to make a save.

The loss lowered the Redmens' record to 3-3 while Tufts now has a 5-3 mark.

UMass had 27 shots at goal while Tufts managed 20 at the Redmen goal. Steve Kramer had 13 saves while Tufts goalie George Earle came up with 14 saves.

(Continued on page 8)

Harriers Lose To Holy Cross

By JOEL FOX
Staff Reporter

WORCESTER—Paced by sensational sophmore runner Art Dulong, the Holy Cross cross-country team topped UMass, 21-35 Saturday.

The once-defeated Crusaders took first, third, fourth, fifth and eighth places on the way to victory. One bright spot for UMass was the performance of Charlie Lang, who covered the very chilly Holy Cross course in 23:46 to take second place. But following Lang across the line were Crusaders Art Martin, Jim Walsh and Jim Quinn.

The Redmen then tallied when Marc Gelinas and Paul Hoss finished sixth and seventh before the final Holy Cross scorer Joe O'Rourke came in. Rounding out the Redmen's top five finishers were Greg Bowman, ninth and Dave Evans, eleventh.

This was the first race run on this particular course. Therefore Dulong's time of 22:18 established a record. This was also the first time that coach Bill Footrick brought a cross-country team to Holy Cross for a meet so that the course was unfamiliar to the Redmen squad.

UMass Foes in Heavy Action Sat.

Dartmouth's last-minute victory over Harvard was the big game among Redmen opponents this week. Behind 21-20 late in the fourth quarter, the Indians capitalized on Crimson penalties as Pete Donovan booted a 21 yard field goal to give the Hanover tribe a 23-21 win.

A 94 yard kickoff return and an 85 punt return, both by little Billy Estey, carried the New Hampshire Wildcats to a 21-13, conquest of previously unbeaten Northeastern. The Cats used there patented handoff reverse on Estey's kickoff return.

Brendan McCarthy's three touchdowns led Boston College to a, 56-0, pasting of Maine. In recent weeks, the Eagles had been taking it on the nose themselves and so they poured out their frustrations on the hapless Black Bears.

Rhode Island kept its high scoring offense well-oiled as they passed the Bucknell Bisons into the ground 27-7. Larry Caswell had another great day at the Rams helm, firing three touchdown passes.

6'5inch Marty Domre, one of the nation's leading passers, passed Columbia to a 24-13, decision over Rutgers. The Scarlet Knights usually stout defense was perforated for a total of 427 yards by the fired-up Lions.

Davidson, behind its fine quarterback Jimmy Poole, capitalized on a number of Connecticut mistakes to beat the Huskies 38-18. UConn quarterback Pete Petrillo began the gloomy day at Storrs by fumbling on the very first play.

INTRAMURAL . . .

(Continued from page 6)

Adams Seagram 6's	5		2
Adams Academics	4		3
MacKimmie Lions	3		4
MacKimmie Marauders	2		5
Adams Bruisers	0		7
Adams Ironmen	0		7
*League Champions
Leading Scorers
Foley—Smashers			48
Zablerek—Spartans			14
Parmenter—Spartans			13
Leading Passers	Pt	Pc	Td
Edgar—Spartans	87	51	8
Craig—Smashers	90	50	14
Amanti—Lions	33	11	0
Leading Receivers			Pc
Zablerek—Spartans			29
Foley—Smashers			17
Leading Pass Rushers
Lavan—Spartans			6
Duby—Smashers			2
Team Offense
Smashers			99
Spartans			71
Seagram 6's			64
Team Defense
Smashers			25
Spartans			24

MOVIES 8:00 MAHAR

CASABLANCA

THE LAST HURRAH

TUES., OCT. 31, 1967 50c

Martin Shapiro – Treasurer '71

would like to thank all those who supported him in the election.

For information about Living Insurance, see The Man from Equitable. For career opportunities at Equitable, see your Placement Officer, or write: James L. Morice, Manager, College Employment.

The EQUITABLE Life Assurance Society of the United States

Home Office: 1285 Ave. of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10019
An Equal Opportunity Employer, M/F ©Equitable 1967

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
Sports
MONDAY, OCT. 30, 1967
Page 8 Vol. XCVI, No. 36

Landry Passes Redmen to Shutout Win Over BU

(Continued from page 1)

Tom Thornton tried to fool the Redmen defense by throwing a swing pass to Bob Calascibetta. Fine coverage, though by McArdle and Dennis Gray held the play to no gain, and UMass took over.

The Redmen behind Lowell's fancy footwork moved the ball up field, only to be stopped at fourth and one on the Terrier four.

UMass' final score came after Al Becker recovered a B.U. fumble.

On the third and six play at the Boston University 37 yard line, Grasso ran his favorite curl pattern to perfection, catching Landry's launch at the 20 yard line and outrunning a Terrier defender into the end zone. B.U. mounted two more attempts in the fourth quarter but both were halted by sophomore Tom York. York's interception stopped the first drive and his key tackle nailed Thornton on a fourth down play at the Redmen 12.

The defensive line of Kent Stevens, Marty Scheralis, Paul Mlinar and Tom York had by far its best day as a unit. By the end of the game the Terrier's offense resembled an intramural team's in organization due to the constant pressure of the Redmen line.

Veterans Bruce Gombar, Campbell, McArdle and Smith had their usual fine days while youngsters Bill Frye, Steve Rogers, and Gray were also major factors in the shut out effort.

SOCCER . . .

(Continued from page 7)

An indication of the roughness of the game was shown in the expulsion of Redmen Frank Howard and Bob Dubiel.

The Redmen have two important home games this week, meeting crosstown rival Amherst on Wednesday and Vermont on Saturday, a game which could decide the Yankee Conference title.

Conf. Standings

	W	L	T	PF	PA
Massachusetts	3	0	0	93	47
New Hampshire	2	1	0	53	19
Connecticut	2	1	0	52	41
Rhode Island	1	1	1	37	34
Vermont	1	2	1	30	54
Maine	0	4	0	16	86

Tonight's Intramurals

Time	Field	Opponents
6:30	5	Flaming A's-Dell Vikings
7:00	1	Smashers-Commanchees
	3	Buffaloes-Hilos
	4	QTV-SPE
	6	Colonials-Chem Club
8:30	1	Knights-winner of A's vs. Dell Vikings

Hot Sportline

For the latest results of UMass games (any sport) Sunday through Thursday nights, dial the Daily Collegian Hot Sportline — 5-0344. Metawampe's grid picks may be available to callers every Thursday night. Sorry, no verses will be read over the phone.

Collegian Photo by John Kelly

HITTING HARD—Sophomore defensive end Tom York (80) racks up a B.U. player, making him lose the ball. This play is indicative of a rough game in which 30 different penalties were called.

Collegian Photo by John Kelly

LOOK OUT BELOW — Bruce Cochrane (30) catches a Greg Landry pass and seems to be falling on B.U. defender Dick Farley (42). Chuck Tibaldi (89) pursues.

Collegian Photo by John Kelly

PARDON ME . . . John Decembrele bootlegs around to the right of Phil Gapinski for the Redmen.

Halloween Was Saturday

Rough Play Highlights UMass Win

By TOM FITZGERALD
Sports Editor

The ease with which they executed their fourth straight victory and Boston University's fifth straight loss was startling. It was the first UMass shutout since the 46-0 debacle at New Hampshire two years ago.

This was a B.U. team that had been tabbed by the pre-season experts as New England's finest. After Saturday, the most the Terriers could look forward to was a 4-5 season, provided they get by Rhode Island and Connecticut.

Spectators were probably wondering — has B.U. survived on press clippings alone?

By the fourth quarter, the press box crowd had focused its attention on a radio account of the Dartmouth-Harvard game, being played in the distance. The fans found other means of occupying themselves. Hundred stood to get a peek when a woman collapsed in their midst.

Even Johnny Most, who does the radio play-by-play for B.U. games, was at a loss for slurs.

The circumstances surrounding the death of B.U.'s football season were strange from the moment a plane flew overhead with a banner that read "Beat the Indians," apparently meant for the crowd at Harvard Stadium. The crew laying the red carpet for the B.U. Homecoming queen and her court at half time had all kinds of problems. A Buddliner running along the tracks between the endzone and the Charles River stopped play in the fourth quarter because the Redmen couldn't hear Greg Landry's signals.

At halftime, one Boston sportswriter said, "This is the best show of the day." He was watching the 100-member UMass Marching Band give their usual rousing performance under John Jenkins.

The band's show was called "Just for Fun." The football game might have been called "Just for Blood." Officials tossed their red flags on 30 different plays and marked off 96 yards on B.U. and 87 on UMass. Five penalties were declined, and twice offsetting penalties were called.

No one can accuse B.U. of any "Get Shultz" strategy. It was more of a "Get Anybody" philosophy. "We came out to play football," said an otherwise elated Vic Fusia in the locker room. "They came out to fight. You can't be a football player and a boxer at the same time."

In the second half, flanker Nick Stipanovich, who has replaced, the B.U.'s real bad boy, Reggie Rucker, took a 15-yard pass from Tom Thornton and was forced out of bounds. He promptly whirled and fired the ball off Ernie Smith's helmet, setting the Terriers back 15 yards.

Then B.U. defensive end Chuck Tibaldi became a little too rambunctious in his jousts with the UMass line. The refs marked off another 15 yards and ejected Tibaldi from the game.

Despite the roughness, Fusia stuck with Landry, who earlier had become the first New England college player ever to surpass the 4000-mark in career total offense, in the waning moments with the score already 24-0.

"At times when they were roughing him up," the coach said, "I wondered if I was doing the right thing. I was going to take him out but I looked up at the clock and there were six minutes left. This was such a big game, for us, a 'must' win."

Landry's total offensive show was 199 yards with 172 yards passing on 12 completions in 19 tries and 27 yards rushing on 17 attempts. He now has a grand total of 4101.

His backfield mates also gave B.U. headaches. Craig Lovell had carried the ball a total of two times in the other four games, but the soph penetrated the Terriers for 3 yards in 17 carries, an average of 4.5. The game's top rusher, he was breaking tackles all day. "This was his first real shot at it," said Fusia.

Lovell was taking the tailback slot in place of John Tutino, who reportedly withdrew from school last week.

OOPS! — Rough play highlights Saturday's encounter at B.U.

Perhaps the biggest story was that of Jerry Grasso, who scored two nifty touchdowns on passes from Landry. Playing just a 10-second dash from his home in Everett was apparently the perfect stimulus.

On his first touchdown near the end of the first half, he was heading for the sideline after the catch to stop the clock with 45 seconds left. But linebacker Pat Hughes, Grasso's old teammate at Everett High, missed the tackle, and Jerry waltzed into the endzone.

But the stern-willed UMass defensive unit constantly determined the course of the game. "In fact," said Fusia, "the offense didn't take advantage many times when the defense turned the ball over in good field position."

He singled out linebackers Ernie Smith and Dennis Gray for praise, and added, "Of course, Bill Frye and Mike McArdle have been playing good ball. And I was pleased with the take-charge attitude of Steve Roges."

Fusia didn't seem particularly surprised at the one-sideness of the game. "I'll have to look at the movies to see whether or not it was an easy game," he said.

Daily Collegian Photos by Frank Gore

Multi-colored and imaginative costumes were in style last night in the Student Union Ballroom.

The Student Union Special Events Committee sponsored its annual Halloween party for the sons and daughters of faculty and grad students. Over 100 tots, ages 2-8, were amazed at the tricks of magician Michael Roberts. Following Roberts's act, was the costume parade. Winners in the boys' division were Andy Coler and Charles Phillips. In the girls division, winners were Robin Munson and Susan Surner. Wrapping up the night's activities were three cartoons.

The goblins will get you, if you don't watch out!

The Massachusetts

Daily Collegian

A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOL. XCVI, NO. 37 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | TUESDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1967

Varied Opinions Registered In Area on Conscientious Objection

by GEORGE CERULO
Staff Reporter

Mixed emotions and opinions were expressed to THE DAILY COLLEGIAN by members of the UMass community over the growing number of young Americans claiming conscientious objection to the Vietnam War.

The newspaper discussed CO attitudes with religious, administrative and military officials at the University.

Dr. Dean A. Allen, UM health services clinical psychologist and member of the Executive Committee for the Valley Peace Center of Amherst, said that "the public is not very well informed" about the Vietnam War and that there is a need for "another vehicle" to enlighten Americans of the facts. He said the Valley Peace Center seeks to remedy this problem by helping to "facilitate and coordinate activities for peace and relief from international tensions. The Peace Center will not speak for anyone but will give everyone the opportunity to speak for himself," he said. The center, he added, does not condone the use of violence in its public protest against the Vietnam War.

Rev. David A. Purdy, Protestant minister at UM, referring to the Vietnam War said, "I'm very much against this war. It is immoral, irreligious and against the interest of the country and people." He suggested that there should be a wider latitude in U.S. laws to permit possible alternatives to military service for CO's who are against the Vietnam War but not against all wars. He believes "people can serve their country other than serving in a nationally established program."

George Emery, veterans coordinator at UM, said, "I have every respect for a man's religious feelings." He would help any CO who objected to military conscription because of his religious beliefs. However, Emery is not sympathetic toward individuals who pretend CO in order to shirk obligations. Referring to so-called peaceful demonstrations, Emery said he objected to "militant" protests.

Lt. Col. Delter Wiseman, executive officer for the ROTC detachment at UM, said, "We have a system of law and if people abide by the law they should be entitled to conscientious objection. It is not a matter for the Army to decide the validity of cases of conscientious objection." The Army, he emphasized, recognizes the responsibility of civil authorities to determine the legitimacy of CO. Soldiers who object to killing are given noncombatant assignments, he noted.

James E. Faulkner, Northampton's City Clerk and Chairman of Selective Service Board No. 15, was quoted in the Amherst Student as saying, "The Hampshire Draft Board does not rule on the merit of these cases, but merely to create a precedent unfavorable to those seeking CO status." The Daily Hampshire Gazette stated last week that Chairman Faulkner has threatened to change deferments of marchers in his jurisdiction from II-S to I-A. The II-S classification allows deferment for college or grad study and the I-A classification makes an individual available for military duty.

The war in Vietnam has brought the entire matter of CO

(Continued on page 2)

Nobel Prize Awarded To Cornell Physicist

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Prof. Hans A. Bethe of Cornell University, who helped develop the atomic bomb, won the 1967 Nobel Prize in physics Monday.

He was cited for helping unlock the secret of where the sun and other stars get their enormous energy.

For the second straight year and the 18th time since 1901, no Nobel Peace Prize will be awarded this year. The prize committee was unable to agree on a person or institution in the world that best promoted disarmament and "the fraternity of nations."

The Nobel chemistry prize was shared by three men, George Porter and Ronald George Wreyford Norrish of Britain and Manfred Eigen of West Germany, for their studies of extremely fast chemical reactions taking place at speeds approaching one one-thousandth of a millionth of a second.

Bethe, 61, was born in Germany, he went to Cornell, at Ithaca, N.Y. He has been professor of theoretical physics at Cornell since 1937. Bethe was director of the theoretical physics section at Los Alamos from 1943 to 1946, during development of the first atomic bombs. He received the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission's Enrico Fermi Prize in 1961.

The Swedish academy noted that scientists had failed to explain in terms of chemical reactions how stars could emit tremendous amounts of energy continuously over billions of years. It said Bethe, by means of extensive theoretical computations of nuclear reactions, showed how the sun, and stars like it, could generate energy by changing hydrogen atoms into helium. Similar energy-producing reactions in other types of stars involve atoms of carbon.

The Nobel Peace Prize committee, composed of five members of Norway's Storting, or Parliament, made no explanation of its announcement in Oslo that the prize would be withheld this year. The committee had received a record 47 nominations.

Louise Day Hicks Falls To 26% as Voters' Choice

BOSTON (AP) — TV station WNAC-TV said Sunday its poll of 1,016 Boston voters indicated a "voter preference" of 49% for Sec. of State Kevin White and 26% for School Committeewoman Mrs. Louise Day Hicks in the Nov. 7 mayorality contest.

WNAC-TV said the "undecided voter" total was 25% and that the "undecided voter looks more like a Hicks voter than a White voter."

In the September preliminary election Mrs. Hicks topped all 10 contestants by a wide margin. White won the second run-off spot for the two-candidate November contest.

The station said its "Hicks-White Election Survey" showed that White is favored in all sections of the city except So. Boston, Charlestown and the North End for the November election.

The station said its survey showed White would retain 91% of the persons who voted for him in the preliminary election, while Mrs. Hicks would retain 85%.

Issues most frequently listed by those polled, the station said, were taxes, schools and police protection, with city services and the racial situation taking fourth and fifth place.

Beauty versus Progress

President's Garden to Remain Intact

by JOHN E. HEALEY
Feature Reporter

Preservation of trees in a University garden is just one of the many problems with which the Planning and Landscape Architectural Departments have had to contend in plotting a roadway running around the central campus.

"The proposed road that will be built on campus will in no way harm the rhododendron garden nor the trees planted there," William Lambert, University architect, told the Daily Collegian this week.

The garden is in the area between Wilder Hall and the president's home.

In 1876, Col. William S. Clarke, the second president of the Massachusetts Agricultural College, was asked by the Imperial Government of Japan to go to Japan and establish a school there similar to M. A. C. Col. Clarke accepted the invitation and went to the island of Hokkaido where at Sappora he helped establish what eventually became the University of Hokkaido.

The trees Clarke found in Japan fascinated him, and he sent back seeds to the College. The seeds were nutured on campus and eventually planted.

In following years, Dr. William Brooke, successor to Col. Clarke, also took trips to Japan. He returned with more seeds.

As a result of the efforts of Clarke and Brooke, some of the most unusual trees in this country are now on the UMass campus.

A report, entitled 'Some Japanese Trees Growing at Massachusetts State College,' (undated and with no author) indicates that the following were among the originally planted trees: a Sagdratia Cork Tree, a Sargent Cherry, a Katsura, Japanese Maples, a Japanese Elm, dwarfed Japanese Maples, a Manchurian Walnut, a Japanese Larch, a Silver Magnolia and an Umbrella Pine.

In an interview with the Daily Collegian, Professor Raymond H. Otto of the Landscape Architectural Department updated the history of the trees. "The cherry tree died of old age," he said, "and we had to cut it down. The Katsura and lilac also had to be removed. The two Japanese Umbrella Pines are among the most difficult trees to grow, but they are beautiful trees. It is unfortunate that the top of one of these was destroyed during the 1938 hurricane," he said.

Professor Otto added that not only are the Japanese trees of interest; there are other trees of equal importance which grow in the garden. "Of special note," he said, "are the three beech trees. All are perfectly formed." The trees are an American Beech, an European Beech and a Cut-Leaf Beech.

"In fact," said Lambert, "the only danger to the trees at present is the students." He said that as a result of constant pedestrian traffic, the soil became so packed that some of the trees were be-

(Continued on page 2)

Student Deferment Ensures Freedom from Draft Worry

By MARTIN GLENDON
Staff Reporter

An interview with George E. Emery, Placement Officer in charge of Veteran's Affairs and the draft status of students at UMass revealed that there is virtually no possibility of students being drafted as long as they are engaged in full time study toward a baccalaureate degree.

However Mr. Emery expressed deep concern over the fact that students often fail to take the initiative to request the draft deferment from their local draft boards. The boards cannot grant a deferment if they are uninformed as to the students' eligibility.

Students who reach the age of eighteen while at the University need only to contact Mr Emery's office and he will take care of initial draft registration with the local boards. This service spares the student the problem of registering at his local board when it may be far from the University.

There are currently two deferment classifications available to UMass students. The 2-S is renewable and may be obtained by students making normal progress without interruptions. Those ineligible for a 2-S, due to interruption of college career, may obtain a 1-S if they have returned to full time study. The 1-S will provide an exemption only until the end of one term.

Smith Presents Pina Carmirelli In Violin Recital

Pina Carmirelli, the noted Italian violinist, will present a recital at Smith College at Northampton on Tuesday evening, November 7. She will appear in John M. Greene Hall at 8:15 p.m.

Mme. Carmirelli's recital is the second event in this year's concert course at Smith College. Tickets may be obtained through the department of music or at the John M. Greene Hall box office on the evening of the performance.

The program which Mme. Carmirelli has chosen includes sonatas by four major composers.

Amendment Proposed To Senate Constitution

An amendment to the Student Government Association Constitution to elect the Student Senate President in a campus-wide ballot will be heard at the Constitutional Convention meeting Wednesday evening at 6:30 at Room 116 of the School of Business Administration Building.

The amendment would strike the section of the constitution which presently provides for electing the Senate President by the members of the Senate.

(See the Editorial page for comment on the proposal.)

The bill, proposed by Bruce Balboni, President of the Class of 1970 and Paul Silverman, Treasurer of the Student Senate, is as follows:

The President of the Student Senate will be elected popularly in an all campus election concurrent with the elections of the three other Senate officers who will be elected from within the Senate (in the spring). He will preside over the Student Senate and officially be known as Student Body President.

To be considered for candidacy one must have served in the Student Senate from the first academic year Senate election in the fall to the date of the presidential election in the spring without interruption.

Two weeks before the final election a primary election will be held within the Student Senate to designate the two eligible candidates. There can be an unlimited number of nominations made and seconded. No Senator may make more than one nomination. A series of secret ballots will be cast; the candidate with the lowest vote total being eliminated each time. When the list has reached two, these two candidates remaining shall have their names placed on the ballot in the all-campus Student Body President election.

The elections chairman will arrange the campaign. There will be no posters, fliers or other printed matter whatsoever distributed, mailed, etc., by either candidate or his supporters. This includes newspaper ads. Penalty for this rule is disqualification from the election. The campaign will consist entirely of joint public addresses and joint radio addresses (debates), plus candidates' forums in the Collegian.

Balloting will be held for two days in the Student Union.

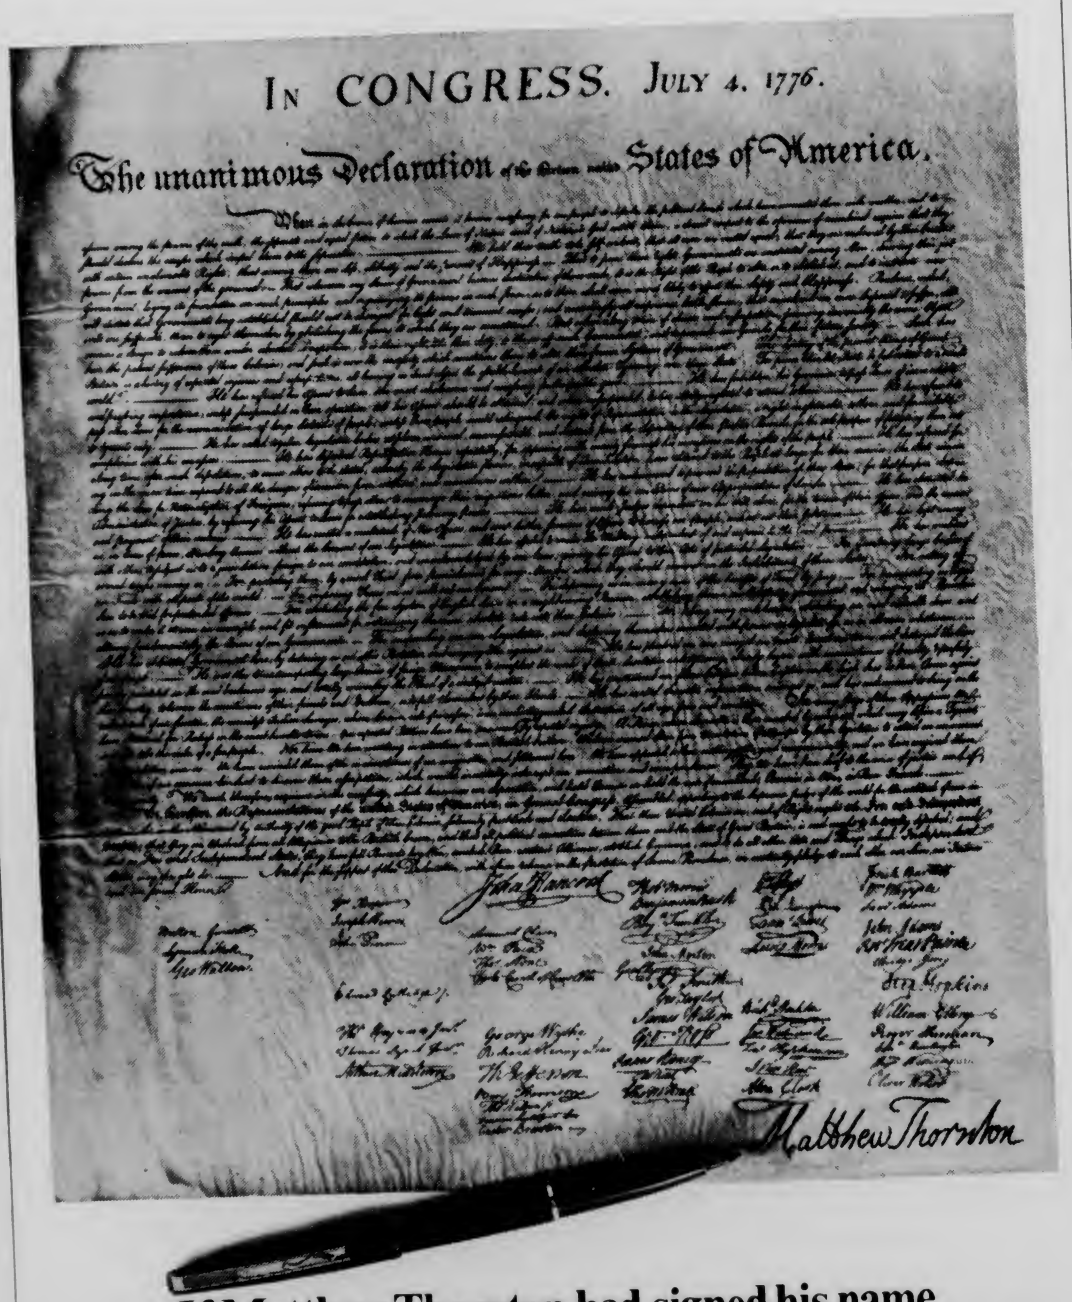
This amendment will take effect immediately and applies to the 1968 election of a Student Body President.

Judiciary Selections for Area West, Southwest Complex, will be conducted November at 6:30 p.m. in the Student Union.

Three Women's positions are open to all upperclass, sophomore, junior and senior, and Stockbridge women.

PRESIDENT'S GARDEN . . .

(Continued from page 1)



coming oxygen starved, and men from the landscaping department have had to bore holes in the soil and pump in oxygen. "We plan to reroute the pedestrian traffic away from the area of the trees," said Lambert.

"By 1980 we could have a campus population of 30,000," said Professor Otto, a former head of the Planning Department. "M.A.C. began as an agricultural college with a few buildings widely separated by open land. This was in keeping with the traditional atmosphere of rural life. During the transitional years from the old 'College' to the University, land has become more valuable and we have had to make more intensive use of it. Sometimes, although we don't like the fact, it becomes necessary for us to take land hitherto considered sacred . . . but there is nothing else we can do."

VARIED OPINIONS . . .

(Continued from page 1)

classification under criticism. The present law requires that a man must be conscientiously opposed to participation in all wars to qualify for CO status. There has been a tendency for courts to liberalize the test of "religious training and belief" and belief in a Supreme Being required by law of the legitimate CO. However, many draftable Americans are ill informed of their rights and they fall victim to the arbitrary decisions of local draft boards, according to a statement available at the Chaplain's Office.

If Matthew Thornton had signed his name with the Scripto Reading Pen, he'd be remembered today.

Scripto's new Reading Pen makes what you write easier to read. That's why Scripto calls it the Reading Pen. It's a new Fiber-Tip pen that writes clear and bold. Not a fountain pen, not a ball-point, this is an entirely new kind of pen with a durable Fiber-Tip. Get the refillable Reading Pen for $1. Refills come in 12 colors. Available in a non-refillable model for 39¢. Write with Scripto's new Reading Pen. You'll be remembered.

New fiber tip from Scripto

Pres. Lederle Checks Lights and Students

by LAWRENCE V. KLEINMAN
Associated Press Writer

John W. Lederle is the kind of a guy who goes around making sure the lights are off and trash cans are empty.

He also watches over the operations and tends to the educational care of 15,380 students at the University of Massachusetts.

Lederle, 55, became president of the rapidly growing institution in 1960 after successful careers in law, public administration and as a college instructor.

"As president of UMass," Lederle said, "I utilize everything I've ever been. Hopefully, my training outside of the academic world helps to make me a better president."

Lederle, who received his degrees from the University of Michigan, began his career as a lawyer in Detroit in 1936. "My law background helps me now," he said, "because it was training in clear thinking and expression, the concise writing of papers and respect for detail."

In 1941, Lederle became a political science instructor at Brown University in Providence, R.I. When he left Brown four years later, Lederle was assistant dean of the college.

"As administrator of a university my work as a teacher and educator has key importance because academic administration is different from other sorts," he said. "At a university, independent thought and a clash of minds are desirable — not something to be feared."

Lederle worked in several capacities at the University of Michigan from 1944 until he became president of UMass in 1960. He was Michigan's comptroller and head of the state's Department of Administration in 1953-54.

While comptroller, Lederle had dealings with the state legislature "and having experience in dealing with a state legislature is a great help to any president of a state university."

Lederle maintains an open-door policy for students and believes in letting them know where he stands.

"Students frequently feel they don't get straight answers and when that happens it's a bad situation," he said.

He gave them this straight talk in his September convocation address:

"We need a broader student understanding of the fact that there cannot be a double standard in which they demand treatment like adults on the one hand and then, on the other hand, when they get into the toils of the law, seek special treatment as students or juveniles. If they accept freedoms they must also accept the concomitant responsibilities. The university will not come to the rescue.

"So far as drugs are concerned, we are an educational institution — not a laboratory away from home for experimentation in hallucinations and fantasia."

Yale Abandons Jacket and Tie

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Confronted by sloppily dressed students wearing jackets and ties, Yale College's masters have decided to insist only on a "reasonably neat appearance" in dining halls.

Abandoning the 10-year-old jacket and tie requirement may actually make for better-dressed students, according to Georges May, dean of Yale College.

SUBMIT ! ! TO CAESURA !

We need people! The business of Caesura is to publish a magazine. This involves more than creative or critical talent. Caesura lives! But it cannot live long without more people as general staff members. We also need people for our Editorial, Prose, Poetry, and Art Staffs.

Caesura, the only literary magazine on campus, has been in existence for several years, and hopes to continue for several more. Each issue contains short stories, poetry, and artwork, submitted by the student body in general. Caesura is still alive, and planning to publish in the near future.

There will be a meeting for all those interested on Nov. 1, at 6:15 p.m. in the Franklin Room of the Student Union.

CAESURA LIVES!!! PASS THE GOOD WORD !

SU Leaders Participate In Unions Conference

The Student Union Program Council and members of the Student Union Governing Board will be attending the 19th annual Associated College Unions Conference this weekend at MIT. The member colleges of the Association number in the hundreds, so the colleges have been divided into regions to make conventions more feasible. The University is a member of Region One, comprised of the New England states, Canada, and England.

The purposes of the ACU conference through the years have been to draw together the student leaders from various colleges and have a general exchange of ideas, in hopes of improving the functioning of the Student Union. Also more intercollegiate co-operation in the form of newsletters, block-booking of professional entertainers, and more co-sponsored social events among neighboring schools have been stressed.

This year an innovation in the form of Operation Springboard has been added. There will be 3 topics discussed: 1) Program—Problem Solving; 2) Human relations; and 3) Publicity, Advertising and the Graphic Arts. Experts in the fields of graphic arts, human relations and project planning will present information valuable to Union Boards no matter how large or small the schools are. Small group seminars are planned to provide a depth of understanding. Operation Springboard should offer a new learning experience in the fundamental modern techniques vital to success in Union programming and operation.

Staff members attending the conference from the University are: Miss Shiela McRevey, Mrs. Lois Frey, Gerald Scanlon, and Richard Davis. The Program Council is sending Jean Lakness, Susan Ostrander, Theresa McDonough, Sue Finneran, Paul Holton, Martha Preston, Rick Volpe, Cheryl Martin, and Cathy Campbell. Representing the SUG Board will be Jerry Paquette, Susan Brady, Neal Whitman and Sander Ross.

Daily Collegian
Vietnam
Opinion Poll
Nov. 6, 7
S.U. Lobby

NOTICES

PRE-MED CLUB
On Nov. 6 at 7:45 P.M. in Public Health Aud., Dr. Lester S. Dewis, Assistant Dean of BU Med. School will speak.

HILLEL
On Oct. 31, 1967 Passover refunds are being distributed. A thru M on Tues. 10 A.M. to 5 P.M. in Hillel Office. N thru Z is Thurs. 10 to 5 P.M.

NEWMAN CLUB
Philosophy class "Theater of Gabriel Marcle" is every Wed. at 7:30 P.M. in Room 2 with Fr. Bennett.
Choir rehearsals every Tues. evening from 7-9 P.M. in Chapel.

INTERNATONAL CLUB
Coffee hour Wed. 6:30 P.M. features Greece. It is in Governor's lounge, S.U. Mixer will be held Friday at Memorial Hall at 8 P.M. Charge, 50c boys. 25c girls.

MOVIES
Tues., Oct. 31, at 8 P.M. "Casablanca," and "The Last Hurrah" will be shown in Mahar Aud. Admission is 50c.

ARTHUR FIEDLER CONCERT
FREE undergraduate admission with ID to concert, Yomiuri Nippon Symphony. It is Nov. 2, at 8 P.M. in "Cage".

PUBLIC HEALTH SEMINAR
Highlights of the 95th Annual Meeting of the American Public Health Association in Miami, Florida, will be the subject of the Graduate Seminar in Public Health to be held this Wednesday, Nov. 1, at 3:30 p.m. in Room 406 of the Public Health Bldg.

HEYMAKERS SQUARE DANCE CLUB
On Wed., Nov. 1 in S.U. Ballroom at 7:30 P.M. there will be a meeting. Please come.

LOST:
Romer Inca block wristwatch between Morrill and Amherst center. Has black leather strap, black face-dial, non-sweeping second-hand, old looking. Bring to Collegian office. Reward offered.
Pair of amber frame glasses. Lost in Southwest Area. Call 6-8356.
Security Guard Cap lost, in Student Union on Sun. night, at 8:15 P.M. on Oct. 29th. Please return to S.U. lobby counter or Security Dept.

PINNINGS:
Wendy Barbeau '69, Thoreau to Steven Darling '69, UMass Boston.
Karen Haley '70, Crampton to Mark Butler '68, McKimmie.

ENGAGEMENT:
Jan Arnolve '71, Patteron, to John Benjamin '66, Cornell.

AIR FORCE
For Jan. grads—Officer Training Specialist is in Hampden Room of S.U. every Tues. from 9-3 P.M. For more information, call Sgt. Charles Petrella in Holyoke, collect 536-0546.

FREE DELIVERY TO UNIVERSITY—6 to 11 p.m. every night
RAPP'S DELICATESSEN
AND RESTAURANT
— Two Locations —
AMHERST, MASS. Next to Peter Pan
STORRS, CONN. Rts. 195 & 44A—Next to A&P

SANDWICHES
Corned Beef .85
Pastromi .85
Roast Beef .85
Tongue .90
Rolled Beef .85
Salami .70
Bologna .65
Liverwurst .65
Turkey .85
Tuna Salad .55
Egg Salad .50
Bagel with Cream Cheese .35
Bagel with Cream Cheese and Lox .75
American Cheese .45
Swiss Cheese .45
Chopped Liver .85

SALADS
Potato Salad .25
Homemade Coleslaw .25
Sauerkraut .20
Macaroni .20

DESSERTS
Cheesecake
Almond Horns Almond Tarts
Choc. Chip Cookies Brownies
Eclairs Cake Others

BEVERAGES
Canned Soda .20
Pepsi — Sprite — Coke — Grape
Root Beer — Orange — Ginger Ale
Diet Pepsi

Order a Pickle
Try Swiss Cheese, American Cheese or Coleslaw on your Sandwich—Be Brave
"ENJOY AT RAPP'S"
Phones: Amherst 256-6759 — Storrs 429-6429

World News Roundup

From the Wires of the Associated Press

News Briefs

DETROIT—The threat of simultaneous strikes by the United Auto Workers against Chrysler Corp.'s Canadian and U.S. operators was raised Monday as union and company negotitators bargained for new contracts on both sides of the border.

The key issue would be equal pay for American and Canadian workers, which UAW Pres. Walter P. Ruther says "was the only major" demand the union didn't win from Ford Motor Co.

• • •

ATHENS, Greece—Four civilian ministers in the Greek military government have resigned, a communique announced Monday night.

It was the first time since the army took over the country on April 21 that any ministers had resigned.

• • •

WASHINGTON — Arthur J. Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the U.N., is to appear before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Thursday to discuss pending Senate resolutions aimed at placing the Vietnam question in U.N. hands.

• • •

NEW YORK—James M. Roche, who joined General Motors Corp. as a statistician, was named board chairman and chief executive officer of the company Mon.

Soviet Satellites Dock in Space

MOSCOW (AP)—Guided by computers, two unmanned Soviet satellites docked in space Monday and sailed along for 3½ hours sending photos to earth before separating, an official announcement said.

This first unmanned satellite docking was an apparent preparation for a later assembly in space of huge orbiting platforms to be used as launching pads for manned flights far out into space.

The United States has had nine space dockings with manned spacecraft.

The announcement carried by the official Tass news agency said the two satellites "equipped with special approach systems and docking units, carried out a number of complicated maneuvers in space, automatically finding each other, drawing closer, berthing and docking rigidly."

Engines aboard the satellites —Cosmos 186 and Cosmos 188 then kicked them into new separate orbits. The announcement said all maneuvers were executed successfully and television cameras also on board sent pictures to earth of the docking and separation.

The Soviet Union has yet to achieve the rendezvous and docking of orbiting satellites with men aboard. This was first achieved by the United States in December 1965 with the Gemini 6 and 7 spaceships.

King Arrested In Birmingham

by JAN WALKER
Associated Press Writer

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) —Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and three of his aides were arrested as they stepped from an airplane Monday and were taken to jail to spend five days behind bars for contempt of court.

In a surprise move, sherriff's deputies foiled demonstrators gathered in front of the Birmingham jail and took King and his colleagues to the county's jail in Bessemer.

Sheriff Mel Bailey said this step was taken because of the pickets. He said it was safer to take the four men into the Bessemer jail, but they might be moved later.

Arrested with King were his brother, the Rev. A. D. King of Louisville, Ky., the Rev. Wyatt T. Walker of New York and the Rev. Ralph Abernathy of Atlanta, Ga.

Cong Counter Inauguration

SAIGON (AP) — U. S. troops, artillery and planes smashed a Viet Cong company Monday in the jungles north of Saigon, bringing enemy losses there to more than 200 in two days, a military spokesman reported.

Close to Saigon, the U. S. 199th Light Infantry Brigade and South Vietnamese troops were clearing a circle around the city in an attempt to thwart Viet Cong threats to shell the inaugural ceremony Tuesday of President-elect Nguyen Van Thieu.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, President Johnson's representative at the ceremony, spent Monday with troops in the field. Included was a visit to the barracks ship Benewah, part of the U.S. Riverine Force of shallow draft vessels designed to go in and root out guerrillas in the Mekong Delta. He handed out Purple Heart medals to the wounded.

The Pentagon denied Hanoi's claim that an eight-engine B52 strategic bomber was shot down Sunday in a raid north of the demilitarized zone.

Viet Cong troops launched a second major assault in 48 hours Tuesday on a town 70 miles north of Saigon and a U.S. 1st Infantry Division spokesman said, "It looks like they are determined to take this place to counter the inauguration."

President Nguyen Van Thieu took the oath of office as South Vietnam's elected president and offered direct peace talks with Hanoi.

US Command said Navy pilots fought a dogfight with four Soviet-built intercepters and the MIG was dropped by an air-to-air missile. The U.S. raids included strikes on four of North Vietnam's airfields.

INFIRMARY WAITING TIME

varies considerably during the day. It is consistently short early in the morning; it is almost as consistently long in the latter part of the afternoon.

In the interest of saving your time we suggest that you try to make outpatient visits early in the morning, as soon after 8 a.m. as possible.

Also please try to avoid visits from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. unless your problem is urgent (or unless you have classes all day).

University Health Services

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Care Enough--Write!

The chairmen of the Democratic and Republican state organizations in Massachusetts spoke last Friday to seniors at Brockton High School.

The Republican, Joseph Spaulding, said "the state government . . . can 'go' only as far as interested and capable persons take it." The Democrat, Lester Hyman, said, "wide-spread involvement is crucial."

This isn't an editorial to say, "you're apathetic and the condition is a terrible one." Apathy stuff is insulting. Anyway, we don't believe that apathy exists; there are, however, wide gaps in communication.

We were impressed by what happened at Brockton.

Hyman asked the students how many favored lowering the voting age to 18. A show of hands indicated that the lowered age was a nearly unanimous opinion. But only about 10 of the 800 students, the Boston Globe report continued, indicated that they could name their representatives.

Hyman told them that "I've heard legislators say young people don't want change in this matter."

He also said "Rarely do legislators hear from more than handfuls of citizens before they vote on important issues."

The primary message of Spaulding and Hyman was the "how and why of getting into politics."

We're not asking that every student get into politics. But we favor writing to those who represent us in our governments.

The latest budget requests by the Board of Trustees, asking again for a Fine Arts Teaching Center, would make excellent subject matter for a letter to state representatives.

—THE EDITORS

Sam Spark Speaks Out

Truth, Justice, and the American Way

About a thousand people went over to Northampton the other day to protest for the right of protestors to protest. They marched around City Hall carrying signs requesting rights such as freedom of speech and non-violence. Apparently, these sentiments did not concur with the philosophy of the resident patriots of Northampton.

The anti-protestors protested that the protestors had no right to protest for the rights of other protestors. They made their feelings known by calling the demonstrators "dirty commies," "fags," "cowards," and other terse epithets.

As the dmmonstration came to an end, I decided to confront one of the jeering champions of democracy to ascertain his precise feelings on freedom of speech. He was carrying a sign that urged the abolition of Martin Luther King.

"You're a dirty commie," he said after he spat in my face.

"Are you calling me a commie because you really believe it or is it not a mere exhibition of frustration because of your inability to solve your Oedipal conflict?" I asked.

"You'd better bet I believe it," he said as he proceeded to beat me over the head with his sign.

"Surely we can discuss this intelligently," I said as he began to kick me in the shins.

"If you were in Russia, where you belong, you wouldn't have this right of freedom of speech," he said as he punched me in the ribs.

"I guess you're right," I conceded as I went sprawling to the ground. And while my adversary's well-placed kicks began bombarding my stomach, I thanked my lucky stars that I lived in a country where the right of freedom to dissent is respected by all.

All letters to the editor must be typed at 60 spaces and double-spaced. They should not exceed 60 lines. Letters are subject to editing and condensation. The writer's signature and address must be on the letter. Letters which are unsigned will not be printed. Names will be withheld on request. Letters not printed will be answered.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union . . . University of Massachusetts . . . Amherst, Mass.

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Chester S. Weinerman '68
MANAGING EDITOR ..... John H. Dean, Jr. '69
BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Charles Smith '69

News Day Editor: Sally Dolgin, Editorial Day Editor: Dick Geikie, Sports Day Editor: John Sullivan

News Editors ..... Ron LaBreeque '70, Richard Kline '70
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Glenn Briere '69
Advertising Managers ..... Dot Silvin '69, Sharon Kramer '69
Editorial Chairman ..... Pat Petow '68
Photo Editor ..... Paul Boliver '68
Sports Editor ..... Tom FitzGerald '69

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Published at the Massachusetts Daily Collegian, Student Union, UMass., Amherst, Mass. 01002.

Member of the Associated Collegiate Press. Member of the Collegiate Press Service of the United States Student Press Association. Member of the Associated Press. The Associated Press is entitled exclusively to the use for reproduction of all the local news printed in this newspaper as well as all AP news dispatches.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed five times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; three or four times weekly the week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amended by the act of June 11, 1934.

Subscription price: $6.00 per year; $3.50 per semester.

Campus Comment

A Responsible Press

To the editor:

I have a question to pose to the editors and staff of the Collegian. As an organ of communication between students, faculty and administration, the paper's responsibility is not only to inform, but also to provide perspectives of the full scope of opinion on issues. Simple reporting is not the answer, for factual reporting should preclude opinion and bias, and yet the audience expects some kind of editorial opinion, in which the viewpoint of the paper is elucidated. Therefore, as the title implies, the editors must be directly responsible for this formulation of meaningful editorials.

Editorials are supposed to do what the rest of the paper ethically is not supposed to do, and that is, whether directly or indirectly, to make known the feelings of the paper towards issues. They are not supposed to cling to the middle of the road, as it appears the Collegian editors have done. It makes for quite innocuous and disinteresting reading. They ought to possess the courage to voice a distinct opinon.

On a campus as progressive as this once appeared to be, neutral editorials are worthless. Occasionally, the editors arrive at conclusions of some sort in the paper, but these seem to concern themselves with rehashed problems such as drinking, drugs, etc. In effect all they are are paraphrases of what has been said a thousand times before.

Why can't the editors tackle issues relating directly, and I mean directly, to student-faculty-administration problems? There is an overabundance of issues from which they could choose, ranging from general topics such as student ideas on teachers and on the education process itself, to more specific problems such as student ideas on the liberal education as provided by the general course requirements prescribed by the administration. Why can't (or won't) editorials voice a clear opinion, instead of offering only pre-chewed argumentation?

A frequent cause of alarm in the Collegian is the student (and faculty) apathy prevalent on campus. Cries of "Participate" and "Voice an opinion!" emanate constantly from the paper. But the question is "How!" when the paper is as apathetic as the students? Perhaps it should take its own advice.

An interesting case in point is the recent altercation with the Amherst Police by the editor-in-chief of the Collegian. It made the front page. There was a biting criticism of the force. Charges were made editorial comment was strongest it had ever Wonderful, but why can paper show the same for ness and controversiality matters other than what a the newspaper directly? troversy is a quintessent the remedy for apathy. shame that the Collegia longs to Massachusetts tion, for, being the most ful printed media conce campus affairs, it could great deal in re-establ student participation if it climb out of its pabium of existence into some more vitalizing.

Hence, the question must the Collegian maint presently painful subordi and half-hearted expressi editing material and op when in effect, they are sically valueless on a c which demands clarity of point and provocative s leadership?

Kenneth A. Pot
1409 John Adams

The Daily Collegian has added one new telephone number and changed another.

The new number, 545-0344, has been assigned to the Sports staff, while business and advertising has been changed from 549-0716 to 545-0311.

The News Desk, or "Hot Line," remains 545-2550 as does the Editor's number, 549-1311.

Greg's Gang

To the editor:

You've gone too far this time—humor on the sports page!!! We have always considered this spot as the last bastion of the good, the true, and the beautiful. But our little world has been shattered.

How could you make fun of a grand fellow like Greg Landry? Anybody whose family is characterized by affection and devotion doesn't deserve the mocking treatment of a Martha Curran story. I mean, he's not even a rah-rah football player—by his own admission.

Besides, Greg is a sensible boy: on the football field he wears a helmet, shoulder pads, a jersey uniform, and the number eleven; not, I repeat, not a button-down, pinstripe Oxford and beige slacks. He's just quite a guy.

Please, in the future, reserve your sarcasm for less important matters.

Bill Dickinson
Jane Karcher

Vietnam Ball Starts Monda For Undergra

The Massachusetts D Collegian will conduct a nam Ballot next week w will be open to all underg

The Ballot will ask the tion, "What should we Vietnam now?" and will four possible answers plu open-end answer.

The voting [illegible] be he the Student Union lobby Nov. 6 and 7 9 a.m.-5:30 pm Students be required to show the before voting.

Daily Collegian Photo by Bob Gosciminski

At Summer's End

The summer has gone and it appears that there won't be any Indian Summer this year. The colored leaves of Autumn have fallen from the trees and everything is either heading South or into some shelter.

Along with the approaching weather comes the clear days that blow away the haze that usually surrounds the area. The Fall harvest has been brought in and only a few farmers are still harvesting. Everyone now turns their attenton to the warmer indoors and shuts the colder approaching winter out.

But there is still much to do outside. The Autumn always brings on a different atmosphere to the area. More than the Spring, when the ground is wet, the Fall is the time for walks and hikes. In an area such as Amherst you don't have to go very far to be in a scenic setting.

If you want, there are the farms, the open fields and the hills of North Amherst. A walk to Amherst College is always nice. When you get there you can visit the museum or Frost Library or just look out past the Notch to the Holyoke Mountain Range.

Amherst center itself has a lot to offer. There are the many specialty shops such as HEADS UP, True, and the Leather Shed that invite brousers.

The Town also has a number of bookstores and newspaper shops. There are the more regular clothing and shoe stores too, but, if you haven't noticed, most shops in Amherst are a little different than others. Even the restaurants have some unique quality about them.

Over a hundred years ago the Town decided to specialize in education. The town will stay that way too. The townspeople welcome students and most of them are directly involved with education. Why not go a little deeper into education and take a walk before the snow gives you an excuse to stay indoors for for months. You may even enjoy yourself.

Bob Gorman
Editorial Staff

"Why should freedom of speech and freedom of the press be allowed? Ideas are much more fatal than guns."

Nikolai Lenin

"Our liberty depends on freedom of the press and that cannot be limited without being lost."

Thomas Jefferson

Also Their Children!

Popular Election

To the editor:

Coming before the Constitutional Convention on Wednesday, November 1, 1967 is a bill, sponsored by Student Senate Treasurer, Paul Silverman, and myself, providing for the popular election of the Student Senate President.

This measure does not create an executive with veto over the Student Senate. The only essential change is that the President will be elected popularly.

I see this change as a major step in the extension of student government. I am sure that all of us are aware of the lack of communication, interest and ability to identify with the Senate. One purpose of this bill is to further the interest and participation on the part of the student in his student government on a higher level.

It is true that a student can express himself in the election of his senator who in turn elects the President but I'm sure you will agree that this connection is much too indirect and that the President should be more responsible to the students who he claims to represent.

It is no wonder that students feel a bit of hopelessness over how their student government is opereated. We must offer more decision-making to the students. We must aim for—total involvement of the student.

This line of reasoning raises the question of what our Student Senate President is and should be. He is the voice of the students. When he speaks to administrators he assumes and is taken to be the spokesman for the majority of the students.

I agree that this is what he should be and actually what he presently claims to be, but I see a contradiction. Clearly, the Senate President can only be the voice of the students if the students actually choose him themselves.

I have a deep respect and reverence for the Student Senate and for this reason I propose such a bill. Mr. Silverman and myself see this measure as a necessary step towards returning respect and dignity as well as effectiveness to the Senate. The ideas and ideals behind this proposal are progressive government and extension of the basic and essential fact of democracy —a meaningful choice in whom one's leader is.

This bill was passed in the form of a resolution of support by the Class of 1970 Executive Council which I feel is representative of one-fourth of the student body and I suspect also reflects the feelings of the remaining three-fourths.

I urge all of you to speak with your respective senators and urge them to vote for this bill (this is your basic right and the basic duty of your senator to heed your wishes.)

This may be the greatest contribution we can make to the University of Massachusetts—please let us go forward and do so.

Sincerely yours,
Bruce R. Balboni
President, Class of 1970

GNOMON 5c first copy of a page

SELLS 3c each 2nd thru 10th

XEROX 2c each 11th on up

COPIES
103 N. Pleasant St.
Amherst, Mass.
253-7393

Student Senate Considers Summer Recommendations

The Student Senate has acted on three recommendations from its summer counterpart and has eight others under consideration. Late in August, the Summer Student Executive Council (SSEC) made recommendations to the Senate for improving student life at the University.

Senate President James G. Collins told the Collegian that all the issues concerning summer housing are now being re-evaluated by the board. The SSEC has asked for such things as summer telephone service and assignment of freshmen to dormitories also occupied by upperclassmen.

The SSEC Constitution is now before a Senate board for evaluation. SSEC members have asked for RSO status.

SSEC recommended that open houses be extended to 24 hours a month this fall and the Senate has voted unlimited hours.

It was decided that the number, dates, and duration of open houses should be left to the discretion of house members.

In an experiment this summer, the men's and women's judiciary and area boards were combined. SSEC members recommended that this practice be extended to the regular year. This recommendation has been reviewed, approved, and instituted by the Senate.

Another SSEC recommendation now before the Senate is a request that a UMass-Boston event be held at Amherst on a weekend including a home football game, and that the work of coordination between the two campuses be continued.

FALSE ALARM

A false alarm was turned in at John Adams House Monday night at 6:00. Three firetrucks reported to the scene.

MOVIES 8:00 MAHAR

CASABLANCA

THE LAST HURRAH

TUES., OCT. 31, 1967 50c

Sero

THE GENTLEMAN'S SHIRT

stands Collar and shoulders above the crowd

THE PURIST® button-down by Sero is keyed to the trim tapered look of today's astute traditional dresser. Clean-cut body lines . . . the exclusive Sero full-flared, soft-rolled collar . . . a seven-button front . . . classic shirtmanship at its finest. Exclusive colours and distinctive stripings — on a host of handsome fabrics.

AVAILABLE AT

House of Walsh, Inc.

MAIN STREET
AMHERST, MASS.

Bower Describes Hippies And Other Free Americans

by MARYBETH GIBB
Staff Reporter

"On October 6, 1967 a ritual occurred marking the death of hippie and the birth of the free Americans," began Walter Bower, editor of the underground publication, the East Village Other, and a recognized leader of these free Americans.

As part of the Southwest cultural program Sunday before an enthusiastic audience of 100, Bower siezed the opportunity to express some of the main tenets of the current hippie philosophy.

He described the movement as dynamic, forceful, inevitably far-reaching: "The year of 1776 marked the revolution of the body of this nation; this evolved until, in 1875, came the intellectual revolution of America with such men as Ralph Waldo Emerson; and in 1967, we observe the liberation of the spirit of man."

Speaking of his personal experiences in Washington's peace demonstration last week, he asserted, "The Pentagon is a liar. They estimated a crowd of 33,000. Anyone who was there saw hundreds of thousands. They denied using tear gas. They did use tear gas in Washington. I also saw marshals beating women, among others."

Daily Collegian Photo by Al Sirota

Bower outlined his own ideas on the demonstration with, "I would have liked to have seen something else in Washington. How about a battalion of beautiful women approaching the lines of soldiers wearing raincoats which they remove, showing bare bodies to the troops . . . I don't think that they would have beat those unclothed bodies with clubs.

"Or," Bower continued, "how about guerillas attacking with laughing gas." This suggestion brought applause from his audience.

Touching on many diverse elements of a subcult which he feels "is what the future will be like," Bower commented, "The world has two alternatives. Either it disappears in a nuclear flash or it goes back to seed. It will be the latter. It has to. This is what hippie is all about.

Young adults in New York, San Francisco and elsewhere experimenting with methedrine in the taking of LSD came under Bower's scrutiny Sunday night:

"Why are these kids turning on with methedrine? Well, there was this cat named Harry Anslinger, a prohibitionist . . . and when prohibition was finally repealed, he became anti-dope. In 1938 the Opiate Control Commission was created. And Anslinger told this big lie about people going mad on marijuana.

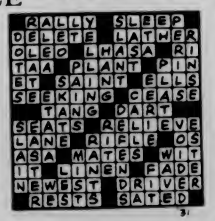
"Well, these kids go to New York and try marijuana. When they don't go crazy, they think 'They lied to us. They were wrong about heroin, LSD and methedrine.' And so they try it.

"But they're not lying about methedrine. It has been determined that anyone on it will die within five years of initial contact with the drug."

This deceit, which Bower feels "riddles" the social structure, especially in areas of control and power, is coming to an end with the eventual universality of hippie thinking.

Bower revealed the power of the message of universal love by recounting a virtually unreported incident in Washington. He said, "The demonstration was an opportunity to speak to soldiers. We put flowers in their epaulets and gun barrels. We told them things like, 'Jesus Christ is the mind of man—Have no fear—Thou shalt not kill.'

"As a dramatic result, three soldiers took off their helmets, laid down their guns and walked into the crowds."



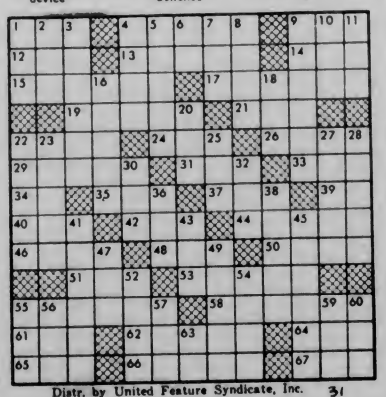
The Brothers of

Phi Sigma Kappa

invite Freshmen
to Open, Informal Smokers
Tues. Oct. 31 — 10 p.m.
and
Thurs. Nov. 2 — 10:30 p.m.
At the Grad House
382 No. Pleasant Street

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle



ACROSS

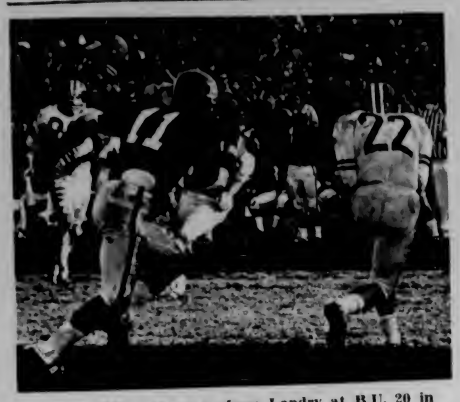
1-Dance step
4-Make amends
9-Sesame
12-River island
13-Paths
14-Beverage
15-Hold in greater favor
17-Empower
19-Young shrub
21-Lamprey
22-Bind
24-Title of respect
26-Clan
29-Slumber
31-Short sleep
33-Ocean
34-Three-toed sloth
35-Soak up
37-Cut of meat
39-Note of scale
40-Soak
42-Obstruct
44-Revolutionary
46-Break suddenly
48-Temporary bed
50-Sailors (colloq.)
51-Chart
53-Females
55-Whipped
58-Admonished
61-Everyone
62-Liquid
64-Period of time
65-Cravat
66-Mixes
67-Society girl (colloq.)

7-Born
8-Slave
9-Articles of furniture
10-Sick
11-Confederate general
16-Escapes
18-Roman bronze
20-Metal
22-Former Russian rulers
23-Foreign
25-Cheer
27-Man's name
28-Caudal appendages
30-Seed container
32-Equality
36-Moccasin
38-Measuring device
41-Mexican dish
43-Cut
45-Prohibited
47-Stroke
49-Tall structure
52-Church benches
54-Planet
55-Flying mammal
56-Man's name
57-Man's nickname
59-Before
60-Bespatter
63-Note of scale

DOWN

1-Soft food
2-Ventilate
3-Plain in Russia
4-Appellation of Athena
5-Mountain lakes
6-Preposition

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 31

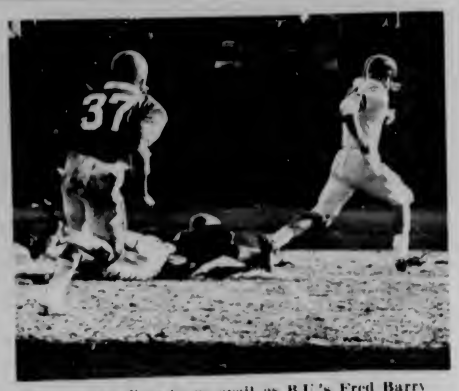


Swift Joins Computer Corp.

Theodore J. Swift, who received his master's degree in government from UMass, has been appointed to the corporate staff of Computer Applications Incorporated in the position of Manager-Corporate Communications.

Computer Applications is one of the nation's leading professional computer consulting and programming organizations, serving a broad range of customers in industry and government.

Swift will direct the company's advertising, public relations, and sales promotion activities, in addition to internal company communications.



Previously, Swift was associated with the General Electric Company, where his most recent post was Manager—Aerospace and International Press Relations.

Grasso (22) takes pass from Landry at B.U. 20 in fourth period.

The soph from Everett streaks away from B.U.'s Jay Donabedian.

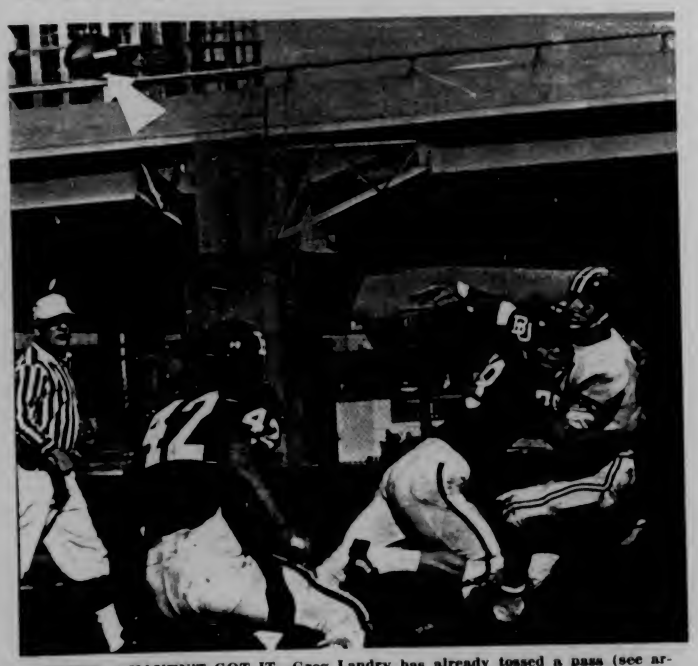
Donabedian dives to no avail as B.U.'s Fred Barry trails.

A Hot Time In the Old Town

Halloween is Tuesday but for the 10,000 spectators at the Redmen's 24-0 victory over Boston University at Nickerson Field, the surprises came Saturday.

The Terriers might have tricked experts into calling them New England's best before the season, but the Redmen treated themselves to their third win in a row.

Half the joy is in the remembrance, and Daily Collegian staff photographer John Kelly and his ubiquitous camera captured the momentous moments of this eventful event.



Included is a sequence of Jerry Grasso's second touchdown of the game, a 37-yard pass play. Grasso took a toss from Greg Landry at the B.U. 20 and beat the field to the endzone for the fourth quarter score.

Ref at right lifts arms signaling the TD that capped the scoring.

FACE OF VICTORY—While a family of B.U. fans bemoans the fate of their fallen heroes, a pretty UMass rooter behind them flashes a winning smile as the Redmen charge to their fifth victory over B.U. in as many games.

SORRY, I HAVEN'T GOT IT—Greg Landry has already tossed a pass (see arrow) when B.U. tackle Wilson Whitty (78) crashes into him. Safety Dick Farley (42) watches. Landry had another fine day, completing 12 of 19 passes for 172 yards.

PUT 'ER THERE—Congratulations were the order of the moment after the final gun had sounded at Nickerson Field. Above, UMass coach Vic Fusia meets losing coach Warren Schmakel. Below, a UMass fan (at right) shakes hands with a disappointed buddy from B.U.

Fusia Pleased

Defense Merits Praise After Saturday's Shutout

by Tom FitzGerald
Sports Editor

"It's the type of defense I'd like to see for the next four weekends," Vic Fusia said yesterday of the unit that held B.U. to two first downs in the first half and eight in the second in Saturday's 24-0 wipe-out.

He was especially pleased with the stingy play of defensive ends Tom York and Paul Mlinar, linebackers Dennis Gray and Ernie Smith and backs Steve Rogers, Mike McArdle and Bill Frye.

"Paul Campbell always seemed to be in the right position at the right time," he said. "And Bruce Gombar came up with several big plays."

Smith, York and McArdle intercepted B.U. passes, and York, Gombar and Becker recovered Terrier fumbles.

But Greg Landry and Co. did a job on the B.U. defense and made it look easy. After five games, the Redmen now have 127 points. Last season's total was only 117.

"Greg called another good game,," said Fusia, who was quick to point out the strong contributions of Craig Lovell, Jerry Grasso and Nick Warnock. Besides catching five passes for 78 yards, Warnock kept the Terriers in poor field position with two "coffin corner" jobs.

The junior end averaged only 31 yards but "You throw distance out the window for such pinpoint kicking," said Fusia.

The Redmen's blocking on running plays "left something to be desired," he said, "but the pass blocking was encouraging."

In regard to the several personal fouls called against B.U., the coach said, "Football is an emotional game. But you can only carry it so far before it becomes hysteria." One Terrier, Chuck Tibaldi, was thrown out of the game, and another, Nick Stipanovich, perhaps should have been after a flagrant display of temper. Nick, who had just caught a pass from Tom Thornton and been forced out of bounds, whirled and fired the ball at a UMass player.

Fusia proceeded, with caution, to consider Vermont, the Redmen's next foe. UMass can clinch a tie for the Conference championship with a victory over the Catamounts. "They have the same offense they had last year that ran over everybody."

Will Vermont's Bob Mitchell be the best running back the Redmen face this season? "Oh, yes," he replied without hesitation.

The poor condition of Nickerson Field Saturday was partially the result of a heavy rain Friday night. A soccer game had been played on the field Friday afternoon. Next year the field is scheduled to be covered with artificial grass called "astroturf," the same material used in Houston's Astrodome. Players will have to wear special blunt-cleat shoes.

* * *

Fusia could have used tight end Bill Carty and tailback Tim Driscoll, but he decided to give them an extra week to recuperate from injuries. Carty suffered an ankle injury against Rhode Island, and Driscoll has missed several games with a bad hip. Alan Becker played his first full game in place of Carty.

Fullback Don Durkin, who hasn't seen a minute of action since he suffered a shoulder injury in pre-season practice, should be ready for the Catamounts.

Fred Hairston was shaken up Saturday "several plays before we knew about it," said Fusia. "You could see in the game movies he didn't know where he was for a series of plays."

On top running back was missing Saturday. John Tutino, who had looked impressive in the Connecticut and Rhode Island games, withdrew from school early in the week. Tutino had been involved in an auto accident Sunday night, and as soon as he was released from the Infirmary he apparently headed home to Brooklyn.

* * *

Ed Sherman kicked his 16th consecutive extra point in addition to his field goal. He is now in sight of the UMass record of 23, held jointly by Jerry Whelchel '65 and John Bamberry '62, presently an assistant UMass coach... Marty Scheralis handled kick-off duties this time because his line drives, it was hoped, would prevent B.U.'s Bruce Taylor, averaging 30 yards a return, from working up a head of steam... Larry Fortunoff made the successful on-side kick try in the second period. Alan Becker pounced on the B.U. fumble... "I thought it was the first time we put everything together," said Jerry Grasso after the game... "Wait till the hockey season," said a B.U. writer.

Collegian Photo by John Kelly

UP FOR GRABS—Redman Nick Warnock (83) and Terrier Danny Lucca (17) fight for pigskin in Saturday's fray. Warnock had an outstanding afternoon as both a pass-receiver and a punter. Two of his seven kicks were of the "coffin corner" variety.

UMass Overshadowed in Regatta

BOSTON—The normally serene Charles River became the scene of a four-hour battle here Sunday as crews from 37 colleges and rowing clubs in the East vied for honors in the Third Annual Head of the Charles Regatta.

In what would seem to be a rowing official's nightmare some 400 oarsmen were crowded into 12 events. Despite the threat of confusion, the regatta committee acted with precision and the races as a whole were well organized.

A chilly headwind forced many would-be spectators to remain at home and listen to the races via local radio coverage, but several thousand hardy fans stood on the banks to cheer on their favorite crews. Each of the local colleges naturally had its cheering section as students from Harvard, Northeastern, M.I.T., and Boston University came to root for their home schools.

With such stiff competition as these Boston schools as well as Yale University, Vesper Boat Club, and the Detroit Boat Club, UMass found it hard to make what could be called an excellent showing, but the Redmen did perform well in their races.

Massachusett's two scullers, Mike Faherty and Howie Chapin, rowed well in capturing 3rd and 8th places in their respective races. Single sculls are extremely difficult to row, and both boys, although newcomers to sculling, have progressed well.

The UMass J.V. crew, rowing in the junior eight-oared division, overcame a slow start to finish 7th in a field of 15. Seatings for the Jayvees were: bow, Julian Kuffler '70; 2, Oscar Desrosiers '70; 3, Lou Garbose '70; 4, Kurt Betchick '70; 5, Charles Leonard '70; 6, Bob Natusch '70; 7, John Farrell '70; stroke, Dave Keating '69; and coxswain, Tony Repucci '70. With the exception of Keating and newcomer Repucci, all of these boys rowed in last year's freshmen shell.

The stiffest competition was encountered by the varsity who faced such crews as Northeastern, Syracuse, and Vesper. The Vesper crew has an excellent chance of representing the U.S. in the upcoming Olympics and showed why by easily winning with a time of 16 min. 24.8 sec.

Rowing against crews of this high caliber, UMass finished 10th with a time of 18 min. 4.3 sec. The Redmen varsity consisted of: bow, Wendell Frost '69; 2, Bob Kiley '70; 3, Ron Stoltz '70; 4, Ed Magiera '69; 5, Jack Wolpert '70; 6, Tim McKenna '68; 7, Roger O'Donnell '68; stroke, Glenn Chaple '69; and coxswain, Bill Crowe '69.

Soccer Team In Crucial Week

The UMass soccer team will be starting its most important week of the season by meeting Amherst Wednesday starting at 3 p.m. at Varsity Field.

The Redmen will be looking for their first non-Yankee Conference win. The team has won all three of its games within the Conference but has dropped its three outside tests.

Amherst has gotten off to a somewhat disappointing start so far. After winning their first two games, the Jeffs lost to UConn 2-1 and tied Wesleyan 2-2 last Saturday.

The Jeffs are led by All-American candidates Charlie Nielsen and Jaffer Kassamali. Kassamali is one of the leaders in the New England Soccer League scoring race.

The Redmen expect few lineup changes for the game. Bill Allen suffered a wrenched back in the first half of the Tufts game but returned to action in the second half.

The Redmen will conclude this week with an important Yankee Conference clash with Vermont. This game will be a big factor as to who will win the Conference crown; both teams are 3-0. Game time is 10:30 Saturday morning at Varsity Field.

UM Rated No. 4 In New England

UM was rated fourth in the weekly top 10 selections in New England by the Associated Press.

1. Dartmouth 5-0 defeated Harvard, 23-21.
2. Harvard 4 - 1 lost to Dartmouth, 23-21.
3. Holy Cross 4-1 defeated Buffalo, 38-25.
4. Massachusetts 4 - 1 defeated Boston University, 24-0.
5. Yale 4-1 defeated Cornell, 41-7.
6. Boston College 2-3 defeated Maine, 56-0.
7. Northeastern 5-1 lost to New Hampshire, 21-13.
8. Rhode Island 4-1-1 defeated Bucknell, 27-7.
9. New Hampshire 4-1 defeated Northeastern, 21-13.
10. Boston U. 2-5 lost to Massachusetts, 24-0.

More Photos of BU Game—Page 7

Football Statistics

Scoring	Td	Pat(1)	Pat(2)	Fg	Pts
Landry	6	0	0	0	36
Sherman	0	16(17)	0	3(5)	25
Grasso	4	0	0	0	24
Driscoll	3	0	0	0	18
Cochrane	1	0	0	0	6
Decembrele	1	0	0	0	6
Lovell	1	0	0	0	6
Warnock	1	0	0	0	6
UMASS	17	16(17)	0(0)	3(5)	127
Opponents	10	8(9)	1(1)	1(2)	75

Passing	At	Comp	Int	Yds	Td	Pct	Ave/ Comp
Landry	77	40	3	543	3	.519	13.6
Adams	2	1	0	14	0	.500	14.0
Coltin	3	1	0	18	0	.333	18.0
UMASS	82	42	3	575	3	.512	13.7
Opponents	110	59	6	791	3	.536	13.4

Pass Receiving	No	Yds	Td	Ave	Lgst
Warnock	15	210	1	14.0	33
Grasso	10	176	2	17.6	37
Carty	6	86	0	14.3	19
Cochrane	5	24	0	4.8	7
Hairston	3	47	0	15.7	18
Young	2	17	0	8.5	14
Tutino	1	15	0	15.0	15

Rushing	Att	Gain	Loss	Net	Ave	Lgst
Landry	96	592	78	514	5.4	73
Tutino	35	147	3	144	4.1	14
Driscoll	34	127	6	121	3.5	17
Grasso	27	113	0	113	4.2	18
Lovell	19	76	0	76	4.0	28
Hairston	13	68	3	65	5.0	17
Decembrele	19	53	2	51	2.7	6
Cochrane	13	37	0	37	2.8	7
Sarno	5	23	3	20	4.0	10
UMASS	262	1236	95	1141	4.4	73
Opponents	209	855	174	681	3.2	65

Punting	No	Yds	Ave	Lgst
Warnock	26	965	37.1	52
Rogers	1	33	33.0	33
UMASS	27	998	36.9	52
Opponents	28	1004	35.8	59

Punt Returns	No	Yds	Td	Lgst	Ave
Parnell	13	145	0	40	11.1
Frye	2	18	0	12	9.0
Rogers	3	8	0	11	2.7
UMASS	18	171	0	40	9.5
Opponents	18	123	0	18	6.7

Kickoff Returns	No	Yds	Td	Lgst	Ave
Parnell	9	240	0	57	26.6
Frye	3	56	0	20	15.3
Hairston	1	19	0	19	19.0
Grasso	1	8	0	8	8.0
Cochrane	1	5	0	5	5.0
UMASS	15	318	0	57	21.2
Opponents	23	364	0	49	15.7

Interceptions	No	Yds
Smith	2	16
McArdle	2	0
Rogers	1	23
York	1	10

Fumble Recoveries
York	2
Smith	1
Becker	1
McArdle	1
Mlinar	1
Stevens	1
Scheralis	1
Gombar	1

Team Summaries	UM	Opp
Total First Downs	87	77
by rushing	55	42
by passing	27	35
by penalty	5	0
Own Fumbles	10	13
own fumbles lost	5	9
No. Penalties	32	23
yds lost penalties	257	198

Watch for Metawampe's Grid Picks Friday

ONLY WINNER FOR B.U.—Pretty Barrie McMichaels of Philadelphia is crowned queen of Boston University's Homecoming festivities Saturday but the Redmen promptly spoiled her reign, handing the Terriers their fifth straight loss.

Statistics—BU Game

	BU	UMass
First Downs	10	17
Rushing Yardage (Net)	102	145
Passing Yardage (Net)	112	172
Passes (Comp.-Att.)	11-19	12-19
Passes Intercepted by	0	3
Punts (No.-Ave.)	5-35.2	7-31
Fumbles Lost	3	1
Yards Penalized	96	87

Dial the MDC's Hot Sportline 5-0344

Tonight's Intramurals

BOWLING

Time	Alleys
6:30	1-2	Dorm. North Cen. Tower Patriots-Academics
	3-4	Colonials-Spartans
	5-6	Smashers-Leopards Dorm. South Tower
6:30	7-8	Terrors-Commanchees
8:30	1-2	Monuments-Colt "45"s
	3-4	Huskies-Bulldozers Independent-National
8:30	5-6	Association-Dell Vikings
	7-8	Chem Club-Toads

Forecast
Cloudy and
Mild

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

New England's
Largest College
Daily

VOL. XCVI, NO. 38 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1967

II-S Deferments to End

by RON LaBRECQUE, News Editor

A limit in the enrollment in the first two years of graduate and professional schools next fall is one of the major points in a recent special report of the American Council on Education.

The report of the Council's Commission on Federal Relations describes the impact on colleges and universities of the New Selective Service Act and the President's Executive Order issued June 30 of this year.

The report states that all figures used are the best approximations of the Commission. According to the report there are four basic facts concerning the draft situation. (1) Undergraduate students, with certain limitations as to age and normal progress are assured 11-S deferments. (2) At the end of the current academic year, all 11-S deferments will end for those receiving their baccalaureate degrees, those completing their first year of graduate study, and those receiving their advanced degrees.

At the moment the only exception to this general rule is for those engaged in the study of medicine, dentistry, veterinary medicine, osteopathy and optometry. (3) In trying to analyze the situation, the commission states in the report that it is perhaps an unwarranted assumption that the Selective Service must produce for the armed forces next year between 200,000 and 300,000 men.

(4) Both the statute and the regulations require that the oldest among those eligible for induction be drafted first. With regard to this regulation the commission assumes that all those falling in the category described in point two above will be inducted unless over-age, physically disqualified or a veteran.

Using the basic facts outlined in the report, the committee stated what it believed would be the impact on graduate and professional schools.

The report states, "It would appear that unless changes are made by amending either the statute or regulations, enrollment in the first two years of graduate and professional schools next fall will be limited to women, veterans, men physically disqualified from the draft and those over the age of 25."

The report further stated that this will have an impact on the supply of teaching and research assistants, faculty assignments and budgetary allocations.

Speaking on the report, Kenneth Suid, Assistant to the Provost, emphasized the point that men eligible for the draft according to point two of the Commission's basic facts who are not inducted by the beginning of the next college year might enroll for further study, but would be subject to call at any time during the college year without any real prospect of deferment to finish the year.

The Committee further stated what it believed would be the impact on the armed forces. According to the report, "between half and two-thirds of all men inducted by Selective Service, for a twelve month period beginning in July, 1968, will be college graduates or will have pursued their studies beyond the bacca-

(Continued on page 7)

Daily Collegian Photo by Richard Kline

UMass Freshman Class officers are (l.-r.) Pres. Joe Tabacco; Secre. Suzanne Baier; Treas. Marty Shapiro.

College Health Association Reviews Stand on Drugs

The present uproar over the use of hallucinatory drugs by students and faculty of educational institutions has prompted college health authorities to review their position of meeting this problem. The use of drugs raises not only social questions but legal ones.

The single most immediately compelling and relevant fact is that there are legal restrictions, both federal and in all fifty states, on the production, distribution, possession and use of a wide variety of drugs which influence human physical and emotional functions. Substances which are potentially harmful, including the vast and ever increasing array of prescription drugs, are too numerous and their effects too complex to allow them to be available without some firm control against uninformed or indiscriminate use.

Despite the fact that any regulations which are in the public interest may abridge some individual freedom of choice of the ways in which we may influence our lives, there is no substantial denial of the wisdom and justification for there being social controls. This is especially true in the case of substances which have actions that are poorly understood and effects that may predispose them to misuse or abuse.

Students, faculty, and college authorities cannot expect health services to ignore legal restrictions by conspiring in violations; on the other hand, neither can they expect health services to serve as outposts of law enforcement agencies. The provisions of laws and regulations are not altered by impressions, regardless of how widely they are held, that some of the legal restrictions are unnecessary, are based on unsupported assumptions, or prescribe inappropriately harsh penalties. None of these impressions justifies blatant disregard for laws or regulations with the serious consequences which often restrict future activities of those convicted of violations.

Unfortunately, the unusual contemporary pressure for modification of some legal restrictions, especially those involving the use of marijuana, LSD, and other hallucinogens, has been characterized by marked polarization of intent and method. This has made dispassionate inquiry and evaluation very difficult. Those who would liberalize use often have disregarded the requirement for carefully controlled observations; those who would maintain or tighten control have reacted with a fear-inspired disregard for honest, free inquiry.

There has been too little respectful critical appraisal and too much confrontation. As a result, students have been exhorted to adopt an attitude of inquiry concerning academic matters in the classroom—but denied a viable example of responsible discussion of living issues on campus.

The American College Health Association affirms the observation that establishing the guidelines for appropriate use of "drugs", as well as other medicinal agents, is primarily a responsibility of the health professions. Controls appropriate for each

(Continued on page 6)

New Athletic Field Will Have Olympic Size Track

Work shall begin soon on a $434,000 project to replace the main physical education field at the University. According to Warren McGuirk, Director of Athletics, sixty-two acres below Boyden Gym will be developed in the next two years to further enhance the intramural and intercollegiate programs.

Various agricultural buildings, including the sheep pens and the piggery, will be removed to provide the needed area. A battery of five soccer fields, five lacross fields, and two illuminated gridirons will be constructed as soon as the field is graded, drained, and reseeded to develop a new grass surface.

The most exciting part of the project will be the building of a nine-lane Olympic size track. In recent years, the track team has had to hold their home meets at the Amherst College field. In addition, a second baseball diamond and 40 tennis courts are slated for construction.

The project is now up for bid to general contractors. After the selection of low bidder on November 20, work should begin by the first of December and last about two years.

Collegian Photo by Dick Kline

...Disguised mini boppers roamed UMie-land last night looking for the Great Pumpkin...

Space Race Gap Widens

Unmanned Sputniks Dock in Space

MOSCOW (AP)—In an apparent dry run of a Soyuz space ship intended for cosmonauts, the Soviet Union brought down to a soft landing Tuesday one of two unmanned Sputniks which had docked and separated in orbit under computer guidance.

The successful landing could clear the way for a second attempt at a manned rendezvous and docking aboard a Soyuz-union-craft.

Cosmonaut Vladimer M. Kovarov was killed last April when his Soyuz 1 crashed during an attempted landing after orbiting for 24 hours. A twisted parachute was officially blamed for the tragedy.

Announcements at the time did not say Komarov was attempting a linkup in orbit with another Sputnik but this was widely regarded as the purpose of his mission.

There was no immediate indication when the Soviets would attempt to duplicate the successful Cosmos 186 mission, this time with a cosmonaut aboard. They have yet to achieve a manned docking.

Such a feat, possibly surpassing the ones U.S. astronauts pioneered, could lead to the building in space of huge orbiting platforms.

These platforms are expected to further space studies and provide bases for such long flights as a trip to the moon.

A moon rocket, assembled on a space platform, would require less thrust to overcome Earth's gravity.

The unmanned Cosmos craft, which was launched Friday, landed at an undisclosed location at 11:20 a.m. Moscow time —3:20 a.m. EST.

The other Sputnik, Cosmos 188 launched Monday, continued the new orbit it went into after the two separated some 20 hours earlier. They had flown for 3½ hours linked together.

Physics Department Expands With Increased Financial Aid

Research grants in physics and astronomy now total $700,000 per year at the University of Massachusetts, according to Dr. Robert L. Gluckstern, head of the UMass department of physics and astronomy.

"The growth of the department and the development of major new programs has only been possible with this increased state and federal support," Dr. Gluckstern indicated. "As recently as 1964, this amounted only to $30,000 per year." Indications are that research grants will continue to grow in the coming years, Dr. Gluckstern said.

The department has also announced the appointment of seven new faculty members and a new research associate and lecturer for the current year.

Among this year's appointments to the physics faculty is Dr. Vladimir Vanysek of Charles University in Prague, Czechoslovakia, as a research associate and lecturer.

Other appointments include Dr. John J. Brehm, formerly of Northwestern University, named an assoicate professor. He joins Dr. Leroy Cook in directing the program in theoretical high energy physics.

Dr. H. Mark Goldenberg, formerly of Princeton University, was named as associate professor. He will do experimental studies in general relativity. Assistant professors Eugene Golowich from Carnegie Institute of Technology and Arthur R. Swift from the University of Wisconsin are assisting Drs. Cook and Brehm in high energy physics.

Dr. William J. Mullin, formerly of the University of Minnesota, is starting a new program in the theory of solids. Also joining the staff will be assistant professors Frederick W. Byron, who spent the past year at the University of Brussels, Belgium as a Sloan Foundation Fellow, and Wilfred E. Cleland. Dr. Cleland recently returned from CERN, the International Nuclear Research Laboraory at Geneva, Switzerland. He is spending most of the fall term at the Brookhaven National Laboratory participating in a new experimental high energy physics program.

In addition, Drs. G. W. Meisner and H. Lee Watson, now in their second year as research associates, have been named research associates and lecturers and are participating in the teaching program of the department.

The appointment of Drs. John D. Strong and William T. Plummer, of Johns Hopkins University was announced earlier by Dr. William M. Irvine, chairman of the astronomy program. Dr. Strong is working in balloon astronomy and molecular spectroscopy. Dr. Plummer is assisting Dr. Strong in the research program.

Alpha Zeta Marks 70th

The fraternity of Alpha Zeta will mark its 70th anniversary Saturday.

From its founding at Ohio State University in 1897 the fraternity has become nationwide with 59 chapters and over 50,000 members.

In the words of its founders, "Alpha Zeta was established neither as an honorary society nor as a social fraternity but as a professional fraternity in whose membership shall be combined the qualities of high scholarship, fine fellowship and sound character."

Members of the fraternity represent many fields of agriculture and have been influential in promoting the progress and development of agriculture in our modern society.

CORRECTION

NEVER SAY DIE!
JOIN THE FIGHT FOR TRUTH, JUSTICE, AND THE YAHOO, CAMPUS HUMOR MAGAZINE.
THURSDAY, 8:00 COMMONWEALTH Rm.
HELP US! some still say die.

John Housman

Lecture on Theatre Slated at SU As Music Committee Event

Creator and director of "The Honourable Estate," John Houseman will present a lecture on "Our Contemporary Theater" at the University of Massachusetts on Nov. 15 at 8 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom. The lecture is sponsored by the Student Union Music Committee and is open to the public with no admission charge.

Mr. Houseman, who has devoted himself entirely to writing and the theater, spent most of 1965 in Paris, writing for American magazines (Show, Harper's, The Nation), on the European theatrical scene and completing the memoirs on which he has been working for many years.

On his return to America, he was appointed Head of the Drama Division of the Juilliard School of Performing Arts. He is also Advisory Director of the Association of Producing Artists.

Volunteers Needed to Work At Northampton State Hospital

University of Massachusets students now have the opportunity to devote part of their time in a very worthwhile program at the Northampton State Hospital. With the emphasis on helping the patient, the program should prove rewarding both to the student and patient.

There are hundreds of patients at Northampton State Hospital who crave personal attention and benefit greatly from it. Yet because of a minimal staff, individual attention is limited and often only through the volunteer programs are these patients able to find satisfaction.

Volunteers who devote their time and effort are fostering relationships which are necessary for social adaptation. Through such activities as group music sessions, discussions, card-playing and art projects, the patients become involved in important interpersonal relationships and often develop feelings of self-esteem when forgotten abilities and interests are rediscovered.

The only requirements for a volunteer are a smile and a desire to help. Art supplies, games, cards, records, etc. are available for any type of activity which the volunteer feels would benefit the patients. Special abilities or interests of the volunteers are welcomed.

It certainly is not too late to join the program. On his first visit, each volunteer will be given a brief orientation to the hospital. A bus leaves from the front of the Student Union at about 6:00 p.m. every Wednesday night. Everyone is invited.

Senior Faces Drug Charges

UMass senior Stephen Prouty, 22, faces charges in Northampton District Court Friday on narcotics violations or breaking and entering charges where drugs were allegedly stolen. He was arraigned Saturday in Northampton Distirct Court on the charge of unlawful possession of marijuana.

He was arrested early Saturday morning by UMass police officer, John Taylor.

Judge Ryan indicated that the public defender would be brought into the case.

Student Senate Meets Tonight

A Constitutional Convention will precede the regular meeting of the Senate at 6 tonight in the Council Chambers.

The convention is slated to discuss proposed changes in the Student Government Association constitution. The Senators and representatives from each class will concern themselves with several bills, one of which involves making the election of the Student Senate President by popular vote rather than by the Senators themselves.

This could change his official status to that of student body president. There is also an act which, if passed, would make allowances for an increase in the number of commuter senators, affording them increased representation.

The regular meeting of the Senate will consider the revised RSO financial policies and procedures under old business.

Under new business, there is a resolution enjoining all residence halls to abide by University policy on open houses until Dec. 20, 1968. The penalties for violation of this include the closing of the residence hall to members of the opposite sex, the freezing of its funds and the suspension of its constitution.

Presenting The Drinking Song for Sprite:

"ROAR, SOFT-DRINK, ROAR!"

(To the tune of "Barbara Fritchie")

Traditionally, a lusty, rousing fight song is de rigeur for every worthy cause and institution. But we wrote a song for Sprite anyway. We'd like you to sing it while drinking Sprite, though this may cause some choking and coughing. So what? It's all in good, clean fun. And speaking of good, clean things, what about the taste of Sprite? It's good. It's clean. However, good clean things may not exactly be your idea of jollies. In that case, remember that Sprite is also very refreshing. "Tart and tingling," in fact. And very collegiate. And maybe we'd better quit while we're ahead. So here it is. The Drinking Song For Sprite. And if you can get a group together to sing it--we'd be very surprised.

Roar, soft drink, roar!
You're the loudest soft drink
we ever sawr!
So tart and tingling, they couldn't keep you quiet!
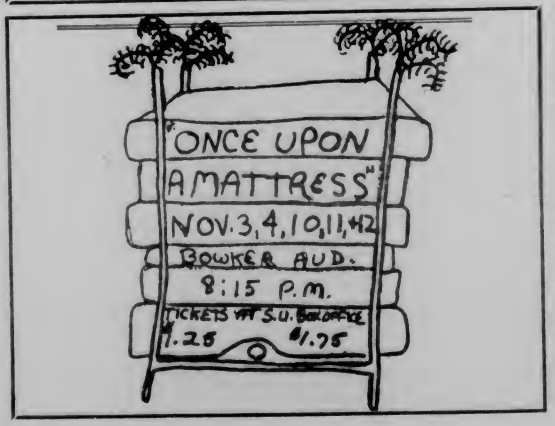
The perfect drink, guy,
To sit and think by,
Or to bring instant refreshment
To any campus riot! Oooooooh--
Roar, soft drink, roar!
Flip your cap, hiss and bubble,
fizz and gush!
Oh we can't think
Of any drink
That we would rather sit with!
Or (if we feel like loitering)
to hang out in the strit with!
Or sleep through English lit' with!
Roar! Soft drink! Roar!
Yeahhhhhhhhhhhhhhhh, SPRITE!



SPRITE. SO TART AND TINGLING, WE JUST COULDN'T KEEP IT QUIET.

Nominations For Winter Carnival Queens

AVAILABLE IN R.S.O. NOW

DUE NOVEMBER 11

S.E.N.D.O.F.F.

is coming

US, EEC Agree on Treaty

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—The United States and the Common Market countries except France, agreed Tuesday on terms of a treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons.

Harlan Cleveland, U.S. representative to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, announced U.S.-Soviet negotiations on the treaty would resume in Geneva.

The Geneva talks have been stalled on the terms of inspection in a treaty designed to prevent acquisition of nuclear weapons by countries that do not have them.

The agreement reported by Atlantic Alliance sources removes one obstacle to the treaty. But the United States must now go to Geneva and try to gain Soviet acceptance of the principles proposed by the five members of Euratom—the European Atomic Energy Commission.

France is also a member of Euratom, but President Charles de Gaulle wants no part of the nuclear treaty and France has said it will refuse to sign. De Gaulle sees the treaty as a symbol of what he calls "the hegemony of the superpowers."

The agreement was reached at the weekly meeting of the NATO Permanent Council. The five countries are West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

The five Euratom members agreed on the following conditions, according to an official German source:

1. Controls must be restricted to fissionable materials and must not include nuclear research or construction or the operation of nuclear reactors.

2. There must be a treaty between Euratom and the IAEA.

3. The effectiveness of Euratom controls must be recognized in the treaty. The IAEA must not be given control powers over Euratom.

4. The supply of fissionable material to all Euratom countries, including France, must not be endangered.

5. The recognition of Euratom controls must not have a time limit.

House Approves Control of Meat Production

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House approved Tuesday a proposal to strengthen federal control over meat producers and to set up a new program of federal-state cooperation in inspecting meat.

But it rejected a broader measure offered by Reps. Neal Smith, D-Iowa, and Thomas E. Foley, D-Wash., which would have extended federal meat inspection to all processing plants doing more than $250,000 in business annually.

The Department of Agriculture had said the Smith-Foley bill would have extended federal inspections to 98.5 per cent of all meat plants.

The present federal program and the measure passed by a 403-1 vote and sent to the Senate Tuesday authorizes inspection only of plants shipping products across state lines.

World News Roundup

From the Wires of the Associated Press

SAIGON (AP)—Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu took office Tuesday as president of South Vietnam's first constitutional government in four years and said he would propose peace talks to North Vietnam.

The Viet Cong responded a few hours later with a mortar attack aimed at Independence Palace, where Thieu was entertaining Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and 2,000 guests at a glittering inaugural reception.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — A published report that two of his former staff members were part of "a homosexual ring" in Sacramento was described by Gov. Ronald Reagan on Tuesday as a ridiculous lie.

Asked about the report carried by Washington columnist Drew Pearson, Reagan said at a news conference "there is no truth to the report. He's lying."

Reagan, a Republican, also called Pearson an untrustworthy reporter proved wrong many times.

"I think Drew Pearson shouldn't be using a typewriter and paper. He's better with a pencil on out-building walls," said Reagan.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — Michigan Gov. George Romney Tuesday proposed neutralization of Asian nations involved in the Vietnam war as an alternative to the administration's policy.

Romney told a news conference the neutralization plan would "defuse the war." He mentioned as possible nations to be neutralized both North and South Vietnam, Laos, Cambodia and Thailand.

The governor, an undeclared candidate for the GOP Presidential nominations, stopped off in Rhode Island on the next-to-last stop in a five-day tour of most of New England.

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio — Authorities conceded they were baffled Tuesday by the bizarre slaying of an attractive secretary who was the niece of one of Ohio's top labor and political leaders.

The nude, bullet-riddled body of red-haired Karen Diane Kern, 20, of Sylvania, near Toledo, was found by a schoolboy Monday night in an irrigation ditch in a rural area north of here near Perrysburg, another Toledo suburb.

Possible Breakup of GM Revealed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department conceded Tuesday that it has had in its files for 16 months a rough draft of a proposal that could ask a court to order the breakup of the world's largest industrial corporation—General Motors.

However, department officials described the document as only a sample complaint drawn up as part of a lengthy investigation of the automobile industry. They said there has been no decision whether, if ever, the government will petition the courts to order the breakup of GM.

At the White House, press secretary George Christian said, in response to questions, that "no matter of this kind has ever been brought to the President's attention."

The Justice Department statements and the quick White House comments were reaction to a Wall Street Journal story that said President Johnson is in a dilemma over whether to file a suit against GM.

The Journal said Johnson risks the enmity of GM's 1.4 million stockholders and outraging the business community if he proceeds with the suit. On the other hand, the Journal said, if he suppresses it, he risks enraging intellectuals, trade unionists and his own anti-trust lawyers.

In the wake of the story, General Motors stock fluctuated, closing off $3 from $85.50 to $82.50.

Justice Department insiders say nothing has been mentioned for months about the General Motors investigation. But they feel that with an election campaign getting under way the administration would be reluctant to alienate big contributors in the automobile industry — not to mention the rest of the business community.

The results of a suit against GM also are considered by some as of questionable merit. GM now is said to hold its competing automobile division in check so they don't grab too much of the market.

If Chevrolet, Pontiac, Buick and Cadillac were turned loose, said one official, "it could mean real bad trouble for Ford, Chrysler and American Motors."

Wife Spends While Husband Gets Promoted

DETROIT (AP) — What does a woman do while her husband is being named to the $750,000 job of president of General Motors?

She goes shopping for a new dress, naturally.

Mrs. Dollie Ann Cole visited a couple of New York dress shops Monday while her husband, Edward N. Cole, was being selected by his fellow directors.

Mrs. Cole was buying the dress to wear to a fashion meeting on the campus of Wayne State University in Detroit Tuesday night.

She took the news of her husband's promotion calmly. "I am so pleased he has been given this honor," she said.

CLASS OF '71

Applications for

Executive Council

Available at RSO

DUE NOV. 8 AT RSO

The college fraternity, as a group organization, seeks to teach men how to live and work together, striving by precept and example for the personal development of the individual in the training of mind and body.

The Brothers and Pledges of

DELTA CHI FRATERNITY

cordially invite all

FRESHMEN and UPPERCLASSMEN

to attend open smokers

Wed., Nov. 1, 10:00

and

Thurs., Nov. 2, 10:00

DELTA CHI FRATERNITY
17 Fearing Street
Opposite Bell Tel. Co.

The University needs an articulate, intelligent, hard-working individual to handle the duties of Editor-in-Chief for one of the University's largest publications.

Editing the publication is equivalent to editing any major quarterly publication in the world. The position will prepare any individual for any type of editorial position in the commercial publication field.

The individual (by next September) should be:

21 years old;
capable of evaluating written material;
intelligent;
aware;
interested in editing;
knowledgeable of printing processes;
persuasive;
willing to work without pay;
an undergraduate at the University;
carrying a reduced load;
very energetic;
an independent thinker;
willing to challenge the administration;
capable of making mistakes;
able to learn from his (her) mistakes;
articulate and very literate;
willing to challenge students;
friendly;
male or female;
willing to spend three hours a week in the Spring Semester learning the job.

Anyone who feels that he or she can fulfill most of these requirements, and who would be interetsed in being the Editor-in-Chief, should send a resume to:

Box 305
Northampton, Massachusetts 01060

ALL CORRESPONDENCE WILL BE HANDLED CONFIDENTIALLY.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

To Serve The Campus

Last Spring, the Collegian made a policy decision of great significance which since has received considerable criticism. The Editors decided that it was the responsibility of the campus press to publish national and international news.

Many claim that the function of a newspaper is to report campus news, that anyone who wants news of a national vein can purchase a Boston or a New York daily.

It is our opinion that the role of a campus paper is to inform the campus community of all the news that affects that community. In the words of Yale Professor Reginald Green, the function of the Collegiate press is best met by:

> "stimulating thought about significant campus, educational, local, national, and international events, policies, and issues . . . to report and discuss campus and non-campus events."

In 1957, the Student Editorial Affairs Conference endorsed the principle that "the student press has the responsibility and obligation of informing and educating its readers and interpreting for them local, national, and international events."

While many students on campus have said they do not want exposure to national news, we nonetheless agree with the Student Editorial Affairs Conference for two specific reasons that it is our responsibility to provide and interpret the news of the outside world.

Firstly, the majority of students on campus read only one newspaper every day—the Daily Collegian. And, as the only regularly read daily news source on campus, we feel it is our duty to provide the important news of the day.

Secondly, in the womb-like environment that is a campus, the pettiness of this often isolated community assumes singular importance, and what is most vital to our lives is lost because it does not affect us immediately in this closed environment. It is only through an exposure to the news of the outside world that one can hope to gain some kind of perspective on the significance of that which occurs on this campus.

It is for these reasons that the Daily Collegian is presenting the news of the state, the nation, and the world, as well as the news of the campus. We felt, for example, that Sunday's Wakefield rally was the most significant story of that day, and so it held the lead position on Monday morning, even though it was not a campus story.

This is, of course, not to say that the Daily Collegian is entering into competition with the New York Times. We realize that our primary raison d'etre is to serve the campus community, and hopefully all the important campus news will always be fully covered. For us to emphasize national coverage at the expense of campus news would be a disservice to our readers.

Our goal is to achieve a balance of news coverage that will effectively provide a media through which a perspective can be attained upon the many worlds in which each of us must function. The responsibility of the paper is to provide a source of information whereby an informed reader can meet these worlds intelligently and responsibly.

THE EDITORS

Open House Moratorium

A bill authorizing the General Court of Justice to take action against those residence halls that violate the present open house policy, will be under consideration by the Student Senate tonight. One important aspect of this bill is the fact that it will expire December 20, 1967.

It is hoped that the bill will accomplish two things. First, it is thought that independent actions by the halls to declare their autonomy would be premature. Their position would threaten the chances of the Student Life Committee recommendation (on the original proposal of the Senate) now in the Student Affairs Committee of the Faculty Senate. Thus such action would blow the show for everyone.

To cope with this, Sen. Fred Hartwell, who authored the bill before the student government, apparently believes that one must legislate punitive measures against such infractions. This is unnecessary.

Houses are well aware of the powers of the administration in this area. Thus the bill is redundant.

If the houses were unaware of the possibility of administrative action, there is no reason to think that Senate actions will be promulgated to a greater degree.

Further it is asserted that the action on a student level would be preferable to administrative. Whether the administration exerts its will through its own power or by making the students act, through fear of impending administrative action is an appropriate question.

The objects of the bill could be accomplished just as effectively by informing the various dorms of the administrative power.

Secondly, it is hoped that the bill will set a precedent allowing the Senate to act in opposition to any delaying procedures of the administration.

This could be accomplished by stating Senate support for a moratorium on independent house action, as the Senate has done so far, but emphasizing the expiration date. This procedure would inform the houses that they would be standing alone, without support on the student level, while maintaining the right to support such action in a more organized manner at a later date.

Charles A. Volkmann
Editorial Staff

THE MASSACHUSETTS DAILY COLLEGIAN

VIETNAM BALLOT

The following poll will be conducted by the Daily Collegian on Nov. 6 and Nov. 7 to ascertain the opinions of the campus on the question of "what shall be done in Vietnam now ?".

Please mark an "x" in the box on the right which comes closest to your views—if you use the open-end question, please check that box as well.

The United States should adopt a policy of:

1. All-out escalation ..... 1. ☐
2. Continuing the present policy ..... 2. ☐
3. De-escalation (stop the bombing and negotiate) ..... 3. ☐
4. Immediate U. S. withdrawal ..... 4. ☐
5. Open-end question. Describe a policy other than the above in five or less words:

_____ 5. ☐

We Are Losing The Peace

BY DAVE BASKIN
EDITORIAL STAFF

The rally held in support of the Vietnam war in Wakefield Sunday was a notable demonstration of ugly super-nationalism in America.

One poster said fight to win—to win what? the hatred of North and South Vietnamese, of all peoples struggling for freedom and economic equality.

Brad Morse called those who dissent from the administration policies in Vietnam a dirty small faction who have no honor. Has he forgotten that Massachusetts was founded by Dissenters from the Establishment? How can he call men like Schlesinger, the Kennedy brothers and Fullbright dirty and dishonorable?

Those who responsibly dissent from the war love America no less than the flag-wavers, but they recognize reality, and want America to do what is best for her world position, and for the Vietnamese, whose land we are pillaging, whose elections we rig, whose economy we degrade.

It is significant that across the street from the rally stood a memorial to the Spanish War, the Philippine Insurrection, and the China Rebel expedition. All examples of American imperialism putting down the will of the people of a foreign country, or of a war (the Spanish-American) for purely imperialistic reasons.

Paul Christopher said that the motorcycle gangs at the rally carrying American flags wanted to be led in the RIGHT way. So did Nazi stormtroopers. The Nazis also were ultranationalistic, also persecuted minorities and dissenters from government policy.

At the rally was an effigy of Ho Chi Minh, the man who wants to unite the Anti-Chinese Vietnamese people, but whom the goverment has driven into Communism's arms, an arrow in his chest, a knife in his head.

In China the Red Guards do similar things to effigies of President Johnson. Aren't the Wakefield ralliers similar to the fanatical nationalistic Red Guards?

Governor Volpe said the diers in Vietnam and the p in Wakefield were where the because they love Am Those people had better examine the situation and lize what really is best for A ica.

They should see that Am has no monoply on virtue, our real interests are not s by escalation or by imposin will on Vietnam, but by a negotiated peace providing united Vietnam with the w the people represented, yc Communist controlled. We see there is no pro-Commie ging or pro-U.S. Rigging. If win it's our own fault.

Let's remember that Ho Vietnamese first, who be Communist because it was only way he could free his p from colonialism.

One thing is certain, r based on beliefs similar to held by Germans in 1941 or Chinese in 1967 are not goo the United States at all.

Campus Commen

An Absolute Negative Stand

To the editor:

Sam Spark has indeed spoken out against Dr. Drum and his teaching methods. The article so thoroughly ignores the principles of good writing that any student interested in developing a good prose style can use it as an almost absolute negative standard.

Sam's blatant misuse of the technique of satire vitiates whatever truth there might be in his assertions. Satire belongs essentially to the polemicist, who employs it to reinforce the truth of a proposition by disposing of a contrary proposition in a kind of reductio ad absurdum. Satire succeeds, therefore, only to the extent that the satirist first has a true proposition to defend, and second, to the extent that he does so effectively by embellishing his technically logical reductio with an imaginative and forceful rhetoric, so as to render its rigorous logic more palatable to an audience which, for the most part, shuns ratiocination, and which chooses instead to apprehend truth either intuitively, or—and this is more frequently the case—emotionally. Sam, in any case, fails on both counts.

First, he has no truth to defend: his article fails to suggest, even implicitly, an alternative to Dr. Drum's padagogical techniques. For Sam represents an attitude all too pervasive among the staff of The Collegian: he is an iconoclast, pure and simple. Dr. Drum too is an image-breaker. But with this difference: that while he searches and destroys, he also seeks to create out of the ruins a new and meaningful medium with which to communicate truth.

Secondly, Sam tries to demonstrate the absurdity of the Drum method by transposing it, item by item, into the context of a hypothetical History 101 class. But he forgets that History and Botany are very different disciplines.

And as a corollary, his satire is full of untruths. It develops essentially around a single militaristic metaphor. Thus, "Prof. Trumpet" becomes the class "he military theory, he attempt dents. Thus they are "seren tranquilized, they hopefully This is an interesting meta fact, Dr. Drum is radically propaganda dispersion. I ha I find that they tend to be too that our "peerless leade to the extent that he invites from their own minds perc there in embryo, and of w aware.

Sam's metaphor is equ not an instructor in aerodyn Here the analogy is unmist rat demonstration). Sam h tion Dr. Drum's dedication know of few human beings apprehension of the myster significant" protozoan.

This is not to suggest what he is doing. The succ can only be determined aft examined. I would instead a He is attempting to remo perience whereby students facts, but somethin of the worth, "That's education, b

Campus Comment

Joe Pool

To the editor:

My first reaction to Texas Joe Pool and his House Un-American Activities Committee is mixed. On the one hand I'm amused—here is an "intelligent" man saying silly things. On the other hand I'm frightened—here is a "powerful" man saying dangerous things. But in the final analysis I guess I must stand up with Mr. Pool and be counted as an enemy of subversion, evil, and all those things that threaten the Great American Way.

In this light I would like to make two suggestions for the immediate implementation of these ideas of Representative Pool concerning Students for a Democratic Society.

First, Rep. Pool does not think the Federal Government should give funds to any school which has an SDS Chapter. I agree, and therefore request President Lederle sever the relations of the University of Mass. from the Federal Government so that we may in good conscience keep an SDS chapter on this campus.

My second suggestion concerns the implication that Mr. Pool will attempt to place SDS on the Subversive Activities List of the Attorney General. This should be done immediately as it would then give all SDS members automatic draft exemptions.

Thank you, Mr. Pool!!

STEVE KRINSKY '68

A Specific War

To the editor:

Thank you for your front page story yesterday on the subject of conscientious objection and the Vietnam War. Two further facts need to be explored.

First: A great deal of the present growing Conscientious Objection does center on the morality or immorality of the Vietnam conflict. It is stll, however, not possible legally to object to a specific war as a basis for securing the status of Conscientious Objector under the present draft laws.

Second: There is also a growing number of people who are questioning the rightness of a national policy which regards war as the "Ultimate Solution" of international conflict and tension. This is the root reason which dooms us to this war and the next war and the one after that. To say that this war is "immoral" means that you think the next one may be "moral." That I can't buy.

Reflection on the Vietnam War has led many of us to the conclusion that the only realistic de-escalation is one which will begin with a clear national settlement that the "Ultimate Solution" of international conflict and tension must be found in social, political economic justice.

I once fought for this nation willingly, because I thought it was the greatest. I still believe it is the greatest, but that its real greatness will come as we use our resources fully to defeat social, political, and economic injustice at home and abroad. There is a basic validity to Pope Paul's dictum: "No More War; War never again!" There is real need for conversation among us about this stance and the related necessity of the Conscientious Objecfion to war as national policy.

John L. Scott, Jr.
Chaplain, UMass

How About Your Gap

To the editor:

Miss Jane Roland, in her article on responsible reporting, raises the issue of credibility of the press. Then, without batting an eyelash, she tells us how many people really went to certain demonstrations. Still undaunted, she further tells us that all pro-war people in Northampton read a certain newspaper, because it makes them feel secure.

Watch out, Miss Roland, your credibility gap is showing.

P.S. How did you arrive at your figures, I'm curious?

C.W. Nawrocki

...lard

...ro," its "p...erless leader;" and true to ... to indoctrinate (not educate) his stu... ded by the Box Tops," so that, thereby ... become "more conducive to learning." ...hor, but patently false. For in point of ... opposed to the whole phenomenon of ...ve attended several of his lectures, and ...ome not lectures, but dialogues. I find ..." assumes a commanding position only ... the students to draw out (Lat. educere) ...eptions, insights, truths which may be ...hich the student himself might not be

...ally vicious. "Prof. Trumpet" becomes ...amics, but a military tactician as well; ...kable (i.e., Drum's well-known flower... ...s—inadvertently, I am sure—to ques... to the inherent value of life. Yet I who share what I regard as his keen ... and the value of even the most "in...

...hat Dr. Drum is objectively "right" in ...ss of his experiment (he calls it one) ...r all the data have been gathered and ...firm the integrity of the man's endeavor. ...d an elective course, into a vital ex... come to learn no so many biological great fact which is life. For what it's ...aby."

Philip J. Gallagher
Graduate Student
English

Part II

A Bomb Of A Policy

by PATRICK FLAHERTY, Editorial Staff

President Johnson has maintained that he is a man of peace, while continuously trying to bomb North Vietnam to the conference table. On August 12, 1964 he chastised the "hawks": "They call upon us to supply American troops to do the job that Asian boys should do. They ask us to take reckless action which might risk the lives of millions and engulf much of Asia and certainly threaten the peace of the entire world. Moreover such action would offer no solution at all to the real problem of Vietnam."

He repeated these views later in October during his presidential campaign and went on to defeat Barry Goldwater, whose advocacy of bombing the North Vietnam terrorized voters into supporting LBJ.

Yet only two months after his inauguration, it became government policy to bomb North Vietnam.

The web of deception has now been partially unwoven by Roger Hilsman, the former Assistant Secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs (1963-4). In his book "To Move a Nation" the author reveals that soon after Kennedy's assassination in 1963 Walt Rostow presented to the new President (LBJ) a well-reasoned case for gradual escalation and soon thereafter a proposal was put forward by the Pentagon and CIA for a program of low level reconnaissance —over Laos and for a program of increased military pressure against the North.

Included in this was the proposal to increase US air attacks in the South and begin bombing of the North. Earlier in the year General Harkins, Westmoreland's predecessor, had noted, "The guerrillas are not being reinforced or supplied systematically from North Vietnam, China, or any place else. They depend for weapons primarily on whatever they can capture." (Washington Post, 3/6/63).

This was a calculated response intended to break the control of the entire countryside by the Viet Cong. McNamara went to Saigon December 19th and 20th, and upon his return refused to support bombing of the North. However extensive implementation of the desired plan was not possible then, because it was an election year. Despite evident deterioration, MacNamara reported "excellent progress" ostensibly to get more funds from Congress. LBJ asked for $125 million from Congress, a 25% increase. Increased aid was supplied by the US and more troops were sent to raise South Vietnamese morale.

By January 20, 1964, Hilsman decided to resign his post, "sure that the U.S. under President Johnson's direction . . . was obviously going to take the military path — even though it climbed the ladder of escalation slowly and deliberately." Kennedy was one of the last advocates of a "political solution" similar to the type arranged in Laos; when Johnson ascended to power the "hawks" gained control and led us to our present impasse.

Johnson's campaign words clouded his intentions; once in office he proceeded according to the "military" plan. Preparations for escalation had been made before the election; the troop commitment of 23,000 in 1964 increased to 181,000 by the end of 1965.

In June, 1964 in Honolulu, Rusk asked newsmen to report that the "U.S. commitment to Vietnam was unlimited." Previously President Johnson in his New Year's Address 1963, offered what the Republic White Paper (1967) described as an "open-end military commitment" to South Vietnam. Officially our forces were to begin pulling out by 1965, and US actions, typically anti-communist and anti-neutralist, were contrary to the war weariness of the South Vietnamese people.

The change in our policy is clearly reflected by contrasting the State Department White Papers of 1961 and 1965. The former emphasized the indigenous nature of the conflict. It said in part:

"The basic pattern of Viet Cong activity is not new of course . . . Most of the same methods were used in Malaya, in Greece, in the Philippines, in Cuba, and in Laos. If anything is peculiar to the Vietnam situation it is that the country is divided and one-half provides a safe sanctuary from which subversion in the other half is directed and supported with both personnel and material."

This is not completely accurate, because as early as 1959 to avoid admitting Diem unpopular, insurgents were said to be infiltrators from the north. The guerrilla war had begun in 1957 and increased correspondingly in popular support to Diem's degree of political repression which was great. South Vietnamese and American officials gave "optimistic reports," designed to create confidence in the Diem dictatorship, although the facts were quite to the contrary.

(To be continued)

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union . . . University of Massachusetts . . . Amherst, Mass.

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Chester S. Weinerman '68
MANAGING EDITOR ..... John H. Dean, Jr. '69
BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Charles Smith '69
News Day Editor: Jon Mickelson, Sports Day Editor: Martha Curran

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Published at the Massachusetts Daily Collegian, Student Union, UMass., Amherst, Mass. 01002.

Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, Member of the Collegiate Press Service of the United States Student Press Association. Member of the Associated Press—The Associated Press is entitled exclusively to the use for reproduction of all the local news printed in this newspaper as well as all AP news dispatches.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed five times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; three or four times weekly the week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amended by the act of June 11, 1934. Subscription price: $6.00 per year; $3.50 per semester.

ALFRED HITCHCOCK'S
ACADEMY AWARD WINNING
"CHARADE"
With CARY GRANT & AUDREY HEPBURN
Saturday, November 4
Mahar Aud. — 8:00 P.M.
50c
STUDENT ECON. ASSOC.

INFIRMARY WAITING TIME

varies considerably during the day. It is consistently short early in the morning; it is almost as consistently long in the latter part of the afternoon.

In the interest of saving your time we suggest that you try to make outpatient visits early in the morning, as soon after 8 a.m. as possible.

Also please try to avoid visits from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. unless your problem is urgent (or unless you have classes all day).

University Health Services

The Brothers of
Phi Sigma Kappa
invite Freshmen
to Open, Informal Smoker
Thurs. Nov. 2 — 10:30 p.m.
At the Grad House
382 No. Pleasant Street

Freshman Class Officers Join UMass Representative Functions

by PAT FRANCIS
Staff Reporter

The Freshman Class officers have taken the first step in organizing their efforts as the newest part of the University's representative functions.

President Joe Tabacco asserted that "the most important step is to get the executive council organized, realizing their value to the success of our activities as a class.

"We have discussed prospects of new ideas for traditional Freshman Christmas Carol Sing. We have contributed to Homecoming and are looking forward to Freshman Weekend in March."

"I'd like to change the image of the whole class," said Joel Wilson, vice-president. "The class should change from being just socially active to becoming a part of student government."

The officers hope to facilitate this by opening Executive Council positions at the end of this week. Applications will be available in the RSO office until November 14, on which date they are due back. The officers have set Nov. 20 as the date of the first Executive Council meeting.

Tabacco also stated that they want to work more closely with other classes. They are planning several meetings in the future to get their ideas formulated for the benefit of the whole class.

Marty Shapiro, Class of 1971 Treasurer, said, "We want to get as many students as possible working on programs we have . . . not only the social programs but class projects, too."

This view was also voiced by Ed Hill, '71 Senator-at-Large, who added "With the size of the class, we should be able to muster enough enthusiasm and initiative to make this the best class to enter the University."

All 1971 officers are looking forward to meeting the members of the class at the Class Meeting. The date is yet to be set.

Daily Collegian Photo by Dick Kline
Joe Tabacco
Freshman Class President

Flu Shots Available to High Risk Groups Only

By MARTIN GLENDON
Staff Reporter

Dr. Robert W. Gage, Head of University Health Services, today announced that there will be no mass distribution of flu shots at this time or at any time in the forseeable future.

He said that shots will be available for students and faculty in high-risk groups whose health would be jeopardized without them. This includes diabetics and people with certain heart problems.

According to Dr. Gage the last time the University provided mass vaccination for flu was the fall of 1962. The program was largely a failure because students did not attend for the full series of shots that is required for effective prevention of flu. Dr. Gage further stated that the majority of doctors on the staff do not take flu shots themselves.

Dr. Gage says that the University Health Services follow the advice of the U.S. Communicable Disease Center with respect to flu outbreaks.

It should be stressed that those in high-risk groups who need flu shots to prevent complications that may arise from the virus may obtain them at the infirmary.

Caesura Accepting Manuscripts

Caesura, the literary magazine of the University of Massachusetts, is accepting manuscripts for the Winter issue.

The magazine is a student publication designed to give creative students an opportunity to be read and enjoyed by the entire campus. The staff urges all budding young artists and writers to submit their material. It needs poetry, prose and art work.

Deadline for the next issue is November 15. Manuscripts may be left at the Caesura Desk, Franklin Room, S.U. Please make sure that all manuscripts are typed, double spaced and have name and address attached on a separate piece of paper.

NOTICES

HILLEL
On Nov. 1 at 6:30 P.M. in S.U. there is a general meeting. Public invited.
On Nov. 5 at 5 P.M. there is a Deli Supper Sunday evening in Commonwealth Room, S.U. All invited, come early.
Passover refunds now being distributed at Hillel office, N thru Z 10 A.M. to 5 P.M. Thursday. All others available from noon to 6:30 Monday, Nov. 6.

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS
BUS leaves the Newman Center Saturday, Nov. 4 at 1:15 P.M.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB
COFFEE hour at 6:30 P.M. on Wed., Nov. 1 featuring Greece. Elections for 3 Associate members will be held.
Mixer at Memorial Hall on Friday, at 8 P.M.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORG.
Free 6 month subscription offered to Christian Science Monitor to all interested foreign students. Those interested place their name and address in RSO mail box 908.

NEWMAN CLUB
Philosophy class "Theater of Gabriel Marcel" with Fr. Bennett every Wednesday at 7:30 in Room 2.

SCIENCE FICTION LIBRARY
Hours are Mon.-Fri. 6:30-8:30 in 109-111 Hampshire House, near Southwest. Movie coming Up Dec. 5, Fahrenheit 451, by Ray Bradbury.
Dues are $1.00, plus library privileges and more.

HEYMAKERS SQUARE DANCE
Dance on Wed., Nov. 1 in S.U. Ballroom at 7:30.

CAMPUS CRUSADE FOR CHRIST
On Friday, Nov. 3 at 8 P.M. there will be a hayride and party following at Beck's Barn, Amherst. All welcome. Couples and stag. Donation is 25¢ per person.

RUSSIAN CLUB
On Thurs., Nov. 2 at 5:30 P.M. meet in Lobby of Dining Commons No. 5, for Dinner together. Meeting at 6:30 P.M. in Thoreau House Lounge. Russian dancing and singing.

SPA
Students for Political Action and Arab Association are sponsoring a panel discussion on Revolutionary changes in the Arab World. Members of panel include Prof. Braunthal, IBrahim Othman, and Hatem Huiseaini. Meeting is Wed., Nov. 1 at 8:30 P.M. in Middlesex Room.

QUAKER MEETING
Mt. Toby meeting of Friends, on Route 63, Leverett, at 10:30 A.M. meeting for worship, third Wed., at 7:45 P.M. business meeting, 4th Sunday, fellowing lunch. Student meeting, phone 253-5048.

FOUND
In the leaves on Lincoln Ave. a pair of black framed glasses in a dark brown leather case. Call 256-7488.

PINNINGS:
Linda Saunders '70, John Quincy Adams, to Paul Chelman '68, Boston College.
Jerri Iris Kaplan, IGU '70, to Alan Jerry Sher '68, Bryant College, Rhode Island.
Joan E. Charbonneau '68, Gamma Sigma Sigma, to Thomas R. Sheldon '68, Norwich University.
Naomi J. Berkowitz '71 Melville, to Alan S. Pransky '71, Washington.

Regional Convention Planned By Brothers of Delta Chi

The brothers of Delta Chi colony are preparing for the annual Delta Chi regional convention, which will be held at UMass this spring.

Hopes are high that when the representatives of Delta Chi chapters from all over the East do arrive, it will also be to commemorate the chartering of the newest UMass fraternity.

Delta Chi has grown tremendously in its nine months in the Inter-fraternity Council and now has a house at 17 Fearing St. and an active brotherhood of thirty.

In light of the upcoming rush season, the brothers again wish to reaffirm their goals of scholastic achievement, of service to the University and community, and of the more familiar social aspects of fraternity living.

If you are looking for a little more in a fraternity, meet the brotherhood which is striving for more.

Open formal smokers will be tonight and tomorrow night, Nov. 1 and 2, at 10 p.m. at 17 Fearing St. across from the telephone building.

Sorority Average Cumes Compared

The office of the Dean of Women just made available the comparative averages of sorority members and pledges. For the academic year of 1966-67, Sigma Delta Tau ranked first with an overall average of 2.76. The first semester at 2.77 was lower than the second with 2.74 it was the only sorority that improved in the second part of the year.

Another sorority was Chi Omega with an average of 2.510, a drop from 2.570 to 2.541 in the first and second semesters respectively.

In last place of the compilement was Iota Gamma Upsilon which dropped from 2.591 average in the first semester to 2.354 in the second. Their yearly average was 2.447.

Also supplied was the all University women's average. It was interesting to note that the total average was 2.482 a rise from 2.423 to 2.541 between semesters.

The Daily Collegian has added one new telephone number and changed another.

The new number, 545-0344, has been assigned to the Sports staff, while business and advertising has been changed from 549-0716 to 545-0311.

The News Desk, or "Hot Line," remains 545-2550 as does the Editor's number, 549-1311.

COLLEGE HEALTH . . .
(Continued from page 1)

"drug" can be established only on the basis of information from thoughtful and carefully controlled observations of its physical and emotional effects, not by hasty and priori judgments based upon the fears of law enforecement agents or the opinions of others who assume responsibility for the orderliness of our college communities. Thus, it is a responsibility of the health professions to recommend appropriate regulations, not to enforce them; it is the responsibility of law enforcement agencies to enforce regulations, not to establish them.

Until there is clear and substantial evidence which warrants changes in existing regulations, the ACHA can only urge that students, and other members of college communities, observe existing laws. Specified penalties for violations are harsh, often mandatory, and may blight later opportunities. Furthermore, the long-term risks of experimenting with some of these drugs (LSD for example) are substantial, if not monstrous. The possible benefits are hardly worth the risk.

Above all, the ACHA urges all members of communities of scholars to act at all times in a manner which reflects concern and responsibility for the right of each member of the community to live a healthy life, one of commitment to the educational goals of the institutions. Use of any substance (alcohol, stimulants, sedatives, hallucinogens, etc.) can never excuse or justify irresponsible behavior.

We sincerely thank the Class of 1971 for their great support and enthusiasm during the recent elections.

We are honored to serve you in the months ahead.

Respectfully,

JOSEPH J. TABACCO, President
JOEL H. WILSON, Vice-President

'68 College Graduates

New York City's trainee plan gives you a "clear path" to meaningful careers

Modern city government is far different from "the old days." Today, in New York City, the trained expert and administrator must be able to handle and solve intricate, fast-changing problems on a scale larger than in many entire countries. Newest methods, systems are being used.
Can your ability and talent fit into city government? Openings in:

City Planning • Urban Renewal
Management Analysis
Methods Analysis
Personnel Administration

Few training positions offer so much in exposure, contacts, actual work problem responsibility, so fast—and a clear path to rapid advancement. Start at $6,500; as much as $8,200 after one year, plus 4 week vacation, many benefits.

Other positions

CASE WORKERS
POLICE OFFICERS
PROGRAMMERS
RECREATION LEADERS
(Any Major)

ENGINEERS
Civil Electrical Mechanical

GEOLOGISTS

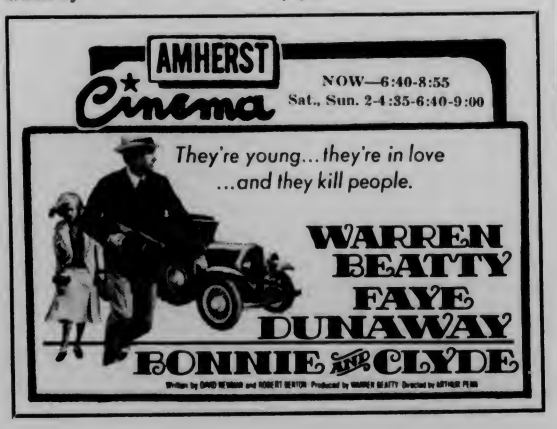
DIETITIANS

SCHOOL LUNCH MANAGERS

NURSES

SPEECH & HEARING THERAPISTS

College Recruitment, Unit E4
Personnel Dept. City of N.Y.
220 Church St., N.Y., N.Y. 10013



I'd like to know more about career opportunities with the City of New York. Please send brochure, and information on applications.

DON'T DELAY! Trainee test scheduled Dec. 16, 1967 in NYC and Boston. For other openings request details now! Please indicate fields of interest.

☐ Trainee plan ☐ Other positions

Name_____
Address_____
City_____
State_____ Zip_____
Field(s) of Interest (Tentative)_____
College_____
Major_____

NEW YORK CITY
Department of Personnel
College Recruitment
220 Church St., N.Y., N.Y. 10013
Phone: 212-566-6700
An Equal Opportunity Employer

Funeral Dirge Plays For Brian in Thatcher

Alas poor Brian, he slithered well.

Brian was buried yesterday in a solemn candle light funeral service conducted by those who loved him dearly, members of the fourth floor at Thatcher House. Brian was only a garter snake, but to all who knew him he was a friend and mascot.

Brian came to the fourth floor in a plastic bag as a zoology experiment in the able hand of David Kennedy. He was soon introduced to everyone and was taken to heart by all. He was named Brian after his closest friend and companion, Brian Lucas. It seems that one day the snake crawled into bed with Brian, and was subsequently named after him.

Attendance at the services was heart-warming. Well over 50 turned out to pay their respects.

Represented at the services were the entire fourth floor of Thatcher, a group of mourners from Leech House, several others from other dorms in the North Quad and, most notably, a group from the third floor north of Hamlin House who presented a touching card of sympathy to Brian's namesake.

The services were presided over by the Wrong Reverend Mr. Fred Steeves, who read passages over the deceased. Pall bearers for Brian were Harry Richard, Douglas Morin, William Kozak and David Kennedy.

Candle-bearers were Mike Daley, Frank Kushmerek, John Wadsworth and Ron Kosnicki.

A marker for Brian's grave was carried by Dick Michael.

Incense was borne by Mike Leal, a close friend of the departed. Helping Brian Lucas at the services were Les Harmon and Marc Amidon, who later played taps. Organ music was provided by Paul Wisiolek.

The most touching part of the ceremony came at the end of the eulogy when these words were spoken: "It is with deep sorrow that we must now commend his body, which we unfortunately could not preserve for these services, and his spirit to that place where all great snakes go. Farewell, Brian, Farewell."

And that is all anyone can say.

Daily Collegian Photo by Tom Gale

Dum . . . Dum . . . da dum . . .

New 'Control System' Eases UMass Parking Dilemma

by RICHARD LANE
Staff Reporter

The parking dilemma at the University of Massachusetts is being "eased" somewhat by the initiation of a "New" parking system around the campus this fall according to campus Police chief Alexander Blasco.

Called the "control parking system", the plan is designed to accommodate 3,500 autos. It consists of seven patrolled areas, six of which are open Monday to Friday from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. These areas are designed for faculty and staff parking, and official visitors or guests of the University.

Control parking has also been set up to rid some of the "bitterness", according to Blasco, over towing away of violators. The chief made it clear, however, that his department is still enforcing the towing as much as previously.

All seven parking areas are not in full operation. The police leader cited the lack of heating and other essentials in the control booths as the reason. He added, however, that though limited in operation thus far, these parking lots have been effective in dealing with traffic problems.

Blasco told the Collegian that he has received "a lot of very high compliments for the system."

Among the seven lots on campus, area #1 behind Hampshire House will accommodate the largest number 1,000 cars. Other lots include: Skinner Hall, area 4, 200 cars; Engineering (Draper), Area 6, 300; Boyden-Dickinson - Cage, Area 5, 400-550 and Area 7, Southwest.

Viet Cong Bomb Saigon Event Attended by HHH

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong fired four mortar shells Tuesday night at South Vietnam's Independence Palace where the nation's newly sworn president, Nguyen Van Thieu, was entertaining U.S. Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and 2,000 guests at a glittering inaugural reception.

Only hours before, Thieu had taken the oath as president of this nation's first constitutional government in four years and announced he would propose peace talks to North Vietnam.

Three shells exploded on the palace grounds and one outside. The building was not hit, nor was anyone at the reception, but fragments injured three persons not at the party. Though windows shook, the band played on and the reception, and a later dinner for Humphrey and some other guests, went off as scheduled.

Investigators found the building from which the mortar shells had been fired five blocks away from the palace. Three men fled the scene and inside the building, which had been used as a laundry, was found the body of a 73-year-old Vietnamese man—presumably the owner—shot to death.

The laundry had been closed for two months and police reported it appeared Viet Cong agents disguised as workmen entered the building Tuesday morning, saying they were going to make some repairs, and smuggled in the mortar tube at that time. The Vietnamese man apparently was slain then.

Vice President Encourages U. S. Soldiers

SAIGOON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey told U.S. military personnel Wednesday not to be "distracted by the so-called voices of dissent" at home.

Do not in any way be distracted from your call of duty," he said in a statement broadcast over the Armed Forces Radio Network. He asserted that, "by and large," the American people support the government's role in South Vietnam.

The Vice President was described Tuesday as highly pleased with his talks with South Vietnamese leaders.

American sources, reporting on his separate pre-inaugural meetings Monday with President Nguyen Van Thieu and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, said.

Humphrey told them there was criticism in the United States of the South Vietnamese army and corruption in South Vietnam.

Humphrey also told them there is a vocal element in the United States that represents dissent from Johnson administration policies in Vietnam, but most Americans are behind these policies.

Vietnamese March

SAIGON (AP) — With weapons ranging from crossbows to rockets and with jets and helicopters roaring overhead, South Vietnam's armed forces marched Wednesday in a mammoth National Day parade that defied Viet Cong mortar attacks.

Units from all branches of Vietnamese military services marched in the parade.

DEFERMENTS . . .

(Continued from page 1)

laureate degree.

The report included the following four alternative possibilities which the Committee feels would alleviate the problem:

1. "The statute provides that, on the advice of the National Security Council, fields of study in addition to medicine may be identified as eligible for deferment on the grounds that they are necessary to the maintenance of the national health, safety, or interest. There is no indication as yet whether Selective Service will exercise this authority. If it does, it might define such fields narrowly (i.e., specialized areas within particular fields) or broadly (i.e., the natural sciences and engineering). The identification of certain critical fields of desperately and demonstrably short supply would probably not arouse controversy. But it seems probable that the broader the identification of fields for deferment, the greater the likelihood of controversy such as was experienced last year on the whole subject of graduate deferments.

2. Under the existing statute and Executive Order, the Department of Defense could request Selective Service to produce a given ratio (i.e., 4-1) of 19 year-old men to older men. The rule of drafting oldest first would still apply for both groups. For the older group the order of induction would be based on year of birth. For the younger group it would be based on month and date of birth, with, for example, those born in January, 1949, being called first, followed by those born in February, March, April, etc. Such a system would seem to provide the armed services with the desirable age-mix, and would enable men in both groups to assess with some degree of accuracy the likelihood of their induction.

3. The Congress has indicated a willingness to hold prompt hearings if the President proposes legislation to institute a random selection system. If such a system were adopted, a prime age group would be designated, probably age 19. Those who had passed age 19 without military service, and were no longer entitled to deferment would be treated as if they were 19 and placed in the pool with the actual 19-year-olds. This would result in a pool of available men. of such size that (assuming a 200,000-300,000 need) approximately one out of every four in the pool would be inducted. Put another way, 25% of eligible 19-year-olds not enrolled in college and 25% of the older men (mostly college graduates) would probably be called. While all those passed over would still be subject to call in subsequent years, the likelihood of their induction would decline each year as a new group reached the age of 19 or lost their II-S deferments."

In conclusion the committee stated in the report that all the possibilities described in the report are under active consideration within the executive branch of Government. They further state, "We are not sure however, that there has been a full realization of the situation in the academic community, the country as a whole, or indeed the Congress at large, and it is for this reason that this report is being sent to you [member institutions of A.C.E.]

"Obviously the decisions reached will be of tremendous importance not only to the graduate and professional schools but also to the entire nation."

MASS. CLASSIFIED

Help Wanted

Typist needed with thesis experience for a short or long term project. Call 545-2392 Tues., Wed., Thurs. days, 253-3822 evenings.

For Rent

24 feet Room
Refrigerator, cooking facilities, center of town.
Leader Rooms
159 North Pleasant St.
Apply at Bowling Alley.
$15 a week

FOR SALE

Sports car tires for sale—two 5.60-15 Firestone snowtires, tubeless whitewalls. One 5.90-15 regular tubeless whitewall. Call day 545-2405, night 546-9952.

SURFBOARDS (2)
1967 Greg Noll 10' (5" speed) plus racks & suit (med, med-lg.)
1967 Dewey Weber performer 10'4 modified kick & rails.
Both in boss cond. 6-9776 after 6.

LOST

Valuable panasonic tape recorder from my car 10/26 behind the Baptist Church, North Pleasant St. Essential for work. Contains important tape that cannot be duplicated. Please return. Reward for information or return. Call 545-2260.

WANTED

Roommate to share 3 rm. Apt. in N. Amherst. Call 549-06411.

AUTOMOBILE

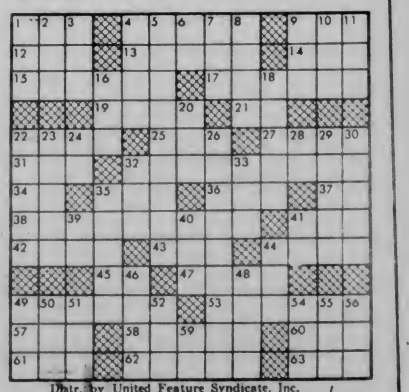
1964 red MG Sports sedan excellent condition. Just the thing for those winding, snow-packed roads to Stratton or Snow. Make offer over $450. Call 253-7919.

PERSONAL

BIMBO: ELEPHANTS SHOULD GO ON DIETS.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle



PAS ATONE TIL
AIT LANES ALE
PREFER ENABLE PLANT EEL
TAPE SIR SEPT
SLEEP NAP SEA
AI SOP HAM TI
RET DAM REBEL
SNAP COT TARS
MAP WOMEN
BEATEN WARNED
ALL WATER ERA
TIE STIRS DEB

ACROSS

1-Opening
4-Bitterly pungent
9-Vessel
12-Macaw
13-Flexible
14-Man's name
15-Diminish
17-Substance
19-Lane
21-Sun god
22-Pilaster
25-Three-toed sloths
27-Church benches
31-Female deer
32-Kissing plant (colloq.)
34-River in Siberia
35-Unit of electrical measurement
36-Free of
37-Parent (colloq.)
38-Overlaid with plaster
41-Obtain
42-Girl's nickname
43-Soak
44-Measure of weight (pl.)
45-Pronoun
47-Reverberation
49-Heavenly beings
53-Harbinger
57-Falsehood
58-Amphibious mammal
60-River in Wales
61-Likely
62-Hospital sections
63-Man's nickname

DOWN

1-Female (colloq.)
2-Exist
3-Dance step
4-Appellation of Athena
5-Holder
6-Artificial language
7-Doctrine
8-Loved one
9-Hole
10-Native metal
11-Sailor (colloq.)
16-Resort
18-Bound
20-Pronoun
22-Take as one's own
23-Aristocratic
24-Symbol for tellurium
26-Distended
28-Latin conjunction 29-Females
30-Chairs
32-Witty remark
33-Cover
35-Send forth
39-Conjunction
40-Female ruff
41-Proceed
44-Rocky hill
46-Sluggish
48-Possessive pronoun
49-A state (abbr.)
50-Pinch
51-Obtain
52-Music: as written
54-Total
55-Sign of zodiac
56-Lair
59-Initials of 26th President

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

York Named Top Soph

Tom York, UMass sophomore from Bedminster, N.J. has been chosen as the top sophomore player in the Yankee Conference for his performance last Saturday. New Hampshire halfback Bill Estey from Portsmouth N.H., Rhode Island fullback Brent Kaufman, N.Y.C., and Rhode Island line-backer Ken Kuzman of Warwick R.I., were chosen top offensive and defensive players.

Estey and Kaufman were chosen co-winners on offense. Estey, 5'6 speedster, personally brought UNH a 21-13 win over previously undefeated Northeastern. The senior scatback returned a kickoff 94 yards for one touchdown and later raced up the middle 85 yards for another touchdown on a punt return. Estey has gained 3,384 yards on running, passing and kick returns in his three years at UNH.

Kaufman, a junior, had his greatest game for URI as he helped the Rams topple Bucknell, 27-7 for their fourth win in five games. Kaufman gained 111 yards rushing on 22 tries, ran seven yards for one touchdown and made a brilliant diving catch for a 29-yard touchdown.

Kuzman, an outstanding junior linebacker, twice smothered the Bucknell quarterback for long losses. He also led the URI defense as it held Bucknell's potent passing attack to two completions in 13 tries for 19 yards and just 118 yards rushing.

York, a 6'2 200-pound sophomore, was a standout defensively as UMass won its fourth game in five starts with a 24-0 victory over Boston U. York recovered a fumble, caused one with a vicious tackle and intercepted a pass while making eight tackles.

Other nominations were-offense-quarterback Greg Landry (Massachusetts), halfback Charlie Yanush (Maine), halfback Jim DeWitt (Connecticut) and end Jeff Kuhman (Vermont); defense-linebacker Ernie Smith (Massachusetts), end Jeann White and halfback Dave Shumate (Vermont); sophomores-halfback Mike Barra (Maine), flanker John Crisp (Connecticut), linebacker Dick Gordon (New Hampshire), end Harry Canning (Vermont) and tackle Warren Negri (Rhode Island).

M-Club Stars

Split end Nick Warnock and defensive end Tom York received the weekly Varsity "M" Club awards for their performances in the B.U. game. The presentations were made yesterday at the Quarterback Luncheon at the Newman Club.

YORK

Warnock, a 6'2-195 pound junior from Berwyn, Pa., received the offensive award. He caught five passes from 78 yards and kept B.U. in poor field position with his accurate punting.

York, a 6'2-200 pound sophomore from Bedminster, N.J., recovered a fumble, caused another, and intercepted a pass in addition to WARNOCK making eight tackles.

WARNOCK

REACH FOR GLORY—UMass safety Steve Rogers jumps high to bat down Tom Thornton pass for Reggie Rucker (obscured) in waning moments of Saturday's 24-0 victory at B.U. One Boston writer called the desperation pass a "Hail Mary Special."

Football Statistics

Leading Scorer	Td	Ep	Fg	Pts
Kaufman, R.I.	6	0	0	36
Landry, Mass	6	0	0	36
Mitchell, Vt	6	0	0	36
Petrillo, Conn	6	0	0	36
Geiselman, RI	5	4	0	34
Bjerke, R.I.	3	6	1	27
Vollherbst, NH	0	14	4	26
Sherman, Mass.	0	16	3	25
Grasso, Mass	4	0	0	24

Rushing Offense	Atts	Yds	Ave
Mitchell, Vt.	171	626	3.6
Landry, Mass.	96	514	5.4
Petrillo, Conn.	79	339	4.2
Kaufman, RI	89	311	3.5
Phillips, NH	63	278	4.4
Bjerke, R.I.	55	236	4.2
Couturier, NH	57	221	3.9
Yanush, Me	59	184	3.1

Passing Offense	Att	Comp	Int	Pct	Yds	Td
Landry, Mass	77	40	3	.519	543	3
Simpson, Vt	70	35	4	.500	336	0
Walsh, NH	78	38	4	.474	490	3
Petrillo, Conn	77	36	5	.468	892	1
Caswell, RI	171	78	1	.456	1065	7
Wing, Me	118	52	6	.440	503	1

Leading Pass Receivers	No.	Yds.	Ave	TD
Benner, Me	33	442	13.4	1
Geiselman, RI	27	513	19.1	5
Crisp, Conn	24	319	12.2	0
Kuhman, Vt	25	216	8.6	3
Keiderling, Vt.	22	228	13.1	2
Walker, RI	22	272	12.3	0
Warnock, Mass.	15	210	14.0	1
Bertlett, NH	16	174	11.6	1
Grasso, Mass	10	176	17.6	2

Kicking Specialists	Pat's	FG's	Pts
Vollherbst, NH	14(15)	4(5)	26
Sherman, Mass	16(17)	3(5)	25
Bjerke, RI	6(10)	1(1)	9
Lawrence, Conn	6(8)	1(4)	9
Scribner, Me	4(4)	0(0)	4

Leading Punters	No	Ave	Lg
Phillips, NH	24	38.6	65
Spinney, RE	42	37.8	60
Warnock, Mass	24	37.1	52
Tiner, Conn	11	37.1	50
Mugford, Conn	13	36.3	49
Duigneault, Vt	40	35.9	53
Norris, Me	44	35.6	58

Punt Return Leaders	No.	Yds	Ave	Lg	Td
Estey, NH	8	279	34.9	85	2
Rudolph, NH	12	193	16.1	63	1
Peterson, Vt	6	75	12.5	23	0
Peterson, Vt.	6	120	20.0	28	0
Mazanec, Vt	7	65	9.2	17	0
Krot, Conn	7	60	8.5	17	0
Harney, Me	9	57	6.3	18	0

Kickoff Return Leaders	No	Yds	Ave	Lg	TD
Mazanec, Vt	3	140	47.3	98	1
Estey, NH	5	153	30.6	94	1
Parnell, Mass	9	240	26.6	57	0
Harney, Me	16	322	20.1	24	0
Peterson, Vt	6	120	20.1	24	0
Di Yeso, Conn	10	187	18.7	28	0

Conference Standings	YC	W	L	T	All W	L	T	Pts	Opp
Mass.		3	0	0	4	1	0	127	75
Conn.		2	1	0	2	3	0	76	93
NH		2	1	0	4	1	0	116	32
RI		1	1	1	4	1	1	104	66
VT		1	2	1	2	3	1	75	110
Maine		0	4	0	0	6	0	30	184

Redmen on the Warpath

Wednesday, Nov. 1

SOCCER — vs. Amherst (home, 3 p.m.)

SOCCER (Fr.) — vs. Trinity (home, 3:30 p.m.)

Dial the MDC's Hot Sportline 5-0344

Tonight's Intramurals

Time	Alley	Dormitory North League
6:30	1-2	Flaming "A"s-Barracudas
	3-4	Aces-Redwoods
	5-6	Oaks-Maples
8:30	1-2	Eagles-Birch
	3-4	Maroons-Lemons
	5-6	Hi-Los-Trojans

'Cross Town Rivals

BOOTERS vs. LORD JEFFS

Cross-town rival Amherst provides the opposition when the UM soccer team plays one of its most important games of the year today at varsity field at 3.

The Redmen go into the game as underdogs; Amherst is one of the leading teams in the New England Soccer League. The Jeffs are led by their two All-American candidates, Jaffer Kassamali and Charlie Nielsen.

The freshman soccer team takes on Trinity today at 3:30 on the field adjacent to varsity field.

Probable Starting Lineup

No.	Pos.	Name
6	Goal	Kramer, Steve
24	LFB	Howard, Frank
11	RFB	Dubiel, Bob
23	RHB	Bozenhard, Phil
9	CHB	Hale, Dick
12	LHB	Jekanowski, Dave
18	OR	Gibbons, Gary
3	IR	Smith, Marty
17	CF	Allen, Bill
15	IL	Rosoff, Rick
5	OL	Cellilli, Gerry

Hot Sportline

For the latest results of UMass games (any sport) Sunday through Thursday nights, dial the Daily Collegian Hot Sportline — 5-0344. Metawampe's grid picks may be available to callers every Thursday night. Sorry, no verses will be read over the phone.

OARSMEN AT EASE—Varsity Crew team took time during the Head-of-the-Charles-Regatta in Boston Sunday to salute the University. Crew members front to back: Bill Crowe, coxswaine; Glenn Chaple, stroke; Roger O'Donnell; Tim McKenna; Jack Wolpert; Ed Magiera; Ron Stolz; Bob Kiley; and Wendell Frost, bow.

Action Abounds

PMD Erases QTV

Led by the splendid passing of Frank Halcomb, Hi Lo's stampeded Buffaloes, setting the pace for Intramural action Monday night. Halcomb completed 20 out of 25 passes.

In the Central Tower League Smashers sneaked by Terrors, 14-13.

In fraternity action, QTV smashed SPE, 13-6.

In the Independent League, Flaming "A's" sank Del Vikings 32-7. The Flaming "A's" also dehorsed the Knights 26-18.

In the Grad Faculty League, the Colonials exploded Chem Club 33-19.

Last night's intramural action was highlighted by PMD's tremendous victory over QTV for the Spartan-Trojan Championship.

In the Independent League Colonials soaked the Flaming "A's" 27-20.

Aces over Hi Lo's 20-19.

Terrors terrorized Commancees 31-19 for North South Tower Championship.

Watch for Metawampe's Grid Picks Friday

Forecast
Cloudy and
Mild

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

New England's
Largest College
Daily

VOL. XCVI, NO. 39 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1967

Commager Decries Hunt For Jobs on Campus

Henry Steele Commager of Amherst College said in a letter to the editor of a Boston newspaper yesterday that "the campus is not a proper place for job recruiting."

He wrote:

"Your editorial denunciation of Harvard and Radcliffe students who protested against Dow Chemical Company recruiting on University property, and against Oberlin College students who engaged in similar protests against Navy recruiters, is most injudicious. Granted that young people, less wise than editorial writers and government officials, and driven to frustration by their inability to persuade their elders to listen to them, indulge in bad manners. The real question you do not touch: the readiness of university and college officials to permit job recruiting by private or government agencies on campus.

"Why should great universities or colleges lend their facilities to outside organizations seeking to hire people? A university is not an employment agency. It is beneath the dignity of a university to allow itself to be maneuvered into a position where it lends its facilities to outside organizations in order to facilitate their business. No church would allow a chemical company to set up recruiting in its premises; no British university—imagine recruiting in an Oxford or Cambridge College! If business organizations or government offices want to recruit, let them hire space and set up their business outside university premises.

"There is a larger issue here. You—and others—appear to find all demonstrations wicked unless at least one hundred years old. We do not, I believe, deplore too strongly the demonstrations of Mohawks when they dumped tea in Boston Harbor, and time was when Boston celebrated Boston Massacre Day — a case of very wicked demonstrations by Bostonians against soldiers who had every right to be where they were. On this whole matter of bad manners that accompany demonstrations I commend to you the wise words of Samuel Joseph May — uncle of Little Women — to William Ellery Channing:

" 'You must not expect those who have been left to take up this great cause (of anti-slavery) that they will plead it in all that seemliness of phrase which the scholars . . . might use. But the scholars, and the clergy, and the statesmen had done nothing . . . We abolitionists are what we are —babes, sucklings, obscure men, silly women, publicans, sinners, and we shall manage the matter we have taken in hand just as might be expected of such persons as we are. It is unbecoming in abler men, who stood by and would do nothing, to complain of us because we manage this matter no better.' "

"To this Dr. Channing answered words that I commend to you and others who deplore the bad manners of those who protest the present folly of the Vietnam War: 'The great interests of humanity do not lose their claims on us because sometimes injudiciously maintained.' "

Paul to Build for Hamp. Campus

The appointment of Howard E. Paul as construction supervisor of Hampshire College has been announced by Hampshire president Franklin Patterson. Mr. Paul will work with College leadership and architects to complete and carry out plans for the buildings which will go up on Hampshire's 500-acre campus, located in South Amherst and adjacent Hadley. Construction is scheduled to begin in July 1968.

Mr. Paul comes to Hampshire College from the Turner Construction Company, where he has been employed for the past eleven years, most recently as construction superintendent of a new headquarters building for Scholastic Magazine in New Jersey. He is a 1953 graduate of Long Island Technical Institute, where he majored in construction technology.

LATE MEETING

Student Senate debate on financial matters was still on at press time, last night. Complete coverage of the Nov. 1 meeting will hopefully appear in tomorrow's Daily Collegian.

Japanese Play Under Fiedler

One of Japan's youngest symphony orchestras, under the direction of Boston Pops Conductor Arthur Fiedler, will perform at the University of Massachusetts, tonight.

The 8 p.m. concert by the Yomiuri Symphony Orchestra will be held in Curry Hicks Cage, sponsored by the UMass Concert Association.

Japan's youngest symphony orchestra, the Yomiuri Symphony Orchestra, will play this evening at Curry Hicks Cage.

Composed of 100 male musicians, the orchestra presented its first concert in September 1962. The Japanese musicians make 100 television appearances each year. Regular subscription concerts are scheduled monthly with conductors and soloists of world-wide fame invited for guest appearances. Arthur Fiedler was one of the orchestra's guest conductors in 1965. He suggested they make an American tour.

Soloist on the American tour is a young pianist, Hiro Imamura. A third generation American of Japanese ancestry, Miss Imamura was graduated from the University of California at Berkeley as a music major, last year. She began studying music at the age of five in California and recently attended the master classes of both Madame Rosina Lhevinne and Gyorgy Sandor.

Tonight, Miss Imamura will play Chopin's Piano Concerto No. 2 in F Minor. The concert program also includes Rossini's Semiramide Overture, Prokofieff's Classical Symphony, excerpts from Bernstein's West Side Story and the Offenbach Suite from Gaiete Parisienne.

The performance is open to the public and tickets may be purchased at the Student Union box office or at the door. Students will be admitted with their identification cards.

LBJ--HHH See and Talk Viet War

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson conceded Wednesday things "are not going as well as we would like" in Congress. But he said he is optimistic about Vietnam and "I believe we are making progress."

These appraisals came from a surprise news conference in the White House Cabinet Room which also produced some presidential chiding of members of Congress and others who are critical of his Vietnam policy.

In addition, Johnson denied he had reversed his policy since the 1964 presidential campaign when he said he was against sending Americans to Vietnam to do a job Asians could do.

The conference swung back and forth from domestic matters, and legislative program and Congress to war in the Far East.

Johnson said he would be less than frank if he did not concede disappointment at congressional inaction on his bill to boost taxes—a step he labeled as vital to fighting inflation and holding down what he called galloping interest rates.

Although Congress seems to have given up on a tax increase, Johnson wasn't doing so at this point. But neither was he predicting success for his proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

"We have to wait and see," he said.

With respect to Vietnam, Johnson took vigorous exception to the idea that he had changed from a policy statement in his 1964 presidential campaign that American boys were not going to be used to do the job Asians could do. "There hasn't been any change in policy," he said.

He said there was only a change in one sentence of a speech he made. He said that we have always said that we didn't want any American boys doing what Asian boys should—and he was using the "we" to refer to himself.

What he said during the campaign, Johnson added "did not imply then and does not imply now that we would not do all that is needed to deter aggression."

At one point, Johnson was asked for his assessment on what peace demonstrations have done to the American cause and how they have affected Hanoi policy.

The President said he would hope anyone who has some peace plan would engage in introspection and ask himself if what he was going to say would contribute to solving the problem. If it would, he said, the person had the right to say it.

"As far as I am aware," the President went on, "there have been no great, unexpected developments that have come from people on the outside who have busily engaged in finding out what is wrong."

Brian Jones, the 25-year-old guitarist of the British musical group, The Rolling Stones, has been sentenced in London to nine months in prison on charges of possessing marijuana and allowing it to be smoked in his apartment.

Jones is the third member of The Rolling Stones to be convicted on drug charges. Mick Jagger and Keith Richard were freed, however, after appeals.

Hubert's Visits Incite Protests

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey flew from war-torn Vietnam to normally tranquil Malaysia Wednesday for a three-day visit that has touched off a flurry of anti-American demonstrations.

Apparently unknown to Humphrey, he was hung in effigy by a mob of leftist Chinese youths in Penang City in the north.

Hundreds of demonstrators paraded in Kuala Lumpur and in some of the capital's suburbs with banners in Malay, Chinese and English reading: "Humphrey get out."

No arrests were reported, though police had to fire several rounds of tear gas to disperse an unruly, banner moving group of 70 which demonstrated near Humphrey's motorcade route from the airport.

The demonstrations, however, were on a much smaller scale than the violent protests that left one dead and several injured during President Johnson's 21-hour visit here on his Southeast Asian tour one year ago.

Deputy Prime Minister Tun Abdul Razak welcomed Humphrey.

Humphrey flew to Kuala Lumpur in a U.S. Air Force jet.

Humphrey will talk with the Cabinet ministers Thursday and be briefed on Malaysia's rural development program.

Opposition to Humphrey's visit has come primarily from the left-wing Labor party, which charges that the United States is trying to involve Malaysia in the Vietnam war.

Brandeis Delays CIA Visit

WALTHAM, Mass. (AP)—Brandeis University Wednesday postponed a scheduled visit by a Central Intelligency Agency recruiter because of protest demonstrations on other campuses.

The visit by the recruiter was put off from Nov. 7 to Dec. 1. Brandeis has had no demonstrations against recruiters, but other area institutios, including Harvard University, Boston College and Brown University in Providence, R.I., have.

The postponement was announced by Philip J. Driscoll, dean of students and chairman of the Administrative Committee, an administration — faculty group.

Driscol said that ". . . in view of the current controversy surrounding campus recruitment and because of accompanying demonstrations of protest—some of them of a violent nature — Brandeis deems it in the best interest of the entire campus community to postpone . . ."

"China and Chinese-American Relations"

Amherst College Presents Series

A series of five public lectures and a panel discussion involving academic and government specialists on "China and Chinese-American Relations" will be presented at Amherst College in late November and early December.

The lecture series is the first of two during the current academic year that will focus on issues of major public-policy concern nationally and internationally. During the second semester, a program on the theme, "Governing and Developing the American City," will open with a lecture by Robert C. Weaver, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development.

Participating during the two-week study of China will be leading authorities on East Asia and on the history of relations between China and the West from Harvard, Columbia, and Cornell Universities, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and the Department of State. Ray A. Moore, assistant professor of history at Amherst, has organized the program on behalf of the faculty lecture committee.

The series will begin Tuesday, November 28, with a lecture by John K. Fairbank, Higginson professor of history and director of the East Asian Research Center at Harvard, speaking on "A Century of Cultural Conflict Between China and the West." Professor Fairbank's most recent book is "China: The People's Middle Kingdom and the U.S.A." He is also the author of "The United States and China" and co-author of "Documentary History of Chinese Communism."

Proceeding from this discussion of the historical context of present Sino-American relations, the program will then examine four specific areas of concern today in our understanding of China. These topics and the speakers scheduled to address them are:

- "The Leadership Crisis in China," Lucian W. Pye, professor of political science at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Thursday, November 30.
- "The Attack on Organization and Idealogy in China," Ezra F. Vogel, research associate in the East Asian Research Center at Harvard and lecturer in the University's Department of Social Relations. Monday, December 4.
- "Chinese Aims and Policies in Southeast Asia," David Mozingo, assistant professor of government at Cornell University, and former staff specialist on Communist China of the RAND Corporation. Wednesday, December 6.
- "American Counterstrategy for China's Wars of National Liberation," James C. Thomson, Jr., professor of history at Harvard University. Thursday, December 7.

Speakers at the concluding panel discussion on "The Future of Sino-American Relations," to be held Friday evening, December 8, will be Professor Thomson, on the conditions under which the U.S. and China might some day restore diplomatic relations; Dwight Perkins, associate professor of economics at Harvard and

(Continued on page 5)

Revelers Sponsor Dance With Given Word Friday

The GIVEN WORD, a well-known band from the Big City (Boston, that is,) will be featured this Friday, Nov. 3, at the Student Union Ballroom. THE DANCE, sponsored by the Revelers, will begin at 8:00 p.m.

Paul Bolivar (known as Lightning Man around the Student Union) has promised us an unforgettable light and sound display to accompany the GIVEN WORD.

This band has played to turn-away crowds in concert with the Blues Project at various New England colleges.

Smith College Faces Increase In Expenses for Coming Year

Smith College President Thomas C. Mendenhall announced today that, at their October 14 meeting, the Board of Trustees voted to increase the comprehensive student fee by $150. The fee for tuition, room and board for 1968-69 will be $3,290 and will include a $25 linen fee and a $15 health fee which in the past has been billed separately.

In a letter of announcement to the parents of Smith students Mr. Mendenhall said,

"Smith College, like most other independent colleges, continues to face rapid increases in its expenses. These are caused by the intense and expensive competition which prevails today for a faculty of quality, higher operational costs for the maintenance of more sophisticated facilities, and the loss of the dollar's purchasing power through inflation."

The actual cost of educating an undergraduate student at Smith College this last year was $4,790, the difference between this sum and the comprehensive fee being made up by income, from endowed funds gifts to the college, and approiations from reserves.

Mr. Mendenhall said further in his letter to the parents of Smith students,

"Smith well recognizes that there is a limit to the price which parents can afford to pay for this education. No Smith student should feel compelled for financial reasons to leave the college. Wherever individually necessary either her scholarship will be increased to take care of the higher fees, or the student may be asked to take a loan to complete her education."

Southwest College Presents Baroque Music Concert

A Baroque music concert will be presented at the University of Massachusetts by Ernst and Lory Wallfisch of the Smith College faculty on Sunday, Nov. 5 at 8 p.m. in the Southwest Residential College dining commons Nov. 7.

The talented duo is dedicated to making the old and new music of the piano and viola better known. Prior to joining the faculty at Smith College three years ago, Ernst Wallfisch taught viola at the Conservatory of Lucerne and was on the faculty of the Mozarteum in Salzburg. The German-born American violist has appeared with symphonies and chamber orchestras in 13 countries on several continents

Lory Wallfisch, who plays the harpsichord and piano, has also performed with Ernst throughout Europe and on radio, television and recording engagements. . . . .

The concert at Southwest on Sunday, which will be their last before their next tour in Europe, will feature movements by Honegger, LeClair, Hummel and Bach. The program, sponsored by the Southwest Cultural Committee, is open to the public without charge.

Have You
Been Up
the GOUCH ?

Daily Collegian

Hotline

545-2550

Expert to Lecture On Russian Rev.

On November 6, the eve of the fiftieth anniversary of the Russian Revolution, Professor Theodore H. Von Laue of Washington University, St. Louis, will deliver a lecture in the Council Chambers, Student Union.

Professor Von Laue is one of the foremost experts on 20th century Russia. He is the author of Why Lenin? Why Stalin? and Sergei Witte and the Industrialization of Russia. He has been the recipient of Guggenheim and Fulbright Fellowships. His topic will be "The Russian Revolution—Retrospect of Fifty Years."

The lecture will be given at 5:00 p.m. and is sponsored by the Graduate History Club.

CORRECTION
NEVER SAY DIE!
JOIN THE FIGHT FOR TRUTH, JUSTICE, AND THE YAHOO, CAMPUS HUMOR MAGAZINE.
THURSDAY, 8:00 COMMONWEALTH Rm.
HELP US! some still say die.

High Hopes

Caesura Lives

by LORRAINE BALCH
Staff Reporter

"Caesura can become a magazine of national prestige."

Editor Harriet Raphael made the statement at a meeting of board members and prospective staffers, last night.

Currently operating without a budget, Caesura is "hoping" for an appropriation from the Student Senate, Miss Raphael said.

"Caesura lives but its survival depends on whether UMass students are willing to make the effort to send in material and work on the staff."

The board intends to publish before the end of the semester.

Now being accepted is original work in prose, poetry, essay, and art. Manuscripts may be left in the Caesura Office in the Franklin Room, SU before Nov. 15. Those interested in joining the staff are encouraged to leave their names, addresses, and telephone numbers in the office.

The college fraternity, as a group organization, seeks to teach men how to live and work together, striving by precept and example for the personal development of the individual in the training of mind and body.

The Brothers and Pledges of

DELTA CHI FRATERNITY

cordially invite all

FRESHMEN and UPPERCLASSMEN

to attend open smokers

Thurs., Nov. 2, 10:00

DELTA CHI FRATERNITY
17 Fearing Street
Opposite Bell Tel. Co.

CLASS OF 1970
EXECUTIVE COUNCIL
MEETING

mandatory attendance

7:00 Nov. 5 Sunday Mahar

OPEN TO ALL
SOPHOMORES

(SEE YOUR CLASS GOVERNMENT IN ACTION AND VOICE YOUR OPINIONS.)

New Government Settles Down

American Air Raids Intensified

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers slammed 150 tons of explosives Wednesday at suspected enemy base camps near the Cambodian border a few miles below Loc Ninh, the target of a Viet Cong offensive that failed.

The ground war lapsed into scattered small contacts and foul weather was cutting into the intensified American air raids on North Vietnam's heartland as President Nguyen Van Thieu's new government settled down to business.

A big National Day parade in Saigon went off smoothly despite a fresh Communist attack on the heels of the mortar shelling of the Independence Palace's grounds Tuesday night. Last year the Viet Cong shelled the parade, killing eight persons and wounding 45.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey surveyed the battleground along the demilitarized zone from a lumbering C118 transport, flying at a quartermile altitude between the effective range of enemy machine guns and high-flying missiles. U. S. Marine outposts there are the main allied shield against a North Vietnamese invasion.

"I saw the firing of cannons and I could see a destroyer offshore," Humphrey told newsmen.

The vice president said he is convinced "there has been genuine progress in every area in Vietnam." He said he would carry home this message: "If the American people unite in determination to see this through without complaint, we will shorten this war."

"I think we are winning this struggle," he said. "I don't say it is won, but we are winning it in terms of politics, militarily and economically."

Humphrey wound up his visit to Vietnam by looking in on coastal bases at Da Nang and Chu Lai. Then he flew to Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia.

Retired Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, a critic of the Johnson administration's policy in Vietnam who has been mentioned as a possible Republican candidate for president, arrived for a visit as a guest of Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam. He said he is "quite openminded" about the war.

The bombing of North Vietnam could be going into a seasonal lull. Storms of the northeast monsoon, which ordinarily blanket much of the country from fall to early spring, are starting to sweep across the Hanoi-Haiphong area.

After seven days of heavy pounding by various American jets of MIG bases, major bridges, railway yards and other key targets in and around the North's two biggest cities, the lone strike in that sector Tuesday was by Marine A6 Intruders.

The Intruders are designed to fly in all kinds of weather and drop their bombs by radar control. They struck by night at the previously bombed Canal des Rapides railway-highway bridge across a subsidiary of the Red River five miles northeast of Hanoi. Darkness precluded an assessment of the damage.

One Intruder and its two crewmen went down from an undetermined cause. The plane was the 723rd officially listed as lost over North Vietnam.

Campaign Financing Not Likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Russell B. Long conceded Wednesday the Senate is not likely to act this session on a bill for federal financing of the presidential and senatorial campaigns.

But Long, a Louisiana Democrat and chairman of the Senate Finance Committee which approved the measure, said he expects to bring it up early next year and push for passage in time for the 1968 campaign.

In a formal report on the measure, Long said the system of tax credits up to $50 for private donations and proposed treasury payments of $14 million to each major party for presidential campaigns "holds the promise of doing more to democratize our democratic government than anything else that has ever been done before."

Six Republican members of the committee attacked the bill Tuesday as a "poverty program for politicians."

The group, including Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen, said the measure could amass "an incredible $327 million" for campaigns for federal office if House members were included.

Halloween "Trick or Treats" Result in Many Troubles

Halloween celebrations this year led to rioting, gunfire and death or injury by shooting, stabbing and traffic accident.

In Wingate, N.C., Robert McManus, 14, was fatally injured by the simultaneous explosion of about 60 cherry bombs—a kind of firecracker—which he carried on a trick-or-treat expedition.

A boy of 3 playing with a revolver he found in a closet shot his mother to death in Hawthorne, Calif., as she sat at a sewing machine making him a Halloween costume. The victim was Melvina Mcling, 35. She was the mother of three other children.

An unknown assailant shot Linda E. Halman, 12, daughter of a policeman, in the back as she was making trick-or-treat rounds with two playmates in Jacksonville, Fla. Doctors removed a .38-caliber bullet and said her condition was satisfactory.

In Portsmouth, Va., two trick or treaters fought over a bag of candy and James E. Brown Jr., 14, fell dying with a stab wound.

In Memphis, Tenn., a Halloween masquerade party at a hotel broke up in violence, with James Franklin, 18, shot and Roy Parnell, 16, stabbed. Both were expected to recover.

Police called to a rowdy Halloween party in a cemetery in a Negro district of New York were greeted with rocks. Tombstones were pushed over, a number of patrol cars damaged and one policeman injured before 100 patrolmen were able to break it up.

More than 75 policemen were sent to a Negro neighborhood in Belle Glade, Fla., when a crowd of about 1,000 youths threw rocks at passing cars. The only reported casualty was Police Chief Charles D. Goodlett, who suffered a shoulder bruise.

LECTURE ON AENEID

Prof. William McCulloh, chairman of the Department of Classics at Kenyon College in Ohio, will lecture on Vergil's Aeneid, Nov. 6 at 8 p.m. in the Student Union ballroom.

A Ph.D. from Yale University, McCulloh is a Rhodes Scholar and has taught for a number of years at Kenyon. He currently has a book in manuscript on the Greek Romances.

His lecture is open to the public without charge.

The Brothers of

Phi Sigma Kappa

invite Freshmen

to Open, Informal Smoker

Thurs. Nov. 2 — 10:30 p.m.

At the Grad House

382 No. Pleasant Street

World News Roundup

From the Wires of the Associated Press

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI will undergo surgery for his prostrate condition "in the coming days," his doctors announced Wednesday night. The exact date of the operation was not fixed.

A communique signed by the pontiff's physicians said the recent fever that forced the Pope to stop his regular activities had disappeared and that he was regaining "a good condition of health."

"The physicians have jointly agreed not to delay further the surgical intervention, which will be therefore performed in the coming days," the communique added.

LONDON (AP) — Rising demands from oppposition Conservatives for George Brown's dismissal faced Britain's foreign secretary Wednesday with perhaps the gravest crisis of his political career.

But a highly placed source said Brown has full government backing for his criticism of press magnate Lord Thomson of Fleet.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Minor problems preparing America's first Saturn 5 super rocket have forced postponement by at least one day of its Nov. 7 target launch date.

No official confirmation was expected from the space agency until perhaps Thursday, when project officials can better assess whether the launch attempt should be postponed one, two or more days. Sources agreed Wednesday that meeting the Nov. 7 date is now impossible.

MOROYAMA, Japan (AP) — Eleven stomach cancer victims once diagnosed as incurable appear to have been saved by surgery involving the cutting of their gastric nerves, Dr. Yasumitsu Hirose said today.

Hirose said the patients have gained weight and some have gone back to work. All, he said, have reported improved appetites and an absence of pain.

The surgery was performed in Moroyama General Hospital, 20 miles northwest of Tokyo, about eight months ago by Hirose, 41, and another staff doctor, Hiroo Suzuki, 43, with the cooperation of Dr. Yutaka Matsuo, 41, of Tokyo University.

The doctors, who reported on their work to the Japan Cancer Therapy Society last week, refused to say flatly that a complete cure had been effected.

"Eight months of observation are not enough," one said. "Anyway, let's wait and see."

N. J. Business Executive Kills Family and Self

ABSECON, N. J. (AP) — A business executive, described by his neighbors as a "nice, quiet guy," methodically shot to death his wife and three children before taking his own life Wednesday afternoon.

Police said that after Michael Belluscie, 44, killed his family in their $40,000 10-room colonial home, he called Police Chief William Taggart at headquarters and calmly said:

"I just killed my family, I'm going to kill myself."

They were all shot with a .22 caliber rifle, police said.

Police said that two other daughters, Sheila, 20, and Cynthia, 17, were in Charleston, West Va. at the time of the shooting.

Chief Taggert said Belluscie and his wife, Mamie, had separated on several earlier occasions and were still having "domestic problems." Belluscie had left a note but police declined to reveal its contents.

Mrs. Belluscie 40 was found in bed in her upstairs bedroom and two daughters, Gina, 9, and Lisa, 6, also were shot in their respective beds in their own rooms.

A son, Anthony, 12, apparently attempted to flee from the rampage and was slain in an upstairs foyer near his bedroom, police said. Anthony was Mrs. Belluscie's son by a previous marriage. Belluscie, after calling police, then went to this bedroom and shot himself through the chest.

"Bonnie and Clyde" Look

Italian Fashion Showings Close

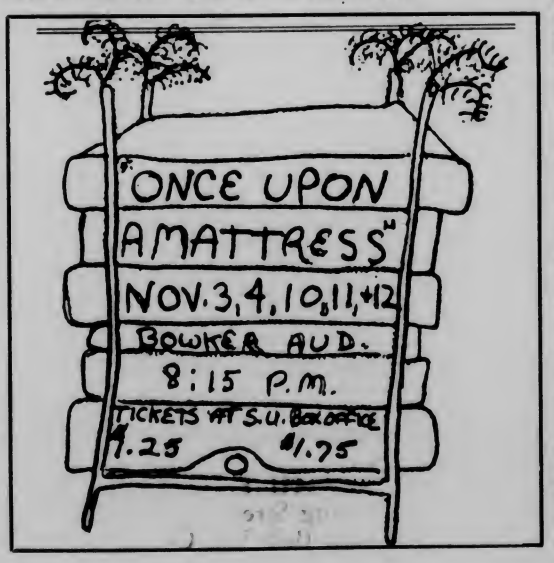
FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — Knitwears that gloried in the 1930s wowed the experts and buyers Wednesday as Italian spring and summer fashions showings closed.

There were supersophisticated "Bonnie and Clyde" looks presented by Cadette:

—Square shouldered, pin-striped blouses and blazers worn with calf-length white tennis skirts.

—Long slender dresses with big waist-deep collars and turned back cuffs in white pique.

—Ankle length double-breasted dinner suits tallored like a man's in ribbed white wool.



After all the reds, whites and blues seen at these shows, including high fashion ready to wear and boutique, Noni Sport shot off on a tangent with dresses in stratas of fuchsia, mauve and cherry pink, always bordered with white.

The house showed silky knit pullovers belted over tiny flared skirts, and dresses with crossover bodices, tight waists and bouncy gathered skirts.

Everything was belted in suede.

Ferrord was feminine with masses of frills and jabots, prettying skirt dresses in white and caramel brown.

Celli put high linen neck bands and deep cuffs on easy fit knit dresses.

The Welcome Mat
is always out

For the Students and Their Folks

who come to Northampton from North or South or East or West

Northampton is famous for its schools. . . and its favorite sons. . . AND, of course,

Jack Augusti's

· Where Sea Food is a Specialty

Open Tues., Wed., Thurs. to 7:30 p.m.
Fri., Sat. to 8:30 p.m.
Sunday to 8 p.m.

Bring your out of town guests to our famous restaurant we'll take the "boss" and "nags" out of your life, and your friends will like it, too!

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Educational TV

At long last, the University of Massachusetts looks as though it will have an educational television station, provided the request for funds receives approval as a supplementary budget item.

Channel 57 will have a tremendous impact upon the University as well as upon Western Massachusetts. The $544,000 committed to the station by the Commonwealth will be money well-spent. We feel that money spent in this direction is of infinitely more value than if it were spent on building ten miles of a superhighway that would become obsolete within a year of its completion.

The only non-commercial station now operating in this area has been Channel 24 in Hartford. But this station cannot adequately meet the needs of Western Massachusetts as can the Amherst station, nor can it really provide the educational and cultural programming that certainly will eminate from Channel 57.

The Daily Collegian commends the efforts of the Senate President Maurice Donahue, Representative Anthony Scibelli, and Governor John Volpe in their efforts toward the realization of ETV at the University of Massachusetts. Their efforts will bear not only obvious fruits for the University, but will be a boon to the entire state and to the increasing value of educational television as a powerful media as well.

THE EDITORS

Viewpoint

An Un-Principled Aggressor

By BILL STREET
Editorial Staff

Israel is an un-principled aggressor in an un-holy war. That's the opinion of this writer. Any reasonable person only has to look at the facts to see that this view of the situation is the truth.

After sifting through all the garbage that both sides release as fact, certain things become apparent. First, Israel attempts a whitewash of its essentially criminal and immoral acts of land acquisition. Second, the United Arab Republic suffers from a bad press in the U.S. due to the U.S. government's tacit approval of the pro-western government of Israel and the identification of readers with a people of the Christian-Judaism tradition. Third, most people do not understand the background of the whole Israeli-Arab question and therefore do not understand the Arab reaction.

It is this third point which is at the crux of all the charge and counter-charges. So, let's trace Israel's rather dubious history. Fact, after World War I, Britain, charged with trusteeship of the area, released the so-called Balfour Declaration. This white paper stated that there should be a "National Jewish Homeland." Britain intended this to mean a place where old and Orthodox Jews could retire and live out their lives in peace, practicing their religion. This was fine as far as it went.

Then in the late Thirties, a younger, more radical set, of which Ben-Gurion was a part, decided that this was the time to follow the Bible's command and set up the Jewish State. World War II interrupted this plan. Fact, after WW II, these very leaders, intending to carve out of British mandate area their own nation, imported thousands of homeless Jews into lands formerly held by Arabs. Lands owned by Arabs and worked by Arab tenent farmers. Fact, when the Arabs resisted this encroachment, these very same leaders condoned terrorism, sporadic at first and then organized.

Fact, in order to stop this terrorism, the infant U.N. acting under pressure from the dominant U.S. and Great Britain, divided, without the consent of the legitimate government of the area, this land into two parts. This would be as if the U.N. were to decide to take part of Washington and British Columbia and make it into a nation state for South Vietnamese refugees. Add to this the fact that the U.S.'s position was a result of almost incessant pressure by Zionistic lobbies of the Truman Administration.

Is it any wonder that the Arabs have pledged themselves to the eradication of this scourge from their homeland? Is it any wonder that Arab Nationalists refuse to accept as fact the claim of these land-grabbing Zionists to land they possessed since the fall of the Roman Empire? And does anyone blame them for reacting militarily to this threat to their homes and happiness ?

It is very apparent from the statement of Israel Foreign Minister Abba Eban what the motives of these Zionists are: "We shall never, never, go back either to the political and judicial anarchy... from which we have emerged." Can anything be more clear?

A nation which is based upon the dictates of a thousand-year-old command in the Bible and the financial philanthrophy of the U.S., cannot, must not, and will not succeed in its dastardly designs.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union ... University of Massachusetts ... Amherst, Mass.

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Chester S. Weinerman '68
MANAGING EDITOR ..... John H. Dean, Jr. '69
BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Charles Smith '69

News Day Editor: Marjie Flanders, Editorial Day Editor: Elhe Skinner, Sports Day Editor: Paul Murray

News Editors ..... Ron LaBrecque '70, Richard Kline '70
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Glenn Briere '69
Advertising Managers ..... Dot Silvia '69, Sharon Kramer '69
Editorial Chairman ..... Pat Patow '68
Photo Editor ..... Paul Bolivar '68
Sports Editor ..... Tom FitzGerald '69

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Published at the Massachusetts Daily Collegian, Student Union, UMass., Amherst, Mass. 01002.

Member of the Associated Collegiate Press. Member of the Collegiate Press Service of the United States Student Press Association. Member of the Associated Press—The Associated Press is entitled exclusively to the use for reproduction of all the local news printed in this newspaper as well as all AP news dispatches.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed five times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; three or four times weekly the week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 3, 1879, as amended by the act of June 11, 1934.

Subscription price: $6.00 per year; $3.50 per semester.

Sam Spark Speaks O ut

The Letter

From: The Co-ordinator of student protestors

To: All Student Protestors

Subject: Student Protests

Dear Student Protestor:

Just a quick note to tell you to keep up the good work. With your recent protests against the Vietnam War which have taken the form of heckling pro-Vietnam speakers and not giving them a chance to speak and/or pouring your blood on Selective Service files and/or not allowing representatives from the C.I.A. and/or Navy and/or Dow Chemical to recruit on your campus, we have successfully alienated everyone who doesn't matter.

However, I don't think we have gone far enough. In order to more effectively point out to the American public the atrocities occurring in Vietnam, I suggest we institute the following procedures. Firstly, if anyone comes to campus to speak with even vague hawkish leanings, he should be held hostage during the interval he is scheduled to give his address. After all, everyone knows that anyone who supports the war in Vietnam is a moron, so why should we waste our valuable time listening to him.

Also, I'm ordering an immediate boycott of Swift's Premium Company. It has come to my attention that Swift makes the meat that fills the stomach that gives the soldier sufficient energy to pull the trigger to kill innocent North Vietnamese peasants.

And finally, next Saturday we will hold a mass burn-in at the Pentagon. All protestors with stock in Proctor and Gamble Co. are requested to come equipped with matches. We will burn our stock certificates because Crest is a subsidiary of Proctor and Gamble.

The time for action has come. Only until these three suggestions are followed can our protesting efforts be made effective.

Part III—Vietnam

The New Theme

By PATRICK FLAHERTY
Editorial Staff

The 1965 White Paper reflected our change in design; indigenous character of the Viet Cong was being played down in favor of the new theme, i.e., aggression from the north.

It states in part: "In Vietnam a totally new brand of aggression has been loosed against an independent people...Vietnam is not another Greece, where indigenous guerrilla forces used friendly neighboring territory as a sanctuary." North Vietnamese units did not enter South Vietnam until the fall of 1965, several months after the bombing of the North and long after the arrival of American troops in the South.

More support of this view is received from John Mecklin, a former U.S.I.A. official in Saigon (1963). In Mission in Torment (1965) he reveals although recognized that several thousand V.C. officers and other trained personnel had infiltrated from the North, "the overwhelming majority of their forces were recruited locally, with the infiltrated personnel acting mainly as (political) cadres." The "infiltrators" were Southern Vietnam who went North under the 1954 Geneva Agreements.

David Halberstam reported to N. Y. Times (3/6/64) "No capture of the North Vietnamese in the South has come to light." On Mar. 26, 1964, Sec. of Defense MacNamara stated: "The large indigenous support that the Viet Cong receives means that solutions must be as much political and economic as military."

The allegation that the war was instigated by the North is a fabrication. George Kahin, a Cornell professor, notes in his book The United States in Vietnam that at times Hanoi Radio denounced the southern guerrilla movement as a branch of American imperialism. Economic aid was not forthcoming from the north until after 1960; this is supported by the International Control Commission. The Viet Cong have their own independence; it was massive U.S. intervention that has made them more dependent on the North.

According to Mecklin, Johnson's policy could be labelled the "deterrent principle" —gradual escalation in the hope that the threat of general warfare might persuade Peking or Hanoi to call off the Viet Cong. "Talk of bombing Hanoi or V.C. supply lines in the north sounded like a "palliative for failure." Because bombing would not alter the military situation, the author's only alternative was the mass indoctrination of U.S. combat forces. History has proven him correct.

(To be continued.)

Campus Comment

"It Still Leaks"

To the editor:

I have nothing against the president's garden, and I am glad it is to remain intact, but I think there are more important things to print on the front page of the Collegian. Housing conditions is an example, specifically housing conditions in the Baker Hill area.

In some of the dorms in that area the roofs leak. In Hills House, for example, the walls are peeling, window sills are rotting, and the floors are buckling, all due to the seepage. Maintenance has been fixing the roof for three years and it still leaks.

Secondly, some of the showers in the dorms are inoperable. I am a resident of Hills North, and there are perhaps three per floor that actually work right. On a busy day you either take a cold-shower and freeze; a hot shower and fry; or you wait in line.

This might seem to be a trivial problem to some, but to those who live in the corroded rooms or those who have to take cold showers it is a major crisis. I only know that these conditions do exist and ask that others voice their discontent. That is the only way something will get done.

Now that the President's garden is safe from all hazards, perhaps more time could be devoted to the "secondary problems."

G. K. '70

Remember!

The Daily Collegian will conduct a poll on Nov. 6 and Nov. 7 to ascertain the campus opinion concerning the Vietnam issue.

Daily Collegian Photo by Bob Gosciminski

NEWS STAFFER ELAINE LEONARDO models one of the newly installed telephone headsets used by the rewrite staff to take stories off the Daily Collegian hot-line. To reach Elaine and her news teammates, call 5-2550, day or night.

Hoff to Read Works In German at Amherst

Kay Hoff, West German novelist, poet, and playwright, will present a reading (in German) from his own works, Nov. 7, at 8:30 p.m. in Converse Assembly Room at Amherst College. There is no charge for admission.

Born in Neustadt (Holstein) in 1924, Hoff holds a doctorate in literature from the University of Kiel. Since World War II, he has worked as librarian, journalist and most recently as editor of the bimonthly magazine "Neues Reinland."

In his career as a writer, he has been honored with several literary prizes, including the Ernst Reuter Prize in 1965 for his radio play "Die Chance." His stories, poems and plays have appeared in numerous journals and anthologies.

In 1966, Hoff published his first novel, "Boedelstedt," a mordant satire on the Nazi period and the persistence of Nazi attitudes in present-day West Germany.

AMHERST COLLEGE . . .

(Continued from page 2)

an associate of the East Asian Research Center, on China's nuclear weapons development; and A. Doak Barnett, professor of government and director of the East Asia Institute at Columbia University, on the likely nature of post-Mao leadership in China and the problems that this will pose for U.S. policy.

Moderator for the panel will be Leonard C. Meeker, legal adviser to the Department of State.

All sessions will be open to the public without charge or ticket.

Daily Collegian

Hotline

545-2550

UMass Press Subscribes To Resolution on Permissions

The UMass Press is one of 54 university presses subscribing to a Resolution on Permissions which allow certain kinds of quotations to be made without specific permission.

Although the resolution cuts red tape, it does not relieve the quoting author or publisher of the obligation to make sure that he is not impairing the financial and other rights of the copyright owner.

Text of the Resolution says:

"We, the undersigned members of the Association of American University Presses, believe that it is in the interests of publishers and scholars alike to facilitate and spread the use and to increase the value of all scholarly publications by allowing scholars to quote without prior permission from published sources whatever they legitimately need to make their scholarly writings complete, accurate, and authenticated. We believe that such use of the work of others should be subject only to the scholar's obligation to give full credit to the author and publisher of the work quoted, and the further obligation to avaid quoting, in such amounts, over and beyond scholarly needs, as to impair or destroy the property rights and financial benefits of their fellow scholars and the original publishers from whose work they are quoting.

"Therefore, we the undersigned members of the Association of American University Presses, agree as follows:

1. The publications issued under our imprints may be quoted without specific prior permission in works of original scholarship for accurate citation of authority or for criticism, review, or evaluation, subject to the conditions listed below.

2. That appropriate credit be given in the case of each quotation.

3. That waiver of the requirement for specific permission does not extend to quotations that are complete units in themselves (as poems, letters, short stories, essays, journal articles, complete chapters or sections of books, maps, charts, graphs, tables, drawings, or other illustrative materials), in whatever form they may be reproduced; nor does the waiver extend to quotation of whatever length presented as primary material for its own sake (as in anthologies or books of readings).

4. The fact that specific permission for quoting of material may be waived under this agreement does not relieve the quoting author and publisher from the responsibility of determining "fair use" of such material.

Mrs. Marina Oswald Porter, widow of Lee Oswald, has sued the Federal government for $500,000 as compensation for the government's seizure of Oswald's personal effects following President Kennedy's assassination. The items were to be stored in the National Archives, according to a special law.

UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS' ENROLLMENT
FALL, 1967

AMHERST CAMPUS:

UNDERGRADUATE COLLEGES

Class:	1968		1969		1970		1971		Total
	Men	Women	Men	Women	Men	Women	Men	Women	Men	Women	Total
Agriculture	164	6	182	12	166	20	143	12	655	50	705
Arts and Sciences	718	652	836	717	858	784	951	819	3363	2972	6335
Business Administration	261	17	339	26	327	26	232	16	1159	85	1244
Education	9	207	6	260	6	223	3	148	24	838	862
Engineering	218	3	233	3	233	4	273	5	954	15	969
Home Economics	2	86	--	123	--	125	--	122	2	456	458
Nursing	--	44	--	55	1	94	1	92	2	285	287
Physical Education	53	44	84	63	73	75	106	91	316	273	589
Public Health	5	20	2	15	15	34	6	20	28	97	125
Total	1430	1079	1682	1282	1676	1385	1715	1325	6503	5071	11574
Total by Classes	2509		2964		3061		3040		11574

GRADUATE SCHOOL

Men	Women	Total
2059	776	2835

STOCKBRIDGE SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE

Class	Men	Women	Total
1968	224	8	232
1969	318	28	346
Specials	5	--	5
Total	547	36	583

Exchange Students	2	15	17
Non-Classified	20	68	88
Specials	33	72	105
Total Undergraduates	6558	5226	11784

SUMMARY

Undergraduate School	11784
Stockbridge School	583
Graduate School	2835
Total Amherst Campus	15202

Yale 'Daily News' Raps Yale Prexy

NEW HAVEN — The Yale Daily News criticized University Pres. Kingman Brewster, Jr. Monday for what the student newspaper called his "vilification of Chaplain William Sloan Coffin, an out-spoken critic of the Vietnam war.

The newspaper said in an editorial that Brewster, in a speech Saturday to a Parents Day Assembly had accused Coffin of "pied piping" or of leading students who did not understand the seriousness of their actions into defying the draft.

"Brewster makes an artifical and over-simplified distinction between private conscience and political action," the editorial read.

The editorial said Brewster had been unfair to Coffin and "those who espouse the position he endorses" by dismissing "the sincerity and the ethical validity of that position with phrases like 'nosy extremism,' 'slogan' and 'strident voices.'

'Strident or not,' the editorial said, "Coffins voice has often rung true and has been, on the whole, the voice of integrity."

Brewster made an "important and, in many ways, brave" statement in his speech by asserting that the university would honor and respect those who conscientiously refused to be drafted, the editorial said.

"But we wish he weren't as concerned with Coffin's leading others astray," the editorial concluded.

Coffin, who participated in the recent anti-Vietnam war demonstration in Washington, D.C., has aided Yale students in their efforts to turn over draft cards to the Department of Justice.

GNOMON
5c first copy of a page

SELLS
3c each 2nd thru 10th

XEROX
2c each 11th on up

COPIES
103 N. Pleasant St.
Amherst, Mass.
253-7393

Vietnam Ballot Starts Monday For Undergrads

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian will conduct a Vietnam Ballot next week which will be open to all undergrads.

The Ballot will ask the question, "What should we do in Vietnam now?" and will offer four possible answers plus an open-end answer.

The voting will be held in the Student Union lobby Mon., Nov. 6 and Tue., Nov. 7 from 9 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Students will be required to show their ID before voting.

State Aid for Education Rises--But Not Enough

WASHINGTON, D.C. — State support of higher education has more than tripled in the past eight years, from $1.4 billion in 1959-60 to $4.4 billion this year, according to a report prepared by Professor M. M. Chambers of Indiana University.

The report was published by the Office of Institutional Research (OIR) of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges.

Dr. Chambers' report details appropriations of $4,392,930,000 in state tax funds for operating expenses of higher education during the current academic year. This represents a 44 percent increase over the $3,053,698,000 reported two years ago (1965-66).

"The figures reported by Professor Chambers are impressive and reflect an important commitment on the part of the states to higher education. However, despite the large sums involved and the impressive percentage increases, the states have not—in general—kept up with the increasing responsibilities placed on public higher education. As its support has grown, demands and costs have risen even more rapidly," the OIR notes.

Population growth, enrollment growth, increased graduate study, inflation, rising salaries, expensive equipment, and the need to guarantee quality as well as quantity in public higher education have all contributed to escalating operating costs of colleges and universities, according to the report.

Commenting on the state-by-state breakdown in the Chambers report, the OIR warns that "in this competitive period, many states which appear to be doing all they can for higher education must manage to double or triple their efforts."

Massachusetts, as an example, registered a 375 percent increase in appropriations over an eight year period. Despite this huge growth in appropriations, Massachusetts still trails almost every other state in the nation in (1) per capita support of higher education; (2) the proportion of residents to whom public higher education is available; and (3) the proportion of high school graduates who go on to college.

Dr. Chambers, however, expresses confidence in the future financial support of higher education. "During the ensuing few years, enormous additional strides in state tax support of operating expenses of higher education will undoubtedly be made," Dr. Chambers states.

Dr. Chambers feels that "the great increases in the public investment in higher education . . . will continue through the 1970's, without hardship, because some of the gains come automatically from economic growth without changes in taxation."

NOTICES

SKI CLUB
First aid meeting on Nov. 2, from 6:30-9:30 P.M. in John Quincy Adams House, 19th floor lounge.

OUTING CLUB
Those interested in the Mt. Toby trip this weekend should see the bulletin-board for information and sign-up sheet.

HILLEL
On Nov. 3 at 7 P.M. in Worcester Room, S.U. Rev. Arnold Kenseth, Ph.D. of English Dept., will speak following Sabbath services Friday night. Topic is "The Poetry of Protest."
On Nov. 5th at 5 P.M. in Commonwealth Room there will be a Deli supper. Come early.

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS
Bus leaves the Newman Center Sat., Nov. 4 at 1:15 P.M.

RUSSIAN CLUB
On Thurs., Nov. 2 at 5:30 P.M. meet in lobby of Commons No. 5 for dinner, and meeting at 6:30 P.M. in Thoreau House lounge. Russian singing and dancing.

PRE-MED CLUB
On Mon., Nov. 6 in Public Health Aud. Dr. Lester Dewis, Dean of Admissions at BU Med School will speak. All welcome.

STUDENTS FOR POLITICAL ACTION
On Nov. 2 at 7:30 P.M. in Coolidge 5th floor, the film "Testimony of Truth" will be shown. It deals with Japanese Commission for the Investigation of U.S. War Crimes in Vietnam. Free. Discussion following.

COLLEGE LIFE
Fri., Nov. 3 at 8 P.M. in front of S.U. All invited to hayride and party following at Ben's Barn. Must meet in front of the SU by 8 for rides. Donation 25¢.

NEWMAN CLUB
Inquiry class is every Monday at 8:15 P.M. in Room 2.
Choir rehearsals every Tuesday evening 7-9 P.M. in Chapel.

LOST:
Old brown wallet, contains 50¢ and important papers. All I want is my girl's picture and my draft card. Call 6-7211.

FOUND:
Girls gold signet ring in vicinity of Goessman. Contact Diane Doherty, 401 Van Meter.

PINNING:
Lynn Rogers '69, JQ Adams, to Robert Merritt '69, The Citadel, South Carolina.

Dr. Clarence Cohn, M.D. at work in his laboratory at Michael Reese Hospital and Medical Center in Chicago.

Dr. Clarence Cohn To Lecture on Obesity

Dr. Clarence Cohn, M.D., Director of the Division of Nutritional Sciences at Michael Reese Hospital and Medical Center in Chicago, will lecture at the University of Massachusetts on "Of Meals and Men—Obesity, Diabetes and Atherosclerosis" on Thursday, Nov. 9 at 8 p.m. in room 20 of Hasbrouck Laboratory. The talk is open to the public.

Dr. Cohn received his B.S. from the University of Pennsylvania, did graduate work at University of Pennsylvania and received his M.D. from Jefferson Medical College. He interned at Philadelphia General Hospital and also studied at Mount Sinai Hospital in New York City under Dr. Louis J. Soffer. In 1957, he was appointed associate professor of clinical pathology at Chicago Medical School.

He has qualified for board certification in Clinical Pathology and the American Board of Clinical Chemistry. Dr. Cohn is also a member of many societies including the American Physiological Society, the American Federation for Clinical Research, the American Association for Advancement of Science, the New York Academy of Sciences, the American Association of Clinical Chemists and the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine.

BEER LICENSED ON CAMPUS AT WHEELING COLLEGE

The sale of beer has been legalized at Wheeling College, a Jesuit affiliated school in West Virginia.

According to the Daily Athenaeum, West Virginia's student newspaper, beer can be sold at "certain approved social functions."

The Athenaeum said administrative authorities announced last April that beer could be sold at certain approved social functions.

The college obtained its license in August and sold beer for the first time this year at a weekend dance.

The Student Affairs Committee, made up of faculty, students and non-voting administration officials, first receives requests to sell beer at social functions.

Beer must be obtained from the ARA School and College Services, which operates the school's food service and snack bar.

It may be served in areas of the college which are not dorms.

Tickets to a recent social function were sold to all students, but those under 18 were stamped as they entered and could not purchase beer.

There is no limit to the amount of beer a person can buy, and at the recent dance it sold for 15 cents per glass.

The 1967 West Virginia Legislature made it possible for beer to be sold on a college campus by amending a law which prohibited the sale of beer within 500 feet of school property.

U. S. Senate Investigates Civil Rights Riots

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mayor Louis Welch of Houston, Tex., told investigating senators Wednesday that blaming city hall for the troubles that ignite racial rioting is a misconception that can add to Negro frustrations and help produce riots.

Welch said the idea that a mayor's office can deal with all problems confronting a city "only leads to rising expectations that cannot be met." This he added, can itself produce destructive outbreaks.

"With the federal government setting so many policies and actually sponsored commercials on television aimed at helping minority groups, severe misconceptions can be passed on to these groups as to who is responsibile for what at the local level," he said.

"People become easily frustrated when they feel that they are being given the runaround," Welch testified as the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee opened its inquiry into recent violence that flaced through some American cities.

The panel's first step was tabulating on a giant chart the results of 101 disorders in 76 cities:

- Twelve lawmen and 118 civilians killed in the past three years.
- 2,424 civilian and 1,199 police injuries.
- Property damage estimated at $210.6 million, economic losses at $504.2 million.
- A total of 29,932 people arrested, 5,434 convicted.

Those figures led Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., to question whether rioters are being freed with little or no punishment.

The subcommittee report listed property damage in last summer's Detroit riot at $144 million; that in the Newark, N.J., rioting at $10.2 million.

Listed among the disorders were five civil rights demonstrations, including the 1965 voting rights campaign at Selma, Ala.

Welch said Houston, leadoff city in the inquiry, did not really suffer a community riot. Its troubles last May 16 and 17 flared on the campus of Texas Southern University where one policeman was killed and six persons were wounded in gun battles.

Dr. Gunner to Attend Conf. In Ethiopa

Dr. Hain B. Gunner, University of Massachusetts research professor in the Department of Environmental Sciences, will participate in the Second International Conference on Global Impacts of Applied Microbiology, the week of Nov. 6 in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

The conference will focus attention on the contributions that applied microbiology can bring to the economy and welfare of developing nations.

According to Dr. Arless A. Spielman, Dean of the College of Agriculture, Dr. Gunner's trip emphasizes the University's interest in emergent countries. The College of Agriculture is presently engaged in a cooperative project with the Agency for International Development in an International Training Program embracing several countries in Africa. It has a mission in Malawi organizing a College of Agriculture and is taking the first steps to establish a major Center for International Agricultural Studies at its Amherst campus.

Dr. Gunner's trip will be supported by grants from the University Research Council, industry and the Institute of Agricultural and Industrial Microbiology.

S.E.N.D.O.F.F
WEEKEND
IS COMING

INFIRMARY WAITING TIME

varies considerably during the day. It is consistently short early in the morning; it is almost as consistently long in the latter part of the afternoon.

In the interest of saving your time we suggest that you try to make outpatient visits early in the morning, as soon after 8 a.m. as possible.

Also please try to avoid visits from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. unless your problem is urgent (or unless you have classes all day).

University Health Services

FREE DELIVERY TO UNIVERSITY—6 to 11 p.m. every night

RAPP'S DELICATESSEN

AND RESTAURANT
— Two Locations —

AMHERST, MASS.
Next to Peter Pan

STORRS, CONN.
Rts. 195 & 44A—Next to A&P

SANDWICHES

Corned Beef	.85
Pastrami	.85
Roast Beef	.55
Tongue	.90
Rolled Beef	.85
Salami	.70
Bologna	.65
Liverwurst	.65
Turkey	.85
Tuna Salad	.55
Egg Salad	.50
Bagel with Cream Cheese	.35
Bagel with Cream Cheese and Lox	.75
American Cheese	.45
Swiss Cheese	.55
Chopped Liver	.65

SALADS

Potato Salad	.25
Homemade Coleslaw	.25
Sauerkraut	.20
Macaroni	.20

DESSERTS
Cheesecake
Almond Horns — Almond Tarts
Choc. Chip Cookies — Brownies
Eclairs — Cake — Others

BEVERAGES
Canned Soda .20
Pepsi — Sprite — Coke — Grape
Root Beer — Orange — Ginger Ale
Diet Pepsi

Order a Pickle
Try Swiss Cheese, American Cheese or Coleslaw on your Sandwich—Be Brave
"ENJOY AT RAPP'S"

Phones: Amherst 256-6759 — Storrs 429-6429

Rover Campbell Keys UMass Defense

By JOHN SANDHAUS
Staff Reporter

It is often said that the key to an effective defense is in the linebackers. If this is true, then the rover back must be considered the key to the linebackers, for it is his job to negate the offense's formation strength and direct the other linebackers.

At UMass, the rover back is referred to as the "chief", and Vic Fusia has enjoyed a history of fine chiefs since he became head coach, Dick Warren of the 1963 undefeated squad, and Dave Kelley of the 1964 Tangerine Bowl and 1965 squad were examples. And the present chief, Paul Campbell, has continued the hard-nosed tradition.

Paul, a 5'11", 195 lb. senior from Everett has been the starting chief the past two seasons for the Redmen. After starring at fullback and linebacker for Malden Catholic High, Paul continued his two-way performance as a freshman at UMass.

He sat out his sophomore season while a veteran Redman team stormed to the Tangerine Bowl. Thus his junior year at the University was actually his sophomore year for football. After playing sparingly that year, he took over the chief's responsibilities in 1966 and is still manning them.

Campbell's job is simply to be where the ball is. It's not nearly as simple as it sounds. As the third, or odd, linebacker, he lines up according to the strength of the formation, or, in some cases, to the wide side of the field.

If the ball comes in his direction he must force the play and meet the main offensive power head-on. If the play flows away from him, he drops back into the flat passing zone for a possible pass, or takes a deep pursuit route if a run develops.

PAUL CAMPBELL
Roving threat.

He is in short, a combination defensive end and defensive back. His only physical specifications are that he be alert, mobile, and tough; he must be an excellent football player.

(Continued on page 8)

Conference Kingpins?

Harriers Seek Third Straight Title

by JOEL FOX
Staff Reporter

Saturday the UMass cross-country team will be seeking its third straight Yankee Conference crown, fifth of the last six, on a tough course at the University of Maine.

The way in which coach Bill Footrick sees the meet is that it will come down to UMass and UConn, but "New Hampshire could upset the applecart." The coach continued, "As long as our boys can stay out in front of the Connecticut runners we'll be all right."

"It won't matter how many standout runners from the other schools come in front of our depth men (third, fourth, and fifth runners) as long as our boys stay in front of the UConn depth" the coach added. "However it comes out it will be close," he concluded.

For individual honors, the coach listed runners from five of the schools including Charlie Lang and Paul Hoss of UMass. Their competition will be supplied by Turner of Maine, McGinnis from Rhode Island, Dunkly of New Hampshire, and Vitale and Young from UConn. Young is the defending champion of the meet.

Coach O'Brien's highly talented freshman team does not compete in the Yan-Con meet since there is no freshman meet in it. They are now preparing for the upcoming New England championships.

Frosh Gridmen Seek 2nd Win

By PETE CARROLL
Staff Reporter

Seeking their second win, the UMass freshmen take on the Boston College Eagles at Alumni Stadium tomorrow at 2 p.m.

B.C. is currently rated the best freshman football team in New England. The Eagles boost a fine passing attack with quarterback Harris, who has 25 completions in 35 attempts, and wingback Miles, who has 10 receptions for a whopping 397 yards.

UMass coach Dave Kelley plans a stunting and blitzing defense. Defense has been the Little Redmen's forte in their last three games and Kelley plans to let the defensive unit force the breaks.

Offensively UMass will go with fullback Bob Toole and halfbacks Pat Scavone and Neil Hering in the backfield. Toole is the big man in the backfield now that Fierre Manchando has been sidelined for the year with an injury.

An injury has also forced split end Nick McGarry. Taking his place will be Angel Nieves, the fastest player on the squad. Nieves runs the hundred in 9.9.

Line Coach Karras Likes 'Aroma of Winning'

by NORM ELLIOTT
Staff Reporter

When the Redmen pulled their colossal upset over Villanova in 1962, George Karras, a Villanova coach then, probably didn't think to himself, "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em."

But today he is offensive line coach at UMass, where he "would like to see the aroma of winning continue in the air."

Karras returned to UMass this year after two years as head coach at the University of Wichita. Out west he observed some of the offensive powerhouses of the country. Tulsa, one of the Shockers' opponents, leads the country in offense and exemplifies the type of wide-open football practiced by most of the Missouri Valley teams.

The philosophy of that area, he said, is to get to the goal line as quickly as possible, and the passing route is usually emphasized.

While an undergraduate at Villanova from 1953 to 1955, Karras was a steller guard for the Wildcats. After a stint of high school coaching in Pittsburgh, he played on and coached a championship team in the Army.

GEORGE KARRAS

During his three years as line coach at Villanova, '60-'62, he helped the Wildcats attain ranking among the top 10 defensive teams in the nation while appearing in two post-season bowl games. He served in the same capacity at UMass in 1963, the year the Redmen went to the Tangerine Bowl. He then went to Wichita before returning to UMass this year.

Karras has a deep regard for Head Coach Vic Fusia: "He works harder than any coach I have ever been affiliated with." He also thinks UMass' football stature will continue to raise, and that continued student support will hasten this trend.

A native of Etna, Pa., Karras now resides in Hadley. He moved there in February with his wife, and a month later their first child, Alexis, was born.

On this year's team, he says, that Don Glogowski "has come a long way to be one of the finest guards in the Yankee Conference." Ernie Smith, he added, is a consistent stand-out on defense. Noel Schablik and Bob Sheeban are two centers who he feels are "as good as any we will see on our schedule."

Conference Standings

	W	L	T
Massachusetts	3	0	0
Connecticut	2	1	0
New Hampshire	2	1	0
Rhode Island	1	1	1
Vermont	1	2	1
Maine	0	4	0

This Week's Games

Vermont at Massachusetts
New Hampshire at Connecticut
Rhode Island at Boston U.
Northeastern at Maine

Dial the MDC's
Hot Sportline
5-0344

DANCE THURSDAY
on the Bandstand
BOB FREND
and the Kostums
Q-CLUB

FRESHMEN, TRANSFER STUDENTS
& UPPERCLASSMEN
Panhellenic Council invites you to participate in ROUND ROBINS
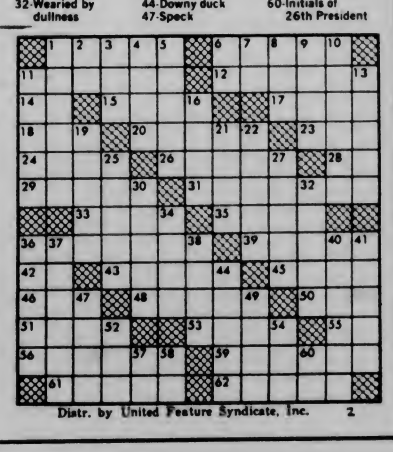
Sunday, November 5, 12:30-5:30
Commonwealth Room, Student Union

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

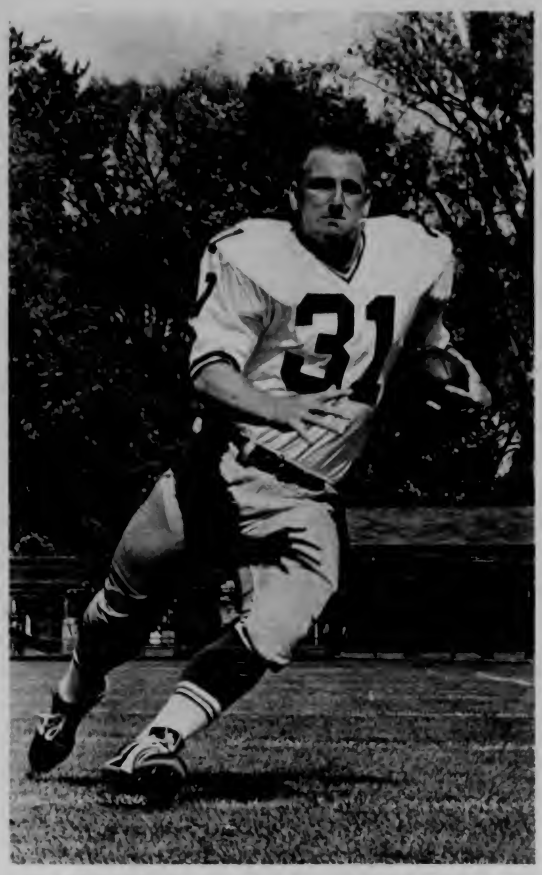
Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

GAP ACAID POT
ARA LOOSE IRA
LESSEN MATTER
PATH RA
ANTA AIS PEWS
DOE MISTLETOE
OB ION RID MA
PLASTERED GET
TESS RET TONS
US ECHO
ANGELS HERALD
LIE OTTER DEE
APT WARDS DON



2

ACROSS



1-Cubic meter
6-Climbing plant
11-Heating devices
12-Whines
14-Conjunction
15-Poker stake
17-Quarrel
18-Obese
20-Narrates
23-Man's nickname
24-Ventilates
26-Lasso
28-Man's nickname
29-Serpent
31-Good-natured
33-Separate
35-Danish island
36-Renovate
39-Painful spots
42-Prefix: not
43-Roman official
45-Roman tyrant
46-Limb
48-Chemical dye
50-Parent (colloq.)
51-Instrument
53-Prepare for print
55-A continent (abbr.)
56-Painter
59-Puffs up
61-Mediterranean vessel
62-Raises

DOWN

1-Exert to the utmost
2-Preposition
3-Girl's name
4-Lease
5-Chemical compound
6-Measure of weight (abbr.)
7-Prefix: not
8-Roman bronze
9-Town in California
10-Kettledrum
11-Couches
13-Gravestone
16-Lamb's pen name
19-Snares
21-Tibetan priest
22-Pigpens
25-Any of rays
27-Man's name
30-Wear away
32-Wearied by dullness
34-Group of three
36-Lasso
37-Mistakes
38-Otherwise
40-Wipes out
41-Soft drinks
44-Downy duck
47-Speck
49-River in Africa
52-Illuminated
54-Chinese pagoda
57-Compass point
58-Symbol for tellurium
60-Initials of 26th President

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 2

JIM TAYLOR?—The strength and moves of Bob Mitchell will provide Redmen tacklers with their greatest challenge of the season when the Little All-America back leads Vermont against UMass Saturday.

Mitchell Leads Vermont Into Key League Tussle

By GLENN BRIERE
Assistant Sports Editor

Last year after UMass defeated Vermont at Burlington in their Yankee Conference showdown, you could see that "wait-'till-next-year" look on the faces of the Vermont fans.

After all, the Catamounts had their entire, offense coming back this year, including Bob Mitchell, who could be the best runner in New England and a sure pro prospect. Although the defense was hurt by graduation, many thought that sophomores would do a capable job, at least enough to complement the offense.

So at the beginning of this season, the talk was that Vermont just could nose out UMass for the Beanpot. That talk decreased considerably when the Cats lost their first game to little AIC. Vermont now has a 2-3-1 overall record, 1-2-1 in the Yankee Conference.

The Catamounts, however, cannot be overlooked by UMass in Saturday's game at Alumni Stadium. A good passing attack plus Mitchell makes their offense dangerous no matter what the record is.

Mitchell has carried 171 times this year, which averages out to about 30 carries a game. The Redmen can expect Vermont to use him even more than that this weekend. The powerful 5'11, 210-pound senior halfback from Bridport, Vt., is the hub of the Vermont offense.

Last year Mitchell was named to the AP Little All-America, ECAC Division II All-East, All-New England and All-Yankee Conference teams. His average of 31.1 rushes a game was an NCAA record, along with his 47 rushes against New Hampshire.

Mitchell holds just about every Vermont rushing record and is only 57 yards short of the New England career record of 2,049 held by Yale's Levi Jackson. This year Mitchell has rolled up 625 yards and six touchdowns.

Mitchell, who wears number 31 because his idol is Jim Taylor, is a powerful runner with great moves. He was bothered by an ankle injury earlier this season, but he is now at peak form.

A natural athlete, Mitchell won 16 letters in four years in high school, and then prepped for a year before entering Vermont, where he is a history major.

The Catamounts have used two quarterbacks, juniors Paul Simpson and Jack Stroker. Simpson was the starting quarterback until a week ago when Stroker won the position, Simpson has completed 35 of 70 passes for 336 yards. Stroker has a better percentage as he has completed 23 of 40 for 192 yards and three touchdowns. When Mitchell isn't running, the Redmen will see the Cats passing Saturday.

Tight end Jeff Kuhman is regarded by many as pro prospect. A 6'3, 220-pound senior, Kuhman is one of the best blocking ends in the Conference. He is also a fine receiver, as evidenced by his 25 catches for 215 yards and three TD's.

The other end is senior Keith Kiederling, a 6'2, 190-pounder. He has 22 receptions for 288 yards and two touchdowns.

Helping Mitchell out in the backfield are fullback Jim Culhane, who has run for 126 yards and flanker Pete Clifford, son of Vermont coach Bob Clifford.

Injuries have hurt an otherwise strong offensive line, but it still forms a good blocking wall for Mitchell. The best is All-Yankee Conference guard Dan Martin. A 5'10, 220-pound senior, Captain Martin has great mobility and always leads Mitchell's power sweeps.

Another standout on the line is All-New England tackle Jim Sullivan, a 230-pound senior. In all, the Vermont offense has moved well but has been hurt by nine lost fumbles and eight interceptions.

Defense is the Catamounts' weak spot. Its top performers are senior linebackers Colin Hurd and Bil Wolff. Hurd, a 6'2, 210-pounder, overcame injuries suffered in an auto accident last year and played the whole '66 season. Wolff, a 211-pounder, completes a fine linebacking duo for the Cats.

On the defensive line, Harry Canning is a solid defensive end. A 6'3, 205-pounder, he is a converted offensive halfback. Another standout on the line is junior Steve Vukovich, a 6'2, 212-pound tackle.

Vermont has been susceptible to passing this year as all four of the defensive backs are newcomers. If the Catamount defense holds together and the long-dormant offense explodes, however, Vermont will give UMass an afternoon of worries.

Amherst Soccer Squad Blots Out UMass, 3-1

By WALT STACHURA
Staff Reporter

Two goals by Rob Sherman led Amherst to a 3-1 soccer victory over UMass yesterday at the varsity field.

Coach Dave Bischoff's debut was spoiled by the setback. He has taken over the coaching duties from Larry Briggs who has been sidelined with an infected foot.

Sherman's second goal came near the end of third quarter as he headed in a perfect pass from Colburn.

Amherst jumped off to a quick start when Sherman kicked in his first goal early in the first quarter. Bill Allen tied it up a few minutes later when he deflected Marty Smith's corner kick.

Paul Bregoli nearly put the Redmen out in front late in the first half but his high shot was knocked down on a fine save by Amherst goalie Jim Goodings.

Second half action was played mainly on the Redmen's side of the field. Goalie Steve Kramer kept the Redmen in the game with many fine saves. He made a standout save on Jaffer Kassamali's penalty kick by diving to block a shot at the corner of the net.

The pressure finally paid off for the Jeffs when Sherman got his second goal of the game.

After Sherman's goal, the Redmen put on a brief spurt in an attempt to tie the game. However, they were unable to break through the fine Amherst defense spearheaded by Charlie Nielsen.

Jaffer Kassamali wrapped up the scoring when he went in alone on Kramer and scored easily.

The Jeffs outshot the Redmen, 25-14. An indication of the fine defense put up by the Jeffs was that their goalie had to make only four saves. Kramer came up with 18 saves, many of them tough ones.

The loss lowered the Redmen's record to 3-4. Amherst jumped to a 4-1-1 mark.

• • •

The Freshman soccer team had better luck than the varsity. Two first half goals enabled the Little Redmen to triumph over Trinity 2-1.

Larry Defelice started the freshman scoring with a goal at the 3:40 mark of the first quarter. Duane Brown increased the margin to two with his goal midway through the second canto.

Jim Begoff narrowed the margin for Trinity early in the fourth quarter but the Frosh hung on to gain the victory. The win raised Coach Broaca's squad record to a fine 7-1.

The varsity faces Vermont on Saturday at home, while the frosh host Franklin Pierce. For the varsity it will be an important game because both teams are 3-0 in the Yankee Conference.

More Sports
Page 7

Daily Collegian Photo by John Kelly

EYE ON THE BALL—UMass senior Phil Bozenhard lines up a kick in yesterday's 3-1 loss to Amherst.

Daily Collegian Photo by John Kelly

AHEAD WITH A HEAD—Rick Rosoff of UMass (right) uses his head in yesterday's game, beating a Lord Jeff to the ball.

Intramurals

PMD and Aces Triumph To Enter Campus Finals

By DON LARIVEE
Staff Reporter

Phi Mu Delta and the Grayson Aces square off in the Intramural campus football championship tonight at 7 at Field 2.

PMD got into the finals with a tremendous 32-13 victory over the Colonials last night. Ray Rigney completed 15 out of 21 passes to lead the fraternity champions.

The Aces wrought terror among the Terrors by winning, 45-18. Wayne Higney completed 27 of 25 passes.

The Hi-Los slid by the Commanchees, 19-18, to capture third place in the dorm league.

CAMPBELL . . .

(Continued from page 7)

It was no coincidence that the man who was considered the finest all-around player in college ball last season, George Webster of Michigan State, was a roverback and an important cog in MSU's great defense. Campbell does a more than competent job in the same role for the Redmen.

The Week in Review — Daily Collegian News Analysis

A Trying Week Comes to a Close

WASHINGTON (CPS)—Students on seven campuses made it a rough week for recruiters from the armed services and from other organizations connected with the military.

Their sit-ins and other protests are almost all over now, but the promise of disciplinary action against protesters on most of the campuses may provide the next source of controversy.

Dow Chemical Company recruiters, catalysts for the massive protest at the University of Wisconsin last week, figured in three of this week's sit-ins; that at Harvard, and those at the Universities of Illinois and Minnesota.

Other targets for demonstrations were the Navy recruiter at Oberlin College, in Ohio; the CIA recruiter at the University of Colorado; a center for classified research at Princeton University; and a conference of defense contractors in Detroit, Mich.

Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) members figured to some extent in all the protests, but not all were organized by SDS.

On three campuses—Princeton, Oberlin, and Wayne State in Detroit—police were brought in from outside to deal with the students. Although it was the appearance of city police on the University of Wisconsin campus that brought thousands of otherwise uncommitted students into the protest there, the police did not have the same effect this week.

On one campus—Illinois—the protestors achieved their immediate goal. After 200 of them sat-in in the doorway and corridor outside the office where Dow was recruiting, the administration cancelled the company's recruiting program there. According to a university spokesman, the action was taken "to avoid possible bodily injury and destruction of property."

In the Detroit protest, there was a brief outbreak of violence on Wednesday. The students, returning for a second day to protest against the Fourth Annual Defense and Government Procurement Conference (in which businessmen heard Army and Air Force officers tell them "how to keep your share of defense business") tried to enter the building where the conference was being held from the rear.

They scuffled with the police there, and with some of the businessmen attending the conference. One demonstrator was arrested, bringing the total

(Continued on page 5)

FITCHBURG, Mass. (AP) — Fourteen Fitchburg State College students — five of them girls—distributed pacifist literature Thursday outside a student center office where two U.S. Marine Corps recruiters were interviewing prospective officer candidates.

No incidents were reported during the two-hour stay of the Marines who refused to accept pamphlets offered to them as they left.

The group said it did not question the right of the recruiters to visit the campus only "the ideals which they advocate."

by RICHARD ANTHONY, Collegiate Press Service

WASHINGTON (CPS)—On the face of it, the wave of protests against recruiters and military projects that has swept college campuses in the past two weeks would appear to be a direct outgrowth of the Oct. 21st Mobilization. In fact, however, the two are connected only in the sense that both are working against U.S. military undertakings.

The timing of the protests is largely a result of the fact that Dow Chemical and armed forced recruiters have been on the campuses where the protests have occurred.

As to the reason for the protests, if there is any one event that may be singled out as their cause it is not the Mobilization but the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) national convention last July.

At that convention the delegates decided to direct their efforts this year toward reducing military involvement on university campuses. The idea of making this effort did not originate at the convention. As Mike Spiegel, national secretary of the organization, admits, "We really decided after the fact. There was a lot of this kind of activity going on last year on various campuses."

It is also true that SDS has not been the sole impetus behind each of the campus protests of the past two weeks. On the other hand, SDS members have been involved to some extent in all of them, and have organized some of them.

(Continued on page 5)

Forecast

Cloudy and

Mild

The Massachusetts

Daily Collegian

A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

New England's

Largest College

Daily

VOL. XCVI, NO. 40 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1967

Collegian Photo by Frank Gori

Tom Babson and Anne Umana perform in Once Upon a Mattress.

Operetta Guild Presents "Once Upon a Mattress"

Once upon a time there was a fairy tale called "The Princess and the Pea", which, as fairy tales will, oversimplified the facts. Beginning tonight, the UMass Operetta Guild will present the little-known, true version of this story. It's all there just as it happened in the Mary Rodgers-Marshall Barer musical comedy, "Once Upon a Mattress".

The show is being directed by Bob Buchanan, with musical direction by Bill Neigher, and choreography by Sandy Rispler, both UMass students.

The cast includes Karen Connolly '69 in the role of Princess Winifred-the-Woebegone, a would-be bride for Prince Dauntless-the-Drab, played by Jay McAuliffe '71.

Betty Scheinfeldt '69 is cast as Dauntless' overprotective mama, Queen Agravain. She must and does talk for two, since the King, Sextimus the Silent, has been struck dumb by a witch's curse and cannot speak until a strange prophecy is fulfilled. This role is played by graduate student Rick Kaplan.

Juniors Anne Umana and Thomas Babson will be seen as Lady Larken and Sir Harry, young lovers in a predicament.

Tony Francis is cast as the

(Continued on page 3)

Harvard Threatens SDS With Loss of Charter

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—The Students for a Democratic Society at Harvard University were ordered Wednesday "to comply with college regulations or lose their charter."

Dean of Students Robert Watso said the SDS had violated several regulations, including one requiring that all members must be students at Harvard or Radcliffe College.

He said Jared Israel, co-chairman of SDS at Harvard, has "no connection whatsoever with the university."

Marc R. Dyen, another SDS co-chairman, said no decision had been reached on Watson's warning but he said he expected the society would comply with Harvard rules.

Watson said the SDS had failed to comply with requirements that permission be obtained for rallies; that all officers be undergraduates; that teaching fellows or graduate students not hold office; that

(Continued on page 6)

Surgery for Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Vatican sources reported Thursday that three more doctors are being added to the medical team that will operate on Pope Paul VI, probably Saturday.

The three were described as specialists and consultants, but their names were not disclosed. They will assist the three physicians who have been treating the Pope since he fell ill with a prostate condition Sept. 4. The Pope is 70.

A fourth doctor-an anesthetist —was added to the team earlier this week.

SPA and WMUA Sponsor Series on Vietnam

A two-week series on the history of Vietnam will start this Monday evening over campus radio station WMUA. The series is sponsored by the Students for Political Action (SPA).

The history will be presented by a panel of faculty members and one graduate student, representing the Government and engineering departments, the Faculty Committee on War and Peace, and Army ROTC.

The panel members will discuss the history of Vietnam starting with the cultural background of the people and continuing up to the present day in a series of six half-hour presentations. The final two programs, following the history, will be a discussion of the protest movement, with members of SPA telling why they are against the war and what they think they can do about it.

Panel members representing several different points of view, have been carefully chosen to present an impartial history. The members include, Dr. Gerard Braunthal, of the government department, who will moderate several of the discussions in addition to contributing to the history.

Mr. Ronald Rubel, of the department of Industrial Engineering, a member of the Faculty Committee on Peace and War.

Dr. Luther Allen, who has been to Vietnam and teaches a course on Southeast Asia.

Major Ronald Gingras, of the Army ROTC and member of the special forces, and a veteran of Vietnam.

Mr. John Fitzgerald, a graduate student in Government and a veteran of Vietnam.

The programs will be heard on WMUA, 91.1 FM, between 8:00 and 8:30 Monday through Thursday evenings for two weeks.

Because many students who do not have FM radios may wish to hear the discussions, it is suggested that dormitories make arrangements to have radios brought to lounge areas. SPA and WMUA will also sponsor a room in the student union, where the program will be carried over a P.A. system each evening.

Rev. Paul W. F. Harms will be speaker at the Reformation observances at the University.

Lutherans Plan Celebration Of Reformation's 450th Year

Lutherans in the Western Massachusetts area have invited all Christians to join in an observance of the 450th anniversary of the Reformation with a special service in Bowker Auditorium of Stockbridge Hall, Nov. 5, at 4:00 p.m.

The service is one of the many being held across the nation to commemorate Luther's posting of his famous "Ninety Five Theses" on Oct. 31, 1517. The action set in motion the Reformation.

The speaker for the occasion will be the Rev. Paul W.F. Harms of Concordia College, Fort Wayne, Ind. Professor Harm's topic has been announced as "Life — New Life," the general theme of Reformation observances this year.

The festival service will be the first to be conducted jointly by representatives of the three major Lutheran groups in the United States. Taking part with Professor Harms, are the Rev. Donald Kent, pastor of Bethesda Lutheran Church, Springfield, and the Rev. Gerhard Lahti (Lahch-tee) of Worcester.

The service is being sponsored by the Lutheran Student Congregation of the University of Massachusetts, an inter-Lutheran organization. Douglas Schmidt '68, is president. Lay readers for the service will be Dean Wisecarver '69 and Ronald Frederickson, president of Immanuel Lutheran Church, Amherst and assistant professor of guidance at the University of Massachusetts.

Following the service those in attendance are invited to an open house at Immanuel Lutheran Church, North Pleasant St., Amherst.

Two Exhibits by Art Committee

Two exhibits scheduled for November by the Art Committee include Currier photographs and faculty art.

The works of Victorian photographer Charles N. Currier will be on display in the Student Union corridor for three weeks beginning Monday.

A Four College Faculty Art Show will open Nov. 29. Scheduled also for a three-week run, the exhibit will mark the opening of the newly-acquired display area in the Student Union Reading Room.

The showings have been arranged by the committee headed by Kathy Campbell '68.

L.B.J. Calls On Public to Support Tax

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson appealed to ordinary citizens Thursday to let their congressmen hear from them "often and loud and clear" in support of his fight for a tax increase and his battle against import quotas.

Johnson, who rarely has appealed to the general public to put pressure on Congress, did so in addressing some 1,200 delegates to a Consumer Assembly at a local hotel.

The chief executive advanced dollars-and-cents arguments in favor of his call for a tax increase.

But, if anything, his language was stronger in discussing what he termed "the threat of protectionism, which is rearing its head in the form of certain quota bills now before Congress."

Rather scornfully, he said the legislators seemed bent on taking care of special interests in each member's home district.

"I think those protectionist bills just must not become law," he said, "and they're not going to become law as long as I am president."

As he has before, Johnson contended that for most if not all families, a 10 per cent income tax surcharge would cost less than what he terms "the inaction inflation tax" which he said will boost living costs if taxes aren't raised.

He noted that it has often been said "that the consumer lobby is the most widespread in our land, yet the least vociferous and powerful."

Johnson said he disagrees with that assessment, but he added:

"You can only wield the power you have if you make yourselves heard. You have the interest, you have the organization, you have the numbers, you have the horsepower .

"Your congressmen should hear from you,—too often and loud and clear."

Top Reds Meet in Moscow For Six Days of Meetings

MOSCOW (AP)—Six days of celebrations began in red-festooned Moscow Thursday with top Communists from around the world gathered to honor the Bolshevik Revolution and discuss current problems, including Red China.

The key man in the celebrations, Communist party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev, called Lenin the man "who inspired us and will inspire our descendants."

Chinese Charge d'Affaires An Chi-yuan boycotted the ceremony and an embassy spokesman said he would also boycott ceremonies Friday, Cuba also slighted the anniversary.

Four new types of military rockets are expected to be shown in the parade — following horse cavalry that recall the old Red army which consolidated Lenin's revolution.

Premier Alexei N. Kosygin might speak Sunday when attention shifts briefly to Leningrad, the city where the revolution occurred in 1917.

Communist sources said some of the visiting delegation held talks on China's challenge to what Moscow considers to be orthodox communism, on Vietnam, the Midle East and other subjects.

The main discussions are expected to begin Nov. 8.

One controversy that has long been fermenting between Moscow and Havana on Latin-American policy, appeared to non-Communist observers to have caused a Cuban slight to the anniversary celebrations.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro sent a low-ranking official. This followed recent publication by the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda of anniversary articles by Argentine and Chilean Communist leaders criticizing Cuban policies as too revolutionary.

Smith Fete To Support Foreign Students

"Kaleidoscope of Nations" is the theme for the International Students' Day Bazaar to be held at Smith College on Nov. 8. Admission is free and the public is invited to attend the bazaar which will take place at Scott Gymnasium from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m.

The fete is an annual event which offers the opportunity to buy food and merchandise from many countries.

All proceeds will go to provide scholarships for foreign students. This year I.S. Day is dedicated to those who took part in the 1956 Student Revolt in Hungary.

There will be an international cafe at which lunch will be served featuring representative dishes from different countries. There will also be food booths with one devoted to selling Dutch delicacies. Foreign students from the University of Massachusetts and Smith will present a program of native dances.

In addition, there will be a travel information booth manned by a representative of the National Student Association. National Student Associaion travel cards will be sold at the booth.

Collegian Photo Staff meeting Nov. 6 at 6:30 P.M.
Collegian Office
All staff members must attend.
Any interested non-staff members inyited
Equipment available for new members.

S.E.N.D.O.F.F.
is coming

LOCKSMITH SERVICES
KEYS &
RUBBER STAMPS
CHENEY LOCKSMITH
90 N. Pleasant St.
253-7010

STAMP IT!
IT'S THE RAGE
REGULAR MODEL
ANY $2
3 LINE TEXT
The finest INDESTRUCTIBLE METAL POCKET RUBBER STAMP. ½" x 2". Send check or money order. Be sure to include your Zip Code. No postage or handling charges. Add sales tax.
Prompt shipment. Satisfaction Guaranteed
THE MOPP CO.
P. O. Box 18623 Lenox Square Station
ATLANTA, GA., 30326

MOUNTAIN PARK
RTE. 5, HOLYOKE — Go Where The Action Is
EVERY SAT. 8 P. M.
COLLEGE MIXER
THIS SAT.
ROCKIN' RAMRODS

ALFRED HITCHCOCK'S
ACADEMY AWARD WINNING
"CHARADE"
With CARY GRANT & AUDREY HEPBURN
Saturday, November 4
Mahar Aud. — 8:00 P.M.
50c
STUDENT ECON. ASSOC.

MASS. CLASSIFIED

Help Wanted

Babysitter for 2 yr. old girl, 2 days per week. 253-7879

For Rent

24 feet Room
Refrigerator, cooking facilities, center of town.
Leader Rooms
159 North Pleasant St.
Apply at Bowling Alley.
$15 a week

FOR SALE

Sports car tires for sale—two 5.60-15 Firestone snowtires, tubeless whitewalls. One 5.00-15 regular tubeless whitewall. Call day 545-2405, night 546-9952.

SURFBOARDS (2)
1967 Greg Noll 10' (¾ speed) plus racks & suit (med, med-lg.)
1967 Dewey Weber performer 10'4 modified kick & rails.
Both in boss cond. 6-9776 after 6.

LOST

Valuable panasoning tape recorder from my car 10/26 behind the Baptist Church, North Pleasant St. Essential for work. Contains important tape that cannot be duplicated. Please return. Reward for information or return. Call 545-2260.

WANTED

Roommate to share 3 rm. Apt. in N. Amherst. Call 549-06411.

AUTOMOBILE

'67 Lemans convert. power brakes & steering. Call (Sunderland) 665-2512

1963 Falcon 2-door hardtop 6 cyl. in good shape. Call 253-5870 after 6 p.m.

PERSONAL

BIMBO: ELEPHANTS SHOULD GO ON DIETS.

Propaganda Victory Sought by Viet Cong

SAIGON (AP)—Red commanders sacrificed platoon after platoon of Viet Cong troops Thursday in their fourth futile effort of the week to seize Loc Ninh, a district headquarters town 72 miles north of Saigon. It looked like military madness.

U.S. and South Vietnamese soldiers beat back a massive enemy assault force in a 20-minute battle before dawn with the help of artillery and air power, following the patttern they set last Sunday. Random shooting followed for nearly five hours.

Field dispatches said 463 of the Communists were killed.

If true that would mean 832 Viet Cong have died in the offensive that American officers consider is motivated primarily by the enemy's hunger for a propaganda victory to offset South Vietnam's return to constitutional government.

Losses among the allies, dug in behind barbed wire barricades, were reported to be one American and five South Vietnamese killed; 11 Americans and 10 South Vietnamese wounded. Spokesmen said that brought allied totals there through the week to 35 killed and 106 wounded.

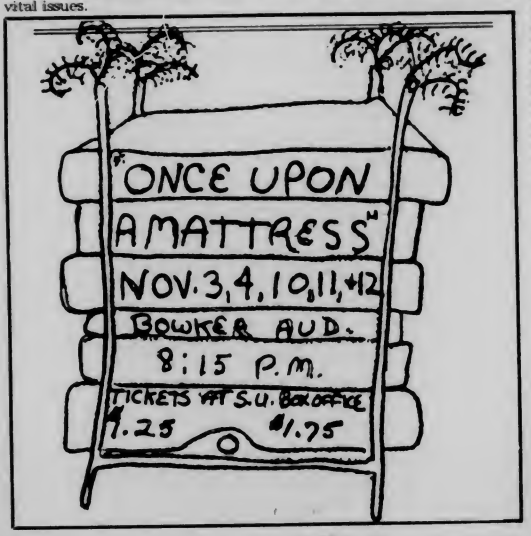
The Communists took the initiative in two other actions.

UAW May Strike Chrysler

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers Union said Thursday it will strike Chrysler Corp. next Wednesday if no contract is reached by then with the nation's third-biggest automaker.

The UAW, in its 57th day of a strike against Ford Motor Co., said the union president, Walter P. Reuther, will join Chrysler negotiations Saturday afternoon in the drive to reach a settlement. Ford, second-biggest U.S. auto maker, remained out of production because local-level contract disputes remain unsettled at about a dozen Ford plants.

The national contract settlement was reached at Ford last week and signed by company and union officials last Monday. The strike, however, remains technicaly in effect until local agreements are reached at all Ford plants.



The UAW announced the strike deadline at Chrysler following a series of bargaining sessions between subcommittees Thursday.

Open Grad Student Senate Meeting

An open meeting of the Graduate Student Senate is scheduled for Nov. 6 at 8:30 p.m. in the Student Union.

Agenda includes Graduate Student tax and proposed Code of Conduct. Every department should be represented at the ratio of one per each 50 graduate students or fractions thereof, ie, three representatives for 120 students.

All graduate students are invited to express their views on these vital issues.

Hillel

DELI

SUPPER

Commonwealth Rm, S.U. Member: 75c

5 o'clock p.m. Non-members: $1.50

Sunday, Nov. 5

Happenings

CACC

The newly formed Central Area Coordinating Committee, (CACC) at its meeting Wednesday night announced its first area project which will take place this Friday night.

"Muggies Farm," an all-girl "hard-rock" band from South College will be featured in a concert in the South Commons from 8:30 to 11:30. Admission is free, but I.D's are required.

CACC hopes to bring the Central Area closer together through its regional newspaper, the Central Voice, and through future area projects.

Pre-Law

A representative from Duke University School of Law will hold small group and individual interviews in the Provost's Office at Whitmore Administration Building today. Seniors interested in talking with him should sign up in the Pre-Law Advisor's Office.

This afternoon a representative from the Dickinson School of Law will interview interested seniors in the Provost's Office. Students should sign up in the Pre-Law Adviser's Office.

Daily Collegian

Hotline

545-2550

Members of the cast of "Once Upon a Mattress" rehearse one of the scenes from the musical comedy. The play opens tonight at 8:15 in Bowker Auditorium.

ONCE UPON . . .

(Continued from Page 1)

court jester, Bob LaCroix as a wandering minstrel, and Tom DeFelice as the queen's wizard.

The cast is completed by a chorus of ladies-in-desperate-waiting and their equally impatient knights. No one in the kingdom, it seems, can be married until a suitable bride for Dauntless is found. And Princess Winifred is number 13 on the list. . . if she passes the test.

It will be on November 3, 4, 10, 11 or 12 at 8:15 in Bowker Auditorium. Tickets are now on sale at the box office.

HOUSE KILLS BILL

BOSTON (AP)—The Massachusetts House Thursday killed a bill to codify the Medicaid plan of federally-aided medical assistance to the needy under age 21 and over 65.

A spokesman at the Department of Public Welfare said the action did not jeopardize the Medicaid program.

Medicaid began in Massachusetts Sept. 1, 1966, under an executive order by Gov. John A. Volpe.

The bill rejected by the House was filed by Welfare Commissioner Robert F. Ott.

INFIRMARY WAITING TIME

varies considerably during the day. It is consistently short early in the morning; it is almost as consistently long in the latter part of the afternoon.

In the interest of saving your time we suggest that you try to make outpatient visits early in the morning, as soon after 8 a.m. as possible.

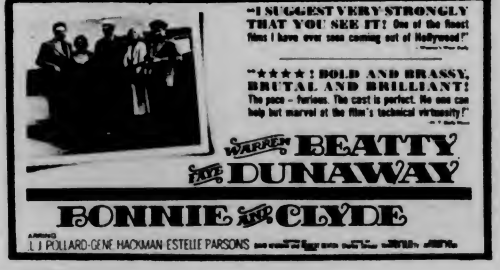
Also please try to avoid visits from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. unless your problem is urgent (or unless you have classes all day).

University Health Services



"Lost Homecoming Weekend"

A 14 kt. gold charm bracelet

Reward: Please write
D. L. Wright
80-08 135 St.
Kew Gardens, N.Y.
11415

AMHERST Cinema

NOW ENDS TUES.
2:00-4:35-6:45-9:00

"I SUGGEST VERY STRONGLY THAT YOU SEE IT! One of the finest films I have ever seen coming out of Hollywood!"

"★★★★! BOLD AND BRASSY, BRUTAL AND BRILLIANT! The pace - furious. The cast is perfect. No one can help but marvel at the film's technical virtuosity!"

WARREN BEATTY
FAYE DUNAWAY
BONNIE AND CLYDE

A WARNER BROS.-SEVEN ARTS RELEASE with J. J. POLLARD · GENE HACKMAN · ESTELLE PARSONS

Learn To Fly

COLLEGIATE

FLYING CLUB

MEETING: MONDAY, NOV. 6

Middlesex Room, Student Union

For Information:

JOE DALTON
253-9321

FRAN BALBONI
1-665-8785

ROLLIE MOORE

BSCE, U. of Michigan, is responsible for over $10 million in annual sales—less than ten years after graduation. Fresh from Bethlehem's Loop Course training, Rollie was assigned to the Des Moines area. He's done a fine job. In 1966 he became Resident Manager.

MANAGEMENT MINDED?

Career prospects are better than ever at Bethlehem Steel. We need on-the-ball engineering, technical, and liberal arts graduates for the 1968 Loop Course. Pick up a copy of our booklet at your placement office.

An Equal Opportunity Employer in the Plans for Progress Program

BETHLEHEM STEEL

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

The Insurance Game

The Massachusetts legislature now has before it two bills, one offering to continue, with modification the present automobile insurance system, the other, proposed by Governor Volpe, to create a new "financial responsibility" plan.

The amended compulsory insurance plan passed this week in the House, reversing the action on the Keeton-O'Connell "self-insurance" bill approved in August.

The question has been raised since the House action Wednesday of whether any new automobile insurance proposal will be given approval. It is feared that the present act may simply be extended to fill this void.

We hope that the legislature will come to an agreement and report out a new insurance bill better than the present system and incorporating some of the features of both proposed measures.

Currently an investigation is being conducted by the U.S. House Judiciary Committee bringing to light the national situation, well-understood in Massachusetts, of high premiums, abrupt policy cancellations and especially interesting to the Bay State, the situation of lax state regulations.

The importance of the investigation itself is partly because Congress has not legislated on automobile insurance since 1946 and hence all the irregularities Rep. Celler's committee is reporting are the result of inadequate state action.

Massachusetts rightfully requires some sort of plan for the protection of individuals and property. But the plan enacted into law should be the best one possible.

Some of the provisions of the two acts are as follows: The House-passed bill would require motorists to take out $5,000 property damage coverage and, for the first time, $5,000 per person and $10,000 per accident personal injury coverage.

The measure would allow insurance companies to compete and would establish a fraudulent claims board and a 'control board' to review rates submitted by insurance companies.

The Volpe financial responsibility plan would require each motorist to pay a $50 fee when registering a car instead of taking out insurance.

Under the Senate-approved bill, motorists would have to take out insurance after one accident or post a bond.

Another provision in the Keeton-O'Connell bill which the legislature has considered would eliminate the question of who was to blame for an accident in settling insurance claims.

We endorse this last provision and hope that it would be incorporated by the joint committee which will have to meet to iron out a measure acceptable to both houses.

We believe that the insurance companies should be allowed, with the approval of the state insurance commissioner, to compete and thus offer lower rates to the motorist.

We strongly feel that the individual motorist's previous accident record should be considered. The final bill should correct this inequity.

We urge speedy action.

—THE EDITORS

Viewpoint

Breaking the Set

Taking this University as being representative of others there is little opportunity for creativity. Instead there is a stultifying uniformity of enforced opinion.

Too many instructors style themselves authorities, orating ex cathedra without regard to challenge, criticism, or suggestion. Too many resent individual opinions unless they complement their own. Worse still, too many fail to show respect for the student as an individual with potential; instead they regard him collectively as merely a mass to be curried and manipulated into what is determined to be right.

Too many criticize a student if he employs that which he has been taught. For example, if adult terminology is used, the hapless student is often suspected of being an intellectual snob or a plagiarist.

Teachers tend to make personal value judgments based largely on their own inherent intellectual biases. Too many confuse this emotional response with objective evaluation. This uncomprehending attitude, this non-involvement, this non-adaptation, and the stifling of individual creativity results in creative sterility, intellectual non-development, and dropouts. Many instructors simply do not seem to be aware of the possibility that students just might come up with a new viewpoint due to their uncolored perspective.

Perhaps the trouble is that curricula are too much in the American tradition, too empirical and trend-oriented. Those students who adhere most closely to the system and who best ingratiate themselves with their teachers through a thousand small hypocrisies to make them believe they really care are duly rewarded by inflated grades and other forms of preferential treatment.

In terms of basics, it has now gone beyond the point of the classic student-teacher conflicts; it has now become a crisis wherein the very possibilities of self-definition and self-realization and upward-yearnings are at stake.

The writer proposes dynamic curriculum changes. Any social structure must be dynamic if it is to remain relevant to the times. So what we must have is a means by which to make education more a process of assimilation than of memorization.

Accordingly, there should be instituted an overall pass-fail system. Thus, every student admitted to the University would have a guarantee of graduating with a bachelor's degree in whatever length of time it takes to complete a basic core course in the humanities with specialized instruction in his chosen profession. He should also demonstrate the proficiency of his assimilation in two or three depth research projects and perhaps one general three-hour exam per semester.

There should be more experimental programs to bring out full potential in the case of underachievers who for varying social or psychological reasons do not succeed the first time in "passing." They should be given a second, and if necessary third chance with no detriment to their record.

There should be greatly stepped-up counseling of individuals.

Assignments should be relevant or have relevancy made obsolutely clear to the student in relation to his future life outside of the college community.

Responsibilities and honors should be given to the many, not the select few, if only to bring out hidden facets of talent. A clarion call should go out to all creative innovators such as our own Dr. Drum.

Most important of all, the relics of the Dark Ages must be eliminated in an attempt to teach students how to learn.

— Kent Barclay
Editorial Staff

Campus Comment

Be Good Little Graduate Students

To the editor:

This Monday evening at 8:30 the Grad Student Senate will be discussing a graduate code of conduct, prepared for their review by the Dean of the Grad School. There are several reasons why this draft should be categorically rejected. It is unrepresentative of the grad student body. It is both nebulous and arbitrary in its provisions as well as in the procedures it establishes for the adjudication of offenses.

Though it purports to be representative of the grad student body, it was in fact a product of the office of Edward C. Moore, Dean of the Grad School. Should a code of behavior for mature adults be a product of the administration, a proclamation from above, or from the grad student body itself?

Judged by the number of people who have read the document, the administration has made feeble attempt, at best, to inform those who will be directly affected by the document's provisions. As far as we have been able to ascertain very few grad students even know of the existence of the proposed code. For this reason we maintain that it was not "adopted by appropriate student and faculty groups," or "formulated and approved by bodies which included student representation," or "publicly promulgated," as alleged in the code. We implore the Graduate office to distribute this document to all grad students.

Perhaps more important than the fact that it is unrepresentative it is nebulous, arbitrary: For example, one provision states that:

"Except where the welfare of the University community so requires, a student's academic status will remain unchanged until the completion of the appeal process." We shall discuss the process of appeals (or lack of such) below, but first we will lend our attention to University welfare. Does this refer to the well-being and management of the physical plant or might it extend so far as to include the University's reputation?

We can only conclude from this that the fate of the grad student is inextricably bound with the administration's concept of welfare, a concept which has not been given parameters.

Specifically noted for its lack of explication is the following categorization of a major offense; if a student is "Party to mass disturbances which present unpredictable hazards for individuals and property, to incite or organize such disturbance; (following notice by a responsible official of the University, either written or oral, that a mass disturbance exists, and a direction to those assembled to disperse, any person remaining in the general area, even when he is taking no active part in the disturbance, may be liable to separation from the University or such lesser sanction as may be judged appropriate).

Several provisions are especially disturbing. This article of the code does not distinguish between constitutionally protected types of assembly and mob disorder. The criteria for what constitutes a mass disturbance is left unstated and therefore is subject to the whim of any University official.

Clearly, because guide lines are lacking this article may lead to subjection of the individual, bystander or participant, to the arbitrary, on the spot, interpretation of the University officer. Furthermore this provision, because of the above, may have the effect of inhibiting the individuals duly constituted right of assembly and free speech.

The graduate code further prohibits anyone to "Engage in lewd or indecent behavior." Once again no criteria are stated for the determination of what comprises "lewd and indecent behavior." We can only infer from the absence of specifics that the interpretation of this rule rests with the administration. Do these provisions apply equally to; manner of dress, expression of ideas, (both written and verbal) as well as physical acts.

In none of the above instances was it succinctly mentioned whether the code's regulations would apply to off campus as well as on campus activities. Elsewhere in the code it is indicated that an individual convicted of an offense outside the University may be subject to University review to determine his continuing status as a student. The code of conduct goes on to state "such action shall not constitute double jeopardy." While legally we have no quarrel with this statement, we feel that it violates the spirit of the Constitutional provision against double jeopardy.

Let us move on to the code's adjudication procedures. A detrimental element of the ajudicating process is that the court of original jurisdiction and the court of appellate jurisdiction have an overlapping membership. Because the seven members of the original body are also members of the appellate body, it is conceivable that the decisions of only four men out of the twenty man appeals body would be necessary to uphold the conviction of the lower court.

In addition to this the provisions of the code imply that the President of the Grad Senate or his sole representative will be the only grad student to judge upon the guilt or innocence of another grad student.

Clearly, this is not trial by ones peers. Why? Does the administration feel that grad students are incapable of performing the functions of self government? If so, how can they support their statement that this is in fact a representative document?

The intended purpose of the Code as stated above is belied by the administration's paternalistic mode of action, failure to explicate the alleged substantive evils, and an impropitious formula for adjudication.

We urge all grad students to attend the meeting of the Grad Student Senate (a heretofore relatively unknown body) at 8:30 p.m. on Mon., Nov. 6 in the S.U.

Davis Liden
Jeffrey Margolis
Bob Tropp
Henry Wulf
Graduate Students, Government Dept.

Table Etiquette

To the editor:

It has come to our attention that rudeness and uncouth behavior prevail at South Commons. Throughout the time meals are being served, the murmers of polite conversation are continually pierced by vulgarities. Vocabulary fit only for locker room expletives is used at dinner tables, resulting in waves of nausea on the part of others of more restrained natures. Most girls wish to enjoy a meal without risking a loss of appetite.

The male contingent of South Commons is in desperate need of a crash course in correct table manners. Neglecting the art of polite dinner conversation, they shout from table to table, often using crude Anglo-Saxonisms to convey their messages. We would rather starve than be continually subjected to this type of gross misbehavior.

We would like to request that our names be withheld.

The girls from Van Meter South

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union . . . University of Massachusetts . . . Amherst, Mass.

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Chester S. Weinerman '68
MANAGING EDITOR ..... John H. Dean, Jr. '69
BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Charles Smith '69

News Day Editor: Don Epstein, Editorial Day Editor: Nancy Bourgoin, Sports Day Editor: Jan Curley

News Editors ..... Ron LaBrecque '70, Richard Kline '70
Editorial Chairman ..... Pat Petow '68
Sports Editor ..... Tom FitzGerald '69
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Glenn Briere '69
Advertising Managers ..... Dot Silvia '69, Sharon Kramer '69
Photo Editor ..... Paul Bolivar '68

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.
Published at the Massachusetts Daily Collegian, Student Union, UMass., Amherst, Mass. 01002.
Member of the Associated Collegiate Press. Member of the Collegiate Press Service of the United States Student Press Association. Member of the Associated Press—The Associated Press is entitled exclusively to the use for reproduction of all the local news printed in this newspaper as well as all AP news dispatches.
Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed five times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; three or four times weekly the week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 3, 1879, as amended by the act of June 11, 1934.
Subscription price: $6.00 per year; $3.50 per semester.

Thousands Protest For What "Others Stand For"

THE SUMMARY . . .

(Continued from page 1)

number of arrests for the two days to 14.

Certainly the best organized protest was the one at Oberlin, where students knew well beforehand what day the Navy recruiter was to arrive. Some of them drove out to the edge of town Thursday to meet him and escort him to the campus. There more than 100 students surrounded his car and kept him trapped inside for about four hours.

When the recruiter finally tried to drive his way out of the predicament, he succeeded only in ramming a newsman's car behind his. He was finally freed when local police and firemen drove the demonstrators away with teargas and water sprayed from fire hoses.

At Harvard, about 300 Harvard and Radcliffe students sat-in in the chemistry building outside the Dow recruiters' office. According to one observer, the recruiter "was effectively imprisoned there."

The protest was organized by SDS, and it had originally been planned as a picketing demonstration outside the building. When demonstrators arrived Wednesday morning, however, the protest became a sit-in.

About 450 students, including the heads of the two major undergraduate political bodies, have turned in their bursar's cards to express complicity with the protest. A meeting of all members of the faculty was held Tuesday, to decide on disciplinary action for the protestors.

At the University of Minnesota, about 40 students jammed into the entrance of the placement office to protest the presence of a Dow recruiter there Tuesday.

Some of the students slept in a room near the president's office through the night. Others held a hungar strike that lasted until the Dow recruiter left Thursday.

No disciplinary action is planned aaginst the protestors.

At Princeton 50 students blocked the entrance to a building where the Institute for Defense Analysis branch there is housed. When the students refused to move away from the door and let employees in, 30 of them were arrested.

Doug Seaton, a leader in the SDS chapter at Princeton, said protests in other forms would continue.

At the University of Colorado, 30 students blocked the entrance to the placement center where a CIA agent was recruiting. Their protest came close to breaking into a fist-fight with about 50 students who said they wanted to get in to see the recruiter, but campus police and a faculty member calmed the two groups.

The protestors, most of them members of SDS, had earlier tried to get the CIA recruiter to leave voluntarily.

One of the protesters explained why his group had chosen to use civil disobedience tactics; "Because we feel dishonesty, secrecy and totalitarian tactics have nothing to contribute to the educational enterprise, we are protesting their use of our campus facilities."

MOSCOW (AP)—The second of two unmanned Soviet satellites that docked and separated in orbit Monday was returned to earth Thursday. Unlike the first one, there was no claim the second made a soft landing.

COLLEGIAN . . .

(Continued from Page 1)

At the convention the policies voted on did not include tactical questions. According to Spiegel, questions of strategy and tactics are left up to individual SDS chapters. It was probably inevitable that the tactics would be in the direction of sit-ins, however, because SDS has stressed the need for militant action against military involvement on campuses.

Spiegel said that militant action has been emphasized because past protests have shown it to be the most successful method of raising the issues that SDS wants to raise among university people at large.

"When students are willing to take militant action," says Spiegel, "Other people on campus see that this group takes its goals very seriously, and then they start to think about the problems involved."

Another result of militant action has been the increased use of outside police, as in the protests at the University of Wisconsin and at Brooklyn College. For SDS the introduction of the police can be advantageous but it is not always an unmixed blessing. According to Spiegel it can turn the controversy away from the question of military involvement on campuses to that of police brutality. "We think the issue of civil liberties tends to obfuscate the real issues," says Spiegel.

As for the question of the recruiters' freedom of speech, SDS says the freedom is not at issue, the issue being rather whether universities and their students should contribute to the country's military efforts. It is the freedom of speech issue, however, that is the sticking point for the National Student Association (NSA). Al Milano, an NSA national staff member, says that the organization supports freedom of speech on campus for recruiters as for anyone else.

As a result of NSA's freedom of speech stand, the organization has been obliged to steer clear of some of the recent protests. Although NSA representatives aided student protest leaders at Brooklyn College and at Wisconsin, they could not assist at Harvard or at Oberlin, where students blocked off recruiters from interviewers.

"We understand the frustrations that lead students to these kinds of protests," says Milano, "But we have to be consistent about free speech. What we are urging is that students be given a voice in things like who recruits on campus."

For the present, however, NSA will probably not be able to take a hand in many of the protests that seem bound to occur. There are, according to one SDS estimate, approximately 900 colleges and universities that have defense department or CIA grants, and many of those will be the targets of protests during the coming year.

Whatever else comes out of the year, there is little question that SDS will emerge as the most-hated student organization in the country's history—with most of the ill-will coming from two sources—the federal government and college and university administrators.

Students Protest in Northampton.
Daily Collegian Photo by John Griffin

FRIDAY

Happy Hour

Q-CLUB

In 1, SAND PEBBLES; In 3, BAREFOOT IN THE PARK

The Forestry Club

presents

THE BOSS TWEEDS

Saturday, November 4

8-12 p.m.

Student Union Ballroom

admission 75c

ATTENTION CLASS OF '71

Anyone interested in serving

on the EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

should pick up applications at R.S.O.

Return Deadline—November 13

If you have any questions

on the function of EXECUTIVE COUNCIL,

feel free to contact any class officer

PRES. JOE TABACCO 6-6996

VICE PRES. JOEL WILSON 6-6948

CROSS COUNTRY DORM CHAMPIONS—The Brett Chestnuts won the dormitory championships in Cross Country. Shown in the front row are James Healey, Castonguay, and Edward Currier. In the back are Douglas Hjorth, Steven Schneid and William Kelley.

NOTICES

YOUNG REPUBLICANS
On Nov. 6 at 8 P.M. in Nantucket Room there will be a meeting. Nominations of officers will be held.

HILLEL
On Nov. 3 in Plymouth-Norfolk Room, S.U. Sabbath Services will be held at 7 P.M. Rev. Arnold Kenseth, Dept. of English will speak on "Poetry of Protest." Saturday morning services are at 9:30 A.M. Check at Hillel office for location.

OUTING CLUB
Those interested in Mt. Toby trip this weekend see bulletin board for information and sign-up sheet.

NEWMAN CLUB
On Sunday, after 10:30 mass, in Lounge, there will be a faculty-student coffee hour.

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTERRS:
Bus leaves Newman Center Saturday at 1:15 P.M.

CAMPUS CRUSADE FOR CHRIST
Meet in front of union at 7:30, not 8:00 for hayride, at Robin's farm, on Fri., Oct. 3. Party will follow at Beck's barn. Girls and boys welcomed. No date required. Donation 25¢.

PRE-MED CLUB
On Mon., Nov. 6 in Public Health Aud. Dr. Lester Dewis, Dean of Admissions of BU Med School will speak. All welcome.

GSS
On Nov. 7 at 6:30 in Middlesex Room there is a general meeting. Exec meet-in at 6 P.M. in Middlesex.

SOCIOLOGY CLUB
On Tues., Nov. 7 at 7 P.M. in Essex Dining Room there is a planning meeting.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB
Mixer, open to public, at Memorial Hall, on Fri., Nov. 3 at 8 P.M. 50¢ for men. 25¢ for girls. Refreshments and dancing.

WOMEN'S SKI TEAM
On Tues., Nov. 7 at 6:30 P.M. in Wo-Pe Student Lounge there will be first meeting of the season. All interested are welcome.

LOST:
Old brown wallet, contains 50¢ and important papers. All I really want is my girl's picture and my draft card. Call 6-7211.

FOUND:
Girl's gold signet ring in vicinity of Goessman. Contact Diane Doherty, Van Meter.

PINNINGS:
Cinthia E. Magno '70, J.Q. Adams to Peter V. Murphy '70, Alpha Sigma Phi.
Yvette Bouchard '68, Vassar, to Marv Libner '68, Sunderland.
Donna Roy '68, Crampton, to Richard Kielbania '68, Boston College.

ENGAGEMENT:
Sandra Richards '68, Alpha Chi Omega, to Dick Wood '68, Sunderland.

STUDENTS FOR POLITICAL ACTION
A meeting at 7 P.M., Nov. 6 at the Valley Peace Center, 208 North Pleasant Street, Amherst. Cars will leave from the front of the Student Union at 6:45 P.M.

Nominations For
Winter Carnival Queens
AVAILABLE IN R.S.O. NOW
DUE NOVEMBER 11

Have You Been Up the GOUCH ?

SORORITY RUSH SCHEDULE

Round Robins — Nov. 5, 1967, 12:30-5:30, Commonwealth Room, S.U.

Sorority Open House — Nov. 12, 19, Dec. 2, 17, 2:30-4:00

Round Robins — Jan. 28, 12:30-5:30, Ballroom, S.U.

Convocation Rush Registration — Feb. 5, 7-9, Ballroom, S.U.

Open Parties — Feb. 6, 7, 7-7:30, 7:45-8:15, 8:30-9

Open & Invitation Parties — Feb. 8, 9, 7-8, 8:30-9:30

Theme Parties — Feb. 11, 1-2:30, 3-4:30

Closed Date — Feb. 12, 6:30-8, 8:30-10

Bidding — Feb. 13, 7:7:30, Suffolk Rm, S.U.

Bids Out — Feb. 14, 1-5, Hampden Room, S.U.

Strong Backfield

Little Redmen to Clash with B. C.

UMass freshmen football team meets a strong Boston College frosh team this afternoon at 2 p.m. in the freshmen field at the north end of Alumni Stadium.

The Little Redmen will be out to even their season's record at 2-2. The UMass frosh have lost to the Army Plebes, 2-21, and the Boston U. frosh, 14-7. Last week they upended the Rhode Island frosh, 14-12. The Boston College frosh sport a 2-0 record with wins over the Dartmouth JV's, 25-22, and the previously-undefeated Holy Cross frosh, 37-13.

The Baby Eagles are led by halfback George Gill with 129 yards rushing and an 8.6 average, quarterback Frank Harris, who has completed 25 of 45 passes for 545 yards and five touchdowns, and receiver Fred Willis, who has caught 10 passes for 391 yards and five touchdowns.

The UMass freshmen have a strong all-around backfield led by hard-running fullback Bob Toole and speedy halfbacks Pat Scavone and Neil Hering. Quarterback Richie Dyer has moved the team well and has two good ends in John Aylward and Nick McGarry.

Defensive standouts for UMass have been linebacker Bill Byron, halfbacks Jim Rendle and Carl Loria, middle guard Tom Callaghan and right end Russ Wood.

Girls' Ski Team To Hold Meeting

UMass Women's Ski Team will hold its first meeting of the season Tuesday, November 7, in the Student Lounge in the Women's Physical Education Building.

The UMass Ski Team is a member of the Women's Intercollegiate Ski Conference, which is composed of twelve Southern New England colleges and universities.

The Conference sponsors five races a season, two of which UMass is co-sponsoring with Mount Holyoke and Northeastern University. Last year, the UMass women placed second in the conference.

No racing experience is necessary, only a desire to learn to race.

Harriers to Defend Title In Yankee Conference Meet

UMass varsity cross-country team will defend its championship in the Yankee Conference title meet Saturday at Orono, Maine.

The Redmen have a 4-4 record this fall. In competition against Conference teams UMass has defeated Maine and Rhode Island and lost a 27-28 decision to Connecticut. Coach Bill Footrick's harriers won their 7th Conference title last year by placing five runners in the first eleven.

Four of the Redmen runners are back again. Juniors Paul Hoss, Marc Gelinas and Charlie Lang and senior Greg Bowman placed 3, 4, 6 and 11 as the Redmen won their first title since 1962. Lang and Hoss who both have had outstanding seasons this fall, will be strong men for the Redmen at Orono.

Other UMass competitors will be juniors Ron Ryan and Diego Gonzalez and sophomore Dave Evans.

Connecticut, which placed third last fall, is favored to capture its first Conference harrier championship since 1956. New Hampshire, the 1965 champion and last year's runner-up, has another strong team that boasts a 5-2 record.

HARVARD . . .

(Continued from page 1)

permission be granted for posting notices and distribution of leaflets.

Watson said the SDS held three unauthorized rallies in Harvard Yard in the past two weeks.

The group was prominently involved in a demonstration Oct. 25 against a Dow Chemical Co. official conducting interviews of students for post-graduation jobs.

On Tuesday, Harvard President Nathan M. Pusey announced that 74 students had been placed on probation and another 171 admonished for their part in the demonstration.

Belts Awarded in Judo Club

Sophomore Jean Fielding of the UMass Judo Club was awarded a second degree brown belt (Nikyu) in Judo after a two-day examination held at Newton last weekend.

Keith Quenneville and Peter Discenza, fellow team members resentatives for 120 students.

Awards were made on the basis of individual performance and demonstration of throwing techniques, arm bars, hold-downs and chokes.

Students at Assumption College Protest Against Army Recruiters

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — A score of students at Assumption College conducted a mild protest Thursday over the presence of two Army recruitors on the campus but the affair ended without ill feeling.

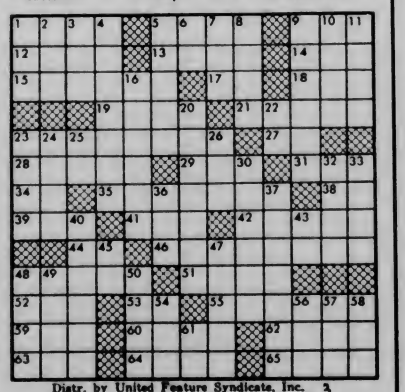
The students stood alongside a wall near a display set up by the Army men and solicited signatures on a protest petition. They reported afterward that some 80 signatures were collected.

The petition oppposed the war in Vietnam and protested the presence on campus of the Army men.

Bryan Lillis, 20, of Bridgeport, Conn., a sophomore who said he spoke for the students, told newsmen: "We have nothing against these guys. They're nice guys. We're just against what they stand for."

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle



STERE LIANA
STOVES BLEATS
OR ANTE SPAT
FAT TELLS ABE
AIRS RIATA AL
SNAKE AMIABLE
PART AERO RESTORE SORES
IR EDILE NERO
ARM EOSIN DAD
TOOL EDIT SA
ARTIST ELATES
SETEE REARS

ACROSS

1-Young sheep
5-Bucket
9-Resort
12-Winglike
13-Poker stake
14-Sunburn
15-South American Indians
17-A continent (abbr.)
18-Mohammedan name
19-Trial
21-Danger
23-Destroys by suffocation
27-Symbol for tellurium
28-Name
29-Goddess of healing
31-Supersonic transport (abbr.)
34-Conjunction
35-Landed properties
38-Faroe Islands whirlwind
39-Church bench
41-Small child
42-Part of flower
44-Indefinite article
46-Girl's name
48-Renovate
51-Apportion
52-River island
53-Pronoun
55-Hollywood prizes
59-Anger
60-Goddess of discord
62-Exact
63-Conducted
64-Baseball team
65-Rational

DOWN

1-100,000 rupees
2-A state (abbr.)
3-Deface
4-Crisp
5-Out of date
6-Indefinite article
7-Possessive pronoun
8-Jump
9-Looks fixedly
10-Buddhist dialect
11-Seed coating
16-Mandate
20-Handled
22-Latin conjunction
23-Halt
24-Mud
25-Old Testament (abbr.)
26-Pose for portrait
30-Repulses
32-Cleaning substance
33-Prefix: distant
36-Uppermost part
37-Chooses
40-Needed
43-Preposition
45-Compass point
47-Loop
48-Shore bird
49-Ireland
50-At what time
54-Silkworm
56-Macaw
57-Hurry
58-Bishopric
61-Preposition

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

DEERFIELD DRIVE-IN THEATRE
Routes 5 & 10
South Deerfield, Mass.
Tel. 665-8746

FRI. - SAT. - SUN.

IAN FLEMING'S "YOU ONLY LIVE TWICE"
Presented by ALBERT R. BROCCOLI and HARRY SALTZMAN PANAVISION TECHNICOLOR

also

CLINT EASTWOOD in "A FISTFUL OF DOLLARS"
Print by TECHNICOLOR / Released thru UNITED ARTISTS

SHOWTIME 7:30
SUN—LIVE TWICE 7:30

IT'S A LONG STRETCH—University of Vermont goalie John Hilton stretches to make a save. The Redmen clash with Vermont Saturday with only half a game between the two.

Daily Collegian Photo by John Kelley

FIRST COME, FIRST KICK — An unidentified UMass soccer player zeroes in on the ball as an Amherst player approaches ready to kick also. Amherst went on to win, 3-1.

Daily Collegian Photo by John Kelly, III

COLLISION COURSE—Two players collide as they fight for the ball in Wednesday's game.

'Toughest Opponents'

Booters to Battle Conference Champs

UMass varsity soccer team faces its toughest opponents of the season Saturday when the Redmen host Vermont at 10:30 a.m. on the Varsity Field adjacent to Boyden Building.

The Redmen are 3-0 in Yankee Conference competition while Vermont is one-half game ahead with a 4-0 record. The Catamounts are the defending Conference champions and can clinch the title again this year by defeating UMass Saturday.

The series between the Yankee Conference rivals is four years old and has seen three close games. UMass won 4-2 in 1964 and then took a 2-1 overtime decision in 1965 to gain a tie for the Conference championship with the Catamounts. Last fall Vermont became champion by tipping the Redmen, 1-0, at Burlington.

Redmen senior Marty Smith was one of the heroes of the 1965 overtime win. Smith leads the Redmen with four goals this fall,

Vermont Soccer Players

PETE BALDWIN
Center forward

JIM WOOD
Outside Right

and they all came in two key league battles. Smith netted both Redmen goals in a 2-1 double overtime win at Connecticut and got two more to help beat Rhode Island, 3-1.

Following Saturday's game the Redmen, who are 3-3 overall, will play Coast Guard at home Nov. 10th and then wind up their Conference schedule against New Hampshire Nov. 18th at Durham.

UMass Squad

No.	Name	Post.
G	Thomas Malone	Goalie
G	Stephen Kramer	Goalie
1	Paul Bregoli	HB
2	John Ausikaitis	HB
3	Martin Smith	RI
4	William Stuart	HB
5	Gerald Ceilili	LW
6	Lawrence Donovan	FB
7	Sam Melnik	HB
8	Ralph Etna	FB
9	Richard Hale	CHB
10	Robert Moroney	I, HB
11	Robert Dubeil	LFB
12	David Jekanoski	RFB
14	Martin Mughogho	CF
15	Richard Rosoff	IL
16	Warren White	HB
17	William Allan	LHB
18	Gary Gibbons	RW
19	Paul Johnson	HB
20	Tom Kakley	I
21	Martin Pikul	LW
22	Thomas Ward	I
23	Philip Bozenhard	RHB
24	Frank Howard	LFB
25	Peter Harvey	HB
26	Bruce Allen	I, W
27	Peter Makhambera	LW
28	David Zucker	G
29	Bruce Beauvais	FB
30	Vincent Saka	RW
31	Elliott Klein	G, LFB

Dial the MDC's

Hot Sportline

5-0344

STUDENT UNION GOVERNING

BOARD ELECTIONS

Tuesday, Nov. 7—Student Union

Classes 1970, '69, '68

Ann August

Zip - Out Pile - Lined

Cotton Suede

SUBURBAN COAT !

. . . for suburban, town or country
Smart style features include:

SIMULATED LEATHER COLLAR and BACK BELT • DOUBLE BREASTED CLOSURE • ZIP-OUT PILE LINING

30 inch length, sizes 8-16 $30.

Ann August

(Uptown)

WILL THE OFFENSE SWING?

Tie for Yankee Conference Title Is At Stake

Catamount Captain
DAN MARTIN

By Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
Sports
FRIDAY, NOV. 3, 1967
Page 8 Vol. XCVII, No. 40

Like the jukebox in the Hatch, the Vermont offense seems to be out of order. And the big question on campus is — Will either swing back into action this weekend ?

UMass can clinch a tie for the Yankee Conference football title, Saturday when the Redmen host Vermont at Alumni Stadium at 1:30 p.m.

The Redmen stand 3-0 in Conference play and 4-1 overall. Vermont has slipped to a 1-2-1 Conference record and needs a win to remain in contention. The Catamounts are 2-3-1 over all. Connecticut and New Hampshire, which meet Saturday, are tied for second with 2-1 records and Rhode Island is still in contention with a 1-1-1 record.

UMass will take a streak of 12 straight Conference wins and 22 of 23 into Saturday's game. They will face a Vermont team with an up and down season record. Vermont has been beaten by American International, Connecticut and New Hampshire, tied Rhode Island, 0-0, and defeated Maine and Norwich.

The Catamounts offense revolves around halfback Bob Mitchell, who ranks as one of the East's best offensive performers. Mitchell, a senior pro prospect, has carried 171 times for 625 yards and six touchdowns. He holds the All-Time New England record for most carries, 471.

Vermont's other offensive weapons are end Jeff Kuhman, who has caught 25 passes for 215 yards and three TD's, and Keith Keiderling, who has 22 receptions for 288 yards and two TD's. Kuhman already holds the Vermont records for most career receptions, 63, and most yards, 779, and has tied the touchdown reception record with 7. He is just seven short of the season reception record of 32.

The Catamounts have been guided by quarterbacks Paul Simpson and Jack Stroker. Simpson has completed 35 of 70 for 336 yards and Stroker has hit 23 of 40 for 192 yards. Stroker started against Norwich last week and is expected to start again Saturday.

The Redmen came up with their first shutout since 1965 with their 24-0 win over Boston U. QB Greg Landry became New England's first collegiate player to exceed 4,000 yards total offense as he passed for 172 yards and ran for 27 more to bring his career mark to 4,101 yards.

Landry twice hit soph wingback Jerry Grasso with TD passes of 11 and 37 yards while using split end Nick Warnock as his receiver on five completions. Another key Redman Saturday was soph tailback Craig Lovell, who returned to the lineup after missing three games with a foot injury. Lovell led the Redmen ground attack with 73 yards rushing.

SENIOR JEFF KUHMAN — Tight End for Vermont

Probable Starting Lineups

MASSACHUSETTS				Offense	VERMONT
83 *Warnock	Jr	6'2	193	SE	87 *Keiderling	Sr	6'2	190
71 Cooney	So	6'	226	LT	79 Gargano	So	6'	220
63 *Glogowski	Sr	5'10	185	LG	63 *Martin	Sr	5'10	220
51 Schablik	Jr	6'1	205	C	54 *Capman	Jr	6'	220
60 *Santucci	Sr	6'	205	RG	68 *Crudo	Jr	5'10	220
74 *Mitchell	Sr	6'1	219	RT	73 *Sullivan		6'	230
82 *Carty	Sr	6'4	228	TE	84 *Kuhman	Sr	6'3	220
11 *Landry	Sr	6'3	200	QB	14 *Stroker	Jr	6'1	187
22 Grasso	Sr	6'	180	WB	30 *Clifford	Jr	5'10	192
42 *Driscoll	Jr	6'	186	TB	31 *Mitchell	Sr	5'11	210
30 *Cochrane	Jr	6'	202	FB	33 *Culhane	Sr	5'11	200
				Defense
84 York	So	6'1	202	LE	21 Canning	So	6'3	205
72 Scheralis	So	6'4	230	LT	75 *Vukovich	Jr	6'2	212
53 *Gombar	Sr	6'	198	MG	51 *Carruthers	Sr	6'1	200
66 *Stevens	Sr	6'	210	RT	62 O'Reilly	So	5'11	215
89 *Milnar	Sr	6'	233	RE	69 Wojciech'ski	So	6'1	200
34 *Campbell	Sr	5'10	180	LB	64 *Wolff	Sr	6'1	211
64 Gray	So	6'1	181	LB	52 *Hurd	Sr	6'2	210
65 *Smith	Sr	5'10	190	LB	20 *Malone	Sr	6'1	190
24 Frye	Jr	5'9	185	CB	41 Shookus	Sd	6'	190
25 *McArdle	Jr	6'	185	CB	11 *Shumate	Sr	6'	165
40 Rogers	So	6'2	192	S	16 Mazanec	So	5'10	165

*Lettermen

UMass Grid Opponents Face Action

Coach Joe Yukica's upstart New Hampshire team takes on Connecticut at Storrs tomorrow in the second most important game of the weekend as far as the Redmen are concerned.

If UMass beats Vermont, either New Hampshire or UConn, both 2-1 in the Yankee Conference will be eliminated from the race, and a UMass victory coupled with a UNH-UConn tie would give the Redmen their fourth title in the last five years.

• • •

Having played its best and worst games of the year on the last two weekends, Rutgers, next week's opponent, tries to even its record tomorrow when it visits Lafayette. Two weeks ago, the Scarlet Knights, although losing 14-3, played a sound game against Army, but last week Rutgers fell to the depths against lowly, Columbia and lost, 24-13.

Rutgers coach John Bateman said, "What scares me about Lafayette is that they can go for broke and have a lot of sophomores who will feel that there is everything to gain and nothing to lose in our game.

• • •

Unbeaten Dartmouth, which has dominated Ivy League football since 1965, meets resurgent, Yale in a match at the Yale Bowl that will probably decide the Ivy League.

Both are 3-0 in league play. Yale has been taking giant steps of improvement from a team which dropped its big games in recent years. Dartmouth arrived early in what Coach Bob Blackman had called a "rebuilding year."

• • •

Boston College takes to the road for only the second time this season to meet the University of Cincinnati. The Eagles stand 2-3 at the halfway mark. after crushing Maine, 56-0, last week. Cincinnati is 1-5.

• • •

Rhode Island, still in high gear despite its loss to the Redmen two weeks ago, gets a crack at Boston University at an opportune time. Five straight losses seem to have broken the Terrier's spirit.

• • •

Still winless Maine plays host to Northeastern, which will probably be merciless after last Saturday's stunning upset loss to New Hampshire.

Redmen on the Warpath

FOOTBALL — vs. Vermont (home, tomorrow, 1:30 p.m.)
FOOTBALL (Fr)—vs. Boston College (home, today, 2 p.m.)
SOCCER—vs. Vermont (home, tomorrow, 10:30 a.m.)
SOCCER (Fr)—vs. Franklin Pierce (home, tomorrow, 10:30 a.m.)
CROSS-COUNTRY — Yankee Conference meet (at Orono, Me., tomorrow, 1 p.m.)

Daily Collegian Photo by John Kelly

For more details on the UMass-Amherst soccer game, see page 7.

Intramurals

PMD Takes Title, 39-14

It looks like the Aces need a new fortune teller. It just wasn't in the cards for them last night. PMD held the trump as they defeated the Aces, 39-14 for the intramural football championship.

Hatherly scored 14 points for PMD and Meyer came up with 14 points for the Aces. Thomas of the Aces received six passes.

Wayne Higney of the Aces was voted as the best passer for the league. Ray Rigney of PMD received second honors.

The Fourth Annual All Star Football game between the Dorms and Fraternities is slated for Wednesday, Nov. 8 at 7 p.m. on the Intramural Field.

Rosters for the intramural basketball competition are to be turned in by Nov. 6. Play is scheduled to begin on Nov. 13. Although the courts are available for practice starting Monday, reservations must be made at the intramurals office.

This year trophies will be awarded to the campus, fraternity, dorm and independent champions. Awards will also be given to the campus high scorer and rebounder. All star teams will be picked immediately after the season closes. Awards will be given to the members of this team.

Sports

Hotline

545-0344

METAWAMPE'S GRID PICKS

Mitch, the Rider, is back in town and at least he's quiet when he moves. But that devil with a red skin, Metawampee, is undaunted by Rapid Robert's laurels. And the fortress of solitude is as mighty as ever, having recorded a 45-14-1 showing in last week's pigskin prognostications.

UMASS 24, VERMONT 7 — Though Cats hope Mitchell saves the day, They can't use him on every play.

DARTMOUTH 27, YALE 14 —Calvin Hill's a Bulldog mean, But Eli Blues have no Green Gene.

VIRGINIA 20, NORTH CAROLINA STATE 19 — (This pack of Wolves, has it no peers? Behold eleven Cavaliers!

MIAMI 21, VIRGINIA TECH 13—Unbeaten Tech, it prays for rain, But Heavens, not a Hurricane!

COLORADO 21, OKLAHOMA 12 — OSU made Buff's hopes wetter, But Sooner still is not the better.

HOUSTON 24, GEORGIA 16 —McVea is back and Houston's home, As Cougars romp in Astrodome.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA 26, CALIFORNIA 6—On western front, all is not quiet No Orange Juice in Bears' football diet, But Trojans cause his Berkeley riot.

UCLA 20, OREGON STATE 14—Leave it to Beavers to make it close, But leave it to Bebar to take the win.

WYOMING 35, SAN JOSE STATE 14—Cowboys like their home on the range, Spartans find things won't change.

PURDUE 24, ILLINOIS 7 — Illini find a defense strange. It dims the memory of Grange.

Rhode Island 21, Boston U. 14
New Hampshire 18, Connecticut 7
Northeastern 22, Maine 6
Cornell 37, Columbia 26
Buffalo 35, Delaware 6
Rutgers 14, Lafayette 6
Colgate 10, Lehigh 7
Harvard 20, Penn 11
Syracuse 14, Pittsburgh 3
Princeton 21, Brown 7
Bucknell 40, Temple 33
Alabama 17, Mississipp St. 3
Auburn 34, Florida 14
William & Mary 17, The Citadel 16
East Carolina 24, Furman 6
Georgia Tech 12, Duke 0
Kentucky 14, West Virginia 10
Penn State 29, Maryland 7
South Carolina 17, Wake Forest 6
Florida State 31, Memphis St. 7
Mississippi 13, LSU 6
Clemson 14, North Carolina 0
So. Mississippi 20, Richmond 3
Tennessee 42, Tampa 7
Tulane 11, Vanderbilt 10
VMI 34, Akron 12
Boston College 26, Cincinnati 14
Indiana 31, Wisconsin 8
Minnesota 35, Iowa 13
Kansas 12, Kansas State 6
Louisville 23, Kent State 15
Bowling Green 27, Marshall 13
Miami (O.) 14, Toledo 13
Michigan State 20, Ohio State 7
Michigan 25, Northwestern 20
Nebraska 31, Iowa State 8
West Texas 35, No. Illinois 30
Notre Dame 32, Navy 7
Ohio U. 14, Western Mich. 6
Missouri 16, Oklahoma St. 6
Tulsa 46, Wichita State 20
Dayton 17, Xavier 14
Texas A&M 14, Arkansas 6
Baylor 6, TCU 3
Texas 21, SMU 9
Texas Tech 17, Rice 6
Army 14, Air Force 7
Arizona 35, New Mexico 21
Colorado St. 36, Pacific 14
Brigham Young 31, Utah State 28
Arizona State 23, Utah 21
El Paso 36, New Mexico St. 9
Washington State 15, Oregon 7
Washington 20, Stanford 6

Forecast: Clear and Cold

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

New England's Largest College Daily

VOL. XCVI, NO. 41 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | MONDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1967

Vietnam Ballot Starts Today

By PATRICK FLAHERTY
Editorial Staff

This Monday and Tuesday students will have the opportunity to express themselves on the question of "What should be done about Vietnam?" Ballots will be available to undergraduates in the Student Union where Daily Collegian staff members will supervise the voting at a table in the hallway.

There will be four policy positions from which to choose. At the bottom of the ballot there will be an open end question where the voter may describe a different policy of his own in five or less words as his choice if the other policies are not agreeable to his views.

The four positions are the following:

1. All-out escalation—advocates of this policy demand that bombing targets in North Vietnam be expanded. The mining of Haiphong harbor where the North receives most of its military aid is also favored. Another aspect of this "hawkish" program would be a limited or complete invasion of North Vietnam. These people basicly seek a military victory.
2. Continuing the present policy — supporters of President Johnson want to keep this a limited war. They hope by steady military pressure to bring Hanoi to the conference table. The bombing of the North should be maintained without endangering a war with China.
3. Deescalation (stop the bombing and negotiate) —"Doves" of this nature hope that by stopping the bombing of the North to make Hanoi more receptive to peace talks. The ground war in the South should also be deescalated according to other critics of the President. A faction of this body favors recognizing and negotiating also with the National Liberation Front of the South. They maintain that only a political solution can end the war, thus all the parties should negotiate the peace.
4. Immediate U.S. withdrawal—supporters of this policy want the U. S. to extricate itself from Vietnam. All American troops should be withdrawn to allow the Vietnamese to settle their own affairs.

Daily Collegian Photo by John Griffin

VIETNAM BALLOT — The Vietnam Ballot casting for undergraduates will be held on November 6 and 7 in the lobby of the Student Union from 9 to 4:30. Collegian staffers will be there to supervise the balloting. This is your chance to register an opinion on the alternatives in the war.

Boston Globe Breaks Tradition, Endorses White

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Globe broke its 71-year-old tradition in Monday's editions by endorsing Kevin H. White for mayor of Boston.

The Globe never before has endorsed a candidate for public office.

The lead editorial said that "principle rather than politics dictates its decision."

The Globe said the principle involved in this year's city election is that all citizens be given an equal hearing and then equal treatment.

"To be silent on this paramount issue of equal treatment for all would be to forsake the purpose of The Globe's founder, Gen. Charles H. Taylor, to support equal opportunity for all regardless of religion, or political affiliation or race."

The other candidate for mayor is Louise Day Hicks.

ATTENTION

GRADUATE STUDENTS

You are urged to attend an open meeting of the GRADUATE STUDENT SENATE tonight at 8:30 p.m. in the Commonwealth Room at the Student Union.

Aggenda: CODE OF CONDUCT

Graduate Senate to Consider Proposed Code of Conduct

Coming up Monday night for consideration in the Graduate Senate is the proposed code of conduct for graduate students, which has produced mixed reactions on the part of grad students.

By DON LeBLANC
Staff Reporter

Geoffrey Moran, Vice-President of the Graduate Senate, feels that the graduate students have not been properly informed of the implications and provisions of the draft, submitted by the office of Dean of the Graduate School Edward C. Moore.

Moran feels that the code was "drawn up for preventative measures against future trouble in the form of grad students' involvement in anti-Administration demonstrations." He further states that the draft was "designed to throw a net around the campus."

Moran feels there are many faults in the draft, modeled after the undergraduate students code of conduct, and that it is not representative of the grad students' views, since it was submitted by the office of Dean Moore.

Graduate Senate President Richard Trowbridge says that the reason for a code is to protect the grad students' rights to due process. He cited examples of such codes at the University of Kentucky and Cornell. He also stated his belief that most students are "over-emotional and don't fully understand the code."

He feels that the code is now vague and needs revision, but the more important question is whether or not grad students want a code of conduct. Consideration will be made at the meeting of this code as an example of a code. Should the Senate be interested, a committee would be set up to further investigate the possibilities of a code. This, he said, was the question rather than the passage of this particular draft of the code.

EVERYBODY FOLLOW MIKE—Mike McArdle, 25, heads down field in the game Saturday against Vermont. The Redmen entertained 8,000 fans and several hundred legislators as they defeated the Catamounts 21-0 and tied for the Yankee Conference lead. For the complete details, see page 8.

Photographs Gone from Exhibit

Four photographs were reported stolen from the Charles Currier Exhibit, on display at the Student Union. This exhibit, circulated by the Smithsonian Institute Traveling Exhibition Service, was sponsored by the Student Union Art Committee.

The theft took place Friday within 10 hours of the opening of the exhibit. Three of the photographs were stolen between 3 and 8 p.m., while the fourth was reported missing about midnight at the close of the dance.

These photographs are federal property, the negatives belonging to the Library of Congress.

Further details on the theft were not available at press time.

College Students Urged To Participate in Politics

By PAT PETOW
Editorial Chairman

Boston. A sign outside the ballroom listed the preferences among the two parties of college students for the past year and this year. In 1966, the Republicans claimed the allegiance of 26%, the Democrats 35% and the independents, 39%. This year, the major parties tied at 29% while 42% of the college students considered themselves independents according to the Gallop survey.

Trying to attract a larger percentage of this college and under-25 voters and especially to sell the idea of a Republican political career, the Republican National Committee and the state organization offered an "Opportunities Unlimited" conference at Boston University this weekend.

(Continued on page 2)

Israeli, Jordanian Forces Clash Across the Jordan River Sunday

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—Israeli and Jordanian forces exchanged artillery and tank gun fire across the River Jordan before dawn Sunday. Israeli said 10 shells hit a kibbutz—communal farm—and Jordan charged the Israeli guns aimed at civilian homes.

It was the third border clash in three weeks along the Israeli-Jordanian cease-fire line.

In Amman, a Jordanian spokesman said the Israelis started the two-hour duel by opening fire on homes in the Ghor area in northern Jordan, destroying four houses and wounding a soldier.

Readers spend more than $2 billion annually to buy and read daily newspapers and another $85 million for weekly newspaper.

'Opportunities Unlimited' Offered by GOP

(Continued from page 1)

The invitations were sent to a number of Massachusetts students on the basis of "scholastic achievement or assumption of responsibility in extra-curricular activities." According to officials, about 175 students attended.

Among the speakers were Gov. Volpe, Lt. Gov. Francis W. Sargent, Att. Gen. Eliot Richardson, the Massachusetts Republican Party chairman Josiah Spaulding, State Rep. John Sears, former State Senator and Minority Leader Philip Graham, U.S. Senator James B. Pearson of Kansas, and U.S. Rep. William V. Roth, Jr. of Delaware.

Other state leaders in communications, government and politics, and business, the professions, and social services participated in workshop-seminars.

Welcoming the students, the master of ceremonies and conference coordinator, Charles H. Perenick set the tone for the formal addresses by saying, "activism among young people today is a frustration."

Continuing the state chairman declared that the party is now determined to be positive. "We want you and we need you," he told the largely pre-convinced audience. Spaulding urged the students to run for their ward, town, or state party committee in the April Presidential Primary.

The party spokesman called attention to the off-year platform meeting scheduled for November 17 and 18 in Worcester which is open to the public.

Rep. Roth gave a case study of his 1966 campaign in which he defeated Congressman Harris B. McDowell who had served for ten years as the Delaware at-large member. Among his more effective devices, Roth told the college students, were his St. Bernard dog, a concentration on shopping centers, and attacking his opponent's absentee record.

With a manner of chosen words and phrases strikingly like the late President Kennedy, but with a midwest accent, Senator Pearson described six main areas of concern for the nation.

They are Vietnam, the problems of the cities, the national economy and tax question, crime, how to reform and revitalize the electoral process, and seeing that products consumed are safe and honestly presented.

Pearson, a member of the Senate committee concerned with the consumer, offered the opinion that the question of consumer protection might have been the main domestic issue of Congress this year if not for the urban riots.

Pearson involved in drawing up campaign expense and code of ethics legislation called the cost of running for office "one of the unhealthy conditions of the body-politics today." He also expressed great concern over the forthcoming $29 million national deficit.

Asked about the Vietnam question by the Daily Collegian, the Republican Senator said he was in agreement with the goals of the Johnson Administration but disagreed over methods of implementing them. He emphasized the limited role Congress has in suggesting specific proposals for peace.

Willing to see the government try bombing pauses again, Pearson pointed out that each time the air attack is halted "the military tell us tremendous amounts of supplies come down."

In the seminar on communications, a third of the conference met with State Senator and Minority Leader John F. Parker (Taunton), Robert F. Healy, the political editor of the Boston Globe, Andrew Macmillan, a news reporter of WHDH-TV in Boston, and Miss Freddie Seymour, of WBET-Radio in Brockton.

Parker, who wrote for the Taunton Daily Gazette before starting his political career, moderated the discussion which touched upon the President's creditability gap, the numbers of participants at the Washington demonstration, the effectiveness of political advertising in each media, and the pay to be expected in each media.

Macmillan of Channel 5 emphasized the dissimilarities between the printed media and television joining with the other professional representatives to describe an apprenticeship good-for-his-media-only

All three reporters agreed on the great responsibility demanded in communications since "a frightfully large number of people" take at face value what they hear and read.

Healy, who covered three national administrations, committed himself to charging the President with a creditability gap and drew a distinction between standards used in the public and private sectors of life.

The "Opportunities Uulimited" program was a repeat of the conference held at the University of Wisconsin last December as a part of the 11 point program of National Committee Chairman Ray Bliss.

The Daily Collegian has added one new telephone number and changed another.

The new number, 545-0344, has been assigned to the Sports staff, while business and advertising has been changed from 549-0716 to 545-0311.

The News Desk, or "Hot Line," remains 545-2550 as does the Editor's number, 549-1311.

S.E.N.D.O.F.F.

WEEKEND

Is Coming

A LITTLE BIT MORE CLASS 1970

Friendly

454 RUSSELL ROAD
HADLEY

SUNDAES

Sundaes are made with 3 scoops of ice cream and with whipped topping. Marshmallow may be substituted at your request. Special request for nuts 10c extra.

Hot Fudge find out why this is our most popular sundae .45

SWISS CHOCOLATE ALMOND .45

BANANA IMPERIAL, 4 scoops of Ice Cream, a whole Banana and heaps of Topping .70

HOT FUDGE ROYAL BANANA ROYAL STRAWBERRY ROYAL
Vanilla, Chocolate, and Strawberry Ice Cream, a Half Banana, generous portions of Topping, Whipped Topping, Chocolate Sprinkles, and Nuts .55

HOT BUTTERSCOTCH .40
STRAWBERRY .40
MAPLE NUT .40
PINEAPPLE .40
CHOCOLATE NUT .40
MARSHMALLOW and CHOCOLATE SPRINKLES .40

ICE CREAM

ICE CREAM SAMPLER, 4 flavors of your choice .40
DISH OF ICE CREAM .25

BEVERAGES

THE Fribble — A THICK MILK DRINK FABULOUS AND FROSTY! 40*

MILK SHAKE — with two scoops of ice cream, Chocolate, Vanilla, Coffee, or Strawberry 35*
MALTED MILK SHAKE 40*
ICE CREAM SODA 35*
SHERBET COOLER, the coolest drink ever 30*
COFFEE, TEA, SANKA .15
ICED COFFEE OR TEA (in season) .15
HOT CHOCOLATE with cookies 15
Friendly COLA The Only Cola Served in this Shop 15*
ROOT BEER, ORANGE 15*
MILK .15
CHOCOLATE MILK .20

5% Tax added to Meals of $1.00 or More (Massachusetts)
*Subject to Sales Tax Where Applicable

SANDWICHES

No charge for toasting. Please specify. Hamburgs are normally cooked medium unless otherwise specified.

BIG BEEF — over 1/4 pound of chopped beef, served on buttered toast .55
BIG BEEF CHEESEBURG, with melted cheese .65
BIG BEEF CHEESEBURG SPECIAL—for hearty appetites, our BIG BEEF combined with melted cheese, lettuce, tomato, and salad dressing in a very special way .70

HAMBURG, all beef, ground in our plant .35
With lettuce, tomato, and salad dressing .45
CHEESEBURG, really unique, made the Friendly way .45
With lettuce, tomato, and salad dressing .50
HAM .50
GRILLED HAM AND CHEESE .60
SIZZLED HAM .50
with Pineapple .55
SHRIMP SALAD (not always available) .90
TUNA FISH SALAD .40
EGG and OLIVE SALAD .35
GRILLED CHEESE .35
STEAK (on buttered toast) .55
LETTUCE AND TOMATO .30
BUTTERED TOAST with Jelly .15
ENGLISH MUFFINS with Jelly .15
Lettuce, Tomato and Salad Dressing Served On Any Sandwich 10c Extra

FRENCH FRIES .25

FRIENDLY's is now offering
FREE DELIVERY
All you have to do is call
256-8001 between 7:00-8:00

TOM GIOSEFFI
BSMetE, U. of California, joined Bethlehem's 1965 Loop Course. The former Golden Glove middleweight champ was assigned to our brand-new $20-million galvanizing line at Pinole Point, Cal., where he's now assistant metallurgical supervisor. Among Tom's many responsibilities: representing Bethlehem in technical dealings with customers.

MANAGEMENT MINDED?
Career prospects are better than ever at Bethlehem Steel. We need on-the-ball engineering, technical, and liberal arts graduates for the 1968 Loop Course. Pick up a copy of our booklet at your placement office.

An Equal Opportunity Employer in the Plans for Progress Program

BETHLEHEM STEEL

ARTHUR FIEDLER—Arthur Fiedler, famed conductor of the Boston Pops, delighted audiences Thursday night as he conducted the Japanese Nippon Yomiuri orchestra in their current tour of the United States.

Fiedler Conducts Nippon Orchestra; Receives Three Standing Ovations

The orchestra came out on stage and quickly tuned their instruments and waited. There was absolute silence.

And then, as a white-haired man moved through the stands, the audience applauded loudly in recognition. With a wave of the baton, Boston Pops Conductor Arthur Fiedler transformed the nets, plank floors, and barrenness of the Curry Hicks Cage into a grand theatre last Thursday night. He was directing the Nippon Yomiuri Symphony Orchestra.

The program opened with the American and Japanese national anthems followed by Rossini's Semiramide Overture. Then, soloist Hiro Imamura, played Chopin's Piano Concerto No. 2 in F Minor. Miss Imaura, an American, is 22, a graduate of Berkeley and a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

Following the intermission, the orchestra continued with Prokakieff's Classical Symphony, Bernstein's West Side Story Excerpts, and Offenbach's Suite from Gaite Parisienne.

Fiedler and the orchestra received three standing ovations. They played five encores including Japanese Poem by Ikuma Dan, written for Expo '67. The program closed with Fiedler's traditional Stars and Stripes Forever. Even after the encores, Fiedler was called back to the stage.

Finally, he left leaving the members of the Japanese Orchestra to point in amazement at the ornate net arrangement of the ceiling.

Hillel Supper

Hillel sponsored a "Deli Supper" last night in the Commonwealth Room. All who attended enjoyed a satisfying supper of sandwiches, potato salad, and cold drinks. After supper, a version of TV's the Match Game was played in which many, including Rabbi Kowal, participated. All who attended had a very enjoyable evening.

More than 3 million elementary school children are studying about, or with, the newspaper during the 1966-67 school year.

Army Coup Ousts Yemen Government

SAN'A, Yemen (AP) — Without firing a shot, the army took over the republican government of Abdullah al-Sallal Sunday while he was on his way to Moscow. The post-midnight coup appeared to clear the way for settlement of Yemen's five-year-old civil war.

A communique of the new regime said it will seek "sounder bonds" with all Arab states, headed by Egypt. This indicated the new rulers wanted to be less dependent on the Egyptians and friends on an equal basis with all Arab nations, including neighboring Saudi Arabia.

Yemen is a tiny desert nation on the southwestern tip of the Arabian Peninsula.

Sallas was last reported in Baghdad, Iraq, a stopover on his way to Moscow to attend the 50th anniversary celebrations of Russia's Bolshevik Revolution.

Egypt's Middle East News agency reported that Sallal heard the news of the coup in a government house in Baghdad but decided to continue on to Moscow.

The coup was announced Sunday morning by Col. Ahmed al Rohoumi, who was acting interior minister in the Sallal regime.

"Not a single bullet was shot," he said. "The army takeover of power has been a bloodless undertaking and we count on the people's alertness to avert any confusion or sabotage."

Rohoumi said all foreigners in San'a were safe and that measures were taken to assure their future safety.

In a communique issued six hours later, the new government said its supreme objective is to "correct the situation" in Yemen.

"The army takeover aims at establishing sounder bonds with sister Arab states, with the U.A.R.-Egypt—at their head. The Yemeni army and people can never deny or forget the invaluable sacrifices the U.A.R. has rendered to the Yemeni republic and its revolution."

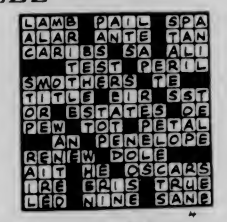
Alpha Lambda Delta Society Holds Conference

A series of speakers on opportunities for service on campus and in nearby communities is planned at 8 tomorrow night in the Middlesex Room of the Student Union.

Speakers will include a representative of the Belchertown State Schol; Malcolm O'Sullivan, student coordinator for the Northampton State Hospital Volunteers and Rev. Frank Dorman of the North Congregational Church in North Amherst, who is working on a Springfield housing project for migrant workers.

The meeting, sponsored by the University of Massachusetts chapter of Alpha Lambda Delta, national honor society for freshman women, is open to the public.

Spanish Lecture Given Tonight



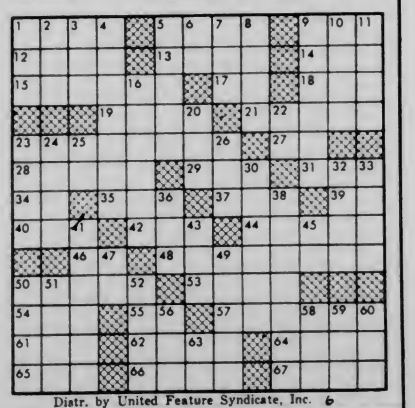
"Ortega y Gasset and Heidegger" will be the title of Dr. Ciriaco M. Arroyo's lecture tonight. Presented by the Portuguese and Spanish section of the Department of Romance Languages, it will be given in English in S.B.A. 120 at 8:00 p.m. A coffee hour will follow.

Dr. Arroyo is from the University of Pennsylvania. Paperback books pertaining to his lecture are on sale in the University Store.

If you haven't voted today you still have a chance tomorrow in the Daily Collegian Vietnam Poll.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle



ACROSS

1-Pertaining to the laity
5-Highway
9-Cry
12-Aroma
13-Girl's name
14-Cravat
15-Faux pas (colloq.)
17-Note of scale
18-Ancient
19-River islands
21-Remains
23-Dislike
27-Pronoun
28-Recess in a shore
29-Still
31-Seed
34-Latin conjunction
35-Period of time
37-100,000 rupees
39-Symbol for nickel
40-Drunkard
42-Stitch
44-Claw
46-Preposition
48-Colonizing
50-Doomed
53-Boring
54-Skill
55-Preposition
57-Rules
61-Pigeon pea
62-Spare
64-Gaseous element
65-Before
66-Permits
67-Bloody

DOWN

1-Tennis stroke
2-Fuss
3-Electrified particle
4-Originated
5-Remains at ease
6-Hypothetical force
7-Emmet
8-Platform
9-European ermines
10-Unctuous
11-Articles of furniture
16-Lassos
20-Pigpen
22-Note of scale
23-Expires
24-Preposition
25-Solicitor at law (abbr.)
26-Lamprey
30-Gossip
32-River in Siberia
33-Part of airplane
36-Affirmative
38-Hailing
41-Minute part
43-Marry
45-Chinese mile
47-Compass point
49-Twists
50-Diminish
51-Sandarac tree
52-Plaything
56-Toll
58-Man's name (abbr.)
59-Conjunction
60-Vessel's curved planking
63-Near

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 6

and now... JADE 玉 東 EAST®
CORAL
A NEW AFTER SHAVE & COLOGNE

AFTER SHAVE from $2.50
COLOGNE from $3.00
SWANK Inc.—Sole Distributor

NOW
ENDS TUESDAY
On Screen
6:30 and 8:55
AMHERST Cinema

Warren Beatty
Faye Dunaway
as
"Bonnie and Clyde"
"ONE OF YEAR'S 10 BEST!"

Wed. — James Coburn
"WATERHOLE #3 - color

Nominations For
Winter Carnival Queens
AVAILABLE IN R.S.O. NOW
DUE NOVEMBER 11

STUDENT UNION GOVERNING
BOARD ELECTIONS
Tuesday, Nov. 7—Student Union
Classes 1970, '69, '68

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Provincial Government

Boston's actions are largely held to be the reflection of attitudes in Massachusetts, just as Birmingham's were held to be the reflection of public opinion in Alabama. Tomorrow Bostonians face the decision of electing their mayor.

In Louise Day Hicks, Bostonians are offered a candidate of the fearful, the bigoted, the provincial, and the anti-intellectual. Mrs. Hicks' opposition to bussing and to the elimination of de facto segregation is a key issue in the campaign. If she is elected, Boston is doomed to rot in a provincial old-fashioned government, and it may well suffer horribly, from justified race riots.

Another key issue of the campaign is the problem of urban renewal. As government centers, office buildings, and modernized apartments have come to Boston, citizens have gone.

The white citizens of Boston must accept the fact that the Negro is a man, an equal, a friend. The Negro who moves into a white neighborhood must realize that he will be unwelcome at first, but he must maintain his dignity. He must not bring the ghetto with him.

The people of Boston may have a wonderful city; they can either use it as a benefit and a boon to themselves and their children or they can cringe in fear of life.

Mrs. Hicks proclaiming "Boston for Bostonians," has proposed a head tax on non-Bostonians coming to the city to use its facilities. Mrs. Hicks' supporters don't seem to realize that Negroes are Bostonians, that grave problems face American cities, that a social revolution is in progress in our country.

Kevin White has made no wild, untrue promises of federal funds to pay policemen as Mrs. Hicks has, nor has he made rash statements about solutions to Boston's problems.

Kevin White is a progressive, perceptive, and intelligent man. He is open to influence from intelligent men who understand Boston's problems.

Kevin White can lead a Boston where opportunities, houses and education are open to all.

Prof. Pettigrew of Harvard said in Newsweek: "If Mrs. Hicks wins, then I just wonder how a white man in this country could ever look a Negro in the eye and say: 'Why don't you make it the way we (Poles, Irish, Italians, Jews) did, through political system, rather than running us down.'"

The citizens of Boston have a trust in their hands tomorrow. They can vote for Kevin White or they can sell idealism down the Charles River.

— THE EDITORS

The Code

Since the proposed Graduate Student Code of Conduct came to public light, a number of comparisons of it and the Undergraduate Code of Conduct have been drawn.

Let me make it clear that the Graduate Code is not yet ready for approval or implementation. Nor has the suggestion to implement the Code now been made by Dean Moore.

But to start from the assumption that any proposed code would be a bad code is absurd. The good thing about codes is that they put down on paper the rights of the parties involved.

The other assumption which has been made lately that the Undergraduate Code (on which the Graduate Code is based) is as bad a code as the graduate code is just not true.

The Undergraduate Code was adopted by the representative student government.

The Undergraduate Code, moreover, is backed by a system of student judiciaries and appellate student judiciaries.

Before being accepted by the administration, it is expected that the Graduate Code will be "adopted by appropriate student . . . groups".

The Code should be amended forthwith to establish a judiciary of at least three separate levels: original jurisdiction, appellate jurisdiction, and review jurisdiction. Each of these judiciaries should be primarily composed of graduate students.

An amendment should be made of the provision reading, "Except when the welfare of the University community so requires, a student's academic status will remain unchanged until the completion of the appeals process." This section is extremely nebulous and should be amended to agree with the similar section in the Undergraduate Code.

An amendment should make it clear that every case of disciplinary action involving a penalty of suspension or dismissal shall be heard by the Review Judiciary (proposed above) before becoming effective; this shall be so even when the Dean shall have (temporarily) suspended a student upon reasonable presumption that continuance of this student would constitute an immediate threat to the safety, peace or well-being of the university community (by well-being, we do not mean reputation).

An amendment is needed to strike the "non-double jeopardy" clause. The University should not take cognizance of an offense for which the student has been tried in a court of law unless in committing the offense the student has also violated a separate University regulation.

Since suspension is an "in-University" penalty, it should never be included on a student's permanent records.

With a graduate student judiciary provided for as described above, the writer does not object to the provisions relating, respectively, to mass disturbances and lewd, indecent behavior. But without such a judiciary, these areas of major offenses are far too broad to be respected.

There is no need for the Code to apply to off-campus behavior except in those cases when a student may be officially representing the University.

A careful consideration of the Code has properly been indicated. The question is left to the graduate students.

—Pat Petow
Editorial Chairman

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union . . . University of Massachusetts . . . Amherst, Mass.

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Chester S. Weinerman '68
MANAGING EDITOR ..... John H. Dean, Jr. '69
BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Charles Smith '69

News Day Editor: Don Epstein, Editorial Day Editor: Nancy Bourgoin, Sports Day Editor: Jan Curley

News Editors ..... Ron LaBrecque '70, Richard Kline '70
Editorial Chairman ..... Pat Petow '68
Sports Editor ..... Tom FitzGerald '69
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Glenn Briere '69
Advertising Managers ..... Dot Silvia '69, Sharon Kramer '69
Photo Editor ..... Paul Boliver '68

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Published at the Massachusetts Daily Collegian, Student Union, UMass., Amherst, Mass. 01002.

Member of the Associated Collegiate Press. Member of the Collegiate Press Service of the United States Student Press Association. Member of the Associated Press—The Associated Press is entitled exclusively to the use for reproduction of all the local news printed in this newspaper as well as all AP news dispatches.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed five times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; three or four times weekly the week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amended by the act of June 11, 1934.

Subscription price: $6.00 per year; $3.50 per semester.

Polis

On Dissent

By BOB BRILL
Editorial Day Editor

Dissent has taken on some questionable aspects in the past few years. Increasingly radical elements have apparently taken control of some of the organized protest movements and have led them to violence and in some cases, to anarchy. Cases in point are such violence as the attack on federal troops and police in Washington during the "Mobilization to End the War" last month and the heckling of numerous speakers on campuses across the nation.

Violence of this sort has a very detrimental effect on the accomplishment of the protestors' goals. First, it discredits any movement, to a large extent, in the eyes of the general public and tends to turn people more strongly against peace, civil rights, etc. What looks better in the public press is the report of a demonstration peacefully carried out where the marchers are set on by police and/or right-wing elements than a protest where the participants mass together and attack police who are attempting to keep order.

That favorable public opinion is necessary in bringing about any type of social change, is evidenced by the recent passage of civil rights legislation. Second, a violent demonstration blurs political distinctions and the protestors appear in the same light as the "patriots" when the latter are carrying out their own idea of freedom as by what happened in Northampton two weeks ago.

The heckling of speakers should be considered as nothing more than obnoxious. Regardless of the speakers' views—Establishment or otherwise—they have as much right to speak and be heard as members of the "New Left." It appears that the "Arrogance of Power" is being met by an "Arrogance of Dissent."

Dissent itself has lately become a much maligned subject. Many people conveniently forget that the founding of this country was based on questioning the status quo, protest, and, in fact, civil disobedience

There is no better test of the rightness of a doctrine than to open it to true discussion—where both sides are heard and allowed to express their views. In no other way can an oppressed minority have its case heard against a hostile system than to bring its plight into public view through demonstration such as evidenced by the civil rights movement of the mid-1960s.

This, in part, is the case for the dissent that the Establishment apparently wishes to ignore. They took a very "democratic" view of the subject at first. Initially, it looked good politically to allow dissent against government policy. Now it seems that our leaders have so tired of protest that they will attempt to legislate it out of existence. Their attitude seems to say that they are infallible and will no longer tolerate disagreement. They have sent various agents onto college campuses to "check" on the people who turned in their draft cards during Vietnam Week. The House Un-American Activities Committee has threatened to declare that anybody who manifests public dissent against government policy is a communist and is engaged in subversive activities. The spectre of Senator McCarthy is beginning to again rear its ugly head.

If college students are to be the leaders of tomorrow and the criteria for good leadership includes the ability to think clearly and make decisions rationally, based on all of the facts, what does the Establishment have in mind for America? It sounds like a 1984-type system where Big Brother watches everything and people react like so many automatons. To prevent such a horror from coming to pass, people, and especially the young people have to be brave enough to get up and call the government to task whenever social injustice is being wrought. Dissent within reasonable limits is necessary in maintaining freedom and social equality and if the right to question is stamped out—the fall of democracy will shortly follow.

Campus Comment

Procedural Rights

The Graduate Student Code of Conduct, drafted by the Graduate Deans and offered tonight to the Graduate Student Senate for consideration, is a very threatening document indeed. Dean Moore stated at a recent meeting of the Graduate Council that his office was instructed by the administration to initiate a code which would protect the university from the undesirable activities which have recently occurred at other universities. Although the nature of these activities remained unspecified, the category of offenses which the administration anticipates emerges clearly from an examination of the Code, and a knowledge of coincidental steps being taken by the administration.

It is clear that such misconduct as false alarms, illegal possession of firearms, dishonesty, financial delinquency, motor vehicle offenses, physical assault, pyromania and assorted tumultuous and unbecoming behavior so laboriously catalogued in this code, have been adequately dealt with by various formal sanctions at the peer group, residence hall, departmental, university or civil law levels.

Their inclusion as offenses in this proposed code thus fails to justify its existence, nor indeed, is this intended. Instead, an overriding ideological concern is the object of this code. No innocent product of Parkinson's Law, this code is but one of several thrusts by the University to anticipate and cripple individuals and groups participating in political or social protests, whether on or off the University. In this connection, we can regard this proposed code, along with Provost Tippo's Ad Hoc Committee of the Faculty Senate to define policy toward picketing and other forms of demonstration as the closing of a prophylactic barrier around this university. The very activities of criticism and dissent, which would mark this university's coming of age as an institution of higher learning, are regarded with fear and disgust by the administration.

Many articles of the code are amply vague in their wording to lend themselves to the most threatening extremes of interpretation. A demonstrator on or off campus, who fails to carry the specific prior consent of the university or a group thereof, might be liable to expulsion for misrepresenting the university. And again, by identifying oneself to a university official, the graduate student demonstrator might thereby contribute to the accumulation of a dossier which may be turned over to the FBI, CIA or HUAC. This has occurred at other institutions. Articles prohibiting the "harrassment" of any other person or "mass disturbances which present unpredictable hazards" are especially threatening.

I am confident that any sensitive reader of the code could cite additional obnoxious articles, as well as notice that the judicial bodies make a mockery of any true proceedural rights.

In this convulsive period of our nation's history, when intemperance and hysteria are mounting on all sides, I urge that this proposal be repudiated, so that the University community—if it be the only institution in our land—will shrink from defining the ingredients of "responsible citizenship" (Code Preface) by unconditionally continuing to support the free traffic of ideas, in the future and in the past.

Geoffrey Moran

The Daily Collegian Editorial Page welcomes comments from members of the faculty and administration on all subjects for a regular guest editorial feature. Material should be typed double-spaced at 60 spaces and signed by the writer.

FUJI MICRO SAFETY ▲ N

Campus Comment

To the Editor:

I quote below the full text of a letter written by me on October 27 to the President of the Graduate Student Senate concerning the development of a graduate student code of conduct. I believe that this letter will make clear that the account of the matter published in your "letters" column on November 3 results from a misunderstanding of the situation.

The basic issue is not, as your correspondents suggest, whether there shall be graduate student participation in the development of such a code since no one, least of all the Graduate Dean's Office, has ever suggested that such a code be developed except with the fullest student participation.

The basic issue, as I see it, is whether there should be such a code at all. At the present, graduate student disciplinary matters are handled by the Graduate Dean personally. There is no written document protecting the rights of the student. Should such a document be developed, or should we continue to operate as we do now? As graduate students in government your correspondents may have some insights on this question of government by law as opposed to government by men. If they have I should be most grateful if they would share them with me.

Courtesy requires me to correct the statement in their letter that the document I transmitted to the Senate President was a "product" of my office. I regret to say that I cannot take the credit for it. It is a slightly modified version of a code of conduct developed with full student participation and adopted this past year for the undergraduate student body on this campus. It seemed to me that it was worth considering by the Graduate Student Senate, which is why I referred it to them. There would seem to be some advantages in not having two entirely separate codes to be enforced on the same campus. However, if it should be the opinion of the Graduate Student Senate that the differences between the graduate student and the undergraduate student are so great as to require a separate code, this would meet with no objection from me.

If the graduate Student Senate deems it appropriate to appoint the committee I have requested in my letter of October 27, it seems likely that such a committee might produce a report by the end of this year which could be distributed to the entire graduate student body for its vote.

My letter of October 27 to Mr. Richard Trowbridge, President of the Graduate Student Senate, was as follows:

"As you know, a number of national student groups have urged that universities formulate explicit procedures for the protection of due process rights of students. Several universities have done so, most recently the University of Kentucky has adopted such a code and Cornell University is currently having a rather extensive debate on this matter.

"Appropriate due process protection would concern itself with these basic matters:

"1. The procedures under which an inquiry into an alleged violation would be conducted, with particular attention to the notion that such an inquiry should protect the rights of the student to a full and fair hearing.

"2 An account of the offenses under which a student might be charged, so that in the event a charge is placed the procedural right of the student to know the exact terms of the charge could be satisfied.

"3. The right of protection against 'cruel and unusual' penalties would suggest the desirability of indicating what the appropriate sanctions and penalties would be that might be imposed.

"The attached draft of a proposed Graduate Student Code of Conduct is in three sections, each section intending to speak to one of these three due process issues.

"You are requested to discuss this matter with the Graduate Student Senate and to inquire of them whether they feel it desirable that a procedural code be articulated and formalized as a guide in these matters. If they feel such a code is desirable, would they authorize you to appoint a committee of three or four graduate students to work with three or four members of the Graduate Faculty in formulating such a code?"

Edward C. Moore
Graduate Dean

A Review

'Mattress' Opens New Guild Season

By JOAN FITZGERALD
Fine Arts Staff

Posters on campus bulletin boards advertising the Operetta Guild's latest production read "Psst . . . Are you ready for it?" Few will be ready for the group's outstanding presentation of Once Upon A Mattress.

The musical written by Jay Thompson, Marshal Barer, and Dean Fuller is an adaptation of "The Princess and the Pea." The children's story concerns a princess who must prove that she is noble enough to wed a prince by being discomforted by a small pea placed under twenty mattresses.

The prince of the stage play is a puny adolescent dominated by his loud-mouthed mother who would prevent his marriage at any cost. The princess is not a sweet beauty but an honest, happy-go-lucky hoyden. The pea is not the source of her discomfort—it's the minstrel's mandolin tucked under the uppermost mattress that causes her insomnia.

The modern version is more fantastic than the fairy tale on which it is based. An aura of unreality is created by the Minstrel (Bob LaCroix) who sings the legend of "The Princess and the Pea" as dancers in swirling gowns and glittering crowns act out the story in a dreamlike area behind a transparent screen. As the production continues, the fantasy is heightened by anachronisms.

The test Princess #12 must pass to wed the prince resembles a payola quiz program complete with consolation prize. Speechless King Seximus communicates with the symbols used in the popular parlor game Charades. The "Song of Love" is a football cheer led by Prince Dauntless (Jay McAuliffe). The Wizard (Tom DeFelice), a former vaudeville magician, belongs to Camelot Union 617.

References to Broadway and vaudeville are heavy. The Wizard warns the jester not to "expect any favors, kid, just because I played vaudeville with your old man." He remembers the days when he played The Palace. In most instances, these allusions are effective and neatly incorporated. However, a whole scene in Act Two is devoted to a soft shoe routine which has no relevance whatsoever to plot development.

The leading lady is a spellbinder. Big-eyed Karen Connelly is bouncier than the twenty mattresses she scales during the play. She's sketched as one whose "high spirits are a constant source of energy to the casts she works with." Her performing ability as well as her personality acts as a catalyst which adds excitement to the operetta. Whether she is singing a sexy number, dancing across Bowker's stage, or getting a laugh with a gesture or a word, Miss Connelly's exuberance and vesatile talent are obvious.

Tony Fracis and Bob LaCroix as the Jester and Minstrel respectively, give commendable performances separately, but their best moments come when they are working together as a song and dance team.

Rick Kaplan is a master of expression without words in his interpretation of the mute King Sextimus. His sense of pantomime is most apparent in the scene in which he explains the facts of life to his son Prince Dauntless. His sense of comedy is ever-present.

Many of the dances in the musical are short and simple. Choreographer Sandy Rispler's ingenuity comes to light in two longer more complicated arrangements. One is the ball scene in which Miss Rispler has used many popular dances — among them the polka, bunny hop, and can-can—to form a smooth and integrated pattern. Another occurs at the beginning of the second act when a fast and intrococate beat is established by clapping hands and stamping feet.

William Neigher and his orchestra played the show tunes of Mary Rodgers with skill.

Fairy tales were invented to lull little children to sleep. "The modern fable" Once Upon a Mattress as staged and directed by Robert G. Buchanan keeps its audience listening, laughing, and loving every minute.

Daily Collegian Photo by A. Frank Gori

ONCE UPON A MATTRESS—Members of the "Mattress" cast gave a sneak preview performance in the Hatch on Wednesday night. Performances for the university opened on Friday night and run next week.

For all you ski enthusiasts, the Ski Club will present two short movies on Tuesday, November 7 at 7:30 in Morrill Auditorium. As guest speaker, Shirley Young, who is Public Relations Representative from Mt. Haystack will supplement the movies with a lecture. Also slated for the night is a Warren Miller picture called "The Wild Wonderful World of Skiing." It's free so come over and pick up a few hints from the pros on the fun and excitement of skiing.

NOTICES

AIR FORCE
January grads apply now. O.T. specialist is in the Hampden Room, Student Union, every Tuesday from 9-3. For more information, call Sgt. Charles Petrella at the main office in Holyoke, collect, 536-0546.

ESPERANTO CLUB
Discussion of international language problems in the Plymouth Room of the Student Union at 7:30 p.m., November 6. All welcome.

ANIMAL SCIENCE CLUB MEETING
The Animal Science Club will have a meeting on Nov. 8 at 7:00 p.m. in the Middlesex Room of the Student Union. All are welcome. There will be a speaker and refreshments.

PRE-MED SOCIETY
Dr. Lester Dennis, Dean of Admissions of the Boston University Medical School will speak, Nov. 6, in the Public Health Aud.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION
The Christian Science Organization would like to offer a free six month subscription to the Christian Science Monitor, an international daily newspaper, to all interested foreign students. Those interested should place their name and address in R.S.O. mail box No. 908.

STUDENTS FOR POLITICAL ACTION
Joint meeting with the Amherst and Smith S.D.S. at the Valley Peace Center, 203 No. Pleasant St., Amherst at 7 p.m. on Nov. 6. All are welcome. Cars will leave from in front of the Student Union at 6:45 p.m.

HILLEL
Dr. Robert A. Stanfield of the Sociology Dept. will speak on "Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Hippiness", Plymouth Room, Student Union at 8:30 p.m., Nov. 7.

COLONEL'S CADRE
Be at Dickinson Hall at 9:30 a.m. to serve coffee for General Lymmon, Nov. 7, Tues. Uniforms to be worn.
Also Nov. 7 at 7:30 p.m. a joint meeting with Scabbard and Blade at Dickinson Hall—Uniform. Lt. Colonel Wiseman will show slides. Coffee will be served.

YOUNG REPUBLICAN CLUB
Nomination of officers will be held on Mon., Nov. 6 at 8 p.m. in the Nantucket Room.

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA
There will be an executive board meeting at 6 p.m. and a general meeting at 6:30 p.m. in the Middlesex Room.

UMASS BRIDGE CLUB
Duplicate bridge games with cash prizes. Open to all. Worcester Room, Student Union at 7:15 p.m. Entry fee, 50c.

WOMEN'S SKI TEAM
First meeting of the season is set for Tues., Nov. 7 at 6:30 p.m. in the Student Lounge of the Women's Phys. Ed. Building.

LOST
Notebook in Draper Parking Lot. Reward. Call 549-1622.

PINNINGS
Joanne Galuska '69, Crabtree to Randall Helweg '69, Hills South.
Mary Ann Mathieu '71, Melville to Gary Kohl '70, Gorman.
Jeanne Stone '69, Cooley Dickinson Hospital, to Calvin Saulnier '69, Mills House.

'Hug-In' Held at Brooks House To Combat Saturday's Loneliness

About ten boys from Kennedy Lower and an equal number of girls from Brooks and Van Meter Houses held what is believed to be the University's first "Hug In" at Brooks House Saturday, November 4, from 8:30 p.m. to about 12:00 midnight.

The "Hug In", an idea proposed by Dr. Jacob Roseman, a psychiatrist from the University Mental Health Service, was designed to combat the loneliness some people feel on Saturday nights at a big university by developing quick friendships without the usual social formalities.

Most of the students who participated were confused and didn't know what to expect until Dr. Roseman, himself, arrived and got everything going by explaining the theory behind the "Hug In". After Dr. Roseman left, some of the participants apparently found that they weren't fully convinced and reverted to such trite activities as watching T.V., playing cards, and downing popcorn and cider which the girls had provided.

It was gratifying to note, however, that a few couples were "very successful". Most of the failure of this first attempt was blamed on inadequate planning. Many of the students expressed interest in "doing it again sometime" and Dr. Roseman hopes this can become a regular thing. Since we've cleverly avoided a detailed explanation, the only way you'll find out more about a "Hug In" is to go to one!

Sports Car Rally Held in Hadley

A "Hare and Hound" sports car rally, which began at Zayres in Hadley was won by Judi Midsen and Kathy Kettler.

Additional trophy winners were: Donald Walder and Pat Straub in second place; Win Amidon and Ray Dubrevil in third place; and in fourth place, Donald Griffin and Thoms Mullany.

In the contest for a joint BMSL-SCCUM Club trophy, the Amidon-Dubrevil team captured the trophy by edging out the Walder-Straub team by a small margin.

Winged Victory

BC Over Little Redmen

Fred Willis scored two touchdowns, one on a run and one on a pass, as he led the undefeated Boston College freshmen to a 20-7 win over the UMass frosh at the freshman football field Saturday. It was B.C.'s third victory.

It was a close game; Dave Kelley's Little Redmen trailed by only seven points as late as nine minutes into the last quarter. But the big and talented Eaglets proved a little too much for UMass.

Willis, a 180-pound speedster from Natick, shocked the Little Redmen on B.C.'s third offensive play of the game as he zig-zagged 60 yards to a score. Ferrier's kick made it 7-0, B.C., with barely a few minutes gone in the game.

UMass came back to score a few minutes later after Mike Kostanski intercepted a B.C. pass and ran it back to the B.C. 35. Fullback Bob Toole dove over from the one and Ed Sapienza added the point-after to tie the score, 7-7.

The Eaglets regained the lead in the second quarter when Frank Harris pitched a 20-yard touchdown pass to halfback Mike Vernezza making the score B.C. 14, UMass 7 at the half.

UMass came back in the third quarter to threaten B.C., but the Eaglets held and the Little Redmen lost their punch about halfway through the period. B.C. began to play ball control with a good ground game.

The Little Redmen had one more chance in the fourth quarter. With seven minutes to go in the game, they got the ball and moved it as far as the B.C. 48. However, Toole failed to get the first down on a fourth-and-one situation with a very close measurement.

After holding UMass here, B.C. marched down the field and capped off the scoring with a 28-yard touchdown pass from Joe Scott to Willis.

Kelley, whose frosh are now 1-3, had praise for B.C. but added, "Although we played well, we weren't totally ready for them. We could have made the score closer." He had special praise for the performance of fullback Toole.

The Little Redmen travel to Storrs for a game against the UConn frosh Friday.

UP, UP AND AWAY — Mike Kostanski intercepts a B.C. pass during Friday's game to set the scene for the lone Little Redmen touchdown.

SEVEN COME ELEVEN—Little Redman Joe Lang (11) dodges B.C. Eaglet in gridiron action last Friday. The Frosh lost, 20-7.

Sports Hotline

545-0344

Yankee Conf.

	W	L	T	Pts	Op
Massachusetts	4	0	0	114	47
Connecticut	3	1	0	72	60
New Hampshire	2	2	0	72	39
Rhode Island	1	1	1	37	34
Vermont	1	3	1	30	75
Maine	0	4	0	16	86

Booters in Action

Varsity Nay, Frosh Yay

Vermont clinched the Yankee Conference soccer title with a 3-0 win over UMass at wet and foggy varsity field Saturday.

Both teams went into the game undefeated in conference play. The victory gave Vermont a perfect 5-0 conference mark while UMass slipped to 3-1.

Jim Wood scored for the Catamounts midway through the first quarter. He deflected the ball over diving UMass goalie Steve Kramer.

Seven minutes later, Pete Baldwin scored to make it 2-0. His shot appeared to deflect off a UMass defender before going into the net.

Second quarter action was even with much of the play in the center of the field. Neither team scored.

UMass pressed the action as the second half began. However, the Vermont defense prevented the Redmen forwards from getting many good shots at the goal.

Frank Howard saved what appeared to be a sure Catamount goal when he kicked a loose ball out of the goal mouth with goalie Kramer out of position after making a save.

Baldwin booted a loose ball directly in front of the UMass net to close out the scoring late in the fourth quarter with his second goal of the game.

Statistically, the Catamounts dominated the play. They fired 44 shots at the UMass net while the Redmen booted only 19 at the Vermont goal. Steve Kramer came up with 16 saves while Vermont goalie John Hilton made 8 stops.

The loss, fourth in a row for the Redmen, dropped their overall record to 3-5. Vermont pushed their overall record to 7-2.

* * *

The Freshman soccer team closed out its season with a convincing 10-1 trounce over Franklin Pierce College.

Larry DeFelice led the scoring parade for the Frosh with three goals, one in each of the first three quarters. Dave Callahan chipped in with two fourth quarters goals.

DeFelice and Steve Blanchette tallied in the first quarter to get the Little Redmen rolling. Dave Piccus and DeFelice scored in the second quarter to give the Frosh a 4-0 halftime advantage.

Goals by DeFelice and Duane Brown in the third quarter added to the UMass total.

Abatino's fourth quarter penalty kick put the visitors on the scoreboard. The goal fired the Redmen to add four more goals. Callahan tallied twice while Rick Flynn and Dan Griffin scored once each.

Shots at goal showed the complete domination the Little Redmen enjoyed. The Frosh fired 55 shots at the Franklin Pierce goal while the visitors took eight.

The win raised the Frosh final record to 8-1.

ATTENTION CLASS OF '71

Anyone interested in serving
on the EXECUTIVE COUNCIL
should pick up applications at R.S.O.

Return Deadline—November 13

If you have any questions
on the function of EXECUTIVE COUNCIL,
feel free to contact any class officer

PRES. JOE TABACCO 6-6996
VICE PRES. JOEL WILSON 6-6948

NOTICE FOR NAVAL RESERVISTS AND INTERESTED STUDENTS

Positions Are Now Available for:

(1) Undergraduates in the Reserve — Officer Candidate (ROC) Program

(2) Naval Veterans who would like to earn $10-$20 a week by attending meetings at the local unit.

Information Available at STUDENT UNION
TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 7 from 11:30 a.m. - 1:00 p.m.
or Call 546-6234 Wednesday 7-10 p.m.

Learn To Fly
COLLEGIATE
FLYING CLUB

MEETING: MONDAY, NOV. 6
Middlesex Room, Student Union

For Information:
JOE DALTON 253-9321
FRAN BALBONI 1-665-8785

MASS. CLASSIFIED

For Rent

24 feet Room
Refrigerator, cooking facilities, center of town.
Leader Rooms
159 North Pleasant St.
Apply at Bowling Alley.
$15 a week

FOR SALE

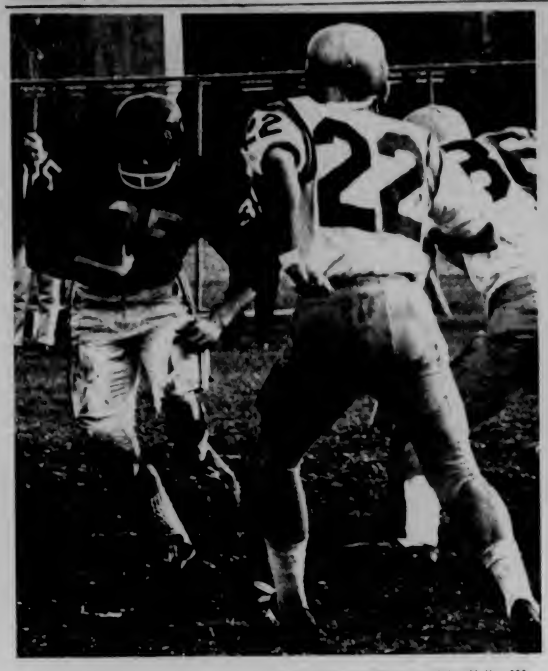
SURFBOARDS (2)
1967 Greg Noll 10' (¾ speed) plus racks & suit (med, med-lg.)
1967 Dewey Weber performer 10'4 modified kick & rails.
Both in boss cond. 6-9776 after 6.

Wollensack 6570 Sterio Tape Recorder. New $250, now $150, 6 mo. old. 6-1047, after 7.

Help Wanted

Babysitter for 2 yr. old girl, 2 days per week. 253-7679

AUTOMOBILE



'67 Lemans convert. power brakes & steering. Call (Sunderland) 665-2512

1963 Falcon 2-door hardtop 6 cyl. in good shape. Call 253-5870 after 6 p.m.

PERSONAL

BIMBO: ELEPHANTS SHOULD GO ON DIETS.

Dr. Tom A.
Are you the Mad Hatter? The wonderland Volk. P.S. We shall return.

Daily Collegian Photo by John Kelly, III

UMass Freshmen versus Boston College Freshmen Friday afternoon.

CATAMOUNTS COVER CARRIER—Vermont formed a protective shield around Bob Mitchell during their muddy clash with the Redman Saturday. Mitchell, who averages 30 carries a game, was held in check by the UMass defense, and tallied only 69 yards. Pro scout Charlie Hill of the Houston Oilers called him "A good college player."

Hoss Top Man

Harriers 2nd At Maine

ORONO, Me. — Redman Paul Hoss set a course record in finishing first but Connecticut placed five men among the top 13 finishers as the Huskies won the Yankee Conference cross-country meet here Saturday.

UConn wound up with a team total of 44 points and UMass finished second with 53, followed by New Hampshire with 77, Maine 86, Rhode Island 106 and Vermont 129.

Hoss, a junior from Rockland, ran the four-mile course in 20:53.2, breaking the record of 21:38.6 set in 1961 by Bob Brouillet, also of UMass. Seven other runners also broke the record.

UMass' aces, Hoss and junior Charlie Lang, finished 1-3 in the race but the next Redman finisher, Greg Bowman, didn't check in until ninth. Top UConn runner, Steve Flanagan, finished fourth but it was the Huskies' greater team balance that gave them the victory over the Redmen, who were the defending champions.

Other finishers beside Hoss, Lang, Flanagan and Bowman were Steve Turner of Maine, second; Bill Young of Connecticut, fifth; Joe Dahl of Maine, sixth; Tom Cook of Vermont, seventh; Everett Dunklee of New Hampshire, eighth; and John Vitale of Connecticut, tenth.

The Redmen next entertain Providence and Central Connecticut in a tri-meet Tuesday. The meet, the last home one of the year for UMass, will start at 3:30 behind the Women's Physical Education building.

RAIN AND REDMEN . . .

(Continued from page 8)

From there UMass marched downfield as Landry hit Bill Carty on a third and ten pass to move into Cat land.

Driscoll and Lovell got off a couple of fancy runs as the Redmen moved goalward, then Landry, on a quarterback "sneak" went the final 27 yards in fine style.

Ed Sherman's point-after ended the scoring and for the huge junior, it was his 19th straight conversion this year.

Both Redmen lines had an exceptional day. Co-Captain Jim Mitchell and Kent Stevens did a particularly fine job.

Astronomers, salesmen, designers, programmers, chemists, psychologists, writers, sociologists, economists, metallurgists, artists, accountants, physicists, mathematicians, etc, etc, etc.

That's what General Electric is made of.

General Electric is made up of a lot more than just engineers—because it takes a lot more than engineers to tackle the problems we deal with. Like helping to unsnarl traffic jams in our cities, fighting air pollution or finding new ways to provide power for underdeveloped nations. It takes sociologists, meteorologists, astronomers, writers—in fact, it takes people with just about every kind of training. But, more than any of this, it takes people with nerve, gumption, intellectual curiosity—people who care about what happens to the world. So it's not only your major we're interested in. It's you. Why not see our interviewer when he comes to campus and find out whether you're the kind of person General Electric is made of.

GENERAL ELECTRIC

An equal opportunity employer

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
MONDAY, NOV. 6, 1967
Page 8 Vol. XCVI, No. 41

Rain and Redmen Dampen Vermont

By MIKE CURRAN
Staff Reporter

Led by an impenetrable defense which never allowed the Catamounts within the Redmen 30, UMass romped to a 21-0 win over Vermont Saturday at Alumni Stadium.

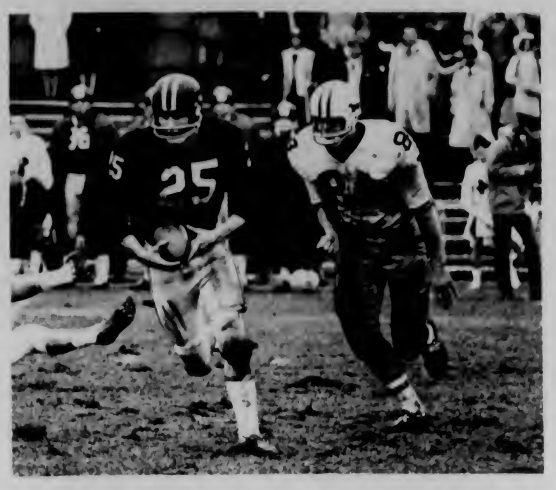
The victory coupled with New Hampshire's 20-19 loss to Connecticut assures the Redmen of at least a tie for the Yankee Conference title.

UMass' offense, although bogged down much of the game, did tally three touchdowns. Nick Warnock's flashy pass catching and the hard running of Greg Landry, Craig Lovell, and Tim Driscoll were the highlights of the rainy afternoon.

Playing on a soaking-wet field, both teams were particularly inept at moving the ball in the first quarter. Vermont had three first downs while the Redman could manage only one. Warnock's punting was by far UMass' best offense weapon in this period.

Landry finally gave the home fans something to cheer about in the second quarter. After a short Catamount punt, he guided the Redmen on a 67-yard touchdown tour climaxed by a 5-yard toss to Fred Hairston. A Landry-to-Warnock pass was the first key play on this drive.

Vermont's efforts to tie score before intermission only ended in frustration as first Paul Milnar, then Mike McArdle came up with interceptions of Jack Stroker aerials.



At halftime, UMass, a three TD favorite, was only up by seven.

The third quarter was a scoreless duel between the Catamounts much-heralded Bob Mitchell and Redmen sophomore Lovell. Each carried the ball eight times in that period. UMass mounted one serious threat when Warnock came up with two spectacular grabs, but a goal line interception by Bill Wolf killed the drive.

Early in the fourth period another McArdle interception gave UMass good field position at the Vermont 45. Eight plays later Hairston rang up the Redmen's second score when he took a pitchout at his wingback position and slanted into the endzone from 12 yards out. Lovell and Landry had pooled running talents to set up the six-pointer.

Paul Simpson took over at quarterback for the Catamounts after the ensuing kickoff, and the visitors finally began to show sign of life. After moving into UMass territory, however, a desperate fourth and three run by Vermont punter, Tom Daigneault, failed and the Redmen took over at their own 35.

(Continued on page 7)

MIKE MAKES HIS MOVE—Junior Mike McArdle moves in on one of two key interceptions to clinch the UMass defeat of Vermont Saturday, 21-0.

Final Grid Stats

	UM	UVM
First downs	18	8
Passes attempted	18	20
Passes completed	10	8
Passes had intercepted	1	3
Yards passing	100	78
Yards rushing	180	97
Total offense	280	175
Punts	7	9
Punting average	35.1	34.6
Yards penalized	45	56
Penalties	6	6
Fumbles/fumbles lost	5-1	5-0

WARNOCK, ONE - HANDED WONDER — Nick Warnock dazzled the Redmen, the fans and Pro Scout Charlie Hill Saturday with his pass catches. The Junior end from Pennsylvania was also effective in punting.

Redmen on the Warpath

CROSS-COUNTRY—vs. Providence, Central Connecticut (at home, tomorrow, 3:30 p.m.)

PRO-PROSPECT—Bill Carty played winning ball on the muddy field at Alumni Stadium Saturday while Pro Scout Charlie Hill watched from the Press Box.

"He Looked Like a Field General"

Super-Draft Scout Rates Redmen

By TOM FITZGERALD
Sports Editor

Charlie Hill is a reporter who works for no newspaper. He brings a notebook to every football game he attends, and makes notes like "tough little runner" and "good speed for big man" or "no zip on the ball" and "dropped the ball, twice bad hands."

From his vantage point in the Alumni Stadium press box Saturday, he scanned a tiny portion of the collegiate football market with the trained eye of a talent scout on the night club circuit.

The numerical rating system he uses resembles a cumulative average except that it can be transformed into dollars and cents much quicker. After all, his findings—and those of hundreds of "bird dogs" across the country — will be revealed just next month when the second annual Super Draft is held. Over 500 names will be drawn by the 25 teams in the N.F.L. and A.F.L., which will combine schedules in 1970.

Hill, a gray-haired man who was probably some football player himself 20 or 25 years ago, is the personnel director of the Houston Oilers. His team played the Patriots yesterday in Boston, and he was making a business stop in Amherst on his way to the Hub. He joined several other scouts at the Stadium with a few names already listed in his notebook.

He came primarily to see Greg Landry and Bill Carty of the Redmen. But he also kept an open mind and an open eye on Jim Mitchell and Nick Warnock and Vermont's Bob Mitchell and Jeff Kuhman.

Although the rain and darkness might have hampered individual performances, Hill seemed to like what he saw. "Landry did a good job," he began in a quiet Texas drawl. "He's got a strong arm, and he gets rid of the ball quickly. He's pretty tough; he got hit pretty good a couple of times out there.

"He looked like the field general out there," Hill continued. "His height would help him. He's certainly got the physical talents. He scrambles pretty well too."

Other than that, Hill didn't seem impressed.

Landry picked up 82 yards rushing in 15 attempts—for a 5.4 average—and an even 100 yards passing, completing 10 of 18 with one interception. He scored one touchdown and passed for another. It was just another routine afternoon for him.

Landry, first college player in New England ever to reach the 4000 mark in total offensive yardage, now has 4283 with three games left in his UMass career.

Tight end Carty has been hampered by an ankle injury suffered two weeks ago "so it isn't fair to judge him," the scout said.

"We know he's an adequate blocker, but today he had trouble getting past the line. They were blocking him at the line of scrimmage."

Carty caught only one pass, a 14-yarder, but it helped set up the third UMass touchdown halfway through the fourth quarter.

"I was impressed with that junior receiver. What was his name? Warnock, that's right. He made a couple of fancy catches."

Nick grabbed three passes, two of them one-handed, for 43 yards and averaged 35.1 yards in seven punts, slightly below his season average of 37.1.

Hill liked the play of Co-captain Jim Mitchell, who anchored the offensive line as usual with his crisp blocks. The pros are considering Jim as a "possible offensive guard," he said.

Vermont workhorse Bob Mitchell was well contained by the Redmen defensive unit, getting only 69 yards in 30 carries. "He's a little bit too small for us, but he's a good college player," said Hill.

End Kuhman, reportedly a hotter item for the pros than Mitchell, didn't gain much cash for the future by dropping his first two passes Saturday. But the scout liked his overall performance, three catches for 38 yards. He also blocked with gusto and moved quickly and smartly in the defensive secondary.

But Charlie Hill couldn't tarry at Alumni Stadium. "What's the best way to get to Boston from here?" he asked.

GRASSO GAINS GROUND — Jerry Grasso, consistently fine footballer advances the pigskin in Saturday's action.

A RACE FOR THE FINISH—Greg Landry crosses the end line before anyone including the ref hot on his heels. Landry scored the final Redmen touchdown in the 21-0 shutout against Vermont.

MDC Forecast:
Blizzard

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Cast your vote in the MDC Vietnam Poll

VOL. XCVI, NO. 42 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1967

Oh, where

Oh, where

Photos by Karen Freedman
Can the contact lens be?

Rusk Cancels Mount Holyoke Speech; Protest Plans to Continue

Secretary of State Dean Rusk cancelled a New England speaking tour yesterday which included an engagement at Mt. Holyoke College tomorrow evening. Conflict of schedule was given as the reason. The talk was to have been broadcast live from WMUA with a panel discussion to follow which would have been carried by WMUA, WFCR, and WAMC in Albany over the Eastern Educational Radio Network.

While on this tour, Rusk was to speak at the Foreign Policy Convention in Boston. It was to be sponsored by the World Affairs Council of Boston and the U.S. State Department. At this conference the speakers were to include Robert W. Barnett, Deputy Assistant Secretary for Eastern Asian and Pacific Affairs, Convey Oliver, Assistant Secretary for Inter - American Affairs and the U.S. Coordinator of the Alliance for Progress, and Rusk. This has also been cancelled.

In conjunction with the scheduled speech by Rusk, the Faculty Group on Peace and War at UM had prepared a petition, which due to the time shortage, was to have telephoned in names rather than having actual signatures. Similar petitions were to be circulated at the other Valley colleges. The petition with the list of names was to be presented to Dean Rusk by President Richard Getteli of Mt. Holyoke.

The Faculty Group still plans to submit this petition by mail to Rusk.

The text of the Petition reads as follows:

"We, as conscientious and loyal Americans, are strongly opposed to the United States' present course of action in Vietnam. We urge immediate, unconditional cessation of the bombing and a reduction of our troop commitment to bring about negotiations among all parties to the conflict. The purpose of these negotiations must be to effect a political settlement under international supervision to provide for the self-determination of the Vietnamese people. We deplore the devastation of Vietnam and the tragic loss of both Vietnamese and American lives. We submit this petition respectively and in the spirit of Peace."

Yale Votes End to Numerical Grading System

After months of intensive study, the faculty of Yale College voted to end its numerical grading system. With this change teachers will choose among four designations for their students: fail, pass, high pass and honors.

The experiment, which will begin next January, gives Yale one of the least restrictive grading systems in the United States. It has become a growing feeling among educators that a student's progress cannot be measured with numerical precision.

According to Prof. William Kessen, chairman of the Yale Course of Study Committee, "the point is that whether a man gets a 72 or a 74 just doesn't reflect his performance, his knowledge, or anything, really."

Critics of the plan say that problems will arise concerning graduate school admissions since a student will no longer have a meaningful grade average or a numerical standing in his class. Mr. Kessen believes, however, that "it ought to lead to more stress in graduate admissions on things like meaningful letters of recommendation from the faculty."

A students draft status need not be affected because the new Selective Service Act class standing is no longer a factor in determining deferments. For borderline cases of academic achievement the draft deferment test is available and it is believed that the change is not likely to affect the relationship of students to the Selective Service System.

The "pass-fail" system encourages a student to take a course that he might otherwise avoid, for fear of pulling down his average. It offers an escape to what educators consider the "tyranny of numbers."

Inside MDC

Yahoo ..... p. 2
SWAP Conference ..... p. 3
Homecoming Hearing .... p. 4
Stopping Mitchell
key to UMass victory ..... p. 8

Class of '69 Resists Administrative Interference

According to a news release issued yesterday by the Class of 1969, its Executive Council and Executive Cabinet have endorsed a resolution passed at last week's Constitutional Convention. The resolution concerns possible administrative action to be taken against the Homecoming Committee.

The resolution says:

"Whereas judicial action has been recommended by certain administrative officials against certain members of the Homecoming' Committee for 'embarrassing the University Community' by presentation of the 'After the Third World Raspberry' on October 20, 1967 in the Student Union Ballroom;

Moved that the Constitutional Convention express its vehement opposition to said actions taken against members of the Homecoming Committee by administrative officials."

In the release, Junior Class President Wayne Thomas stated ". . . such administrative action is a step backward and a dangerous precedent for future enroachment in this particular realm of student activity." Thomas, however, claimed that the Council was not denying the right of the administration to apply sanctions in "certain situations." He did not explain what those situations are.

It was also pointed out that the resolution was not made to serve as a value judgment as to whether the show was or was not art.

Folk in the Round will be the theme of a concert to benefit the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library Fund. The event will take place on Sun., Nov. 19 at 2 p.m. in Curry Hicks Cage.

Scheduled to appear are Phil Ochs, the Mitchell Trio, and the Jim Kweskin Jug Band.

Tickets went on sale Monday at the S.U. box office; the price is $2.50 a ticket.

The J.F.K. Library will be housed in the main reading lounge of the University's proposed 28 story library. Construction of the new library is scheduled to begin in 1970; it will be located between South College and the Union.

Graduate Code of Honor Shelved; Senate Declared Nonrepresentative

by Jack Clark
Staff reporter

After hanging in oblivion since September of 1965, when its constitution was approved, the Graduate Student Senate found itself the center of controversy last night at a general meeting of the University's graduate students.

Senate President Richard Trowbridge called the meeting to gauge the graduate student's reactions to the idea of a code of Conduct. The approximately 200 students in attendance, however, had other intentions, and the meetings turned out to be a debate on whether or not the Senate is truly representative of the 2800 graduate students on campus.

In answer to one of the questions leveled at him, Trowbridge declared that since rules of parliamentary procedure had been suspended for the evening, he would not recognize a motion from the floor. Bill Wilkins challenged him on the grounds that a two-thirds vote is required to suspend parliamentary law. Trowbridge conceded that a motion could be made from the floor. A motion was promptly advanced calling for the dissolution of the Senate, in favor of an ad hoc committee to supervise elections for a truly representative body.

Senate Parliamentarian Henry Sirotin questioned the legality of the motion, with Trowbridge upholding him. This ruling was challenged. Sanford E. Petler introduced a motion that the officers of the Graduate Student Senate hold elections in those departments not yet represented. This motion was carried.

No action is forthcoming on the issue of the code of conduct.

UMass ROTC Graduate Tops Class at Fort Belvoir

Second Lt. Douglas J. Butler '67: No. 1 all the way.

Second Lt. Douglas J. Butler, class of '67, was rated number one in a class of 52 fellow officers participating in the engineer officer basic course at Fort Belvoir, Va.

Lt. Butler received a plaque for his achievement on graduation day, which ended the nine-week course. The plaque was presented by the commandant of the school, Maj. Gen. Robert F. Seedlock.

Lt. Butler is a graduate of Minnechaug High School, at UMass he was a Dean's List student and a Distinguished Military Gradaute. He is now undergoing training at the Army Ranger School in Fort Benning, Ga.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Butler of 427 Soule Road, Wilbraham.

East German Border Guard Defects to West

BERLIN (AP) — A 25-year-old East German border guard defected to West Berlin early Monday, police reported.

They said the guard cleared Communist border barriers apparently unnoticed. He came across in full uniform, carrying a pistol.

It was the third reported escape to West Berlin by an East German border guard in five days. The total of uniformed guards known to have defected to West Berlin since the Communists built the city-dividing wall in August, 1961, stands at 499.

MIT Students Protest Dow Chem Recruiter

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Some 130 Massachusetts Institute of Technology students staged a quiet sit-down demonstration Monday against the presence of representatives of Dow Chemical Co. on the campus.

The company men were recruiters for the firm which manufactures napalm.

Near the sit-downers, some 20 other students stood by in a counter-demonstration.

The recruiters were not molested or prevented from interviewing students for post-graduation jobs.

'Yahoo' Acts to Overcome Present Publication Ban

by Don LeBlanc

Twenty-five staff members of YAHOO, the campus humor magazine, met Thursday evening to take the first major step in their movement to overcome the present ban on YAHOO's publication.

Armed with an Executive Order from Jim Collins, President of the Student Senate, the YAHOO partisans accepted a proposed Provisional Government and opened nominations for the seven positions of Editor-Coordinators, the basis of the provisional Executive Board.

The Board will coordinate YAHOO's efforts until a new Constitution is accepted by the Student Senate and the Administration. Nominations for the Provisional Government will be held again next Tuesday at 8:30 in the Commonwealth room, after which elections will take place.

Accepted by the membership unanimously were proposals to begin soliciting personnel and material, to request a donation of $1.00 per member to finance public relations and other activities of the publication until a request is made to the Student Senate and to keep the name, YAHOO as the official title of the campus humor magazine.

YAHOO will have a representative in the Franklin room at the Student Union from 10:11:00 and 2:30-3:30 Monday through Friday each week, so that persons interested in joining or contributing to may consult with staff members.

Provost Tippo was informed of events within the organization; results of this meeting will be given at the general meeting Tuesday evening before the provisional elections are held.

Car Strippers Find Good Pickings in UMass Lots

UMass Police reported that there has been a rise in the number of car strippings and acts of vandalism.

In October, 14 different incidences of theft or vandalism were reported to police. This compares to four thefts in the month of September.

Police Lt. Daniel Schwartz attributes the rise in vandalism to the increase in student population. He said that this type of vandalism is normal for a city the size of UMass.

Schwartz added that the parking lots are continually patrolled, but the most effective means of prevention is for owners to lock their cars and check them frequently.

Notice to first semester freshmen and first semester transfers.

Mid-semester grades are now available from your advisers. Arrangements for a student-adviser consultation should be made at this time.

Dining Commons Menu

MONDAY

Breakfast
Farina
Cold Cereals
French Toast/Syrup

Lunch
Chicken Rice Soup
American Chop Suey
Green Beans
Egg Salad Roll
Potato Chips
Cocoanut Cake/Cocoanut Icing

Dinner
Ham Loaf/Pineapple Sauce
Veal Cutlet/Tomato Sauce
Whipped Potato
W. K. Corn
Apple Crisp

TUESDAY

Breakfast
Pettijohn
Cold Cereals
Fried Eggs
Banana-Nut Muffins

Lunch
Pepper Pot Soup
Hot Beef Sandwich/Gravy
French Fried Potatoes
Parsley Cauliflower
Seafood Salad Plate
Potato Chips
Jelly Roll

Dinner
Roast Pork/Applesauce
Salisbury Steak/Gravy
Whipped Potato
Spinach
Blueberry Pie

SUNDAY

Breakfast
Oatmeal
Cold Cereals
Scrambled Eggs

Dinner
Roast Turkey/Dressing
Gravy/Cranberry Sauce
Swiss Steak
Whipped Potato
Sliced Carrot
Ice Cream Sundae

Supper
Vegetable Soup
Beef Croquettes/Gravy
Grilled Potatoes
Macaroni and Cheese
Whole Beets
Cherry Squares

POLL EXTENSION

The poll on Vietnam has been extended one day, until Wednesday. It has also been opened to graduate students.

Collegian

NOTICE FOR NAVAL RESERVISTS AND INTERESTED STUDENTS

Positions Are Now Available for:

(1) Undergraduates in the Reserve — Officer Candidate (ROC) Program

(2) Naval Veterans who would like to earn $10-$20 a week by attending meetings at the local unit.

Information Available at STUDENT UNION TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 7 from 11:30 a.m. - 1:00 p.m. or Call 546-6234 Wednesday 7-10 p.m.

Freshmen, Transfer Students and Upperclassmen

SORORITY OPEN HOUSES

Nov. 12, 19 — Dec. 2, 17 — 2:30 - 4:00

The Brothers of

Phi Sigma Kappa

Invite Freshmen to

OPEN SMOKERS

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 7 — 8:00 P.M.

and

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 9 — 8:00 P.M

at the Grad House — 382 N. Pleasant St.

Heated Debate Arises At SWAP Conference

Editor's Note: The following article is the 1st half of a report on the 1967 SWAP Conference written by Allan Davis, Conference Chairman.

The 1967 SWAP (Student Workshop on Activities Problems Conference was held recently at the Andirons Motel in West Dover, Vermont. Approximately 110 people participated in this three day conference. Of the 110 delegates, 75 were representatives of student organizations and the remaining 35 were comprised of faculty and administrators. This conference afforded these three groups the unique yet necessary opportunity to critically discuss the crucial problems confronting this University in an informal and relaxed atmosphere.

On Friday night, Provost Tippo delivered the keynote address in which he stressed the significant gains made by the University in the last few years. He also emphasized the point that it will probably be ten to twenty years before this University is considered among the finest in the land. His speech praised the progress made thus far, but it also noted the need for improvement of undergraduate and graduate facilities.

After the Provost answered numerous questions from many of the delegates, discussion groups in the areas of academic matters, social problems, and student government were formed so that the representatives could begin to lay the groundwork for the extensive discussions on Saturday.

On Saturday morning, Dr. Harry Schumer, of the Psychology Department, delivered a speech concerning the problems of alienation at a large state University, the necessity for more interaction between faculty and students, and the possible future use of mechanized devices which would improve the quality of education while giving the faculty more time to work with students.

Just prior to dinner, all of the delegates assembled together to hear the reports of the chairmen of the student government, social, and academic discussion groups.

The first discussion opened the obvious need for some means of communication between the IFC and the Student Senate. It was felt by fraternity members at the discussion that if the Senate has proposed legislation dealing with fraternities and sororities the members of these organizations should be able to express their views. It was resolved that there would be an attempt made to establish a permanent channel of communication.

The new topics concerned the implicit rights of the Student Senate and the effect student legislation could have when it is checked first by the administration and then by the Board of Trustees. It was thought that it might be worthwhile if there were a means for a representative of the student body to discuss important legislation with the Board of Trustees. In this manner communication could readily be passed between the Board and the students.

Another issue was that of class government. The question that arose was whether or not the class officers should run in a social capacity or whether they should become involved in actual government. Although no resolution was achieved it became obvious to all that many delegates felt that extending the classes into government was an excellent idea. One means to accomplish this objective was discussed. It involved the establishment of an executive board made up of the presidents of the classes and 3 officers of the Student Senate. This board would have veto powers over all senate legislation. The senate in turn could override the veto by a 2/3 majority vote. This proposal engendered rather heated debate which could not be resolved in the time available.

The concept of decentralization was discussed also, but unfortunately there was no available time to discuss it in detail. The concept was basically that each area of the campus should have its own governmental structure with the Student Senate as the central governmental union. Some of the group did not be-

(Continued on page 6).

University Extension Service Aids Agricultural Production in Malawi

Grass roots agricultural extension methods that have helped three generations of Massachusetts farmers are now helping the new African nation of Malawi to develop its economy through agricultural exports.

The University of Massachusetts, in a fourth-year assessment of its agricultural development and education project in the central African nation, has cited sharp gains in export crops, including increases as high as several hundred per cent of some crops in the four years.

Malawi minister of natural resources George Kumtumanji has called the Malawi Extension Service the best in Africa, an opinion that has been repeated in newspapers in Malawi and nearby Zambia. Extension help has boosted the yields of two principal crops, corn and peanuts, from shortage levels to the point where there are now surpluses for export, the minister said.

With the cooperation of the Malawi government and under a U.S. Agency for International Development (AID) contract, the UMass College of Agriculture started from scratch in 1963 to develop an agricultural extension system by adapting U.S. methods to the needs of Malawi, just emerging from British colonial rule as an independent state.

No massive amounts of money or equipment have been poured into Malawi; the UMass extension program has been instead a "people to people" effort. University agriculturalists have worked with Malawi agricultural officers as close to the village level as possible, stressing self-help and participation.

University Photo Service

A thatched roof goes on a farm club building in Malawi. Working with farmers and agricultural officials in the central African nation, the University of Massachusetts has helped set up a U.S.-type agricultural extension system under a U. S. Agency for International Development contract. Farm clubs are village cooperatives that help buy fertilizer and other agricultural aids.

University field men have used the demonstration method in working with village committees, showing the villages how to carry out improved agricultural practices rather then telling them what to do. According to Clarence Parsons, a member of the UMass team recently returned from Malawi, this extension demonstration system has been so effective that the World Bank recently sent a team to study it.

H. Sidney Vaughan, a veteran UMass extension worker who recently returned from Malawi, gave major credit for the success of the UMass project to the people of Malawi. "A discussion session by a Malawi village committee is an example of democracy in action," he said. "They love to discuss and they are past masters of the committee approach."

Communications Board Plans Five-College Spring Symposium

Plans for a five-college Spring Communications Symposium are in the initial stages according to symposium committee chairman James Foudy '68.

Sub-committees have been established to investigate financing, discussion topics, possible speakers and extent of interest in the five college area. Foudy said that Hampshire college is being included in the program.

The symposium is being organized by the Student Communications Board. It will attempt to "acquaint students with the media of the future and begin a meaningful dialogue concerning communications in the five college areas," Foudy said.

Although there are no specific aims of the symposium, the board hopes that closer co-operation between media in the area will result.

The two-day program will center around the appearance of one nationally known expert in the communications field. It is tentatively planned that the Distinguished Visitors Program will pay the cost of the main speaker, Foudy said.

Venman Presides Over NACUSS

Dr. William C. Venman, director of the summer session and assistant to the provost at the University of Massachusetts, will preside over the fourth National Association of College and University Summer Sessions conference (NACUSS) Nov. 7 to 9.

Dr. Venman is concluding a term as president of the association. The three-day NACUSS conference at the Galen Beach Hotel, Key Biscayne, Fla. It will include committee meetings, panel discussions and study group sessions on unique qualities and contributions of the summer session.

College Relations Director
c/o Sheraton-Park Hotel, Washington, D.C. 20008

Please send me a Sheraton Student I.D. so I can save up to 20% on Sheraton rooms.

Name_____
Address_____

Reservations with the special low rate are confirmed in advance (based on availability) for Fri., Sat., Sun. nights, plus Thanksgiving (Nov. 22-26), Christmas (Dec. 15-Jan. 1) and July through Labor Day! Many Sheraton Hotels and Motor Inns offer student rates during other periods subject to availability at time of check-in and may be requested.

Sheraton Hotels & Motor Inns
155 Sheraton Hotels & Motor Inns in Major Cities

DAILY COLLEGIAN

VIETNAM POLL

TODAY TILL 5:30 P.M., S.U. LOBBY

VOTING HAS BEEN EXTENDED
TILL WEDNESDAY, 5:30 P.M.

VOTING OPEN TO GRADS AS WELL AS UNDERGRADS

and now... JADE EAST

CORAL

A NEW AFTER SHAVE & COLOGNE

AFTER SHAVE from $2.50
COLOGNE from $3.00
SWANK Inc.-Sole Distributor

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Revamp P. E. Requirement

The Board of Admissions and Records of the University requested in early October that the Academic Matters Committee of the Faculty Senate review the rationale behind the Physical Education graduation requirement with an aim to its redefinition and explanation. The Board called for special attention to the effect of the Physical Education requirement on older students.

According to the minutes of the meeting, "the discussion was very brief."

The matter was defeated by a vote of 24 Yeas and 25 Nays.

The closeness of the vote suggests that reasonable doubt exists over the rationale and the definition and explanation.

Perennial student complaints also suggest a great deal of doubt.

We urge the Faculty Senate to reconsider its motion. In this case, it would also seem desirable for those students with opinions on the subject to express them.

—THE EDITORS

Guest Editorial

Executive Council 1970

At the Class of 1970 Executive Council Meeting held Sunday, November 5, 1967, the resolution concerning the Homecoming Committee which was passed by the Constitutional Convention (November 1) was discussed. This resolution stated:

Whereas judicial action has been recommended by certain administrative officials against certain members of the Homecoming Committee for "embarrassing the University Community" by presentation of the "After the Third World Raspberry" on October 20, 1967 in the Student Union Ballroom; and

Moved that the Constitutional Convention express its vehement opposition to said actions taken against members of the Homecoming Committee by administrative officials.

Resolved: Thomas Martindale
Balboni Hartwell

The Executive Council felt that this resolution was tantamount to passing judgment on the defendants and that such action would not be in keeping with the proper role of the Executive Council and also would infringe on the perogative of the judiciary. However, I want to point out that the Executive Council did agree that the Constitutional Convention was within its rights to support the above resolve.

In place of the above the Executive Council composed a resolution which would provide protection for those in charge of obtaining entertainment. The resolve states:

We, the Executive Council of the Class of 1970, wish to express our opposition to any University censorship pertaining to concerts and other University-wide performances. It is our position that no student or committee be held responsible for any actions in said concerts or performances that are not expressly stated in contract negotiations.

Signed,
Executive Council
Class of 1970

This action of the Executive Council was taken with all sincerity. It is my wish that the Student Senate take this resolution support it and recommend it as policy to the administration (Deans Hopkins. Noffsinger, and Field).

Sincerely,
Bruce Balboni
President, Class of 1970

Vietnam Poll

During his official White House News Conference last week, President Johnson was asked about the effect of peace demonstrators upon the war in Vietnam. He answered that he doubted if anti-war demonstators contributed anything constructive to the war cause. The President concluded, ". . . all their proposals and statements have not contributed a great deal to the solution that we so eagerly seek."

This reaffirms the view that the United States government and military officials have held in the past. Although Mr. Johnson was very apologic with his wording—one can't blame him after the Washington demonstration—the view of anti-war demonstrators remains the same. There is still the prevelant philosophy with U.S. officials that demonstrators are adding fuel to Ho's fire.

In his DVP speech a few weeks ago, ex-Presidential aide Arthur Schlesinger criticized the Johnson Administration for its "cry-baby attitude" of blaming the demonstrations with the failure to be successful in the war. Schlesinger went on to say that even if all Americans rallied behind our troops in Vietnam, "the Vietnamese would fight just as hard."

Partly, the issue gets down to the Constitutionally granted right to demonstrate. (Bob Brill's editorial in Monday's Daily Collegian covered this area.) However, there is also the issue of the Administration's attitude of tossing blame for military failure of peace demonstrators. But Harry Ashmore of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions in late September stated that the Johnson Administration scutled negotiations with Ho in January of this year. The administration replied that Ashmore was blind to many factors of the war.

This is history and there is little that can be done about it. Perhaps demonstrations will do nothing constructive outside of releasing individual frustrations. Perhaps the only thing to do is wait for the 1968 elections as Schlesinger suggested in his talk and vote Johnson out of office. However, on this campus you have the opportunity to voice your opinion. Today and tomorrow there will be a ballot box in the Student Union Lobby on the Vietnam issue. If enough people voice their opinion in this and similar polls, perhaps something will be done before 1968. It costs nothing, and there is everything to gain.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union . . . University of Massachusetts . . . Amherst, Mass.

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read i tor accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Published at the Massachusetts Daily Collegian, Student Union, UMass., Amherst, Mass. 01002.

Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, Member of the Collegiate Press Service of the United States Student Press Association. Member of the Associated Press—The Associated Press is entitled exclusively to the use for reproduction of all the local news printed in this newspaper as well as all AP news dispatches.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed five times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; three or four times weekly the week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amended by the act of June 11, 1934.

Subscription price: $6.00 per year; $3.50 per semester.

Campus Comment

Israeli-Arab Conflict

To the Editor:

The editorial by Bill Street in Thursday's Daily Collegian is a comical illustration of his basic complaint: most people do not understand the background of the whole Israeli-Arab question. Mr. Street leaves no doubt that he does not understand it. Mr. Street also confuses fiction and fact unforgivably. He has shown one street filled with more "garbage" (sic) than many of the avenues followed by Arabs or Israelis.

One's position on the Arab-Israeli situation does not effect the fact that the Balfour Declaration was vaguely worded on purpose to satisfy many sentiments simultaneously, and Mr. Street's knowledge of what it actually meant is better than that of Lord Balfour himself.

New Jewish immigration started in Palestine in the 1890's and was largely from young, revolutionary, socialist, anti-religious groups of the Russian Jewish intelligensia, and it was to them, Hertzl and the cultural Zionist that Balfour directed himself, not to old and Orthodox Jews. (By the way, there are some young and Orthodox Jews.)

Mr. Street's when-did-you-stop-beating-your-wife approach is illustrated by his term "unholy war". Did Israel declare it a "holy war"? Mr. Ben Gurion came to Palestine in the pre-WWI period, not in the late 30's.

One would require too great a space to correct Mr. Street's errors on Zionist land aquisition.

As to the UN not approaching the legitimate government of Palestine in 1947-48, the legitimate government, namely the British Mandate Government, had approached the UN. There was no other recognized government at the time, Jewish or Arab.

As to the Zionist lobby in Congress, does Mr. Street know how else citizens' interests in Congress are represented? Since when is lobbying, per se, dirty?

The Biblical command, Mr. Street, is 2500 years old by even the radical Biblical critics, not 1000; there is no such term as "Christian-Judaism tradition"; etc., etc., etc.

Mr. Street did not write "Israel's rather dubious history", but a rather dubious history of Israel. Come, Mr. Street, no matter which view you hold, pro-Israel, pro-Arab or neutral, such writings as yours serve none, not Arab, not Israeli, not peace and surely not journalism.

RABBI MARTIN KOWAL
HILLEL DIRECTOR

A Nation,s Right to Exist

In the viewpoint entitled "An Unprincipled Aggressor" in the Collegian of November 2, Bill Street presented us with a group of fallacies already worn out by the speeches of Nickolai Fedorenko and the Arabs he is protecting.

At first I would point out that it is easier to be the ally of one hundred million Arabs than the friend of a mere two million Israelis.

Mr. Street goes back into history to show how the Balfour Declaration intended a "Jewish National Homeland" for all old Orthodox Jews who could retire there. In truth the Balfour Declaration specifically stated "His Majesty's Government looks with favor on the establishment of a Jewish National Homeland in Palestine."

For thirty years before the Balfour Declaration, Jewish pioneers started returning to a desolate, swamp infested, disease-ridden Palestine. They settled near the swamps and began to drain them. Malaria killed many of these early pioneers. They built towns and villages along the coast. All this time the Arabs welcomed home their Semitic brothers. Jews settled along the coast and in Eastern Galilee. They did not settle in the central highlands where the Arab populace predominated. They brought to Palestine improved methods of farming, taught the Arabs the technology of Europe and with the aid of financial backers built up a stable economy.

In 1922 Britain decided to divide Palestine. Three quarters of Palestine east of the Jordan River became the kingdom of Transjordan. The one quarter west of the Jordan River remained open to strictly limited Jewish imigration.

It was this one quarter of Palestine which was partitioned. Partition was a United Nations decision, not an imperialist, capitalistic, warmongering Zionist decision. Jews, according to the partition plan, were given the lands where they predominated and the Arabs were given those lands where they predominated. Populations were to be allowed to move between both partitions of Palestine. As we all know, the Arabs didn't accept the partition plan of the world body of nations and began the war of 1948.

The fact remains that the Jews never left Palestine. For the last four thousand years, Jews resided in Palestine. Jews resided in Palestine as they did all over the world. As in other parts of the world, Palestinian Jews were subject to persecution. The pogromized Jews finally realized that only in a Jewish National Home could Jews live without fear of being massacred.

One of the great tragedies of the present conflict is the Palestinian refugees. These poor people were betrayed by their leaders. Their leaders exhorted them to leave Palestine until the combined Arab armies could drive the Jews into the sea; then they could return.

As Achmed Shukairy, head of the Palestine Liberation Army, said in an interview before the recent war, "After we conquer Palestine we will chase out all foreign born Jews, those that were born in Palestine may remain if they survive, but I hope that not too many survive."

Getting back to the war that began in 1948 we have Mr. Street relating to us how the terrorists committed crimes against the Arabs. The truth is than Ben Gurion went so far to fight the terrorists that a near civil war broke out. Jews fought Jews until the tiny terrorist minority was defeated.

Mr. Street tells us that because of the terrorists the United Nations partitioned Palestine without the consent of the legitimate government. The fact is there was no legitimate government in Palestine at that time. The British planned to leave without making any provisions for a government. They left the whole matter to the United Nations.

May I add that Palestine was not partitioned to provide a home for Jewish refugees. Palestine was partitioned to provide Jewish residents of Palestine with a home. In fact the British never allowed Jewish refugees to enter Palestine after World War II. Even during the war those that fled from the ovens of Auschwitz were not permitted to enter. The British enforced their halt on Jewish immigration to the point of sinking a ship carrying eight hundred men, women, and children, all survivors of concentration camps.

To return to the subject of Arab refugees, the Cairo daily, Akhbar el Yon, 12 October 1963, accused the Mufti of Jerusalem of having incited the Arabs to flee Palestine in 1948.

At the same time over half a million Jews were forced to leave the Arab nations where they resided. Their property was confiscated and they were forced to leave with only the clothes on their backs.

They differed from the Arab refugees in the respect that they were not herded into refugee camps. They were settled on the land, a land of only eight thousand square miles.

In the three million square miles of the Arab nations, no room was allotted for the Arab refugees. Surely rich old producing Arab states could have financially aided the refugees even if it meant just keeping them off the horrible camps until they returned to a permanent place of residence.

Many people believe that the refugees should return to their homes of twenty years ago. This may come about when and if the Arab states realize that Israel is a state in all definitions of the word and has a right as a state to survive. The Arab states are the only nations of the United Nations in the last twenty-two years to profess a desire to destroy a fellow member of the United Nations.

Israel cannot return the occupied Arab lands until a permanent peace is reached. They cannot give back Sinai as a base from which to have herself attacked. Mr. Street agrees with the entire Soviet bloc when he calls Israel the aggressor. Israel is the aggressor because she successfully

(Continued on page 5)

Campus Comment

Part IV

Bombing Consequences

The reasons for bombing the north were calculated risks and the results have escalated the war tremendously. The problem is and always has been indigenous in South Vietnam. North Vietnamese troops in the South are an undesirable consequence of American escalation. Yet Johnson persists that it is Hanoi's responsibility to end the war. People who have not investigated the facts are gullible enough to believe this since "communism" is involved.

Henry Cabot Lodge, in a televised speech to the National Press Club on July 1, 1964 stated: "If the people were to deny the Viet Cong, they would thus have no base, they would be through." This is a clear reflection of the problem that our military tactics will not solve. It is a Vietnamese problem; bombing the North was a psychological crutch designed to make the northerners appear as "aggressors". "After all we would not bomb the North with out good reason!" Such is American logic.

Civilian casualties are astronomically high in Vietnam because the Velt Cong and the people are indistinguishable. As Mecklin admits, "the U.S. engaged itself because Vietnam happened to be critical to global strategic considerations, not because of sympathy for the Vietnamese people." I would like some justification for these "considerations", not simple-minded slogans. Must our power in Southeast Asia survive on the blood of the Vietnamese people?

South Vietnam is just a tool for American influence. We are determined as we are in Santo Domingo, to stop the spark of revolution which might precipitate governments disadvantageous to our country politically and economically. This policy is not worth dying for; think about it, do not be afraid to admit you are wrong.

End of the Series.

Patrick Flaherty
Editorial Staff

Southwest--A Billboard

To the editor:

I am interested in the "window signs in the high rise dorms" controversy because of certain larger issues which I think are involved. This controversy relates to a whole complex of problems which are emerging as of crucial importance in our country given the urban sprawl, the population explosion and the effects of technological expansion.

These malignancies are resulting in ant hill overcrowding, deep inroads on privacy, the depletion of natural resources, the destruction of natural beauty, the chemical pollution of water and the biosphere, etc. Taken together they are having an increasingly deleterious effect on what has come to be called the "quality of life."

Seen in this larger context the students who are decorating their windows in the high rise dorms have not a leg to stand on. They are polluting the visual environment in the same sense that billboards have been defacing natural beauty since the invention of the automobile, and in the sense that Musak, transistor radios and just plain noise are polluting the audio environment today.

Perhaps because I am an artist I am overly responsive to the visual. But I do know that I cannot drive by the high rise dorms without casting a hopeful glance at them as a kind of large scale, environmental sculpture. Therefore, I resent having the aesthetic integrity of these structures defaced by amateurishly lettered signs, halloween decorations and anything of that sort.

As for the free speech argument—I can't see its relevancy. Windows are not a normal and acknowledged medium of political communication and dialogue —certainly they were not designed by the architects with that end in view. I, too, think we should get out of Viet Nam but these windows are not soap boxes.

However, it is accepted in our materialistic culture that display space must be paid for, either purchased or rented. Those students choosing to use their windows for invective and exhortation should pay for the privilege; their rent should be increased perhaps thirty or forty dollars a month. This might be a solution but it still would not be mine (I have already indicated what I think about billboards). I like pop art (well — some of it), but not when it stands between me and a beautiful God-made vista, or when it stands between me and a work of architecture.

The university should take the position that nothing deface the windows of the high rise dorms. Students renting the apartments in the future should be required to sign an agreement to use the windows only for what they are intended—to let in the light together with the beauty of the Connecticut Valley.

Academic Publication

To the editor:

There is a proliferation on campus of information and narrow-issue publications, such as the Collegian, dorm newsletters, and under ground papers. While such papers are certainly desirable, there is a lack of any more academically oriented publication.

Such a publication may have articles concerning personal values, the "rights" issue, situation ethics, and other issues of deeper significance to students. It could be a sounding board for anyone with significant views.

Some other students and I are working toward creating just such a publication, to first come out next semester. But we will need help, now and later, from both students and faculty. If anyone is interested in working with this project, now or later, please contact myself (ph. 6-9084), Mike Rasmussen (6-9047), Bob Cadigan (6-8118), or Mr. Ronald Hardy (545-2661).

Dave Roones

NATION'S RIGHT . . .

(Continued from page 4)

defended herself and did not die. The Soviet Union and Mr. Street lead us to believe the Arab designs to destroy Israel are the legitimate rights of the Arabs. To them Israel's defense of its citizens, citizens who too often saw massacres, is aggression. The world body of the U.N. refused to accept the view of Mr. Street, the Soviet bloc and the Arab states.

Peace can only be determined through negotiations between both sides. The Arabs refuse any negotiations. They demand by their so called right of belligerency, the right to destroy Israel. Israel demands by her right of survival, peace for the entire Middle East.

In the words of Abba Eban, "Let us not go backwards to belligerency but forward to peace."

Harry Tillinger '71
Steven Burman '71

WMUA Program Schedule
Week of November 6

TUESDAY
3:00 p.m. Afternoon A Go Go
5:30 p.m. Music Theater
6:00 p.m. International Science Report
6:30 p.m. News and Sports
7:00 p.m. Beyond Antiquity — series concerning the history of man
7:45 p.m. Science, Peace, and Survival
8:00 p.m. History of Vietnam
8:30 p.m. Folk Spotlight
9:30 p.m. Musicale
11:30 p.m. News
11:40 p.m. Night Sounds
1:00 a.m. News

WEDNESDAY
3:00 p.m. Afternoon A Go Go
5:30 p.m. Music Theater
6:00 p.m. History of Vietnam
6:30 p.m. News and Sports
7:00 p.m. Southwest Focus
8:00 p.m. To be Announced
12:00 News
12:05 a.m. Night Sounds
1:00 a.m. News

THURSDAY
3:00 p.m. Afternoon A Go Go
5:30 p.m. Music Theater
6:00 p.m. United Nations Reports
6:30 p.m. News and Sports
7:00 p.m. Canadian Broadcasting Corp.— "Politics of Privation"
8:00 p.m. History of Vietnam
8:30 p.m. Folk Spotlight
9:30 p.m. Musicale
11:30 p.m. News
11:40 p.m. Night Sounds
1:00 a.m. News

FRIDAY
3:00 p.m. Afternoon A Go Go
5:30 p.m. Music Theater
6:00 p.m. International Almanac
6:30 p.m. News and Sports
7:00 p.m. Campus Politics
7:30 p.m. Old Tunes Show
8:30 p.m. Friday Night Survey Show
1:00 a.m. News

SATURDAY
9:00 a.m. Children's Hour
10:00 a.m. News
10:05 a.m. Swinging Saturday
1:00 p.m. Sports Spotlight
1:15 p.m. Football—Rutgers at UMass.
4:00 p.m. The Art of Jazz
7:00 p.m. The Sounds of Now
8:00 p.m. News
8:05 p.m. Standing Room Only folk music by request
11:00 p.m. News
11:10 p.m. Night Ride - WMUA's all-request program

SUNDAY
10:00 a.m. The Sounds of Sunday
12:00 News of the Week in Review
12:30 p.m. Poets' Corner
1:00 p.m. Showcase — show music by request
4:00 p.m. Musicale
8:00 p.m. Canadian Broadcasting Corp. — "Politics of Privation"
8:30 p.m. Classics — classical music by request
12:00 News

WMUA TOP 25 SUPERHIT SURVEY
(Week Ending Nov. 10, 1967)

1. The Rain, The Park & Other Things — Cowsills
2. Next Plane to London—Rose Garden
3. Everlasting Love — Robert Knight
4. Incense and Peppermints — Strawberry Alarmclock
5. Please Love Me Forever — Bobby Vinton
6. To Sir with Love — Lulu
7. Can't Stop Loving You—Last Word
8. Go With Me—Gene and Debbie
9. Holiday — Bee Gees
10. You Better Sit Down Kids—Cher
11. Let It Out (Let it all hang out) — Hombres
12. Back on the Street Again—Sunshine Company
13. I Can See for Miles — Who
14. Get On Up — Esquires
15. Kentucky Woman — Neil Diamond
16. How Can I Be Sure — Young Rascals
17. It's You That I Need—Temptations
18. I'm Wondering — Stevie Wonder
19. Out of the Blue — Tommy James & Shondells
20. Wild Honey — Beach Boys
21. Would You Believe —Buck Rodgers Movement
22. She Is Still A Mystery — Lovin' Spoonful
23. Homborg — Procol Harum
24. Soul Man — Sam and Dave
25. Keep the Ball Rollin' — Jay & The Techniques

STATEMENT OF OWNERSHIP, MANAGEMENT AND CIRCULATION

1. November 6, 1967
2. Massachusetts Daily Collegian
3. Issued Daily, Monday through Friday
4. Student Union, Amherst, Mass. 01002
5. Office in Student Union
6. Printed by Hamilton I. Newell, Inc., University Drive, Amherst, Mass. 01002
   Editor—Chest S. Weinerman, Class of 1968
   Managing Editor—John H. Dean, Jr., Class of 1969
7. Owned by the Student Body of the Univ. of Mass., Student Union, Amherst, Mass. 01002
8. No bondholders
9. Total circulation—10,000

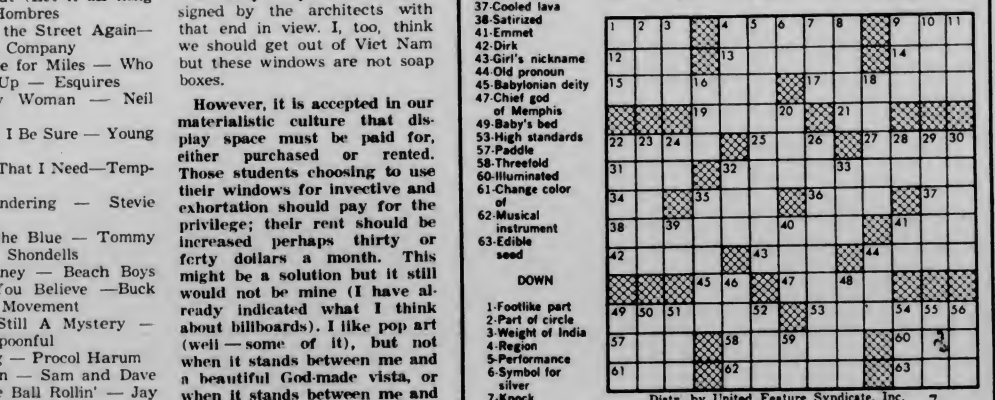
VANILLA FUDGE
Nov. 17th

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

L	A	I	G		R	O	A	D		S	O	B
O	D	O	R		E	D	N	A		T	I	E
B	O	N	E	R	S		T	I		O	L	D
			A	I	T	S		S	T	A	Y	S
D	I	S	T	A	S	T	E		I	T
I	N	L	E	T		Y	E	T		S	O	W
E	T		P	A	Y		L	A	C		N	I
S	O	T		S	E	W		T	A	L	O	N
		I	N		S	E	T	T	L	I	N	G
F	A	T	E	D		D	U	L	L
A	R	T		O	F		R	E	I	G	N	S
D	A	L		L	E	A	N		N	E	O	N
E	R	E		L	E	T	S		G	O	R	Y

7



ACROSS

1-Dance step
4-Macaw
9-Chinese pagoda
12-Before
13-Royal
14-In music, high
15-Sift
17-Pounding instrument
19-Walk in water
21-Printer's measure
22-Liberate
25-Man's name
27-Lamb's pen name
31-Above (poet.)
32-Causing sudden surprise
34-Cyprinoid fish
35-Capuchin monkey
36-Obtained
37-Cooled lava
38-Satirized
41-Emmet
42-Dirk
43-Girl's nickname
44-Old pronoun
45-Babylonian deity
47-Chief god of Memphis
49-Baby's bed
53-High standards
57-Paddle
58-Threefold
60-Illuminated
61-Change color of
62-Musical instrument
63-Edible seed

8-Toward shelter
9-Make lace
10-Everyone
11-Devoured
16-Female sheep
18-Small fish
20-Period of time
22-Frustrates
23-Part of fortification
24-Teutonic deity
26-Country of South America
28-Chinese mile
29-Pointless
30-Semi-precious stone
32-Portuguese for "saint"
33-Bushy clump
35-Haste
39-Pronoun
40-Short sleep
41-Exclamation
44-Definite article
46-Singing voice
48-Arabian seaport
49-Edible fish
50-Beam
51-Exist
52-Be mistaken
54-High mountain
55-Falsehood
56-Music: as written
59-Inspector General (abbr.)

DOWN

1-Footlike part
2-Part of circle
3-Weight of India
4-Region
5-Performance
6-Symbol for silver
7-Knock

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 7

THE ROISTER DOISTERS DRAMATIC SOCIETY

needs you at its meeting in the Middlesex Room of the S.U. at 8:30 P.M.

Thursday, November 9, 1967

Photo by Brookhaven National Laboratory

A chemist examines specimens of ancient grass, in studies to determine their elemental composition. Archaeological restoration of Florence treasures damaged in last November's flood is still continuing.

Lecturers Share Experiences with Area Students

The following events of interest will take place within the next few weeks in the four college area:

Restoration of Art Works

UMASS—Dr. Edward V. Sayre will present a lecture and color slides of "Art Restoration in Florence" at 8 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 14, SBA 120

He has just returned from Florence, Italy where he was a member of the rescue team of art experts who are attempting to restore the damaged art works of last November's flood.

The public is invited.

Reapportionment in the U.S.

UMASS — Dr. Manning J. Dauer, head of the University of Florida's department of political science, will lecture on "Reapportionment: Its Effect on the American States" Wednesday, Nov. 15, at 4 p.m. in Room 120, School of Business Administration, University of Massachusetts.

Dr. Dauer is a specialist in reapportionment and the principal author of the reapportionment law recently enacted by the state of Florida. He is the author of a number of books and articles on reapportionment and American politics.

Mao and Maoism Lecture

ALBANY—"Mao and Maoism" will be the subject of a lecture by Dr. Franklin Houn, associate professor of government at the University of Massachusetts, Saturday, Nov. 11, at the State University of New York at Albany.

A native of China and a U.S. citizen since 1962, Dr. Houn worked for the Chinese government prior to the Communist takeover in 1949.

Dr. Houn is a specialist in Chinese Communist politics, traditional Chinese political culture, East Asian politics, comparative politics and international relations.

Buddhist Art To Be Discussed

AMHERST — Art historian Walter M. Spink of the University of Michigan will deliver the Hamilton Fund Lecture at Amherst College, Wednesday, November 8, at 4:30 p.m. in Mead Auditorium, on "Buddhist Art and Imagery in Indian Asia."

Since 1962, Professor Spink has been director of the Asian Art Archives at the University of Michigan, where he is associate

(Continued on page 8)

New York Trip Highlights Jewish Education Weekend

MASADA—The fortress that was the last resistance to the Roman invaders in 73 A.D. and recently the scene of dramatic excavations in Israel will be the theme of a weekend of activities sponsored by the Amherst Jewish Education Committee — Youth Division.

Activities on Friday evening, November 10 at 8:00 p.m. will include informal reports from on-the-spot visitors to the Masada site, dramatic readings and Israeli songs and dances. Saturday afternoon, November 11 at 4:15 p.m. Dr. J. Wijnhoven from Smith College will speak on the historical significance of Masada. This will be followed by a buffet supper and at 7:00 p.m. a film on the archeological expedition to Masada.

The climax of the weekend's activities will be an excursion to the Jewish Museum in New York City on Sunday, November 12, where an extraordinary exhibit of the Masada "Dig" and its discoveries has been reconstructed.

All activities will take place at Masonic Temple, Main St. and everyone of Jr. High School age and over is welcome to participate in any or all of these activities. For reservations for the trip (cost $10) or additional information call 256-6433 or 256-6246.

NOTICES

SPANISH CLUB
On Tuesday, Nov. 7 at 7:30 p.m. in Norfolk Room, SU. There will be a meeting. Students from Amherst College will speak about their summer program in Mexico. Native music and refreshments will be served.

SKI CLUB
Movies by Warren Miller and Hay-stack Mt., "The Wild Wonderful World of Skiing." Miss Sheila Young speaking. On Tuesday, Nov. 7 at 7:30 p.m. in Morrill Auditorium. All invited. Free.

GSS
On Nov. 7 at 6:30 p.m. there will be a general meeting in Middlesex Room. Exec. board meeting at 6:00 also in Middlesex.

COLONEL'S CADRE
Be at Dickinson Hall at 9:30 a.m. to serve coffee for General Lymmon on Tues., Nov. 7 with uniform.
Also Nov. 7 at 7:30 p.m. there will be a joint meeting with Scabbard and Blade at Dickinson Hall. Uniform required. Lt. Col. Wiseman will show slides. Coffee will be served.

WOMENS SKI TEAM
On Tues., Nov. 7 at 6:30 p.m. in WoPe Student Lounge there is a meeting. Any interested are welcome.

ANGEL FLIGHT
Executive meeting at 7:00 p.m. and regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. in Dickinson Hall Tues., Nov. 7. Please wear uniforms.

EDUCATION CLUB
Poverty Program and Education in India Slide illustrated lecture by Miss Ellen Miller, Salem State Faculty member, on Nov. 7 at 8 p.m. in Hasbrouck 20. Refreshments. All invited to attend.

HILLEL
On Nov. 7 at 8:30 p.m. in Plymouth Room, S.U. Dr. Robert A. Stanfield of the Soc. Dept. will speak on "Life Liberty and the Pursuit of Hippyness."

SOCIOLOGY CLUB
On Tues., Nov. 7 at 7 p.m. in Essex Dining Room there will be a planning meeting.

ANIMAL SCIENCE CLUB
On Nov. 8 at 7 p.m. in Middlesex Room, SU there will be a speaker and refreshments will be served at the meeting.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORG.
Free six month subscription offered to Christian Science Monitor, an international daily newspaper, to all interested foreign students. Those interested should place name and address in RSO mail box No. 908.

AIR FORCE
January graduates should apply now. Officer Training specialist is in Hampden Room of S.U. every Tuesday from 9-3 p.m. For more information, call Sgt. Charles Petrella at main office in Holyoke, collect 536-0546.

SCUBA CLUB
On Wed. night at 7 p.m. there will be a meeting at Curry Hicks, those who have not yet, bring dues.

LOST
Sociology 102 notebook lost in Draper Parking lot. Reward. Call 549-1622.
Blue four-subject notebook from bookcase outside University store. Call Rosalind Clark, 253-7530.

PINNINGS
Carolyn J. Fitzpatrick '70, Coolidge, to John J. Burns '70, Alpha Sigma Phi.
Joanne Galuska '69, Crabtree, to Randall Helweg '69, Hills South.
Mary Ann Mathiesu '71, Melville, to Gary Kohl '70, Gorman.
Jeanne Stone '69, Cooley Dickinson Hospital, to Dalvin Saulnier '69, Mills.

HILLEL
The Exec Board will meet tonight at 6:00 in the Norfolk Room.

CAESURA
There will be a meeting of the board on Tues., Nov. 7, at 6:30 in the Franklin Room.

DEBATE . . .

(Continued from page 3)

lieve it would be necessary to decentralize. Most people, however, did realize that with the continued growth of the campus, in a rather short time there will be a need to decentralize.

In conclusion, it can be said that there was conflict among the students as to what needs to be done and what can be done. The issues brought up this year were new, large and obviously subject to much debate and concern. The SWAP committees urge you if you have feelings regarding changes in student government that you contact your senator in an effort to initiate the changes you feel are needed.

DANCE
featuring
The Boss Tweeds
and
The Maze
Donation 75c
Nov. 11, 8:00-12:00 p.m.
at S.U. Ballroom

Friendly

454 RUSSELL ROAD
HADLEY

SUNDAES

Sundaes are made with 3 scoops of ice cream and with whipped topping. Marshmallow may be substituted at your request. Special request for nuts 10c extra.

Hot Fudge — find out why this is our most popular sundae — 45

SWISS CHOCOLATE ALMOND — .45
BANANA IMPERIAL, 4 scoops of Ice Cream, a whole Banana and heaps of Topping — .70
HOT FUDGE ROYAL BANANA ROYAL STRAWBERRY ROYAL
Vanilla, Chocolate, and Strawberry Ice Cream, a Half Banana, generous portions of Topping, Whipped Topping, Chocolate Sprinkles, and Nuts — .55
HOT BUTTERSCOTCH — .40
STRAWBERRY — .40
MAPLE NUT — .40
PINEAPPLE — .40
CHOCOLATE NUT — .40
MARSHMALLOW and CHOCOLATE SPRINKLES — .40

ICE CREAM

ICE CREAM SAMPLER, 4 flavors of your choice — .40
DISH OF ICE CREAM — .25

BEVERAGES

THE FRIBBLE — A THICK MILK DRINK FABULOUS AND FROSTY! — 40*
MILK SHAKE — with two scoops of ice cream. Chocolate, Vanilla, Coffee, or Strawberry — 35*
MALTED MILK SHAKE — 40*
ICE CREAM SODA — 35*
SHERBET COOLER, the coolest drink ever — 30*
COFFEE, TEA, SANKA — .15
ICED COFFEE OR TEA (in season) — .15
HOT CHOCOLATE with cookies — .15
Hoffman COLA The Only Cola Served in this Shop — 15*
ROOT BEER, ORANGE — .15*
MILK — .15
CHOCOLATE MILK — .20

5% Tax added to Meals of $1.00 or More (Massachusetts)
*Subject to Sales Tax Where Applicable

SANDWICHES

No charge for toasting. Please specify. Hamburgs are normally cooked medium unless otherwise specified.

BIG BEEF — over 1/4 pound of chopped beef, served on buttered toast — 55
BIG BEEF CHEESEBURG, with melted cheese — 65
BIG BEEF CHEESEBURG SPECIAL — for hearty appetites, our BIG BEEF combined with melted cheese, lettuce, tomato, and salad dressing in a very special way — 70

HAMBURG, all beef, ground in our plant With lettuce, tomato, and salad dressing — .35 / .45
CHEESEBURG, really unique, made the Friendly way With lettuce, tomato, and salad dressing — .45 / .50
HAM — .50
GRILLED HAM AND CHEESE — .60
SIZZLED HAM / with Pineapple — .50 / .55
SHRIMP SALAD (not always available) — .90
TUNA FISH SALAD — .40
EGG and OLIVE SALAD — .35
GRILLED CHEESE — .35
STEAK (on buttered toast) — .55
LETTUCE AND TOMATO — .30
BUTTERED TOAST with Jelly — .15
ENGLISH MUFFINS with Jelly — .15
Lettuce, Tomato and Salad Dressing Served On Any Sandwich 10c Extra

FRENCH FRIES — 25

FRIENDLY's is now offering
FREE DELIVERY
All you have to do is call
256-8001 between 7:00-8:00

Redmen Saved Big One For a Rainy Day

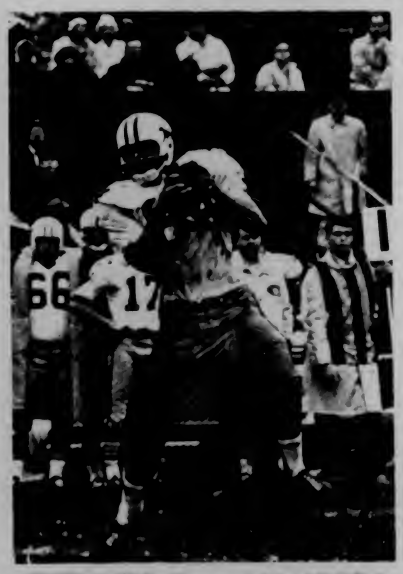
By land or by sea, the Redmen appear to be the class of the Yankee Conference again. Saturday's 21-0 victory over Vermont at the Stadium was smooth, methodical, almost routine.

While the Redmen clinched at least a tie for the title, only 7500 people looked on. It was the second lowest crowd in the Stadium's three-year history. There were only 6000 spectators at last year's rainy New Hampshire game.

One of the interested bystanders was Daily Collegian photographer John Kelly, who nearly regretted his work in the rain Saturday. Greg Landry just missed crashing into the camera-bug on his way to the Redmen's third touchdown. Landry stepped just inside the flag at the corner of the endzone after a 27-yard quarterback sneak.

"The field was wetter than the last Collegian party," Kelly quipped.

DID HE OR DIDN'T HE—Kent Stevens of UMass narrowly misses blocking punt by Vermont's Tom Daigneault in Saturday's game. Vermont's Jim Culhane (33) moves in to block Paul Milnar (89).



EAGER EYE—Vermont's record-holding tailback Bob Mitchell surveys the scene while UMass moves the ball in Saturday's game. Mitchell gained only 69 yards in 30 carries, but he broke the New England career rushing record of 2049 held by Yale's Levi Jackson. Mitchell now has 2061.

RUFFLED REF—Back judge Bernard Burke bends over in pain after injuring leg by stepping into hole in Stadium turf. Another official looks on, along with Bill Frye (24) and Tom York (84) of UMass.

SOLDIERS IN THE RAIN—UMass coach Vic Fusia and Vermont coach Bob Clifford walk off the muddy field together after the Redmen had trounced the Catamounts, 21-0.

JUMPING JEFF—Vermont tight end Jeff Kuhman leaps to grab pass in second quarter. Kuhman caught three passes for 38 yards.

SOAKED BUT SPIRITED—Two UMass fans, one in quiet concentration on the game and the other in vocal support as a cheerleader, brighten a rainy afternoon.

Daily Collegian Photo by John Kelly

LOSING CAUSE—Vermont coach Bob Clifford watches intently from the sidelines as his Catamounts are being shutout by the UMass Redmen, 21-0.

Cornerback McArdle Chosen As Defensive Player of the Week

UMass cornerback Mike McArdle is this week's electee as the top defensive player in the Yankee Conference. Rhode Island end Frank Geiselman and Connecticut defensive tackle Phil Doran were chosen as the top offensive and sophomore players respectively.

McArdle intercepted two passes as UMass clinched a tie for the Yankee Conference title with a 21-0 win over Vermont. The Redmen junior's first interception stopped a Catamount drive on the UMass 25 and his second set up a fourth-period touchdown.

Geiselman, a 6'2 190-pound senior, sparked Rhode Island to a 7-6 win over Boston U. by recovering a fumble on a Ram punt and then catching a touchdown pass on the next play. Gieselman caught three passes for 54 yards as the Rams ran their record to 5-1-1.

Doran, a 6'1 210-pound sophomore, was outstanding at his defensive tackle spot as Connecticut remained alive in the Conference race with a 20-19 win over New Hampshire. Doran made the tackle on five of the first 11 UNH plays and helped keep the Wildcats without a first down until late in the second period.

Other nominations were offense-halfback Charlie Yanush (Maine), halfback Mike Boryczewski (Connecticut), quarterback Ed Walsh (New Hampshire), halfback Bob Mitchell (Vermont) and quarterback Greg Landry (Massachusetts); defense-cornerback Ken Zuch (Maine), linebacker Henry Palasek (Connecticut), tackle Al Witteman (New Hampshire), end Leon Spinney (Rhode Island) and linebacker Bill Wolff (Vermont); sophomores-end Gene Benner (Maine), guard Chuck Lepisto (New Hampshire), halfback Mark McGroary (Rhode Island), defensive end John Wojciechowski (Vermont) and tailback Craig Lovell (Massachusetts).

Football Statistics

Scoring	TD	Pat(1)	Pat(2)	Fg	Pts
Landry	7	0	0	0	42
Sherman	0	19(20)	0	3(5)	28
Grasso	4	0	0	0	24
Driscoll	3	0	0	0	18
Hairston	2	0	0	0	12
Cochrane	1	0	0	0	6
Decembriele	1	0	0	0	6
Lovell	1	0	0	0	6
Warnock	1	0	0	0	6
UMASS	20	19(20)	0(0)	3(5)	148
Opponents	10	8(9)	1(1)	1(2)	75

Passing	Att	Comp	Int	Yds	Td	Pct	Ave/ Comp
Landry	95	50	4	643	4	.526	12.8
Adams	2	1	0	14	0	.500	14.0
Coltin	3	1	0	18	0	.333	18.0
UMASS	100	52	4	675	4	.520	12.9
Opp.	130	67	9	869	3	.515	12.9

Pass Receiving	No	Yds	Td	Ave	Lgst
Warnock	18	253	1	14.1	33
Grasso	11	186	2	16.9	37
Carty	7	100	0	14.3	19
Hairston	5	64	1	12.8	18
Cochrane	3	24	0	4.8	7
Young	2	17	0	8.5	14
Lovell	2	14	0	7.0	8
Tutino	1	15	0	15.0	15
Driscoll	1	2	0	2.0	2

Rushing	Att	Gain	Loss	Net	Ave	Lgst
Landry	111	699	93	606	5.4	73
Driscoll	43	164	11	153	3.5	17
Tutino	35	147	3	144	4.1	14
Lovell	37	134	12	122	3.3	28
Grasso	29	113	5	108	3.7	18
Hairston	15	80	7	73	4.8	17
Decembriele	19	53	2	51	2.7	6
Cochrane	15	46	0	46	3.1	7
Sarno	7	31	3	28	4.0	10
UMASS	312	1467	136	1331	4.2	73
Opponents	250	965	187	778	3.1	65

Punting	No	Yds	Ave	Lgst
Warnock	33	1211	36.7	52
Rogers	1	33	33.0	33
UMASS	34	1244	36.6	52
Opponents	37	1316	35.5	59

Punt Returns	No	Yds	Td	Ave	Lgst
Parnell	20	215	0	10.7	40
Frye	2	18	0	9.0	12
Rogers	3	8	0	2.7	11
UMASS	25	241	0	9.6	40
Opponents	24	201	0	8.3	24
Kickoff Returns	No	Yds	Td	Ave	Lgst
Parnell	9	240	0	26.6	57
Frye	4	63	0	15.7	20
Hairston	1	19	0	19.0	19
Grasso	1	8	0	8.0	8
Cochrane	1	5	0	5.0	5
UMASS	16	335	0	20.9	57
Opponents	27	443	0	16.3	49

Interceptions	No	Yds
McArdle	4	28
Smith	2	16
Rogers	1	23
Milnar	1	12
York	1	10

Fumble Recoveries
York	2
Smith	1
Becker	1
McArdle	1
Milnar	1
Stevens	1
Scheraldi	1
Gomber	1

Team Summaries	UM	OPP
Total First Downs	105	86
by rushing	67	48
by passing	32	37
by penalty	6	1
Own Fumbles	15	18
own fumbles lost	6	9
No. Penalties	38	29
yds lost penalties	302	254

Everything But Mudpies

Stopping Mitchell Keyed Redmen To Shutout Victory Over Vermont

More Sports, Photos — Page 7

By TOM FITZGERALD
Sports Editor

Will Boston sell its idealism down the Charles by electing Mrs. Hicks? Will the Four Tops appear at UMass this year? Will Yahoo come out before the summer? And will the Redmen ever lose another Yankee Conference game ?

The last of these burning issues of our time came sharply into focus Saturday as Fusia's victors took time out from their busy schedule to slosh in the mud at Alumni Stadium.

Both coaches, Fusia and Vermont's Bob Clifford, seemed to think that the Catamounts made a good account of themselves. But the Redmen walked away with a 21-0 win, and did everything but sling mudpies at the boys from the Green Mountains.

When a three - yard gain by Vermont workhorse Bob Mitchell brought the ball to the UM 30 late in the second quarter, the Catamounts should have called time-out for a victory celebration. It was their deepest penetration of the day.

Afterwards Coach Clifford of Vermont expressed what Walt Abbott of Maine and John Toner of UConn had said or thought after their games with UMass — their teams are in the Yankee Conference, but not in the Redmen's league.

It was the 13th straight victory for UM in the Conference. The Redmen's last Conference loss was a 10-8 decision to Maine at Orono on the first game of the 1965 season. UM lost the title that day on a deflected pass in the Maine endzone.

Clifford sat in silence on a bench in the locker room, waiting for his players to dress and get in the bus so he could leave the scene of the tragedy. "No, the field didn't hurt us," he said. "I thought we played a good football game. But their depth got to us in the second half. After the first half it was only 7-0.

"One of their touchdowns came after an intercepted pass and another after a short punt. Of course good teams capitalize on those things."

Meanwhile, Fusia went through the familiar post-game routine—the cigarette, the can of soda and the words of love for the Redman defensive unit. "I'm glad that one's over," he said.

The defense held Mitchell, who handled the ball more than the quarterback, to a mere 69 yards in 30 carries. "That was the job we had to do," said Fusia. "And we took the pass away from Kuhman." Tight end Jeff Kuhman caught three passes for 38 yards.

"We were running him more inside than usual," said Clifford of Mitchell's performance. One of the team's best blockers, tackle Jim Sullivan, had sprained his ankle Wednesday night while running from his dorm to his car to get some books. He didn't play at all, and the other tackle, Ron Gargano, played although he too had sprained his ankle last week.

Sullivan's replacement, Ron Tice, played well with only two day's experience on the offensive line. He had been on defense all season.

"It hurts your offense physically when you have to make such changes," said Clifford. "But we thought we could move the ball. Nothing fancy. We ran more from the I-formation than we have all year."

The UVM coach was impressed by Nick Warnock, Jerry Grasso and Craig Lovell, and the overall size of the Redmen. "They're so big, good Lord!" he said. "That number 72 (Marty Scheralis, 6'4" - 230 pounds). There was one play when he was standing right in front of me. I could not believe it."

Fusia was loquacious on the merits of sophomore Lovel. "He was running like a deer—and you can spell that d-e-e-r or d-e-a-r as far as I'm concerned."

"Landry's passing was hurt because they were knocking off our receivers at the line of scrimmage."

'M' Club Stars

Guard Don Glogowski and cornerback Mike McArdle were named the winners of the weekly Varsity "M" Club award for their performances in the 21-0 over Vermont. The awards were given at the "M" Club luncheon yesterday.

GLOGOWSKI

Glogowski, a 5'10, 185-pound senior from Agawam, has been a steady performer all season on the offensive line and did a fine job of blocking Saturday despite the poor conditions.

McArdle, a 6'0, 185-pound junior from Millbury, came up with two key interceptions against the Catamounts and twice came in to stop Vermont runners for a loss, one of them Bob Mitchell.

McARDLE

NE's Top Ten

1. Dartmouth (5-1) lost to Yale, 56-15.
2. Harvard (5-1) defeated Penn, 45-7.
3. Holy Cross (4-2) lost to Villanova, 23-14.
4. Yale (5-1) defeated Dartmouth, 56-15.
5. Massachusetts (5-1) defeated Vermont, 21-0.
6. Boston College (2-4) lost to Cincinnati, 27-21.
7. New Hampshire (4-2) lost to Connecticut, 20-19.
8. Rhode Island (5-1-1) defeated Boston University, 7-6.
9. Northeastern (6-1) defeated Maine, 24-0.
10. Boston U. (2-6) lost to Rhode Island, 7-6.

Intramurals

It will be the dorms against the fraternities tomorrow night at 7 p.m. in the fourth annual intramural all-star touch football game. The game, which highlights the fall's intramural action, will take place at the intramural field.

The intramural basketball season begins on Monday, November 13, as all dorm, fraternity and independent teams begin league play. Trophies will be awarded to the campus, dorm, fraternity and independent champions.

Entries for handball are due tomorrow. Competition will be held in dorm, fraternity and independent flights as play begins on November 15.

In independent bowling action, the Invalids bounced the Bouncing F's, 8-0, on October 30. On the next day, the Chem Club squashed the Toads, 8-0, and the Dell Vikings downed the Association, 8-0.

In the Dormitory South League, the Monuments downed the Colt 45's, 6-2. The Huskies overthrew the Bulldozers, 8-0, and the Terrors massacred the Commanches, 8-0.

In the North Central League, the Academics blanked the Patriots, 8-0. The Smashers caged the Leopards, 6-2, and the Spartans plastered the Colonials, 6-2.

In the North League, the Flaming A's drowned the Barracudas, 6-2. The Aces chopped down the Redwoods, 8-0, and the Maples uprooted the Oaks, 8-0.

In the South League, the Birch plucked the Eagles, 8-0, while the Maroons squashed the Lemons, 6-2. The Trojans whitewashed the HiLo's, 8-0, and the Black Bears broke the Cherries, 8-0.

AREA LECTURERS . . .

(Continued from page 6)

professor of the history of art. This past summer he was the organizer of a photographic expedition on Indian art conducted for the International Congress of Orientalists.

Observations on Congress

SMITH — Congressman John Brademas, representative from the 3rd District of Indiana, will deliver the 12th annual Alice M. Holden lecture at Smith College. He will speak on "Observations on Congress: The Year 1967; The Year 2000" on November 14 at 8:15 p.m. in Sage Hall. The public is invited.

Mr. Brademas was re-elected to his fifth term in November 1966 to serve in the 90th Congress of the United States. He was graduated from Harvard University and received his Ph.D. from Oxford University where he was a Rhodes Scholar. He has served as executive assistant to the late Adlai Stevenson, legislative assistant to U.S. Senator Pat McNamara and administrative assistant to U.S. Representative Thomas Ludlow Ashley.

UM Opponents

Yale's stunning 56-15 rout of Dartmouth highlighted the action of UMass opponents Saturday. The triumph put Yale at the top of the Ivy League standings with a 4-0 mark. An incomplete pass on a two-point conversion attempt cost the New Hampshire Wildcats a shot at the Yankee Conference title as they went down to defeat at the hands of Connecticut, 20-19.

In striking similarity, Boston University lost a two-point gamble and bowed to Rhode Island, 7-6. The Rams are now 5-1-1. Rutger's sensational sophomore Bruce Van Ness, switched from tailback to quarterback only a week ago, threw two scoring strikes as the Scarlet Knights overpowered Lafayette, 27-3.

A 1-5 Cincinnati club handed Boston College another loss, 27-21. Northeastern handed winless Maine another pasting, 24-0. The hapless Black Bears were unable to move the ball past their own 46.

Redmen on the Warpath

CROSS-COUNTRY — vs. Providence and Central Connecticut (at home, 3:30 p.m.)

Daily Collegian Photo by John Kelley

STANDING IN THE SHADOW — Freshman fullback Pierre Marchand, who injured his leg two weeks ago, watches frosh lose to B.C. frosh, 20-7, Friday.

The Winner in Boston: Kevin H. White

BOSTON (AP) — Kevin H. White, who said his campaign was aimed at barring "hate and bigotry" from Boston, Tuesday won election as mayor of Boston, defeating the controversial Mrs. Louise Day Hicks, the foe of proposed desegregation plans for schools with nearly total Negro enrollments.

The unofficial tally of the votes from all 275 city precincts, including absentee ballots which were counted separately, gave White 102,551 to 90,122 for Mrs. Hicks.

The campaign centered on racial imbalance in public schools. An undercurrent of White backlash was fanned by rioting in Boston's dominantly Negro district of Roxbury last summer.

Mrs. Hicks, a member of the School Committee, opposed busing Negro students to achieve racial balance in schools.

Her campaign slogan was "you know where I stand."

"No man or woman is going to tear this city apart with hate or bigotry or false promises," said White.

Both mayoralty candidates are Democrats although voting was nonpartisan.

The 48-year-old Mrs. Hicks, grandmother of three and mother of two, maintained a firm position against busing Negro children to achieve racial balance in the public schools.

Mrs. Hicks refused to agree with the Negro claims that "de facto segregation" existed in schools where enrollments were almost 100 per cent colored.

White, 38, serving his third term as secretary of state, proposed that children in grades one through four go to neighborhood schools. He said grades five to eight could attend "middle schools" while wider zones and high school pupils could commute to other areas.

White got bipartisan congratulations at his headquarters after the count was completed.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who had backed White in the nonpartisan election, was there, as well as the state's Republican governor, John A. Volpe.

Both spoke, but between their appearances, the defeated candidate, Mrs. Louise Day Hicks, showed up to give White her best wishes.

Kennedy said he thought it was important for all those throughout the nation who followed the campaign to realize that "supporters of both candidates reflected the deep sense of frustration and discontent we have in meeting the problems of the cities."

He cited lawlessness in the streets, pollution and poor education in our schools, and said White would need the support of the city, the state and the federal government in coping with them.

Volpe praised White as a man who "treated things as he saw them," and said he was certain White could tackle the problems with "honor and integrity."

Mrs. Hicks wished White her "very best and a successful regime as mayor."

Earlier, in a concession speech at her headquarters, Mrs. Hicks said, "I certainly will work with Mr. White and I trust he will have wonderful years as mayor of Boston."

Latest MDC Results:

Northampton Re-elects Puchalski; UMass Grad Student Fitchburg Mayor

FITCHBURG (AP)—William G. Flynn, 25, graduate student at the University of Massachusetts, Tuesday became the youngest man ever elected Mayor of Fitchburg.

Mayor George J. Bourque, a four-term incumbent, conceded defeat in the nonpartisan election.

Flynn has served one term on the city council. He is a former school teacher.

NORTHAMPTON — Incumbent mayor Wallace J. Puchalski, a Democrat, Tuesday won a fourth term as mayor of Northampton, easily defeating Fred B. Grinnell, Jr., a Republican.

Northampton is one of the few Massachusetts cities with a partisan local election.

Springfield—Frank H. Freedman Tuesday was elected mayor of Springfield, defeating State Rep. James L. Grimaldi.

Freedman will replace Charles V. Ryan, stepping down after three terms in the office.

Holyoke—William S. Taupier, 31, defeated incumbent Mayor Daniel F. Dibble Tuesday in an upset in the city's nonpartisan election. Dibble is completing his second term. Taupier is in his second term as an alderman.

Brockton—John E. Sullivon, a Democrat, was elected mayor Tuesday, defeating Republican Hjalmar R. Peterson 11,734—11,550. Mayor Alvin Jack Sims, a Republican did not seek reelection.

Pittsfield—Donald G. Butler, a city councilman for 16 years, was elected mayor of Pittsfield Tuesday unseating incumbent Remo Del Gallo by an unofficial vote of 11,306 to 8,788.

Lawrence—Mayor Daniel P. Kiley Jr. scored a onesided victory Tuesday against John P. S. Mahoney Jr. in the mayor's race.

Kiley polled 18,824 to 3,865 for Mahoney.

Lynn — Incumbent Mayor Irving E. Kane easily won reelection to a second two-year term Tuesday, defeating Pasquale Caggiano, a former state representative and associate state commissioner of labor, in a nonpartisan election.

The vote was 18,327 for Kane to 8,550 for Caggiano.

Marlboro—Frederic A. Cole, a member of the School Committee, Tuesday defeated Mayor Frank D. Walker. Walker was seeking his second term in a nonpartisan election.

Chicopee—Richard H. Demers won reelection to a second term as mayor of Chicopee Tuesday, defeating a former mayor, Edward Lysek, who was trying for a comeback after two years out of office.

Lysek had held office for three terms previously.

Waltham — Mayor Richard F. Dacey won a second term Tuesday, defeating John B. Delaney, the man he ran against two years ago, 8535—6704.

Newburyport—Mayor George H. Lawler Jr., Tuesday was defeated in a nonpartisan election for mayor by City Councillor Byron J. Matthews.

North Adams—James F. Cleary, an insurance executive, defeated incumbent Mayor Francis C. Florini for mayor of North Adams Tuesday.

Cleary received 4,159 votes to 3,894 for Florini, who was seeking his fourth two-year term.

New Bedford—Mayor Edward F. Harrington won election to a fourth two-year term Tuesday, defeating attorney Louis J. Ostric, a member of the city Airport Commission, in a nonpartisan election.

Harrington's margin of victory was about 4 - 1.

Attleboro — Thomas A. Piggott was elected Tuesday to a second term as mayor. He defeated Municipal Council President Raymond A. Macomber 4720 to 4136.

Taunton—Benjamin A. Friedman, 51, Tuesday won his third term as mayor when his opponent, state Rep. Frank G. Rice, 54, conceeded with only two of 20 precincts counted.

Friedman was leading about 4 - 1.

Gardner — Mayor Cyrille P. Landry won his fifth two-year term in office Tuesday, defeating Ward 2 City Councillor Norman H. Beauregard in a close nonpartisan race.

Elsewhere across the country:

Cleveland, Ohio — Republican Seth C. Taft held a steady but inconclusive lead Tuesday over Negro Democrat Carl B. Stokes in Cleveland's closest mayoral battle in a generation.

The election board reported unofficial returns from 750 of the 903 polling places gave Taft 114,216 and Stokes 98,823.

Gary, Ind.—Democrat Richard G. Hatcher, a Negro, won a cliffhanger of a race for mayor of this steel-making center Tuesday night, according to unofficial returns.

Returns from 129 of 132 precincts showed Hatcher out front with 38,441 to 37,204 for Republican Joseph Radigan.

Two of the three remaining precincts were in predominantly Negro neighborhoods.

(Continued on page 2)

'Frisco Poll Heads for Defeat

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A peace proposition urging an immediate cease-fire and withdrawal of U.S. forces from Vietnam appeared headed for convincing defeat Tuesday night in a San Francisco municipal election poll.

The San Francisco initiative ballot question was the first testing of public opinion on the war in a major U.S. city.

The count from 250 of 1,341 precincts gave 25,305 against withdrawal and 13,670 for a cease fire.

A record turnout of 85 per cent of the city's 317,715 voters was predicted.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOL. XCVI, NO. 43 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1967

Supreme Court Throws Out Teachers' Loyalty Oath Case

Washington (AP) —The Supreme Court threw out Maryland's loyalty oath for teachers and other public employees Monday on grounds its requirements are too imprecise.

It refused also to examine legal questions raised by U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war, including President Johnson's authority to send troops to Vietnam without a congressional declaration of war.

The Maryland loyalty program is the fourth such state program upset by the court since 1964. Others involved Arizona, New York and Washington state.

The 6-3 decision written by Justice William O. Douglas, left serious doubt that any other state program requiring loyalty certificates of teachers could pass high court muster.

"We are in the First Amendment field," Douglas wrote. "The continuing surveillance which this type of law places on teachers is hostile to academic freedom."

Specifically, the majority found fault with the requirement that prospective state employees certify they are not engaged "in one way or another" in an attempt to forcibly overthrow the U.S. or Maryland government.

Douglas said the six judges did not know whether this was intended to cover innocent membership in a subversive organization.

"As we have said in like situations," Douglas continued, "the oath required must not be so vague and broad as to make men of common intelligence speculate at their peril on its meaning."

Chief Justice Earl Warren and Justices Hugo L. Black, William J. Brennan Jr., Abe Fortas and Thurgood Marshall voted with Douglas.

Justices John M. Harlan, Petter Stewart and Byron R. White dissented, with Harlan saying they found nothing unconstitutional about the oath. He attributed to the majority "a process of reasoning that defies analysis."

But Douglas found himself and Stewart in the minority on the Vietnam issue when the court decided not to examine the legal aspects of President Johnson's dispatch of troops to the war zone. "I intimate not even tentative views upon any of these matters," Stewart said, "but I think the court should squarely face them." He spoke also for Douglas, who took a similar position alone last term.

The Stewart-Douglas position was set forth in a written dissent from the court's refusal to hear the cases of three Army privates who were court-martialed after refusing to be shipped to Vietnam.

Sophomores Plan S.E.N.D.O.F.F. Weekend

Coming, another first for the Class of 1970; a Sophomore Weekend on December 1, 2, and 3. S.E.N.D.O.F. was initially created as a weekend that was sponsored by Sophomores specifically for Sophomores and the campus in general, who would realize some real financial value from their class tax as well as enjoying outstanding entertainment.

S.E.N.D.O.F.F. is also a new method of starting off the basketball season with a blast. It was felt that the basketball team needed a better way of beginning the season, and that perhaps the weekend would stimulate this interest.

President Bruce Balboni noted that Sophomores will have reduced rates to all except one event and that tickets for Sophs will be available only on the first day of sales and only the first day at reduced prices. Thereafter all tickets will be at the regular prices regardless of class.

In order to obtain the reduced prices, each Sophomore must present his ID card for each ticket. He may purchase only one ticket per event per ID. If a sophomore's date is a Sophomore he must obtain her ID to purchase 2 tickets at the reduced prices.

The events for the weekend are quite interesting and well-suited to a mature college audience; a weekend that the Class of 1970 is extremely proud to present.

Friday night will be a folk house called the Bitter Send, modeled after the famous Bitter End Nite Club in New York City. Jackie Washington and The Time Square Two will be the featured entertainment. Also included are exotic drinks and pastries, as well as favors including an exquisite twelve ounce glass. The house will be open from 7:30 to 12:00 and the admission will be $1.50.

Saturday night besides the first basketball game, there will be a dance with the Turtles and the Pilgrims. So that all may be accommodated, there are two separate shows planned, each with separate admission. The first is from 8:00 to 10:00 p.m., and the other from 10:15 to until 12:00. Admission is $1.25 for Sophs and $1.50 for all others.

One of the most outstanding vocal groups in America will appear Sunday evening at 7:00 p.m. in the Cage. Simon and Garfunkel is Simon and Garfunkel and need no introduction. Tickets for this concert are $2.00 for sophs and $2.50 for all others.

Also appearing as part of S.E.N.D.O.F.F. are the Harlem Globetrotters, famous throughout the world. Tickets for the performance Thursday night December 7 are the same as the Sunday concert, $2.00 and $2.50.

This is what a good weekend consists of. The Class of 1970 is extremely pleased to present this well balanced entertainment to the Sophomore Class and the university community. It is our sincere desire and expectation that you will experience a most enjoyable weekend.

Kevin H. White deefated Louise Day Hicks yesterday for Mayor of Boston 102,551 to 90,122 (unofficial count).

Stolen Photos Are Recovered

by BILL DICKINSON
Staff Reporter

The four photographs stolen from the "Charles H. Currier—Victorian Photographer" exhibit in the Student Union have been recovered.

According to police, three students walked into the campus police station Monday afternoon and returned three of the pictures, saying they had found them.

Then after the Union had

(Continued on page 2)

Bill to Eliminate Married Students' Senator Passed

At the last Constitutional Convention, the Senators and class officers passed a bill which will remove the married students' representative from the senate.

The bill proposed by Senators Hartwell and Nault, questioned the necessity of a married students' senator. In this year's election, Lew Gurwitz was elected—unopposed and after receiving only one vote. The bill will not go into effect next year and therefore Senator Gurwitz will not be removed from office.

A bill proposing that the Student Senate president be elected in a general election was referred to the Student Government Affairs Committee until the next Constitutional Convention. Elaborating on their bill, Bruce Balboni and Paul Silverman spoke in favor of a more direct student participation in the working to the Senate.

The bill itself stipulated that the Senate would choose from its members two candidates to be put up for election. The bill also proposes that "There will be no posters, fliers, or other printed matter whatsoever distribuated, amiled, etc. by either candidate of his supporters.

Debate on this bill centered around whether or not the senate presidency was an executive office. The point was made that no one person could actually speak for the senate. President Jim Collins spoke against this resolution. In defining the role of the presidency he compared it to the speaker of the House in Congress. His post consists of relating the position of the Student Senate to the Administration.

The point was made that any changes in the present system would necessitate changes in the power structure of the student senate. The Senate, at present, is set up like the British Parliament.

This question will definitely be reconsidered at the next convention.

University of Massachusetts extension advisor H. Sidney Vaughan, standing at rear, takes part in a village committee meeting in the central African nation of Malawi. The University, under a U.S. Agency for International Development contract, is helping the new nation set up a U.S.—type agricultural extension system to boost Malawi farm production and develop its agricultural export trade.

UMASS CHAPLAIN DISCUSSES STUDENT MARIJUANA USAGE

By DOUG HINCKLEY
Staff Reporter

A University chaplain, the Rev. David A. Purdy, has told The Collegian, "From my contact with students at the University, approximately 80% have been confronted with the decision of whether or not to smoke pot."

Mr. Purdy cautioned against taking his statement too literally, saying, "My contact at the University has consisted of meeting only a few hundred students." A completely accurate evaluation would require interviewing all the students on campus, he suggested.

The fact that most of the students who were confronted with the decision rejected marijuana cannot be explained as "strictly a moral decision."

"Several of the students were tempted to smoke pot, but they rejected it on various grounds," he said. For some, it was a fear of the unknown consequences that might result from such an uncontrolled situation; for others, the legal penalties for such an act prevented them from smoking it, Mr. Purdy believes. Several students said that they did not need to find any means of "escape."

In response to the question of drugs in general, Mr. Purdy said, "A heightened awareness must have a lasting effect." People who use hallucinatory drugs, such as LSD, are very receptive to their environment, but this awareness of stimuli diminished very rapidly, he said.

Mr. Purdy expressed concern that drugs are being used as both, "1. An escape from the everyday world and 2. Entry into the escapist cult which has developed around drugs." As a plus factor Mr. Purdy said that drugs have led to a movement away from an impersonal society and a trend toward inner rather than outer involvement.

Referring to a book by Teilhard Chardin Mr. Purdy agreed that some day man may be able to achieve inner involvement without the use of drugs.

STOLEN PHOTOS . . .

(Continued from page 1)

closed Monday night, the night supervisor found the other photograph wrapped in a paper bag outside the campus store.

Catherine Campbell, chairman of the Student Union Art Committee, credited a story in the Daily Collegian for the return of the pictures. The story explained that the exhibit is on the communists don't take advantution and is federal property. If the missing photographs had not been returned, the F.B.I. would have been called in to investigate.

Daily Collegian
Hotline
545-2550

Still Controversy Over Nude Performance

"There is nothing wrong with Psychedelic Light Shows even with nude dancers in them" according to a release from La Resistance received by the Collegian last night.

The article refers to a Homecoming performance entitled "After the Third World Raspberry" in which the dancer, Miss Jenni Dean, "appeared clad only in green spots." Miss Dean's manager was informed that if she did not appear dressed for the second show the group would not be paid.

A mild controversy has been raging ever since over rights, morals, aesthetics and that revered catch-all—freedom.

In the latest installment, La Resistance accused the Administration of indifference "to cultural or aesthetic refinement and content to stagnate forever in their own commonplace tastes and ideas."

Implying that the administration has Puritanical notions about human nakedness, the article countered with an assertion that "the human nude is one of the finest examples of 'art'—and not 'trash'—that the world has to offer."

The article concluded, predictably enough, on a note of student rights and their infringement by Administration officials. "We have the right as students and the obligation as human beings to decide for ourseves what we think is right or wrong, appropriate or inappropriate," claims La Resistance. "No one can take that right from us and no one will!"

Volpe to Cut National Guard

BOSTON (AP) — Gov. John A. Volpe said Tuesday he has accepted a Defense Department reorganization proposal that will mean a cut of 85 men in Massachusetts Army National Guard strength.

The governor said he rejected an August reorganization proposal that would have cost 381 men.

He said the plan he accepted included addition of a military police battalion.

The change is due to take effect next month, the governor said.

Maj. Gen. Joseph M. Ambrose, state adjutant general, declined to say the effect of the changes of specific units or armories, but said, "hundreds of individuals will be reassigned and many units will be eliminated, relocated or designated."

ELECTIONS . . .

(Continued from page 1)

Portsmouth, N.H.—Mrs. Eileen Foley, 49, a state senator and mother of three children, Tuesday was elected mayor of Portsmouth.

She defeated Paul E. McEachern, 29, a lawyer, 4,473 to 3,844.

Jackson, Miss. — Democrat Rep. John Bell Williams, stripped of his congressional seniority for bolting the party's 1964 presidential ticket, swept to a one-sided victory over Republican Rubel L. Phillips Tuesday night in Mississippi's general election for governor.

Louisville, Ky. — Louie B. Nunn, a South Kentucky lawyer, Tuesday was elected the first Republican governor of Kentucky in 24 years.

He surged steadily ahead of Democrat Henry Ward, a former highway commissioner.

Philsdelphia, Pa. — Democrat Mayor James H. J. Tate won re-election in Philadelphia. To do it, he overcame the spirited challenge of Republican Dist. Atty. Arlen J. Specter and a split within his own Democratic Party.

Baltimore, Md.—Thomas J. D'Alesandro III, reclaimed Baltimore's City Hall for the Democrats, defeating Republican Arthur W. Sherwood.

Hartford, Conn.—Republican Ann Uccello upset the Democrat mayor of Hartford, Conn. That put a Republican mayor in charge in the home city of Democratic National Chairman John M. Baily.

Indianapolis, Ind.—Richard G. Lugar, 35, a Republican Businessman, was elected mayor of Indianapolis, Ind., defeating the Democratic incumbent after a campaign which likened the city administration to that of President Johnson.

New Haven, Conn.—Mayor Richard C. Lee, a Democrat, was elected to his eighth term in New Haven, Conn.

Macon, Ga.—Ronnie Thompson, a Republican and a gospel singer, defeated the Democratic mayor of Macon, Ga.

First Choice Of The Engageables

They like the smart styling and the perfect center diamond . . . a brilliant gem of fine color and modern cut. The name, Keepsake, in your ring assures lifetime satisfaction. Select yours at your Keepsake Jeweler's store. He's in the yellow pages under "Jewelers."

REGISTERED Keepsake® DIAMOND RINGS

PRICES FROM $100. TO $5000. RINGS ENLARGED TO SHOW BEAUTY OF DETAIL
® TRADE MARK REG. A. H. POND COMPANY, INC. ESTABLISHED 1895

HOW TO PLAN YOUR ENGAGEMENT AND WEDDING

Please send new 20-page booklet, "How To Plan Your Engagement and Wedding" and new 12-page full color folder, both for only 25c. Also, send special offer of beautiful 44-page Bride's Book. 767

Name _____
Address _____
City _____
State _____ Zip _____

KEEPSAKE DIAMOND RINGS, BOX 90, SYRACUSE, N. Y. 13202

The Brothers of

Phi Sigma Kappa

Invite Freshmen to

OPEN SMOKERS

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 7 — 8:00 P.M.

and

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 9 — 8:00 P.M

at the Grad House — 382 N. Pleasant St.

The first test flight of the Apollo Saturn V is scheduled for today at 7 a.m. Dr. George E. Mueller and Dr. Wernher von Braun look on at Kennedy Space Center, Fla.

Flight Tests Escape Hatch

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Workmen Tuesday loaded the power system of the Apollo spacecraft to be lofted Thursday in the first test of the Saturn 5 moon rocket, the biggest thing ever built to fly.

As count clicked down past minus two days, the weather team tested gusts from the cold that refrigerated the Cape area Sunday and Monday. They said winds will be high and seas rough Thursday morning, but likely will not interfere with Saturn 5's flight.

Pre-launch work went smoothly. Restraining arms that will hug the rocket until it revs up to top power were loaded with explosives that will blast them open to free that vehicle.

The Apollo spacecraft, like the one that will carry astronauts on the moon trip, was loaded Tuesday with supercold gases that run its fuel cell electrical supply.

The rocket is to fly at 7 a.m. EST Thursday but the space agency can launch as late as midday if holds develop in the countdown.

The 8½-hour flight is to send the Apollo ship and the Saturn's third stage into a low parking orbit. After one revolution, the third stage is to re-start, taking the craft out 11,400 miles for a fiery plunge home at 25,000 miles per hour, the speed of a ship coming home from the moon.

The Apollo command module is to encounter temperatures up to 4,500 degrees as it skips into the atmosphere over the Pacific. It is to drop gently by parachutes northwest of Hawaii and be claimed from the sea. Weather forecast for the recovery zone was good Tuesday.

Aside from qualifying an intended workhorse rocket of the American space program and the man-protective shield of the Apollo ship, the flight will test the design of the quick-escape hatch devised after the Jan. 27 fire which killed three astronauts.

SUG Elections

Elections for the Student Union Governing (SUG) Board were held yesterday. Ballots are expected to be counted today. Results will be published in the Collegian when thely are received along with a feature on SUG activities and policies.

Pope May OK Some "Pills"

ROME (AP)—The only birth control pills that Pope Paul VI might approve are those that prevent conception, The Rev. Giacome Perico, an Italian Jesuit member of the Pope's birth control commission, said Tuesday.

Writing in La Civilta Cattolica, a Jesuit periodical, Father Perico said the "day after" pills developed by American scientists and the "month after" pills produced in Sweden would not be approved because they cause women to abort.

He said the Pope might find morally acceptable the pills developed by Dr. Gregory Pincus of the United States, which prevent conception.

The Pope has not indicated when he will announce whether the Roman Catholic ban on mechanical and chemical contraceptives will be modified.

$$$$$

Student pay checks, for October will be available Thursday, Nov. 9 at Cashier's Office, Whitmore Hall, 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

World News Roundup

News Briefs

NATIONAL

The Senate completed congressional action Tuesday on a bill continuing Secret Service protection for Mrs. John F. Kennedy and her children until March 1, 1969.

The bill now goes to the White House for President Johnson's signature.

Nearly 20,000 more standby troops—National Guardsmen and Army Reserves—have been authorized by defense secretary Robert S. McNamara, the Pentagon said Monday.

In its announcement, the Pentagon made no specific mention of riot-control demands, but the additional 19,800 men will include more state troops for possible use against civil disturbances.

An Army spokesman explained this meant the men would aid in disasters and other special assignments, but agreed "state missions" mainly referred to civil disorders.

John Nance Garner, the former vice president who broke with Franklin D. Roosevelt over the third term issue, and retired from politics when he lost, dies at age 98.

Technicians groom the Apollo spacecraft for its ride aboard the giant Saturn 5 rocket as the countdown for the first big test of man to the moon gear rolls steadily toward blastoff.

Negotiators for the United Auto Workers and Chrysler head into around-the-clock bargaining on a new contract, just 36 hours away from a strike deadline. Some of Chrysler's 103,000 UAW members already have walked off.

VIETNAM

Signs build up in the central highlands that the Communists may be moving into position for a new dry season offensive.

WASHINGTON

The nation's jobless rate rose last month to 4.3 per cent, highest level in two years, the Labor Department reports.

INTERNATIONAL

After weeks of fruitless private talks, Egypt calls for an urgent meeting of the U.N. Security Council for a showdown on a Middle East settlement.

English Director Says Freshmen Ill Prepared

By WALTER STACHURA
Staff Reporter

"No," declared Walker Gibson, director of freshman English. He had just been asked if high schools prepare their English students satisfactorily for college.

Gibson qualified his answer in a Collegian interview, saying that many high school students are reasonably well prepared in skills but not so well prepared psychologically.

"Shyness and inarticulateness in the classroom are two of the problems that many students entering college face," according to Gibson. Students who sit like rocks in class are not getting a complete college education, he explained.

He blames both the student and the high school English teacher for these problems. In fact "some of these kids do not trust their teachers."

To solve the problems of shyness and inarticulateness, Gibson would have high school teachers stress more creative imagination and discussions in their classrooms.

He indicated that he would like a greater variety of writing styles taught in secondary schools because much of the writing now being taught is too stiff and formal.

To help prepare high school English teachers to improve their teaching skills, the University offers summer institutes set up under the National Education Defense Act.

The institutes are under the direction of Richard Ulin, a member of the Education Department.

Gibson wonders about the effects of this program so far. He feels that the summer institutes are well taught but points out that only 45-50 teachers can attend the program each summer.

"High school English teachers are harassed and over-worked people; they deserve and need more help from the colleges than they are getting," added Gibson.

One of the duties of the director of freshman English is to help the teachers under him improve their teaching techniques. Gibson thinks his teachers ought to keep a balance between their roles as formal lecturer and discussion supervisor.

He also encourages his teachers to show their students different styles of writing. "English 111 has more ambitious aims than preparing the student to write anthropology papers," said Gibson.

Mother Charged with Manslaughter

BARNSTABLE, Mass. (AP) — A medical defense witness testified Tuesday he could not say for certain whether medical care could have saved the life of Lisa Sheridan, 5, last Spring.

The child's mother, Mrs. Dorothey Sheridan, 30, a Christian Scientist, is on trial for manslaughter, with the state contending the child died from neglect.

Dr. Robert T. Sceery of Cohasset, a pediatrician at Massachusetts General Hospital, said, he believed no untrained person would have concluded the child might die of a lung infection.

David E. Sleeper of Wellesley public relations manager for the church, testified in cross examination by Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis, that he would not advise a mother with a sick child to seek medical aid, but to rely on prayer and the Christian Science doctrine.

Walter J. Skinner, counsel for Mrs. Sheridan, said that a child being "off her feed and listless was no indication she was in critical condition."

The Assistant Dean and Director of Administration of Harvard Law School will speak tonight at 8 on "Current Trends in Law Education and the Harvard Law School" at Converse Administration Building, Amherst College.

News Staff Meeting
Mandatory for all present staff.
New staff invited
Thursday, Nov. 9 at 6:30

DANCE
featuring
The Boss Tweeds
and
The Maze
Donation 75c
Nov. 11, 8:00-12:00 p.m.
at S.U. Ballroom

FOLK IN THE 'ROUND
J. F. K.
MEMORIAL CONCERT
NOVEMBER 19, 1967
Tickets on sale at S.U. Box Office now

What kind do you smoke?

Whatever kind you smoke, you owe it to yourself to try MONZA Pipe Tobacco. Your favorite pipe will give you more pleasure when you choose this imported blend of the world's fine tobaccos.

move up to MONZA

THE IMPORTED PIPE TOBACCO ONLY 30¢ A POUCH

For a COMPLIMENTARY pouch of MONZA PIPE TOBACCO, send 10¢ to cover postage and handling with this coupon to:

ROMICK'S INTERNATIONAL, INC.
P. O. BOX 3033, DEPT. 181
NO. HOLLYWOOD, CALIF. 91606
(Please Print)

Name _____
Street _____ City _____
State _____ Zip _____

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Court of Justice

Several reactions have been made to the action taken by the University administration in regard to the Homecoming Committee's presentation of the "After the Third World Raspberry" show.

The University has brought charges against the chairman of the Homecoming Committee. The General Court of Justice, composed of Men's and Women's Judiciary, will consider the charges in a trial, to be public at the request of the student involved, on Monday, Nov. 13.

At the Constitutional Convention of Nov. 1, the Student Senate and the Class Officers meeting together, passed a resolution expressing "vehement opposition to said actions". The Classes of 1969 and 1970 Executive Councils have also spoken out, the Juniors endorsing the Convention resolution and the Sophomores passing a more general one.

The charge being made is that the University community was "embarrassed" on Friday, October 20. While it obviously cannot be categorically stated here whether the University community was embarrassed or whether parts of it were, individuals may offer opinions as to whether they, as members of this community, felt the show was "inappropriate" for a state university.

Thus, two questions evolve. Should an act of censure result because of the opinions of some members of the community or should such censure be based on majority opinion—or should there be any such censure at all?

Secondly, should members of concert committees be held responsible for performances (whether stated in the contract or not)?

We feel that a community may censure individuals and that individuals, given the responsibility for chosing the entertainment that will be viewed by thousands, should be held accountable for their actions. But even as it is easy to make such generalized statements, it is obvious that each case must be judged on an individual basis.

Thus, the statement of the Class of 1970 is much too broad: "that no student or committee be held responsible for any actions in said concerts or performances that are not expressly stated in contract negotiations."

In a particular case, and let the particularness be emphasized, a committee hosting entertainment might stop the performance. Or in another case, if a committee allowed entertainment to break safety laws, for example, by allowing a bonfire on stage, it certainly should be liable.

In the specific case, coming up next week, it will be the duty of the Court to decide on the two questions: Will there be censure, and will there be responsibility.

But it will also be the duty of the Court to apply its policy on these questions to the Homecoming Case, i.e. should they be censured. The decision of the Court, based on its rationale, will be held to close scrutiny by all concerned groups on campus.

The time to debate on the Homecoming case has not yet come. But a discussion of the right of a community to censure vis a vis the responsibility of individuals is certainly appropriate at this time.

—THE EDITORS

Age of the Student

The evolutionary character of the American university has been described as moving from the Age of the Faculty to the Age of the Student. Some insight into the nature and implications of this change was afforded at a recent meeting of the American Council on Education. Dr. Richard Sullivan spoke of the concern of educators and said of today's student, "His drive, his needs, his contributions present and potential, his plea for relevance, his desire for freedom and his right to participation are preoccupying many of the best minds among us."

At the college level many students appear to feel dissatisfaction with their status quo and the traditional academic hierarchy. Some have a sense of powerlessness and estrangement which sometimes leads toward indifference toward conventional learning.

What does this mean for the student in terms of his education? Many educators believe that only an alliance between them and the students, accompanied by reform in college methods and curricula, can alleviate the situation. Most of them seem to think, as do we, that turning over the responsibilities for academic leadership to students is not the answer. Enlightened leadership from the faculty and administration is needed.

(Daily Hampshire Gazette)

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
Student Union . . . University of Massachusetts . . . Amherst, Mass.

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Chester S. Weinerman '68
MANAGING EDITOR ..... John H. Dean, Jr. '69
BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Charles Smith '69
News Day Editor: Jon Mickelson '71, Editorial Day Editor: Nancy Bourgoin '69, Sports Day Editor: Pat Pascarelli '71
News Editors ..... Ron LaBrecque '70, Richard Kline '70
Editorial Chairman ..... Pat Petow '68
Sports Editor ..... Tom FitzGerald '69
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Glenn Briere '69
Advertising Managers ..... Dot Silvia '69, Sharon Kramer '69
Photo Editor ..... Paul Boliver '68

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.
Published at the Massachusetts Daily Collegian, Student Union, UMass., Amherst, Mass. 01002.
Member of the Associated Collegiate Press. Member of the Collegiate Press Service of the United States Student Press Association. Member of the Associated Press—The Associated Press is entitled exclusively to the use for reproduction of all the local news printed in this newspaper as well as all AP news dispatches.
Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed five times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; three or four times weekly the week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amended by the act of June 11, 1934.
Subscription price: $6.00 per year; $3.50 per semester.

Viewpoint

A Step in the Right Direction

by FREDERIC HARTWELL
Student Senator

In reference to my proposal before the Senate (S20) which Mr. Volkmann discussed last week, I would like to say that the student body has everything to lose and nothing to gain if the proposal is defeated. The motion reads:

"Resolved, that the Student Senate authorize the General Court of Justice to enjoin residence halls from violating University policy on open houses. This resolve shall expire Dec. 20, 1967.

Be it further resolved, that a residence hall violating such an order of the Court shall be guilty of contempt, the penalty for which may include:

1) The closing of the residence hall to members of the opposite sex;
2) The freezing of the funds of the residence hall involved;
3) The suspension of the constitution of the residence hall involved.

The Court shall determine which of the above sanctions shall be imposed, and the period for which the sanction shall be in effect."

When S115 (on open houses) was passed by the Senate last Spring, there was an unwritten agreement that the proposal would be reviewed by faculty and administration for two reasons:

First, we think of ourselves as a tripartite community; that as what the students do outside the classroom is a matter of concern for the faculty and administration, so also is what the faculty do outside the classroom (e.g., research and / or publishing in reference to tenure, etc.) a matter of concern for students. The controversy surrounding Dela-Grotte last year is a case in point, and this year students will probably have more to say about such decisions.

Secondly, practicel politics on this question dictates that a proposal appreciably liberalizing the present open house policy needs all the support it can gather (Student Senate, Faculty Senate, and administration) before it goes to the Board of Trustees if it is to have a chance of acceptance, which is not automatic (remember the Medical School).

The agreement was thus made. The Student Life Committee, on which I serve, has essentially recommended favorably on the proposal, which is now before the faculty (i. e., Student Affairs Comm.). If this agreement is abrogated before this committee has had adequate time to study it (hence the expiration date), the chances of getting a reasonable policy are noticeabl lished. If on the other ha dent Affairs acts in b and does nothing, I wo sider the agreement ab and I do not believe th will consider itself boun agreement in this area

As to Mr. Volkmann point about the admin being able to take th described in S20 anyw correct. If, however, tions were not take dents, there would be terious effects:

First, Student Affairs distracted by questions disobedience, which for given earlier would re chances for a favorabl

Secondly, it would the dangerous precedent trary administrative into into what is properly th judicial process, for the is not, for reasons give whether or not there intervention as it wa (window signs), but wh it.

In the present circu then, I do not consid tool of the administrati Senate domination, but the direction of greate influence as well as a able visitation policy.

Campus Comment

Random Thought

To the editor:

A stimulative—a spark of light in a world of darkness — immaterial, indistinguishable, evasive Spasmodic radiance, incoherence, a flash of brilliance overriding total oblivion. And yet, is it enough? Under what conditions is it appreciated? Who can say.

Under fire — family, society, conscience, the artificial pressure of prestige — are you too busy learning to comprehend? What of imagination? Does it face extinction? Do you ingest too much to savor the flavor of your mind?

Is four years enough to ruin the capacity of your brain? Three years the excess? Why not free thought — natural learning through experience under precisely controlled conditions? Learn what you want, when you want, and don't if you won't.

Why not thought teachers? Fact teachers are disinterested. They live on money (don't we all). The more they pump, the more they make. Who can say why.

Is the propagation of such methods radical? Progressive? No! It is the ultimate natural solution—conducive to its intentions — a process that works, sorts, polishes and evolves the rose amongst thorns. A few—so very few—experiments have verified this as truth . . . why don't you listen? The university is a machine — it makes assorted products with individual faces and stenciled minds. Let me go.

Mike Malloy

Athletic Fee

To the editor:

Why do student leaders and campus officials always speak of a lack of student enthusiasm?

Why must a student who is unknowingly late to pick up his football ticket suffer the verbal abuse of a curt, ill-mannered employee of the ticket office? ..

I was always under the impression that the function of our University athletic fees, other things, was to pass for each student of the home football that be the case, then students pick up the whenever the ticket offi prior to the game? Why stop issuing student ti days before the game so our tickets can b Then a double profit made at the student's That is good?

Why isn't Alumni Sta at a capacity limit for ball games? Where is UMass support? Possibl be back in the dorms and not willing to pa see a game that they served ticket for.

Possibly they did ma game, but to root fo ponent out of $3.50 spite. Possibly policies the football ticket p created such an odium may never offer supp

Jonathan D. Ma
407 Tower

TODAY IS THE LAST
for the MDC Vietnam
Undergraduates and Grad
Student Union Lobby until

Campus Comment

Double Standard

To the editor:

On Wednesday, October 25, students of the University of Massachusetts were once again treated to the double standard of indifference. The occasion was the lecture given by Arthur Schlesinger Jr., a participant in the Distinguished Visitors Program. A guest of Mr. Schlesinger's stature attracts a large audience, and this was indeed the case Wednesday night. Unfortunately, this large multiversity lacks one essential element for such guests—an auditorium.

An exam that Wednesday prevented me from getting to the Student Union until 7:45—fifteen minutes before the lecture began. However, I was unable to get into the lecture area due to the over-flow crowd. Something about fire laws prevented our admittance. Those of us who could not get in, quickly withdrew to the main lounge area so we could at least 'hear' the speech.

Within minutes this lounge was filled, or I should say overfilled. Many people sat on the floor, and a large group of them were blocking the main exit. Whereas 'fire laws' prevented us from attending the lecture, no consideration of them was upheld elsewhere. A dangerous situation was thus allowed to go unchecked.

What could have been done to prevent this? Of course the ideal answer would be an auditorium large enough to contain such a gathering. However, past experience has shown a seeming unwillingness on the part of the legislators to grant money for such an auditorium. Since such a hall is non-existent, what should have been done was the opening of the Cage for this event. The Cage is a poor place to send any distinguished visitor, but at least it affords ample room for the student body. Everyone is thus given a chance to see the speaker, and a fire hazard is avoided.

There may be another solution. It seems our sisters from Mount Holyoke have another plan — closed lectures open to Mount Holyoke students only. I am referring to the impending visit of Mr. Dean Rusk, and Holyoke's plan to have their lecture closed to the general public 'unless there is room.'

I do not feel this proposal is just for the four-college area. Our lectures are always open, and it goes without saying that many people who saw Mr. Schlesinger were not from the University. Naturally, Mount Holyoke has every right to close anything they so desire from the outside public, but why should they?

They cannot claim limited space, for we are equally, if not more, limited. We are being, so to speak, slapped in the face by this 'close door policy'. If there is truly a four-college system, this policy should never exist. However, if it must continue, I feel we should give serious thought to adopting a similar plan.

Barry Hazzard
Peter Burrows
Robert Kiley
J.F.K. Lower

"Poor Woody—he's hung up on God."

Reprinted from Harper's Magazine

44 Blues

To the editor:

Last week a wooden sculpture (named "44 Blues" and composed of various blocks of assorted hues of blue) was taken from Prof. Frederick Turner's office in the English Department.

Stealing is a blight ever-present in our society and present at times for understandable reasons. But it does seem an abomination to take something into which so much creative love has gone and in which there is so little value other than to the artist and his wife.

It would seem that this would be a time for social pressure to elicit a little moral decency from a social being.

Faythe E. Turner

Pacifists

To the editor:

There are many persons of democratic convictions and noble feelings who want peace in Viet nam based on a serious, just, and permanent agreement. That is, a reasonable peace, within which the communists do not take advantage to continue murdering and oppressing peoples. A true peace.

Unfortunately, at present there exists a legion of "pacifists" who are communists. They are elements who invoke the concept of peace as a pretext to confuse and deceive and the only thing they want is the peace that will allow them to commit every type of outrages without punishment.

"The "pacifists" who a few days ago marched in Washington D.C. with not a few manifestations of violence, totally revealed their adsolnte identification with the Communist Party. What has the late "Che" Guevara to do with the peace theme? That communist guerrilla died violating peace in Bolivia. He died trying to take to that sovereign Latin American nation the message of the communist opprobrium and horror.

He tried to install there what with the complicity of others, he implanted in Cuba, the terrible execution wall, the concentration camps, and the stealing of private property. And, nevertheless, photographs and placards about "Che" Guevara were displayed in the United States capital. The name and picture of one of the greatest enemies of this noble American nation was used as a banner, in the shade of the democracy that allows everything here, against the ideals and interest of the United States.

Wherever these sadly famous "pacifists" let their voice be heard or adopt a public attitude, it is obvious in an undeniable way their submission to Moscow, Peking and Havana. They openly offend the American national dignity and applaud and yell in favor of the enemies of freedom and against human decorum and all the democratic institutions.

No one is justified in thinking about the good faith and honesty of these "pacifists" after the latter themselves put in evidence their bad intentions. This simplifies the task of those who have to open the eyes of the still alarming legion of "useful fools" who very frequently, though not being communists, play along with them.

Of course, with these new "pacifists" it is necessary that the authorities, the community leaders, and the people in general especially the news and commentary media, take adequate measures to prevent these agents of Chinese and Soviet imperialism from benefiting from the sometimes disproportionate tolerance of democracy.

Bienvenido Garcia
107 Gorman House

A Pound of Enemies

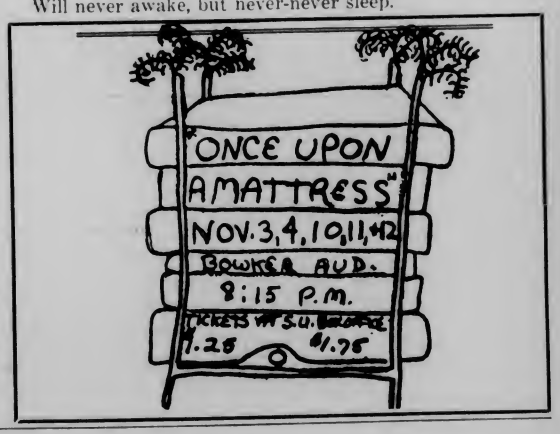
To the editor:

Recently the Daily Collegian has been concerned with the actions of the Amherst Police. It is also my opinion that the relationship between students and the campus police should be discussed.

Last Friday night my car was parked in the rear of Van Meter for the purpose of unloading band equipment. While in the process of setting up, I was informed that two campus police officers were issuing a ticket. I talked to Sgt. Gerald O'Neil who told me that I was parked on a sidewalk. (The same "sidewalk" upon which he had parked the police cruiser.)

I then observed that the "sidewalk" was approximately 12 feet wide, had a wide entrance ramp onto the main street, and therefore would be better defined as a service driveway. This has been used by bands, Gordon Linen, Coke, and Vending Service trucks in the past, and this year also.

Confronted with these facts, Sgt. O'Neil proclaimed that while he was on duty, such gross violations of campus law would not be tolerated. He then attempted to redeem his stand with the statement that I was parked next to a puddle, and someone might fall in. I hope this is not typical of the logic used by our gallant police force.



Maybe this is how Mr. O'Neil became a sergeant, through an unyielding strictly by-the-book attitude, but I hope he is aware that he is not dealing with a community of hardened criminals. The campus police should analyze specific situations and realize that an ounce of good public relations is worth a pound of enemies.

Dale A. Pope '70
429 Baker

"I Get the Urge for Going"

By CANDACE HUSBAND

I had a dream I saw the Wonders of the road,
The traveled way to life and loneliness for Those who thrive on loneliness. I worked my Way thru kitchens, Good Will stores, and head shops,
From city to city, bed to floor to man-loveless—
What I wanted, no permanence, no attachments,
No money; and I haven't awaken yet. I'm still Traveling thru the dust of heartless hearts and Permanent people. I'm loose and longing only
For flight from followers and following. I
Will never awake, but never-never sleep.

DAY

Ballot

Students

5:30 p.m.

100 Students Helped

Upward Bound Is Success at UMass

To Bill Badaus, the Upward Bound program is one of the most worthwhile and little known programs at the University of Massachusetts.

In an interview this week, Madaus said the two year old program is sponsored under the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity and is administered here by UMass. One hundred students from western Massachusetts poverty areas stay six weeks each summer at the University, where they are offered academic studies and extra-curricular activities, said Madaus, who is the program's member on campus.

Courses offered to the students during the six-week session include English, math and social studies. Daily group counseling sessions and cultural activities are also given.

Students are selected because they are energetic, out-going students but are mainly underachievers displaying some type of leadership. "Many of the students have given up on school and the schools have given up on them," Madaus said. "But," he added, the staff one third of whom were University staff, have become totally committed to the program. They were amazed by the students' energy, increase in motivation and educational asperations and in their ability to assume responsibility for the direction of the program."

The program is attempting to involve more committed staff and students from UMass. Said Madaus, "The area of under-privileged students is a crucial area of public school today and a problem area of our society.

"We are attempting to utilize more effectively the resources of the University and are contacting professional staff here in areas of curriculum development a more meaningful cultural program; and also interested individuals as teachers and interested indivnduals who may want to get to know the students and become more actively involved in our program."

"The use of the students is foreseen as tutors working in various centers in the Western Massachusetts area.

The University students' support has already been enlisted in the program's attempt to raise funds for the ten students that the program has placed in private schools.

"Because of the placement, the program is now faced with the task of raising funds." Madaus stated. "So far, this has been done by canvassing private foundations, businesses, civic groups, churches and other sources of voluntary contributions." Student leaders on campus, have indicated they are interested in the program and have set about trying to find projects to raise money.

Staff members of the Upward Bound program have also been working closely with area colleges to secure placement for 26 senior students. In many cases, colleges have been asked to waive standard criteria of admission and to provide tutorial help and financial aid to students placed in college.

Madaus said, "The University, as usual, has demonstrated its commitment not only by agreeing to do the above mentioned but also in exertising its prestige and influence on other institutions of higher learning. The fact that over 90% of our present seniors, many of whom were classified as potential dropouts, will attend two or four-year colleges is a test to our program."

Madaus said Upward Bound has been successful for two reasons: because of the commitment of the University itself to the program and the cooperation of Dr. Venman of the Provost's Office, and because of the program designer, Dr. Alvin Winder, who developed the motivational approach to compensatory education.

New B. U. Group Urges Marijuana Legislation

One of the new groups on Boston University's campus this year is Lemar, an officially recognized group that urges the legalization of marijuana.

Eric Zinkawich, president of the organization, says there is a need "to disseminate true information about the nature of marijuana and its use, to combat public ignorance and fear."

Urging laws for marijuana similar to the liquor laws Lemar will sponsor lectures, panel discussions and activities designed to represent all points of view on the subject.

The Boston area is rated as the third largest hallucinogenic and amphetamine center in the country. Zinkawich's personal estimate is that 40% of B.U.'s students have used marijuana at least once. "With these kids all turning on, we must appeal to adults who can vote and change the laws responsibly." To demostrate their intentions, all members of Lemar have sworn not to use marijuana until it is legalized.

Zinkawich cites the instance of Joseph Oteri, a Boston lawyer, who is testing the legality of present laws in the Massachusetts Superior Court. A decision is reportedly due in December from Chief Justice Touro of that court.

"Response, especially from the faculty, has been good," the Lemar president says.

The B.U. Lemar chapter is supported financially by the students themselves and membership is open to the University community. With no main office or chapter, all Lemar groups have sprung up spontaneously.

FUN WORKING IN EUROPE

Jobs Abroad Guaranteed

BRUSSELS: The Int'l Student Information Service, non-profit, today announced that 1,000 GUARANTEED JOBS ABROAD are available to young people 17½ to 40, Year-Round and Summer. The new 34 page JOBS ABROAD magazine is packed with on-the-spot-photos, stories and information about your JOB ABROAD. Applications are enclosed. LANGUAGE-CULTURE-FUN-PAY-TRAVEL. For your copy send $1.00 AIRMAIL to: ISIS, 133 Rue Hôtel des Monnaies, Brussels 6, Belgium.

AROTC to Give Entrance Exam

Air Force ROTC Detachment 370 will administer the Air Force Officer Qualification Test (AFOQT) to students interested in an Air Force career on Nov. 14 at 6:30 p.m., in Room 212, Dickinson Hall.

The test is for students who are interested in obtaining an Air Force commission through the AFROTC two-year program. Students who will have two academic years remaining beginning with academic year 1968 are eligible for consideration.

Successful completion of the AFOQT is one of the pre-requisites for the two-year program. Students who are accepted are paid $50 per month and may qualify for the free flight instruction program which leads to the award of a private pilot's license.

Interested students should contact Capt. Robinson, Room 204, Dickinson Hall.

3-War Hero Killed in Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — A U.S. Army hero of three wars was killed in action, Tuesday as fighting in the central highlands pointed to a possible new Communist dry season offensive in South Vietnam.

Lt. Col. Arthur D. Stigall, a U.S. 1st Infantry Division battalion commander, died in combat around the embattled Loc Ninh district headquarters town near the Cambodian border.

In the air war, U.S. plans swept to within 21 miles of Red China's border on the deepest penetration into the North in two weeks. Other planes raided an apparent new target near Haiphong.

NOTICES

STUDENT SENATE
Meeting this evening at 7 p.m. in the Council Chambers of the SU. Meeting is open to public.

GRAD. STUDENT FED. OF TEACHERS
Meeting will be held Wed., Nov. 8 at 8 p.m. in Ed Bldg. room R 125. All graduate students interested in changing the status quo and improving their standing are urged to attend. Open to all.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB
Coffee hour at 6:30 p.m. in Governor's Lounge.

HILLEL
Passover refunds now available, noon to 4 p.m. daily, at Hillel office.

AMHERST STAMP CLUB
On Friday, Nov. 10 in Public Health Bldg. 103, at 7:30 p.m. there will be a program by the Springfield Stamp Club. Interested visitors welcome.

PRE-LAW STUDENTS
Friday, Nov. 10, Prof. George Brown and Richard Pearson of BU Law School will hold small group and individual interviews in Provost's office in Whitmore Admin. Bldg. All seniors considering making application to BU should schedule an appointment in the Pre-Law Advisor's office, 362 Whitmore.

WINTER CARNI CONCERT COMMITTEE
Meeting at 7:30 in Berkshire Room, SU. Please contact Pete at 253-5920, if you can't attend.

HEYMAKERS SQUARE DANCE
On Wed., Nov. 8 at 7:30 in SU Ballroom, all are urged to attend, esp. females.

LOST
Marriage band, silver, florentine design; diamond chips arranged in a flower pattern. If found, please contact Rhonda Bernstein, 324 Van Meter South. Reward.
Sociology 102 notebook lost in Draper Parking lot. Reward. Call 549-1622.
Navy pea jacket with wallet etc. in pockets lost Friday night in South Dining Commons. Please return all ids, car keys and glasses. Leave it at S.U. Lost and Fund, no questions asked.

FOUND
Student ticket to this weeks football game. May be picked up in Main Office of Library.

PINNINGS
Janie Helman '68, JQ Adams, to Mike Takemori '68, Phi Delta Sigma, Amherst.
Trish Stefanik '69, J.Q. Adams, to Bob Stachowicz '69, St. Anselm's College, N.H.
Linda Jones '70, Dickinson to David Graves '70, Phi Sigma Delta.

ENGAGEMENTS
Candy Scott '71, Leach, to Alan Hartman, U.S. Navy, Jacksonville, Fla.
Nancy Ellen Starr '68, Patterson, to Richard Pecorella '68, Hills North.
Susan E. Gardner '69, Coolidge, to Philip J. Beccia '69, Wheeler.
Ann Ingram '68, Alpha Chi Omega, UNH, to Tim Porter '68, Kappa Sigma.

Redistricting Bill Declared Unconstitutional

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy said Tuesday a congressional redistricting bill worked out by a Senate-House Conference Committee should be rejected.

The Massachusetts Democrat said it attempts to protect states which have failed to redistrict on a one-man, one-vote basis and "to deprive their citizens of equal representation in Congress for another five years."

The compromise measure, already approved by the House, provides that no state shall be required to redistrict before the 1970 census unless a special census is taken first. It also says no one shall be forced into an at-large election.

The Senate is expected to take up the bill Wednesday.

Kennedy denounced it in a statement as "unconstitutional, unconscionable, unclear, unworkable and unresponsive."

The Supreme Court ruled in 1964 that the Constitution requires congressional districts to be as nearly equal in population as practicable and Kennedy said states that have failed to carry out this mandate have only themselves to blame.

He predicted the bill will be declared unconstitutional or the courts will construe it in a way that permits them to redistrict if state legislatures fail to do so themselves.

Drill Team Performs for AROTC Review

The University of Massachusetts Flying Redmen Drill Team performed for the first time as an all University team at the AROTC Fall Review Tuesday. The team was received by the Major General Lymmon after a performance of trick drill routines.

The Redmen are a joint Army, Air Force, and civilian team specializing in trick drill. The team consists of two competition teams, including a trick and basic drill team. The November 7 performance marks the start of a year during which the Flying Redmen hope to take the Massachusetts name to competitions in Baton Rouge and the lawn of the White House.

The team will perform again on Armistice Day at the UMass-Rutgers game. Formerly the Air Force Flying Redmen and Army Grenadiers Drill Team, the U-Mass Flying Redmen Drill Team was formulated last year as an independent team open to the general student body. Early in the academic year, the Flying Redmen became members of the Pershing Rifles, an organization sponsoring drill teams and competitions. The Redmen plan to rank first in the Pershing Rifles competitions with their new routines.

Commanded by P/R Captain Jordan Cohen, the team consists of 43 members and is organized into three groups: a basic drill team, a trick drill team, and a supporting staff. Mr. George Cheah serves as the elected drill instructor for both basic and trick drill teams. Under his direction, the teams execute such maneuvers as the "Meatgrinder" and the "Corkscrew".

"The precision and timing are unbeatable, and the excitement is real and breath taking, making the University of Massachusetts Flying Redmen a team to follow," said Captain Jordan Cohen.

From Miniskirts To No Skirts

NEW YORK (AP)—Though it has seemed for some time that miniskirts might minimize themselves out of existence, it took the man who invented topless swimsuits to come up with bottomless dresses.

Even so, with the skirtless suits which California designer Rudi Gernreich introduced to buyers Tuesday as a part of his Siamese influenced spring collection there was a modicum of modesty.

Though wide-belted jackets stopped short of expectations, the painted manikins were primly covered with ballooning bloomers, or Oriental diapers.

Much less so were the barefoot, barelegged, bare-nearly all beachwear babes who opened Gernreich's show with his Hard men knitwear collections.

To anyone farther away than second row with less than 20-20 vision the parade of minifigured manikins seemed to be wearing bright islands of cloth magically clinging at strategic places. The magic was vinyl, which Gernreich used liberally as shoulder straps, side panels, portholes and picture windows on beach shifts as well as bikini suits that already showed enough.

THE ROISTER DOISTERS DRAMATIC SOCIETY
needs you at its meeting in the Middlesex Room of the S.U. at 8:30 P.M.
Thursday, November 9, 1967

SWAP
APPLICATIONS NOW AVAILABLE
Pick them up in the RSO Office
Return deadline: November 16, 1967

Records Fall as UMass Harriers Sweep Tri-Meet

By JOEL FOX
Staff Reporter

Both the varsity and freshman records fell to UMass Harriers in a tri-meet against Providence and Central Connecticut yesterday.

Charlie Lang covered the UM cross-country course in 25:17.3, to smash the old mark of 25:35. Following Lang over the line, and also breaking the old record, was UM junior Paul Hoss, who was timed in 25:24.

Crooke was the first Providence runner to finish taking third. The first Central runner, Swenson was fourth. A good performance was turned in by UM captain Greg Bowman, in taking sixth place in the meet.

The Redmen easily got by Central Connecticut by a score of 23 - 33. However, they had a tougher time with defending New England champ, Providence, who tied the Redmen, 29-29.

The frosh record on the UM course was also broken by two UM runners. Ron Wayne took four seconds off the record, doing 18:46.3, for the 3.6 miles. Leo Duart was right behind Wayne as he broke the old mark with a time of 18:48.7.

The double victory that the frosh earned over their opponents was made possible by the great jobs of Tom Derderian who took fifth, Larry Paulsen 10th, and Bob Benshimol 12th.

Frosh hopes for a New England crown rose when they took a 27-28 victory over Central Connecticut (now 7-1), who Coach O'Brien thinks is the top contender for the New England freshman crown. The score against Providence was a more decisive 18-43 in UM's favor.

Daily Collegian Photo by Ken Stevens

OARSMEN IN ACTION—The varsity crew is caught in action on the Charles River. Crews members in action are from left to right: Bill Crowe, coxswain; Glenn Chaple, stroke; Roger O'Donnell; Tim McKenna; Jack Wolpert; Ed Magiera; Ron Stolz; Bob Kiley; and Wendell Frost, bow.

First Unanimous Choice

Cepeda Chosen National League MVP

NEW YORK (AP) — Orlando Cepeda, the slugging first baseman who led the National League in runs batted in and helped the St. Louis Cardinals romp to a pennant victory, became the first player Tuesday ever to gain unanimous selection as the circuit's Most Valuable Player.

The Cards' star was the top choice for 1967 of all 20 members of the Baseball Writers Assn. of America who participated in the balloting.

Tim McCarver, St. Louis catcher, was second in the voting followed in order by Roberto Clemente, of Pittsburgh, Ron Santo of the Chicago Cubs and Hank Aaron of Atlanta.

Mike McCormick of San Francisco Lou Brock of St. Louis, Tony Perez of Cincinnati, Julian Javier, another Cardinal and Pete Rose of Cincinnati rounded out the first 10. McCormick was the only pitcher among the top 10 in the balloting.

Two writers from each NL city voted on a basis of 14 points for a first-place vote, 9 for second, 8 for third and down to 1 point for a 10th place vote.

Cepeda thus accumulated 280 points. McCarver drew 136 points and Clemente, the NL's MVP in 1966, had 129.

Cepeda, 30-year-old Puerto Rican, batted .325, hit 25 homers and collected a league-leading 111 RBI's in 1967, his first full year with the Cards. He was acquired from San Francisco on May 8, 1966 for pitcher Ray Sadecki. He was on the disabled list for three months because of a knee injury in 1965. The past campaign was his 10th in the major leagues.

Four players have been unanimous MVP selections in the American League. They were Hank Greenberg of Detroit in 1935, Al Rosen of Cleveland in 1953, Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees in 1956 and Frank Robinson of Baltimore in 1966.

Only one player, though, even approached unanimity in the NL. He was Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants in 1936. The scheduled voting that year encompassed eight ballots. However, two among the eight writers did not vote and Hubbell was the choice of all others.

Cepeda and Clemente, the latter also a Puerto Rican, were the only players to be named on all 20 ballots this year. Clemente paced the circuit in batting with a .337 average, slammed 23 homers and had 110 RBI. McCarver, a fine defensive catcher, had a .295 batting mark with 14 home runs and 69 runs batted in.

ORLANDO CEPEDA
NL MVP

Sports

Hotline

545-0344

NCAA Announces Stats And 'Back of the Week'

Fullback Paul Gipson of Houston, given a push by his new substitute, responded by doing some pushing of his own and it earned him The Associated Press college football Back of the Week honors Tuesday.

The bruising 6-foot, 205-pound junior, less publicized than some of his teammates, leads the Cougars in rushing and showed why last Saturday when he sparked Houston to an upset 15-14 victory over Georgia.

Gipson barged through the Bulldogs for 229 yards on 29 carries and brought Houston back from a 14-0 fourth quarter deficit with a 25-yard touchdown run, a 13-yard gain that set up a second TD and a run for the winning two-point conversion.

It was the best showing of the season for Gipson, who Houston Coach Bill Yeoman felt needed a little push to come up with such a performance. Partially for that reason, Yeoman moved tight end Carlos Bell behind Gipson as a backup man to provide more competition for his job.

Close behind Gipson for Back of the Week honors was Leroy Keyes of Purdue, who rushed for 225 yards on 21 carries, scored three touchdowns and passed for a fourth in a 42-9 victory over Illinois.

Kim Hammond of Florida State has rushed up from seventh place to take the lead in total offense among the nation's major college football players.

Hammond, a senior, gained 308 total yards in last Saturday's 26-7 victory over Memphis State, boosting his season aggegate to 1,580 yards. Sal Olivas of New Mexico State is second with 1,478 yards, statistics compiled by National Collegiate Sports Services, showed Tuesday.

Terry Stone of New Mexico, last week's pace-setter, slipped to seventh in total offense. However, he maintained his lead in passing with 127 completions in 272 attempts for 1,662 yards.

O. J. Simpson of Southern California retained the No. 1 position in rushing although a foot injury prevented him from playing in last Saturday's game against California. Simpson has gained 1,050 yards, 122 more than Max Anderson of Arizona State, who holds second place.

Zenon Andrushyn of UCLA climbed into first place in punting with a 43.80 yard average. He holds a slim lead over Tom Galloway of the University of Texas at El Paso, averaging 43.77 yards.

Girls Are Undefeated

By gaining a 9-0 victory over Jackson College last week, the women's first string field hockey team finished an undefeated season. Excluding their two ties with Springfield College, the scores over the opposing teams were quite one-sided.

The first team consisted of seniors Nancy Brochu, Pat Beaumont, Pam Matous, Nancy Bergsma, manager Jane Paranya, Debbie Harrison, Jill Hosner, captain Ellen Buffington, Joan Nartowt and Nancy Hudson. High scorers were, in order: Bobbie Perkins, Pat Beaumont and Debbie Harrison. The defense showed great skill in keeping the ball away from the goal cage.

Coaching the team in her first year at UMass was Miss Dorothy Richardson. Miss Richardson, a native of Scotland and a former member of the Scottish Touring Team, did graduate work and taught previously at the University of North Carolina in Greenboro, North Carolina.

Intramurals

The dorm all stars will face the fraternity all stars in the fourth annual intramural all-star touch football game, at 7 p.m. The contest is the highlight of the fall intramural season.

BOWLING

ALLEYS	TEAMS
1-2	Hi-Lo's-Maroons
3-4	Lemons-Eagles
5-6	Birch-Cherries

MASS. CLASSIFIED

AUTOMOBILE

'67 Lemans convert. power brakes & steering. Call (Sunderland) 665-2512

1963 Falcon 2-door hardtop 6 cyl. in good shape. Call 253-5870 after 6 p.m.

1967 Opel Kadette 60 h.p., 4 speed, R/H, 7 Mo. old; AH Guarantees active — Excellent condition; selling for Sports Car. Excellent economy car 32 m.p.g. New $2,185 Best reasonable offer 584-4198

1955 Oldsmobile 4-door hardtop, power steering & brakes, $50.00 or best offer. Call Greg at 549-1443. If no answer, 253-9157.

(want larger car) 1964 Triumph Spit-Fire Mark II Black, R and H, Tonneau Cover, 2 Spare Tires plus Snow-Tire. $975 or will swap for sedan (Ford, Chev., etc.). Contact Jim Cosman, 418 Thatcher 5-2518 or 5-2519

FOR SALE

Wollensack 5570 Stereo Tape Recorder. New $250, now $150, 6 mo. old. 6-1047, after 7.

2 MOTORCYCLES
1966 BSA Road Rocket 650 C.C. $625.
1960 Triumph 650 C.C. $475.
Call evenings 665-2976

LOST

Lost: large male cat, all yellow, vicinity of North Pleasant and McClellan Streets Reward. Linda Smith, 296 North Pleasant Street, Room Number 7.

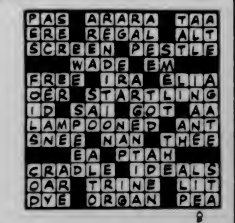
WANTED

Roommate wanted to share apartment with 2 grad students. 2 big rooms, kitchen & bathroom. ± $50 a month 85 Amity St., Amherst Call Hank Wondergem, 253-7001

Help Wanted

Babysitter for 2 yr. old girl, 2 days per week. 253-7679

For Rent



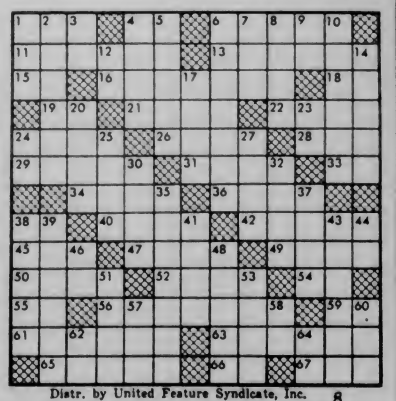
24 feet Room
Refrigerator, cooking facilities, center of town.
Leader Rooms
159 North Pleasant St.
Apply at Bowling Alley.
$15 a week

PERSONAL

Dr. Tom A,
Are you the Mad Hatter? The wonderland Volk. P.S. We shall return.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle



ACROSS

1-Japanese sash
4-Hebrew month
6-Tolls
11-Part of furnace
13-Spoliation
15-Teutonic deity
16-Speechmakers
18-Babylonian deity
19-Artificial language
21-Pertaining to the ear
22-Female sheep
24-Possessive pronoun
26-Dirk
28-Before
29-Winged
31-Lampreys
33-College degree (abbr.)
34-Grant use of
36-Tropical fruit
38-Steamship (abbr.)
40-Weary
42-Direction
45-Frozen water
47-Lifeless
49-Reflect deeply
50-Extinct flightless bird
52-A continent
54-Compass point
55-Printer's measure
56-Buys back
59-Parent (colloq.)
61-Strike out
63-Crowns
65-Dinner course
66-Steward (abbr.)
67-Writing fluid

DOWN

1-Poem
2-Container
3-Prefix: not
4-Danish island
5-Unruly children
6-Go
7-Organ of hearing
8-Part of church
9-Chinese mile
10-Scoffs
12-River in Italy
14-Mollified
17-Fork prong
20-Spoken
23-Pronoun
24-Exclamation
25-Let it stand
27-Verve
30-Wife of Geraint
32-Cease
35-Feared
37-God of love
38-Took one's part
39-Scottish cakes
41-Comfort
43-Surgical saw
44-Pronoun
46-Man's nickname
48-Food programs
51-City in Russia
53-Among
57-Greek letter
58-A continent (abbr.)
60-Inquire
62-Note of scale
64-A state (abbr.)

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Redmen Cannot Look Past Game with Rutgers Eleven

UMass Seeks 6th Win in Last Home Game

By TOM FITZGERALD
Sports Editor

"Oh, Rutgers, dear old Rutgers," the cartoon character Mr. Magoo would say in blind devotion to the New Jersey state university. The Scarlet Knights, however, stand 3-3 despite being rated as high as B.U. in pre-season speculations.

But when the Redmen meet Rutgers at the Stadium Saturday, they can't afford to focus their sighs on the possible Conference clincher at UNH Nov. 18. Bob Graham, assistant UM coach, sounded the warning yesterday during the weekly Varsity "M" club Quarterback luncheon at the Newman Club.

"Rutgers can still be the Middle Atlantic Conference champs," said Graham, "and we seem to be headed for another Yan-Con title. Also, we have a lot of Jersey boys on our squad who would really like to win this one. So this is a prestige battle as far as we're concerned."

The Redmen will be seeking their fifth straight victory Saturday, and it will be their last home appearance and the swan song for the several seniors. Enough for the incentives.

Graham, who scouted Rutgers in two games, a 27-3 win over Lafayette and a 14-3 loss to Columbia, said UM will be facing a team that resembles "an engine full of steam."

"Before the season, many thought this would be the best team Rutgers has ever had, but their season to date has not been as expected," he said. He pointed out the fact that Rutgers has a winning coach, John Bateman (career percentage—over .600), that the Scarlet Knights have a flock of holdovers from last year's 6-3 team and that the initiation of spring practice last year has strengthened the Rutgers football program.

In soph Bruce Van Ness, Graham said, Rutgers has a quarterback "who reminds me of Greg Landry when he was a sophomore tearing everybody apart." Van Ness, who suffered a shoulder separation early in the season, will be playing only his second game at quarterback after beginning his varsity career as a tailback in Rutgers' I-formation.

Another top soph, halfback Bryant Mitchell, hasn't played the last four games because of an injury, Graham said, and "can't be expected to have an outstanding performance Saturday."

The key to Rutgers' three losses, he said, has been weaknesses in the defensive line and the linebackers. Fullback Don Riesett carries the ball 50% of the time, he said, usually through a hole created by stalwart junior tackle Rich Koprowski.

Graham said he expects the Rutgers linebackers to blitz much of the time "because they know we pass so much."

Some leftovers from the UVM fest—Senior Paul Campbell, the "chief" on defense, was given the game ball by his teammates... Noel Schablick's pulled ligaments should take a few days to heal, according to Coach Fusia, who added that halfback Don Durkin should be ready by the UNH game. His shoulder is strong enough for him to hit the tackling dummies. Where will they put him when he returns? "You slip back when you're out for a few weeks", Fusia said...Doug Faucette, victim of a knee injury in the URI game should be ready for UNH too....

Fusia started Tim Driscoll, back from a hip injury, at tailback but inserted Craig Lovell at the spot for most of the game ...Jerry Grasso and Fred Hairston split the time at wingback... "I wasn't happy with the total offense but I think UVM's great effort and the weather had something to do with it," said Fusia. "I'm still waiting for the day when we put the offense and defense together...."

Fusia, as usual, came up with a good pre - game quote: "You need a balanced attack—but you must be able to run over people" ...Junior Bob Sheehan, a transfer from Notre Dame, took over at center when Schablick was hurt, and played creditably. Sheehan's dimensions are 6'6 and 258 lbs. "I think he'd be a good defensive tackle, but I think he'll be an outstanding center," said the coach.

Bill Carty's wife, Barbara, gave birth this week to a 10-lb. baby girl. The Cartys have two other children, Billy, 3, and Kelly Lynn, 1½...When darkness thickened Saturday, Jim Mitchell told Landry, "Hey Greg, we'd better get another touchdown 'cause it looks like the world is going to end." Then came Landry's 27-yd. quarterback sneak... The afternoon started with what looked like a bad omen for the Redmen. Pete Ward, who announces the UM band's performances, was late for the first time in five years and missed the pre-game show.

KNIGHTS IN SCARLET ARMOR—Sid Rhines (left), Rutgers defensive back, and wingback Jim Baker will invade Alumni Stadium Saturday along with the rest of the Scarlet Knights. Baker was the fourth leading kickoff returner in the nation last year.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
Sports
WEDNESDAY, NOV. 8, 1967
Page 8 Vol. XCVI, No. 43

UMass Dominates Stats

Leading Scorers	Td	Ep	Fg	Pts
Landry, Mass.	7	0	0	42
Geiselman, RI	6	4	0	40
Kaufman, RI	6	0	0	36
Mitchell, Vt	6	0	0	36
Petrillo, Conn	6	0	0	36
Phillips, NH	5	0	0	30
Bjerke, RI	3	7	1	28
Sherman, Mass	0	19	3	28
Vollherbst, NH	0	15	4	27
Estey, NH	4	0	0	24
Grasso, Mass	4	0	0	24

Rushing Leaders	Att	Yds	Ave
Mitchell, Vt	201	694	3.5
Landry, Mass	111	606	5.4
Petrillo, Conn	104	410	3.9
Phillips, NH	87	392	4.5
Kaufman, RI	107	368	3.4
Boryczewski, Conn	74	274	3.6
Bjerke, RI	56	237	4.2
Couturier, NH	59	226	3.8
Yanush, Me	72	221	3.1

Passing Leaders	Att	Comp	Int	Pct	Yds	Td
Landry, Mass	95	50	4	.526	643	4
Simpson, Vt	75	39	4	.520	358	0
Walsh, NH	95	49	4	.516	693	4
Petrillo, Conn	82	37	5	.451	405	1
Caswell, RI	200	89	1	.445	1087	8
Wing, Me	127	54	9	.425	501	4

Leading Pass Receivers	No.	Yds	Ave	Td
Benner, Me	37	458	12.3	1
Geiselman, RI	30	572	19.1	6
Kuhman, Vt	28	253	9.0	3
Crisp, Conn	26	319	12.2	0
Walker, RI	26	319	12.2	0
Keiderling, Vt	24	300	12.5	2
Bartlett, NH	19	293	15.4	1
Warnock, Mass	18	253	14.1	1
Grasso, Mass	11	186	16.9	2

Kicking Specialists	Pat's	Fg's	Pts
Sherman, Mass	19(20)	3(5)	28
Vollherbst, NH	15(17)	4(7)	27
Lawrence, Conn	8(11)	1(6)	11
Bjerke, RI	7(11)	1(3)	10
Scribner, Me	4(4)	0(0)	4
Schroeder, Vt	2(4)	0(2)	2

Leading Punters	No.	Ave	Lg
Phillips, NH	29	38.7	65
Spinney, RI	54	37.6	70
Tiner, Conn	11	37.1	50
Warnock, Mass	33	36.7	52
Mugford, Conn	13	36.3	49
Daignault, Vt	49	35.6	53
Norris, Me	53	35.2	67

Punt Return Returns	No.	Yds	Ave	Lg	Td
Estey, NH	8	279	34.9	85	2
Rudolph, NH	14	209	15.0	63	1
Peterson, Vt	7	99	14.1	24	0
Krot, Conn	8	66	8.2	17	0
Parnell, Mass	20	215	10.7	40	0
Barney, Me	9	57	6.3	18	0

Kickoff Return Leaders	No.	Yds	Ave	Lg	Td
Mazanec, Vt	3	140	47.3	98	1
Parnell, Mass	9	240	26.6	57	0
Estey, NH	8	192	24.0	94	1
Harney, Me	16	322	20.1	24	0
Peterson, Vt	10	199	19.9	28	0
DiYeso, Conn	11	199	18.1	28	0

Y-C Standings

	W	L	T	W	L	T	Pts	Opp
Massachusetts	4	0	0	5	1	0	148	75
Connecticut	3	1	0	3	3	0	96	112
Rhode Island	1	1	1	5	1	1	111	72
New Hampshire	2	2	0	4	2	0	135	52
Vermont	1	3	1	2	4	1	75	131
Maine	0	4	0	0	7	0	30	208

Season Is Finest

Frosh Booters Are 8-1

By WALTER STACHURA
Sports Day Editor

Coach Peter Broaca's freshman soccer team has completed the finest season for a Frosh soccer team in UMass history with an 8-1 record.

"A real fine team effort in every game enabled us to have such a fine season," according to Broaca. He mentioned particularly the front line played well and that they should help the varsity next year.

Italian-born Larry DeFelice led the front line in scoring with thirteen goals and eight assists. DeFelice, an All - Scholastic choice at No. Quincy, Mass. High School enjoyed his finest games against UConn and Franklin Pierce with three goals in each game.

Rick Matusczak was second in scoring honors with eight goals. Matusczak, an All-Western Mass. selection from Chicopee, was team captain and pointed out Broaca, provided "good leadership throughout the year".

Center forward Duane Brown came up with seven goals during the season. The Teaneck N. J. native was instrumental in the team's attack setting up many of the goals.

Rounding out the front line are Marc Cantor and Steve Branchette. Cantor, a Westport, Conn. product, scored five goals during the year while Branchette tallied four times.

Broaca attributed his team's fine defensive record to his goalie and the fullback line. He said, "goalie Tilman Lukas did a real fine job all season."

The fullback line played a strong defense in front of Lukas. The line consists of Mike Korpita, Richard Cook and Billy Sanborn.

Broaca also singled out some substitutes who came through with some fine performances when needed. Dave Callahan, a wing with five goals, was particularly successful.

Other subs who drew praise were inside Dan Griffin and halfback Gordon Height. Second string goalie John Knox also played well when called upon by Broaca.

Broaca indicated the highlights of the season came in games against UConn, Trinity and Springfield. All three games were close and hardfought but the Little Redmen came through with wins because of an all round team effort.

The team's only loss was a 3-2, heartbreaker to Amherst. The Jeffs scored twice on penalty kicks to win but Broaca feels that his team played well enough

Santucci Named To All-East

Senior Bob Santucci was named to the weekly Eastern College Athletic Conference all-star team.

The rest of the team consisted of Yale quarterback Brian Dowling, halfbacks Dick Bracken of

BOB SANTUCCI

Princeton and Charles Pittman of Penn State, fullback Chuck Jarvis of Army, ends Carter Lord of Harvard, and Frank Geiselman of URI, tackles John Sponheimer of Cornell and Dave Drake of Pittsburgh, guard Fred Levinsky of Villanova and center Ray DeCarlo of Navy.

Sophomore-of-the-week honors went to Bruce Van Ness of Rutgers, UM's next opponent. In his debut as quarterback, the former tailback threw for two touchdowns and scored another as the Scarlet Knights beat Lafayette, 27 - 3.

Winning a 7-Day Chore

Football Has Busy Week

By MARTHA CURRAN
Staff Reporter

Take 44 men, add uniforms and shoulder pads to proportion, stir in skills and divide into two parts—offense and defense . . . a football team, right? Wrong!

A winning football team is not shaped as easy as pie. For the UMass Redmen it's an all-day, all-week, all-season preparation based on unity. "Each member of the team has a certain assignment," says Coach Vic Fusia "every player must do his part correctly and must lick his individual opponent."

Fusia has the title-winning recipe for football: "It's a many-faceted game: it is a mental game, you must out-think your opponent. It involves speed and accuracy in movement; stamina, courage and morale."

The Redmen perfect these ingredients through practice. Each Sunday night, they gather to watch movies of the preceding day's game. No pop-corn-only constructive criticism. On the basis of these movies and an intensive review of individual plays and players, the weekly Varsity M Club winners are chosen.

Monday, the team is on the practice field next to Alumni Stadium by 4:30. Wearing sweat clothes, the athletes run through a light work-out. Mistakes are corrected on the field by the coaches.

"Lot of pride up there," encourage the line coaches, as red-jerseyed offense and blue-jerseyed defense players begin heavy workout on Tuesday and Wednesday. The word from the coach-"Play as you practice."

On Thursday, preparation becomes motion and all aspects of the game are put together but there is little actual contact. Specialists practice punt returns and after touchdown, placement kicks.

The squad is divided into groups. Offensive backs move to one portion of the field to pace the game plan. Offensive linemen, in another spot, review blocks to deploy specific moves of the opponent.

Ends, linebackers and "chiefs" on the defensive squad execute maneuvers in defense of perimeter attack. Linemen, middle guards and tackles observe offensive plays of the opponent and execute defensive techniques suited to stop interior attack.

In the middle of the field, defensive deep backs observe, review and deploy the opponent's pass patterns.

For the last half-hour of practice, the separate groups join, form teams and put the game plan into action. The sequence runs from fundamentals to offensive-defensive group work to dress rehearsal and for the next total team performance.

Friday afternoon begins with 24 hours, the squad stays together: practice, meals, a movie, sleep. Most Redmen go to Church on Saturday morning; then run the warpath out to Alumni Stadium to play football.

Collegian Photo by Richard S. Kline

Freshman class officer Martin Shapiro casts his vote in the Collegian Vietnam poll.

UMass Poll Favors De-escalation

By RICHARD S. KLINE
Daily Collegian News Editor

The Vietnam poll conducted here Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday by the Daily Collegian indicates that UMass students are strongly opposed to the handling of the war by the Johnson administration.

Daily Collegian News Analysis

Designed by the Daily Collegian to test student opinion on the war, the poll asked the question: "What should be done in Vietnam now?" It provided students with four alternatives to check off, or a blank space to write in their own feelings.

A total of 2,152 of the University's 14,500 student population responded in the ballot which was open to all registered University students. This is about a 15 per cent turnout.

The doves (those who want to end the war as soon as possible by negotiation or withdrawal) accounted for the majority of those voting, as they amassed 56.5 per cent of the total vote cast. The largest portion of the dove position and the position receiving a plurality (37 per cent) was "De-escalation (stop the bombing and negotiate)." The remainder of the doves vote for "Immediate U.S. withdrawal." This was 19.5 per cent of the total vote.

The hawks (those who wish to escalate the war in order to gain a military victory) voted 21.5 per cent for "All-out es-

(Continued on page 3)

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOL. XCVI, NO. 44 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1967

Yahoo Lives

Staff Elects Provisional Govt.

After almost two years of governmental anarchy and confusion, the campus humor magazine, Yahoo is operating under a newly formed Provisional Board designed to allow efficient operation until a new constitution is passed. The Provisional Editors were elected at a special election held at Yahoo's general meeting Tuesday night in the Commonwealth Room.

The 25 members of Yahoo on hand elected seven editor-coordinators and empowered them to direct Yahoo's effort to resume legal publication of the campus humor magazine. Elected were Dave Stevens, constitution editor, Melanie Abraham, correspondance; Rick Cooper, recruitment; Pete Ward, public relations; Al Robb, finances; and Lynne Audi and John Poirier, editors-at-large. Also voted was a proposal making all major decisions by the Provisional Board subject to ratification by the general voting membership.

Following the election, the membership accepted unanimously a proposal by Pete Ward and Dave Stevens to request that the President of the University take a role in the selection of advisers by agreeing to pass final approval or rejection on the advisers nominated by Yahoo.

Also passed was a motion to retain the name Yahoo for the magazine. Interviewed after the meeting, public relations editor Pete Ward stated that "Yahoo has no intention of reverting to the old mistake of printing dirt for the sake of dirt. But, "he added, "the magazine would never be afraid to speak out on topics

(Continued on page 2)

SWAP Confab Discusses Visits, Alcohol

(Editor's note: The following is the second part of the 1967 report on the Swap conference. The first appeared in Monday's Collegian.)

At the SWAP Conference, Robert Keough, chairman of the social problems discussion, reported on the issues of visitation hours and the drinking of alcohol on campus. The delegates participating in this group agreed that the granting of visitation hours would benefit the University community. A committee was formed which would combine with the Student Life Committee to do extensive research on this problem and to devise a plan by which parents, the state legislature, and the public could be educated concerning the need for visitation hours.

Concerning the problem of alcohol, the group decided to propose a policy which was defined as a "gradual approach" to the drinking of alcohol on campus. The group proposed that students twenty-one years of age and older should be given permission to

(Continued on page 2)

SUG Board Election Results

'68 Gerry Paquette

'69 Susan Brady
Neal Whitman

'70 Sander Ross
John Hutchinson

See page 2 for more about SUG Board.

LBJ Plans Military Tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson undertakes what may be his widest ranging U. S. tour of the year this weekend, visiting military bases in observance of Veterans Day.

The White House declined to say in its announcement Wednesday how many states Johnson would visit or how long he might be on the road. But it seems possible the trip might cover more than the Saturday holiday.

Johnson has not made a multi-stop trip around the country since October 1966 when he stumped the campaign trail on behalf of Democratic congressional candidates.

Important News Staff Meeting

For all news writers, and would-be writers

Tonight 6:30, Nantucket Room

Mandatory for present staff reporters

New candidates invited

Collegian Photo by Richard S. Kline

ERNEST HOFER

Oxford Program Offers The Best of England

By JOHN WOJNAS
Staff Reporter

Keeping a careful balance of the academic and social aims, the Oxford Summer Seminar hopes to "turn the student loose and let him discover and react as he sees fit." In an interview with the Daily Collegian, Prof. Ernest Hofer, director of the Oxford Summer Seminar, reminds interested UMass students that applications are due no later than Dec. 1.

Students accepted for the program will study English literature under notable Oxford dons at St. Hilda's College, Oxford, from July 2 to August 13. Applications are available in room 160 Bartlett Hall.

Financial aid will be available in the form of a loan, scholarship, or both. Last year, 50 students received aid ranging from $100 to $600. Although eligibility to the program is not restricted to English majors, a candidate should have completed 15 semester hours of any courses in English language or literature by June of 1968. No specific grades are required, but a B average is expected in English or related subjects.

According to Professor Hofer, there is "star cast among the faculty. The dons are young, eager and exciting, with a new approach." Students will find "much interaction" with the faculty on a social as well as academic level—from pub life to grand opera. The dons are excited about learning for the sake of learning, rather than for obtaining a numerical grade at the end of the semester, he said.

(Continued on page 2)

Student Senate PoetessLaureate Quits Poetically

By JOHN WOJNAS
Staff Reporter

Last night members of the Student Senate heard the resignation of Senator Susan J. Tracy.

Stating that although the Student Senate gave her companionship, security and a title, she was "running away from herself" and had become a "full-time legislator and a part-time student."

Most important in her decision was the fact that she was not communicating with her dorm. "Constituency correspondence is vital if the Senate is to stay alive," she continued. Emphasizing that the key to success is

(Continued on page 3)

Collegian Photos by Bob Gosciminski

UP, UP, AND AWAY . . .

SUG Board Acts In Expanding Univ.

By PATRICK FLAHERTY
Staff Reporter

Although the Student Union Governing (SUG) Board is usually busy with formulating the rules, regulations and policies governing the Student Union, Chairman Neal Whitman reveals that the SUG Board is involved in the planning of the Campus Center which is due to be completed in early 1969.

A subcommittee of the board has allocated "every inch of student space". Interested student groups which applied for space had their priorities determined by this subcommittee.

Another recent accomplishment of the SUG Board was its planning of the extension to the Hatch.

The board is part of the campus bureaucracy with which many UMass students are unfamiliar. It is this official body which determines how the Student Union is to be used by on and off campus groups.

Neal Whitman, a UMass junior, says the function of the 16-member board is "to keep the system going". Advertising and selling in the building are also regulated by this group. Any protests about the rules or policies of the Student Union Building must be directed here; every student's or group's complaints will be heard.

SUG Board representatives are elected and appointed. Members are elected by each graduating class. The distribution is one each to the Freshman and Senior Classes and two to each of the Sophomore and Junior Classes. Others are appointed by such student organizations as the Student Senate. Two members of the faculty and one UMass graduate are also on the board.

SWAP . . .

(Continued from page 1)

drink alcoholic beverages in a designated area on campus. Furthermore, it was proposed that a Rathskeller be established in the new Student Union to provide an area for drinking on campus. A committee is presently being formed to work on the implementation of the above mentioned proposals.

The work of the academic discussion was presented by its chairman Lew Gurwitz. Since in this group there was almost unanimous approval on five proposals, the SWAP Committee decided to have all of the delegates at the conference vote on each proposal presented by the academic group. The following proposals were accepted and passed by a majority of the delegates attending the SWAP Conference.

1. Students should be encouraged to take a course next semester under the pass-fail system if and only if the Faculty Senate nullifies the clause which states that an "F" is to be included in the cumulative average. The Academic Affair Committee of the Student Senate has agreed to begin working immediately on this proposal. Also, the Academic Affairs Committee will evaluate the pass-fail system, at the end of the semester.
2. The Cook Committee, which is presently working out curriculum changes for the College of Arts and Sciences, should hold Open Hearings on this subject before final decisions are made and a report is issued.
3. Student committee should be established to advise and suggest curriculum changes on the departmental level.
4. Establish a committee to study registration procedures at other campuses (e.g. Ohio State and U. of California at Berkeley) so that our registration system will enable students to choose professors, sections, and times for every course to be taken (UNANIMOUS). The committee at present consists of Robert Scheff, Speech Department, Howard Altman, Maroon Keys, and Dr. William Venman, Assistant to the Provost.
5. The "Hunt" Committee (Chairman John Hunt, English) will devise an elaborate orientation system to render aid in the adjustment period which all Freshmen must undergo (UNANIMOUS).

SWAP plans to hold a post-conference so as to insure proper follow-up work on all proposals developed at the conference.

OXFORD . . .

(Continued from page 1)

One reason for the program's success thus far has been the enjoyment which the dons find in working with American students, especially the easy give-and-take of the American student and his approach to literature, Professor Hofer notes that "both sides benefit."

Besides the academic aim, the program tries to involve the student with the best of England: theatre, sports, opera, countryside, history and the English people. There is opportunity to meet other college students as the Seminar invites interested applicants throughout the United States to participate. It also gives American credit for study abroad. The University offers its courses within the boundaries of Oxford, backed by the resources of the Bodleian Library, one of the world's greatest.

Undergraduates are required to register for six semester hours, and all graduate students are expected to take three semester hours. Courses being offered include Chaucer, Shakespeare, Seventeenth-Century Poetry, Modern British and American Drama, and others including both graduate and undergraduate seminars.

Mademoiselle Cover

'Mademoiselle' To Recruit and Demonstrate

Representatives from Mademoiselle Magazine will arrive at the Student Union's Colonial Lounge this Monday, Nov. 13, to demonstrate the latest hair styles and correct makeup usage.

From 10:30 to 12:30, Miss Donna Hectsher will set up a clinic to illustrate makeup techniques on a volunteer chosen from the audience.

Later in the afternoon, from 1:30 to 3:30 Mademoiselle will interview girls interested in modeling. The Revelers, who are sponsoring the event, say that "There are enough beautiful UMass coeds to take advantage of this opportunity. Don't disappoint us!!"

NOTICES

PRE-LAW STUDENTS
On Friday, Nov. 10, Professors George Brown and Richard Pearson of BU School of Law will hold small group and individual interviews in the Provost's Office in Whitmore Administration Bldg. All seniors considering making application to BU should schedule an appointment in the Pre-Law Advisor's Office, 362 Whitmore.

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS
There will not be a bus at the Newman Center this Saturday.

AMHERST STAMP CLUB
On Friday, Nov. 10 in Public Health Bldg, Room 103, at 7:30 p.m. a program will be furnished by Springfield Stamp Club. Interested visitors welcome.

SCIENCE FICTION CLUB
Library is open Mon.-Fri. from 6:30-8:30 p.m. in 109-11 Hampshire House, near SW. Come and relax.

HILLEL
Thurs., Nov. 9 Passover refunds now being given out in Hillel office. Final Week. Daily, noon-4 p.m.
On Thurs., Nov. 9 in Worcester Room, a Hillel coffee hour will take place from 2-4 p.m. All students invited to come and meet each other.

WINTER CARNI CONCERT COMM.
Meeting at 7:30 p.m. in Berkshire Room S.U. Contact Pete at 253-5920 if can't attend.

INTERVARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP
On Thurs., Nov. 9 at 5:30 p.m. in Memorial Hall, there is a prayer meeting. All welcome.

PINNING
Posie Means '71, Knowlton to John G. Mansfield '69, Northeastern.
Donna Durkin '68, Sigma Kappa to Glen Cummins '70, Sunderland.
Dianne Clark '68, BU Nursing, to Richard Halverson '69, APO.

ENGAGEMENT
Phyllis Weiner '71, Dwight to Harvey Polokoff, Nassau Community College, New York.

YAHOO . . .

(Continued from page 1)

that were of importance to the students."

According to Ward, this would include religion and politics, the difference being that the Yahoo would aim towards creative and constructive satire, not just a "dump on."

Future plans of the Provisional Board include a request to the Student Senate for a limited amount of funds to be used initially for public relations and office supplies. At present, individual members are donating funds for the magazine's basic needs.

The Provisional Board will meet next Wednesday at 3:30 in the Franklin room. The next general staff meeting will be Tuesday at 8:30 p.m.

The Brothers of

Phi Sigma Kappa

Invite Freshmen to

OPEN SMOKERS

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 7 — 8:00 P.M.
and
THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 9 — 8:00 P.M
at the Grad House — 382 N. Pleasant St.

FOLK IN THE 'ROUND

J. F. K.
MEMORIAL CONCERT
NOVEMBER 19, 1967
Tickets on sale at S.U. Box Office now

Nominations For
Winter Carnival Queens
AVAILABLE IN R.S.O. NOW
DUE NOVEMBER 11

FREE DELIVERY TO UNIVERSITY—6 to 11 p.m. every night
RAPP'S DELICATESSEN
AND RESTAURANT
— Two Locations —

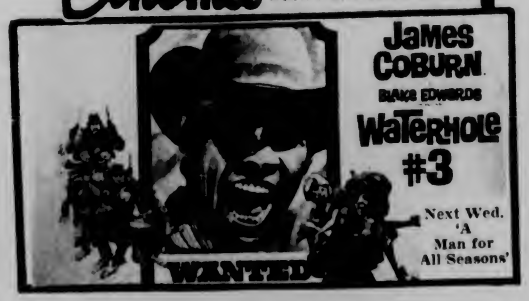
AMHERST, MASS.
Next to Peter Pan

STORRS, CONN.
Rts. 195 & 44A—Next to A&P

SANDWICHES

Corned Beef	.85
Pastromi	.85
Roast Beef	.85
Tongue	.90
Rolled Beef	.85
Salami	.70
Bologna	.65
Liverwurst	.65
Turkey	.85
Tuna Salad	.55
Egg Salad	.50
Bagel with Cream Cheese	.35
Bagel with Cream Cheese and Lox	.75
American Cheese	.45
Swiss Cheese	.65
Chopped Liver	.85

SALADS



Potato Salad	.25
Homemade Coleslaw	.25
Sauerkraut	.20
Macaroni	.20

DESSERTS
Cheesecake
Almond Horns — Almond Tarts
Choc. Chip Cookies — Brownies
Eclairs — Cake — Others

BEVERAGES
Canned Soda .20
Pepsi — Sprite — Coke — Grape
Root Beer — Orange — Ginger Ale
Diet Pepsi

Order a Pickle
Try Swiss Cheese, American Cheese or Coleslaw on your Sandwich—Be Brave
"ENJOY AT RAPP'S"
Phones: Amherst 256-6759 — Storrs 429-6429

AMHERST Cinema
NOW—7:00 and 9:05
SAT.
SUN.-1:30-3:30-5:20-7-9:10

Next Wed.
'A Man for All Seasons'

DICK FOWLER
BSME, U. of California, joined Bethlehem's 1964 Loop Course. Assigned to the maintenance and engineering departments of our South San Francisco Plant, Dick handles assignments throughout the plant. A typical project was designing and supervising installation of a complex hydraulic mechanical transfer system.

MANAGEMENT MINDED?
Career prospects are better than ever at Bethlehem Steel. We need on-the-ball engineering, technical, and liberal arts graduates for the 1968 Loop Course. Pick up a copy of our booklet at your placement office.

An Equal Opportunity Employer in the Plans for Progress Program

BETHLEHEM STEEL

NSA, AAUP Favor "Bill of Rights" For Students, Including Free Press

WASHINGTON (CPS) — The American Association of University Professors has become the second of five national organizations to go on record in favor of a joint statement on the rights and freedoms of students.

The statement endorses such rights as a student role in policy-making and due process for students in disciplinary cases.

The AAUP's national council unanimously endorsed the statement during a closed meeting here, last weekend. Although the statement still must be presented to the full AAUP membership at a meeting next April, passage there appears likely. The Council is the organization's policy-making body and its recommendations have considerable influence on the membership. The Council consists of 30 elected representatives.

The National Student Association was the first of the five organizations to endorse the statement. This action came at the NSA Congress in August.

In addition to AAUP and NSA, the statement was drafted by representatives of the American Association of Colleges, the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators, and the National Association of Women's Deans and Counselors. The governing body of AAC will consider the statement in January, and the policy-making bodies of NASPA and NAWDC will review it next April.

These three hurdles for the statement are considered tougher than NSA and AAUP approval, since these groups, particularly the AAC, were more conservative in their views during the drawing up of the statement this summer. A survey of college presidents conducted by the magazine, College Management, showed that most of them agreed with basic academic freedoms of students in principle but were less willing to approve such practical applications as a free student press and free choice of campus speakers.

The statement is considered significant because the bodies which drafted it represent administrators, faculty members, and students.

Robert Van Waes, associate secretary of AAUP, said the AAUP council was "very enthusiastic" about the principles of academic freedom for students. He termed the joint statement "a big step toward creating a national consensus on certain student rights and freedoms and a prelude to achieving a national concensus on the student role in institutional government."

Some of the major provisions of the statement include:

A long list of due process requirements in major cases, including putting the burden of proof on the college and guaranteeing the student's right to defend himself.

The right to attend college without regard to race, to invite speakers of students' own choosing, and to have complete freedom of off-campus action without fear of university punishment or the violation of civil laws.

Protection of students from "arbitrary and prejudiced" grading by professors.

A free student press. Whenever possible, the statements says, student newspapers should be legally and financially autonomous from the university as separate corporations. When this is not possible, the statement urges a student press sufficiently autonomous to remain a vehicle for freedom of inquiry and expression.

The joint drafting committee also made recommendations for the implementation of the principles outlined in the statement. Perhaps the most significant was the recommendation for joint approaches to regional accrediting agencies to seek embodiment of the new principles in standards for accreditation.

The drafting committee also advocated joint efforts to promote acceptance of the new standards on the institutional level and the establishment of machinery to facilitate continuing joint interpretation.

The statement has come under some criticism from student leaders because portions of it are vague. These leaders think these portions may give administrations too much leeway. However, NSA President Ed Schwartz, who sat on the drafting committee, said this summer that these statements, which were often compromises between NSA and the other groups were better than what some of the groups had proposed.

SENATE . . .

(Continued from page 4)

resignation states that at the 1967 SWAP Conference it was recommunication, her letter of peatedly mentioned that the Senate is not communicating with the IFC, the honoraries, or the classes, and that "when communication fails, the Student Senate fails."

In resigning, Senator Tracy relinquishes two positions-that of dorm Senator and poetess laureate of the Student Senate. She concluded with a poem based on Rudyard Kipling's "IF," dedicated to the 1967 Student Senate which will appear in a later MDC feature article.

VIETNAM POLL . . .

(Continued from Page 1)

calation," while 13.8 per cent voted "Continuing the present policy."

It is significant to note that virtually the same number voted for the two extreme positions on the ballot 21.9 per cent on the one hand and 19.5 per cent on the other. This seems to indicate that there are nearly the same number of radicals on both sides of the issue on the UMass campus, and that possibly the pacifistic elements an campus are actually only a vociferous minority.

From whatever angle you look at it, however, the Johnson administration comes out on the bottom. Only 13.8 per cent of those who voted favor the way in which the war is now being conducted.

Polls such as the one conducted here will undoubtedly be watched by President Johnson and his advisors in the months ahead with election time approaching. The indication is that policy will have to change either one way or the other.

San Francisco became the first major city in the nation to vote on the Vietnam policy last Tuesday. There, the motion for a ceasefire and immediate withdrawal was defeated by nearly a 2 to 1 margin. It must be taken into consideration, however, that this was a yes/no vote and provided no alternatives as did the Daily Collegian poll. The results of a poll such as the one conducted at UMass, which provides alternatives, enables analysts to gain greater insight into the variety of feelings toward the war and its conduct.

The United States should adopt a policy of:
1. All-out escalation	472
2. Continuing the present policy	308
3. De-escalation (stop the bombing and negotiate)	797
4. Immediate U.S. withdrawal	420
5. Open-end question	141

Constructive ideas put forth in a space provided to write in one's own feelings on the war, such as was provided for on the Daily Collegian ballot, can also be of significant value. This "open-end" question was chosen by 6.6 per cent of those voting. Answers ranged from constructive criticism to crackpot crudeness.

Ideas in the constructive category ranged from "creating a national referendum to determine our course in the war," "handing the entire situation over to the United Nations," "replacing American troops with Asian," "escalation in order to negotiate," "intense escalation or withdrawal," to "declaring a victory for the U.S. and South Vietnam and withdrawing."

Some of the less constructive ideas included "praise the Lord and pass," "bomb Hanoi and the Cage," "fire McNamara and Rusk and then attempt negotiation," and "send the protestors over."

One ballot which had no boxes checked and at first glance appeared blank had the word "over" scrawled on the side. On the back appeared one sentence which could probably sum up the feelings of the campus and perhaps even President Johnson himself on "what should be done in Vietnam now" . . . "Don't know, but would like to."

Science Teachers, Students Meet For "Science in Action" Conference

"Science in Action," a conference for secondary school science teachers and students, will be held at the University of Massachusetts today.

The conference is sponsored by the UMass Cooperative Extension Service in conjunction with the College of Agriculture. Seventy schools throughout the state are expected to send 375 students and teachers to the conference.

Highlighting the day-long agenda will be 37 workshop sessions, according to Ernest Hatch, assistant state 4-H club leader.

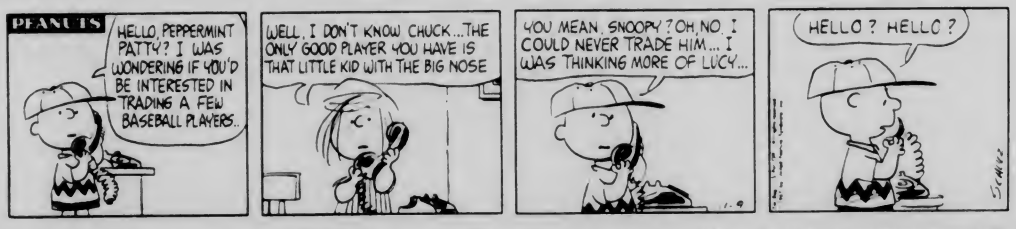
Workshop sessions conducted by UMass faculty include animals genetics, microbiology, soil chemistry and timber physics.

According to Mr. Hatch, the Science in Action conference provides an opportunity to demonstrate how scientific knowledge is used in practical programs designed to solve problems facing the Commonwealth.

LOST

Sociology 102 notebook lost in Draper parking lot. Reward. Tel. 549-1622.

Silver marriage band, with florentine design, diamond chips arranged in flower patter. Sentimental value. If found, contact Rhonda Bernstein, Van Meter South. Reward.



Navy pea jacket with wallet, etc. in pockets, lost in South Dining Commons Friday night. Keen money or jacket, but please return all ID's car keys and glasses.

Leave at S.U. Lost and Found, no questions asked.

Mens' brown wallet in area of Mahar Aud. Contains valuable papers. Please call Ed in 415 Mills. 5-2414 or 5-2415.

FOUND

I.D. left at Vietnam ballot. Claim with suitable identification at the Daily Collegian office.

Academic Affairs
Activities
Men's Affairs
Women's Affairs
Public Relations
Ways and Means
Budgets
Finance

Student Government Assn.

NEEDS NON SENATE MEMBERS INTERESTED?

Applications are now available in the

STUDENT SENATE OFFICE

Student Union

GIRLS — EASILY EARN $200 BY CHRISTMAS THROUGH SPARE-TIME SEWING AT HOME EVEN WITHOUT A SEWING MACHINE

Easy-to-sew products (both with and without a sewing machine) can earn you extra money just in time for Christmas (and in the following months, too!). You can accomplish this in a few hours a week, even while you're baby-sitting. There is no personal selling needed. Our booklet gives you all the easy steps to follow so that you can have fun sewing those items which you already know, plus new ideas which you can learn, while every stitch earns you more money. Our extra Directory of "Where To Send For Sewing Bargains" will be included FREE, (fabrics, threads, yarns, buttons, ribbons, remnants, and even sewing machines at low, low prices!) if your order is received within a week. Rush two dollars today, (only $2.00) for your copy of "GIRLS SEW AND EARN," to Amethyst Enterprises, 5 Jamaica Avenue, Greenlawn, New York, 11740. Your money will be refunded if you are not completely satisfied—and you may keep the Directory with our compliments!

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

De-escalation

The results in yesterday's Vietnam Ballot are in. (See page one.) As expected by many, the response to the third choice, de-escalation (stop the bombing and negotiate) was the greatest.

The response to all-out escalation and to immediate withdrawal shows the concern that students have over the course of our actions in Vietnam. While these are the more extreme positions, even those who chose to mark their "x's" for number 1 and 4 leave unsettled a lot of future questions. But the extremists very definitely are unsatisfied with present policy.

On such a poll as ours, the tallies would have to indicate dissatisfaction. On the other hand, the poll may have recorded the existence of more over-all confusion rather than dissatisfaction. If this last observation is true it should be a cause of dissatisfaction to all of us. We may suppose, given the cross-section of responses and the availability of the Ballot, that the results are representative of concerned student opinion on this campus.

What good has it all done us? For one thing, we know that the UMass poll is an up-to-date opinion that differs from the results of the signature-petition drive in support of the Government's policies in Vietnam which was held two years ago on this campus. This fact should cause us all to reconsider recent actions by the Johnson Administration.

Secondly, the campus is able to identify much easier with this poll than those taken by Gallup or local and national "interest groups."

The strength of the four (five) positions may not have been what we, as individuals wanted, but they reinforce the demand for consideration of the spectrum of views.

— THE EDITORS

Viewpoint

Someone Lives There

By DAVID A. PURDY

Campus Minister, United Christian Foundation

I would like to respond to the concern expressed in Campus Comment (November 7, 1967) about the way in which windows are "decorated" in the Southwest complex. The writer of the column that day was bothered by the fact that the window messages, not unlike the billboards which mar the countryside, are a form of environmental pollution. With this I would agree—to a point!

And the point is this, perhaps the student is attempting to say something deeper than the often ridiculous words and pictures of the signs suggest: in an impersonal, complex and institutionalized university might the student not be shouting, "I'm here, look at me, I exist, doesn't someone care?"

Do not misunderstand, I like the high-rise buildings, because, if nothing else, they stand as a symbol of urbanization in a region which seems determined in its refusal to recognize that urbanization is not just the growth of cities in our day but is now the predominant and universal style of life of the 20th century.

But not unlike the tenement dweller who occupies a "nice new" building constructed by the public housing authority and who feels as though he belongs to the building instead of the building being his, so the student might be attempting to express his individuality via the window signs. Short of blowing a hole through the cement block dorm room wall because of the way the buildings are constructed there is very little the student can do to shape or personalize the environment in which he must live but about which he has not been consulted.

Perhaps instead of forbidding window displays, creativity ought to be encouraged—maybe even by a contest of some sort. For example, students decorate their corridors at Christmas, why not the windows during the rest of the year? Imagine the possibility of creating an atmosphere of celebration or of making a statement of human significance through the use of striking color and imaginative design in the midst of concrete, glass and brick! Who knows, perhaps pictures, slogans, posters and cartoons in windows might not only give the student the opportunity to express his individuality but might also address others in such a way that dialogue among people might begin. Faceless buildings don't talk, but a sign in the window says someone lives here.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union . . . University of Massachusetts . . . Amherst, Mass.

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Chester S. Weinerman '68
MANAGING EDITOR ..... John H. Dean, Jr. '69
BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Charles Smith '69
News Day Editor: Marjie Flanders. Editorial Day Editor: Ellie Skinner
News Editors ..... Ron LaBrecque '70, Richard Kline '70
Editorial Chairman ..... Pat Petow '68
Sports Editor ..... Tom FitzGerald '69
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Glenn Briere '69
Advertising Managers ..... Dot Silvia '69, Sharon Kramer '69
Photo Editor ..... Paul Boliver '68

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty members or administration read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.
Published at the Massachusetts Daily Collegian, Student Union, UMass., Amherst, Mass. 01002.
Member of the Associated Collegiate Press. Member of the Collegiate Press Service of the United States Student Press Association. Member of the Associated Press—The Associated Press is entitled exclusively to the use for reproduction of all the local news printed in this newspaper as well as all AP news dispatches.
Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Printed five times weekly during the academic year, except during vacation and examination periods; three or four times weekly the week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within the week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 3, 1879, as amended by the act of June 11, 1934.
Subscription price: $4.00 per year; $2.50 per semester.

Sam Spark Speaks Out

Stop the Bombing and Negotiate

The validity of the Collegian Poll on Vietnam is somewhat tenuous. Not to mention the outlandish suggestion of number five to formulate your own policy on Vietnam in "five words or less," the poll itself was slanted toward number 3 which read "De-escalation (stop the bombing and negotiate.)"

Almost everyone, including Pres. Johnson, supports negotiations. But one wonders whether in the harsh world of reality if negotiations would necessarily follow a bombing pause. By virtue of the explanation in parentheses, the voter was enticed to vote for policy number three. By way of contrast, number one merely said "all-out escalation." Number two said "continuing the present policy." And number four said "immediate U.S. withdrawal."

One can only speculate how the questionnaire would have differed if its drafter had favored any of the other policies. A hawk's questionnaire would probably read something like this.

1. Escalate (Bomb the dirty commies until they come crawling to the conference table.)
2. Continue the present policy (of failure.)
3. De-escalate (and throw away any chance of ever winning the war.)
4. Withdraw (like a coward and watch all of Southeast Asia fall to the Communists.)

An advocate of our present policy would probably word the questionnaire like this.

1. Escalate (and draw Red China into the war and risk World War III.)
2. Continue the present policy (until the Viet Cong finally and inevitably come to the peace table.)
3. De-escalate (and let a bunch of long haired hippies dictate our policy.)
4. Withdraw (and show the world we have no intention of ever again keeping a promise.)

And finally, an extreme dove would say:

1. Escalate (and maim babies and fill the pockets of all the grubby American capitalists who are the only ones gaining anything from this lousy war.)
2. Continue the present policy (of killing innocent people.)
3. De-escalate (and admit our present policy is wrong. And if we admit our present policy is wrong, why not get out of there altogether. Right?)
4. Withdraw (like true Patriotic Americans and leave Vietnam to the Vietnamese and show the world we have enough courage to admit we were wrong.)

P.S. If you don't agree that this article covers all the basic ideologies of the Vietnam War, please write a letter to the Collegian explaining your thoughts on Ho Chi Minh, American foreign policy, and Dow Chemical in five words or less.

Campus Comment

Modify the Ballot

To the editor:

The "Daily Collegian" in its Vietnam Ballot is putting forth an honest effort to get a real picture of the opinions of the entire undergraduate community. This search for the truth is an excellent idea, but I feel that the results of the poll will not reflect the true feelings of every undergraduate.

I base this assumption on the supposition that those, including myself, who are in favor of the present policy should not have to vote on its behalf. People, who disagree with the present policy, are the ones who should voice their opinions, as I am sure they will, but it should be further presupposed that the people who do not vote are giving their consent to the present policy. There is a simple truth behind this reasoning. If you have an opportunity to express your opinions on a given matter and you agree wholeheartedly wth the item or subject in question there is no real reason why you should take part in a discussion, ballot or argument on the matter.

To get the complete undergraduate opinion, item No. 2 (that of continuing the present policy) of the sample ballot published in the "Daily Collegian" should be eliminated. This would take into account the simple truth that I have stated above. Those who disagree will get their chance to voice their collected opinions, and those who agree with the present policy will be fully represented.

The importance of modifying the ballot in this way should be obvious. People who read the tabulated results of the poll will not be misguided by the misrepresentation that would take place if Continuing the Present Policy item remains on the ballot.

Kevin E. Deckel

Voice Your Opinion

To the editor:

Those students with opinions to express on academic matters were urged, in Tuesday's lead editorial, to make their views known. I would like to use this means to offer them a forum for their views—the Student Senate Academic Affairs Committee.

One of the issues we are considering this year is the status of the University's Phys Ed core requirement. Recommendations will be made in this matter soon. We invite student comment.

Among other issues being considered in committee this year are: University core curriculum; University College report; establishment of an academic ombudsman; changes in the grading system; the status of ROTC on campus; distribution of semester grade reports; revisions in future academic calendars, and more.

After recommendations are made by Academic Affairs and approved by the Senate, they will be presented to the Faculty Senate Academic Matters Committee and then to the Faculty Senate. The broader the sweep of student participation in these decisions through their student government, the louder the voice we can speak with to the Faculty Senate and the Administration.

Our meetings are held on Wednesday at 5:30 p.m. in the Hampden Room of the S.U. Come and make your views known.

Christopher D. McGahan,
Chairman, Student Senate
Academic Affairs Comm.

MANDATORY!
Meeting for all News Staff Reporters
6:30 p.m. Tonight Nantucket Room, S.U.

First Official S.E.N.D.O.F.F. Weekend

S.E.N.D. O.F.F. weekend will be a first in many respects.

It will be the first official student welcoming of the basketball team.

Also, it will feature concerts with a number of popular performers from Simon and Garfunkel to The Harlem Globetrotters.

The weekend will begin Friday night when Jackie Washington and the Times Square Two perform in the Student Union Ballroom.

The setting for this all night show will provide a pleasing atmosphere. Also, exotic drinks and pastries will be served during the night.

Saturday night the UMass Redmen will play the UNH Wildcats in Curry Hicks Cage. On the other side of campus, the Turtles and the Pilgrims will give two shows, during and after the game, in the Ballroom.

Sunday night Simon and Garfunkel will perform in the Cage at 7 p.m. The Sophomore Executive Council decided to have an evening show in order to use special effects lighting during the performance.

Buses will be available after the concert to handle the expected increase of people coming to campus for the weekend.

S.E.N.D. O.F.F. will not be over, however, until the world famous Harlem Globetrotters make their appearance on Thursday, Dec. 7.

JACKIE WASHINGTON

Jackie Washington comes from Roxbury and considers Massachusetts his home. He will appear in concert on Friday night of S.E.N.D. O.F.F. weekend.

Jackie began his career singing in Boston and Cambridge coffeehouses. He recently released an album JACKIE WASHINGTON: AT THE CLUB 47. The Club 47 is a Cambridge coffeehouse that considers Washington its own.

Washington sings a variety of songs ranging from humorous to very deep thoughts. His voice can even make MOLLIE MALONE sound pleasing.

Recently, Washington has had several accompanyists with him that enhance the sound of Jackie's voice. However, he still sings many of his songs alone.

During the Friday night show, he will appear with the Times Square Two. They will perform in a special setting of the Student Union Ballroom.

Text by Bob Gorman

THE TIMES SQUARE TWO

The Times Square Two are a combination comedy and folk group. Most reviewers are stumped when they try to describe the duo that has appeared three times on the Johnny Carson Show. The Boston Globe summed up The Times Square Two with, "In a word they are superb."

SIMON AND GARFUNKEL

Appearing Sunday night at 7 p.m. will be the popular duo Simon and Garfunkel. They performed during the Winter Carnival Weekend of 1966, when they were very well received.

They became famous with their first hit single, THE SOUNDS OF SILENCE. Since then the two have released many other singles including: Homeward Bound, I AM A ROCK, AT THE ZOO DANGLING CONVERSATION, and their recent hit FAKIN' IT.

Paul Simon and Arthur Garfunkel began singing together when they were both thirteen. They grew up together in Queens, N.Y. and often appeared in Greenwich Village Coffeehouses.

Simon graduated from Queens College, while Garfunkel went to Columbia University where he is presently a graduate student.

They have always tried to give their songs the popular sound while they include thoughtful meaning to the words.

The last time that Simon and Garfunkel appeared on campus they performed for only a few minutes. However, this time they will perform for two hours.

Globetrotters

The Harlem Globetrotters are as humorous as they are good on the basketball court. They will be on campus Thursday, Dec. 7 of S.E.N.D. O.F.F. weekend.

The team has been together since 1940 when they were created by the late Abe Saperstein. The Globetrotters have their home in Harlem, N.Y.

Their name suits them well, for they have toured the world at least 18 times. Lead by Meadowlark Lemon, the Harlem Globetrotters have thrilled audiences with their fancy dribbling and ball playing.

HARLEM GLOBETROTTERS' MEADOWLARK LEMON

The Turtles

The Turtles will perform in two shows in the Ballroom on Saturday night. One performance will be during the basketball game and the second will be after the game.

All the five members of the Turtles are from California. They became popular with their first hit single, IT AIN'T ME BABE.

Most of their songs deal with happiness. The groups big effort is to combine popular music with contemporary.

They seem to have had success with their singles so far. Their hit singles include: SHE'D RATHER BE WITH ME, HAPPY TOGETHER, and YOU KNOW WHAT I MEAN, and their newest hit SHE'S MY GIRL.

The group will appear with the Pilgrams in two hour concerts.

THE TURTLES

Football 'Everything' to Co-captain Mitchell

JIM MITCHELL
'Lives' for contact.

By STEVE ROSS
Staff Reporter

Asking a UMass football coach to say something nice about Co-captain Jim Mitchell is like asking a Boston Bruin fan to say something nice about Bobby Orr. Only superlatives describe the 6'1" 220 pound tackle from Stoneham.

Line coach George Karras said, "He has the enthusiasm that a coach doesn't always see in a senior. He's an excellent football player. He takes criticism well, and makes a real attempt to change his style. He is very coachable."

Backfield coach Jack Delaney said, "Mitchell really opens up holes in the other's team's line. He makes our running game effective with his devastating hitting, and is giving Greg Landry plenty of time to pass."

Vic Fusia chimed in with, "He's an excellent captain, and is having his best year. He had two fine ones before too." According to Mitchell, the reason for his extra effort this year is that he has the best back-up man in three years to push him, Bob Goc.

"Sprite," as he is known among his brothers at Kappa Sig, is thankful for football. "It gave me an opportunity to go to college and I never would have had a chance otherwise. I never thought of college until I received some offers during my high school days. I was given a few offers around New England and some in the South, but I liked the UMass coaching staff best, and I wanted to play in New England."

Speaking about Vic Fusia Mitchell said, "Football is everything to him. This is what he expects of his players, and this is how it must be. You have to be able to do anything that he asks of you. One hundred per cent isn't enough in football or anything, you have to give more."

Jim lives at Kappa Sig and rooms with Greg Landry. "There is no friction between us, and our differences compliment each other perfectly. Our families always attend the games together."

During the season he follows the same routine. He attends classes until 2:30, then returns to his room for a brief rest. Then he and his roommate go to practice. After practice and supper there are meetings. On Sunday they watch the previous game's film, Monday they check scouting reports, Tuesday the detense meets, Wednesday the offense, Thursday they work on game polish and Friday they see a movie at the Union. After the meeting Jim usually studies at the Newman Center or attends a tutorial session before hitting the sack.

Surprisingly he revealed "When I'm in the locker room just before a game, the last thing I want to do is play that game, but I know that I must. Once I have that first contact I'm fine. I love the contact, I live for it."

To Jim, the ideal drive is, "We get the ball on our own 20 and run 10 plays, nothing fancy, straight ahead stuff, a few off tackles and a pass or two. When we get seven points on a drive like that I'm extremely satisfied." His favorite play is the straight ahead rush. He grinned, "I love to line up on the other guys nose and drive him straight back."

Jim has been a starter ever since the second game of his sophomore year. "After we lost to Maine, I went in against A.I.C." he said. It may just be a coincidence, but the Redmen have never lost a conference game with Mitchell at tackle.

In his career here he tabs Glenn Grieco of Holy Cross as his toughest opponent and Ray Norton of BU as the best this year. His biggest thrill is "never losing to BU. I know a lot of people there."

For the rest of the season, Jim sees three UMass wins. "We were all up for BU and a little down for Vermont," he explained, "but we'll all be sky high for our last three games." He also went on to say, "I'd like to play in the Tangerine Bowl. It would be the perfect ending to my varsity career."

On the more distant future he said, "I have a two-year stint to put in with the Army because I'm in ROTC. It was my choice, and I have no regrets."

If the pros call he'll try. "I'd have to put on somewhere between 20 and 23 pounds, which is something I can do. I'd also have to shift to offensive guard."

His favorite team is the Chicago Bears, but he doesn't like their present owner-coach-general manager, George Hallas, who he considers "too old." He has also been questioned by Oakland about future employment. He concluded, "I don't care too much where I go as long as I play. I'd go nuts sitting on the bench."

After his stint in the service, and possibly pro ball, Jim wants to coach. "I think that I'd like to do college coaching. It's much more of an open field than high school coaching. I want to coach in the New England area."

Mermaids Win

The women's swim team started off the season Tuesday night with a 54-50 victory over Mount Holyoke. Outstanding swimmers for UMass were Jan Yorke, Sue Berger, Jan Schockley (Captain), Diane Allan, Sue Letourneau, and Jane Karcher. Next scheduled meet is Saturday against Vermont.

CROSS COUNTRY . . .

(Continued from page 7)

beaten by opponents this season, although they have beaten each other. Wayne was the New England high school champion last year for Brockton. Duart, from Martha's Vineyard, placed second in last spring's state two-mile championship.

Other top contenders in the race are Bob Borbet of Holy Cross, Mike Small of Northeastern, Fred Pampal of Rhode Island and Jerry Dawson of Boston State.

The facts of life.

Olds 4-4-2. Three bucket-seat models: Holiday Coupe, Sports Coupe, Convertible.

ENGINE
Type.....Rocket V-8
Bore x stroke, inches.....3.87 x 4.25
Displacement, cubic inches.....400
Compression ratio.....10.5-to-1
Bhp.....350* at 4800 rpm
Torque, lb.-ft.....440 at 3200 rpm
Carburetion.....4-bbl.
Built-in Combustion Control System provides constant carb air temperature.
Optional: Force-Air Induction System. Requires close-ratio 4-on-the-floor transmission or Turbo Hydra-Matic. 4.33-to-1 axle, 360 bhp at 5400 rpm.
Optional: Cruising package: Includes 400-CID V-8 with 2-bbl. carb, 290 bhp, 9-to-1 compression, Turbo Hydra-Matic, 2.56-to-1 axle. 325-hp Rocket 400 V-8 with 4-bbl. carb and 10.5-to-1 compression ratio teams with Turbo Hydra-Matic. *Bhp 325 with Turbo Hydra-Matic.

DRIVE TRAIN
Transmission.....Fully synchronized, heavy-duty 3-on-the-floor with Hurst Shifter
Optional: 4-on-the-floor (close- or wide-ratio with Hurst Shifter) or Turbo Hydra-Matic floor shift.
Prop shaft.....Heavy-duty
Axle ratios (to 1)..2.56, 2.78, 3.08, 3.23, 3.42, 3.91, 4.33, 4.66
Optional: Heavy-duty axles (H.D. shafts, bearings, differential gears), 3 ratios.

CHASSIS and BODY
Suspension.....Heavy-duty. Includes heavy-duty springs and shocks, front and rear stabilizers. Dual exhausts.
Steering ratio.....24-to-1
Wheels.....Heavy-duty 14-inch with extra-wide rims
Tires.....F70x14", Nylon-Cord Wide-Oval Red-Lines

OTHER OPTIONS
Power front disc brakes. UHV Transistorized Ignition. Anti-Spin Differential. Rally Stripe. Rally Pac (clock, tach, engine gauges). Sports console. Custom Sport Steering Wheel. Radial-Ply Whitewalls. Simulated-wire and Super Stock Wheels. Special wheel discs. Others.

GENERAL
Wheelbase.....112"
Overall length.....201.6"
Overall width.....76.2"
Overall height.....52.8"
Curb wt. (lb.) Holiday Coupe.....3628
Fuel capacity (gal.).....20
Headroom (Holiday Coupe)...front 37.6" rear 36.3"
Legroom (Holiday Coupe).....front 42.7" rear 32.7"
Hiproom (Holiday Coupe).....front 59.5" rear 53.0"
Tread.....front 59.0", rear 59.0"

SAFETY
And all the new GM safety features are standard on 4-4-2, including energy-absorbing steering column.

Drive a '68 "youngmobile" from Oldsmobile

GM
MARK OF EXCELLENCE

DANCE
featuring
The Boss Tweeds
and
The Maze
Donation 75c
Nov. 11, 8:00-12:00 p.m.
at S.U. Ballroom

The Welcome Mat
is always out
For the Students and Their Folks
who come to Northampton from North or South or East or West
Northampton is famous for its schools. . . and its favorite sons. . . AND, of course,
Jack August's
Where Sea Food is a Specialty
Open Tues., Wed., Thurs. to 7:30 p.m.
Fri., Sat. to 8:30 p.m.
Sunday to 8 p.m.
Bring your out of town guests to our famous restaurant we'll take the "fuss" and "muss" out of your life, and your friends will like it, too!

Frats Conquer Dorms Again In All-Star Tilt

(Continued from page 8)

the hard-hitting dorm defense to score first as Rigney hit Bob Hansen of Kappa Sig with a touchdown pass. It stood as the only scoring of the first half as the defenses took over for the duration.

After taking the opening kickoff of the second half, the fraternities marched downfield and scored on another touchdown toss by Rigney, this one to Paul Whalen of ASP. The conversion was unsuccesful but the frats had a 12-0 lead.

The dormitories broke the ice a few minutes later as Frank Desinta of the Webster Rams intercepted a Rigney pass and ran it all the way back for a touchdown. The conversion was good and the fraternities' lead was cut to 12-7.

Needing another touchdown to win, the dorms were held by the fraternity defense as Higney was nailed by Fran Levanthal of LCA on a fourth down play with just 40 seconds left in the game.

The game was marked by hard-hitting defensive play in the cold weather. Members of the UMass marching band gave a rousing performance at halftime.

• • •

Intramural handball play will include a separate flight in "small ball" competition if at least 20 players show interest in that style of play, according to intramurals director Ted Schmitt. Deadline for entries in the new flight is Friday.

Handball competition has been restricted to the larger ball style, he said, because that is the style taught in physical education classes.

Dial the MDC's
Hot Sportline
5-0344

Grid Freshmen Play Under Lights at UConn

By PETE CARROLL
Staff Reporter

Coach Dave Kelley's freshman football team will be seeking their second win of the year when they invade Storrs for a night game with the UConn frosh Friday.

The Little Redmen, 1-3 overall and 1-0 against their only Yankee Conference foe, Rhode Island, will be playing under the lights for the first time. Kelley thinks playing in the cooler night air will help his boys, who now have a lack of depth after a series of key injuries.

The UConn frosh are winless in three outings against BU, UNH and Bridgeport. The Little Huskies have a strong offense based on a fine running game, but their defense hasn't been as effective.

Kelley expects a tough game and figures three touchdowns should give the Little Redmen their second victory. He has been impressed by the team's practices this week.

There will be some changes in the UMass line-up. Starting at left halfback will be Mark Russell and Dick Heavey at right halfback. Bob Toole will remain at fullback, but Joe Fany, switched from linebacker will get the starting assignment at quarterback.

The UMass defense has been superb all year, keeping the team in all its games. The most points UMass has allowed all year is the 22 to Army.

Ed Sapienza will be putting his perfect seven-for-seven conversion record on the line in the game.

Frosh Runners Eye N. E. Crown

By JOEL FOX
Staff Reporter

Coach Ken O'Brien will bring his talented freshmen cross-country team to Franklin Park in Boston Monday in quest of the New England championship.

"I think there are five teams that can win it," said O'Brien, "Central Connecticut, Northeastern, Rhode Island, Holy Cross and UMass." The Little Redmen have lost to Northeastern, Rhode Island and Holy Cross by just one point each. They beat Central by a point.

'In cross-country, a one-point advantage can be lost easily by just one runner having a good day," said O'Brien.

The successful frosh coach feels his fourth and fifth men will be the key to victory. He hopes Larry Paulsen and Bob Benshimol, who each improved by 20 second in the last meet, can finish in the top 25 at Boston.

O'Brien is looking for third man Tom Derderian to place in the top 10. "He was an unknown high school performer who can attribute his improvement to hard work and desire," the coach said.

O'Brien of course is banking on his two aces Ron Wayne and Leo Duart, to finish in the top five. Wayne and Duart have yet to be

(Continued on page 6)

Freshmen, Transfer Students
and Upperclassmen

SORORITY
OPEN
HOUSES

Nov. 12, 19 — Dec. 2, 17 — 2:30 - 4:00

"A Dastardly Affair"

presented by

ΓΣΣ PLAYERS

Friday, Nov. 17 at 8:00 p.m.

ADMISSION — TOILET ARTICLES

"Profits" to Belchertown

The SHAKE-A PUDD'N Revolution:

WHAT IS ITS SIGNIFICANCE?

Beverly Besick, Dept. of Anthropology
Archetypical.
The ritual of the Midnight Pudding Snack is well established in primitive societies. Since Shake-A Pudd'n does not require refrigeration, it lends itself to use in dormitories (surely one of the most primitive societies), thereby fulfilling this basic, instinctual human drive at the precise moment it arises.

Harry Holesome, Dept. of Health Education
The American Dream come true.
Shake-A Pudd'n combines healthful nutrition, bracing exercise and, above all, Good Clean Fun. An essential part of the Physical Fitness Program.

Sylvia Cimbill, Dept. of Psychology
Truly Freudian.
Powder and water are mixed in a cup, an obviously mammalian formation, seen on a deeper level as Mother. One shakes the cup, in a desperate but futile attempt to shake off the inhibiting Superego and free the primitive Id.

Michael Media, Dept. of Sociology
A true product of the Electric Age.
Shake-A Pudd'n has transformed a fragmented, time-consuming, mechanical task into an almost instantaneous, totally involving experience. Definitely "cool." Although equally good at room temperature.

Francine Factor, Dept. of History
Of tremendous historical significance.
Had Shake-A Pudd'n been discovered in the 18th Century, the French Revolution would probably never have taken place when it did. Marie Antoinette's famous remark, "Let 'em eat cake," would no doubt have been transformed to "Let 'em eat pudd'n," thereby appeasing the masses for at least another century.

Shake-A Pudd'n™, the new instant dessert mix from Royal.
Just put water and powder in the cup, snap the lid, shake for 30 seconds and let it set. In Chocolate, Vanilla, Butterscotch or Banana. Each package complete with four puddings, spoons, lids, and throwaway shakers.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

OBI AB PEALS
DAMPER RAPINE
ER ORATORS EA
RO OTIC EWES
HERS SNEE ERE ALATE EELS SD
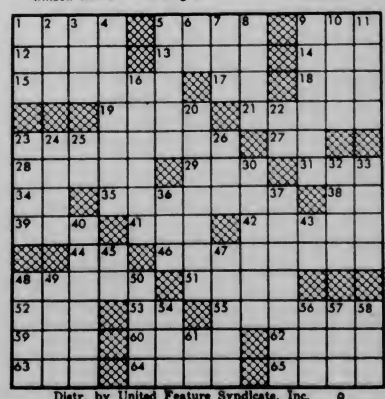
LEND DATE
SS TIRE NORTH
ICE DEAD PORE
DODO ASIA SE
EN REDEEMS PA
DELETE TIARAS
SALAD SD INK



9

ACROSS

1-Insect
5-Unlock
9-Nod
12-Toward shelter
13-Burrowing animal
14-Wine cup
15-Be in need
17-Pronoun
18-Man's nickname
19-Shakespearian character
21-Look fixedly
23-Students
27-Preposition
28-Omit from pronunciation
29-Perform
31-Snake
34-Greek letter
35-Post
38-Maiden loved by Zeus
39-Haul
41-Capuchin monkey
42-River ducks
44-Indefinite article
46-In a corrupt manner
48-Danger
51-Want
52-Be mistaken
53-Preposition
55-Gets up
59-Falsehood
60-Fondles
62-Girl's name
63-Number
64-Withered
65-Electric catfish

DOWN

1-Existed
2-In music, high
3-Ocean
4-Punctuation marks
5-Greek letter
6-River in Italy
7-Man's name
8-Seines
9-Fruit
10-Hebrew measure
11-Walk in water
16-Menservants
20-Speech
22-Preposition
23-Clan
24-Muse of history
25-Greeting
26-Science (abbr.)
30-Walk unsteadily
32-Part of window frame
33-Nosegay
36-Swiss river
37-More in want
40-Rabbit hutch
43-Indefinite article
45-Symbol for nickel
47-Plague
48-Animal's coat
49-Great Lake
50-Part of face
54-Born
56-Music: as written
57-Greek letter
58-Mournful
61-Initials of 26th President

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 9

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian

Sports

THURSDAY, NOV. 9, 1967
Page 8 Vol. XCVI, No. 44

The UMass crews have begun their winter training program in the basement of Memorial Hall. Student interested in becoming members are invited to contact either varsity crew coach Dave Clarke or freshmen crew coach Mike Faherty at the training sessions Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 4:30 to 5:30.

UMass Nixes Tangerine Bowl Consideration

By TOM FITZGERALD
Sports Editor

Regardless of the Redmen's showing in their last three games, they will not be considered for the Tangerine Bowl, in Orlando, Fla., where UMass appeared in 1964.

Although the UMass Athletic Council met Monday night and formally voted against possible Tangerine Bowl consideration, Director of Athletics Warren McGuirk had already informed the NCAA Atlantic Coast College Division committee that UMass was not interested.

Ernie Casale, athletic director at Temple University and Atlantic Coast regional chairman, told The Daily Collegian this week in a telephone interview that he had received the letter from McGuirk Monday.

"I hadn't discussed it with all the members of the council before the meeting," said McGuirk, "but I knew how they would feel about it." He sternly expressed his hope that the nine-member council would not be termed "a rubber stamp."

McGUIRK

The deadline for UMass' reply to possible Tangerine Bowl consideration was originally set at Oct. 20, McGuirk said, but UMass had neglected to send its reply by that date because of a foul-up in communications.

McGuirk was asked for a "yes or no" answer Friday by Harry Arlanson, athletic director at Tufts University and another member of the selection committee. "Massachusetts was still in contention," said Casale.

McGuirk said that an article appearing Monday in The Springfield Union wrongly stated that UMass "would not be interested in participating in a post-season game." "Our action did not rule out a bowl game other than the Tangerine Bowl," he said.

The Tangerine Bowl game is scheduled for Dec. 16. UMass played in the bowl in 1964, losing to East Carolina, 14-13.

UMass refused consideration this year, McGuirk said, because of "the general disruption of students' academic plans" and because "we do have three games left and there is no assurance that we would be considered."

He added, "We don't have too much to gain by being identified with this particular bowl game." The stadium in which the game is played, he said, "holds no more than 12,000 people."

A bowl invitation, he said, "is a reward for play over more than a year — this is the criterion for schools that are not annualy considered. Some schools are annually considered and actually project it into their budgets."

"I've seen too many schools that were jinxed by bowl consideration," he said.

Selection committee chairman Casale said that other New England schools in the running for a Tangerine Bowl are Rhode Island, Northeastern and Central Connecticut. Other possible schools are West Chester, Hofstra, Wilkes, Temple, Wagner and Morgan State.

'Harnessed' Sophomore Paces Scarlet Knights

By GLENN BRIERE
Assistant Sports Editor

A big factor in Saturday's football game at Alumni Stadium could be a harness. It is the harness that holds Rutgers quarterback Bruce Van Ness' left arm in place.

Van Ness, who was injured in September, is back at the helm as Rutgers, The State University (of New Jersey, that is), meets the Redmen for the first time.

A 6'3, 205-pound sophomore from Princeton, N.J., the versatile Van Ness was considered the key to a winning season at the beginning of the season. However, an early-season shoulder separation put him on the sidelines.

With him, Rutgers lost to powerful Princeton by just a point. Without him, the Scarlet Knights had trouble getting past Lehigh and Delaware, and lost to Ivy League patsy Columbia by 11 points. Rutgers' record is now a mediocre 3-3.

The team doctor, however, devised a harness for Van Ness' left arm that keeps it in place and prevents it from being overly punished. Since he throws right-handed, the sophomore's passing is not hindered.

The harness worked even better than Coach John Bateman had expected last weekend as Van Ness, back at quarterback, led Rutgers to a convincing 27-3 win over Lehigh.

Van Ness started the season at tailback but the Knights' coaching staff felt he would help the team more at quarterback. The move should pay off if the harness holds out, as Van Ness is expected to develop into one of the best backs in Rutgers history.

The Scarlet Knights boast a reasonably experienced backfield. Doing the bulk of the running will be fullback Don Riesett, a 212-pound senior. He can block or run equally well and likes contact.

The wingback is senior Jim Baker, who was the fourth best kickoff returner in the nation last year. He is an excellent pass catcher who has great speed and hustle. He also runs reverses from wingback and blocks well.

The tailback position for Saturday's game is still undecided. Last year's top rusher and most explosive runner, Bryant Mitchell, was injured early in the season and has seen little action. He may start Saturday but won't be in top form.

Junior Mel Brown has been playing in Mitchell's place at tailback. He's not outstanding but he's a good blocker and a hard worker.

On the offensive line, the split end will be last year's starting quarterback, Pete Savino, who filled in for Van Ness while he was injured. Savino has good speed and hands.

BRYANT MITCHELL
Back from injury.

Jim Higgins, a 6'0, 200-pound senior, will start at tight end. He is an excellent blocker but is seldom called upon to receive passes. He is backed up by big sophomore Bob Stonebraker, who has the potential of a fine receiver.

The best of the interior linemen is junior Rich Koprowski, a 6'5, 245-pounder. He has gained 20 pounds since last year but has lost none of his mobility. The other tackle is Dave Zimmerman, a 228-pound junior who started last year. He has good speed and moves well on sweeps and pitchouts.

Junior Jim Julian is an offensive guard standout. A 215-pounder, he is a good straight ahead blocker. The other guard, junior Alan Greenberg, is a 195-pounder who has recovered from a fractured foot suffered last spring.

On defense, Rutgers' weakness may be the line, with three sophomores starting. One of them is defensive end Rick Bonsall, a 6'1, 190-pounder who was converted to the position last spring. The other defensive end, senior Scott Lewendon, is the only experienced lineman. He is 6'2, 205-pounds.

Lee Schneider, a 6'2, 225-pound soph, has great potential at tackle according to the Rutgers coaches. He is aggressive and likes to mix it up. The other tackle is 210-pound junior Dennis Dutch.

Tickets are now on sale in the Boyden ticket office for the New Hampshire game Nov. 18 at Durham, N.H., and the Boston College game at Boston Nov. 25.

The Redmen can clinch their fourth Yankee Conference title in the last five years with a win at New Hampshire, and the B.C. game, during the Thanksgiving break, is already being billed as a "grudge match" since the Redmen lost to the Eagles, 14-7, in last year's finale.

The middle guard, Lee Novelli, is improving week by week. A 227-pound sophomore, Novelli has quite a bit of defensive ability and is a hard man to block.

The linebacking crew is relatively light, but it is fast and versatile. The best seems to be middle linebacker Rich Bing, a 195-pound junior. Junior Chuck Bowers is very fast and may be shifted to the corner if the situation dictates, and senior Bob Higgins started last year at the position.

Senior cornerback Jack Prigger has had operations on both knees, but will once again see plenty of action Saturday. The rest of the defensive backfield consists of sophomore cornerback Jim Renshaw and speedy junior safety John Pollack.

RUTGERS GUARD JOE URBANICK

Intramurals

Frat Stars Cool Dorms On Rigney Passes, 12-7

By DON LARIVEE
Sports Editor

As 200 chilled fans looked on, the fraternity all-stars downed the dormitories, 12-7, in the fourth annual intramural all-star football game last night at the intramural field.

Quarterback Ray Rigney of Phi Mu Delta starred for the fraternities, completing 14 of 24 passes, including two touchdowns. His dorm counterpart, Wayne Higney of the Grayson Aces, was 10 for 27.

The dorms took the opening kickoff and moved well as Higney and end John Forys of the Hi-Lo's combined for several pass plays. However, the drive was stalled as Bill Cannata of ASP intercepted a pass.

The fraternities penetrated

(Continued on page 7)

THE FAMED FOURTEEN—Members of Phi Mu Delta, this year's champions of the campus football teams, are (front row, fron left) Don Blanchard, Paul Klorer, Ray Rigney, Frank Guldara, Mick Panchuck, Willie Davis; (back row) Jim Hatherly, Demetrios Maistrellis, Dave Murray, Bob Gorey, Dennis Erdmann, Mike Nadler, Pete Ladwell and Manuel Chrobak.

FORECAST
PARTLY CLOUDY
AND WARMER

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

GO
REDMEN

VOL. XCVI, NO. 45 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1967

REENTRY SEQUENCE: These artist's drawings picture the sequence of events after the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Apollo/Saturn V began its first test flight yesterday at Kennedy Space Center, Fla. From top to bottom, the drawings show Apollo's propulsion system boosting Command and Service Module to speeds of 25,000 mph to simulate lunar reentry conditions; separation of the Command and Service Modules; the Command Module changing position to place its heat shield forward; the Command Module entering earth's atmosphere and finally the splashdown.

U. S. Takes Giant Step Toward Moon As Apollo 4 Scores Huge Success

America's majestic Saturn V super rocket, performing like a veteran on its first test flight, hurled an unmanned Apollo moonship 4,234 miles into space Thursday to spark new hope that U.S. astronauts can land on the moon in 1969.

Piloted by an automatic pilot taking the place of astronauts, the Apollo spacecraft 8½ hours later survived a firey plunge through the earth's atmosphere at nearly 25,000 m.p.h. It parachuted to a bulls-eye landing within sight of cheering crew members aboard the USS Bennington, the prime recovery ship in the Pacific, 600 miles north of Hawaii.

Clicking off flight events with a precision described by project officials as "incredible," the 363 foot tall Saturn V proved it can accomplish what it is being developed to do, propel astronauts to the moon and become the "ultimate rocket for U.S. exploration of space for at least the next two decades.

With its engines generating the combined power of more than 500 jet fighter planes, he Saturn 5 thundered into the sky than 500 jet fighter planes, the spectacular launching in the 17-year history of Cape Kennedy.

Emblazoned on the brilliant white sides were the American flag and the letters USA.

Tens of thousands of observers throughout the Cape area watched awestruck, almost with disbelief, as the massive 36-story-tall rocket rode a pillar of fire more than 500 feet long across the sky and sent an unearthly howl rolling across the land.

Many held their breath; others prayed.

The rocket's more than one million parts meshed, pulsed and interacted flawlessly, and all three stages—two of them never flown before—ignited like clockwork during the 11-minute boost phase to push the record satellite into orbit 115 miles above the earth.

Included in the weight of the orbiting craft are the Apollo 4 moon ship; a large metal dummy representing the Lunar Module that two astronauts one day will ride to the surface of the moon, and the still-attached third stage of the Saturn 5.

Total weight of the orbiting vehicle was 280,036 pounds.

The previous record-holder was another Apollo craft and attached rocket stage which weighed 58,537 pounds. They were launched in 1966 by a smaller Saturn 1 rocket. The heaviest payload orbited by the Russians was the 26,900-pound Proton 2 satellite launched in 1965.

The flight plan was planned to simulate the early phases of an Apollo manned lunar landing mission.

The space vehicle orbited the earth at 117 miles for two orbits about three hours, just as Apollo astronauts will to make certain everything is okay.

Then, about 10:15 a.m., the third stage was to restart its engines to propel the spacecraft outwards on a simulated lunar trajectory. After separation of the third stage and dummy lunar module, spacecraft motor fired to increase the speed to just short of that necessary to reach the moon.

The Apollo spacecraft, now weighing 67,000 pounds, then was to soar to an altitude of 11,400 miles before plunging back toward earth.

--And on the Moon Surveyor VI Lands--

PASADENA, Calif. (AP — Camera-carrying Surveyor 6 landed gently on the moon Thursday, giving the United States its second space success within 12 hours.

The three-legged spacecraft braked itself to a touch-down at 5:01 p.m., in a rugged area near the center of the lunar disk just a few hours after an unmanned Apollo moonship splashed into the Pacific to climax an historic ride atop a 36-story-tall Saturn 5 rocket.

The combination of successes strengthened U.S. hopes of landing men successfully on the moon in 1969. Surveyor's mission is to photograph potential astronaut landing sites.

Flight controllers at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory said Surveyor 6 performed flawlessly through its action-packed three-minute landing sequence-firing braking rockets with split-second precision to brake its 6,000 miles per hour speed to 3 miles an hour at a point 13 feet above the surface.

It dropped free the rest of the way, landing at 10 m.p.h.

The touch down was only three miles from an aiming point set during a midflight steering maneuver Tuesday and five miles from whatever remains of Surveyor 4, which went silent seconds before landing.

Treasury Dept. Objects To UM Professor's Trip

By DON EPSTEIN
News Day Editor

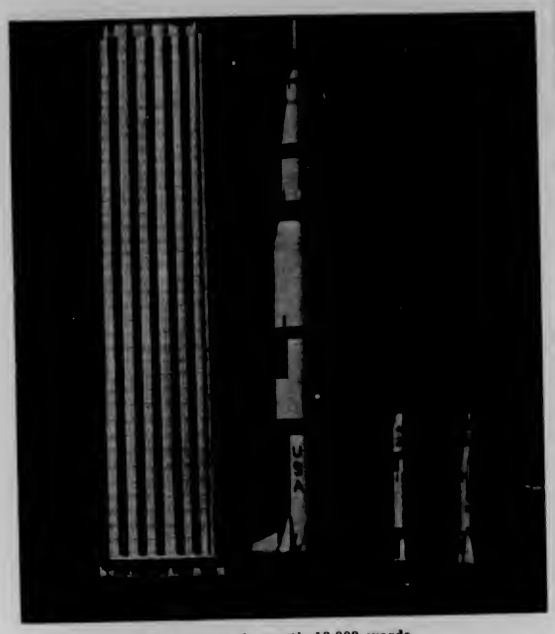
A UMass English professor plans to meet with a representative from the U.S. Treasury Department this afternoon to discuss his proposed trip to Canada this weekend. In Canada the group plans to turn over money which will be used in part to buy medical supplies for North Vietnamese civilians.

In a Daily Collegian interview last night, Professor Milton Mayer disclosed that he and a group from the Amherst Area Quaker Action Committee will meet with a Mr. George Stewart of the Foreign Assets Control Division of the U.S. Treasury Department, this afternoon at 4 p.m. in Deerfield.

According to the UMass English professor, he and the group of thirty persons are planning to travel to the Canadian border Saturday taking with them the funds that were contributed by Amherst area citizens.

Their destination is the Canadian Friends Service Committee, a Quaker organization which obtains medicines from Canadian firms at cost. "These medicines will then be distributed", according to Mayer, "to the Red Cross societies of North and South Vietnam in equal parts. This is keeping with an historic Quaker tradition of drawing no lines between friend and enemy in the relief or human suffering."

Mayer told the Daily Collegian that he had been in contact with the Treasury Department and that they had asked him to reconsider his plans to travel to Canada.



Concerning the visit today of the Treasury Department official, Professor Mayer stated, "We're grateful that a government official is willing to talk with us and to go to so much trouble to do so."

Mayer claims that his group's motivation is religious and that any attempt to dissuade them will be very difficult. He mentioned that other government departments, as well as the Treasury branch "have acted to prevent the transfer of medical aid to innocent victims in all of Vietnam, that they have only given permission to transfer such aid to South Vietnam." Mayer stated that no such restrictions exist in Canada.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS

Due to uncontrollable difficulties with the Post Office in Amherst, newspaper delivery for this week was curtailed. Please be assured that the problems have been rectified, and normal delivery will begin at once. We are sorry for the interruption in service.

We would also like to remind our mail subscribers that delivery is often spasmodic because we are registered as second class matter, which does not receive priority handling by the Post Office. The Daily Collegian delivers each day's paper to the Post Office on the same day of publication. What occurs between that time and when it arrives at your door is somewhat mysterious to us, but it is not any of our doing, we assure you. Not to mention the fact that the "in rain or snow" bit seems a little contradictory in the light of the irregular delivery.

One picture is worth 10,000 words.

Puss 'n Boots Starts Tonight

The University of Massachusetts Theatre will present a children's theatre production of the fairy tale, Puss 'n Boots, tonight at 7 p.m., and Saturday, November 11, at 1 and 3:30 p.m. in Bartlett Hall Auditorium on the University campus.

Puss 'n Boots has delighted children of many ages. The marvelous talking cat uses his feline wit, plus some magical boots, to turn his humble master into a prince, and win for him a magnificent castle and a beautiful princess. Puss is a true "supercat." He not only brings fortune to his master, but destroys the horrible Ogre of Rhyming Castle as well.

University of Massachusetts Theatre has produced children's shows during the past two summer theatre seasons, but Puss 'n Boots marks the first children's production during the academic year. The University recognizes that children's dramatics is becoming an increasingly important aspect of theatre production. Children's theatre is being planned on a year-round basis for the future. Another children's play will be scheduled for production in the spring.

Tickets for general admission seats will be on sale at the door. Bartlett Auditorium is located adjacent to Goodell Library, in the center of the University of Massachusetts campus.

New Recipes Tested At Special Kitchen

The University of Massachusetts has a special experimental kitchen which modifies recipes and tests the food that is prepared in the Dining Commons.

The kitchen was established last summer with a chef for testing recipes and new food products. The kitchen, located in Dining Commons #7, is under the direction of George Turner. Mr. Turner said that he gathers recipes from all the cooks on campus, from files of cookbooks and his own personal experience. He then modifies and combines to produce one uniform recipe to be used at each Dining Commons.

Involved of course, is the "human element" which may produce slight variations. Turner said that it takes as long as two years to perfect a recipe.

In addition to establishing uniform recipes in the kitchen, Turner prepares and serves test foods to a panel of Dining Commons managers and dietitians.

These test meals are prepared approximately once every two weeks using new products on the market. The meal may consist of "convenience" foods (those already prepared, such as pepperburgers or may be a different brand of the same type of food already being used.

The panel evaluates the meal, noting taste and appearance as well as the money and labor savings on each product. If the meal is satisfactory in all areas, the new products will be presented to the student.

VISTA Representatives To Visit Campus Soon

Field representatives from Vista, volunteers in service to America, will be at the University of Massachusetts on Nov. 27 through Nov. 30 to talk with those interested in the program. Information and applications will be available at the Vista booth, open from 9 to 4 in the lobby of the Student Union.

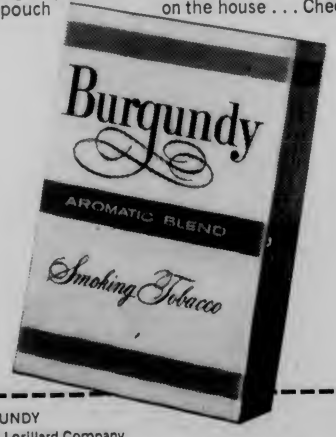
Vista recruits, selects and trains volunteers and then assigns them to projects throughout the country which have asked for help. There are over 4,000 volunteers in service and training and more than 2,000 Vista associates have volunteered to serve for the summer months. However, there are requests for 10,000 Vitas.

To join Vista, one must be at least 18 years old. There is no upper age limit. There are no entrance requirements or examinations to join Vista. The pay is $50 which is accrued monthly and paid in one lump sum at the completion of service. In addition, Vistas receive an allowance for personal expenses and food and housing, which varies in each locale.

Applications are now available through Mrs. Dorothy Hardesty in the placement office. If the potential applicant completes the questionnaire and returns it to the recruiter on campus, he will be interviewed at that time.

Notice to first semester freshmen and first semester transfers.

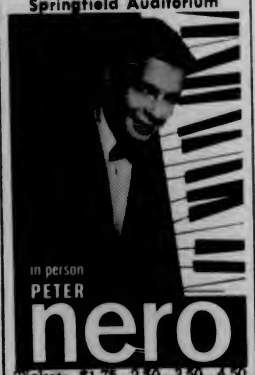
Mid-semester grades are now available from your advisers. Arrangements for a student-adviser consultation should be made at this time.



DANCE
featuring
The Boss Tweeds
and
The Maze
Donation 75c
Nov. 11, 8:00-12:00 p.m.
at S.U. Ballroom

VANILLA FUDGE
Nov. 17th

FOLK IN THE 'ROUND
J. F. K.
MEMORIAL CONCERT
NOVEMBER 19, 1967
Tickets on sale at S.U. Box Office now



STAMP IT!
IT'S THE RAGE
REGULAR MODEL
ANY 3 LINE TEXT $2
The finest INDESTRUCTIBLE METAL POCKET RUBBER STAMP. ½" x 2".
Send check or money order. Be sure to include your Zip Code. No postage or handling charges. Add sales tax.
Prompt shipment. Satisfaction Guaranteed
THE MOPP CO.
P. O. Box 18623 Lenox Square Station
ATLANTA, GA., 30326

FREE!
...a full size pouch of Burgundy pipe tobacco with the pleasing aroma
Burgundy combines an aromatic blend of vintage tobaccos, fine taste and pleasant wine aroma for the smoothest smoke ever to come out of a pipe.
Why is it free? Frankly, because we feel that once you try Burgundy you'll make it your regular smoke. So have a pouch on the house . . . Cheers!

BURGUNDY
c/o P. Lorillard Company
200 East 42nd Street, New York City 17, N. Y.
Please send me a free package of Burgundy Smoking Tobacco.
Name_____
Street_____
City_____ State_____ Zip_____

Saturday, Dec. 2
Springfield Auditorium

in person
PETER
nero
Tickets $1.75, 2.50, 3.50, 4.50
(Student 1.50)
Odyssey Bookshop—S. Hadley
Melody Corner—Amherst
Forbes & Wallace—Spfld.
or write: Commonwealth Concerts, P.O. Box 1331, Springfield, Mass. 01101

For Sale.

Dramatic package: William Wycherly, Anton Chekhov, G. B. Shaw, John Osborne, Eugene O'Neill, and a contemporary playwright to be chosen soon. They're part of the first season at Stage/West, Springfield's new all-professional resident theater. We'd like to pass them on to you at very low subscription rates. For $1.50, you may purchase a special STUDENT SUBSCRIPTION CARD, entitling you to purchase regular $3.50 seats for $2.00; and $2.00 seats for only $1.00. That's for performances on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Sunday and a special Saturday showing at 5:00 p.m. What a great deal for six live theatre productions! You'll be seeing "The Country Wife" (which opens November 16), "Uncle Vanya," "Candida", "The Entertainer," a new play, and "Long Day's Journey Into Night." Each play will be performed by a fully-professional company of actors for 3½ weeks. Stage/West is located on the Eastern States Exposition Grounds in West Springfield, just off Route 5. Be sure to obtain a Student Subscription Card NOW by calling Mrs. Barrows at Stage/West, 781-4470.

springfield theatre company
stage/west
Box 518, W. Spfld., Mass.

Mental Health Services Develop Program of 'Preventive Measures'

By PAULA SWENSON
Staff Reporter

Several University of Massachusetts agencies spend much of their time helping students at work.

On the administrative level there are three sources of counseling for students—the Mental Health Services at the Infirmary, the Counseling Center at the Whitmore Building and the chaplains. These three groups work with personnel, faculty, administrators and students in an effort to create an environment that aids the student in his transition.

Mental health problems as on other campuses, stem from the student's transition from an adolescent to an adult, said Dr. Julian Janowitz, director of the University Mental Health Center in a Collegian study of the program.

The University is a planned community, characterized by age and task and cannot be compared to a city of the same size, which does not plan for the needs of its inhabitants the way a university must, he said.

"The student is anonymous by his own choice," said J. Alfred Southworth, director of the UMass Counseling Center. "There isn't any student in the Southwest Area or Orchard Hill Complex who doesn't feel he can belong to a small personal unit," said Southworth. Residence Hall counselors are a part of this plan.

Dr. Janowitz said that dormitory counselors do more counseling than the Mental Health Services and without them the other agencies would be flooded. It is extremely important to help counselors, he added, because their attitudes determine the climate on the corridor. This is part of what Dr. Janowitz calls a preventive mental health plan.

"One-third of the activities of the Mental Health Center are concerned with preventive mental health," Dr. Janowitz stressed. Each of the six staff members speaks at the dormitories on problems that are pertinent to student life. The purpose of these meetings is to help the individual develop mature attitudes on problems before he is faced with them, Dr. Janowitz said.

Other preventive measures include training programs for heads of residence, faculty and Campus Police. "The heads of residence have in the past met with staff members of the Mental Health Center in order to enable them to guide students and provide a climate conducive to student development, either directly or indirectly through the dormitory counselors," said Dr. Janowitz.

The School of Nursing faculty meets with members of the Mental Health Center staff to help them understand how their own interaction with students can affect the transition process, said Dr. Janowitz. "This enables the faculty to create a climate within the school, which will aid the student in his emotional development," he said.

A staff member of the Mental Health Center meets with the chaplains once a month to discuss their common function as counselors. These meetings take the form of workshops, where ideas and problems are exchanged.

Rev. Joseph Quigley, who says he spends 80% of his time counseling students, told the Collegian that psychologists feel that the religious-psychological element is important.

UMass is not working alone in this field. The five-college area has a monthly exchange of ideas between counseling agencies and administrators. These meetings feature speakers and panel discussions on social and clinical problems. The other colleges have similar programs stressing short term psychotherapy, said Dr. Janowitz.

Dutch Govt. Urged to Start Sex Education

AMSTERDAM (AP)—The Dutch government was urged Thursday to start sex education for primary-school children and to advise parents to limit their families to three.

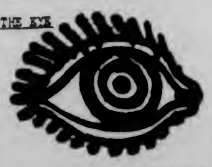
The Netherlands, whose 12.5 million population makes it one of the most densely peopled countries in the world, is growing by more than 21,000 persons a year.

It was also recommended that the government issue free contraceptives on doctors' prescriptions.

Bloody Battle Continues to Rage In Central Viet

SAIGON (AP)—The U.S. Army beefed up its combat forces in the Dak To sector Thursday in an effort to root out North Vietnamese regulars, bloodied but still aggressive after a week's sporadic battles.

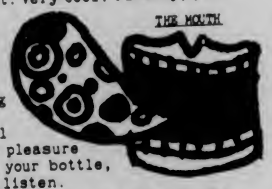
The official count of North Vietnamese dead in the jungle fighting around Dak To, in the central highlands 270 miles north of Saigon, climbed to 209. The U.S. Command said 45 American troops have been killed and 130 wounded.



Helicopters flew in an additional company of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division to stifle a Communist mortar and small arms attack on an artillery base late in the day.

A spokesman said the attack caused neither damage nor casualties. The fresh company, though deployed immediately after landing, failed to establish contact with the enemy. But the reinforcements raised American infantry strength in the area to about 3,000 men.

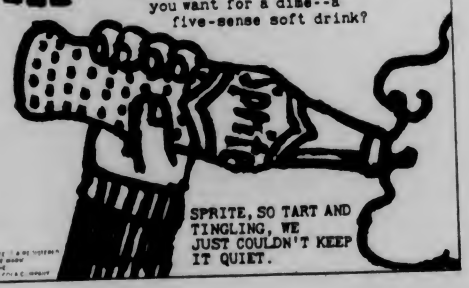
University of Massachusetts
DISTINGUISHED VISITORS PROGRAM
presents
EDWARD SAYRE
Brookhaven National Laboratory—Illustrated lecture
"Art Restoration in Florence"
8 P.M., TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 14—SBA 120



Freshman Mugbooks
Distributed in S. U. Lobby, 10-4
TODAY and MONDAY ONLY

Now take the newest multi-sensory trip: Walk to any soft-drink machine and have some Sprite.

It happens as soon as you pay your money and take your bottle. Suddenly, Sprite takes you, the hedonist, on your way to a sensually satisfying tactile-aural-palatable-optical-oral experience.



First, you observe the refreshing green bottle. A tempting sight. Then you reach forth and touch it. Very cool. Finally, you uncap the cap. Now you're ready to drink in that delicious tartness --but wait! Before regressing to the delightful infantile pleasure of taking your bottle, stop. And listen.

Because Sprite is so utterly noisy. Cascading in crescendos of effervescent flavor. Billowing with billions of ebullient bubbles. And then sip. Gulp. Guzzle. Aaaaaaaaaaa! Sprite. So tart and tingling o'er the taste buds. And voila! You have your multi-sensory experience.

But what about the olfactory factor, you ask? Well, what do you want for a dime--a five-sense soft drink?

CLASS OF '71
Executive Council
Applications Available
at R. S. O. Office,
2nd Floor, S. U.
Due at R. S. O.
November 14,
5:00 p. m.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Student Senate

Two members resigned from the Student Senate Wednesday night, giving their reasons to the remaining 70 - odd members.

In the Senate of 1963 - 64, one member barely escaped censure for offering his resignation as treasurer merely to be recognized on the floor.

But in the last couple of years, resignations have been a strictly serious business oftentimes accompanied by a long letter of explanation. Invariably, those who resign question the role of the individual senator and the body as a whole.

Among the popular reasons for resigning are academic pressures. Among the frequent complaints made is that the Senate isn't communicating enough with the student body. But it is usually admitted by the resigning senator that he or she has failed in this last respect and no concrete solutions are offered.

One commentator last year expressed the opinion that the Senate would be more successful if so many members didn't quit. But nearly every senator who leaves explains that the decision "has been a long time coming."

It is questionable if the resignation of senators is a problem. Of course, there have been only a few so far this year, but the number who decided to leave will be joined by those who have allowed themselves to loose their office by accumulating too many absences — resulting in a greater turnover before the session's end.

The Senate doesn't need exactly 78 members to function; it will move along without noticeable difference with 68 members. But the place where the resignation may leave a void is in the constituency — this is, presuming the senator has made some impact. It is exactly this relationship that the resigning often have doubts about.

The failure to make contact with the constituency, despite the different methods tried, or success at contact, only at the cost of long hours, is the unsatisfying aspect of the job of senator that the resigning call to the attention of their fellow senators.

This is the one problem that the resigning emphasize — how does one be a good senator ?

— THE EDITORS

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union . . . University of Massachusetts . . . Amherst, Mass. 01002

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Chester S. Weinerman '68

MANAGING EDITOR ..... John H. Dean, Jr. '69
BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Charles Smith '69

City Editor ..... Jim Foudy '68
News Editor ..... Richard S. Kline '70
Editorial Chairman ..... Pat Petow '68
Sports Editor ..... Tom Fitzgerald '69

Advertising Managers ..... Dot Silvia '69, Sharon Kramer '69
Photo Editors ..... Paul Bolivar '68, John Griffin '68

Editorial Page Assistants: Bob Brill, Monday; Dick Geikie, Tuesday; Nancy Bourgoin, Wednesday; Ellie Skinner, Thursday; Sue Wallace, Friday. Staffers: Roger Bouchard, Kent Berclay, Dave Baskin, Pat Flaherty, Nancy Fogg, Bob Gorman, Betsy Goldman, Philip Lerner, Dave Sharry, Sam Spark, Charles A. Volkmann.

Assistant Sports Editor: Glenn Briere. Day Editors: Peter Pascarelli, Monday; John Sullivan, Tuesday; Martha Curran, Wednesday; Paul Murray, Thursday; Jan Curley, Friday. Staffers: Peter Carroll, Tom Conuel, Mike Curran, Joe Duffy, Norm Elliot, Joel Fox, John Gedsudski, Don Larivee, Metawampe, Steve Ross, Walter Stachura.

Darkroom Supervisor: Bob Gosciminski. Photographers: Kenneth Bates, Charles J. Buyukas, Paul Clhocki, Roger Gamache, A. Frank Gori, Vicki Kaplan, John Kelly, Patricia Lempert, Barbara Lee Menne, Thomas A. Meyers, Ilene Nodelman, John Snedcor, Ken Stevens, Joseph Yelle, Jr., Suzanne Beliveau.

MONDAY NEWS STAFF: Jan Curly, Day Editor; Jeanne Flitcroft, Alissa Greenberg, Sheila Goodman, Daryl Francis, Marcia Levenson.

TUESDAY NEWS STAFF: Sally Dolgin and Judy Leonard, Day Editors; Claudia Hamberg, Mildred Riley, Julie Gooch, Martin Karlin, Larry Cohen, Dick Roeder, Karen Brunl.

WEDNESDAY NEWS STAFF: John Mickelson, Day Editor; Pat Griffin, Janet Howes, Sue Wallace, Barbara Dziurzynski, Sue Gerson, Dick Boucher, Joan Contrada.

WEDNESDAY NEWS STAFF: John Mickelson Day Editor; Pat Griffin, Janet Howes, Sue Wallace, Barbara Dbiurzynski, Sue Gerson, Dick Boucher, Joan Contrada.

THURSDAY NEWS STAFF: Margie Flanders, Day Editor; Carolyn Foland, Jean Orsini, Barbara Nelson, Patty Long, Martha Henry, Carol Eramo, Jane Arnott, Marilyn Young, Jeanne Flitcroft.

FRIDAY NEWS STAFF: Don Epstein, Day Editor; Cheryl Bezis, Al Sirota, Pam Wainshilbaum, Dianna Cornell, Joan Jankowski, Pat Flanagan, Elaine Lonardo.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian is an undergraduate newspaper published by the student body at the University of Massachusetts, Amherst. The staff is responsible for its content and it is not read by faculty members or administrators prior to publication.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the Daily Collegian publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amended by the act of June 11, 1943. Printed by Hamilton I. Newell, Inc., University Drive, Amherst. Subscription: $6.00 per year, $3.50 per semester.

Offices of the Daily Collegian are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

Represented nationally by National Educational Advertising Service, Inc. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the Associated Press. AP is is entitled to the use for reproduction of all the local news in this newspaper as well as all AP dispatches.

Campus Comment

To Sleep . . . Perchance?

To the editor:

You know what's wrong with this campus ?

It's not that the Dining Commons are bent on demoralizing the entire student body or that all this construction business suggests occupied Berlin. Nor is it, for that matter, the Goodell Library is becoming as formidable as Checkpoint Charlie.

The main problem with the University community is this: no where on this campus is there a good place to sleep between classes.

Consider the normal student: Operating on a maximum of 6 hours of sleep a night, sitting in a classroom hot enough to incubate day - old chicks, climbing stairs, stairs and more stairs, hurdling sawhorses, dodging trucks, leaping out of the way of falling chestnuts—to the point of total exhaustion. The body craves sleep, but where does one (body) go ? ?

The dorm is out of the question. One might just as well curl up on the lobby counter in the Student Union. The library, for all its nifty facilities, is no place to go for a snooze. It is a place to go promenade, show your wares—sort of life in a Spanish village. The sofas in the Union lounges ? No. Someone — a janitor, a student, a visiting conventioneer —is bound to come over to shake you and ask if that newspaper across the room is yours. And did you ever try to catch a few winks on one of those cot-like things in the washrooms — those things that look like rubbing tables stuffed with hubcaps ? Impossible.

It is getting too cold and damp to Z-out down by the pond. Anyway, you can't turn your back on those crazy swans for a minute. So far I've discovered the only opportunity to get any sleep around here in the daytime is in a mass lecture hall where the instructor turns off all the lights to show slides. Bartlett Auditorium is particularly good in this respect. But my comprehension of the course is not what it should be.

I don't know. It's enough to make one drop out and go hop a ferry to Staten Island. I think the Dean and the Trustees and all those types should address themselves to this problem (of sleep). I even think all the Apathetic Students should give this some thought. I mean, couldn't the Student Senate arrange for a big tent to be set up on the front lawn of Stockbridge Hall so anyone could go there and sleep when they felt like it ?

I agree with the man who once said: "If we all got more sleep we'd be better off."

Va. Moughan '67½

Judicial Unrest—

To the editor:

As a member of the Class of '69 Executive Council and as a former member of the Student Senate, I have three brief points to make about the unrest on the judiciary case concerning the Homecoming Committee.

1.) Our "Student Hanbdook in discussing judiciary procedures (p. 42) states, 'Any person may request that a judiciary . . . hear a case. Anyone can file a complaint or request for judiciary hearing alleging an infraction of the Code of Conduct or such regulations as may exist or be established.' This concept was voted upon and passed by the Stndent Senate, the Dean of Students, the Faculty Senate and the Board of Trustees. (for anyone that doesn't know, the above is our 'bureaucratic hierarchy'). The rationale behind it is that any person in the U.S. has a right to bring charges against any person in this University and to subsequently take the case through our judiciary system. Conceivably, then, a state legislator, a member of the Board of Trustees, a member of the administration, a faculty member, a student or a janitor could bring charges against any student. This rationale or philosophy is sometimes called 'freedom.' Therefore, I would contend that the 'administrative official' being in the class of 'persons', is within his rights."

2.) We have been paying a lot of lip service to "individual responsibility" these last two years. Do you think that the "administrative official (s)" could have acted as a personally insensed "individual (s)," or must we always think in terms of titles and distinctions? I would suggest that this may be the case and would ask, "Has anyone checked?"

3.) Finally, I would like to commend Bruce Balboni's Executice Council on their wisdom in hitting the heart of the matter—censorship. In my opinion this is wisdom unseen in the two upper class Executive Councils, perhaps because of personal ties. The Executive Committee of the Class of '70, are not only individuals, in bucking two upperclass Exec Councils and the Student Senate, but they are also responsible in seeing that student government doesn't become a sham.

Susan J. Tracy '69
Hamlin House

The Legal Lot

To the editor:

I received a parking ticket while parked in "F" lot. The ticket stated the violation was for parking on the grass. Now, if one will survey the environs of "F" lot, one will find little else but grass.

The two cars to the east were also so honored. However the next car beyond did not receive a ticket. I am confused. Where does the legal grass end and the illegal grass begin?

This absurdity helps point out the salient fact that student cars are crammed in overcrowded, marginal lots, while paved, faculty lots, guarded by little metal boxes, go unfilled. If we are to be banished to the periphery, to the grassy outback, at least allow us the benefit of the doubt.

Jon C. Boothroyd

Boston Places and Thoughts

It's raining now, reminding me of the tears of love
my heart shared with a boy and a man, each a man and a boy belonging to a house full of carefree courtesy —
A sunroom house of warmth, laughter, dogs and plants.
My soul understands now
The bursting of my heart's love.
It no longer walks,
But flies on white feather feet
To its other self.
It runs thru grass and molten leaves
Clicking its heals to some Mysterious melody,
Melancholy for those sleeping
Potential lovers who are yet
Unfeeling and unmissed.
Miserable for those willows of passive emotion
Dying in daily rest and solitude.

Candace Husband '70

Daily Collegian
STAFF MEETING
Last of the semester
TUESDAY NIGHT 7:00 P. M.
Place to be announced

Advisor to Arrive

Captain Marianna Moorhouse, Air Force Medical Specialist Advisor for Dieticians, USAF Recruiting Service, Randolph Air Force Base, Texas, will be in the University area November 15, 1967, according to Sergeant Charles W. Petralia, Specialist Advisor for the University area.

Captain Moorhouse is a native of Lancaster, Pennsylvania. She was graduated from the Pennsylvania State University where she received a B.S. degree in Home Economics. Upon completion of her dietic internship at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston, she was commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force.

Initially, Captain Moorhouse was assigned to Keesler Air Force Base, Mississippi. Prior to her present assignment, she served as Medical Food Service Officer at Shaw Air Force Base, South Carolina.

Grads Research For Government

Five University graduate students have returned from a five-week research study in the Virgin Islands. Two of them, with their instructor, will return to the Islands Monday to complete the study due in Washington, D.C., Jan. 2.

They are working on a research contract with the U.S. Department of the Interior through the National Park Service. The project involves a study of selected resources of the Virgin Islands in relation to recreation, tourism and open space programs. The program is being sponsored and financed by the Interior.

Ervin Zube, head of the UMass Landscape Agriculture department, is working with the students. He explained, "the Department of the Interior has an administrative responsibility as well as a dynamic interest in the Virgin Islands." He added that the economy of the islands is dependent upon recreation and tourism, and that the students are studying primarily the landscape resources of the islands, which are a major drawing attraction for tourists. "We feel that what these islands look like is important," Zube said.

LOCKSMITH SERVICES
KEYS &
RUBBER STAMPS
CHENEY LOCKSMITH
90 N. Pleasant St.
253-7010

THE VERY HIGH
JOE
Will Deliver a Message
Soon

THE GOUCH COFFEE HOUSE
Patterson Loung
Fri. 8-1

Captain Marianna Moorhouse

Cadets Awarded

Major General Kelly B. Lemmon, Jr., commanding general of XIII corps U.S. Army and Fort Devens visited this Army ROTC group at the University of Massachusetts on Tuesday.

He attended a coffee sponsored by the Colonel's Cadre and then attended an ROTC briefing which was conducted by Captain Thomas A. Wilson.

Shortly before lunch the General conferred with President Lederle and attended a Cadet Brigade review in which he presented distinguished military student awards to the following cadets: Frederick H. Anderson II. Richard H. Booth, Francis J. Campbell, Jr., Kenneth S. Chapman, Brian C. Clarke, Richard E. D'Andrea, John S. Duty, Peter J. Gallagher, John F. Judge Jr. Alan F. Saltus, Peter F. Spears, Paul J. St. Laurent, David J. Webber and Donald R. White.

The General then had lunch at the Faculty Club with Deans Hopkins and Lindsey, Major David Oakes, and Colonel Joseph A. Bohnak, Professor of Military Science. After lunch the General attended a final briefing by Colonel Bohnak after which he returned to Fort Devens.

Major General Kelley B. Lemmon, Jr., (center CG, XII U.S. Army Corps and Fort Devens, chats with Cadet LTC Frederick H. Anderson II, commanding officer of the cadet provisional battalion and Cadet Col. Earle C. Richardson, commanding officer of the Cadet Brigade.

University Plays Host To Varied Conferences

By LEE SPERRY
Staff Reporter

Behind the bright new Whitmore Administration Building, in an old cinder block dorm known as Hampshire House, set off from the hustle and bustle of the main campus, sits the University of Massachusetts Conference Center and the man who has headed it since its inception in 1958, Harold C. Durgin.

Over a period of a year, the University Conference Center is directly responsible for the presence of about 20,000 of conspicuously dressed-up people seen on almost any given day wandering around campus in a herd, wearing tags such as "Savings and Loans Assoc." or "Purchasing and Using Beef Seminar" or "Thermo Process."

These people are part of the 130 to 140 conferences that the University hosts each year. They may come from anywhere in Massachusetts from the 50 states or even from around the world; they may be connected with a public service, non-profit-making or private, profit-making organization. The conference may have as few as 30 participants (like the recently held Supervisory Management Seminar — Oct. 23) or as many as 700 (United Church of Christ—Oct. 1).

The largest ever was the 5000-member Conference of the American Institute of Biological Sciences held here in 1963.

Each conference may last only one day or as many as 10 days, as did the 1964 world-wide, 500-member Fifth Generl Assembly of U.S. Youth Council. That featured Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King as speakers and had to provide headphones with English, French and Spanish translations for each member.

Why does the University play host to these widely diversified groups, many of which seem to have so little to do with the main stream of the campus community?

Search no further than the Land grant college-establishing Morrill Act of 1862 to answer this question. According to this act, the land grant colleges were established not only to "provide higher education for qualified students," but also to "promote liberal and practical education of the industrial classes in the several pursuits and professions in life".

It is in accordance with this latter function that University sees as one of its many services the obligation to assist the various conferences.

"But this isn't a picnic ground," Mr. Durgin points out. "They have to come here to be educated."

Mr. Durgin is also quick to note that the University is host and not sponsor to these conferences. "They have never cost the University a penny," he says.

As with any undertaking of such magnitude certain problems arise. One of the most formidable is the need for housing in conferences running over one day. "I (except for secretarial help, it is a one-man office) go out to the various hotels and motels in the area and find out their availability on a certain date when we have a conference schedule." On some occasions, Durgin said, he has had to go as far away as Greenfield (20 miles) to obtin lodgings. "Then we make out a list," Durgin went on, "of space available, which we send out to each member."

The conferences are usually planned at least three or four months in advance, and in some cases (such as the Biological Sciences Conference) as much as two years in advance.

Meals, no small item, are usually arranged through the Student Union and served in the S.U. Ballroom.

The use of campus meeting rooms (usually in the Student Union) must also be obtained well in advance through the University Scheduling Office.

Concerning the problem of finding meeting rooms, Mr. Durgin noted that his office is looking forward to the new Campus

(Continued on page 6)

MADEMOISELLE MAGAZINE
presents
Fashion and Make - Up Clinic
November 13, 1967
10:30 - 12:30 Colonial Lounge Student Union
All Prospective Model
1:30 - 3:30
Sponsored by Revelers

"What's With Students—1967" was the topic of a meeting of the Massachusetts Association of Women Deans and Counselors held recently at UMass. Luncheon speaker was Dr. Esther Lloyd-Jones, former professor of education and retired head of the department of guidance and student personnel administration at Teachers College, Columbia University. She is the author of "A Student Personnel Program for Higher Education." Shown, from left, are Miss Ruth Bean of Boston, program chairman, and Dr. Lloyd-Jones.

Dr. King Lauds Negro Victories

In Cleveland where he had been helping register Negro voters, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. said the election of Stokes and Hatcher showed "once again, American voters have successfully hurdled the barrier of race."

King told a news conference the victories represented "a new political fervor among America's Negro citizens. It was their overwhelming turnout which insured victory."

UNIVERSITY PLAYS . . .

(Continued from page 5)

Center (scheduled for completion in about two years), which will have its own conference rooms and a ballroom with a seating capacity of 1,000.

Most organizations furnish their own speakers but when one or two extra are needed they can usually be obtained by drawing on the vast resources of the U-Mass faculty.

When all of these areas have been checked out and prices obtained for each, a bill is sent along with the list of housing accommodations, program outlines, name tags and other conference paraphernalia to each member of

MDC CLASSIFIED

AUTOMOBILE

1967 Opel Kadette 60 h.p., 4 speed, R/H, 7 Mo. old: All Guarantees active — Excellent condition: selling for Sports Car Excellent economy car 32 m.p.g. New $2,185 Best reasonable offer 584-4198

1955 Oldsmobile 4-door hardtop, power steering & brakes. $50.00 or best offer. Call Greg at 549-1443. If no answer, 253-9157.

(want larger car) 1964 Triumph Spit-Fire Mark II Black, R and H, Tonneau Cover, 2 Spare Tires plus Snow-Tire. $975 or will swap for sedan (Ford, Chev., etc.). Contact Jim Cosman, 418 Thatcher 5-2518 or 5-2519

FOR SALE

Wollensack 5570 Stereo Tape Recorder. New $250, now $150, 6 mo. old. 6-1047 after 7.

2 MOTORCYCLES 1965 BSA Road Rocket 650 C.C. $625. 1959 Triumph 650 C.C. $475. Call evenings 665-2576

LOST

Lost: large male cat, all yellow, vicinity of North Pleasant and McClellan Streets Reward. Linda Smith, 296 North Pleasant Street, Room Number 7.

WANTED

Roommate wanted to share apartment with 2 grad students. 2 big rooms, kitchen & bathroom. ± $50 a month 85 Amity St., Amherst Call Hank Wondergem, 253-7001

FOR RENT

24 feet Room Refrigerator, cooking facilities, center of town. Leader Rooms 189 North Pleasant St. Apply at Bowling Alley. $15 a week

PERSONAL

Dr. Tom A. Are you the Mad Hatter? The wonderland Volk. P.S. We shall return.

S.E.N.D.O.F.F.

WEEKEND

Dec. 1, 2, 3

TICKETS ON SALE

Tuesday, Nov. 14

Coeds Attracted To New Fashions At Local Stores

By JANICE ALBERGHENE
Staff Reporter

The average UMass coed is buying leather mini skirts, opaque tights. John Meyer's suits, A-line jumpers, and floor length kilts. She's not schizoid, she just wears what she wants to wear.

Paraphernalia, which sets no limit to a coed's imagination in dressing, features zippered and military dresses, suede mini-skirts, and dresses with a Persian print influence. However, clear vinyl dresses by their scanty sales, have made a poor showing.

Belted coats, Harris tweed coats, striped cotton jersey dresses, and kilts in authentic Scottish tartans are best sellers at the Cricket Shop. UMass coeds are further indulging in plaids by buying the House of Walsh's floor length kilts, Suede coats, chain belts, and berets also demonstarte the diversity in the wardrobes of UMass, coeds. Knits and light-weight wools that can be dressed up or down, are favored at The Salt Box.

Leather skirts, suits, jackets, vests, and hats are selling well at The Leather Shed. Made-to-order handbags are also in demand. African and Indian spread materials, in made-to-order designs, are popular at My Jade Castle.

UMass coeds are buying classic skirts and sweaters — and beaded bags at Ann August. Turtleneck sweaters and antique pins are favorites at the Pied Piper—but so are beads and mod little purses on chains. This mixing of styles is typical—part of the wear-what-you-want attitude of campus fashion.

SINGLES? COMPATIBLE? Let the stars tell you. For free questionnaire write to: ASTRO-MATCH LTD. 1674 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10019

Student Problems Discussed At N.E. Educators' Assembly

"Acting out, cheating, stealing, indiscriminate experimenting with drugs are acts signifying varying degrees of alienation from society."

Such were the words of Harvard's admission and placement officer, Dr. Dana Cotton, in his speech to several hundred school officials at a three-day meeting in Bedford, New Hampshire. The meeting is sponsored by the New England Assn. of School Superintendents and the Educational Salesmen's Assn. of New England.

Dr. Cotton's talk, "Insurgency on the College Campus" also expressed concern with the numerous campus protests against the Vietnam War. "It is not clear that such demonstrations ever serve a useful purpose," he said.

Church and school cooperation in ameliorating social conditions on the college campus was advocated by Cotton. When students resort to "a total revolt against soap and society," they are simultaneously protesting the anonymity and social pressures that are vividly present on many campuses.

Students are trying to resolve their varied and conflicting needs and to make the difficult transition to adulthood. "Unless they can move on to more satisfying ways of effecting solutions to their problems some of them may . . . be unable to live up to anything near their true potential," "Cotton stated.

"Today's students have never had to contend with implacable conditions generated by extreme poverty, drought, plagues or economic depression."

Dr. Cotton added that, "To them, it often seems that when they do not get what they want, somebody is deliberately withholding it. Frustrations easily become transformed into hostility."

This list of absences from Student Senate meetings is being provided each week for the information of the individual constituencies involved:

Absent from Nov. 8, 1967 meeting:

Lorrey Bianchi
Dave Clark
Jim Fox
Bob Gaudet
Lew Gurwitz
Dan Janey
Barbara Kamanitz
Kathy Lucey
Paula McCarthy
Ann McGunigle
Dale Palmer
Paul Silverman

NOTICES

PRE-LAW STUDENTS
Fri., Nov. 10, Professors George Brown and Richard Pearson of BU School of Law will hold small group and individual interviews in the Provost's Office, Whitmore Admin. Bldg. All seniors considering application to BU should schedule an appointment in the Pre-Law Advisor's Office, 362 Whitmore.

AMHERST STAMP CLUB
Tonight in Public Health Bldg., 103, at 7:30 p.m., the program will be furnished by the Springfield Stamp Club. All welcome.

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS
There will not be a bus at the Newman Center this Sat., Nov. 11.

HILLEL
Sabbath services tonight, 7 p.m., in Plymouth Room S.U. Henry Sirotin, Grad Student, will speak on "People's China in its Chl Year."
Saturday services, 9:30 a.m., in Worcester Room, S.U.

APO
Sun., Nov. 12, at 7 p.m. in Memorial Hall, a supper will be held for those who have paid in advance.

LOST
Pair of glasses and clip-case, in vicinity of Morrill. Please contact Dave, Grad. house, 382 N. Pleasant St., 253-9166.
Large blue four-subject notebook lost from the bookcase outside the bookstore. Call Rosalind Clark, 253-7530.
Silver band with florentine design and diamond chips, arranged in a flower pattern. Please contact Rhonda Bernstein, Van Meter S. Reward.
Navy pea jacket with wallet in pocket. Friday night in South Dining Commons. Keep money, and/or jacket please return all ID's, car keys and glasses. Leave it at SU Lost and Found, no questions asked.

FOUND
ID left at Vietnam Ballot. Claim with suitable identification, at Daily Collegian office.

PINNINGS
Jill Wolff '69, Johnson, to Bruce Cochrane '69, Kappa Sigma.
Claire Campana '69, GSS, Dickinson, to Pio Lombardo '69, Webster.
Barbara Hobart '70, JQA, to Alan Neider '70, Phi Kappa Sigma, Georgia Tech.
Mary Dole '70, Knowlton, to Thomas Kakley '69, Thatcher.
Norie Greenberg '69, Boston Univ., to Dick Gelfman '69, Sigma Alpha Mu.

ENGAGEMENT
Patricia Wotkowicz '69, GSS, J.Q. Adams, to Arthur Holmes, US Air Force.

WIN A ROSE BOWL WEEKEND FOR TWO!

Win one of 25 all-expense-paid trips for three nights and three days in the Los Angeles area highlighted by the Festival of Roses, the Rose Bowl Classic, and a trip to Disneyland.

Sponsored by INA—Insurance Company of North America —who brings you NCAA football every Saturday on television.

Just pick the winning team in this Saturday's game. For tie breakers guess the final score and how many first downs the winner will make. Enter your predictions on the entry blank below and send to the address given.

UCLA vs. USC (Sat. Nov. 18)

Additional prizes: 750 handsome travel bags.

What's our motive? We're interested in telling you about opportunities with INA. We're offering these prizes in return for the chance to mail you information. Simple as that.

Maybe this isn't the usual way to go about college recruiting. But then we aren't a usual company.

OFFICIAL RULES

1. Complete entry blank or facsimile by indicating winner or tie. Also predict final score and number of first downs of winning team.
2. Entries must be postmarked by Friday before game, received by Friday after game.
3. Five winners per school will be determined each week in random drawings from among all correctly answered entries. In the event that there are no correct entries, winners will be determined by random drawings from among all entries received.
4. All winners will be included in final sweepstakes in which 25 winners of trips for two persons will be determined by random drawings. (All judging is being done by an independent judging organization.)
5. Contest is open to all full-time undergraduate and graduate students of the college or university where this newspaper is distributed except employees of INA and members of their families.
6. Winners will be notified by mail. For complete list of winners, send stamped, self-addressed envelope with your entry.
7. Contest void where prohibited by law. All federal, state and local regulations apply.

Mail to:
INA Football Sweepstakes
P. O. Box 1901
Philadelphia, Pa. 19105

INA INSURANCE COMPANY OF NORTH AMERICA

I say _____ will come out on top.
(write in the team you think will win)

The final score will be _____.

The winning team will make _____ first downs.

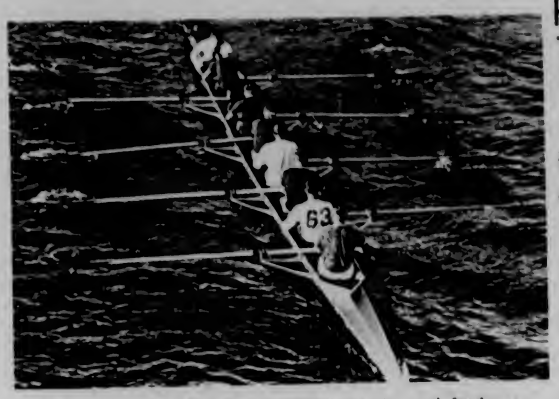
Name _____ Class of _____

College or university _____

My address _____

Ticktts for SOPHOMORES for S.E.N.D.O.F.F. weekend will be on sale Tuesday, November 14 at the reduced rates. Tuesday will be the only day on which Sophomores will be able to purchase tickets at the reduced prices. Only one ticket can be purchased per Sophomore ID.

The stand-by youth fare will not be applicable on Nov. 22, Nov. 26 Dec. 15-24 Jan. 2-4



If you plan to fly home, book reservations now because flights are filling up fast.

Some flights already filled

• A $2.00 deposit is required for all students booking reservations.

Peter Pan Travel Service Inc.

The Drummerlin Building
79 South Pleasant Street
Amherst Phone: 256-6704

ONE, TWO, THREE, DIP—The UMass varsity and freshman crews have begun their winter training in the basement of Memorial Hall. Students interested in rowing should report to either the varsity coach, Dave Clarke, or the frosh coach, Mike Faherty, during a practice session Monday, Wednesday or Friday from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. in the basement of Memorial Hall.

The Redmen varsity crew consists of: Bill Crowe, coxswain; Glenn Chaple, stroke; Roger O'Donnell; Tim McKenna; Jack Wolpert; Ed Maglera; Ron Stoltz; Bob Kiley; Wendell Frost, bow.

Redmen Lineup to Change

Booters Try to Snap Losing Streak

Trying to snap a four game losing streak, the UMass soccer team will meet Coast Guard today at varsity field starting at 3 p.m.

In addition to the losing streak, the Redmen have yet to beat a team outside the Yankee Conference. The team is 3-1 within the conference but has dropped all four of its non-conference clashes.

Coast Guard could be the team on which UMass will break its losing streaks. The Cadets have had a disappointing season winning two while dropping six and tying one.

Leading scorer for Coast Guard is Ron Thorne with 12 goals in nine games. Downfall of the Cadets has been a porous defense which has given up 38 goals during the season.

Many changes are expected in the UMass starting lineup. The JV's have completed their season with a 1-0-3 slate and members of this team are expected to find their way into the starting lineup.

Goalie Steve Kramer may be out for the remainder of the sea-

(Continued on page 8)

Ski Team Seeks New Recruits

Candidates for the 1967-68 Varsity Ski Team will meet with Coach Bill MacConnell at 7 p.m. Wednesday, November 15 in Room 305, Holdsworth Hall, to organize the fall training schedule.

Returning from last year's squad are Captain Collin Garstang '68, along with seven other veteran racers who helped to compile a win-loss ratio of 43 wins and 13 losses in eight meets against eight colleges last year.

The Redmen finished second in the New England Intercollegiate Ski Conference for the second year in a row. With Collin and Jim Garstang, Ned Kelley, Mike Zanolli, Dave Kamila and John Hurd all strong, experienced racers supported by Wilkie Ward and John Williams, the prospects for next year look good.

Amherst, first in the league last year and recruiting racers from the West and even from France, will be much stronger this year. AIC, led by Steve Perrins, top racer in the league last year, will also be strong.

The 1967 N.E.I.S.C. Race Schedule follows:

American International College, Amherst, Bentley, Boston University, Northeastern, Tufts, University of Massachusetts and Worcester Polytechnic will participate in all meets.

Race Sponsor	Date	Race	Area	Location
A.I.C.	1-27-68	Slalom	Middlebury Snow Bowl	Middlebury, Vt.
W.P.I.	1-28-68	Giant Slalom	Middlebury Snow Bowl	Middlebury, Vt.
Amherst College	2-3-68	Giant Slalom	Dartmouth Skiway	Lyme, N.H.
Univ. of Mass.	2-4-68	Downhill	Dartmouth Skiway	Lyme, N.H.
Tufts Univ.	2-10-68	Slalom	Bromley	Manchester, Vt.
Bentley College	2-11-68	Giant Slalom	Bromley	Manchester, Vt.
Northeastern Univ.	3-2-68	Slalom	Wildcat Mt.	Pinkham, Notch, N.H.
N.E.I.S.C. Championship	3-3-68	Giant Slalom	Wildcat Mt.	Pinkham, Notch, N.H.
Boston Univ.	3-9-68	Giant Slalom	Cranmore Mt.	North Conway, N.H.

V.M.I. Has More Worries Than B.C.

By MIKE CURRAN
Staff Reporter

Virginia Military Institute, 4-4, will have more than Eagles to worry about when they face Boston College at Chestnut Hill. About 1000 nuns from the Archdiocese of Boston will be guests of Cardinal Cushing, and in previous years Boston College has had a 4-1 record with the sisters present.

After losing six straight, Boston University has hopes of finishing the season on a winning note when they entertain Connecticut at Nickerson Field. The Huskies, on the other hand, are coming off their best game, 20-19 win over New Hampshire, and are still in contention for the Yankee Conference title.

Rhode Island, having its best season in over a decade plays host to winless Maine. Two of the finest receivers in New England, Frank Geiselman and George Benner, will be dueling for the Yankee Conference lead in pass receptions.

Despite the fact that they were crushed last week, 56-15, by Yale, Dartmouth is a strong favorite to beat Columbia. If Coach Bob Blackburn can regroup his forces, the Indians may still get a piece of the Ivy League pie. Columbia's Lions have yet to win a league contest.

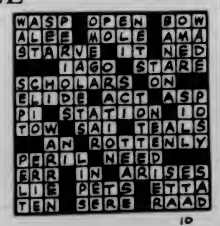
Next week's Redmen opponent, New Hampshire will be playing only 26 miles away from here at Springfield College. If the Wildcats can pull their defense back together, it'll be a long day for the Chiefs who are suffering from a three-game losing streak.

Finally, Vermont gets a crack at tiny arch-rival Middlebury. A Catamount victory would give them a 3-3-1 record from the season and a chance at having a winning mark for the season.

Freshmen, Transfer Students
and Upperclassmen

SORORITY
OPEN
HOUSES

Nov. 12, 19 — Dec. 2, 17 — 2:30 - 4:00



JAMES (Flint) COBURN in . . .
NOW
ENDS TUESDAY
7:00 and 9:00
Sat. Sun. — 1:30-3:30-5:30-7-9
AMHERST Cinema
WATERHOLE #3
NEXT WEDNESDAY
"A MAN FOR ALL SEASONS"

SWAP
Applications
Now available!!!
PICK THEM UP
IN THE R.S.O. OFFICE
Due at the R.S.O.
office on Thursday,
Nov. 16, 1967

DEERFIELD DRIVE-IN THEATRE
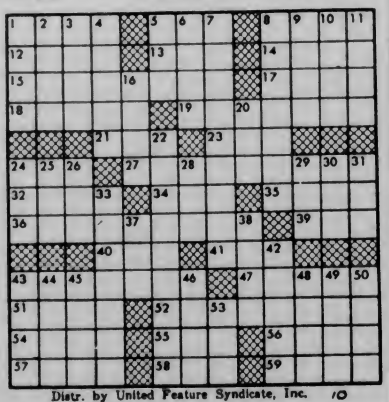
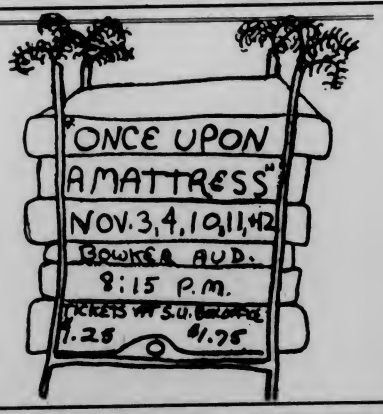
Routes 5 & 10
South Deerfield, Mass.
Tel. 665-8740
FRI. - SAT. - SUN.
PLEASE NOTE
No one under 18 will be admitted—Positive I.D. will be requested. A Police Officer will be in attendance
"I, a woman"
also
A CHARLES K. FELDMAN PRESENTATION
UNITED ARTISTS
THIS PICTURE IS RECOMMENDED FOR ADULTS
Showtime 7:30 Sun: I, a Women at 7:30

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle



ACROSS



1-Wine cups
5-Equality
8-Philippine Moslem
12-Clan
13-Exist
14-Island off Ireland
15-Correspond to
17-Part of church
18-Gravestone
19-Seats on horses
21-French plural article
23-Afternoon party
24-Silkworm
27-Slivers of wood
32-Speech impediment
34-54 (Roman number)
35-Great Lake
36-Controls
39-Suitable
40-Things, in law
41-Total
43-Inhale and exhale
47-Burdens
51-Relative
52-False impression
54-Century plant
55-Penpoint
56-Girl's name
57-Fewer
58-Aeriform fluid
59-Leak through

DOWN

1-Snakes
2-Flesh
3-Land measure
4-Bog down
5-Crony (colloq.)
6-War god
7-Kinfolk
8-Command
9-Spoken
10-Rant
11-Units
16-Dregs
20-Lair
22-Frolicking in water
24-Ancient (poet.)
25-Spanish for "river"
26-Doctrine
28-Illuminated
29-Period of time
30-Tear
31-Place
33-Buccaneers
37-Openwork fabric
38-South Sea islander
42-Hebrew prophet
43-Ancient Semite
44-Regulation
45-Man's name
46-Lamb's pen name
48-Assistant
49-Accomplished
50-Break suddenly
53-Measure of weight (pl. abbr.)

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 10

MOUNTAIN PARK
ROUTE 5
HOLYOKE
EVERY SAT.—8 P.M.
COLLEGE MIXER
THIS SAT. IN PERSON
CHALK GARDEN
NEXT SAT.—IN PERSON
THE HASSLES
"You've Got Me Hummin" plus
FOUR MUSKETEERS

Last Home Game of Season

Landry Could Break Rushing Record

Greg Landry, who needs 63 yards rushing to break the UMass record in that category, and 11 other senior Redmen will make their final home appearance tomorrow when UMass seeks its fifth straight victory of the season as it takes on Rutgers.

Kick-off time at Alumni Stadium is slated for 1:30 p.m.

Landry, who has virtually rewritten the UMass, Yankee Conference and New England record books, has 1,510 yards rushing in his collegiate career. Sam Lussier set the school record, 1,572, from 1960 to 1962. Landry also needs only nine yards to break the season rushing mark of 614 he set as a sophomore.

This year's seniors were the first group to play their three varsity years at the Stadium. Besides Landry, they include co-captain and offensive tackle Jim Mitchell, offensive guards Bob Santucci and Don Giogowski, tight end Bill Carty, defensive tackles Kent Stevens and Doug Faucette, defensive ends Paul Mlinar and Bruno Deblak, middle guard Bruce Gombar, linebacker Ernie Smith and roverback Paul Campbell.

Rutgers brings a 3-3 record to Amherst for their first meeting on the gridiron with the Redmen. Hampered by key injuries, the Scarlet Knights now appear to be physically fit in a drive for a winning season.

A chronic shoulder injury prior to the opening game made Rutgers move quarterback Bruce Van Ness to a tailback position. Van Ness, a 6'3 205-lb. sophomore, returned to his quarterback slot in last Saturday's 27-3 win over Lafayette and completed nine passes for 117 yards and two touchdowns. On the ground he has netted 339 yards in 65 attempts for a 5.1 average.

Junior tailback Bryant Mitchell missed the last two games but has netted 287 yards for a 4.2 average. Senior Don Riesett was the leading ground-gainer against Lafayette with 76 yards on 17 tries and junior Mel Brown picked up 49 on 22 attempts.

Rutgers lost a 22-21 opener to Princeton and then defeated Lehigh, 14-7, and Delaware, 29-21. The Scarlet Knights battled Army on even terms before falling, 14-3, and were then upset, 24-13, by Columbia. Last week Rutgers turned in a solid all-around performance against Lafayette.

UMass, now 5-1, needs one more victory to match last seasons' total. In six games, the Redmen have scored 148 points, compared to last season's total of 117.

Quarterback Landry, has now hit 50 of 95 passes for 643 yards and four touchdowns and has carried 111 times for 606 net yards, a 5.4 average, and seven touchdowns.

His favorite receivers have been junior split end Nick Warnock, who has caught 18 passes for 253 yards, and soph wingback Jerry Grasso, who has 11 receptions for 186 yards.

Junior tailback Tim Driscoll has returned to action from a hip injury but soph Craig Lovell will start at the position tomorrow off his fine performances against Boston University and Vermont.

The Redmen's only line-up change will be at center where Bob Sheehan, a 6'6-258-pound junior transfer from Notre Dame, will replace Noel Schablik, who suffered a knee injury in the Vermont game.

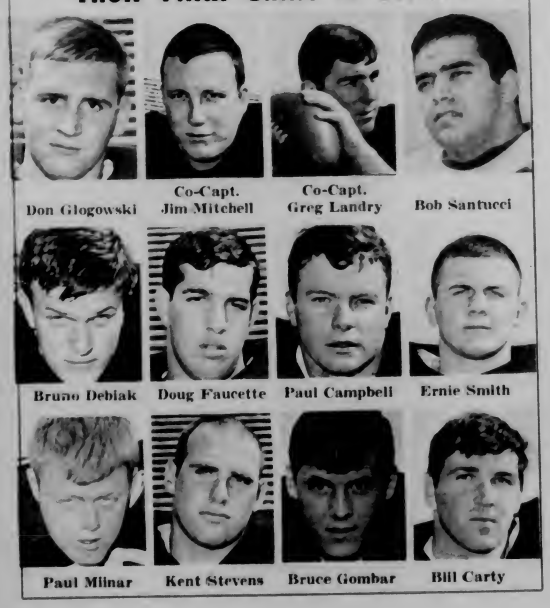
Defensively, the Redmen have intercepted nine passes with junior cornerback Mike McArdle picking off four. McArdle made two key interceptions in the Vermont victory, which clinched a tie for the Yankee Conference title. The Redmen have also recovered nine fumbles and have held the opposition scoreless for the last 10 quarters.

Smoke Signals — Junior Ed Sherman has kicked 19 extra points in 19 tries since he missed his first attempt in the opener at Maine. The UMass record for consecutive conversions is 23... McArdle has made nine interceptions in 15 varsity games, with four of them this year. Leo Biron set the UMass season record of seven in 1965... UMass is the first addition to Rutgers' schedule since William and Mary in 1954... Rutgers expects to have halfback Mitchell back in action. Mitchell, last year's top breakaway threat for the Knights, was sidelined by an injury several weeks ago... The visitors will hold a workout at the Stadium this afternoon... Two players from Massachusetts are on the Rutgers line-up, junior linebacker Bill Cintolo of Revere and sophomore center Jack Orrizi of Shrewsbury.

Scott Lewendon, Left End

Dick Bing, Left Back

QUARTERBACK TO TAILBACK TO QUARTERBACK — Sophomore Bruce Van Ness, recovered from a shoulder injury, will be back at quarterback position for the Scarlet Knights.



Probable Starting Lineups

Massachusetts					Rutgers
OFFENSE
83	*Warnock	Jr 6'2	193	SE	14	*Savlao	Jr 5'11	180
71	Cooney	So 6'	226	LT	71	*Zimmerman	Jr 6'1	225
63	*Glogowski	Sr 5'10	185	LG	65	*Greenberg	Jr 5'9	195
54	Sheehan	Jr 6'6	258	C	56	*Vitolo	Sr 5'10	200
60	*Santucci	Sr 6'	205	RG	60	*Julian	Sr 6'	215
74	*Mitchell	Sr 6'1	219	RT	75	Koprowski	So 6'5	245
82	*Carty	Sr 6'4	228	TE	85	*Higgins	Sr 6'	200
11	*Landry	Sr 6'3	200	QB	10	Van Ness	So 6'3	205
22	Grasso	So 6'	180	WB	25	Baker	Jr 5'9	182
20	Lovell	So 6'	194	TB	22	*Brown	Jr 5'11	190
30	*Cochrane	Jr 6'	202	FB	35	*Riesett	Sr 6'1	214
DEFENSE
84	York	So 6'1	202	LE	81	*Lewendon	Sr 6'2	205
72	Scheralis	So 6'4	230	LT	70	Schneider	Sd 6'2	225
53	*Gombar	Sr 6'	198	MG	77	Novelli	So 6'	227
66	*Stevens	Sr 6'	210	RT	73	Dutch	Jr 6'1	210
89	*Mlinar	Sr 6'	233	RE	89	Bonsall	So 6'1	190
34	*Campbell	Sr 5'10	180	Chief	30	*Cintolo	Jr 5'11	190
64	Gray	So 6'1	181	LB	68	*Bing	Jr 5'10	195
65	*Smith	Sr 5'10	190	LB	32	*Higgins	Sr 5'11	195
24	Frye	Jr 5'9	185	CB	46	Renshaw	So 6'1	180
25	*McArdle	Jr 6'	185	CB	42	*Prigger	Sr 5'9	165
40	Rogers	So 6'2	192	S	44	*Pollock	Jr 6'	180

*Lettermen

Their Final Game at Home

SMALL BALL DEADLINE

Today is the deadline for entries in the new "small ball" flight in intramural handball competition. Intramural Director Ted Schmitt says that small ball will be included if enough people show interest.

BOOTERS . . .

(Continued from page 7)

son with his bad knee. Elliot Klein is expected to take over net minding chores for the Redmen.

Today's game will mark the last home appearance for the soccer team this year. The team will close out their season next Saturday at New Hampshire.

W.S.

Redmen on the Warpath

FOOTBALL — vs. Rutgers (at home, tomorrow, 1:30 p.m.)

FOOTBALL (Fr) — vs. Connecticut (at Storrs, Conn., tonight, 7:30 p.m.)

SOCCER — vs. Coast Guard (at home, tomorrow, 10:30 p.m.)

Intramural Results

Fraternities

Monday, November 6

PMD-QTV—6-2
PLP-TKE—6-2
LCA-SPE—6-2
SAM-BKP—8-0
DC-ASP—6-2
TEP-KS—8-0
AEP-ZN—6-0

Dorms

Tuesday, November 7

Academics-Leopards—6-2
Spartans-Smashers—6-2
Colonials-Patriots—8-0
Commanchees-Bulldozers—6-2
Huskies-Colt .45s—6-2
Terrors-Monuments—8-0

Wednesday, November 8

Aces-Maples—8-0
Flamings A's-Redwoods—6-2
Grants-Barracudas—8-0
Maroons-Hi-lo's 8-0
Lemons-Eagles—8-0
Birch-Cherries—8-0
Black Bears-Troans—6-2

METAWAMPE'S GRID PICKS

Politics isn't Metawampe's meet, but Tuesday he had all the elections. "You know where I stand" he said simply. Then the canny conniver, who posted a record-breaking 49-14-2 mark last week, turned his attention to UMass football and said, "I never liked tangerines anyway —and that's not sour grapes."

UMASS 21, RUTGERS 14 — From Jersey home old Rutgers strays, but Redmen flying high these days.

BOSTON UNIVERSITY 22, CONNECTICUT 15—Though B.U.'s losing streak is six, the Huskies make like Mrs. Hicks.

NORTH CAROLINA STATE 18, PENN STATE 14—Penn State Lion best in East, but Southern Wolf pack tames this beast.

LOUISIANA STATE 10, ALABAMA 7 — "Who are these Tigers?" Bear inquires. He'll find out after 'Bama tires.

TENNESSEE 23, TULANE 10 — Advancing Green Wave turns around, 'cause Volunteers are Orange Bowl-bound.

MICHIGAN STATE 28, INDIANA 14—Spartans' record is a joke, but Hoosiers' hopes go up in smoke.

PURDUE 24, MINNESOTA 16 — Gophers dream of New Year's roses, but tough Purdue a problem poses.

WYOMING 42, NEW MEXICO 15—An easy schedule is the reason that Cowboys head for perfect season.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA 18, OREGON STATE 6—Upsets are the Beavers' forte, but not against the Trojan sort.

UCLA 31, WASHINGTON 7—Next week Bruins play Southern Cal; on Huskies limber up they shall.

Boston College 12, VMI 4
Harvard 27, Princeton 17
Vermont 30, Middlebury 7
New Hampshire 27, Springfield 14
Rhode Island 28, Maine 6
Yale 39, Penn 13
Syracuse 20, Holy Cross 10
Utah 7, Army 0
Colagte 13, Bucknell 8
Dartmouth 33, Columbia 21
Cornell 35, Brown 7
Delaware 25, Lehigh 13
Notre Dame 42, Pitt 16
Buffalo 26, Villanova 23
Auburn 31, Mississippi State 11
Clemson 27, Maryland 14
Navy 24, Duke 14
Florida State (N) 8, VPI 7
Georgia 27, Florida 12
Houston 32, Memphis State (N) 20
Louisville (N) 27, Cincinnati 14
The Citadel 16, Richmond 7
Vanderbilt 14, Kentucky 13
Virginia 7, North Carolina 0
West Virginia 17, William and Mary 14
Dayton 28, Miami (O) 20
Michigan 14, Illinois 7
Xavier 10, Western Michigan 0
Oklahoma 28, Iowa State 7
Kent State 16, Marshall 6
Missouri 13, Kansas State 3
Nebraska 14, Oklahoma State 6
Northwestern 21, Iowa 20
Ohio State 14, Wisconsin 0
Ohio U. 33, Bowling Green 6
Toledo 36, Northern Illinois 14
Tulsa 21, Wake Forest 15
Northern Texas 39, Wichita 10
Arkansas 7, Rice 6
Texas Tech 21, TCU 6
Texas 20, Baylor 0
Brigham Young 35, Arizona 28
California 28, San Jose 7
Colorado 22, Kansas 8
Stanford 24, Oregon 10
Utah State 40, Montana 8
El Paso 35, Colorado State 21
Washington State 29, Idaho 12

FORECAST
PARTLY CLOUDY
AND WARMER

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

NEW ENGLAND'S
LARGEST COLLEGE
DAILY

VOL. XCVI, NO. 46 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | MONDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1967

Daily Collegian Photo by John Kelly

CLOSE CALL—Rutgers quarterback Bruce Van Ness pitches out to one of his backs (not pictured) just as he is hit by UMass defensive end Tom York. Redmen romped, 30-7.

Rutgers Bows to Redmen

By TOM FITZGERALD
Sports Editor

President Johnson was saying the other day that football does not present an accurate picture of America, but Saturday the Redmen showed how the welfare system can promote initiative. In doing so, they clobbered surpringly inept Rutgers, 30-7, at the Stadium.

The slim turn-out of 13,000 had hardly settled in the concrete when UMass received its best gift since the "Lights and Sounds Show." Five plays after the opening kickoff, Rutgers had the ball on its own 17 yard line when sophomore quarterback Bruce Van Ness faded back to pass.

As Paul Campbell and Bill Frye of the Redmen closed in on him, Van Ness probably wondered whether to ground the ball, eat it or run back to New Jersey. Instead, he fumbled it as he was tackled and Tom York of UMass squashed it at the Rutgers four.

Although the Redmen didn't even say thank you, the Scarlet Knights provided half the distance to the goal line with an offside penalty. Fred Hairston got the other half and the Redmen led, 7-0, after two minutes and 10 seconds.

College football began at Rutgers, they say, but it evidently didn't stay there as the Knights looked like they came to UMass just to sit in on a Ryan Drum lecture.

Meanwhile, the Redmen were moving the ball like Carlisle Indians with a Jim Thorpean performance by Greg Landry, who set two more rushing records. He broke the UMass season rushing mark of 619, which he set as a soph, and the career record of 1572, held by Sam Lussier. Both records fell in the first half and Landry finished the afternoon with a season total of 733 and a career total of 1637.

A few minutes after the first score, UMass was rolling with an 18-yard run by Landry and a 12-yard miracle catch by Nick Warnock pushing the ball deep into Rutgers territory. But it was up to the Knights to lend a helping hand, and they obliged, interfering with Jerry Grasso on a touchdown pass pattern on the one-yard line. After a rush by Grasso failed, Landry took one giant step for six more points.

(Continued on page 8)

Mayer, Quakers Reach Canada

By DON EPSTEIN
News Day Editor

A UMass English professor and a group of 50-60 people mostly from the Amherst area traveled to Canada Saturday to turn over more than $1,700 which will be used in part to buy medical supplies for North Vietnamese civilians.

Professor Milton Mayer and a group from the Amherst Area Quaker Committee went to the U.S. Canadian border despite pleas from Federal Government officials.

Mayer and members of the group met Friday afternoon with Mr. George Stewart of the U.S. Treasury Department to discuss the proposed journey. According to Mayer, "we had a good amiable, extended discussion in which we found ourselves maintaining a position which has been anciently maintained: that position being there is a higher law than any state can make."

Mayer told the Daily Collegian that he had explained to Mr. Stewart that his group could not believe that humane people, like the American people, could allow certain innocent victims of war be healed while letting other innocent victims of the same war suffer.

Mayer and the group crossed the border at Derby Line, Vermont, Saturday afternoon. The Amherst group crossed the border in the presence of a member of the U.S. consulat from Montreal and also Mr. Stewart from the Treasury Department, with whom they met the day before in Deerfield.

Before crossing the border the Friends from the Amherst area once again asked Stewart to read the official U.S. regulations pertaining to such ventures. Stewart again informed the group that the Federal government prohibits the transfer of goods in any form out of the United States for destination to North Vietnam or the National Liberation Front. The Treasury Department official informed the group that crossing the border with the purpose of sending aid to North Vietnam is a violation of the Trading with the Enemy Act, bringing with it a fine of not more than $10,000 or imprisonment of not more than 10 years, or both.

The Canadian Quaker group plans to use the money to purchase medical supplies which according to Mayer, "will then be distributed to the Red Cross Societies of North and South Vietnam in equal parts to help the innocent victims of both sides of the war."

Young Democrats Call for Withdrawal from War

BOSTON (AP) — College Young Democrat Clubs yesterday called for withdrawal of United States forces from Vietnam, but rejected a bid to eliminate President Johnson from the Democratic ticket in 1968.

They also passed a resolution calling for an immediate halt to the bombing of North Vietnam and the beginning of peace negotiations with the national Liberation Front.

The war "is being paid for by the poor of America in that services and opportunities legislated and enlivened by the U.S. government as recently as a year ago are becoming symbols of an empty dream due to government expenditures for the war, which should more ideally and morally be channeled into giving aid and opportunity to the poor in our own nation," the resolution said.

It also said that the administration policies in Vietnam are "embarrassing and distressing to many of our staunchest allies... and generally unsound."

The resolution called for the replacement of United States troops by a United Nations peace force and for a plebiscite in South Vietnam to decide the status of the country.

The Young Democrats voted 1964-107 against changes in their constitution which would have allowed introduction of a resolution supporting Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., for president.

The convention was attended by 450 delegates from 250 colleges.

Daily Collegian

STAFF MEETING

Last of the semester

THURSDAY NIGHT 7:30 P.M.

COLONIAL LOUNGE

A Moving Experience

Special Show To Be Given

By BOB GORMAN
Staff Reporter

Today only, there is a special show being sponsored by D. O'Connell & Sons, Inc. at North Pleasant St. and Eastman Lane.

Two halves of a large wooden shed that were located behind Machmer Hall will be moved up Eastman Lane. They made it as far as North Pleasant St. last week.

The moving is part of a building relocation project being undertaken by the University. Last spring, Farley and Bowditch Lodges were moved and next year the Old Homestead will be taken to a new site, according to George Norton, associate director of physical plant at UMass.

The first half of the storage shed was moved last Wednesday to make way for the Machmer Towers Complex under construction.

The sheds are being moved at the same time because the electric and phone lines on No. Pleasant St. will have to be taken down to let the moving shed cross to Eastman Lane.

Norton said the shed will be located on the Tillson farm off East Pleasant St., where it will be used by the University's agriculture farm service.

Daniel O'Connell's Sons, Inc., of Holyoke, contractor, decided to move the shed after a survey indicated this would cost less than demolishing it and building a new one, Norton said.

Farley and Bowditch Lodges, originally built by the 4-H Clubs of Massachusetts, were retained because of their sentimental value and were relocated in a wooded area beside Alumni Stadium. They will be used by 4-H clubs. The buildings, Norton said, also will be used to house students from Malawi taking short courses at the University's new Center for African Studies.

The Homestead and Stockbridge Houses are the oldest buildings in Amherst, both originally private homes. Because of its historical value, the Homestead is being retained.

Dr. William Harvard, head of the government department, has led a campaign to add a breezeway to link the Homestead and Stockbridge Houses.

According to Dr. Havard, the connector will include two large rooms. Plans also call for enlarging the dining room and lounge and installing an institutional kitchen. Total cost of the addition will be $150,000.

Buildings relocations normally are included in the contract for large building projects.

D. C. Photo by John Griffin

TOWING A HOUSE—No, the house isn't being towed away for illegal parking. It's being towed to a new site on the Tilson Farm to make way for the Machmer Towers.

Violations of Cease-Fire In Mid-East Trouble Zone

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—An army spokesman said Israeli and Jordanian gunners traded barrages across the Jordan River near the Damiya Bridge Sunday for more than four hours. Jordan claimed Israeli guns had fired on farm houses but that the Jordanians did not fire back.

Neither side made any mention of casualties.

The Israel spokesman claimed the Jordanians had opened fire at 6:15 a.m. and that Israeli gunners returned the fire from a high ridge along the west bank of the river.

The Israeli spokesman said the Jordanians fired both cannon and mortars across the river.

In Amman, a Jordanian military spokesman said the Israelis had opened up at 7:20 a.m. with fire from 106mm guns on farm houses along the east bank of the rives and that this was followed by intermittent mortar fire in the same area and areas nearby.

UMass Professor Awarded Grant To Study Digital Computers

Dr. Robert Archer, professor of civil engineering at the University of Massachusetts, has been awarded a two-year research fellowship to study the application of digital computers to bio-medical and bio-mathematical problems.

The National Institute of General Medical Sciences of the U.S. Public Health Service will support the research program starting next summer at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology cognitive information processing group, electronics research laboratory.

Dr. Archer is a 1952 graduate of M.I.T. with a Ph.D. from that institution in 1956.

In 1964-65, Dr. Archer was a visiting professor at the Indian Institute of Technology in Kanpur, India, under the U.S. Agency for International Development, where he helped establish a civil engineering program and computer center at Kanpur.

Dr. Archer was a member of the UMass mathematics department from 1959 to 1961. He rejoined the faculty in 1966 after teaching at the Case Institute of Technology. He specializes in engineering mechanics, applied mathematics and computation.

Dr. Archer is the author or co-author of more than a dozen published papers dealing with the vibrations, stability and stress analysis of structures. He is co-author of the McGraw Hill book, "Introduction to the Mechanics of Solids."

Telephone Co. Toughens Policies

The Northampton Area Business Office of the New England Telephone Company advises that room telephone accounts remaining unpaid after November 14 will be toll denied until arrangements for payment are made.

This includes bills from the first billing period of this semester which were due October 25, as well as unpaid bills from last year. Toll denial prohibits calls to outside the local calling area.

Failure to settle the account may lead to disconnection. Contact the Telephone Company Business Office at 584-9911 if you have a question about your bill.

Friendly ICE CREAM
454 RUSSELL ST.—HADLEY

SUNDAES

Sundaes are made with 3 scoops of ice cream and with whipped topping. Marshmallow may be substituted at your request. Special request for nuts 10c extra.

Hot Fudge

SWISS CHOCOLATE ALMOND 45
BANANA IMPERIAL 4 scoops of Ice Cream, a whole Banana and heaps of Topping 70
HOT FUDGE ROYAL BANANA ROYAL STRAWBERRY ROYAL
Vanilla, Chocolate and Strawberry Ice Cream, a Half Banana, generous portions of Topping, Whipped Topping, Chocolate Sprinkles, and Nuts 55
HOT BUTTERSCOTCH 40
STRAWBERRY 40
MAPLE NUT 40
PINEAPPLE 40
CHOCOLATE NUT 40
MARSHMALLOW and CHOCOLATE SPRINKLES 40

ICE CREAM

ICE CREAM SAMPLER, 4 flavors of your choice 40
DISH OF ICE CREAM 25

BEVERAGES

THE FRIBBLE A THICK MILK DRINK FABULOUS AND FROSTY 40*
MILK SHAKE — with two scoops of ice cream. Chocolate, Vanilla, Coffee or Strawberry 35*
MALTED MILK SHAKE 40*
ICE CREAM SODA 35*
SHERBET COOLER, the coolest drink ever 50*
COFFEE, TEA, SANKA 15
ICED COFFEE OR TEA (in season) 15
HOT CHOCOLATE with cookies 15
COLA The Only Cola Served in this Shop
ROOT BEER, ORANGE 15*
MILK 15
CHOCOLATE MILK 20

FRIENDLY's is now offering
FREE DELIVERY
All you have to do is call
256-8001 between 7:00-8:00
$2.00 MINIMUM

SANDWICHES

No charge for toasting. Please specify. Hamburgs are normally cooked medium unless otherwise specified.

BIG BEEF
BIG BEEF CHEESEBURG
BIG BEEF CHEESEBURG SPECIAL
HAMBURG, all beef, ground in our plant. With lettuce, tomato, and salad dressing 55 45
CHEESEBURG, really unique, made the Friendly way. With lettuce, tomato, and salad dressing 45 50
HAM 50
GRILLED HAM AND CHEESE 60
SIZZLED HAM with Pineapple 50 55
SHRIMP SALAD (not always available) 90
TUNA FISH SALAD 40
EGG and OLIVE SALAD 35
GRILLED CHEESE 35
STEAK (on buttered toast) 55
LETTUCE AND TOMATO 30
BUTTERED TOAST with Jelly 15
ENGLISH MUFFINS with Jelly 15
Lettuce, Tomato and Salad Dressing Served On Any Sandwich 10c Extra
FRENCH FRIES 25

SORRY:
WE CANNOT GUARANTEE THE DELIVERY OF THE STARRED ITEMS IN A TOP QUALITY CONDITION

SWAP

APPLICATIONS NOW AVAILABLE

Pick them up in the RSO Office

Return deadline: November 16, 1967

Resumes, manuscripts, business letters and Reports typed, Graphic Arts, Translating Ad, Bookkeeping Services.

TEMPORARY OFFICE WORKERS AVAILABLE ANY TIME. CALL US FOR HELP WITH YOUR SPECIAL OFFICE PROBLEMS.

AMHERST SECRETARIAL SERVICE
65 UNIVERSITY DRIVE
253-7717

VOTE
For the SOPHOMORE QUEEN
of
S.E.N.D.O.F.F.
WEEKEND
Fri., Nov. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.—S.U Lobby

CLASS OF '71
Executive Council

Applications Available at R.S.O. Office, 2nd Floor, S.U.

Due at R.S.O. November 14, 5:00 p.m.

JFK MEMORIAL CONCERT
- MITCHELL TRIO
- JIM KWESKIN JUG BAND
- PHIL OCHS

2 P.M. — SUNDAY, NOV. 19
Tickets on sale S.U. Box Office

NOW ENDS TUESDAY
on Screen
7:00 and 9:00
Plus Select Shorts
AMHERST Cinema
WATERHOLE #3
• STARTS WEDNESDAY •
"A Man For All Seasons"

Freshman Mugbooks

Distributed in S. U. Lobby, 10-4

TODAY ONLY

Daily Collegian Photo by Patricia Lempart

VETERANS DAY COMMEMORATION — Saturday morning members of the Special Forces Unit on campus gathered before Memorial Hall to pay homage to those who had died in the previous wars. Special tribute was paid to two members of their own group who have died in Vietnam.

Amherst College Sponsors Talk on U.S. in Vietnam

E. Ernest Goldstein, appointed September 5 as a Special Assistant to President Johnson, will speak at Amherst College today on "Legal Aspects of U.S. Involvement in Vietnam."

His talk, sponsored by Forum, the student lecture committee, will be at 8 p.m. in Johnson Chapel and is open to the public.

At the time of his Presidential appointment, Goldstein was an associate of the international law firm of Coudert Brothers, working in its Paris office. From 1955 to 1966, he had been professor of law at the University of Texas.

His law career has also in-

(Continued on page 5)

Adult Education Association Elects Five From UMass to Hold State-Wide Office

Five from UMass were elected to state-wide office in the Massachusetts Adult Education Association at the association's 15th Annual Conference held at Babson Institute, Wellesley Hills, recently.

Dr. William W. Metcalfe, assistant extension professor, 4-H, College of Agriculture, was elected executive vice-president for two years. He has previously been a regional vice-president, chairman of the 1966 state conference, and currently serves as chairman of the membership committee and chairman of the ad hoc committee on private support. Dr. Metcalfe is an assistant state 4-H club leader in the Extension Division of 4-H and Youth Programs in Amherst.

Miss Winifred I. Eastwood, head of the Extension Division of Home Economics, was elected to a two-year term as regional vice-president for the Connecticut Valley. Previously a member of the association's Board of Directors and the 1966 state conference committee, she currently serves on the membership advisory committee. Miss Eastwood directs the state-wide program of extension home economics.

Mrs. Helen L. H. Johnson, Berkshire County home economist, Cooperative Extension Service, was elected to serve two years as regional vice-president for the Berkshires. As director of the state association, Mrs. Johnson has been active in developing educational programs for homemakers in Berkshire County. She is now a member of the state-wide membership advisory committee.

Mr. Paul Healy, director of the Adult Education Program, Amherst-Pelham Regional School District, and a graduate student in the UMass School of Education, was elected director-at-large of the association for a two year term. Mr. Healy has previously served on planning committees for state-wide conferences in 1965 and 1966.

Mrs. Frances Olrich, program director of the Youthful Offender Project, UMass Labor Relations and Research Center, has been named chairman of the associations nominating committee through 1968. She was also a member of the planning committee for the 1967 Annual Conference.

BRADEMAS POSTPONED

Smith College has announced the indefinite postponement of the lecture by Congressman John Brademas, representative from Indiana, which was scheduled for Tuesday.

MEETING

Roister Doister's Dramatic Society

in Middlesex Rm of S.U. at 8:30

Thursday, Nov. 16

Dining Commons Menu

MONDAY

BREAKFAST
Grape Juice
Grapefruit Sections
Pettijohn
Cold Cereals
Fried Eggs
Raspberry Coffee Cake

LUNCH
Chicken Noodle Soup
Hot Turkey Sandwich—Gravy
Cranberry Sauce
Whipped Potato
Sausages—Apple Fritters/Syrup
Lima Beans
Pear-Cherry Salad
Green Salad
Jellied Apricot Salad
Cottage Pudding—Choc. Sce.

DINNER
Ham Steak—Fruit Sauce
Beefloaf—Gravy
English Brown Potatoes
Broccoli
Cucumber-Carrot Salad
Cottage Cheese
Pineapple Salad
Cry Baby Cookies
Raspberry Chiffon Pudding

TUESDAY

BREAKFAST
Orange Juice
Applesauce
Maltex
Cold Cereals
French Toast/Syrup

LUNCH
Yankee Bean Soup
Hamburger—Roll
French Fried Potatoes
Fruit Salad Plate
Cottage Cheese
Potato Chips
Sliced Tomato Salad
Grapefruit Salad
Lettuce Wedge
Rice Custard Pudding

DINNER
Pot Roast—Gravy
Fried Filet of Sole—Tartare Sce.
Scalloped Potatoes
W. K. Corn
Waldorf Salad
Jellied Fruit Cocktail
Cole Slaw
Strawberry Cream Pie

WEDNESDAY

BREAKFAST
Pineapple Juice
Grapefruit Half
Oatmeal
Cold Cereals
Scrambled Eggs
Sweet Roll

LUNCH
Mulligatawny Soup
Beef Stew—Vegetables
Buttered Potato
B.L.T. Sandwich
Potato Chips
Cucumber-Pepper Salad
Jellied Banana Salad
Peach Salad
Cherry Cobbler

DINNER
Chicken Shortcake—Biscuit
Buttered Rice
Green Peas
Cold Roast Beef Plate
Macaroni Salad
Apple Fruit Cup
Cottage Cheese
Tomato-Egg Salad
Orange Cupcakes

THURSDAY

BREAKFAST
Grapefruit Juice
Purple Plums
Farina
Cold Cereals
Omelet
Doughnuts

LUNCH
Garden Vegetable Soup
Spaghetti—Meat Sauce
Green Beans
Cold Cut Plate
Potato Salad
Garden Salad
Cottage Cheese
Combination Fruit Salad

DINNER
Veal Cutlet—Tom. Sce.
Baked Chicken quarter
Whipped Potato
Pear Salad
Jellied Sunshine Salad
Cucumber Salad
Washington Cream Pie

Free Bus

Resumption of its free bus service for UMass students was announced today by the Amherst Chamber at Commerce.

Beginning Nov. 18, the bus will operate each Saturday between 11:15 a.m. and 5:15 p.m. The bus will leave the UMass campus from Farview Way opposite Women's Quad, N. Pleasant St. on the hour and half-hour; it will leave Amherst center at quarter past and quarter before the hour. Stops between the terminal points will be made only at the traffic light by the women's dorms, Newman Center, Amherst Post Office, or regular public bus stops.

The bus will not run during exam periods or holidays.

Career Opportunities in Accounting

WEDNESDAY 8 P.M.—SBA 120

Representatives from:
Firestone
Ernst & Ernst
Internal Revenue Service

followed by a coffee hour

Sponsored by Accounting Association

S. E. N. D. O. F. F. '70
WEEKEND--DEC. 1, 2, 3

FRIDAY: BITTER SEND FOLK HOUSE
JACKIE WASHINGTON
TIMES SQUARE TWO
$1.50 – includes 14 oz. tumbler

SATURDAY: 2 SHOWS – 8:00 and 10:15
TURTLES • PILGRIMS
$1.25 Sophs – $1.50 others

SUNDAY: SIMON and GARFUNKEL
7 P.M. – Cage
$2.00 Sophs – $2.50 others

Sophomore Tickets: Tuesday, Nov. 14 Only

Bring ID to Get Reduced Rates

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Misuse of Power

General Lewis Hershey, Director of Selective Service, stated in a speech last week that the continuance of student deferments was in the "national interest," but he went on to say it was not in the "national interest" to defer students who protest He further threatened to instruct draft boards to reclassify any student taking part in any demonstration.

This is not the first time that General Hershey has made a statement of this sort. He apparently feels that his way of thinking is so right and so holy that everyone else must believe it. The Director of Selective Service lacks in the discretion necessary to his office. He would like a nice, quiet generation of college students like the students during McCarthy's era. He would not have made a statement like he did without expecting the tacit approval of the Administration.

What General Hershey's narrow mind fails to comprehend is the detrimental effect that his mode of thinking will have on the continuance of what we like to think of as the American tradition. His action makes him nothing more than a subverter of freedom of speech and assembly.

We feel that the use of power in the manner in which General Hershey uses it is criminal. It is time that younger ideas are applied to the sticky problem of drafting young men into the Armed Forces. We urge a change in the leadership of the Selective Service since we feel that General Hershey's misuse of his power is not in the "national interest."

—THE EDITORS

Issues in Education

New Prospectives in Education

A group of interested faculty and students has been invited to dialogue on current issues in education. The group feels that the University community as a whole, that is faculty, students, and administration, should consider together the aims and goals of education today in the light of a rapidly changing society. There are no right or wrong answers. The purpose is simply to get clarity on the issues involved. During the first part of the week ideas expressed by nationally known figures will be presented. On Thursday or Friday a second article will be written by a student or faculty member in response to the first article. Please feel free to express your own ideas in the Campus Comment column.

New Perspectives in Education

The following passages have been taken from an article by Robert Theobald entitled Education for a New Time. He describes what he believes is the present situation in education, and also suggests where we ought to be in our understanding of the education process.

"In our present educational system, we are doing three things. First, we are teaching young people to respect authority at a time when authority is no longer possible, and when we ought to be struggling together to understand the world in which we live. We still say to them, listen and learn rather than strive with us."

"Second, we are teaching students to believe that questions are closed and soluble rather than teaching them to live with the uncertainty inherent in real life. If one cuts knowledge into sufficiently small strips, one can get certainty...."

"Third, we teach children individual facts and relationships rather than gestalts. And although we do not yet know how to teach gestalts, McLuhan has made it quite clear that we must learn quickly. The individual fact, the individual relationship cannot be valid at electronic speeds of communication."

Paul Goodman in Compulsory Mis-education also expresses similar ideas. The concern of both of these gentlemen is that we distinguish between education as a process of gaining new insights, and education as an institutional expression of that process. Paul Goodman implies this distinction in the following comments.

"The hard task of education is to liberate and strengthen a youth's initiative, and at the same time to see to it that he knows what is necessary to cope with the on-going activities and culture of society, so that his initiative can be relevant...."

"For the students, it seems to me that a primary duty of the University is to deprive them of their props, their dependence on extrinsic valuation and motivation, and to force them to confront the difficult enterprise (of education) itself and finally lose themselves in it."

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union . . . University of Massachusetts . . . Amherst, Mass. 01002

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Chester S. Weinerman '68

MANAGING EDITOR ..... John H. Dean, Jr. '69
BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Charles Smith '69

City Editor ..... Jim Foudy '68
News Editor ..... Richard S. Kline '70
Editorial Chairman ..... Pat Petow '68
Sports Editor ..... Tom Fitzgerald '69

Advertising Managers ..... Dot Silvia '69, Sharon Kramer '69
Photo Editors ..... Paul Boliver '68, John Griffin '68

MONDAY NEWS STAFF: Jan Curley, Day Editor; Alissa Greenberg, Sheila Goodman, Daryl Francis, Marcia Levenson; Editorial Day Editor, Bob Brillo; Sports Day Editor, Peter Pascarelli.
Photography ..... Patricia Lennart

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the Daily Collegian publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amended by the act of June 11, 1943. Printed by Hamilton I. Newell, Inc., University Drive, Amherst. Subscription: $6.00 per year, $3.50 per semester.

Offices of the Daily Collegian are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

Represented nationally by National Educational Advertising Service, Inc. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the Associated Press. AP is is entitled to the use for reproducion of all the local news in this newspaper as well as all AP dispatches.

Polis

Republican Contenders

by BOB BRILL, Associate Editorial Chairman
Associate Editorial Chairman

This article begins a series of three that will present the accomplishments of the major contenders for the Republican presidential nomination. These articles will give information from which an opinion on the ability of these three men, to handle the job of president, can be made.

Nelson Rockefeller faced the immense problems of governing the largest state in the union by first setting up a number of study groups. These task forces dug into state problems and sought the answers to which solutions could be applied legislatively. He still relies on these groups when drafting legislation.

New York took an early lead among states in seeking ways to combat pollution. Early in his administration, Mr. Rockefeller was appalled by the deplorable state of the Hudson River. He attempted to have the communities along the river eliminate the dumping of raw sewage. He further tried to gain support for the construction of treatment facilities to clean up rivers and streams. At first, he made little progress, but in 1965 he got a bond issue passed by the voters and with the help of the Federal Government began his proposed program to end the pollution of New York's streams and rivers.

Another problem that Governor Rockefeller had to cope with was the tremendous puzzle of transportation in New York. Through careful planning, the allocation of 300 million dollars a year in the state budget and the addition of 200 million dollars in federal funds, this problem is being coped with. New York voters approved a 2.5 billion bond issue earlier this month to be used to improve transportation facilities. Half of the amount will go for highways, the remainder for subways, bus systems, railroads and aviation.

Development of the State's educational system has been a special credit to the Governor. At the beginning of his administration, New York had 27 low-rated teacher colleges with limited funds, low morale and 38,000 students. By a program of building and public support he has transformed the education system into a growing, dynamic complex covering the whole state with 57 college and university centers enrolling 140,000 full time students.

Tuition is very low and massive financial aid is given through the State loan program, scholarships and fellowships to allow every qualified student to attend college. Aid to elementary and secondary schools, a part of the 50% of the state budget allocated to education, has greatly increased since the beginning of the Rockefeller Administration. All of these programs cost money and the acquisition of this causes the Governor continual headaches, causing him to raise taxes twice in the nine years of his administration. Tax receipts have fallen short of expectations and the recently approved state lottery has failed to bring in the projected amount of revenue. How he handles the problem of finance will give some indication of how he would handle the knotty problems of federal financing.

Rockefeller brings a new philosophy to government. He believes in cooperation between federal, state and local government with Washington working with the state and local governments rather than through them. He dislikes poverty programs that bypass state and local officials since he feels that the Administration is far too removed from local problems to handle them effectively with formulas and ideas created in Washington.

The Governor feels that the State government should be strong. He says that State administrations must meet the needs of their own people without going to Washington for help. Unless the State takes care of people's wants, the Federal Government will move into the vacuum.

Campus Comment

All Wet

To the editor:

Bill Street . . . is all wet.

Extending his logic, England should be given back to the Saxons, the United States to the Indians, and Europe back to the Italians, who after all are the latter day descendants of the Romans who once ran the whole area. This logic would return Palestine to the Jews, because it was Roman aggression that expelled them in the first place.

Like it or not, Israel is a fait accompli. Israel has never had legal boundaries, only armistice lines. Since there has never been an armistice, how can there be armistice lines? When there is a peace, there will be borders negotiated by the bordering powers. The recent flare-up was a result of the Arabs not recognizing the armistice lines, why should the Israelis?

Barry M. Austern

Whitewash?

To the editor:

In an editorial Bill Street wrote that Israel is an unprincipled aggressor in an unholy war.

Mr. Street first claimed that Israel attempts to whitewash its immoral acts of land acquisition. Is it immoral to hold the Golan Heights (which once belonged to Syria) when they have been used as a base for Syrian artillery to shell peaceful Israeli farm villages? Is it immoral to hold the Gaza Strip so that Egyptian terrorists cannot use it as a base for attacking Israel roads?

Is it wrong to hold the West Bank of Jordan until that country agrees to prevent Syrian terrorists from using it as a base to plant mines under the children's nurseries in Israeli farm villages? Is it wrong to hold Sinai until Egypt agrees to allow Israeli ships passage thru an international waterway and also the Suez Canal?

Secondly, Mr. Street says the U.S. favors Israel because of its pro-Western government. Why shouldn't we like our only ally in the Middle East?

Dave Baskin

Any Reasonable Person?

To the editor:

Is Mr. Street honestly trying to tell "any reasonable person" that a nation of 2 million people is using aggressive means against thirteen nations with a combined population of twenty million people? Is he trying to convince "any reasonable person" that a nation armed with WWII vintage tanks, trucks and guns is actually going to declare war on a strong alliance armed with some of the best military equipment in the world?

Is he actually trying to tell "any reasonable person" that one of the world's smallest nations (one that had to fight for its independence) is tired of existing as one and "dared" a military superior to take action against her?

Yes, I agree that an aggressive nation "cannot, must not and will not succeed." But Israel an aggressor — GARBAGE!

Steve Lazerawid

Collegian Photo by Richard S. Kline

A SECRET MILITARY BASE ON CAMPUS? No, this is not the entrance to an underground missile base, but one of the entrances to the new administration building, Whitmore Hall. The building has been dubbed Fort Lederle by some of the newspapers. President Lederle quipped at Convocation that he would accept the honor of having the building named in his honor.

NOTICES

STUDENT ZIONIST ORGANIZATION
Wednesday, Nov. 15, at 8:30 p.m. in the Middlesex Room, Student Union, the UMass Chapter of SZO will present Mr. Chaim Hadomi, Consul of Culture at the Israel Consulate, Boston who will lead a discussion entitled "A Sharing of Views on the Future of Arab-Israeli Peace." All who are interested are cordially invited to attend. Refreshments.

WINTER CARNIVAL CONCERT COMMITTEE
Meeting Nov. 16 at 7:30 in the Commonwealth Room, Student Union. If cannot attend please call Pete at 253-5970

COMMUNICATION DISORDERS CLUB
Thurs., Nov. 16 at 7:45 in Bartlett Hall 119. All interested undergraduates are invited to attend. Officers will be elected.

CHEMISTRY LECTURE
"Theoretical and Experimental Studies of Isotope Effects in Quadrupole Resonance" by Professor H. D. Stidham, Department of Chemistry. Tues., Nov. 14, at 11:15 Room 152 Goessmann Laboratory.

GERMAN LECTURE
Professor Walter Muller-Seidel of the University of Pittsburgh will present a lecture in German entitled "Brentanos Symbolisma Uber einige Probleme seiner Lyrik," on Wd., Nov. 15, at 8:30, SBA Room 116. Lecture is sponsored by the UMass Department of Germanic Languages and Literatures. The public is invited.

SCIENCE FICTION CLUB
Tues., Nov. 14, 8 p.m. in Middlesex Rm, Student Union there will be a lecture on ESP by Prof. Emmert of the Dept. of Journalism. Everyone invited, free admission.
Movie "Fahrenheit 451" coming up Dec. 15, 8:30 p.m. Mahar Aud.
Dues for coming semester should be paid.

SCIENCE FICTION CLUB LIBRARY
Mon.-Fri., 6:30-8:30 at 109-111 Hampshire House near SW. Science fiction, magazines, comic books, old examination file, tapes of lectures, and more. Come and relax.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB
Coffee Hour Wed. 6:30 Governor's Lounge SU features India.

INTER-VARISTY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP
Nov 14, 7:00, Memorial Hall, a film "Through Gates of Splendor" will be shown. All welcome.

YOUNG REPUBLICAN CLUB
Meeting Tues., Nov. 14, 8:30 p.m. in Worcester Room A. Election of officers.

UMASS BRIDGE CLUB
Nov. 13, 7:15 in Worcester Room, Student Union. Duplicate bridge games with cash prizes open to all. Entry Fee—50¢

PRE-LAW STUDENTS
On Mon., Nov. 13, Prof. David S. Ruder of Northwestern University Law School will conduct a mock law class in the Converse Administration Building, Amherst College, at 7:45 p.m. All pre-law students are urged to attend this meeting, which will offer valuable insights into several aspects of legal education. Reading material for the class, whose subject is "Fraud in the Purchase and Sale of Stock," is available in the Pre-Law Advisor's office.
Prof. Ruder will be in the Provost's Office at UMass on Tues. afternoon to answer questions about Northwestern.

EQUESTRIAN CLUB
Meeting on Wed., Nov. 15, at 7:30 in Grinnell Arena. Guest Speaker. Refreshments. Open to members and apprentices.

ASTRONOMY DEPARTMENT
There will be a 4-College colloquium on Tues., Nov. 28, at Hasbrouck 20. It will given by Prof. Gerald Hawkins, chairman of the Boston University Astronomy Dept. The subject will be Astro-Archeology.

ESPERANTO CLUB
The Esperanto Club meets tonight at 7:30 in the Plymouth Room, S.U. Discussion of international language problems. All welcome.

AIR FORCE
January graduates apply now. Specialist is in Hampden Room every Tuesday from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. For more information call Sgt. Charles Petrella at main office in Holyoke, collect 536-0546.

LOST AND FOUND
Coat Stolen: Unique dark blue, double breasted wool coat with white lining, bell sleeves, stand-up collar, was removed from the rack near the Ladies' Room outside Student Union Ballroom, Saturday night, November 11. Anyone with information leading to the recovery of the coat please contact Cindy Piccus, 549-0568. Reward.

Lost, a good and opal pin near Boyden and Whitmore. If found, call Barbara, 549-1521.
Found, a grey and white kitten, about 3 months old, Call Dwight Merriam, 304 N. Pleasant Street, 253-2635.

ENGAGEMENTS
Dara Johnson '70, Coolidge, to Ed Westgate, Fair Haven.
Sally Bush '69, 409 Melville, to Julius Lost, a gold and opal pin near Boy-

PINNING
Pamela Perkins '69, Iota Gamma Upsilon, to Dennis O'Leary, grad. student, Penn. State University.

Academic Affairs
Activities
Men's Affairs
Women's Affairs
Public Relations
Ways and Means
Budgets
Finance

Student Government Assn.

NEEDS NON SENATE MEMBERS INTERESTED?

Applications are now available in the

STUDENT SENATE OFFICE

Student Union

UMass Student Blood Drive to Start Tuesday

The UM Student Blood Drive begins tomorrow, November 14, at 11 a.m. in the Commonwealth Room of the Student Union.

Appointment cards have been mailed to all of the 700 students who pledged as donors with the exception of those whose parents have not returned the permission cards.

If you have any questions concerning appointment cards telephone Mrs. Robert Gage at 253-7600 today. Any questions after this can be answered at the Donor Center at the Student Union.

Times of the blood drive are: Tues., Nov. 14, 11 a.m. to 4:45 p.m.; Wed., Nov 15, 10 a.m. to 3:45 p.m.; and Thurs, Nov 16, 9 am. to 2:45 p.m.

Walk-in donors will be accepted beginning Tuesday afternoon. Check at the Registration desk in the Commonwealth Room to determine free times.

WMUA Program Schedule

MONDAY
3:00 pm AFTERNOON A GO GO
5:30 MUSIC THEATER
6:00 INTERNATIONAL SCIENCE REPORT
6:30 NEWS, SPORTS
7:00 EDUCATIONAL FEATURE
8:00 HISTORY OF VIETNAM
8:30 THE ART OF JAZZ
9:30 MUSICALE
11:30 NEWS
11:40 NIGHT SOUNDS
1:00 am NEWS
TUESDAY
3:00 pm AFTERNOON A GO GO
5:30 MUSIC THEATER
6:00 INTERNATIONAL ALMANAC
6:30 NEWS, SPORTS
7:00 BEYOND ANTIQUITY—series concerning the history of man
7:45 SCIENCE, PEACE, AND SURVIVAL
8:00 HISTORY OF VIETNAM
8:30 FOLK SPOTLIGHT
9:30 MUSICALE
11:30 NEWS
11:40 NIGHT SOUNDS
1:00 am NEWS
WEDNESDAY
3:00 pm AFTERNOON A GO GO
5:30 MUSIC THEATER
6:00 UNITED NATIONS REPORTS
6:30 NEWS, SPORTS
7:00 SOUTHWEST FOCUS
8:00 NEWS
8:05 THE ART OF JAZZ
9:30 MUSICALE
11:30 NEWS
11:40 NIGHT SOUNDS
1:00 am NEWS
THURSDAY
3:00 pm AFTERNOON A GO GO
5:30 MUSIC THEATER
6:00 EDUCATIONAL FEATURE
6:30 NEWS, SPORTS
7:00 EDUCATIONAL FEATURE
8:00 NEWS
8:05 FOLK SPOTLIGHT
9:30 MUSIC THROUGH THE AGES—series concerning the chronological history of classical music
11:30 NEWS
11:40 NIGHT SOUNDS
1:00 am NEWS
FRIDAY
3:00 pm AFTERNOON A GO GO
5:30 MUSIC THEATER
6:00 EDUCATIONAL FEATURE
6:30 NEWS, SPORTS
7:00 OLD TUNES SHOW
8:30 FRIDAY NIGHT SURVEY SHOW—brand new top 30 survey is "broken out"
1:00 am NEWS
SATURDAY
9:00 am CHILDREN'S HOUR
10:00 NEWS
10:05 SWINGING SATURDAY
1:00 pm SPORTS SPOTLIGHT
1:15 FOOTBALL UMASS AT UNH
4:00 NEWS
4:05 THE ART OF JAZZ
7:00 THE SOUNDS OF NOW
8:00 NEWS
8:05 STANDING ROOM ONLY — country and western music by request
11:00 NEWS
11:05 NIGHT RIDE—WMUA's all-request program
SUNDAY
10:00 am SOUNDS OF SUNDAY
12:00 NEWS OF THE WEEK IN REVIEW
12:30 POETS' CORNER
1:00 SHOWCASE—show music by request
4:00 MUSICALE
6:30 SUNDAY EVENING DRAMA —feature to be announced
8:00 THE MANION FORUM
8:30 CLASSICS—classical music by request

Nixon Limits GOP Candidates For President to Five

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon limited the field of potential candidates for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination Sunday to five men, including himself.

He named the others as New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Michigan Gov. George Romney, California Gov. Ronald Reagan and Illinois Sen. Charles H. Percy.

"It will be one of these five," the 1960 nominee said.

Nixon offered the assessment in a copyrighted interview in U.S. News & World Report.

In the Beatles song, "All You Need Is Love", the word love is sung 137 times, according to a researcher on the Daily Collegian staff.

Placement Office Slates Lectures And Interviews

For the month of November, the Placement Office has two events scheduled. The first will be held Thursday in Bartlett Auditorium at 11:15 a.m. At this time, all students who are interested in graduate school will meet. The speaker will be Dean Edward C. Moore of the Graduate School. There will be an informal question and answer period.

The second event is Federal Career Day, which will take place on Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom. Twenty one federal agencies will be represented, offering a wide variety of job opportunities from social work to defense.

A requirement for federal employment is the federal service entrance exam. Students interested may take a walk-in exam at 1 p.m. in Mahar Auditorium Saturday.

AMHERST COLLEGE . . .

(Continued from page 3)

cluded service as a counsel to the Senate Committee to Investigate Organized Crime and to the Subcommittee on Study of Monopoly Power of the House Judiciary Committee.

Mr. Goldstein graduated from Amherst College in the Class of 1939. He then reecived his bachelor of law degree from Georgetown University in 1947 ad a doctorate of juridical science from the University of Wisconsin in 1956.

THE BLOB
Starring STEVE McQUEEN
and
MR. MAGOO
MAHAR AUD.
Nov. 13 8:30 50c

MDC CLASSIFIED

AUTOMOBILE

1967 Opel Kadette 60 h.p., 4 speed, R/H, 7 Mo. old; All Guarantees active — Excellent condition; selling for Sports Car. Excellent economy car 32 m.p.g. New $2,185 Best reasonable offer 584-4198

1955 Oldsmobile 4-door hardtop, power steering & brakes, $50.00 or best offer. Call Greg at 549-1443. If no answer, 253-9167.

(want larger car)
1964 Triumph Spit-Fire Mark II Black, R and H, Tonnedu Cover, 2 Spare Tires plus Snow-Tire. $975 or will swap for sedan (Ford, Chev., etc.). Contact Jim Cooman, 418 Thatcher 5-2618 or 5-2519

'60 Chevrolet 6 cyl., auto. trans., good tires. Call Carl 665-2843 after 7 p.m. $75 or best offer.

WANTED

Roommate wanted to share apartment with 2 grad students. 2 big rooms, kitchen & bathroom. ± $50 a month 85 Amity St., Amherst Call Hank Wondergem, 253-7001

For Quick Results . . .
TRY OUR
CLASSIFIED ADS.

LOST

Lost: large male cat, all yellow, vicinity of North Pleasant and McClellan Streets Reward, Linda Smith, 296 North Pleasant Street, Room Number 7.

FOR RENT

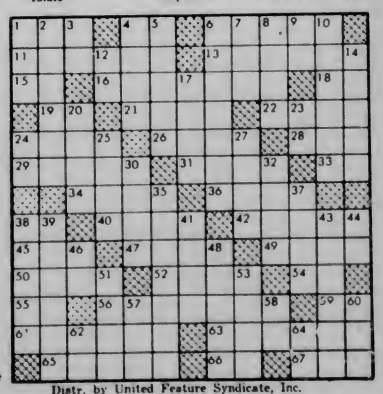
24 feet Room
Refrigerator, cooking facilities, center of town.
Leader Rooms
159 North Pleasant St.
Apply at Bowling Alley.
$16 a week

PERSONAL

I would like to express my thanks to those responsible for the success of my birthday party, and to Dr. Rosenau. I would also like to thank the following for the gift: Joe Reeves, Phil Bellino, Ed Rousanet, Fred Gardner, Douglas Henry, John Forest, Paul Parent, Bruce Dunlap, Cal Saulnier, and Dana Whitman and Patricia Hughes for the wonderful cake and the housemother of Crabtree for the decorations. Thank you.

FOR SALE

2 MOTORCYCLES
1965 BSA Road Rocket 650 C.C. $625.
1959 Triumph 650 C.C. $475.
Call evenings 665-2976



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

AMAS PAR MORO
SECT ARE ARAN
PARALLEL NAVE
STELE SADDLES
LES TEA
ERI SPLINTERS
LISP LIV ERIE
DOMINATES APT
RES SUM
BREATHE LOADS
AUNT ILLUSION
ALOE NIB EDNA
LESS GAS SEEP

ACROSS
1-Mountain in Crete
4-Babylonian deity
6-Rents
11-Fame
13-Worn away
15-Indefinite article
16-Irritates
18-Chinese mile
19-Pronoun
21-Harvest
22-Girl's name
24-Wife of Zeus
26-Hurried
28-Lamprey
29-Dropsy
31-Ireland
33-Rupees (abbr.)
34-Incline
36-Dirk
38-Civil Service (abbr.)
40-Expires
42-Stories
45-Chapeau
47-Woody plant
49-Be borne
50-Word of sorrow
52-Death rattle
54-Three-toed sloth
55-Noun suffix occurring in names of diseases
56-Advance
59-Preposition
61-More pungent
63-Made of gold
65-Partners
66-Printer's measure
67-Poem

DOWN
1-Man's name
2-Negated
3-Indefinite article
4-Pitcher
5-Poker stakes
6-Assistants
7-Anger
8-Flower
9-Man's nickname
10-Dealer
12-Preposition
14-Indicators
17-Bind
20-Allowance for waste
23-French article
24-Pronoun
25-Among
27-Force
30-Landed
32-Approach
35-Frights
37-Lamb's pen name
38-Seat
39-Oriental salute
41-Juncture
43-Prepared for print
44-Compass point
46-Symbol for tantalum
48-Encomium
51-Part of fireplace
53-Short jacket
57-Female ruff
58-Spanish article
60-Number
62-Symbol for calcium
64-Note of scale

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Art Exhibit to Be Held at Amherst Unitarian Church

The first one-man show by Christopher Kressy, a member of the art faculty at UMass, is scheduled to open at the Unitarian Church of Amherst Wednesday and continue through 15.

Sponsored by the Unitarian Society of Amherst, the show will consist of twenty paintings and drawings completed by Kressy during the last year. The exhibition, to be hung in the conference room of the church, will be open to the public from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., Monday through Friday.

A native of New York, Kressy received his early art training at the Rhode Island School of Design in Providence. After receiving a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree in 1958, he joined the Army and spent three years in Germany where he became acquainted with contemporary trends in European art.

Later, as a candidate for a Master of Fine Arts degree at the Yale School of Art and Architecture, Kressy studied closely with the internationally known printmaker Gabor Peterdi and the currently exhibiting New York City painter Philip Pearlstein.

Presently represented in the biennial Library of Congress traveling exhibition and a member of the Silvermine Guild of Artists, Kressy recently took top honors in an exhibition of contemporary painting and sculpture held at the Springfield Museum of Fine Arts and sponsored by the Springfield Art League.

In addition he has received numerous awards including prizes from nationally known art competitions as well as two research grants from the University of Massachusetts. He is also represented in many private collections.

Kressy's show at the Unitarian Church is part of a program initiated three years ago by the Unitarian Society of Amherst. Under the direction of Mrs. Frances Cushing Hall, the exhibits strive to "acquaint the members of the society and the community with the leading artists of the four-college area."

Amherst Not 'Arena for Action,' President Tells Student Body

Properly invited speakers and recruiters of all persuasions should be allowed to come to the Amherst College campus, President Calvin H. Plimpton believes.

"Dissent and demonstrations are fine," he told a student assembly in Johnson Chapel, "but physical obstructions to man's 'right to knowledge and free use thereof' cannot be tolerated."

President Plimpton spoke out a week after a group of students blocked the access of an Army recruiter to a campus building.

Plimpton declared that if we "allow one segment of our community to decide who may or may not present his ideas or make his appeals, then we are well on the way to a totalitarian state, McCarthyism, and thought control."

At the same time he emphasized that "a majority vote in a referendum should not interfere with minority rights" and that "both the majority and minority groups have an almost sacred right to information and opinion."

His remarks followed the decision to place on disciplinary probation for the remainder of the current academic year the students who blocked access of the Army recruiter to Valentine Hall, the campus dining commons, which has been used in the past by agencies and groups which sought to make a wide appeal to the student body.

President Plimpton stressed that while the College should properly provide a forum for discussion, it is "not an arena for action" nor does it take positions on particular issues.

"In the first place," he said, this is because once the institution has taken an official position on a specific issue, additional discussion may be precluded, constrained, or impaired. Secondly, while faculty and students are obligated to become informed and to seek out opinions for themselves, the time and efforts of the Trustees or Overseers of an institution as a corporate body are better engaged in providing the forum, and in supporting educating aspects of the institution."

Dr. Plimpton continued:

"I have listened to a great many ideas expressed here and to some of them my repugnance was extreme, either because the intellectual content was low, the moral position inferior, or because the notoriety of the speaker had extorted an exorbitant fee from gullible students. Still, these people, while odious to me personally did not damage the College or me, and certainly their presence never gave anyone the impression that the College supported the Communist Party.

"It is crucial to our vitality that we do not allow one segment to tell us whom we may hear and with whom we may consult."

Concluding he said, "There is no prineple and no philosophy that cannot be discussed and if valid will not be strengthened by such a discussion. I assume there will be additional discussions on this, but I wanted you to know my belief that 'man's right to knowledge and the free use thereof' is vital to a liberal arts college."

The College had earlier adopted a statement of policy with respect to campus visits by representatives of graduate and professional schools, businesses, industries, military services, government agencies, and others which states in part:

". . . the right of free speech and dissent do not extend to physical interference with the legitimate activities of any visiting group. Neither should the exercise of these rights by some be used to inhibit the free access of other students to any visiting individual or group.

Daily Collegian

Hotline

545-2550

How to interview 130 companies in half an hour.

Talk to the man from General Electric. He represents 130 separate GE "companies" that deal in everything from space research to electric toothbrushes. We call them product departments. Each one is autonomous with its own management and business objectives. That's why a job at General Electric offers the kind of immediate responsibility you might expect to find only in a small business. Right from the start you get a chance to demonstrate your initiative and individual capabilities. And the more you show us, the faster you will move ahead. As you do, you'll find that you don't necessarily have to spend a lifetime working on the same job in the same place. We have operations all over the world. Chances are you'll get to try your hand at more than one of them. Our interviewer will be on campus soon. If you're wondering whether it's possible to find challenging work in big business, please arrange to see him. He speaks for 130 "companies."

GENERAL ELECTRIC

An equal opportunity employer

JACK BATES

BSME, State U. of NY (Buffalo), moved up through a series of job training assignments after joining the Bethlehem Loop Course. Now he's Chief Process Control Analyst at our Lackawanna Plant, near Buffalo. Jack's group is responsible for applying computer techniques to control outputs of many operations.

MANAGEMENT MINDED?

Career prospects are better than ever at Bethlehem Steel. We need on-the-ball engineering, technical, and liberal arts graduates for the 1968 Loop Course. Pick up a copy of our booklet at your placement office.

An Equal Opportunity Employer in the Plans for Progress Program

BETHLEHEM STEEL

Christian Fellowship to Sponsor Film of Ecuadorian Missionaries

Through Gates of Splendor, a film which depicts the story of the five young missionaries who died at the hands of the savage Auca Indians in Ecuador, will be shown at 7 p.m. tomorrow at Memorial Hall.

This is the authentically filmed story which stirred millions of readers as it appeared in Life and Reader's Digest. It was also the theme of 6 books, and it was reported on radio and television.

The movie is narrated by Betty Elliot, author of Through Gates of Splendor and The Savage, My Kinsman. With her small daughter, she has lived among the savages who killed her husband. Much of this film was taken by her husband and other men shortly before they were killed.

The campus has been invited to see this story of martyrdom and triumph sponsored by Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship.

S.E.N.D.O.F.F. TICKETS

Tickets for SOPHOMORES will be on sale Tuesday, November 14 at the reduced rates. Tuesday will be the only day on which Sophomores will be able to purchase tickets at the reduced prices. Only one ticket can be purchased per Sophomore ID.

Arabs List Peace Proposals

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)— The Arabs' new peace-with-Israel line stood out Sunday as a major factor in the U.N. Security Council's Middle East debate as King Hussein of Jordan, its chief exponent, wound up a 10-day U.S. visit.

The king had a seat on a night plane for Paris. He planned to spend 10 days in private visits to Paris and London on his way back to Amman.

His minister of state for foreign affairs, Abdul Monem Rifa'i, was listed to speak to the Security Council on Monday, after Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban.

Minister Rifa'i was expected to repeat the main points Hussein made in his U.S. appearances: that the Arabs generally want Israel to withdraw from territories it took from Egypt, Jordan and Syria in the war of last June 5-10 but that they also want a "lasting peaceful settlement."

Such a settlement would mean the end of the state of belligerency all the Arab countries have maintained against Israel since the Jewish state was created amid the Arab-Israeli war of 1948.

PEANUTS ®

By Charles M. Schulz

THE S. U. DANCE COMMITTEE

presents

THE VANILLA FUDGE

THE MAZE

8:00 P. M.--FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 17

STUDENT UNION BALLROOM

Tickets: 75c in advance or $1.00 at door

TICKETS MAY BE PURCHASED AT S. U. TICKET OFFICE

Redmen Crush Rutgers 30-7

Landry Breaks Rushing Mark in Home Farewell

(Continued from page 1)

When Ed Sherman's conversion narrowly missed a passing campus police car, the Redmen knew this was their lucky day.

In the second quarter, a 12-yard run by Landry and a 17-yard pass play to Grasso helped bring the ball to the Rutgers four, from which point Hairston did the Freddy into the endzone again.

Rutgers showed its generosity wasn't a one-half thing. Halfway through the third quarter, the Knights were lodged deep in their own territory by a coffin-corner punt by Nick Warnock, who plays the angles like Fast Eddie in "The Hustler." Van Ness narrowly missed being tackled in the endzone on a sweep, but a reverse on the next play ended with Kent Stevens and Paul Campbell racking up wingback Jim Baker on the diagonal strips for a two-point safety.

Rutgers kicked off from the 20 and Hairston's 19-year return promptly put UMass back in business at midfield. Two rushes by Landry ate up 15 yards, and the quarterback then dropped a balloon from on high to Grasso for a 35-yard touchdown.

Ed Sherman's kick was his 19th straight successful conversion, tying the UMass record of 23, held by assistant coach John Bamberry and Jerry Whelchel.

The visitors finally put an 80-yard drive together in the last quarter for a score but not before the UMass defense had extended its string of shut-out periods to an unlucky 13. Passes by Van Ness to Pete Savino helped set up a one-yard plunge by Don Riesett.

It was Veterans' Day in more ways than one as a dozen UMass seniors walked off the Stadium turf for the last time.

Smoke Signals—Bruce Gombar, who had been working out all week at offensive center in addition to his normal middle guard duties, won the game ball although Noel Schablik and Bob Sheehan split the center chores . . . It was the Redmen's best performance of the season, said Coach Vic Fusia. "This is the strongest team Rutgers has fielded all year," he said of the team that lost to Army by only 14-3. "Our action pass blocking is better than our drop-back pass blocking," he noted . . . Cornerback Mike McArdle suffered a severe leg injury early in the second quarter and underwent surgery Sunday in Cooley Dickinson Hospital in Northampton . . . Rutgers coach John Bateman, who looks like a sawed-off Jackie Gleason, was unhappy with both the offense and defense of his charges. "I knew they'd be tough," he said of the Redmen, "but we thought we'd give them a real good football game. Mr. Landry is certainly everything they say about him. The first two touchdowns stunned us and we never got back on track." He said he was impressed by Grasso, Warnock, punt returner Steve Parnell, defensive end Paul Mlinar and lineback Ernie Smith. Rutgers plays Holy Cross next Saturday in New Jersey.

Daily Collegian Photo by John Kelly

EASY DOES IT — UMass safetyman Steve Rogers (40) gets ready to intercept a deflected Bruce Van Ness pass in action on Saturday. The intended receiver was Jim Baker (25) while Redman defender Dennis Gray (64) looks on.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
Sports
MONDAY, NOV. 13, 1967
Page 8 Vol. XCVI, No. 46

UMass Beaten at Night

Little Redmen Routed By Connecticut, 34-7

By PETE CARROLL
Staff Reporter

UMass' little Redmen went looking for a scalping at Storrs Friday night, but the little Huskies did all the scalping—to the tune of 34-7.

The team, now 1-4 on the year, didn't play well and fell behind quickly. They lost the game on bad breaks at the beginning, many of which UConn capitalized on. The UMass freshmen fumbled six times and UConn turned three into touchdowns.

In coach Dave Kelley's words, "They beat us." It was that simple. Kelley added that no one looked real good for UMass. The sole bright spot came in the fourth quarter when, with the game already out of reach, quarterback Dick Dyer hit Pat Scavone with a 50 yard scoring toss.

UConn's freshman team was considered their best ever. They were 0-3, going into Friday's tilt, but they put it all together and really layed into UMass. The Huskies had an awesome defensive front line with the smallest man being 6'2, 220 pounds.

The little Redmen lost five players during the course of the game: Neil Hering, Pat Scavone, Bob Toole, Dick Hogg and Ed Flaim. None were seriously injured and all should be ready for the teams final game next Friday when the team hosts the powerful and undefeated UNH freshman team.

Coach Kelley was still optimistic about the teams finale. He said the boys saw what the breaks can mean Friday at UConn, and most of them saw what the varsity did with its breaks against Rutgers Saturday. "Even though we've been discouraged, we'll regroup for this (the UNH) game and really surprise some people."

Game Stats

	Rutgers	UMass
First Downs	16	18
Rushing Yardage	106	194
Passing Yardage	99	99
Passes	8-12-2	8-13-1
Punts	6-35	5-31
Fumbles Lost	1	0
Yards Penalized	67	84

NE Meet Today

With a fine season already behind them, the freshman cross-country team travels today to Franklin Park, Boston in quest of the New England championship. With its two aces Ron Wayne and Leo Duart the keys, UM is conceded an excellent chance of victory.

CEPEDA LIKES FENWAY

During the hot American League race, St. Louis Cardinal star Orlando Cepeda was asked which team he was rooting for.

"Fenway Park," said Orlando, envisioning that friendly left field wall.

Daily Collegian Photo by Bob Goscrimski

GET THAT BALL!—A loose ball is the result of a jarring tackle upon Rutgers quarterback Bruce Van Ness by Bruce Gombar (53). The ball was recovered by UMass defensive end Tom York (84). The fumble, which occurred in the opening moments of the game, led to UMass' first touchdown.

Defeat Coast Guard

Booters Snap Losing Streak with 6-3 Victory

By TOM CONUEL
Staff Reporter

Snapping a four game losing streak in the process, the UMass soccer team defeated the Coast Guard Academy, 6-3, Friday afternoon, in the Redmen's final home appearance of the season. The win was the first for UMass outside of the Yankee Conference.

The weather was cold, but the Redmen, led by co-captain Gerry Cellilli, were red hot. The Coast Guard team, as expected, showed a real weakness on defense.

Cellilli, a senior from Ludlow, Mass., got UMass off to a quick start with a goal on a penalty kick early in the first quarter. Tommy Ward, another senior, quickly made the score, 2-0, when he booted in a goal from the side.

Cellillini then added his second goal of the day in the second quarter, followed by Ward's notching of his second score.

Coast Guard picked up a goal in the second quarter but it was not enough to even keep the game close as Sam Melnick fired in the Redmen's fifth goal late in the second quarter.

At the half UMass led, 5-1. The second half saw the Coast Guard team make a game effort to comeback. Early in the third quarter, however, Melnick booted in his second score of the day, boosting the UMass edge to, 6-1.

After this score, the Coast Guard fought back. Led by Thorne and Quigley, the men from New London took the offensive against the Redmen. A penalty kick and another goal brought the score to 6-3. However, after Coast Guard's final score, neither team was able to mount an attack and the game ended in a UMass triumph, 6-3.

Opponents in Heavy Slate

Exploding for a 21 point last quarter, The University of Rhode Island defeated the winless Black Bears of Maine, 34-12, in a Yankee Conference game. Brent Kaufman scored twice to lead the Rams.

Dartmouth kept its flickering Ivy League title hopes alive with a rugged 13-7 victory over Columbia. The Indians held Columbia three times within their own one yard line to preserve the win.

Boston University ended its disappointing season by defeating the University of Connecticut, 21-12, at Boston. The victory, ending a six game losing streak for the Terriers, was keyed by a three interception performance by Dick Farley.

The University of Vermont defeated its interstate rival Middlebury, 21-7. Quarterback Paul Simpson led the Catamounts with three touchdown passes.

The University of New Hampshire had little trouble defeating Springfield College, 21-0, at Springfield. Two-time scorer Tom Kasprzak and quarterback Ed Walsh led the Wildcats to victory.

Hundreds of nuns praying and thousands of alumni praying, could not prevent the low-flying Eagles of Boston College from being defeated by VMI, 26-13.

Intramurals

The 1967 Intramural Basketball season opens tonight with a full slate of games. The teams will be striving for the campus championship, won last year by TEP.

Court	Time	Teams
1	6:30	ASP-TKE
2		AEP-DC
3		PMD-LCA
4		Broncos-Grants
5		Cherries-Birch
6		Chestnuts-Bears
1	7:30	QTV-SAM
2		PSK-ATC
3		PSD-PLP
4		Hawks-Buffaloes
5		Hemlocks-Rams
6		Redwoods-Panthers
1	8:30	Elms-Maples
2		Hicks-Hoovers
3		Trojans-Oaks
4		Pines-Hi-Lo's
1	9:30	TEP-TC
2		ZN-APO
3		SPE-BKP
4		Lemons-Limes
5		Maroons-Aces
6		Eagles-Phallics

BOWLING

Lane	Time	Teams
1&2	6:30	SAM-PMD
3&4		LCA-PLP
5&6		QTV-TKE
7&8		SPE-BKP
1&2	8:30	AEP-PSD
3&4		TEP-DC
5&6		ASP-ZN
7&8		National Bouncing "F"-Dell Viking

Redmen on the Warpath

CROSS-COUNTRY (Fr.) — New England Championships (at Franklin Park, Boston, today, 10:30 a.m.)

A ROW AT CLEMSON

Clemson football coach and athletic director Frank Howard wasn't too receptive when approached for financial aid for a proposed rowing team.

"Clemson," says Howard, "will never subsidize a sport where a man sits on his tail and goes backwards."

FORECAST
CLOUDY
AND COOLER

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

NEW ENGLAND'S
LARGEST COLLEGE
DAILY

VOL. XCVI, NO. 47 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1967

Image-Making Disliked By UMass Image-Makers

By RICHARD LANE
Staff Reporter

Evan Johnston of the Alumni Office said it best: "You can't create an image in public relations."

And that's just what the Daily Collegian discovered in a study of "image-making" at the University.

To get several opinions on the subject, the newspaper surveyed five persons in charge of communications or public relations organizations on campus.

* * *

QUESTIONED were: Dan Melley, University News Service; Robert McCartney, director of University Relations; Kenneth H. Walker, University Publications, and Mrs. Leone Barron, director of University Press.

Results of that survey revealed a general consensus that image and image-making are misunderstood, misused and disliked. And most important of all, interviewees stated their individual beliefs that, neither they nor their organizations, but it is the educational institution which creates an image.

"You can't promote an institution and make it look better than it is without getting caught," stated News Editor Melley.

Mr. Melley added that as for image," You can't create one." And unless a story involves an individual student's rights or some internal matter of the University, Melley's service "doesn't try to suppress anything that's news."

* * *

"I DON'T BELIEVE it's a good word in public relations," said University Secretary McCartney, who directs university relations. "You only have to be caught once in a distortion to fall flat on your face," he added.

Mrs. Barron of University Press feels that the only way an image can possibly be built around an institution is by "concentrating seriously on its quality."

* * *

THE CLOSEST THING from his organization that could be considered an "image piece" is Pres. Lederle's annual report published by Walker's UNW Publications Staff. The report is first roughed out by the president, then drafted and designed by the Publications staff and finally presented to the Board of Trustees.

According to Walker, the report's purpose is to take an "overall look at the accomplishments of the entire University and progress of the last year."

"People deserve to read the truth," stated Walker, and because of this "the worse thing you can do is to create fictions."

* * *

"I HATE the word image. It is overused," feels Johnston, executive vice-president of the Alumni Office who directs the Alumni Bulletin. He said that this word gives the impression of "building a facade" and that if an institution is doing something well it should "let the world outside know of it".

"There are just too many intelligent people with whom we are dealing," said Sec. McCartney.

* * *

THE PUBLIC'S REACTION? none of the UMass organizations is criticized much for the quality or type of information being released, but rather for the amount.

Blood Needed For Student With Leukemia

Miles McPherson '70 is a victim of the disease, leukemia. He has been at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital for three weeks and is in urgent need of blood.

The annual Campus Blood Drive is being held Thursday at the Student Union and students are asked to donate their blood then. Any type of blood is acceptable as it is the plate-lets which will be filtered and used.

McPherson was the president of his Beverly High School class and a member of the football team there. At UMass he is a member of the Special Forces, and a brother of Zeta Nu fraternity.

Any potential donor under 21 must have written parental permission, and all donors are asked to specify that they wish their blood to be used for McPherson.

Daily Collegian
STAFF
MEETING
Thursday 7:30 P.M.
Colonial Lounge

Mademoiselle Magazine yesterday held a makeup demonstration where coeds were given the opportunity to have modeling interviews. Four were chosen and will appear in a later issue.

Professors Protest Hershey's Draft Stand

WASHINGTON (CPS) — The American Association of the University Professors has strongly protested a directive by Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey that persons involved in disruptive antiwar protests should be drafted first.

AAUP president Clark Byse, a professor at the Harvard University Law School and Dr. Bertram H. Davis, AAUP's general secretary, sent a telegram to Hershey protesting the directive as it may affect college and university teachers and students.

Hershey's statement regarding the protestors was made in a letter referred to persons who protest the war and the draft by disrupting army induction centers or keeping military recruiters from conducting interviews.

The AAUP said Hershey has set forth a standard which would permit local boards to induct persons for exercising their constitutionally quaranteed freedoms of speech and assembly. "The mere existence of this undefined power to use the draft as a punitive instrument must therefore have a chilling effect upon academic freedom and free speech and assembly as guaranteed by the First Amendment."

The telegram also said the conduct of some members of the academic community may be

(Continued on page 2)

'Bush' Here?

Hadley Man Sights Lion

By BILL DICKINSON
Staff Reporter

This may sound ridiculous—but there's supposed to be a lion running around Hadley. One resident even took a shot at it Sunday night. Of course he did!

Carl Chmura and a friend were pulling into the driveway at 71 Lawrence Rd. when they saw something in the headlights—they say it was a lion, mane and all. Chmura followed it out into a pasture and fired at it. He missed.

According to Chmura's sister, this wasn't the first time they have been visited by the big furry thing. They saw him last Tuesday but failed to report it "because people might not believe us." However, this time they did report it. As a result, state, and Hadley police and men from the game commission were out beating the "bush" behind the Chmura home the following morning. But they only found two squirrels and a few catbirds.

A state police spokesman reported "negative" on all reports. When asked about the reports that a lion or two may have escaped from one of the local wild animal farms, he said, "They're just rumors."

One theory advanced by knowledgable sources is that Mr. Chmura might have seen one of the campus hippies out communing with nature.

Testimony Heard in Garjian Case; Court Delays Final Decision

By JAMES FOUDY
Senior Reporter

The UMass General Court of Justice heard two and one-half hours of testimony last night in the case of Mike Garjian, Homecoming Committee Chairman, charged with acting out of authority in the hiring of "After the Third World Rasberry," a psychedelic light and sound show presented Homecoming Weekend.

Although the Court reached a decision by 12:30 a.m. they refused to release it to Garjian until a formal recommendation had been written up. The date for announcement of the decision is next Monday.

The show in question included a dancer that appeared clad in cloth polka dots. The charges brought by Associate Dean of Students Dr. Mark Noffsinger, allege that Garjian had misrepresented his authority as chairman by possessing prior knowledge of the show's content which he did not reveal for fear that University officials would withhold approval.

The Court, consisting of 12 students representing the combined Men's and Women's Judiciary, retired from the crowded Council Chambers at 10 p.m. to decide a verdict.

The official charge falls under Section II, paragraph three of the Code of Student Conduct which designates that a student representing the University or any RSO group "without the specific prior consent of the officials that group is viewed as improper student conduct" which may result in penalty.

Isidore Silver, Garjian's defense attorney and faculty member at UMass, brought witnesses who testified that the Homecoming Committee had sanctioned Garjian's signing of the contract and that he had not misrepresented the wishes of the Committee.

According to Silver, the charge dealt specifically with Garjian's authority to negotiate a contract and does not involve any question of the content of the show. However, the Court's questions to Garjian and witnesses showed a concern with the chairman's "prior knowledge" of the act.

Both Larry Marcus, publicity chairman for the committee and Bob Gorman, Daily Collegian reporter who handled the paper's coverage of the weekend, said that in their opinion Garjian was unaware that the dancer would be "nude."

Faculty Group Plans Draft Symposium Here

The Faculty Group on Peace and War will sponsor A Symposium on Selective Service and the War on Thursday, November 16, at 8 p.m. in room 120 of the School of Business Administration.

The purpose of the symposium, according to Miss Barbara Adams, an instructor in the English department and member of the Faculty Group on Peace and War, is "to help form a more responsible opinion on the draft." An attempt will be made to "inform the University community how the draft is operating in this war as opposed to the past and to bring out the opionions on this particular draft," she continued.

Members of the Symposium will include Thomas H. Lindeman, a campus minister who will serve as panel moderator. Paul Fischer, a faculty member of the UMass Government Department with a 1-A status, will explain his views as a man "caught by the system." Another Government Department faculty member, Jerome King, will discuss whether it is possible or desirable to have a political conscience and to be a selective conscientious objector.

Edward Lawton, chairman of the History Department at Williston Academy, outspoken in his defense of the Vietnam policy, will speak about the history of the draft and its necessity. Isadore Silver of the UMass School of Business Administration and a Civil Liberties Union legal consultant will talk on the viability of civil liberties in such a crisis. Mr. Silver believes that "conscription in time of peace is false."

The Symposium, which will be open to the public without charge, hopes to "educate and provide an open form for discussion" on this controversial and heated issue.

Amherst Considers Radar Traffic Control

The use of radar for traffic control was considered at the Amherst town board meeting for presentation at the annual town meeting.

A stop sign request will be submitted to the DPU for Amity St. and University Drive; no-parking regulations have been assigned from 8-5 p.m. on Lincoln Ave. from Fearing to McClellan St. The latter action was taken following a a poll of the residents of the area.

World News Roundup
From the Wires of the Associated Press

LONDON—A gang of cool and expert burglars using an up-to-date thermal lance flame cutter broke into the London strong room of a giant chain store co-operative over the weekend and got away with a fortune in gems and cash.

Detectives who rushed to the London Co-operative Society's headquarters Monday first estimated the haul at $2.8 million.

WASHINGTON — The House rallied to the support of the beleaguered antipoverty program Monday, rejecting a Republican backed effort to cut it by $660 million.

The 159-149 nonrecord vote left intact the $2.06-billion request of President Johnson for carrying on activities of the Office of Economic Opportunity through fiscal 1968.

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. — Heated charges and denials that former child film star Shirley Temple Black resorted to a "last-minute smear attempt" against a strong rival over his stand on the Vietnam war marked the windup Monday of a 10-candidate race for Congress.

The 39-year-old Woodside housewife and most of her nine rivals literally shopped for votes at supermarkets in face-to-face meetings with grocery buyers while the controversy raged.

Journalists Hit U. S. Officials For 'Misleading the Public'

CHICAGO (AP) — Sigma Delta Chi's national Freedom of Information Committee said Sunday that some of the highest officials of the Johnson administration have been "deliberately misleading the public, the press and the Congress through flat lies, through half-truths and through clever use of statistics that distort."

The report said that the administration consistently used "inaccurate and misleading statements and contradicted most of the fine word" President Johnson has spoken on freedom of information.

President Johnson's press conferences, the report said, are conducted in such a way as to make it "unlikely that he will face consistent, hard questioning. He has it well organized for a White House snow job."

The report, leveling sharpest thrusts at the State Department, Defense Department and National Aeronautics and Space Administration, was released in advance of the 18,000-member professional journalism society's convention, which opens Wednesday in Minneapolis, Minn.

The report questioned the State Department's decision in conducting a "'secret hearing" in the effort to fire Otto F. Otepka, former chief security evaluator. He was accused of improperly leaking information to congressional committees.

The report said: "A study of this case makes it obvious that the State Department was misusing a claim of national security for purposes of hiding or obscuring the record."

The Sigm Delta Chi committee applauded the Defense Department's abolishment of a 1962 rule requiring all Pentagon officials to report all contacts with the press, but the report added: "The Defense Department continues to be the Washington reporter's biggest single challenge."

The report quoted a Washington correspondent: "Not only is 'national security' interpreted in the broadest and most ingenious ways to block infomation, but information is withheld for national interest, personal interest, policy reasons, and privilege for such evanescent and intangible reasons as LBJ won't like it."

Cramming Eliminated By New Testing Method

In light of a new method of examination developed by Dr. Paul E. Fields of the University of Washington, conventional methods of testing may become a thing of the past.

Dr. Fields, a psychology professor, has developed a method of examination that teaches while it tests. His examinations, proved effective by three years of trial in the courses he teaches, eliminate the guessing factor common to most objective examinations.

Part of his method involves making a good number of exam questions available to students before testing.

Dr. Fields, experience has shown that students learn more with less effort using these tests. He stated that "when students are not held down by an arbitrary grading curve based on the class average, they are highly motivated to achieve perfection"

The Fields tests not only eliminate the tension and frustration of conventional exams but serve the most important purpose of measuring a sudent's knowledge instead of his guessing ability.

CLASS OF 1970
EXECUTIVE COUNCIL MEETING
6 P.M. MAHAR NOV. 19
ALL ATTEND

CLASS MEETING
AT 7:00 P.M.
MAHAR NOV. 19
All members of the Class are cordially invited and urged to attend.
IMPORTANT ISSUES WILL BE DISCUSSED AND DECIDED

SALE
Our Entire Stock of FALL and WINTER CLOTHING REDUCED!
DRESSES - COSTUMES - COATS - SUITS - SWEATERS - SKIRTS - SLACKS
22 GREEN ST. JOHN EVERETT NORTHAMPTON

Winn Jewelers

GLASS BOTTOM PEWTER TANKARD
$8.00

The stand-by youth fare will not be applicable on Nov. 22, Nov. 26
Dec. 15-24
Jan. 2-4
If you plan to fly home, book reservations now because flights are filling up fast.
Some flights already filled
• A $2.00 deposit is required for all students booking reservations.
Peter Pan Travel Service Inc.
The Summerlin Building
79 South Pleasant Street
Amherst Phone: 256-6704

For Sale.
Dramatic package: William Wycherly, Anton Chekhov, G. B. Shaw, John Osborne, Eugene O'Neill, and a contemporary playwright to be chosen soon. They're part of the first season at Stage/West, Springfield's new all-professional resident theater. We'd like to pass them on to you at very low subscription rates. For $1.50, you may purchase a special STUDENT SUBSCRIPTION CARD, entitling you to purchase regular $3.50 seats for $2.00; and $2.00 seats for only $1.00. That's for performances on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Sunday and a special Saturday showing at 5:00 p.m. What a great deal for six live theatre productions! You'll be seeing "The Country Wife" (which opens November 16), "Uncle Vanya," "Candida", "The Entertainer," a new play, and "Long Day's Journey Into Night." Each play will be performed by a fully-professional company of actors for 3½ weeks. Stage/West is located on the Eastern States Exposition Grounds in West Springfield, just off Route 5. Be sure to obtain a Student Subscription Card NOW by calling Mrs. Barrows at Stage/West, 781-4470. springfield theatre company
stage/west
Box 518, W. Spfld., Mass.

200 Harvard Students Demonstrate Against Government Agency Recruiters

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—More than 200 students, most of them from Harvard, demonstrated Monday against Marine Corps and Institute for Defense Analysis recruiters at Harvard.

No attempt was made by the demonstrators to stop students from being interviewed. Students for a Democratic Society sponsored the demonstrations.

The Institute for Defense Analysis is a private organization supported by 12 universities. It does contract research for the Defense Department.

Some of the demonstrators wore buttons indicating they had been placed on probation for participating in the Nov. 1. protest of Dow Chemical Co. recruiting on campus. Dow manufactures napalm.

Harvard admonished or placed on probation 247 students for taking part in the Dow demonstration which a recruiter was held in a building for about seven hours.

Demonstrators Monday included more than 20 Radcliffe College girls.

Two Harvard freshmen wearing ROTC uniforms counter demonstrated by marching through the picket line.

John B. Fox, Jr., director of the Office of Graduate and Career Plans, said Monday's demonstration did not affect recruiting.

UMass-Boston Group Urges Disregard of Hershey Plan

BOSTON (AP)—The Civil Liberties Union of Massachusetts urged local draft boards Monday to disregard Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey's recommendation that such boards draft students who interfere with military recruitment on campus.

To follow the Selective Service director"s recommendation, the organization said, would be "a patent attempt to use the selective service laws as a form of punishment."

The union's chairman, Gerald A. Berlin of Cambridge, said that drafting men in such circumstances would be "a cynical defiance of the free speech guarantees and due process requirements of the Constitution."

Berlin said anyone so drafted "is certainly welcome to the assistance of the Civil Liberties Union of Massachusetts."

The selection committee for Who's Who among Students In American Colleges and Universities has been selected by James Collins, President of the Student Senate. Following the decision of the Student Senate and Class Officers, as voiced at the last Constitutional Convention, the selection committee will recommend up to thirty-six names for the Who's Who publication.

In order to be considered for nomination, a student must be nominated by another individual or group. The committee is accepting nominations from House Governments, RSO groups, and University members at-large. Each nomination must include a precise rationale for each particular nominee (scholastic standing, group activities, offices held and general contribution to the group or to the University). These rationales will be the sole basis for selection.

Nominations must be mailed no later than November 22. Mail should be sent to Who's Who, RSO Office, Student Union, University of Mass.

Dames Host Annual Auction

The University Dames will hold their annual White Elephant Auction at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday in the Newman Center.

This meeting is open to the public and will feature such items as carnival and cut glass, sets of dishes and jewelry in addition to new items donated by local merchants. All student wives are urged to attend and bring donations to the auction.

For information or transportation call Sally Spilman, chairman of the Service Committee. Coffee and dessert will be served following the auction.

Accounting Association Plans Panel Discussion

This Wednesday night, at eight o'clock, the Account Association is sponsoring a panel discussion in SBA, Room 120. The members of the panel are responsible representatives of their fields of accounting. The fields to be represented are public, industrial, and tax accounting.

Last year's panel discussion was a success and, therefore, the same format will be used. The program consists of twenty-minute speeches by each of the representatives, followed by a question and answer period. A coffee-hour, allowing for informal discussion, will follow in Room 111. The evening is open to all students interested in a closer look at the diverse opportunities offered to Accounting majors.

This year's panel will consist of Mr. Brian Casey, a co-partner in Ernst & Ernst; Mr. R. E. Tousignant, of Firestone Rubber Company; and Mr. George Sarafian, of the Boston office of the Internal Revenue Service. These men were chosen for their competence and experience in their respective fields.

PROF'S PROTEST . . .

(Continued from page 1)

punishable under existing legal or institutional procedures and that the further use of the Selective Service as a punishment violates traditional American due process guarantees and is inimical to the national interest.

"We do not believe that your letter serves the national interest, and we urge that it be promptly rescinded," the telegram said.

Narcotics Discussed at Newman Club

Mr. John Boyle, Sheriff of Hampshire County, will be the guest speaker at the second general meeting of the Newman Club. The meeting will be this Thursday evening, November 16, at 7:15 p.m., in the Newman Center Lounge.

Sheriff Boyle's topic for the evening will be "Narcotics and Their Effects." Also speaking with Sheriff Boyle will be three reformed drug addicts. A discussion period will follow.

The meeting is open to the public, and Sheriff Boyle's talk promises to be interesting and informative. We hope that you will join us.

'THE MOTHER OF VOICES'

an independent student-edited

Community Paper of the 5-College area.

On sale Wednesday, Nov. 15, at the Lobby Counter, Student Union

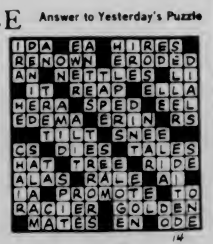
YAHOO LIVES!

GENERAL MEETING TONIGHT 8:30

NORFOLK ROOM, S.U.

PROSPECTIVE MEMBERS and CONTRIBUTORS WELCOME or drop into our office weekdays 10 - 11:00 and 2:30 - 3:30 Franklin Rm., Student Union (they said it couldn't be done)

Campus Wide JUDICIAL CONFERENCE



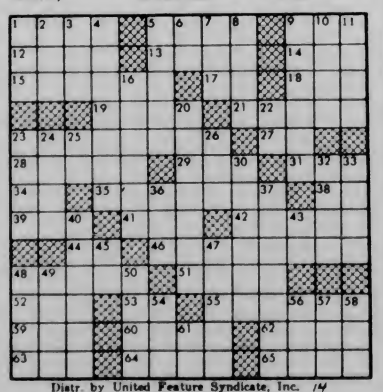
Nov. 18th at 1:00

Student Union Ballroom

All Judiciary Members & Interested Students Are Urged To Attend

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle



ACROSS

1 Three-banded armadillo
5 Cleaning substance
9 Part of face
12 Crippled
13 Unemployed
14 Southern blackbird
15 Censured
17 Parent (colloq.)
18 Possessive pronoun
19 Spanish pot
21 Flower
23 Roomers
27 Compass point
28 Get up
29 Study
31 Pigeon pea
34 Note of scale
35 Eccentric
38 Behold!
39 Cloth measure
41 Offspring
42 Missile weapon
44 Printer's measure
46 Drinking glasses
48 Domesticated
51 Small factory
52 Time gone by
53 Guido's low note
55 Confederacy
59 Writing implement
60 Fashion
62 Secretary of State
63 Paid notices
64 Insects
65 Dirk

DOWN

1 Priest's vestment
2 Crony (colloq.)
3 Wine cup
4 Penitence
5 Move sidewise
6 Hypothetical force
7 High mountain
8 Fuel
9 Incarcerated
10 One opposed
11 Small bunch of straw
16 Church officials
20 Secret
22 Pronoun
23 Reveal
24 City in Russia
25 Three toed sloth
26 Drunkard
30 Eat in small bits
32 Winglike
33 Defeat
36 Decay
37 Part of coat (pl.)
40 Citrus fruit (pl.)
43 French article
45 Pronoun
47 Distance measure (pl.)
48 Bark cloth
49 Ancient
50 Speechless
54 Pedal digit
56 Weapon
57 Employ
58 Piece out
61 Prefix: down

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 14

Friendly ICE CREAM

454 RUSSELL ST—HADLEY

FRIENDLY's is now offering FREE DELIVERY

All you have to do is call 256-8001 between 7:00-8:00

$2.00 MINIMUM

SUNDAES

Sundaes are made with 3 scoops of ice cream and with whipped topping. Marshmallow may be substituted at your request. Special request for nuts 10c extra.

Hot Fudge and others

SWISS CHOCOLATE ALMOND 45

BANANA IMPERIAL 4 scoops of Ice Cream, a whole Banana and heaps of Topping 70

HOT FUDGE ROYAL BANANA ROYAL STRAWBERRY ROYAL

Vanilla, Chocolate, and Strawberry Ice Cream, a Half Banana, generous portions of Topping, Whipped Topping, Chocolate Sprinkles, and Nuts 55

HOT BUTTERSCOTCH 40

STRAWBERRY 40

MAPLE NUT 40

PINEAPPLE 40

CHOCOLATE NUT 40

MARSHMALLOW and CHOCOLATE SPRINKLES 40

ICE CREAM

ICE CREAM SAMPLER, 4 flavors of your choice 40

DISH OF ICE CREAM 25

BEVERAGES

THE FRIBBE A THICK MILK DRINK FABULOUS AND FROSTY 40*

*MILK SHAKE — with two scoops of ice cream Chocolate Vanilla Coffee, or Strawberry 55*

MALTED MILK SHAKE 40

ICE CREAM SODA 55

*SHERBET COOLER, the coolest drink ever 50*

COFFEE, TEA, SANKA 15

ICED COFFEE OR TEA (in season) 15

HOT CHOCOLATE with cookies 15

COLA The Only One Served in the Shop 10*

ROOT BEER, ORANGE 15*

MILK 15

CHOCOLATE MILK 20

10% Tax added. Meals — $1.00 or More (Not Takeouts)

*Subject to Sale Tax Where Applicable

SANDWICHES

No charge for toasting. Please specify Hamburgs are normally cooked medium unless otherwise specified.

BIG BEEF — ⅓ lb. per pound of chopped beef served on buttered toast 55

BIG BEEF CHEESEBURG with melted

BIG BEEF CHEESEBURG SPECIAL

BIG BEEF

HAMBURG, all beef, ground in our plant 35
With lettuce, tomato, and salad dressing 45

CHEESEBURG, really unique, made the Friendly way 45
With lettuce, tomato, and salad dressing 50

HAM 50

GRILLED HAM AND CHEESE 60

SIZZLED HAM 50
with Pineapple 55

SHRIMP SALAD (not always available) 80

TUNA FISH SALAD 40

EGG and OLIVE SALAD 55

GRILLED CHEESE 55

STEAK (on buttered toast) 55

LETTUCE AND TOMATO 30

BUTTERED TOAST with jelly 15

ENGLISH MUFFINS with jelly 15
Lettuce, Tomato and Salad Dressing Served On Any Sandwich @ 10c Extra

FRENCH FRIES 25

SORRY:

WE CANNOT GUARANTEE THE DELIVERY OF THE STARRED ITEMS IN A TOP QUALITY CONDITION

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Guest Opinion

Sincere Concern . . .

A campaign was undertaken to collect faculty backers of a petition to give Secretary Rusk during his announced visit last Wednesday to Mt. Holyoke College. We distributed the petition to about three-quarters of the offices of the faculty on Sunday afternoon, November 5. Names were to be telephoned in to several numbers during the next two days.

On Monday, many heard that Mr. Rusk had cancelled his visit. In spite of the short period for collecting petitions and the announcement of the cancellation, which caused many to believe that the petition campaign had also been cancelled, 158 people telephoned in, about 85% full-time faculty (including at least three department heads) and the rest administrative staff and graduate assistants.

You will recall that the petition was worded thus:

We, as conscientious and loyal Americans, are strongly opposed to the United States' present course of action in Vietnam. We urge an immediate, unconditional cessation of bombing and a reduction of our troop commitment to bring about negotiations among all parties to the conflict. The purpose of these negotiations must be to effect a political settlement under international supervision to provide for the self-determination of the Vietnamese people. We deplore the devastation of Vietnam and the tragic loss of both Vietnamese and American lives. We submit this petition respectfully and in the spirit of peace.

We have mailed this petition with the names to Secretary Rusk accompanied by the following covering letter signed by Dean Allen of the Health Services and myself, representatives of the Faculty Group on Peace and War:

Dear Mr. Rusk,

A growing number of American citizens are in fundamental disagreement with their government's immoral and futile policies in Vietnam. They have asked in various ways for some reconsideration of these policies but have been answered with silence and further military escalation. Despite appeals from responsible world leaders and from every quarter at home, the war is intensified, the bombing continues, the casulties mount.

We hope that you will not remain deaf to thoughtful criticism, and in this light we submit the enclosed petition which was to have been handed to you by President Gettell of Mt. Holyoke College on November 8.

It expresses the sincere concern of a substantial proportion of the faculty and administration of the University of Massachusetts in Amherst. Because there was little public notice of your intended visit to Mt. Holyoke College, only two days were available for us to solicit support for the petition. In that brief time, and despite the announcement of your decision not to come, the names below were collected.

We ask your considerate attention to our petition.

John C. Weston
Associate Professor of English

Sam Spark Speaks Out
Just the Bare Facts

"Peanuts, popcorn, crackerjacks," shouted a vendor, quickly taking advantage of a potentially lucrative evening.

"Who wants cokes from the Hatch?" asked a Student Senator.

"Me," chorused a throng of Student senators, class presidents, and executive council members.

Meanwhile, the student leaders continued to file in. At first, it appeared that the evening's event was primarily a gathering of campus luminaries, who were obviously afraid that if they didn't appear at the trial, their possible selection to "Who's Who" might be jeopardized due to the fact that failure to witness the trial would virtually be an admission that the individual was a nobody in the campus community.

Collegian reporters, armed with pencils and flanked by representatives of all the campus media, took seats in the rear of the arena. Administrators, from all wings of Whitmore, nonchalantly ambled in and took their seats.

"Ham and cheese, tuna fish, hot turkey sandwiches," yelled another vendor.

The first order of business that the ringmaster entertained was a motion by the defense trainer to cancel the show because the opposition's charges were too vague.

One of the administrators, trying to defend his charges against the defendant, stated that the defendant had violated some premise of something or other and thereby "embarassed" the university.

This infuriated the defense trainer. "Just the bare facts," he demanded. And before the trial continued, the justices, unable to contend with all this logic, decided to take a fifteen minute recess to discuss the momentous happenings of the previous forty seconds.

Meanwhile, the gallery continued to comment and quip about the previous proceedings.

After the performers returned, the ringmaster solemnly announced in the great tradition of the theatre, "The show must go on." And on it went.

The defendant's trainer, obviously dismayed at the ringmaster's decision, commented, "Now that we supposedly have stripped this charge down to the bare essentials, let's get this show on the road."

And the circus continued. A parade of witnesses marched to the center ring, amid the accompanying cheers of the multitude.

The gallery, oohed and aahed as witnesses, trainers, defendants, and prosecutors artfully parried with each other. It was a masterpiece of acrobatic verbiage. The throng, justifiably responded with grins that demonstrated their general satisfaction with the evening's entertainment.

The witnesses were called and recalled as the evening's events merrily sped to a climatic crescendo. The prosecution and defense each made dramatic summations, while scores of onlookers sat transfixed by the brilliant oratory.

The ringmaster then announced that there would be no finite conclusion to the evening's spectacle. The group of student leaders shuffled out, unsure as to what exactly was the charge or what the decision would be.

But one thing was sure. A good time was had by all.

"If nominated, I will not run . . . If elected, I will not serve!"

Campus Comment

Part I

Suffer the Children . . .

Once, not so long ago at a great university in the kingdom of Oz, there lived a student named Dorothy. Well, it was just before Thanksgiving and Dorothy was busily packing to go home, when her roommate Glinda bopped in with the Daily Munchikin.

"Look," said Glinda, "the sophomore class is sponsoring a toy drive."

"Drive," Dorothy said looking up, "you mean I've got a ride home? Who's driving to Kansas?"

"A toy drive," said Glinda reading aloud,". . . the sophomore class will be collecting used toys in good or easily repairable condition from November 27th to December 1st in the Student Union lobby. The toys will be distributed to underprivileged children in the greater college area."

"Gee wizard," exclaimed Dorothy, "I'd love to help but I haven't got any—wait a minute! Auntie Em has all my old dolls and books in the attic! I'll bring them back with me after Thanksgiving vacation! But one thing . . ."

"Yes?" said Glinda.

"I'm not a sophomore," said Dorothy.

"That's no problem," said Glinda, "the toy drive is open to every one at the university—all students, faculty, employees, why even the Great Oz himself on Mt. Whitmore can contribute!"

Knock! Knock!

"Come in," said Dorothy. The door burst open and suddenly there was a blaze of light . . .

(Editor's note: The story will be continued on tomorrow's editorial page.)

All letters to the editor must be typed at 60 spaces and double-spaced. They should not exceed 60 lines. Letters are subject to editing and condensation. The writer's signature and address must be on the letter. Letters which are unsigned will not be printed. Names will be withheld on request. Letters not printed will be answered, except when they do not meet the above requirements.

"Because of the way the buildings are constructed there is very little the student can do to shape or personalize the environment in which he must live but about which he has not been consulted." (The above is a correction of a sentence in the Viewpoint by David A. Purdy which appeared in Thursday's issue.)

UMass . . . A Billboard?

To the editor:

I would like to thank the persons responsible for the ACTIVE public relations techniques used in PUSHING the S.E.N.D.O.F.F. weekend. It seems that good taste played no part in the campaign to sell tickets, and that the beauty of this campus was not considered by those who plastered bumper stickers indiscriminately on lamp poles, side walks, and buildings, both inside and out.

James K. Moran
13 Brett

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union . . . University of Massachusetts . . . Amherst, Mass. 01002

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Chester S. Weinerman '68

MANAGING EDITOR ..... John H. Dean, Jr. '69
BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Charles Smith '69

City Editor ..... Jim Foudy '68
News Editor ..... Richard S. Kline '70
Editorial Chairman ..... Pat Petow '68
Sports Editor ..... Tom Fitzgerald '69
Editorial Day Editor ..... Nancy Bourgoin
Advertising Managers ..... Dot Silvia '69, Sharon Kramer '69
Photo Editors ..... Paul Beliver '68, John Griffin '68
Sports Day Editor ..... John Sullivan

TUESDAY NEWS STAFF: Sally Dolgin and Judy Leonard, Day Editors: Julie Gooch.
REPORTERS: Bill Dickinson, John Wojnas, Marty Glendon.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the Daily Collegian publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amended by the act of June 11, 1943. Printed by Hamilton I. Newell, Inc., University Drive, Amherst. Subscription: $6.00 per year, $3.50 per semester.

Offices of the Daily Collegian are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Represented nationally by National Educational Advertising Service, Inc. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the Associated Press. AP is is entitled to the use for reproducion of all the local news in this newspaper as well as all AP dispatches.

Folk in the 'Round

J. F. K. Memorial Concert

Folk enthusiasts and the campus will have a chance to listen to several well known folksingers perform at the Cage this Sunday, Nov. 19. Phil Ochs, The Jim Kweskin Jug Band, and the Mitchell Trio will be featured in the show which begins at 2:00 in the afternoon.

The concert is sponsored by the John Fitzgerald Kennedy Memorial Library Committee, a sub-committee of the Student Senate.

The committee was set up in 1963 to raise funds to erect a fitting memorial to honor the Massachusetts born President. The memorial will be located in the proposed new library on the first floor of the 28 story high building.

The memorial will consist of a bronze bust of the ex-president, collections of all material of the Kennedy family, all Index yearbooks, all signed books and publications given to the University by an author, and 200 volumes of best selling books to be replaced each year.

Nancy Bourgoin, Class of '69, Chairman of the committee, said that the memorial was modeled after a similar one at Cornell University.

Although the committee has been raising funds since 1963, this is the first year that a concert has been solely dedicated to the memorial fund.

In 1965 the Beach Boys appeared on campus and part of the revenue from the show was contributed to the fund. Last year a portion of the returns from the Peter, Paul, and Mary Concert was also given to the J.F.K. Fund.

This year however, the seven member fund raising committee and the Senate decided to sponsor a concert devoted only to this fund.

She said that the performers were selected in hopes of pleasing the largest segment of the campus.

"Hopefully", she continued, "the concert will prove a financial success and boost the fund."

Tickets for the event costing $2.50 are on sale at the Student Union Ticket Office and will remain on sale during the rest of the week.

THE JIM KWESKIN JUG BAND

Jim Kweskin Jug Band

Jug band music is jug band music is jug band music. You have to have heard it to realize just what it is. It's unique, it's different, it's weird, it's jug band music.

The jug band music is made on a guitar, washboard, kazo, billiards, harmonica, fiddle, tambourine, banjo, electrical reebofak seventeen channel mixer and of course, the jug.

As weird as it may seem, all of the above are instruments when in the hands of the talented Jim Kweskin Jug Band crew. Even billiards can be (and are) made music to the ears.

The ringleader is Jim Kweskin himself. He hails from Roxbury, Mass., a part of Boston, and considers the Club 47 in Cambridge his musical home. It was in this popular little coffee shop, just a stones throw from Harvard Yale, that Kweskin and his troupe got their start.

Kweskin plays the "fine finger plunk lead thumb guitar," according to one of the members of the group. And, "usually knows the words to any old jazz song we'd care to work up."

Geoff Muldaur plays the washboard, guitar, kazo and billiards.

The newest member, Richard Green, a country boy with short blonde hair, is the fiddle player. A fiddle player not in the conventional sense, but in the jug band sense.

Bill Keith is the pedal steel guitar and banjo operator. Not just a player, but operator.

Fritz Richmond plays the jug, the washtub bass, the electrical reebofak and the seventeen channel mixer, but according to him, "never more than one at once." He's Boston's "Dean of the Washtub Bass," who wears small round sunspecs and loud tee-shirts. He smiles persistently and announces every number on stage just the way you sort of expect it to be done.

The only female member of the band is Mariea D'Amato. She plays the kazoo and tambourine. According to Richmond, she "sings even better, makes her own clothes and curtains, bats left, throws right and cooks good chicken cacciatore.

PHIL OCHS

Phil Ochs

Phil Ochs (pronounced oaks) is as unconventional as his name. Although he will attend any peace demonstration and write songs criticizing the government, he is the first to stand up for the same country and write a song that typifies his ideas.

More than anything, Ochs considers himself a person and his songs reflect his feeling. He will side with the underdog until the underdog is heard.

Most reviewers, including TIME, consider the 27 year old folksinger to be one of the most prolific song writers in America. His songs include "Turn, Turn," "A Song to Mississippi", and "The Crucifixion" to name a few.

Ochs has been listed in "Who's Who in America", featured at the Newport Folk Festival and in other concerts and festivals around the country. He has toured the entire country as well as performing abroad.

He was born in El Paso, Texas in 1940. He attended Ohio State University for three years where he was a journalism major. He then left school to pursue his singing-writing career.

Unlike many singers who were unable to bridge the gap between folk and rock, Ochs seems to have done very well. Among other testimonies he has appeared three times in Carnegie Hall.

Ochs' songs are best described as topical. Ochs is best described as personable.

MITCHELL TRIO

Mitchell Trio

Formerly the Chad Mitchell Trio, the Mitchell Trio presents music for its own sake in mellow form. Although their music conveys their attitude toward many aspects of life, their music is their strong point, combining a good vocal blend with a love for entertainment.

Tom Paxton's opinion of them is that "In a field teeming with phonies, it is heartening to see integrity succeed." The trio is composed of Mike Kobluk, John Denver with his twelve-string guitar and David Rose.

Copy and Layout by

Bob Gorman and Richard S. Kline

NOTICES

CHEMISTRY SEMINARS
On Tues., Nov. 14 at 11:15 a.m. in Goessmann, 151 Jane C. Tao will speak of "Gel Permeation Chromatography".

On Tues., at 11:15 a.m. in Goessmann 152, Prof. H. D. Stidham will speak on "Theoretical and Experimental Studies of Isotope Effects in Quadrupole Resonance".

WINTER CARNI CONCERT COMM.
On Nov. 16 at 7:30 p.m. in Commonwealth Room, SU there is a meeting. If can't attend call Pete, 253-5970.

EQUESTRIAN CLUB
Meeting Wed., Nov. 15 at 7:30 p.m. in Grinnell Arena; Guest speaker. Refreshments. Open to members and apprentices.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS
Tues., Nov. 14 at 8:30 p.m. in Worcester Room A, election of officers will be held.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB
Coffee hour on Wed. at 6:30 p.m., in Governors Lounge, featuring India.

ANGEL FLIGHT
Exec board meeting at 7 and regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. Please be prompt. Its at Dickinson Hall, wear uniforms.

HILLEL
Nov. 15, Chaim Hadomi, Consulate General of Israel at Boston, will speak on current Arab-Israell situation. Sponsored by SZO, all invited. It is in Middlesex Room, at 8:30 p.m.

This is the final week to pick up Passover refunds, daily 1-4, other hours by special request.

NEWMAN CLUB
Choir rehearsal on Tues. from 7-9 in Chapel.

SCIENCE FICTION CLUB
On Tues., Nov. 14 at 8 p.m. in Middlesex Room there will be an ESP lecture by Prof. Emmart of Journalism. All invited.

On Dec. 5 at 8:30 p.m. in Mahar, the movie Fahrenheit 451 will be shown.

STUDENTS FOR POLITICAL ACTION
On Wed. 6:30 p.m. in Machmer there is a business meeting with Discussion of Alice Hurtz films, CIA program, etc. There may be a discussion on "Dissent to Resistance" and Washington, Oct. 21.

WINTER CARNI PUBLICITY COMM.
Meeting Tues., Nov. 14 at 7:30 in Council Chambers B. Anyone who can't attend call Jay at 253-9210.

AIR FORCE
Officer training specialist in Hampden Room every Tues. from 9-3. For more information, call Sgt. Charles Petrella at main office in Holyoke, collect 536-0546.

LOST:
Gold and opal pin lost near Boyden and Whitmore. Reward. Cal Barbara, 549-1521 if found.

Coat stolen. Dark blue, double-breasted wool, with white lining, stand up collar, lost near ladies room in SU. Call Cindy Pieces, 549-0568. Reward.

FOUND:
Grey and white kitten. About 3 months old. Call Dwight Merriam, 304 N. Pleasant St. 253-2635.

PINNINGS:
Susan M. Curran '69, Van Meter N. to Paul D. Blais '69, Gorman.

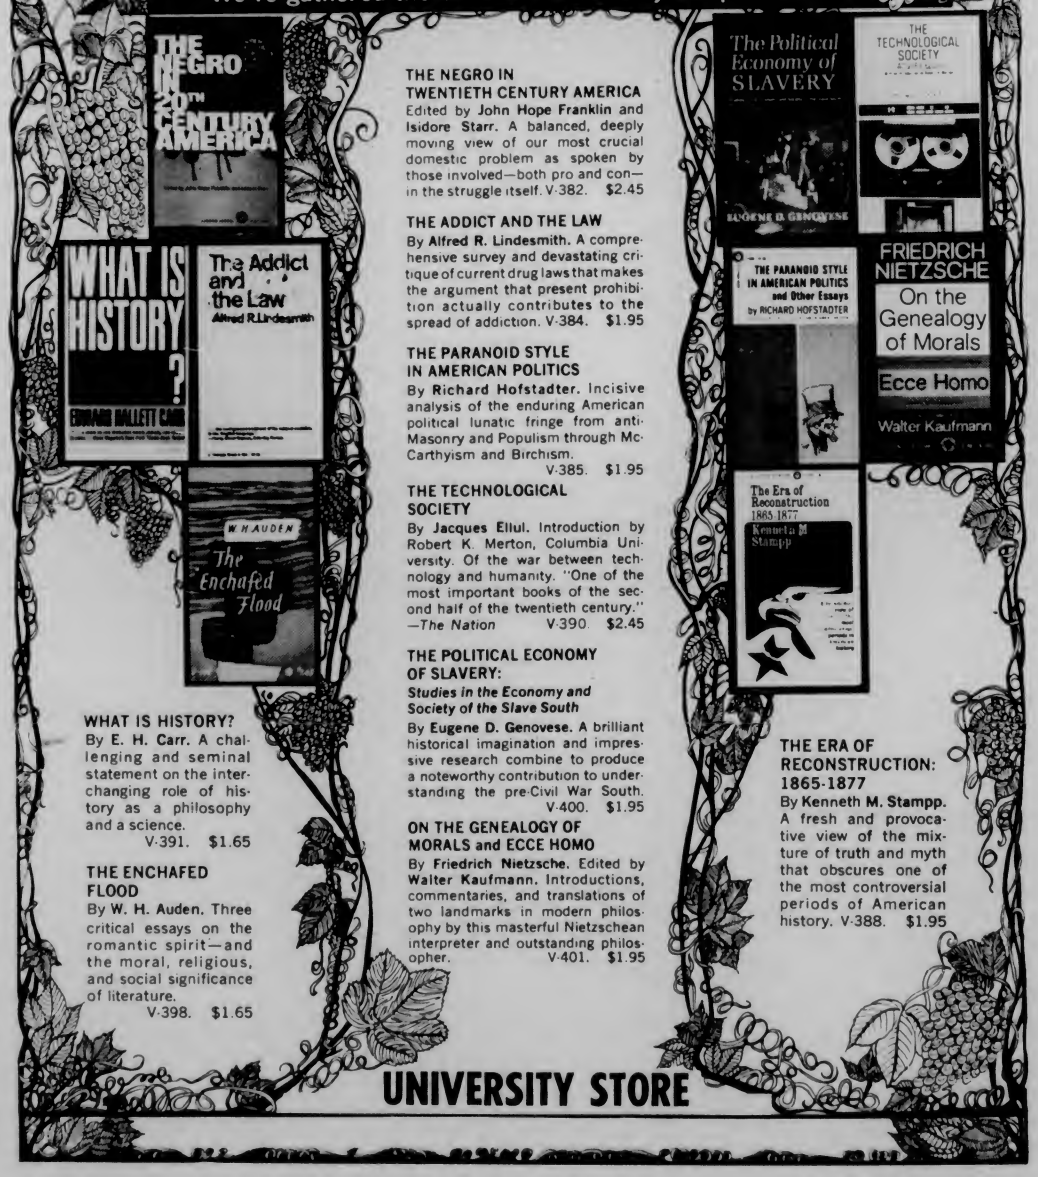
ENGAGEMENT:
Paula Hunt '67, Becker Junior College, to William Townsend '68, APO, Webster.
Betty Gass, Franklin Square, N.Y. to Kenneth Hanson '69, Thatcher.

WMUA Top 25

1. MASSACHUSETTS—Bee Gees (Atco) 32
2. CAN'T STOP LOVING YOU—Last Word (Atco) 7
3. INCENSE AND PEPPERMINTS—Strawberry Alarmclock (UNI) 4
4. EVERLASTING LOVE—Robert Knight (Rising Sons) 3
5. THE RAIN, THE PARK, AND OTHER THINGS—Cowsills (MGM) 1
6. DAYDREAM BELIEVER—Monkees (Colgems) 26
7. NEXT PLANE TO LONDON—Rose Garden (Atco) 2
8. YOU BETTER SIT DOWN KIDS—Cher (Imperial) 10
9. I CAN SEE FOR MILES—Who (Decca) 13
10. WILD HONEY—Beach Boys (Capitol) 20
11. PLEASE LOVE ME FOREVER—Bobby Vinton 5
12. BACK ON THE STREET AGAIN—Sunshine Company 12
13. GO WITH ME—Gene & Debbie (TRX) 8
14. TO SIR WITH LOVE—Lulu (Epic) 6
15. IT'S YOU THAT I NEED—Temptations (Gordy) 17
16. KENTUCKY WOMAN—Neil Diamond (Bang) 15
17. OUT OF THE BLUE—Tommy James & Shondells (Rit) 19
18. SHE IS STILL A MYSTERY—Lovin' Spoonful (K-S) 22
19. KEEP THE BALL ROLLIN'—Jay & Techniques (Smash) 25
20. GLAD TO BE UNHAPPY/HEY GIRL—Mamas & Papas (Dunhill) 30
21. STAG-O-LEE—Wilson Pickett (Atlantic) 38
22. WOULD YOU BELIEVE—Buck Rodgers Movement (X) 21
23. HOMBORG—Procol Harum (A&M) 23
24. GET ON UP—Esquires (Bunky) 14
25. IN & OUT OF LOVE—Diana Ross & Supremes (Mtn) 24
26. PATA PATA—Miriam Makeba Reprise) 36
27. WE GOTTA GO HOME—Music Explosion (Laurie) 28
28. SHE'S MY GIRL—Turtles (White Whale) 31
29. LIKE AN OLD TIME MOVIE—Scott Mackenzie (Ode) 34

MEET THE PROF

Dr. Drum will meet and speak with students



WEDNESDAY
NOVEMBER 15
4:30 P.M.
COLONIAL LOUNGE

Refreshments will be served

VOTE
For the
SOPHOMORE QUEEN
of
S.E.N.D.O.F.F.
WEEKEND
Fri., Nov. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.—S.U Lobby

MEETING
Roister Doister's Dramatic Society
in Middlesex Rm of S.U. at 8:30
Thursday, Nov. 16

IT'S A VINTAGE YEAR
for vintage books
We've gathered the books that answer your questions

THE NEGRO IN TWENTIETH CENTURY AMERICA
Edited by John Hope Franklin and Isidore Starr. A balanced, deeply moving view of our most crucial domestic problem as spoken by those involved—both pro and con—in the struggle itself. V-382. $2.45

THE ADDICT AND THE LAW
By Alfred R. Lindesmith. A comprehensive survey and devastating critique of current drug laws that makes the argument that present prohibition actually contributes to the spread of addiction. V-384. $1.95

THE PARANOID STYLE IN AMERICAN POLITICS
By Richard Hofstadter. Incisive analysis of the enduring American political lunatic fringe from anti-Masonry and Populism through McCarthyism and Birchism. V-385. $1.95

THE TECHNOLOGICAL SOCIETY
By Jacques Ellul. Introduction by Robert K. Merton, Columbia University. Of the war between technology and humanity. "One of the most important books of the second half of the twentieth century." —The Nation V-390. $2.45

THE POLITICAL ECONOMY OF SLAVERY:
Studies in the Economy and Society of the Slave South
By Eugene D. Genovese. A brilliant historical imagination and impressive research combine to produce a noteworthy contribution to understanding the pre-Civil War South. V-400. $1.95

ON THE GENEALOGY OF MORALS and ECCE HOMO
By Friedrich Nietzsche. Edited by Walter Kaufmann. Introductions, commentaries, and translations of two landmarks in modern philosophy by this masterful Nietzschean interpreter and outstanding philosopher. V-401. $1.95

WHAT IS HISTORY?
By E. H. Carr. A challenging and seminal statement on the interchanging role of history as a philosophy and a science. V-391. $1.65

THE ENCHAFED FLOOD
By W. H. Auden. Three critical essays on the romantic spirit—and the moral, religious, and social significance of literature. V-398. $1.65

THE ERA OF RECONSTRUCTION: 1865-1877
By Kenneth M. Stampp. A fresh and provocative view of the mixture of truth and myth that obscures one of the most controversial periods of American history. V-388. $1.95

UNIVERSITY STORE

BOB SIMS
BSEE, Tenn. A & I, joined Bethlehem's 1965 Loop Course, is now an engineer in the Electrical Department at our Lackawanna Plant, near Buffalo, which consumes 1 billion kwh yearly, and generates about 250 million kwh. Bob works on engineering and installation of new equipment, and supervises maintenance.

MANAGEMENT MINDED?
Career prospects are better than ever at Bethlehem Steel. We need on-the-ball engineering, technical, and liberal arts graduates for the 1968 Loop Course. Pick up a copy of our booklet at your placement office.

An Equal Opportunity Employer in the Plans for Progress Program

BETHLEHEM STEEL

Last Night's Hoop Scores

AEP 54, DC 18
ATG 35, PSK 25
PSD 44, PLP 37
QTV 31, SAM 23
LCA 50, PMP 35
TKE 53, ASP 49
Mills Birch 42, Cherries 35
Broncos 32, Grants 23
Black Bears 43, Chestnuts 42
Redwoods 50, Panthers 36

Tonight's Intramurals

BASKETBALL

Time	Court	Teams
6:30	1	Raiders-Nads
	2	Qedaks-Destroyers
	3	Olympians-VeeDees
	4	Chinese-Squares
	5	Eng. Plus-Chem. Club
	6	Selohsses-Economics
7:30	1	Flaming A's-Chad. Ind.
	2	Ibis-R. Numerals
	3	Highwaymen-Acc. Assoc.
	4	Toads-Bulldogs
8:30	1	Colonials-Cougars
	2	Colt's-Lions
	3	Leopards-Panthers
	4	Patriots-Jaguars
9:30	1	Knicks-Moody Blues
	2	Dell Vikings-Tabomas
	3	Bismarks-S. Woodundas
	4	Avecs-Bouncing F

BOWLING

Time	Teams	Lanes
6:30	Smashers-Academics	1 and 2
	Patriots-Spartans	3 and 4
	Leopards-Colonials	5 and 6
	Terrors-Bulldozers	7 and 8
8:30	Huskies-Monuments	1 and 2
	Commanchees-Colt 45's	3 and 4
	National Assoc.-Chem Club	5 and 6

N.E.'s Top 10 Go 7-3 in Weekend

BOSTON (AP)—Here's how the top 10 teams in the Associated Press weekly New England football poll fared in Saturday's games current records in parenthesis:

1. Yale (6-1) defeated Penn. 44-22.
2. Harvard (5-2) lost to Princeton, 45-6.
3. Dartmouth (6-1) defeated Columbia, 13-7.
4. Massachusetts (6-1) defeated Rutgers, 30-7.
5. Holy Cross (4-3) lost to Syracuse, 41-7.
6. Rhode Island (6-1-1) defeated Maine, 34-12.
7. Boston College (2-5) lost to VMI, 26-13.
8. Northeastern (6-1) defeated Cortland State, 22-0.
9. New Hampshire (5-2) defeated Springfield, 21-0.
10. Central Connecticut (7-0) defeated Coast Guard 27-0.

CONFERENCE STANDINGS

	W	L	T	Pts	Op
Massachusetts	4	0	0	114	47
Connecticut	3	1	0	72	60
Rhode Island	2	1	1	71	46
New Hampshire	2	2	0	72	39
Vermont	1	3	1	30	75
Maine	0	5	0	28	120

Daily Collegian Photo by John Kelly

CRAIG CAPTURED—Soph halfback Craig Lovell of UMass is about to be tackled by diving Jack Prigger of Rutgers in Saturday's game.

Daily Collegian photo by John Kelly

EAGLE EYES—Five scouts from Boston College, hidden behind blankets in a corner of Alumni Stadium, survey the proceedings in Saturday's UMass victory.

Football Statistics

Scoring	Td	Pat(1)	Pat(2)	Fg	Pts
Landry	8	0	0	0	48
Sherman	0	23(24)	0	3(7)	32
Grasso	5	0	0	0	30
Hairston	4	0	0	0	24
Driscoll	3	0	0	0	18
Cochrane	1	0	0	0	6
Decembrele	1	0	0	0	6
Lovell	1	0	0	0	6
Warnock	1	0	0	0	6
UMASS	24	23(24)	0(0)	3(7)	178
Opponents	11	9(10)	1(1)	1(2)	82

Passing	Att	Comp	Int	Yds	Td	Pct	Ave/ Comp
Landry	108	58	5	742	5	.537	12.8
Adams	2	1	0	14	0	.500	14.0
Coltin	3	1	0	18	0	.333	18.0
UMASS	113	60	5	774	5	.531	12.9
Opp.	158	79	11	968	3	.500	12.2

Punting	No	Yds	Ave	Lgst
Warnock	37	1333	36.0	52
Rogers	2	66	33.0	33
UMASS	39	1399	35.1	52
Opponents	43	1529	35.5	59

Interceptions	No	Yds
McArdle	4	28
Smith	3	16
Rogers	2	45
Milinar	1	12
York	1	10

Fumble Recoveries
York	3
Smith	1
Becker	1
McArdle	1
Milinar	1
Stevens	1
Scheralis	1
Gombar	1

Rushing	Att	Gain	Loss	Net	Ave	Lgst
Landry	134	846	113	733	5.4	73
Driscoll	54	203	15	188	3.4	17
Lovell	47	158	18	140	2.9	28
Grasso	31	113	5	108	3.5	18
Hairston	22	95	8	87	3.9	17
Cochrane	15	46	0	46	3.1	7
Decembrele	22	53	13	40	1.8	6
Sarno	7	31	3	28	4.0	10
UMASS	370	1703	178	1525	4.1	73
Opponents	292	1114	230	884	3.0	65

Pass Receiving	No	Yds	Td	Ave	Lgst
Warnock	20	272	1	13.6	33
Grasso	14	245	3	17.5	37
Carty	9	123	0	13.6	19
Hairston	5	64	1	12.8	18
Cochrane	5	24	0	4.8	7
Young	2	17	0	8.5	14
Lovell	2	14	0	7.0	8
Driscoll	2	0	0	0.0	2

Punt Returns	No	Yds	Td	Ave	Lgst
Parnell	25	285	0	11.4	40
Frye	2	18	0	9.0	12
Rogers	3	8	0	2.7	11
UMASS	31	323	0	10.4	40
Opponents	25	206	0	8.2	24

Kickoff Returns	No	Yds	Td	Ave	Lgst
Parnell	11	300	0	27.2	57
Hairston	2	38	0	19.0	19
Frye	4	63	0	15.7	20
Grasso	1	8	0	8.0	8
Cochrane	1	5	0	5.0	5
UMASS	19	414	0	21.7	57
Opponents	31	518	0	16.7	49

Team Summaries	UM	OPP
Total First Downs	123	102
by rushing	80	57
by passing	36	42
by penalty	7	3
Own Fumbles	17	20
own fumbles lost	6	10
No. Penalties	46	38
yds lost penalties	386	321

JFK MEMORIAL CONCERT

- MITCHELL TRIO
- JIM KWESKIN JUG BAND
- PHIL OCHS

2 P.M. — SUNDAY, NOV. 19

Tickets on sale S.U. Box Office

Career Opportunities in Accounting

WEDNESDAY 8 P.M.—SBA 120

Representatives from:
Firestone
Ernst & Ernst
Internal Revenue Service

followed by a coffee hour

Sponsored by Accounting Association

SWAP Applications

Now available!!!

PICK THEM UP IN THE R.S.O. OFFICE

Due at the R.S.O. office on Thursday, Nov. 16, 1967

S. E. N. D. O. F. F. '70
WEEKEND--DEC. 1, 2, 3
TICKETS ON SALE TODAY ONLY FOR SOPHOMORES AT REDUCED PRICES

DEC. 1, FRIDAY: BITTER SEND FOLK HOUSE
$1.50 – includes 14 oz. tumbler

DEC. 2, SATURDAY: THE TURTLES • THE PILGRAMS
$1.25 later $1.50 tomorrow

DEC. 3, SUNDAY: SIMON and GARFUNKEL
7:00 P.M. $2.00 today $2.50 tomorrow

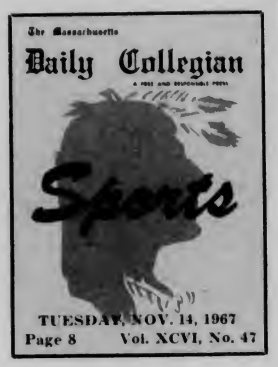
DEC. 7, THURSDAY: HARLEM GLOBETROTTERS
8:00 P.M. Sophs $2.00 always $2.50 other

Hosses Ride Together

Harriers Fifth In N.E. Meet

By JOEL FOX
Staff Reporter

BOSTON — Led by a sixth place finish from junior Charlie Lang, the UMass cross-country team took fifth place in the New England cross-country championships yesterday at Franklin Park.

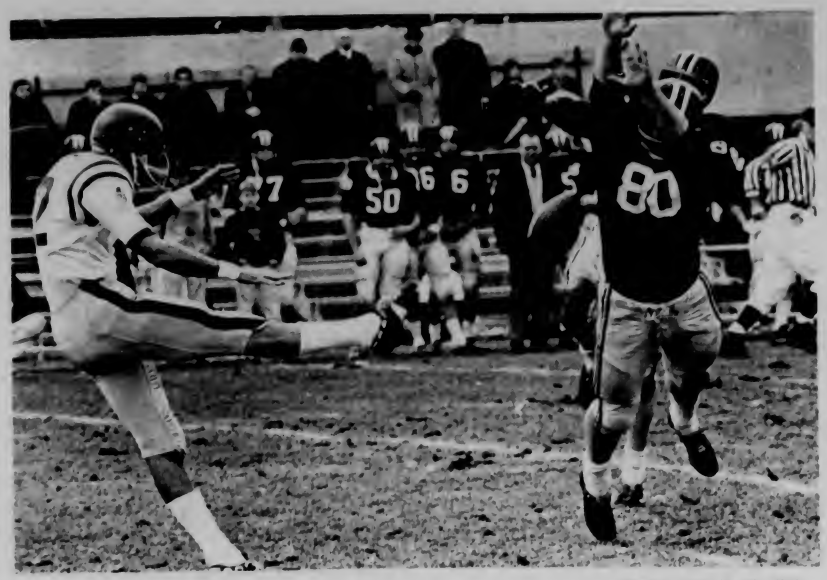


Brown, winner of the meet with 86 points, was followed by Holy Cross (166 points), Northeastern (170), Springfield (174) and UMass (180).

The Redmen's second finisher, Paul Hoss, placed ninth in a tie with his twin brother, Peter, of Boston University. Following Hoss for the Redmen was Marc Gelinas, who placed 30th. Captain Greg Bowman took 59th, and Ron Ryan placed 76th out of the field of 145.

First place in the varsity race was won by defending champion Amby Burfoot of Wesleyan who set a new record of 21:51 for the 4.7-mile course. Art Dulong of Holy Cross was second in 22:16 and Sebs Mamo of Colby was third in 22:46.

The UMass freshmen, led by Ron Wayne's third, took third place in the frosh race. With 119 points, the Little Redmen were only seven points behind second place Rhode Island, but far behind the winner, Northeastern, which scored surprisingly low 37 points.



Wayne's time of 16:15 was only two seconds off the time of champion Ed Trentowski of Southern Connecticut. Leo Duart of UMass was only nine seconds behind the winner in 10th place. Following Duart for the Little Redmen were Tom Derderian in 13th, Larry Paulsen in 36th and Mark Hurley in 55th.

On the trip home, the varsity lettermen elected Lang and Hoss as next year's co-captains. The team has one more dual meet left Thursday at New Hampshire. The IC4A meet, last UMass competition of the season, will be held Monday in Van Cortland Park, N.Y.

Tickets On Sale

Tickets are now on sale in the Boyden ticket office for the New Hampshire football game Saturday at Durham, N.H., and the Boston College Game at Boston Nov. 25.

Collegian Photo by John Kelly

ONE-YARD PUNT—Don Porter (80) of UMass leaps to block punt by Mike Greaves of Rutgers in third period of Saturday's 30-7 UMass victory. The Redmen took on the Rutgers 24 yard line but for once they failed to capitalize with a score.

Smith Named Top Yankee Defender

UMass linebacker Ernie Smith has been chosen as the top defensive player of the week in the Yankee Conference for his performance Saturday against Rutgers.

Smith, a sparkplug senior, ignited the UMass drive for its 30-7 win, by intercepting a pass, recovering a blocked punt and taking part in 16 tackles, twice throwing runners for minus yardage.

New Hampshire halfback Tom Kasprzak and Rhode Island fullback Brent Kaufman were chosen as the top offensive players, and Vermont end John Wojciechowski was picked as the top sophomore.

Kasprzak paced UNH to a 21-0 win over Springfield as he carried 14 times for 93 yards and two touchdowns and caught two passes for 39 yards. Kaufman came through with 143 yards rushing on 37 tries and two touchdowns and caught four passes for 80 yards as URI recorded a 34-12 Conference win over Maine to give the Rams a 6-1-1 record.

Wojciechowski, a rugged defensive end, sparked Vermont to a 21-7 win over Middlebury. He caught the Middlebury quarterback four times for losses on unassisted tackles and assisted on another loss as Vermont made its record 3-4-1.

Other nominations were—offense: end Gene Benner (Maine), tackle Steve Dixon (Connecicut), quarterback Paul Simpson (Vermont) and quarterback Greg Landry (Massachusetts); defense: linebacker Pete Quackenbush (Maine), halfback Ron Grinage (Connecticut), tackle Vince Martino (New Hampshire), end Harry Canning (Vermont) and linebacker Ken Kuzman (Rhode Island); sophomore: halfback John Collins (Maine), end Ralph Tiner (Connecticut), halfback Art Randlett (New Hampshire), tackle Greg Bogdanich (Rhode Island) and end Tom York (Massachusetts).

Ed Toner, Terry Swanson--From Redmen to Patriots

By JOHN SANDHAUS
Staff Reporter

The success of UMass football teams and the quality of their players have increasingly attracted the interest of professional football scouts.

Until recently, the only Massachusetts alumnus to make it in the world of pro football was former quarterback John McCormick '62, who played briefly with the Minnesota Vikings and Denver Broncos. But in the past two years, the Redmen have sent no less than four former stars to the big time and a number of others to top minor league teams.

The most notable player of course is Milt Morin '66, a two-time little All-American at UMass and one of its all-time greatest offensive ends. Milt enjoyed a fine rookie season last year with the Cleveland Browns, but has been laid low by a leg injury this year.

Fullback Phil Vandersea '66 also made it in the NFL last year, winning a spot as a reserve linebacker with the world champion Green Bay Packers. This season he is seeing more action with the new New Orleans Saints.

The American Football League also boasts two former Redmen, in Boston Patriot rookies Ed Toner and Terry Swanson. Toner, captain of last year's Redman team, was drafted as a future choice after the 1965 season by both Boston and the Baltimore Colts. He chose to stay close to home, and has managed to see considerable action on the kickoff and punt return teams, while also working as a spare defensive end and linebacker.

"The biggest difference between college and pro ball," says Toner, "is the size and speed of the players here in the pros. You can't get away with the tricks you got by with in college; they just won't work. These guys are too smart and too good. My biggest problem is learning to react more quickly and not get out-smarted by some of these experienced veterans."

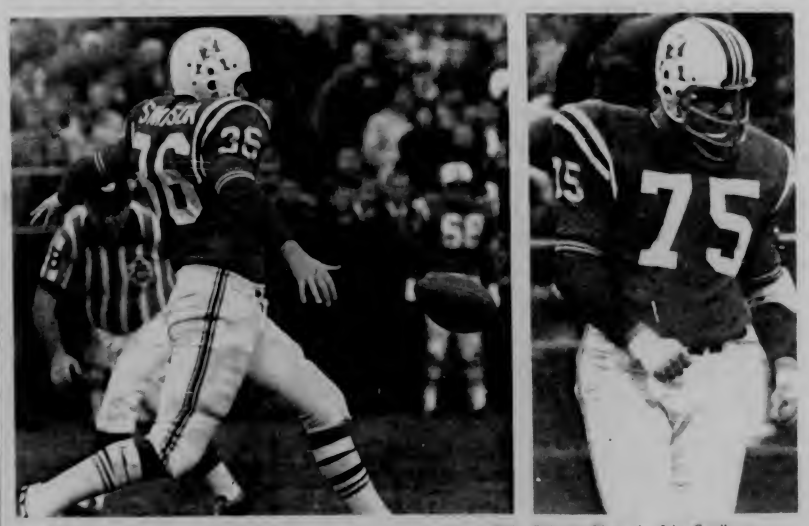
In the meantime, Ed must toil on the suicide squads, while absorbing as much information as he can from defensive coach Chuck Weber and his veteran teammates. He credits former UMass line coach Ed Schmitt with giving him considerable preparation for his professional career, a career he hopes to continue for a number of years to come.

Swanson wos an occasional halfback and safety for the 1965 and 1966 Redman teams, but he was also a fine punter, despite numerous injuries. Although still a fulltime student at the University last year, he managed to play for the minor league Nashua Colts. Last spring he went to an open talent tryout held by the Patriots, and impressed Coach Mike Holovak so much with his punting that he was invited to summer camp for an official tryout.

To the surprise of many, he unseated the incumbent punter, Tom Yewcic, and is now the Pats' regular punter, averaging over 40 yards per kick so far this season. His biggest problem has been getting sufficient height on his kicks.

"Actually," says Swanson, "the coaches left me alone as far as my kicking technique was concerned; they didn't try to change my style. They have been trying to get me to keep my head down while I kick; when I bring it up too soon, I lose height.

"Another problem has been getting decent snap-backs from center. We've had trouble with that this year, but today's were the best yet. I think I get my kick off as fast or faster than anybody in this league, but if the ball comes rolling back to me or if I have to go chase it, I'm in trouble.



"The other problem I'm faced with is that balls just don't travel in Fenway Park. Hell, out in San Diego and Oakland I was really belting the ball, but here the thing just dies. I can't understand why those guys out on the Coast don't lead the league in punting every year."

SWANSON TONER

Terry actually had a good afternoon Sunday, although the Patriots were bombed, 33-10 by the Kansas City Chiefs 33-10 He punted for a 43.5 yard average which included a booming 55-yarder that carried to the Chiefs' goaline. Unfortunately, KC's Mike Garrett fielded this one and returned it some 100 yards for a touchdown, although the play was called back because of a clip. Where was Terry Swanson on this play?

"Oh, buried under about three tons of blockers. That gets to be kind of a problem too."

Daily Collegian Photos by John Sandhaus

SWANSON AND TONER AT WORK AGAINST KANSAS CITY

FORECAST
LIGHT
SNOW

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

NEW ENGLAND'S
LARGEST
COLLEGE DAILY

VOL. XCVI, NO. 48 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1967

Picket Codes Proposed

By RICHARD LANE
Staff Reporter

The Faculty Senate and Student Union Governing Board have both set in motion resolutions concerning picketing in University buildings.

On Monday, Nov. 13, the Faculty Senate's Ad Hoc Committee on Picketing unanimously proposed a code of punishment and conduct for picketing at the University of Massachusetts. The SUG Board passed a motion that: "Picketing will not be allowed in the Student Union Building."

Among the resolutions adopted by the Committee on Picketing are:

1. That members of the University community have a right to demonstrate outside University buildings so long as they neither block free entry nor exit from buildings, nor interfere with the free movement of any person on University grounds, nor interfere with the normal conduct of University affairs.

2. That demonstrations inside University buildings are prohibited.

3. That penalty for violation of the above rules may be separation from the University or such iesser sanctions as may be judged appropriate. The determination of guilt and penalty shall be by due process.

Procedures to be followed by duly constituted authorities in the event of violation of these rules of conduct were also listed. This would include use of first, University police and then State forces if necessary.

According to James Collins, president of the Student Senate, the code was adopted in order to get away from the Administration's merely passing a "decree" and to put the matter before the students and faculty.

"Our proposed code is a very different approach for picketing. Here the campus has a chance to make the rule, unlike other schools, where the Administration makes the rule."

As Collins stated it, an administration decree is "worthless," (he cited recent trouble at Yale and Wisconsin as examples) and that "No one has a monopoly of the truth."

He emphasized that the important thing about the whole proposal is that it is a joint concern of faculty and students and that the main idea is to get "as many opinions as possible," on this issue as as well as others. Collins added "Protection of the minority" and "freedom of thought" as essential reasoning behind the Senate's proposal.

In order to discuss the whole recommendation openly before students, faculty and administration, a special meeting will be held in Bartlett Auditorium at 8:00, Thursday night.

Collins stated the basic underlying function of the meeting as deciding whether "the freedoms of the two different sides (those protesting and those not) come in conflict."

Also, recruiters being allowed on campus (by request of students) will be brought up.

"I don't envision too much trouble as long as a legitimate rule is passed," said Collins concerning further action by the Committee on student picketing.

The Student Union Governing Board, in the meantime, passed its resolution, according to Chairman Neal Whitman, because picketing causes a "disturbance to normal daily activity," and is "not fair to those who have reserved space or room in the Union."

He added that the closed physical nature of the Union building could lead to "chaos" if picketing were allowed inside.

Picketing will be allowed outside the building "so as not to disturb normal daily activity," he added.

The SUG Board (which does not come under control of the Student or Faculty Senate as a University building because the students themselves pay for it with a bond issue) was aware of the policies of the Faculty Senate's policies when it passed its own resolution.

"Foremost in our minds was our own problem," stated Whitman. "We looked at ourselves independently," he added.

The chairman said he hopes that "since we are the first to enact any resolution on this issue others will follow suit."

As to further plans on the issue of student picketing, Whitman said that the Board may hold "further discussion on defining picketing" and to decide whether or not the group has gone far enough in its action.

Like Collins, Whitman mentioned that the Board plans to discuss the general philosophy of job recruitments on campus.

The student leader stated that he regarded picketing as "healthy to the University" and wishes that there was more picketing on campus.

"Picketing emphasizes the Student Union's importance to student activity," Whitman added.

Whitman said that the Union allows any group to "communicate an idea" as long as it reserves a spot in the Union and as long as the request for space is reasonable.

Both Whitman and Collins made it clear that no discrimination against any particular protesting group was intended in their organizations' proposals.

House Makes Permanent 3% Sales Tax

BOSTON (AP)—The Massachusetts House Tuesday passed a bill to make the limited three cent sales tax permanent.

Several proposed amendments aimed at continuing the temporary status of the tax were rejected.

The measure includes the changes added by the Senate—an exemption on purchase of clothing up to $175, and clarification of the tax on public building projects.

The vote was a victory for Republican Gov. John A. Volpe who sponsored the sales tax originally and filed the legislation to make it permanent.

Sales tax revenue is earmarked for cities and towns.

Rep. Edward J. Dever, Jr., D-Arlington, urged the House to continue it as a temporary tax in 1968, and make it permanent Jan. 1, 1969.

"If the sales taxt is made permanent today, you are foreclosing the use of the sales tax for the growing expenditures which the state will assume," he said.

Rep. Anthony R. DiFrusica, D-Lawrence, sought to have the tax extended temporarily to Jan. 1, 1970, saying the sales tax referendum supported overwhelmingly by voters last year was for a temporary levy.

Dever's proposal failed on a voice vote, and DiFruscia's was killed on a 136-80 rollcall vote.

Conflict: Young Men, the Law, and War

Soldiers Desert U.S. Carrier

NEW YORK (AP)—A Dartmouth professor, who talked in Tokyo with four men who said they deserted an American carrier because of the Vietnam war, stated Tuesday he thinks they know exactly what they are doing.

Prof. Ernest Young told a news conference he was convinced the young men made their decisions independently and were not influenced by the Japanese peace movement, leaders of which set up a filmed interview with the youths last week.

Young also said he was convinced the four wrote their individual statements and are aware that "they have taken a very large, significant step."

He added that he has no idea where they are now.

The youths were identified as Airman John M. Barilla, 20, of Catonsville, Md.; Airman Richard D. Dailey, 19, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Airman Apprentice Michael A. Lindner, 19, of Mount Peceno, Pa., and Airman Apprentice Craig W. Anderson, 20, of San Jose, Calif.

The Navy says it has been carrying the four as absent

SAN FRANCISCO—EMOTIONS TAKE OVER — Army Pvt. Ronald Lockman, 23, of Philadelphia, hugs his mother, Mrs. Vivian Williams, during emotional press conference following his conviction and sentencing at San Francisco's Presidio Monday. Lockma was convicted of refusing to obey orders to go to Vietnam, and was sentenced to two and a half years at hard labor
(AP Wirephoto)

Soldier Follows Orders, Stays Home and Waits

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The soldier the Army forgot insisted Tuesday he was following orders when he stood by at home for 18 months until time for his discharge.

"I just followed my last orders," Pfc. Joe Smith, 23, of Brownsville, Calif., repeated unsmilingly at a news conference at the San Francisco Presidio.

The orders came in a telegram from Fort Hood, Tex., where draftee Smith received engineering training. That was in November 1965 and Smith was spending 30 days leave at home. Stand by for special orders, said the wire of which Smith holds a photostat copy.

Smith stood by, but finally took a logging job with Sillen Bros., Inc., in Yuba City, near Brownsville, at $130 a week to support himself and his wife, Glenda, 23. He told his employer, he said, that he was awaiting orders.

The Army sent Mrs. Smith $95.20 a month allotment and Smith himself an $18.50 savings bond every three months. The service is still dutifully remitting both, although he did not get his regular private's pay since he wasn't at a post to sign for it.

Smith wants out and has obtained the services of Ernest Besig, American Civil Liberties Union Attorney, to help him get his discharge.

The Army wants him to pay back the allotments sent his wife and maybe serve another 18 months to make up for the time spent at home.

The Army, to date, has remained almost as silent as Smith during the 18 months he spent at home.

Daily Collegian
STAFF MEETING
COLONIAL LOUNGE
THURSDAY NIGHT
7:30 P.M.

Rusk Whisked to D. C. In Wake of NYC Pickets

NEW YORK (AP)—A roaring mob of antiwar pickets fought police on Sixth Avenue last night, as a demonstration against Secretary of State Dean Rusk spread more than half a mile along the busy midtown artery.

Rusk addressed a dinner meeting of the Foreign Policy Association at the New York Hilton Hotel on Sixth Avenue between 53rd and 54th streets. The fighting between police and pickets extended from 55th to 42nd streets.

State Department security men whisked Rusk from Washington to New York ahead of his announced schedule and had him inside the hotel well before the demonstration reached its peak.

The violence began, with the pickets shouting, "Peace!" even as turmoil was shown.

Young girls in the throng shouted obscenities and pounded on the windows of passing automobiles.

The demonstrators appeared to be directed with semi-military precision by their leaders, who shouted orders through loudspeakers.

In the mob were hippies and bearded types, school-age youngsters, and well-dressed, middle-aged men and women.

In a speech prepared long before the violent outburst, Rusk seemed almost to have aimed an advance rebuke at the unruly mob of anti-Vietnam demonstrators.

Mayor-Elect Flynn Might Face Draft

FITCHBURG (AP)—William G. Flynn, mayor-elect of Fitchburg, has a problem—his student draft deferment may expire before he finishes his term in office.

A bachelor who celebrated his 25th birthday in July, Flynn has successfully put the cart before the horse. He was elected mayor of this city of 43,000 persons before completing his studies for a masters degree in government at the University of Massachusetts.

When he takes office Jan. 2 Flynn will become the youngest mayor in Massachusetts. He achieved his nearly 3,000 vote plurality over Mayor George J. Bourque, 53, a four-term incumbent.

"My age hurdle didn't come in this campaign," said Flynn. "It came when I first ran for city council when I was 23." He won.

A sticker in the recent campaign read, "Vote the Dad—Not the Lad."

"Yes, I'm young," answered Flynn, "So what." Experience depends on what you learn, not how long it takes you to learn it.

"Municipal government," Flynn maintains, "is the weak sister in the governmental chain, yet the problems of the cities are monumental. You can't take full advantage of federal programs unless you have the best administrators working for you. And you are doomed to failure unless you attack problems such as water and air pollution on anything but a regional basis.

"Growth can be a question too. I'd like to see the city grow but what's the sense of growing if you can't improve the quality of life."

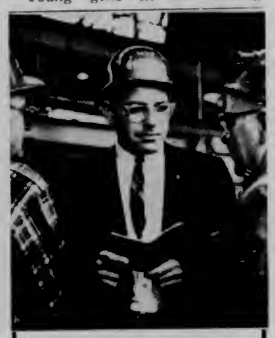
Flynn won without the help of a campaign manager or political machine. Many thought him politically naive.

"I ran against a pro with an organization," said Flynn. "If I was politically naive I would have been clobbered."

Flynn taught high school in neighboring Ashby for one year and has done public relations work for the United Fund. He lives with his parents. His father is a lawyer who ran unsuccessfully for the city council in the 1950s. His mother is a college teacher.

The youthful student-mayor plans to write his thesis on municipal government. He is scheduled to complete course requirements for his masters in December.

"If I lose my student deferment and am drafted during my term I'll be glad to serve my country," he said.



MAYOR-ELECT FLYNN . . .

Meanwhile, how many people have had a city of 43,000 hoping they'll pass their final examinations?

FOOD DRIVE

The annual Thanksgiving Food Drive, sponsored by the Newman Club, for the benefit of the underprivileged children of Springfield, is now underway. The Drive will continue through this Sunday, November 19. Any type of food is acceptable. The food is being collected in the Student Office at the Newman Center and by every dorm representative. We ask that everyone try to donate something for this worthy cause.

GERRY VALGORA

BSIE, Penn State
has had a variety of assignments at our Lackawanna Plant, near Buffalo, since joining the Bethlehem Loop Course. Recently Gerry was made assistant to the superintendent of a section with 16 foremen and 137 steelworkers.

MANAGEMENT MINDED?

Career prospects are better than ever at Bethlehem Steel. We need on-the-ball engineering, technical, and liberal arts graduates for the 1968 Loop Course. Pick up a copy of our booklet at your placement office.

An Equal Opportunity Employer in the Plans for Progress Program

BETHLEHEM STEEL

Daily Collegian
STAFF MEETING
Thursday 7:30 P.M.
Colonial Lounge

ZULU
is COMING
the 27th

the ROAD GOES EVER ON a song cycle ÷ music by donald swann ÷ poems
BY J. R. R. tolkien

Now the songs of Frodo, Bilbo, Sam Treebeard and Tom Bombadil can be sung or played by all. Donald Swann, of Flanders and Swann, has, with the assistance and encouragement of Professor Tolkien, set seven songs from The Lord of The Rings to music. Each song may be sung individually or taken together as a group to form a song cycle. The arrangements are for piano or voice and guitar symbols are given.
$3.95

poems and songs of middle earth

READ BY J.R.R. TOLKIEN
For his first venture into the recording world Professor Tolkien has chosen to read from the delightful poems of Tom Bombadil. On the reverse side William Elvin sings the songs from The Road Goes Ever On with Donald Swann at the piano. This record is a must.
Caedmon Record #TC 1231 $5.95
Available at your college bookstore
HOUGHTON MIFFLIN COMPANY

Campus Wide JUDICIAL CONFERENCE
Nov. 18th at 1:00
Student Union Ballroom
All Judiciary Members & Interested Students Are Urged To Attend

CLASS OF 1970 EXECUTIVE COUNCIL MEETING
6 P.M. MAHAR NOV. 19
ALL ATTEND

CLASS MEETING
AT 7:00 P.M.
MAHAR NOV. 19
All members of the Class are cordially invited and urged to attend.
IMPORTANT ISSUES WILL BE DISCUSSED AND DECIDED

S.E.N.D.O.F.F. 70
WEEKEND
Tickets on Sale Now
BITTER SEND FOLK HOUSE
Friday Nite $1.50
-Turtles Dance
Two Shows Sat. Nite $1.50
Sunday:
Simon and Garfunkel
7:00 P.M. Cage $2.50

Johnson Meets Japanese Leader

By LORRAINE E. BALCH
Staff Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson and Japan's prime minister, Eisaku Sato, conferred Tuesday on the Vietnam war, Asian security problems and the future of Okinawa, a key U.S. pacific military base Japan seeks to regain.

A second and final meeting late Wednesday will be followed by a communique.

American officials and Johnson himself were noncommittal on whether the 66-year-old Japanese leader may have fulfilled his hopes for a timetable for the return to Japanese political rule of Okinawa and the Bonin Islands.

Serious and unsmiling, Johnson greeted Sato at the White House by saying only that his discussions with Sato "have much to recommend . . . we hope they will be productive."

Johnson emphasized that the objectives of the American people and the Japanese people are very much identical.

"First of all, we want peace in all the world, and particularly in that troubled part of the world where we do not have it now," he said.

Johnson said Japan had been playing a major role in new regional organizations that would bring Asia forward.

Sato gave a polite endorsement of Johnson's efforts to bring peace and stability to the world, particularly in Asia.

VALLEY REVIEW MEETING

The Valley Review, a five-college publication, will hold an organizational meeting on Wednesday evening at 5:30 in Valentine Hall, Amherst College.

The Review is planning an expansion to its present staff and asks interested students in the five-college area to attend. Positions are open to people interested in becoming literary, art and poetry editors.

This year the publication will include book reviews, interviews with nationally-known figures and student comment on a variety of issues.

For further information, interested students should contact Ellen Cleary, 546-9849.

Sociologists Sign Petition Against War

Thirteen hundred (1300) Fellows and Active Members of the American Sociological Association have signed an open letter sent to President Johnson protesting against the war in Vietnam and its effects on American society.

The sociologists condemned both the conduct of the war and the diversion of resources from efforts to solve serious social problems within the United States. Among such problems they listed urban development, poverty and racial discrimination, and said that these "will not yield to fragmentary token efforts but must be the focus of massive concerted action."

The 1300 signers of the letter urged an immediate halt to the bombing of North Vietnam, vigorous attempts to negotiate peace with all parties represented, and "orderly, phased withdrawal" of American troops from Vietnam.

The petition protested "the continued bombing of North Vietnam and the killing of innocent civilians in the face of evidence and testimony from many knowledgeable individuals, including our own Secretary of Defense, that such bombing cannot succeed in forcing peace negotiations."

The statement said that the war is destroying the very society it is supposed to save, and pointed to the killing of civilians, forcible removal and destruction of entire communities, crop destruction, a million people left homeless, and "the fostering of a military regime which has failed to effect land reform and has suppressed religious and political dissent."

The problems of Vietnam are social and political in character and are not susceptible to military solutions, the petition said. It warned that the present pattern of military escalation threatens another world war of "unparalleled destructiveness."

GOT A GRIPE ABOUT THE FOOD?

GOT A GRIPE ABOUT THE LINE?

EACH COMMONS HAS A STUDENT SENATE COMPLAINT AND SUGGESTION BOX.

USE IT.

NOTICES

GERMAN LECTURE
Prof. Walter Muller-Seidel of Univ. of Pittsburgh will lecture in German on "Brentanos Symbolismus, Uber einige Probleme seiner Lyrik", on Wed., Nov. 15 at 8 p.m. in SBA 116. All invited.

AM. SOCIETY OF CIVIL ENGINEERS
Mr. Everett R. Kennedy will present "The Public Works Story" on Wed., Nov. 15 at 7 p.m. in Middlesex Room, S.U.

CHEMISTRY SEMINAR
Mr. Kenneth Bleasel will speak on "Lasers—Spectroscopic Light Source," on Thurs., Nov. 16, at 11:15 a.m. in Goessmann 151.
Joyce Burrill will speak on "Cyanonitrene", on Thurs., Nov. 16 at 11:15 a.m. in Room 132.

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS
Bus will leave Newman Center Sat., Nov. 18 at 1:15 p.m. New members welcome. No expense involved.

STUDENT SENATE
Meeting this evening at 7 p.m. in Council Chambers of S.U. Open to public.

ARCHAEOLOGICAL SOCIETY
Illustrated slide talk of "Recent Developments in the Fort Ancient Temples (Ohio)" by Mr. John Blank of Soc. Dept., on Thurs. 8 p.m. in French Hall.

NEWMAN CLUB
On Wed., Nov. 15 at 7:30 p.m. in classroom Father Bennett will hold his philosophy class.
On Fri., Nov. 17 at 6 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. in Social Hall "Breakfast at Tiffany's" will be shown. Members free, non-members 50 cents.

COMMUNICATION DISORDERS CLUB
On Thurs., Nov. 16 at 7:45 p.m. in Bartlett 119. All interested undergraduates are invited. Officers will be elected.

SCUBA CLUB
Wed., Nov. 15 at 7 p.m. in Curry Hicks Cage there is a regular meeting. Nobody admitted to pool unless dues are paid.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB (CORRECTION)
Coffee hour at 6:30 p.m. in Governor's Lounge on Wed. Egypt will be featured.

INTERVARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP
Prayer meeting Wed., Nov. 15 at 5:30 at Memorial Hall. All welcome. No prayer meeting on Thursday.

WINTER CARNI OLYMPICS COMM.
On Nov. 15 at 8:30 p.m. in Nantucket Room. Any members of class of '69 interested are welcome.

WINTER CARNI CONCERT COMM.
On Nov. 16 at 7:30 p.m. in Commonwealth Room, there is a meeting. If you can't attend, contact Pete 253-5920.

HEYMAKERS SQUARE DANCE
On Nov. 15 at 7:30 p.m. in WoPe there is a dance. All members needed.

GERMAN CLUB
Thurs., Nov. 16 at 7 p.m. in Machmer 22 there is a meeting.

EDUCATION CLUB
On Wed., Nov. 15 in Hasbrouck 20 at 8 p.m. a film will be presented, "More Different than Alike" It deals with teaching innovations in a modern school system.
Jonathon Kozol, author of Death at an Early Age, will be guest speaker on Sun., Nov. 19 at 8 p.m. at Southwest Dining Commons No. 7. All invited to attend.

AMATEUR RADIO ASSOC.
On Thurs., Nov. 16 at 7 p.m. in Radio Room in Engineering Lab. Bldg there is a meeting. All invited to attend.

LOST:
Near Hasbrouck or Dwight, brown wallet, deep personal and sentimental value. Important ID's. Contact Stan 584-7879.
Blue UM windbreaker, Mon., Nov. 13 from second floor of Hasbrouck. Call George Ferraguto, 6-7768 if you have any information or jacket.
Woman's watch with black band lost in vicinity of T-1 and Dining Common No. 7 snack bar. Call Judi, 6-8108.

FOUND:
Near Morrill, a gold earring with small turquoise stone. Call Nancy, 6-8288.

PINNINGS:
Claudia Irene Veronica Piekos, Lee, Mass. to Geoffrey Alan Simpson '71, Wheeler.
Christine King '68, Crampton, to Edward Wojnar '69, JFK.
Nancy Harrington '69, Central Connecticut State, to Roger Allen '69, Pi Lambda Phi.

Terry Turner [above] of San Jose, Calif., working in a castle

Jobs in Europe

Luxembourg—American Student Information Service is celebrating its 10th year of successful operation placing students in jobs and arranging tours. Any student may now choose from thousands of jobs such as resort, office, sales, factory, hospital, etc. in 15 countries with wages up to $400 a month. ASIS maintains placement offices throughout Europe insuring you of on the spot help at all times. For a booklet listing all jobs with application forms and discount tours send $2 (job application, overseas handling & air mail reply) to: Dept. O, American Student Information Service, 22 Ave. de la Liberte, Luxembourg City, Grand Duchy of Luxembourg.

S.E.N.D.O.F.F.

Count Down

17 Days

Toy Drive To Be Held After Recess

The Sophomore class is sponsoring a Toy Drive the week after Thanksgiving. Used toys in good or easily repairable condition will be collected in the Student Union lobby. The toys will be distributed to underprivileged children in the greater college area.

This drive is open for all students, faculty, employees to bring contributions.

Daily Collegian

Hotline

545-2550

JFK MEMORIAL CONCERT

- MITCHELL TRIO
- JIM KWESKIN JUG BAND
- PHIL OCHS

2 P.M. — SUNDAY, NOV. 19

Tickets on sale S.U. Box Office

MDC CLASSIFIED

AUTOMOBILE

'60 Chevrolet 6 cyl., auto. trans., good tires. Call Carl 665-2843 after 7 p.m. $75 or best offer.

$69.95—1957 Ford 2 dr. hdtp, V8, auto, snow tires for sale or trade for skiis, etc. Call Bob 549-0375.

PERSONAL

I would like to express my thanks to those responsible for the success of my birthday party, and to Dr. Rosenau. I would also like to thank the following for the gift: Joe Beeves, Phil Bellino, Ed Bourquet, Fred Gardner, Douglas Henry, John Forest, Paul Parent, Bruce Dunlap, Cal Saulnier, and Dana Whitman and Patricia Hughes for the wonderful cake and the housemother of Crabtree for the decorations. Thank you.

For Quick Results . . . TRY OUR CLASSIFIED ADS.

FOR RENT

24 feet Room
Refrigerator, cooking facilities, center of town.
Leader Rooms
159 North Pleasant St.
Apply at Bowling Alley.
$15 a week

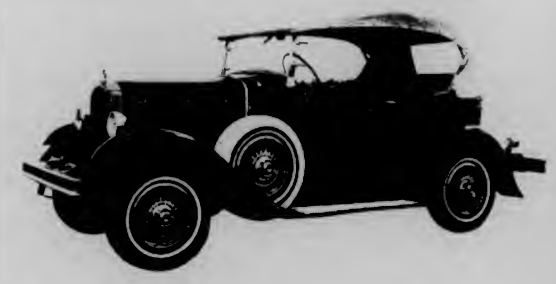
MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

Sitars, tabla, sarods, tambourns and other folk and classical instruments from India are available at reasonable rupee rates. We will deliver and demonstrate. Write, call or visit.
Emporium India
262 Thayer St.
Providence, R.I. 02906
Tel. 401-421-2283
Boston branch: Spectrum India, 157 Newbury St.

WANTED

One rep. from each dorm to represent good deal in skiing. Good deal for rep. too. Call Jim—546-7031.

BATTLE OF UMASS BANDS



DECEMBER 15th

Applications in R.S.O. Office
Deadline Nov. 22

Let Marcel Proust put you in the driver's seat!

Modern Library's 50th anniversary contest.

Sit right down and start—now!
EASY—FUN—QUICK—SIMPLE, ETC.

At last! A contest for people who read without moving their lips! No magazine subscriptions, gasoline coupons, or entry fees. Just reasonable literacy, a visit to your favorite bookstore, some quick work with a pencil and you....

Yes, YOU can be the bewildered owner of this brand new, fresh off the line, 1931 Ford Model A Touring Car (a "GLASSIC", complete with all the latest developments including headlights, side curtains, running boards, and steering wheel).

Who wants to give you this 1967-1931 Ford? Why, your friendly local bookstore and friendly Random House, publishers of The Modern Library. You see, ever since 1917 (here comes the pitch, right? right!), The Modern Library has been offering the best of the world's best books in hard-bound editions at paperback prices. During this 50th Anniversary Year, we want to say thank you (sure, and sell a few extra books) and so we've put together a mind-blowing contest open to everyone. Why don't you drop into your bookstore and get the official entry form (no purchase or theft necessary).

UNIVERSITY STORE

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Misleading the Public

The freedom of Information Committee of Sigma Delta Chi (national journalism fraternity) has disclosed some very distressing findings. The Johnson administration has been "deliberately misleading the public, the press and the Congress through flat lies, through half-truths and through clever use of statistics that distort". What is more frightening is the desire of the Administration for the public to believe in it and its policies despite a "credibility gap".

This type of censorship shows an apparent contempt for the public. This contempt says that the man in the street is ignorant and incapable of making a valid judgment. Since we are ignorant (they think) then it is the duty of the Administration to give us all of the "right" views for our unquestioning acceptance.

What the Johnson Administration fails to understand is that the public is entitled to proper information and that covering up its mistakes by lies, half-truths, etc. will only jeopardize freedom of speech. Though some people have views conflicting with those of the Administration they still have the right to know exactly what is going on in the government providing the information doesn't compromise national security.

The definition of national security must not be construed to mean things detrimental to Johnson's image or the political aspirations of his followers.

It is time this Administration begins to deal fairly with the public. The public has a need to know, and the hypocrisy of censorship must end. We therefore urge the Administration to realign its sights and think of the nation rather than self-protection themselves. We feel that it is time that the "Credibility Gap" be closed permanently!

—THE EDITORS

Guest Opinion

A Time to Demonstrate

We urge the University community to attend the open meeting at Bartlett Auditorium tomorrow evening in order that a legitimate and intelligent code of conduct for campus demonstrations may be formulated. The proposed code of the Ad Hoc Committee on Picketing will be before the Faculty and Student Senates during the next week; the opinions of University members will be needed to formulate a viable code for University use.

The University of Massachusetts has the opportunity to demonstrate that members of an academic community can reasonably work together to solve the problems it faces.

Hopefully, students, faculty and administration will take advantage of this opportunity.

James G. Collins, President,
Student Senate
William F. Field,
Dean of Students
Arthur C. Gentile,
Asst. Dean, Grad. School

Part 2

Suffer the Children . . .

"Tinkerbell!" said Dorothy and Glinda.

"Hiya," said Tink, "have you seen today's Munchikin?"

"Yes'" chorused Dorothy and Glinda.

"What a good idea, a Christmas toy drive," said Tink.

"It's the week we get back from vacation, in the Union lobby," said Glinda.

"I'm bringing up my old toys, they're not doing anybody any good lying around in boxes," said Dorothy.

"I know," replied Tink, "I was just talking to the Lost Boys in Tower 1 — they remember what it was like not to have toys on Christmas. You really feel forgottn and unloved, like no one cares..."

"Yes," said Dorothy, "and there are so many Lost Boys and Girls in orphanages and homes right around here, who'll have a pretty sad Christmas unless someone remembers."

"Oops! Gotta go, I'm just passin' through," said Tink, "I'm on my way to Psych—it's really interesting. . .like, did you know there are some people today who still believe in fairies! Do you believe in fairies!?"

"No!" exclaimed Dorothy, clapping her hands together.

"Well, bye!" said Tink, flitting out the door. Suddenly there was a great shout outside. Dorothy and Glinda rushed to the window and what they saw made their eyes open very wide ! ! ! ! !

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union . . . University of Massachusetts . . . Amherst, Mass. 01002

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Chester S. Weinerman '68

MANAGING EDITOR ..... John H. Dean, Jr. '69
BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Charles Smith '69

City Editor ..... Jim Foudy '68
News Editor ..... Richard S. Kline '70
Editorial Chairman ..... Pat Petow '68
Sports Editor ..... Tom Fitzgerald '69
Editorial Day Editor ..... Nancy Bourgoin
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Glenn Briere '69
Advertising Managers ..... Dot Silvia '69, Sharon Kramer '69
Photo Editors ..... Paul Bollyer '68, John Griffin '68
Sports Day Editor ..... John Sullivan

WEDNESDAY NEWS STAFF: Jon Mickelson, Day Editor: Sue Wallace, Richard Boucher, Sue Gerson, Janet Howes: Editorial Day Editor: Nancy Bourgoin: Sports ay Editor, Martha Curran

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the Daily Collegian publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amended by the act of June 11, 1943. Printed by Hamilton I. Newell, Inc., University Drive, Amherst. Subscription: $6.00 per year, $3.50 per semester.

Offices of the Daily Collegian are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Represented nationally by National Educational Advertising Service, Inc. Member of the Associated Collegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the Associated Press. AP is is entitled to the use for reproducion of all the local news in this newspaper as well as all AP dispatches.

Campus Comment

Collect Your Toys

To the editor:

November 27th will mark the opening day of a campus wide toy drive. This drive is being sponsored by the members of the sophomore class to benefit a number of unfortunate children in the greater college area. How many children? The answer to that question rests with you, the members of the university community.

The more toys you contribute, the greater the number of children who can be reached. You're going home for Thanksgiving. This is a perfect opportunity to check around the house for children's books and playthings your family no longer needs.

You say you'll be bringing your winter clothes and piles of other things back to school. How much room does one toy take up? How difficult is it to stuff a toy in a bag or a book in a suitcase? Think about the toy drive when you're home with your family next week, and then, please, contribute, if only for the selfish reason of feeling good.

Harriet E. Guberman
Chairman of the Christmas
Idea Committee

Stop, Listen, Think

To the editor:

STOP. Last Friday Dr. Drum asked you to. Did you? Stop and think. Not about him — but about you. Stop and think and quit looking at your new "Mugbook" while he's talking. Stop and think and quit rationalizing that you don't understand what he's getting at. Stop and think and quit patting him on the shoulder.

He doesn't need the encouragement of shallow-minded teeny-bopprs.

You — who giggle every time someone emphasizes a point by swearing; you — who are going to college so that you can impress the folks back home, and the world. Why not try looking at yourself? Don't feel sorry for Dr. Drum — he knows where its at. You say he couldn't be serious ? Well, Stop, and Think, and Listen.

Nancy Ulin '69

Academic Problems

To the editor:

In any of the social aspects of college life at UMass a student has a recourse. If that student disagrees or feels that he has been mistreated he may see area coordinators, deans, etc. I attended SWAP conference where just such points as these were discussed. For example, "How do we, as a student body, express our disapproval to the administration?" My concern in this letter is the passive accepting way that the student body looks upon academic injustice.

Let us take the Botany course currently being offered for non-science majors. What type of educational administration is it that allows such wide discrepencies in teaching as that of Drs. Putalia and Drum? Is this consistent education? This inconsistency is a burden to many students and detrimental to almost all.

I entered a course last Friday to receive a 72 raw score on that exam. I wasn't too pleased but not especially upset until I heard the statistics for the exam. 43% of the class had fail d the exam. Either that prof is an example of the old Ed Psych adage, "If the student fails to learn the teacher has failed to teach," or the prof is merely demonstrating his ignorance of proper measurement procedures!

After cutting a meeting to study for another exam that I had I entered the class only to find the exam postponed from that day (Friday) to the following class (Monday). I accepted this with a little indignation, but this indignation grew in magnitude when I found that the exam was to cover double the material and was to count twice towards our grade. Some of the material that was covered was not even assigned since this was a Departmental exam and the prof had been absent from class and had neglected to forward the assignment to us.

My suggestion is that students start to confront each other both at the leadership and the individual level with the various aspects of this problem and how to solve it. I suggest that we start to open the channels of communication not only on social issues but on the academic as well. We should not tolerate the pacifier that the faculty has thrust in our crying mouths with regard to the pass-fail system. We should begin to consider a board where academic injustices can be heard and dealt with.

David L. Knowlton '68

Machmer Additions Ready by September

By ALAN SPONBURGH

A 10-story office building and three lecture halls are being constructed west of Machmer Hall.

The completely air-conditioned office addition will have lounges on the sixth and ninth floors. "Special insulated glass" will add to the effect of the air-conditioning, according to George Hilienbrand, superintendent in charge of the construction. The result of this, he said, is that the offices will receive "cool sunlight" during summer months.

The three lecture halls will be in a low-rise complex west of the much taller office building. Two of them will hold aproximately 280 students while the third will seat about 360.

Hilienbrand said: "The building probably will be ready for use next September". He foresees "no difficulties" in finishing the buildings on schedule with his "120-120-man crew". Work on the buildings will continue through winter although, he added with a smile, "It may slow down a bit on the colder days."

The $3.5-million Machmer addition, financed by state and federal funds, is being built by D. O'Connell's Sons, Inc., of Holyoke.

NOTICE

On Wednesday, November 15, the Greenfield Community College cultural events series will present Rev. Philip Mayfield, who will speak on "The New Negro — Rioter or Revolutionary" at 11:30 in the college auditorium. The program is open to the general public without charge.

UM Coeds Back Amherst Pita

Ten UMass coeds carrying banners and pickets paraded Sunday through the Amherst College dining commons solemnly chanting "Handlesman for Pita" while the hungry Jeffs cheered them on during the annual Pita campaign sponsored by Amherst's Delta Upsilon fraternity.

The UMass coeds were recruited by an Amherst senior in his support of his friend's campaign.

With house elections close at hand, campaign spirit is high with the hope that the coveted position of Pita (pronouced Pit-ta) will be won by Harold Handlesman, Class of '68.

The position of Pita was inaugurated by Delta Upsilon in 1959. Each year the title is awarded to the most deserving Pain In The Ass.

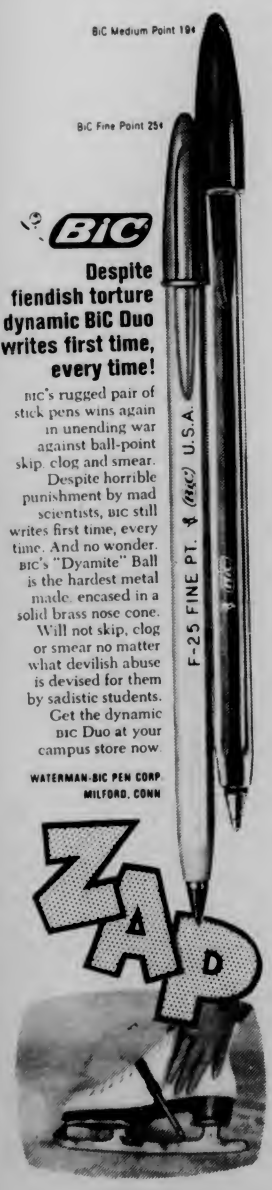
The election is very democratic Nominations are based solely on past performance and present potential. Each candidate presents his platform and carries on a vigorous campaign, usually pointing out the more deserving qualifications of his opponents.

VC Prisoner Reunited With Family

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—S. Sgt. James E. Jackson, Jr., who was released by the Viet Cong last weekend after more than a year of captivity, had a cheerful reunion Tuesday with his mother and father.

The parents were flown to Ft. Bragg by the Army from their home in Talcott, W. Va., where the senior Jackson works as a bus driver and mechanic.

The reunion took place in Womack General Army Hospital where Jackson and another released prisoner, M. Sgt. Daniel Lee Pitzer of Spring Lake, N.C., are undergoing physical examinations.



The two soldiers arrived at Ft. Bragg Monday night after a two-day airplane trip from Cambodia with a third American prisoner, M. Sgt. Edward R. Johnson of Seaside, Calif. Johnson went to Walter Reed Hospital in Washington for treatment of dysentery and malnutrition.

M.Sgt. Edward Johnson of Seaside, California was taken to Walter Reed Army Hospital after being held captive by the Viet Cong for months. He is being treated for malnutrition and dysentery.

EATON'S
and
HALLMARK STATIONERY
A. J. HASTINGS, Inc.
Newsdealer & Stationer
Amherst, Mass.
Open
Daily 5 a.m. to 9 p.m.
Sunday 5 a.m. to 1 p.m.

"Cinematography Workshop"
A Course to Acquaint You with Basic Film Production Techniques Necessary for CINEMA VERITE
AVANT GARDE
DOCUMENTARY
EDUCATIONAL
THESIS PRODUCTIONS
Workshop Conducted Every Sunday Eve.
8-11 p.m. $2.50 Per Person
LIMITED ENROLLMENT
FOR INFORMATION CALL 584-8973
GOYER FILMS, 169 No. Elm St., Northampton, Mass.

BIC
Despite fiendish torture dynamic BiC Duo writes first time, every time!
BIC's rugged pair of stick pens wins again in unending war against ball-point skip, clog and smear. Despite horrible punishment by mad scientists, BIC still writes first time, every time. And no wonder. BIC's "Dyamite" Ball is the hardest metal made, encased in a solid brass nose cone. Will not skip, clog or smear no matter what devilish abuse is devised for them by sadistic students. Get the dynamic BIC Duo at your campus store now.
WATERMAN-BIC PEN CORP.
MILFORD, CONN

VOTE
For the
SOPHOMORE QUEEN
of
S.E.N.D.O.F.F.
WEEKEND
Fri., Nov. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.—S.U Lobby

MEET THE PROF
Dr. Drum will meet and speak with students
WEDNESDAY
NOVEMBER 15
4:30 P.M.
COLONIAL LOUNGE
Refreshments will be served

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

APAR SOAP JAW
LAME IDLE ANI
BLAMED PA ITS OLLA TULIP
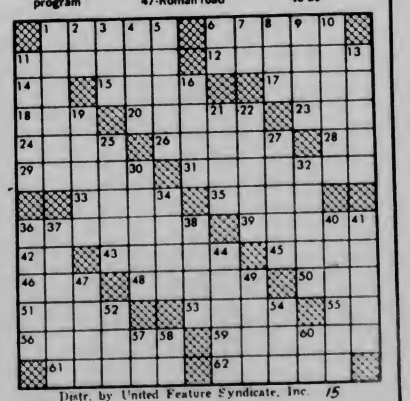
BOARDERS SE
ARISE CON DAL
RE ERRATIC LO
ELL SON BOLAS
EM TUMBLERS
TAMED MILL
AGO UT LEAGUE
PEN MODE RUSK
ADS BEES SNEE



15

ACROSS

1-Carton
6-South American Indian
11-Cultivated
12-Catchword
14-Note of scale
15-Paradise
17-Pitch
18-Danish land division
20-Besmirch
23-Uncooked
24-Midday
26-Showy flower
28-Compass point
29-Body of soldiers
31-Group of students in research
33-Learning
35-River in Africa
36-Disagreement
39-Trials
42-Exists
43-Chemical compound
45-Let it stand
46-Man's name
48-Spanish title
50-Nahoor sheep
51-Makes lace
53-Entrance
55-Conjunction
56-Scoffs
59-Lances
61-Vision
62-Abounds

DOWN

1-Great outcry
2-Artificial language
3-Reverence
4-Spreads for drying
5-Dropsy
6-Christian Science (abbr.)
7-Man's nickname
8-Decay
9-Man's name
10-Fruit
11-Shrub
13-More recent
16-Promontory
19-Instruments
21-Solar disk
22-Forgive
25-Loop
27-Vexes
30-Iron
32-Birds' homes
34-Heraldry: grafted
36-Follows food program
37-Land surrounded by water
38-Care for
40-Singing voices
41-Heavenly bodies
44-Perch
47-Roman road
49-Heavy cord
52-Bishopric
54-Female ruff
57-Sun god
58-Symbol for samarium
60-Part of "to be"

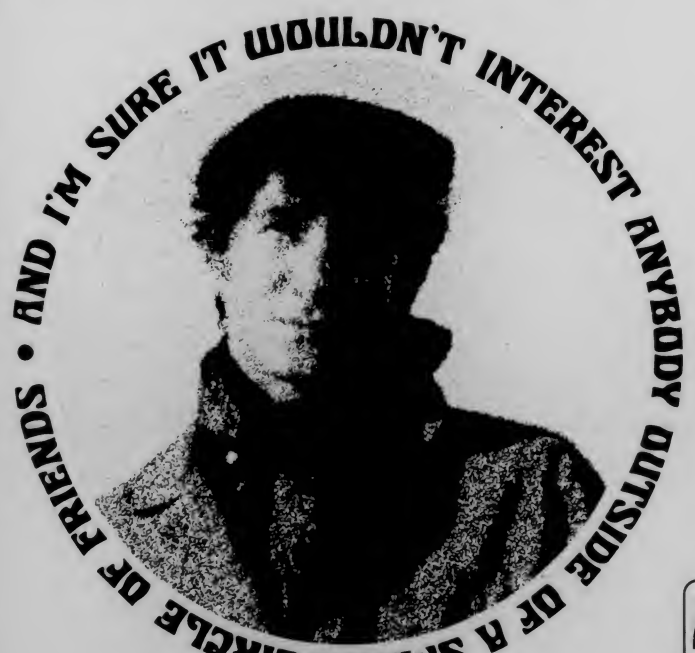
Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 15

PHIL OCHS

OUTSIDE OF A SMALL CIRCLE OF FRIENDS... there really are no words to be wrung from an adman's skills to decorate the art of a poet who dyes his mind in music and makes it sing and dance to the meter of humanity's joys and follies. PHIL OCHS is a poet who has stretched his art beyond the accepted limitations of the industry of recorded sound. There are few words now...nor next week. Nor ever. PHIL OCHS (and what and who and why he is) is all there in the album; even the word "album" is inadequate. What PHIL OCHS has created is a movie without pictures. See it in the nearest drive-in (which is your own mind).

Look outside the window—there's a woman being grabbed.
They dragged her to the bushes and now she's being stabbed.
Maybe we should call the cops and try to stop the pain.
But Monopoly is so much fun—I'd hate to blow the game...

Riding down the highway, yes my back is getting stiff.
Thirteen cars have piled up—they're hanging on a cliff
Maybe we should pull them back with our towing-chain
But we gotta move and we might get sued and it looks like it's gonna rain...



Sweating in the ghetto with the colored and the poor
The rats have joined the babies who are sleeping on the floor
Now wouldn't it be a riot if they really blew their tops—
But they got too much already and besides we got the cops...

There's a dirty paper, using sex to make a sale
The Supreme Court was so upset they sent him off to jail.
Maybe we should help the fiend and take away his fine
But we're busy reading Playboy and the Sunday New York Times...

Smoking marijuana is more fun than drinking beer
But a friend of ours was captured and they gave him thirty years.
Maybe we should raise our voices, ask somebody why—
But demonstrations are a drag, besides we're much too high...

But outside of the small circle of friends is a large rhomboid embracing most of the people of the world who are waiting for friendship, praying to belong, aching for comfort. PHIL OCHS' album "PLEASURES OF THE HARBOR" is like the coming of a Dawn—it is not an Answer, but it offers the opportunity of an Awakening.

The album "PLEASURES OF THE HARBOR" (and the songs within its tracks; "Outside of a Small Circle of Friends" is one) is tossed into the rhomboid in the hope that a few more minds may be spun inside the small circle of friends and, thus, the circle may be enlarged.

A&M RECORDS

PHIL OCHS

Daily Collegian photo by John Kelly

UM Mermaids Outswim UVM

BURLINGTON — The women's swim team defeated UVM 39-29 Saturday. Ten girls tallied points for UMass.

Marie Witwicki placed 1st, Sue Letourneau, 2nd in the 50 yard backstroke; Susan Berger, 1st, 50 yard breaststroke; Diane Allan, 1st, Susan Berger, 3rd, 50 yard butterfly; Janet Shockley, 1st, Jane Karcher, 2nd, 100 yard freestyle; Debbie Gernes, 2nd in the Individual Medley; Debbie Gernes, 2nd, Jane Karcher, 3rd,, diving; Marie Witwicki, Susan Berger, Janet Shockley and Diane Allen won the medley relay team.

Sunday the team meets Quincy Swim Club, a strong AAU team, to test its undefeated record.

Future meets:

Green Mountain College—Home, Nov. 28, 7 p.m.

Quincy Swim Club—Home, Dec. 3, 2 p.m.

Connecticut College—Home, Dec. 7, 6 p.m.

Green Mountain College—Invitational Meet, Away, Dec. 10, 1:30 p.m.

BEST PLAYER ON THE FIELD?—Rod Brooks, UMass '67, stands with his fiancee Donna Hayes on the sidelines of Alumni Stadium. Brooks served the Redmen as a linebacker for three years before graduation.

Sports Hotline 545-0344

Charlie Lang Paces Harriers

By JAN CURLEY
Staff Reporter

There have been a lot of races run in Boston. Last week Kevin White out distanced Louise Day Hicks for mayor of Boston. Monday at Franklin Park Charlie Lang ran a different race.

Lang finished sixth Monday in the New England cross country meet and first for UMass. With the exception of Art Dulong from Holy Cross, it was a new field of foes or Lang.

Last Wednesday Lang broke the UMass course record clocking 25:17.3 over the old record of 25:35 which he had posted earlier in the season against UConn. Paul Hoss broke the old record, too, as he came in behind Lang at 25:24. Lang and Hoss have provided stiff competition for each other throughout the year.

Lang has had a consistent winning record all season. He set the pace and won against Maine and Connecticut although the team lost. The first team victory came against URI. Hoss and Lang tied for first as they led the team in a shut out against BC.

At Springfield he placed first, clocking the third best time ever run on the course.

Lang ran a close second at Holy Cross. Lang and Holy Cross sensation Art Dulong, old rivals from high school, trained with each other in Brockton over the summer.

Connecticut took the Yankee Conference, placing five men in the first 13 positions. Lang placed third.

Lang has praise for the coaching staff, "They're great. They're always there when you need them, and you can always count on them."

Lang runs best in the rain. He explained it because of the "change of pace". The feeling of being "soaking wet is just great," and he likes the freedom of running. As Coach O'Brien says, "It's the challenge of being out there all alone and measuring yourself against yourself."

Lang was elected Co-captain of the cross country team Monday night. "Charlie has been a leader of the team for the past two years through his example," said Coach O'Brien.

Lang, who is in AFROTC, plans on going into the Air Force. He is undecided about making the Air Force a career.

For Lang, running is "just a way of life." Coach O'Brien says Lang shows a lot of "competitive maturity from a junior in college." He expects Charlie to carry his enjoyment for running beyond college into AAU competition, "A way of life doesn't stop after college."

Daily Collegian Photo by John Kelly

DOING THE FREDDY—Sophomore Fred Hairston dances into the end zone for a touchdown during the Redmen victory over Rutgers Saturday.

'THE MOTHER OF VOICES'

an independent student-edited

Community Paper of the 5-College area.

On sale Wednesday, Nov. 15, at the Lobby Counter, Student Union

Career Opportunities in Accounting

WEDNESDAY 8 P.M.—SBA 120

Representatives from:

Firestone
Ernst & Ernst
Internal Revenue Service

followed by a coffee hour

Sponsored by Accounting Association

SWAP

APPLICATIONS NOW AVAILABLE

Pick them up in the RSO Office

Return deadline: November 16, 1967

AMHERST TOWER

New England's most complete and unique eating establishment for the WHOLE FAMILY!

99 TASTEE VARIETIES

TO EAT IN OR TAKE OUT

- PIZZA
- ★ ASSORTED TASTEE DISHES . . .
- ★ SUBMARINE AND DELICATESSEN STYLE SANDWICHES

"YOU RING, WE BRING"

Free Delivery ($.99 minimum) within the hour
Sunday - Friday 6-11 p.m.

11 East Pleasant St. Amherst
253-7100 256-6667

Warnock Named All-East

WARNOCK

Nick Warnock, Redman end from Berwyn, Pennsylvania, was named to the weekly Eastern College Athletic Conference All - East football team for his performance in Saturday's game against Rutgers.

Warnock sparked the Redmen scoring drive in the second quarter when he caught two passes for a gain of nineteen yards.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
Sports
WED., NOV. 15, 1967
Page 8 Vol. XCVI, No. 48

Tickets are now on sale in the Boyden ticket office for the New Hampshire football game Saturday at Durham, N.H., and the Boston College game at Boston Nov. 25.

New Hampshire's Half-Pint Estey Stands Between Redmen and Beanpot

By JOHN GEDSUDSKI
Staff Reporter

History will be on the Redmen's side when they take on New Hampshire Saturday at Durham in quest of their second straight Yankee Conference title and fourth in the last five years.

UMass has beaten New Hampshire four times in the last four years, outscoring the Wildcats, 155-9. The Redmen, now 6-1, will be seeking their sixth straight victory, and their 14th straight in the league. Conference foes have beaten them only once in the 26 games.

The Conference Beanpot, which was made before many of the Redmen were born, will remain in the Boyden trophy window if Rhode Island (2-1-1) knocks off Connecticut (3-1) Saturday at Kingston, R.I., regardless of the Redmen's game. But as Coach Fusia said, "You don't want to back into anything."

Last year's Conference clincher also came against the Wildcats but the Redmen won by only 14-7, on the second-half heroics of quarterback Al Caruso, subbing for the ailing Greg Landry.

UNH's biggest threat stands 5'6 and 140 pounds. Senior Bill Estey, who quarterbacked the Wildcats as a sophomore and junior, has been operating this season on kick-off and punt returns. Against Northeastern this season, he brought a kickoff back 94 yards for one touchdown and a punt 85 yards for another.

Although the Redmen brushed off Rutgers with ease, 30-7, Fusia is still not completely satisfied. "I didn't like what I saw in many instances. We stopped ourselves several times with mental errors."

He said that UMass could easily have scored four more touchdowns.

On the credit side, he said, "We did keep them in bad field position all day long, and we capitalized on the two big breaks early. Most of the times that we turned the ball over to them, they had to go the length of the field, which is difficult to do — even with everything evenly matched.

"I still don't think we've put the offense and defense together. Defensively, we came up with a good performance, probably not as consistent as we would like to see, but we came up with the big plays."

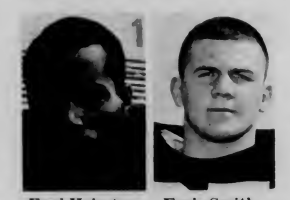
Fusia of course is as easy to please as Lee Marvin in "The Dirty Dozen." The defense has allowed seven points in the last 14 quarters.

Dave Driscoll will start Saturday at cornerback in place of Mike McArdle who suffered a broken leg and torn ligaments in the Rutgers game. McArdle today is attending classes on crutches.

The dozen senior players were not the only ones to make their final home appearances Saturday. It was also the swan song for marching band members William Hanley, Patricia Groth, Sandy Phelps, and Paul Grudis, along with drum major Ronald Weaver, twirlers Bonnie Rehbom and Jane McCay and announcer Pete Ward, who ended five years of minding the mike.

Daily Collegian Photo by John Kelly

GOING MY WAY?—Redmen defense, Tom York (84) and Kent Stevens (66) block a Scarlet Knight.



Action Abounds And Rebounds

Dave Hand of English Plus scored 21 points as his team defeated the Chem Club 58-29.

The Academic Association robbed the Highwaymen 29-28, although McDonough of the Highwaymen scored 16 points, two of which were free throws in the last few seconds of the game.

Healy scored 20 points to spark the Cougars 65-29 over the Colonials.

Nads 56, Raiders 44
Van-Dees 43, Olympians 42
Squares 51, Chinese 38
Economics 31, Selohsses 28
Numerals 54, Ibis R 46
Bulldozers 33, Toads 30
Lions 42, Colts 38
Panthers 45, Leopards 34
Jaguars 30, Patriots 19
Flaming A's won by forfeit over Chadbourne
Destroyers won by forfeit over Cedaks

Fred Hairston Ernie Smith

Conference Statistics

Leading Scorers

Player	TD	EP	FG	PTS
Kaufman, RI	8	0	0	48
Landry, Mass	8	0	0	48
Geiselman, RI	7	4	0	46
Petrillo, Conn	7	0	0	42
Bjerke, RI	4	11	1	38
Mitchell, Vt	6	0	0	36
Phillips, NH	6	0	0	36
Sherman, Mass	0	23	3	32
Grasso, Mass	5	0	0	30
Vollherbst, NH	0	18	4	30

Rushing Offense

Player	Att	Yds	Ave
Mitchell, Vt	232	825	3.6
Landry, Mass	134	733	5.4
Kaufman, RI	144	511	3.5
Petrillo, Conn	125	486	4.0
Phillips, NH	109	485	4.6
Borycsewski, Conn	83	293	3.5
DeWitt, Conn	49	282	5.7
Bjerke, RI	59	247	4.1
Kaspraak, NH	46	240	5.3
Couturier, NH	82	237	2.9
Yanush, Me	61	229	4.0

Passing Offense

Player	Att	Comp	Int	Pct	Yds	Td
Landry, Mass	108	58	5	.537	742	5
Simpson, Vt	92	49	4	.533	503	3
Walsh, NH	124	62	4	.500	867	4
Caswell, RI	240	110	1	.458	1434	10
Petrillo, Conn	103	44	9	.427	491	2
Wing, Me	134	56	9	.418	513	1

Leading Pass Receivers

Player	No.	Yds	Ave	Td
Benner, Me	44	581	13.2	3
Geiselman, RI	37	645	17.7	7
Walker, RI	32	383	11.9	1
Keiderling, Vt	30	379	12.6	4
Crisp, Conn	30	358	11.9	1
Kuhman, Vt	29	263	9.0	3
Bartlett, NH	21	318	15.1	1
Warnock, Mass	20	272	13.6	1
Estey, NH	16	198	12.3	1
Grasso, Mass	14	245	17.5	3

Kicking Specialists

Player	PAT's	FG's	PTS
Sherman, Mass	23(24)	3(7)	32
Vollherbst, NH	18(20)	4(7)	30
Bjerke, RI	11(17)	1(3)	14
Lawrence, Conn	8(11)	1(6)	11
Schroeder, Vt	5(7)	0(3)	5
Scribner, Me	4(5)	0(0)	4

Leading Punters

Player	No.	Ave	Lg
Phillips, NH	32	38.4	65
Spinney, RI	59	37.9	70
Tiner, Conn	18	36.9	52
Warnock, Mass	37	36.0	52
Daigneault, Vt	55	35.3	53
Norris, Me	61	35.2	69

Punt Return Leaders

Player	No.	Yds	Ave	Lg	Td
Estey, NH	9	292	32.4	85	2
Peterson, Vt	8	115	14.3	24	0
Rudolph, NH	17	238	14.0	63	1
Parnell, Mass	25	285	11.4	40	0
Shumate, Vt	8	90	11.2	23	0
Krot, Conn	11	96	8.7	17	0
Griffin, Me	8	63	7.9	23	0
Harney, Me	9	57	6.3	18	0
Di Yeso, Conn	10	62	6.2	18	0

Kickoff Return Leaders

Player	No.	Yds	Ave	Lg	Td
Parnell, Mass	11	300	27.2	57	1
Estey, NH	9	196	21.7	94	1
Harney, Me	16	322	20.1	24	0
Peterson, Vt	10	199	19.9	28	0
Di Yeso, Conn	12	220	18.3	28	0
Krot, Conn	8	145	18.1	32	0

Total Offense Player

Redman Don Glogowski Blocks Big

By MARTHA CURRAN
Sports Day Editor

He's Don in class, Glog in his fraternity house, "63" on the football field and one of the better offensive guards on the Redmen squad in the 1967 statistic books.

Senior Don Glogowski played his last home game Saturday against Rutgers. His knuckles are scarred and his shins bruised, but he plays total offense and loves the game.

Whether he's a summer construction worker, house manager at Tau Kappa Epsilon, offensive guard on the football team or student, Glogowski does his job well. "His attitude is tremendous," says lineman coach George Karras.

He's not big," says Coach Vic Fusia, "but he blocks like a big man. Don plays with stamina, sincerity and dedication. He's having a fine year." Glogowski is 5'11", weighs 190 lbs. and lives up to the challenge of his size. He must know more and be quicker than his opponent to offset the difference in bulk.

The letterman played football, baseball and basketball at Agawam High School. He was voted "Lineman of the Year", there in 1963.

"I enjoy football," he said. "It releases aggressions and I feel less like a vegetable. The better the game, the more personal satisfaction and pride."

He tapped his cheek with his index finger and contined. "What makes a good football player?" Three things—knowledge of the game and the opponent, technique and skills, and desire, or 'second effort'. The first two are the results of a superior coaching staff. The third is individual —you have to want to play winning football."

Glogowski gets psyched for each Saturday's game as early as Thursday; he doesn't yell or scream but keeps his tension inside. His best game, he says, was against UConn and he received the Varsity M Club award for his offensive performance against Vermont.

Don's parents come from Agawam to watch every game. His older brother, a star on the AIC football team in 1963, was voted best quarterback there.

After graduation in June, Glogowski will go into the service. He's majoring in hotel and restaurant management. Two 8 o'clock classes give him an early start on the day and practice keeps him busy all week. He likes folk - rock, the Rolling Stones and pro football games on Sunday TV.

A "meat and potatoes" man, he grumbled at the thought of missing Thanksgiving Day dinner next week. The Redmen will stay on campus during vacation and have double session practice on Thursday to prepare for the Boston College game on the 25th.

It is worth it? "We're going to beat UNH and BC."

DON GLOGOWSKI
"I enjoy football!"

Crew, Anyone?

The UMass crews have begun their winter training program in the basement of Memorial Hall. Students interested in becoming members are invited to contact either varsity crew coach Dave Clarke or frosh crew coach Mike Faherty at the training sessions Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 4:30 to 5:30.

McLAIN CHALLENGED

Detroit pitcher Denny McLain, explaining why he throws so many home-run balls, says:

"When I get a couple of runs ahead, I don't try to pitch fine. I just try to challenge a hitter.

"Unfortunately, this year I lost 34 challenges," sighs Denny.

Daily Collegian Photo Bob Goscimmski — Daily Collegian Photo by John Kelley

YAWNS AND ANGUISH—UMass cheerleaderes show different degrees of involvement from the sidelines of Redmen action against Rutgers last Saturday.

Quotes from Today's Top News

COVERS OF THE MOTHER OF VOICES

Mark Noffsinger: Associate Dean of Students

I personally do not feel that the "Mother of Voices" should be sold at the lobby counter."

Arthur Cohen: Associate Editor of Mother of Voices

Students should have the right to decide which newspapers will be available in the Union.

Pete Ward: Senate Public Relations Committee

I disapprove of Administrative action without prior student consultation or involvement.

Frank L. Boyden: UMass Trustee

The great central core of our young are solid, are good.'

The Massachusetts

Daily Collegian

A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOL. XCVI, NO. 49 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1967

New Tabloid Tries to Fill 2-Fold Purpose

A new undergraduate bi-weekly tabloid, entitled The Mother of Voices, hit the stands yesterday at UMass.

The Mother of Voices, in Nordic legend, "was a bell that could produce every sound known to man."

The publication attempts to provide not only the traditional forms of objective reporting, but also attempts to present interpretive articles.

The Mother of Voices is basically a standard sized tabloid similar to that of the Daily Collegian, but there the similarity ends. The cover of the new publication is printed with a two-color process in orange and black. The back cover is illustrated with a full page woodcut by a UMass art student, Judy Landis.

All of the art work and articles are original. The paper is not type-set in the ordinary format of newspapers, but set up on a typewriter by the staff at the publication's headquarters in Northampton. The dummy sheets are then photographed and reproduced by the offset printing process.

The editor of The Mother of Voices, Bart Kaplan, is a graduate student in English at UMass.

COLLEGIAN STAFF

Important meeting tonight in the Colonial Lounge at 7:30 p.m. Plan to attend. If you have an exam, come afterwards.

PICKETING DISCUSSION TONIGHT

The open meeting to discuss the proposed code of conduct for campus demonstrations will be held in Bartlett Auditorium tonight at 8. The proposed code will be presented to the Faculty and Student Senates for acceptance during the next week. Both bodies will make use of the views and comments voiced tonight in formulating a legitimate set of rules for demonstrating.

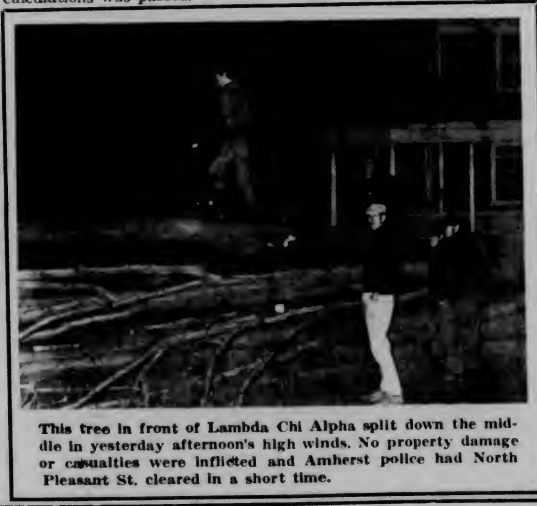
It is hoped that all interested faculty, administrators, and graduate and undergrdute students will be present.

Senate Highlights

'Collegian' Car Approved

By LORRAINE BALCH
Staff Reporter

Editor's note: The Student Senate was still in session at the time the Daily Collegian went to press. Further details will appear in a later issue.



Last night the Student Senate passed a motion that the Daily Collegian be authorized to purchase a new automobile at a cost of $1,855.

A bill was passed authorizing $40 for the Massachusetts Student Association for use in operation.

A motion to freeze the funds of the Forensic Society for an infraction of the transportation category of their budget was defeated.

The Senate unanimously passed the constitution of Brooks House.

A motion to recommend to the Faculty Senate and the Provost that an "F" earned in a pass-fail course not be included in the cum calculations was passed.

This tree in front of Lambda Chi Alpha split down the middle in yesterday afternoon's high winds. No property damage or casualties were inflicted and Amherst police had North Pleasant St. cleared in a short time.

Noffsinger Bans "Mother" from Union

By JIM FOUDY
Staff Reporter

Dr. Mark Noffsinger, Associate Dean of Students, yesterday recinded his permission to allow the underground newspaper "Mothor of Voices" to be sold at the lobby counter of the Student Union.

Noffsinger said that the publication offended him personally and prompted him to excercise his authority over the sale of items at the counter. Noffsinger made the decision at 5 p.m. The newspaper had sold 250 copies up to that time.

He said that in his opinion the publication was "gross" but stressed that it was a "personal decision in which no one else was involved".

"I defend your right to publish and sell the magazine and I defend the students' right to decide on the quality of the publication themselves, but I do not feel that it should be sold at the lobby counter," Noffsinger told Arthur Cohen and Fred Pilon from "Mother of Voices" and Pete Ward from the Student Senate at a meeting last evening.

According to Noffsinger the Student Union Governing Board has jurisdiction over the rest of the Union. He said that if "Mother" applied to the SUG Board for permission to set up a table in the Union he would not object as an administrator. This also applies to sales in the Bookstore which is under the jurisdiction of the Bookstore manager.

Arthur Cohen, a member of the "Mother of Voices" editorial board said that he does not feel any administrator has the "right to decide what newspapers the students will have at their disposal."

"If people don't agree with us they can complain. But we demand the right to give other people the opportunity to disagree," Cohen said.

"We are a mass media and expect the same privilege as the Boston Globe or any other newspaper," he said, adding, "Because one disagrees with our tone or style is no right to ban it."

Cohen said that the Mother was hoping to sell 1000 copies in the Union at 25¢ a copy. After the Union's 5¢ commission the publication would have realized a $200 profit, enough to pay the next printing bill.

The editors requested a SUG Board meeting from Chairman Neal Whitman. Whitman said he would call a meeting for the beginning of next week to consider allowing the newspaper to set up a table.

Cohen expressed disappointment, however, that SUG Board would not be able to meet earlier and said that it may result in financial set back for the publication.

The publication will be distributed in Amherst at Augie's Tobacco Shop and Hasting's and surrounding towns today by the Holyoke News Agency. Cohen also said that immediate attempts would be made to put "Mother" on sale in the Bookstore.

The Student Senate also considered the plight of "Mother of

(Continued on page 2)

Boyden Okays Student Mores To Solons

BOSTON (AP — Dr. Frank L. Boyden, 88, an educator for more than 60 years, told Maassachusettts legislators Wednesday not to worry about the student generation.

"There will be some who get out of line, but the proportion will be so small, we should not be disturbed," said Boyden, who is retiring as headmaster of Deerfield Academy.

"The great central core of our young are solid, are good."

Boyden, also a trustee of the University of Massachusetts for 30 years and current board chairman, said the University's resurgence in recent years is the "most striking example of educational progress in New England."

Boyden, remembered by generations of Deerfield students for the horse and buggy he still drives, and the tobacco he once chewed, was presented with a citation from the House and Senate.

It said he had "enriched the minds, guided the spirits and uplifted the aspirations of several generations."

"Who's Who In American Colleges and Universities" nominations are due in the R.S.O. office no later than Wednesday, November 22, 1967. Any individual or R.S.O. group may nominate candidates. Nominations should include reasoning why student should be selected.

NOFFSINGER . . .

(Continued from page 1)

Voices" last evening when it gave almost unanimous approval to a bill by Pete Ward calling for an investigation of Dr. Noffsinger's action by the Men's and Women's Affairs Committee of the Senate.

Ward said that he felt the action went against the formal and informal agreements between segments of the University community that all parties, students and faculty would be consulted on issues.

SGA Committee to Hold Public Hearing

The Student Government Affairs Committee is charged with the primary responsibility in the area of constitutional reform, as well as its other duty of conducting Class and Senate elections.

Involved in deliberations of the Committee will be the following issues:

1) The power of the Senate;
2) The role of an executive in student government;
3) The role of class government;
4) Summer Government vis a vis the Senate
5) The relationship between house and area governments, and their relationship to central government
6) The power of the student judiciaries.

To better ascertain student opinion on these questions, public hearings will be held on major pieces of legislation as they are preliminary drafted, the first of which will be in December on the role of class government. This year will see the first complete revision since it was originally drafted in 1948; it must have your interest and support. Make your views known.

METRO GOLDWYN MAYER and SEVEN ARTS PRODUCTIONS present KENNETH HYMAN'S PRODUCTION starring

SEAN CONNERY

...more dangerously alive than ever!

TONITE 7:00 P.M.

THE HILL

STUDENT UNION BALLROOM THEATRE

FREE DELIVERY TO UNIVERSITY—6 to 11 p.m. every night

RAPP'S DELICATESSEN

AND RESTAURANT

— Two Locations —

AMHERST, MASS. Next to Peter Pan

STORRS, CONN. Rts. 195 & 44A—Next to A&P

SANDWICHES

Corned Beef	.85
Pastromi	.85
Roast Beef	.85
Tongue	.90
Rolled Beef	.85
Salami	.70
Bologna	.65
Liverwurst	.65
Turkey	.85
Tuna Salad	.55
Egg Salad	.50
Bagel with Cream Cheese	.35
Bagel with Cream Cheese and Lox	.75
American Cheese	.45
Swiss Cheese	.55
Chopped Liver	.85

SALADS

Potato Salad	.25
Homemade Coleslaw	.25
Sauerkraut	.20
Macaroni	.20

DESSERTS

Cheesecake

Almond Horns Almond Tarts

Choc. Chip Cookies Brownies

Eclairs Cake Others

BEVERAGES

Canned Soda .20

Pepsi — Sprite — Coke — Grape

Root Beer — Orange — Ginger Ale

Diet Pepsi

Order a Pickle

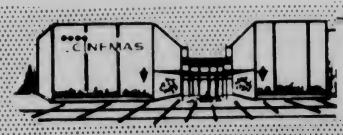
Try Swiss Cheese, American Cheese or Coleslaw on your Sandwich—Be Brave

"ENJOY AT RAPP'S"

Phones: Amherst 256-6759 — Storrs 429-6429

Smart Fashionable
Colt 45 Malt Liquor
Sweat Shirt

Just $2.69 (plus any old boxtop)



Great for weddings, formals, proms and inaugural addresses. A truly stunning "his and hers" sweatshirt with Colt 45 Malt Liquor lettered in subtle fire engine red and blazing blue. Medium and LARGE. Send check or money order plus any old boxtop. Write:

SWEATSHIRT
COLT 45 MALT LIQUOR
BOX 1100 BALTO., MD. 21203

OFFER VOID WHERE PROHIBITED BY LAW

©The National Brewing Co. of Balto., Md. at Balto., Md. also Phoenix • Miami • Detroit

OPENS WED. NOV. 22nd!

A NEW TWIN CINEMA

CINEMA I

"BRILLIANT!" —Times

NOW FOR THE FIRST TIME AT POPULAR PRICES!

JAMES JOYCE'S Ulysses

Exclusive First Run Area Showing!

CINEMA II

PAUL NEWMAN as COOL HAND LUKE

CAMPUS TWIN CINEMAS

CAMPUS SHOPPING PLAZA

RT. 9 - AMHERST-HADLEY LINE

Are you interested in

. . . SOCIAL WORK?

. . . PHYSICAL EDUCATION?

. . . JEWISH COMMUNITY SERVICE?

A CAMPUS INTERVIEW THIS FALL CAN PROVIDE YOU WITH INFORMATION ON:

- —JOBS FOR COLLEGE GRADUATES IN YM-YWHAs AND JEWISH COMMUNITY CENTERS
- —CAREERS AS SOCIAL GROUP WORKERS AND PHYSICAL EDUCATORS IN YM-YWHAs AND JEWISH COMMUNITY CENTERS
- —GRADUATE SOCIAL WORK SCHOLARSHIPS (UP TO FULL TUITION PLUS $2000 ANNUALLY)
- —PHYSICAL EDUCATION SCHOLARSHIPS (JUNIOR & SENIOR UNDERGRADUATE YEARS)
- —GRADUATE SOCIAL WORK EDUCATION AND SOCIAL WORK CAREERS IN GENERAL

SOPHS — JUNIORS — SENIORS

ARE INVITED TO SIGN UP NOW FOR INTERVIEWS!

UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS — PLACEMENT & FINANCIAL AID SERVICES

Sponsored by

NATIONAL JEWISH WELFARE BOARD (national association of Jewish Community Centers & YM-YWHAs)

Drive Safely for Happy Holiday

"Thanksgiving is a wonderful holiday but it carries with it all the ingredients of highway tragedy," Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin said today. "Long trips, fast driving, fatigued drivers, heavy traffic, early darkness and holiday drinking . . . all add up to a period of deadly danger on the highways.

"Would you like to make it a happy holiday for your family? Then feast and merrymake to your heart's content at home, but if you are traveling, be sure the driver is sober. We don't want to read about you in newspaper headlines this Thanksgiving week end.

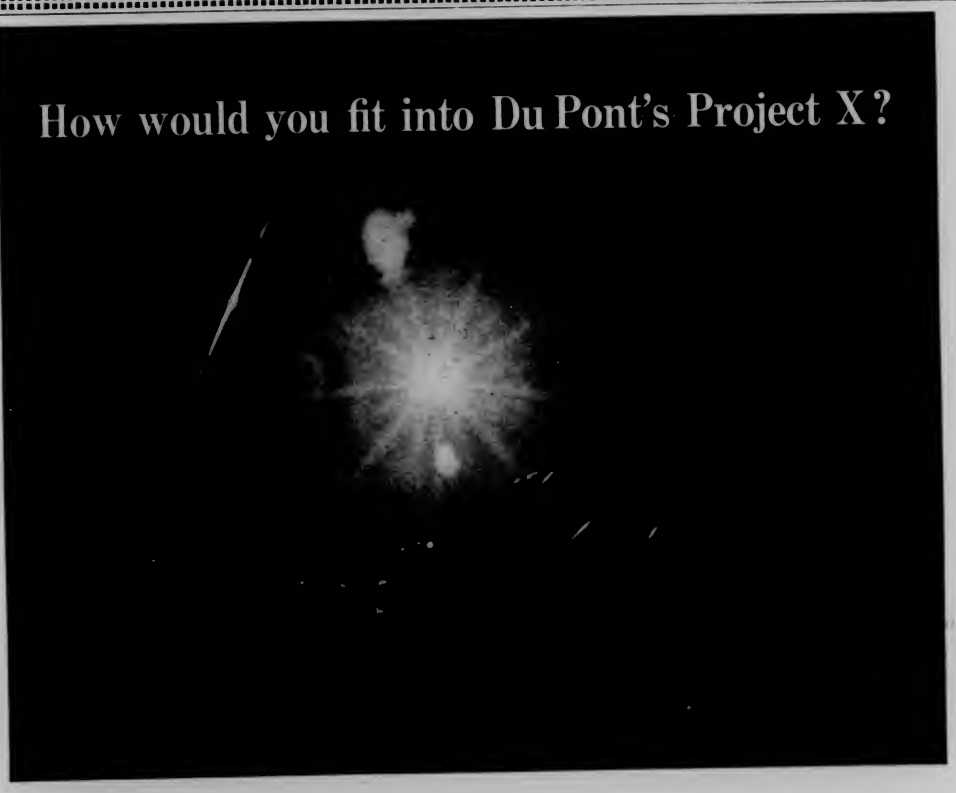
"However," he said, "it is not only motorists who must be wary of highway accidents. Records of the 15 killed last Thanksgiving week end show that six were pedestrians and, as usual, four of these were persons 72 through 89 years of age. It is obvious that we are not watching out for our elderly and infirm pedestrians. Motorists are primarily responsible, of course, but I wonder if families are exercising the protective care and supervision of their elderly relations, as they should."

ADA Forms UMass Chapter

A campus chapter of the Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) is being formed at the University. Neal Whitman, class of 1969, initiated the new group. Whitman felt that there should be a political group on campus "that opposed the war in Vietnam without supporting the Viet Cong."

The ADA is an independent political organization that since 1947 has supported liberal candidates and platforms. The national chairman, John Kenneth Galbraith, is one of the authors of the Negotiation Now petition.

The national organization in Washington is interested in the progress of ADA at UMass. The national director of Campus ADA is coming to the Student Union, Thursday, Nov. 16 to advise the local chapter and to help its progress.



Daily Collegian
STAFF MEETING
Thursday 7:30 P.M.
Colonial Lounge

SWAP Applications
Now available!!!
PICK THEM UP
IN THE R.S.O. OFFICE
Due at the R.S.O. office on Thursday, Nov. 16, 1967

"A Dastardly Affair"
presented by
ΓΣΣ PLAYERS
Friday, Nov. 17 at 8 p.m.
Admission—Toilet Articles
"Profits" to Belchertown

VANILLA FUDGE and the MAZE
NOV. 17 SU BALLROOM
TICKETS
75c in advance or $1.00 at door
TICKETS AVAILABLE SU TICKET OFFICE
Sponsored by SU Dance Committee

The stand-by youth fare will not be applicable on Nov. 22, Nov. 26 Dec. 15-24 Jan. 2-4
If you plan to fly home, book reservations now because flights are filling up fast.
Some flights already filled
* A $2.00 deposit is required for all students booking reservations.
Peter Pan Travel Service Inc.
The Summerlin Building
79 South Pleasant Street
Amherst Phone: 256-6704

You are the only person who can answer that question.

To do it, you should know as much as possible about the 150 new plant units Du Pont has built since the end of World War II. You'd then choose from one of the many lively fields of interest at Du Pont: design, construction, production, marketing, research and process improvement (to name just a few).

Involvement starts the day you join. There is no training period. You go into responsible work right away. Your professional development is stimulated by real problems and by opportunities to continue your academic studies under a tuition refund program.

You work in small groups where individual contributions are quickly noted and appreciated.

The work is significant, and of benefit to society. You're part of the most exciting technical environment available today and tomorrow, and facilities and associates are the best.

How could you fit in? Why not sign up for a chat with a Du Pont interviewer and find out? The coupon will also bring you more information about us.

Finally, what is Project X? We don't know yet. Could be we're waiting for you to tell us.

DU PONT

E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. (Inc.)
Nemours Building 2500-2
Wilmington, Delaware 19898

Please send me the Du Pont Magazine along with the other magazines I have checked below.

- ☐ Chemical Engineers at Du Pont
- ☐ Mechanical Engineers at Du Pont
- ☐ Engineers at Du Pont
- ☐ Du Pont and the College Graduate

Name_____
Class_____ Major_____ Degree expected_____
College_____
My address_____
City_____ State_____ Zip Code_____

The Welcome Mat
is always out
For the Students and Their Folks
who come to Northampton from North or South or East or West
Northampton is famous for its schools. . . and its favorite sons. . . AND, of course,
Jack Augusti's
Where Sea Food is a Specialty
Open Tues., Wed., Thurs. to 7:30 p.m.
Fri., Sat. to 8:30 p.m.
Sunday to 8 p.m.
Bring your out of town guests to our famous restaurant; we'll take the "fuss" and "muss" out of your life, and your friends will like it, too!

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Guest Editorial

Do You Really Want Rights?

The right to demonstrate peacefully and in peace on a university campus is the possession of Americans. Freedom to communicate dissent is also one of the foundations of any academic community which seeks truth. As people concerned with fostering education in its broadest sense, members of the University of Massachusetts must be constantly vigilant in order to preserve the basic right to differ with opposing opinions.

During the past weeks, campuses throughout the country have been the scene for violent confrontations over this right of dissent. It is difficult to say that any one party in any of the instances was totally wrong. However, we can critically view the various methods employed to "solve" these disputes. I believe that the use of riot police and tear gas signals not solution but failure in an academic setting.

The students, faculty, and administrators of the University have the opportunity to formulate a reasonable, just, and legitimate code of conduct concerning the right to dissent. The open meeting at Bartlett Auditorium this evening can provide that opportunity to protect that right which gives strength and life to a university.

James G. Collins
Student Senate President

Polis

Republican Contenders--II

By BOB BRILL
Associate Editorial Chairman

George Romney made his first contact with the voters of Michigan in 1959, when, as part of a committee to create a program to help Michigan's schools, he proposed a plan to raise 90 million dollars by bonds and taxes. At the same time the state was going through a financial crisis which led to lack of funds to pay State employees. Faced with a two fold problem which belied what Mr. Romney and his committee considered the general problems of Michigan, a group called the Citizens For Michigan was formed. This group urged the convening of a constitutional convention to rewrite the State constitution. This effort was successful and Mr. Romney used the power of this new constitution to revitalize the sagging State of Michigan.

The new constitution provided for redistricting; the first state in the union to apply the "one person, one vote" principle. Another provision allowed the streamlining of State Government which eliminated a number of elected offices and brought 135 state agencies into 19 principal departments. One problem that the constitution didn't completely provide for was one which was to cause violent social disorder —civil rights.

A State Civil Rights Commission was set-up to cover housing, equailty of opportunity and elimination of unfair practices of various kinds. That the coverage wasn't enough was evidenced by the riots in Detroit. Romney has come out publicly for open housing and has supported moves by nine cities throughout the state to adopt open housing laws.

State aid to education was also provided for in the new constitution. Half of the state tax revenue goes, by law, into the primary and secondary school system. Rising spending in education has caused a shortage of funds such that no more money, the Governor informed the school districts, would be available this year with the exception of the Detroit inner city.

Romney's views on welfare are consistent with many in the Republican party. He feels that government help will destroy individual initiative. Romney asks for more citizen participation and the work of private institutions with those in need. He has trimmed the budget of the state Medical Aid program but even with this curtailment there remains a system where drugs and nursing—home and hospital care are provided for the indigent.

From the beginning of his administration, Mr. Romney fought with the State Legislature for what he considered needed fiscal reform. On three different occasions he tried to get the necessary legislation passed. Finally in 1967, Mr. Romney was able to get a compromise proposal through to help avoid fiscal disaster such as periods when State employees went unpaid because of lack of funds.

Mr. Romney's overall philosophy calls for greater reliance on private economy and less on government spending. He believes in individual initiative and less involvement of government.

Part 3

Suffer the Children . . .

Outside, a funny little man with a crooked nose and a long white beard and a pointed cap was crying and jumping up and down in front of the dorm. Dorothy and Glina, being curious by nature, ran downstairs to see what the matter was.

"Nobody knows my name! shouted the little man, "nobody knows my name! I'm just a number!"

"That's not true," said Dorothy, "your name is Rumplestilskin." But the little man kept on crying.

"Now what's wrong?" asked Glinda.

"It's the toy drive." Rumplestilskin sat down on the ground and began to pull at his beard. "I'm trying to remember something, to re . . . that's it!! Remember! How can we get people to remember over the holiday about the toy drive?"

"Hmm, that is a problem," nodded Dorothy and Glinda, so the two girls sat down next to the little old man and began to think. An hour passed and still they had not found a solution. Suddenly the sun was blotted out as a shadow moved before the trio. They looked up slowly. Dorothy gasped. All of them trembled! It was . . .

(Continued tomorrow)

DAILY COLLEGIAN STAFF MEETING

TONITE 7:30 P.M. — COLONIAL LOUNGE

Campus Comment

The Aggressor and The Victim

To the editor:

From reading Mr. Steve Lazerawich's "Any Reasonable Person" in the Collegian issue of Nov. 13, one can easily conclude that Mr. Lazerawich is truly a "reasonable person". I assume Mr. Lazerawich to possess a tremendous and shrewd mentality when he conceives artillaries as hunting guns, tanks as bicycles, mirages as kites, and nepalm bombs as fire crackers. This is the analogy which he tried to present when he defended Israel against any intention of expansion and aggression when she launched the war of "peace" on June 5, 1967 against Jordan, Egypt, and Syria.

I should like Mr. Lazerawich to be a little more realistic and honest with himself and search for the facts that were stamped in the history of humanity. The ink used to record the Nazi history has not dried yet; it seems that those victims who experienced Hitler's atrocities did not retain their human hearts, but instead acquired the Nazi heart that conceives of nothing but brutality and cruelty. The Israeli Hagana massacres of 1948 differs very little from Hitler's concentration camps. Love for the sight of spilled blood seems to be a chronic Israeli way of life. Massacres of 1948 were repeated 8 years later in 1956, and even better designed and intensified in 1967.

History cannot be concealed no matter how hard some people try. Sooner or later, the human community will realize who was the aggressor and who was the victim.

Faik Ali Abdul-Rasool

Nothing to Say

To the editor:

Mr. Deckel in his Nov. 9 letter entitled MODIFY THE BALLOT puts forth the theory that "the people who do not vote are giving their consent to the present policy".

Mr. Deckel would have us believe silence indicates approval. This assumption is rather dublous to say the least.

The people that did not vote, for what ever reason they may have had, said nothing and no more. In a democracy you do not measure concensus by the people who do not speak.

Arthur G. Lavallee

Rusk's Real Reason

To the editor:

Readers of the Daily Collegian might be interested to learn that, according to a recent column by Rowland Evans and Robert Novak (Sunday Globe, November 12), Secretary of State Rusk cancelled his scheduled appearances at Mt. Holyoke College and the World Affairs Council of Boston not because of King Hussein's visit to Washington but because he feared "setting off a new round of demonstrations against the Vietnam war."

Indeed, Hussein's visit had been planned weeks ago, and merely served as an excuse for cancelling speeches in areas of major dissatisfaction with the Vietnam war. But then why did Rusk ever consent to come to Massachusetts in the first place? Is he perhaps afraid of the growing anti-war sentiment in New England?

Dr. Gerard Braunthal
Government Department

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
Student Union . . . University of Massachusetts . . . Amherst, Mass. 01002

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Chester S. Weinerman '68

MANAGING EDITOR ..... John H. Dean, Jr. '69
BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Charles Smith '69

THURSDAY NEWS STAFF: Marjie Flanders, Day Editor; Dick Boucher, Karen Bruni, Carolyn Foland, Marilyn Young

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the Daily Collegian publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amended by the act of June 11, 1943. Printed by Hamilton I. Newell, Inc., University Drive, Amherst. Subscription: $6.00 per year, $3.50 per semester.

Offices of the Daily Collegian are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

'MIRKWOOD' TO BE PRESENTED IN ORCHARD HILL

The dark and dreary presence of "Mirkwood" will be the prevailing atmosphere of Orchard Hill on the UMass campus this Friday night. The dark spirit of Tolkien's "Mirkwood" was chosen as the theme of the upcoming coffee house sponsored by Grayson and Field Dormitories to be held in the main lounge of Field Friday at eight. Amid an aura of smoke and the tantalizing aroma of coffee poets will read, singers sing, for the entertainment of those present.

The committee in charge of the Gray-Fields production of "Mirkwood" announced the expected highlights. E. T. Mellor, whose fine voice has hypnotized coffee house audiences in the past, will appear Friday at Mirkwood. The premier of Buzzy Levine's Jug Band, promises to be enjoyable as they sing the more popular "hillbilly" tunes.

The well known poet of UMass origin, Donald Junkins, will read his verse as Don Haigh puts the lines to music with a flute. Paul Robert Hallock, known well throughout the creative circles of the area, will read his poetry at "Mirkwood", also.

Another attraction will be the reading of Yeats' Words on a Window Pane, a strong play about trans-mediaship. The median is possessed with the voice of Jonathan Swift who reveals many facts about his personal life.

These and others will appear at "Mirkwood" on Friday night the 17th, between 8 and 12:45. All from the four college area are invited as the coffee will be free and the entertainment moving.

Daily Collegian

Hotline

545-2550

Staying on Campus on Thanksgiving?

All residence halls will close at 3:00 p.m. on Wednesday, November 22, 1967. They will reopen at 1:00 p.m. on Sunday, November 26, 1967.

When leaving the residence hall disconnect all wall plugs, turn off all lights, close all windows, and lock your room.

Residents who have legitimate reasons for requesting accommodations in a University residence hall for any part of the Thanksgiving vacation must file their request on or before Monday, November 20, 1967 as follows: all students, both men and women, will file their request with Mrs. Gonom, Area Coordinator in Leach House.

Consideration for granting room requests will be based on academic reasons, departmental work, extenuating travel circumstances, and membership on an intercollegiate team having a scheduled event during the recess.

The dormitories to be used will be as follows: Lewis House for the men and Johnson House for the women.

Students staying in either of these dorms will be able to move in after 3:00 p.m. on Wednesday and must vacate these rooms by 1:00 p.m. on Sunday.

Notices containing details of Dining Commons, Student Union, Infirmary and Library services during the Thanksgiving recess will be posted in all residence halls.

Take A LEGAL Trip

"THE MIND GARDENS"

Best Light Show in the East

music by

"THE MAGIC THEATRE"

Thurs., Fri., Sat. from 9:00 p.m.
in the center of Wilmington, Vt.

Bottle Club B.Y.O.B. & delicatessen

OPENING THURS., NOV. 16 ADM. $2.00

SYMPOSIUM:

Conscience, Country and Draft

What you ought to know on
THE SELECTIVE SERVICE & THE WAR

SBA ROOM 120

NOV. 16 8 P.M. FREE

CLASS OF 1970 EXECUTIVE COUNCIL MEETING

6 P.M. MAHAR NOV. 19
ALL ATTEND

CLASS MEETING

AT 7:00 P.M.

MAHAR NOV. 19

All members of the Class are cordially invited and urged to attend.

IMPORTANT ISSUES WILL BE DISCUSSED AND DECIDED

"...if you read but one book this year, Dr. Frankl's book should be that one." —Los Angeles Times

Man's Search for Meaning

VIKTOR E. FRANKL

A famous psychiatrist vividly describes his experiences in Dachau and Auschwitz and his formulation of an existential psychotherapy based on a dynamic and humanistic view of modern man. "A gem of dramatic narrative, focused upon the deepest of human problems . . . a compelling introduction to the most significant psychological movement of our day."—Gordon Allport, Harvard University

a WASHINGTON SQUARE PRESS paperback W642 60¢

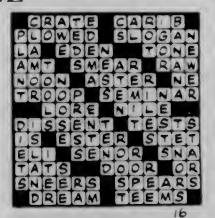
Washington Square Press is also pleased to announce the publication of the selected papers of Viktor E. Frankl:

PSYCHOTHERAPY AND EXISTENTIALISM

"Frankl expresses in an illuminating manner that which is properly understood as the existential question."—Gabriel Marcel

$4.95 hardcover

WASHINGTON SQUARE PRESS, INC. 630 FIFTH AVENUE NEW YORK, N.Y. 10020



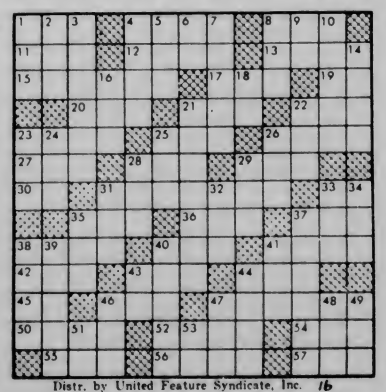
The family said "Better call Dad.
Old Mother MacBeth has it bad.
She's wringing her mitts
Crying 'Out! Out of Schlitz!'
No wonder the old girl is mad."

Schlitz

© 1967 Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co., Milwaukee and other cities

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle



ACROSS

1-Church bench
4-Call
8-Flap
11-Macaw
12-River in France
13-Man's name
15-Waterways
17-Contend
19-Proceed
20-Attempt
21-Fondle
22-Torrid
23-Dillseed
25-Toll
26-Strikes
27-Article of furniture
28-Ventilate
29-Existed
30-Latin conjunction
31-Bands of color
33-River in Italy
35-Southwestern Indian
36-Grain
37-Uncouth person
38-Endorsement on a passport
40-Total
41-Section of hospital
42-Peer Gynt's mother
43-Cyprinoid fish (pl.)
44-Ethiopian title
45-Saint (abbr.)
46-Bushy clump
47-Nimrod
50-Lamb's pen name
52-Ireland
54-Falsehood
55-Finish
56-Soaks
57-Bitter vetch

DOWN

1-Moccasin
2-Period of time
3-Needed
4-Sacred
5-Three-toed sloths
6-Exists
7-Embankment
8-Golf mound
9-Part of "to be"
10-One intolerantly devoted to his own belief
14-Parcels of land
16-Skill
18-Pronoun
21-Punctuation marks
22-Pronoun
23-Man's nickname
24-Openwork fabric
25-Evergreen tree
26-Possesses
28-Devoured
29-Damp
31-Music: as written
32-Cushion
33-Equality
34-Unusual
35-Employ
37-Pretentious home
38-Urn
39-Fiber plant
40-Snake
41-Pale
43-Maiden loved by Zeus
44-Hurries
46-Youngster
47-Strike
48-Goddess of healing
49-Things, in law
51-Preposition
53-Note of scale

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 16

NOTICES

SYMPOSIUM ON DRAFT
On Thurs., Nov. 16, at 8 p.m. the Faculty Group on Peace and War is sponsoring a panel discussion on Selective Service and the War. There will be four panel discussants.

STUDENT REFORM COMMITTEE
On Sat., Nov. 18 at 7 p.m. in T-5 15th floor lounge, all interested students are invited to attend meeting to consider revision of University Open House Policy. Charlie Warren is chairman.

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS
Bus in front of Newman Center at 1:15 on Sat., Nov. 18. New members welcome.

FIRST AID CLASSES CANCELLED
Classes for Thurs., Nov. 16 have been cancelled. They will be as scheduled after Thanksgiving on the first Thursday.

HILLEL
Bagel & Lox Grunch on Sun., Nov. 19 at 11 a.m. in Ballroom.

NEWMAN CLUB
On Nov. 17 at 6 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. in Social Hall, "Breakfast at Tiffany's" will be shown, free to members, non-members 50¢.

WINTER CARNI CONCERT COMM.
On Thurs., Nov. 16 at 7:30 p.m. there is meeting in Commonwealth Room, SU.

COMMUNICATION DISORDERS CLUB
On Thurs., Nov. 16 at 7:45 p.m. in 119 Bartlett all interested undergraduates are invited to attend. Officers will be elected.

AMATEUR RADIO ASSOCIATION
On Thurs., Nov. 16 at 7 p.m. in Radio room of Engineering Lab. All members and those interested are invited to attend.

EDUCATION CLUB
Jonathan Kozol, author of Death at an Early Age, will be guest speaker on Sun., Nov. 19 at 8 p.m. in Southwest Dining Commons No. 7. All invited to attend.

STUDENT RELIGIOUS LIBERALS
On Sun., Nov. 19 at 5:30 p.m. the students will meet in front of Unitarian Society in Amherst at 5:30 and go to Mt. Holyoke to have a round table discussion with Dean. Fern of Mt. Holyoke College Chapel on "A God for the Liberal". All invited to bring picnic supper. Coffee will be served.

CHEMISTRY SEMINARS
Joyce Burrill will speak on "Cyanonitrene" on Thurs., Nov. 16 at 11:15 a.m. in 152 Goessmann.
Mr. Kenneth Blessel will speak on "Lasers Spectaroscopic Light Source" on Thurs. Nov. 16 at 11:15 a.m. in Goessmann 151.

LEGALIZATION OF BIRTH CONTROL INFO
Students for this cause will meet in the Peter Pond basement of Amherst College on Thurs., Nov. 16 at 7:30 p.m. For more information call A. Kawano, 512-2311.

LOST:
Jade and gold ring in vicinity of SBA on Thurs. Call Ann Bayer at 545-2513. Reward.
Woman's watch with black band lost near T-1. Call Judi, 6-5165.
Blue UMass windbreaker taken from Hasbrouck. Call George Ferraguto, 6-7765.
Brown wallet near Hasbrouck or Dwight. Item personal and sentimental value. Important ID's. Contact Stu [illegible] 545-2570.

ENGAGEMENT:
Sandra Jaffee '68, John Quincy Adams, to Frank Broomfield '64, Providence College.

The selection committee for Who's Who among Students In American Colleges and Universities has been selected by James Collins, President of the Student Senate. Following the decision of the Student Senate and Class Officers, as voiced at the last Constitutional Convention, the selection committee will recommend up to thirty-six names for the Who's Who publication.

In order to be considered for nomination, a student must be nominated by another individual or group. The committee is accepting nominations from House Governments, RSO groups, and University members at-large. Each nomination must include a precise rationale for each particular nominee (scholastic standing, group activities, offices held and general contribution to the group or to the University). These rationales will be the sole basis for selection.

Nominations must be mailed no later than November 22. Mail should be sent to Who's Who, RSO Office, Student Union, University of Mass.

NOTICE

Those students assigned to parking area 1, who have been required to park in S lot will again be permitted to park in area 1. Those students specifically assigned to S lot will continue to park in S lot.

S.E.N.D.O.F.F.
Count Down
17 Days

Pres. Johnson Discusses Holiday Cease Fire

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's military and political chiefs in Vietnam joined Wednesday in advising against an extended bombing halt during the year end holidays.

Ellsworth Bunker, U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam, met with Johnson and his top Washington advisers Wednesday shortly after Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. military commander in Vietnam, arrived here from Saigon.

General Westmoreland made clear he opposes any prolonged halt in the bombing of North Vietnam at this time.

Bunker told newsmen it would be "very unfortunate" to suspend the bombing beyond a brief holiday unless North Vietnam indicates interest in moving towards a peaceful solution. He said Hanoi has given no such indication yet.

Shirley Temple Black Loses In California Elections

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — Victors in a congressional primary test which sank the political hopes of Shirley Temple Black agreed Wednesday that Vietnam will continue the No. 1 issue in next month's runoff.

Republican Paul N. McCloskey, 40, a veteran of the Korean War, attributed his one-sided triumph over the former actress to a broad appeal to the moderates in both parties.

Undaunted, the child movie star of a generation ago says she intends to continue in politics.

"I will be back," smiled Shirley after her defeat became apparent.

JFK MEMORIAL CONCERT
- MITCHELL TRIO
- JIM KWESKIN JUG BAND
- PHIL OCHS

2 P.M. — SUNDAY, NOV. 19
Tickets on sale S.U. Box Office

VOTE
For the
SOPHOMORE QUEEN
of
S.E.N.D.O.F.F.
WEEKEND
Fri., Nov. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.—S.U Lobby

"Narcotics and Their Effects"
with
SHERIFF JOHN BOYLE
Sheriff of Hampshire County
Newman Club
General Meeting
Thursday - November 16
7:15 p.m.
Newman Center Lounge

Campus Wide JUDICIAL CONFERENCE
Nov. 18th at 1:00
Student Union Ballroom
All Judiciary Members & Interested Students Are Urged To Attend

AMHERST Cinema
Now Showing
Daily 6:30-8:45
Sat. and Sun.
2:00-4:30-6:50-9:05
WINNER OF 6 ACADEMY AWARDS
A MAN FOR ALL SEASONS
LATE SHOW FRIDAY at 11:30 P.M.
ALFRED HITCHCOCK'S PSYCHO

NEW PENGUINS IN STOCK ...at your campus bookstore

URBAN CHOICES: THE CITY AND ITS CRITICS. Roger Starr. A timely and probing review of America's urban problems and their possible solutions. Covers housing, unemployment, racial tensions, poverty, architectural planning, air and water pollution, and urban politics. A951. $1.45

THE CITY OF MAN. W. Warren Wagar. Examines the possibility of a world civilization as the solution to the twentieth century's political and spiritual crisis. A931. $1.65

LATIN AMERICAN WRITING TODAY. Edited by J. M. Cohen. The latest volume in this new series offers prose and poetry by writers from Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Cuba, Mexico, Peru and Uruguay. All works are presented in English. 2490. $1.25

ENGELS: SELECTED WRITINGS. Edited by W. O. Henderson. A new and wide selection from articles and correspondence, revealing Engels as economist, historian, philosopher, and military critic. A729. $1.95

SEE Shaw's SAINT JOAN—with Maurice Evans, Theodore Bikel, Raymond Massey, Roddy McDowall and Genevieve Bujold—on TV, Monday evening, December 4th. Check local listings for time and channel.

READ Shaw's SAINT JOAN before and after the show. A Penguin paperback exclusive. Complete play with Shaw's Preface. PL3. 65¢

PENGUIN BOOKS INC
3300 Clipper Mill Road Baltimore, Md. 21211

Free Bus Offered for Students

Beginning this Saturday, UMass students will be provided with free bus service between the campus and downtown Amherst.

The bus will operate each Saturday between the hours of 11:15 a.m. and 5:15 p.m. It will leave the UMass campus from Farview Way on the hour and half-hour; it will make the return trip from the center of Amherst at quarter past and quarter till the hour. Stops will be made only at the traffic light by the women's dorms, Morrill Science Center, Amherst Post Office, or regular public bus stops.

Tickets will be required for the return trip. They may be obtained Free of charge, from sponsoring businesses. Sponsors who have been added to the list this week are Adams Drug, Truc, and the Salt Box.

Discussion on Student Judiciary to Be Held November 18

Student judiciary, its role on campus, its purpose and its structure will be among the topics discussed at the campus wide Judicial Conference on Saturday, November 18th at 1:00 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom.

Agenda:

1. Mr. James Burke, Area Coordinator for Central Area will speak about Judiciary in general and what it means to a campus of 14,000.

Dr. Loren P. Beth of the government department and Chairman of the Discipline Board will speak about the discipline board and its relationship to the lower judiciaries. 1-2 p.m.

2. General Court presentation and questions. 2-3 p.m.

3. Small discussion groups.

3 p.m.—conclusion.

All Residence Hall Judiciaries, Area Judiciaries, General Court, Discipline Board, Faculty, Administrators and interested Students are cordially invited.

Sports Hotline 545-0344

AMHERST TOWER

New England's most complete and unique eating establishment for the WHOLE FAMILY !

99 TASTEE VARIETIES TO EAT IN OR TAKE OUT

PIZZA

★ ASSORTED TASTEE DISHES . . .

★ SUBMARINE AND DELICATESSEN STYLE SANDWICHES

"YOU RING, WE BRING"

Free Delivery ($.99 minimum) within the hour
Sunday - Friday 6-11 p.m.

11 East Pleasant St. Amherst
253-7100 256-6667

FEDERAL CAREER DAY

Friday, November 17

Visit With Representatives Of The Following Agencies:

SOIL CONSERVATION SERVICE
GENERAL SERVICES ADMINISTRATION
PORTSMOUTH NAVAL SHIPYARD
VETERANS ADMINISTRATION HOSPITAL, BEDFORD, MASS.
DEFENSE CONTRACT AUDIT AGENCY
VETERANS ADMINISTRATION HOSPITAL, BOSTON, MASS.
U.S. CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION
U.S. ARMY, N.E. DIV., CORPS OF ENGINEERS
BUREAU OF SPORTS FISHERIES AND WILDLIFE
FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK BOARD
SUPERVISOR OF SHIPBUILDING, GROTON CONN.
BUREAU OF DRUG ABUSE CONTROL
GENERAL ACCOUNTING OFFICE
SOCIAL SECURITY ADMINISTRATION
BOSTON NAVAL SHIPYARD
NASA, CAMBRIDGE, MASS.
USN UNDERWATER SOUND LABORATORY
INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE
USN INVESTIGATIVE SERVICE OFFICE

Learn More About The Excitement Of Government Service

Friday, November 17

The Student Union Ballroom—9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

A "WALK-IN" FEDERAL SERVICE ENTRANCE EXAMINATION WILL BE GIVEN SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 18, AT 1:00 P.M. AT MAHAR AUDITORIUM—NO PRIOR REGISTRATION NEEDED.

The Little Men from UNH

Wildcat Defense is Cast Against UMass Offense

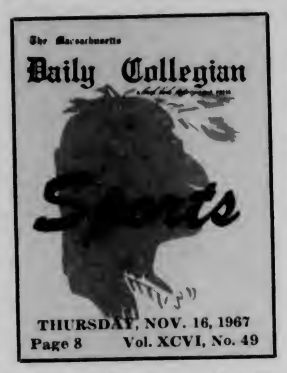
By GLENN BRIERE
Assistant Sports Editor

New Hampshire's football team won the the Yankee Conference championship in 1962, and in the three seasons after that managed only three victories and one tie.

Thus it is a credit to second-year coach Joe Yukica that the Wildcats once again have a respectable team. Their respectability has reached the level at which they may give UMass some trouble Saturday at Durham, N.H.

A talented group of sophs has joined a veteran-filled squad and the result is that UNH has a 5-2 record, 2-2 in the Conference. One of those five wins was a 21-13 win over previously unbeaten Northeastern, New England's top small college team.

The Wildcats have the best defensive record in the Conference, so Saturday's game will pit the defensive leader against the offensive leader. Not only is the defense strong, but the offense is explosive.



A weapon in the offensive arsenal is one of the smallest bombshells around. Bill Estey, who at 5'6 and 140 pounds is probably smaller than the water boy, is the Wildcat's most exciting player.

Estey, a senior, played quarterback for two years but this year has been moved to a specialist's role. The leading punt returner in the Conference, he has returned nine for a 21.7 average, including a 94 yard touchdown.

With his explosiveness, Yukica will also play him at tailback or split end if the situation demands. Estey has caught 16 passes for 198 yards and one touchdown. Although he is to the quarterback what Eddie Gaedel (Bill Veeck's midget) was to American League pitchers, Estey is a touchdown threat in passing situations.

His partner on punt returns is even smaller, if you can imagine that. 5'5 sophoomre Bob Rudolph has returned 17 punts for a 14.0 average, including a 63 yard touchdown, and is also spotted at tailback.

Quarterback Ed Walsh directs an extremely versatile offense. Walsh, a 5'10, 170-pound junior, has hit on 62 of 124 passes for 867 yards and four touchdowns. When not passing, he uses a wealth of talented running backs who do most of the rushing.

One of them is junior tailback Bill Phillips, primarily a straight-ahead man. A 195-pounder, he has 485 yards rushing for a 4.6 yards average. Phillips has caught six passes and leads the Wildcats in scoring with six touchdowns.

He is backed up by Paul Couturier is the third leading rusher on the team with 237 yards. The fullback, Sonny Wilson, does little running but is a good blocker.

Walsh can be expected to executive reverses and sweeps with wingback Tom Kasprzak, a 6'0, 180-pound junior. He has 240 yards rushing for an average of 5.3.

Walsh's favorite passing target is split end Joe Bartlett, a 6'2, 205-pound senior. Bartlett has snagged 21 passes for 318 yards. Six more catches will give him a UNH season record and seven more a career record.

The offensive line is inexperienced with only one letterman starting. Jim Carsley, a 5'11, 215-pound senior guard, is both strong and fast. The rest of the interior line consists of junior tackle Bruce McCullough, 210 pounds and sophomores Dan Chapman, a 210-pound tackle, Dan Drewniak, a 195-pound center, and Charlie Lepisto, a 190-pound guard.

New Hampshire's defense is big and aggressive, averaging about 220 up front. Leading the front five is captain Bill Vasilios, a 5'11, 225 defensive end. Vasilios is strong ad fast, a constant threat to opposing quarterbacks.

The other end, Mike Kott, is a 6'2, 215-pound junior who teams up with Vasolios very well.

The two tackles, Al Wittemen and Vince Martino, are solid performers. Wittemen, a 225-pound junior, leaves no doubt about his strength, while Martino, also a 225-pound junior, played every game last year and won All-Conference mention. Martino boasts size, speed and aggressiveness.

UNH's linebackers are quite small. Dick Gordon, 5'9", 180 pounds, and Harry Koulouheras, 5'9, 185, will probably do some blitzing despite their small size.

In the defensive secondary, the best is safety Kurt Vollherbst, a 5'10, 165-pound junior who despite his size hits very hard. He is also a fine place-kicker with 18 of 20 extra points and four field goals in seven tries.

Cornerback Frank Carey, a junior, is also a hard hitter and has come into his own this fall. The other cornerback, Reno Regis, played quarterback last year for the Wildcats' excellent frosh team but Yukica has switched him to defensive back to take advantage of his speed.

FB BRUCE COCHRANE

Cochrane--Key Blocker In Redmen Backfield

By STEVE ROSS
Staff Reporter

The 'other man' in the UMass backfield is fullback, Bruce Cochrane. He is used infrequently as a ball carrier, only 15 times for 46 yards this year, but the excellent blocks he executes to spring his teammates loose are frequent.

"Bruce has improved tremendously," explains backfield coach Jack Delaney, "He has learned a part of the game that he never knew before." When Bruce starred at Brookline High he carried the ball about as much as Bob Mitchell does for Vermont. Consequently he never learned how to block.

When Bruce joined the varsity last season he had to learn how to make holes for others to run rather inept. "At first Bruce was through. In the beginning he was so bad that if he fell out of a chair, it would be an even money bet that he'd miss the floor," Delaney revealed, "but now he's quite a hitter out there."

Bruce has always been a success at football. At Brookline he was a two year starter and was alternated at the post as a sophomore. During that span, the Wealthy Towners compiled a 16-7-2 slate. He was elected captain his senior year, and was selected to play in the Harry Agganis All-Star game.

Last year he contributed to the Redmen effort by place-kicking while learning the intricacies of fullback. He converted on nine of 13, and kicked a field goal. His three pointer came against Maine in the season's opener, with 18 seconds left to give the Redmen a 10-7 win.

This year he has started every game. Against BU he garnered his only touchdown. He gives Greg Landry excellent pass protection and opens up large holes for Landry, Craig Lovell, Tim Driscoll, Jerry Grasso, and Fred Hairston. Cochrane was chosen by the Varsity M Club as outstanding offensive player in the 28-24 Homecoming win over Rhode Island.

Bruce has been hampered the past two weeks with the flu and a groin injury. He was in the infirmary the week of the Vermont game, and agravated his groin in the mudbath against the Catamounts.

Teammate, fraternity brother, and co-captain Jim "Sprite" Mitchell summed it all up when he said, "Fullbacks here don't do much ball carrying, but they're expected to do a lot of blocking. Corky still isn't perfect, but he's springing the other guys loose. You can't ask much more than that."

Redmen on the Warpath

CROSS-COUNTRY — vs. New Hampshire (at Durham, N.H., 3 p.m.)

CROSS-COUNTRY (Fr) — vs. New Hampshire (at Durham, N.H., 3 p.m.)

Top Ten In East

1.	Penn State (6-2)	80
2.	Army (7-1)	68
3.	Syracuse (6-2)	65
4.	Yale (6-1)	55
5.	Navy (4-4)	43
6.	Princeton (6-1)	40
7.	Dartmouth (6-1)	32
8.	Harvard (5-2)	22
9.	Pittsburgh (1-7)	15
10.	Massachusetts (6-1)	8

Tonight's IM Hoop Action

Time	Court	Team
6:30	1	Del Vikings-Bismarks
6:30	2	Moody Blues-S. Weedundas
6:30	3	Tabomas-Bouncing F
6:30	4	Knicks-Avecs
7:30	1	Huskies-Seagram 6's
7:30	2	Monuments-Spartans
7:30	3	Terrors-Ironmen
7:30	4	Bulldozers-Smashers

Pats' Trull Starts Sunday

BOSTON (AP)—Coach Mike Holovak of the Boston Patriots said Wednesday he intends to start Don Trull at Quarterback Sunday against the New York Jets, benching veteran team general Babe Parilli.

Trull will be making his first start for the Patriots since he joined the club last month in a trade with the Houston Oilers. He was the NCAA top passer in 1962-63 while playing with Baylor University.

Holovak did not rule out the possibility Parilli will see action against the Jets. He said Parilli's reaction to the decision was "let's do all we have to win."

Is the Eagle Really a Turkey?

Yankee Conference Standings

	YC			ALL
	W	L	T	W	L	T	Pts	Opp
Mass	4	0	0	6	1	0	178	82
Conn	3	1	0	3	4	0	108	133
RI	2	1	1	6	1	1	145	84
NH	2	2	0	5	2	0	156	52
Vermont	1	3	1	3	4	1	96	138
Maine	0	5	0	0	8	0	42	242

Can Share Title

Little Redmen Clash with UNH Frosh in Finale

By PETER CARROLL
Staff Reporter

Going into the season finale, the UMass freshman football team may have only a 1-4 record, but by upending the New Hampshire frosh tomorrow at 1:30, the Little Redmen will share the Yankee Conference freshman championship with two others.

UMass has a record of 1-1 in the Conference, while the Little Wildcats are 2-0. Should the Little Redmen win tomorrow, they will finish in a three-way tie for the title with UNH and UConn, all with 2-1 records.

New Hampshire's freshmen are 3-1 overall. They have beaten Northeastern, Rhode Island and UConn while losing to the Dartmouth frosh. UMass coach Dave Kelley said, "They are a bit like their varsity with a lot of formations to confuse the opposing defense and only a minimum of basic plays."

UNH possesses a good offense and an average defense. Like UMass, they alternate their quarterbacks, one to do most of the passing and the other to direct the running game. Kelley feels defense will be the key to the game.

A number of UMass players are sidelined by injuries. Both starting offensive guards, Ed Flaim and Dick Hogg are definitely out and backs Neil Hering and Tom Semino are doubtful starters. This has forced Kelley to shift John Neri to the backfield as a blocking back.

Otherwise the offense will remain largely the same. Quarterbacks Dick Dyer and Joe Lang again will be alternated.

The starting defense for the Little Redmen will be Dave Walsh and Russ Wood at end, John Aylward and John Maloney at tackle, Tom Callaghan at middle guard, Bill Sroka and Bill Byron at linebacker, Mike Kostanski at chief, Jim Rendle and Ed Shapienza at cornerback, and Tom Cassidy at safety.

PARTLY CLOUDY AND WARMER

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Next Week
The Daily Collegian
Will Publish On Monday Only.

VOL. XCVI, NO. 50 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1967

APPEARING Sunday night at the J.F.K. Memorial Concert will be the Mitchell Trio (pictured above), the Jim Kweskin Jug Band and Phil Ochs. The proceeds of the concert will go to the John F. Kennedy Memorial section of the new UMass library.

FUTURE EVENTS AT THE UNIVERSITY

SUNDAY, NOV. 19
J.F.K. Memorial Concert (2 p.m.) Mitchell Trio, Jim Kweskin Jug Band, and Phil Ochs appearing in concert at the Cage.

FRIDAY, DEC. 1
S.E.N.D.O.F.F. Weekend commences with the Bitter Send Folk House (8 p.m.) with Jackie Washington, the Times Square Two, and local folk talent, in the S.U. Ballroom.

SATURDAY, DEC. 2
The Turtles and the Pilgrims at 8 p.m. and 10:15 p.m. in the S.U. Ballroom.

SUNDAY, DEC. 3
Simon and Garfunkel in concert at the Cage (7 p.m.)

THURSDAY, DEC. 7
The Harlem Globetrotters at the Cage (8 p.m.)

SUG Board Chairman Whitman Clarifies 'Mother of Voices' Issue

By JIM FOUDY
City Editor

The underground newspaper, Mother of Voices, banned Wednesday from selling at the lobby counter of the Student Union, was back in business Thursday distributing their newspaper at a table set up by Students for Political Action. SPA has permission from the Student Union Governing Board to sell literature at a table in the lobby.

The newspaper, based in Northampton, was taken off the lobby counter about 5 p.m. Wednesday on an order from Associate Dean of Students Mark Noffsinger.

Noffsinger had previously given "Mother" permission to sell but recinded after reading the first issue which he considered "gross". He told the editors however, that he had no objection to their setting up a table since that came under the jurisdiction of the SUG Board.

Members of the "Mother of Voices" editorial board met with Neal Whitman, chairman of SUG Board, Wednesday evening and asked for a hearing on the matter of establishing a table. Whitman said that no meeting could be called until after Thanksgiving.

According to Whitman, "The "Mothers" did not approach the SUG Board to distribute their paper across a table in the Student Union lobby."

Whitman said, "They sought a commerical setting . . . thus, the fate of the paper was rightfully in the hands of the Student Union Staff." In his opinion the decision as to what will be sold at the counters should not be in the hands of students.

He feels that they should apply to SUG Board and added, "If they can not prove themselves a service and are openly a commercial enterprise, they should not expect access to the Student Union via SUG Board."

If his board refuses permission, Whitman feels that they should work out with the Union staff "the ways in which they could be accepted at the lobby counter as an acceptable commercial publication."

Arthur Cohen, a member of the "Mother" editorial board said that the idea for using the SPA table came after their meeting with Whitman. He said it will serve as a temporary base of operations until a SUG Board decision is rendered.

Cohen disagrees with Whitman's stand, in that he feels "The Mother is a mass media like any other publication and deserves the same consideration."

Cohen fears that SUG Board may refuse their request because they disagree with his "style and method." He feels they deserve the right to compete with other media and present a differing opinion.

Cohen said that Dr. Noffsinger visited their table yesterday morning and had no complaint.

Noffsinger said that removing it from the lobby counter was an administrative decision which he was personally confronted with. He told the editors Wednesday that he defended their right to publish and sell their newspaper but not at the lobby counter as long as he was in charge.

(Continued on page 2)

'Daily Collegian' Editor Announces Continuing Growth

"These are exciting days for the Daily Collegian, and next semester we will strive for even higher quality." Chet Weinerman, editor-in-chief of the MDC told staffers at a meeting in the Colonial Lounge last evening.

The meeting served both as a review of the semester's operation and as a means of announcing the Daily Collegian's plans to expand to a full size newspaper next semester.

Weinerman said that the page size would be eight columns, the size of a regular city paper, instead of the present five and that it would average eight pages an issue.

The editor said that the Associated Press wire would be used more carefully and more extensively in order to provide the University community with full coverage of the day's events both on and off campus.

"The University community is somewhat of an isolated area and it is our responsibility as a mass media to give the campus all the news in a format that is appealing, workable, and provides us with a training ground for professionalism," Weinerman said.

He also announced that Ron LaBrecque has been named as special projects editor and that John Griffin has been named as co-photo editor.

The editor said that LaBrecque will handle long-range, in-depth news stories. Several projects have been planned already, which will be of great significance to the campus.

Continuing, he stressed, "With our newly defined role as an all-news media and an outlook toward a professional quality we must strive to develop more professional workmanship as journalists."

He added that accuracy in gathering facts and responsibility in forming opinion were important tools in the task of producing a daily newspaper.

Weinerman made it clear, however, that campus news would not be sacrificed or reduced with the extended use of AP. "We are constantly seeking to enlarge our staff in order to improve our coverage of the campus and we welcome new members at all times to serve in whatever capacity in which they are able to serve."

(Continued on page 2)

WATCH FOR THIS SIGNATURE

CONRAD

It's the way Paul Conrad, Pulitzer Prize winner, signs his cartoons which now appear regularly on the Editorial Page of this paper.

You'll enjoy his penetrating, thoughtful and humorous comments on national and international persons and problems. Look for Conrad's cartoons in

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian

Japan Could Mediate Vietnam Peace Talks

NEW YORK (AP) — Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sate lunched with U.N. Secretary-General U Thant on Thursday and said they discussed the possibility of Japan acting as mediator in Vietnam.

Sate also told newsmen he feels some reciprocal action by the Communists should precede any halt in U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

The Japanese prime minister, who flew here after conferences in Washington with President Johnson, said he thinks a solution to the Vietnam war is mainly up to the opposing sides.

But he added: "There might be possibilities of some third party finding some ways or means. And since Japan is not involved in the actual fighting, there is a feeling that Japan might play this role. I discussed these possibilities today with Secretary General U Thant." He did not elaborate.

In two days of policy talks with President Johnson, Sate won a promise that the United States will return the Bonin Islands to Japan within a year, including the World War II battleground of Iwo Jima.

However, the Japanese leader was unable to get Johnson to agree to a timetable for a similar return of Okinawa, a key American defense base only 350 miles from the Chinese mainland. The retention of the base by the United States is a politically explosive issue in Japan.

Jonathan Kozol, the controversial former Boston school teacher, will speak Sunday night in Southwest Dining Commons No. 7. For details see page 2.

Goddard Students Detain IVS Man

PLAINFIELD, Vt. (AP)—Students at Goddard College tried to prevent an International Voluntary Services worker from recruiting students Thursday by keeping him on a dormitory stairwell for nearly four hours.

Several students said the organization is controlled by the Central Intelligence Agency and the military. The IVS, a private non-profit group, has 250 field workers in Vietnam and Laos doing agricultural, educational and economic development work.

No violence occurred when the recruiter, Jim Linn of Washington, D.C., was blocked by some 60 students at both ends of the stairwell.

They said if he wanted to get out that he would have to walk over them.

However, when the lunch bell rang the students broke up the blockade and went to lunch, inviting Linn along with them.

During the afternoon, two students were assigned to go with Linn and present reasons why students should not join IVS.

WE DON'T MEAN TO HOUND YOU -

BUT - NO BONES ABOUT IT...

WE NEED BLOOD

THE RED CROSS BLOODMOBILE

is here

Poll on Marijuana Smoking Conducted by Debating Team

A questionnaire to determine student opinion on marijuana smoking is being prepared for campus wide distribution.

Included in the questionnaire will be questions such as "Have you ever smoked marijuana?" and "If you had the opportunity, to smoke marijuana again or try it for the first time, would you do so?" Further questions will concern whether or not the student feels marijuana is harmful and if the student is familiar with laws regarding marijuana.

The results of the questionnaire will be used by the University Debate Team in a debate on the legalization of marijuana, Monday, Nov. 20, at 8:00 P.M., in Mahar Auditorium.

"MOTHER" . . .

(Continued from page 1)

This morning he assured Cohen that selling at the table was proper and that there would be no complaint issued.

The sales at the SPA table are expected to provide enough funds for a second printing. Cohen said that the incident was "unfortunate" but admitted that "it has obviously helped sales."

Although the SPA table has relieved "Mother's" financial bind, Cohen feels that the issue of "Administrators deciding what newspapers will be available to students" still needs to be cleared up.

Cohen accepts the fact that Noffsinger has control over the lobby counter, but questions whether he should have this power at all.

Noffsinger said that the issue of whether he should have power to decide is a legitimate question and should be discussed and brought to SUG Board.

'DAILY COLLEGIAN' . . .

(Continued from page 1)

Weinerman discussed some of the shortcomings of the past year and asked all the staff to make use of the advisory services of Mr. Alvin Oickle, Dr. Dario Politella and Mr. Sid McKeen, all professional journalists who work with the Collegian staff.

Editor Claims Credibility Gap Does Exist

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The credibility gap between the American people and their government was blamed by a newsman Thursday on government publicity men who try to "Make it look good."

Harrison E. Salisbury, assistant managing editor of the New York Times, spoke to the 58th annual convention of Sigma Delta Chi, the national journalistic society.

Salisbury said, however, that the blame must be shared by news media which have become "flabby" and have depended too much on government news releases.

He said there is a danger for the whole country if the people lose confidence in both the press and the government.

The people, he said, will turn to someone who says, "I have the answers."

"The time becomes ripe for adventurerers," Salisbury said.

Salisbury said it isn't a problem peculiar to the present administration in Washington, but is a problem complicated by the war in Vietnam and mass demonstrations at home.

Jonathan Kozol To Lecture On Urban Schools

The author of "Death at An Early Age" will appear in Southwest Dining Commons #7 at 8:00 p.m. Sunday.

Jonathan Kozol, the former Boston school teacher who was fired for reading a non-approved poem by a Negro writer, will lecture on "The Roots of Violence in An Urban Public School."

Recently published, the Kozol book became an immediate best-seller. Although it is the story of one man's experience in a single school system, critics have hailed it as being relevant to the national failures of the American school system.

Parts of the book have appeared in the Harvard Educational Review, in the September and October issues of the Atlantic Monthly, and in the Boston Globe.

Area Families Open Homes For Holiday

Many Amherst families have volunteered to open their homes this Thanksgiving to students from foreign countries who will be in the Amherst area during the holiday. Any foreign student who would like to spend Thanksgiving with an American family is invited to notify Mrs. Russell, the foreign student advisor. This is a fine opportunity to meet an American family and participate in a significant event in American culture.

Two dormitories and the graduate house will remain open during vacation. The housing office will publish exact information concerning dorms, Hatch hours, etc. in the Collegian before the holiday.

Black Power Leader Walks Out on Draft

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Fred Brooks, 20, a Negro leader of the Black Power movement who says the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee "is behind the times," walked out of an Army induction center Thursday after refusing to be drafted.

But Senate investigators still want hin in Washington next week for their probe of last summer's riots.

"SNCC is behind the times," said Brooks, a former president of the Nashville chapter, after refusing to take the step forward at the center. "Black people are having to do things on their own now, like in Detroit and Newark."

Daily Collegian
Hotline
545-2550

Newspaperman to Speak About Obscenity in Print

A professional newspaperman will speak at UMass next month on one of the hottest topics on campus, "Profanity and Obscenity in Print."

Thomas W. Merrigan will speak at the Student Union Dec. 4 at 7:30 p.m. The meeting, sponsored by Alpha Phi Gamma, the campus honorary journalism society, is open to all interested members of the University community.

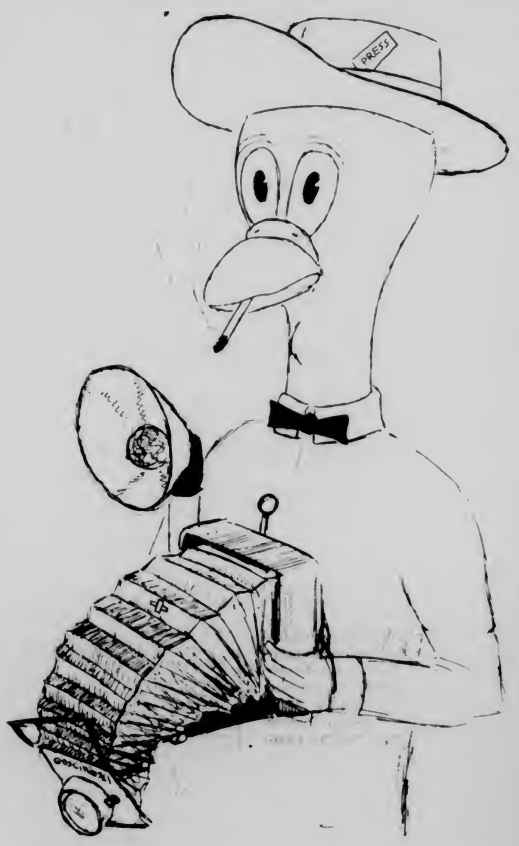
The discussion was arranged by APG last month primarily to tie in with efforts to renew publication of Yahoo, Pres. James Foudy said today.

Yahoo, censured on the state Senate floor in May, 1966, has not been published since, because the administration has withheld its approval of Student Senate funding. A new group of students is now working to revive the campus humor magazine.

Since the APG speaking program was arranged, however, two other student-sponsored publications have been criticized for profanity in print. They are Hobbit, published by students for the Orchard Hill complex, and Mother of Voice, an underground paper printed off-campus by UMass students.

Foudy said that Merrigan will give his views and those of others off-campus when they read material they call "offensive" in student publications. Merrigan is an education-government writer for the Greenfield Recorder and a graduate of the University's journalism program for New England Newspaper Fellows.

LONDON (AP) — Miss Peru, Madeleine Hartog Bel, 21, won the 1967 Miss World Contest Thursday night.



Miss United States, Pamela Pall, 20, dropped out after gaining the semifinals with 14 other girls.

GOT A GRIPE ABOUT THE FOOD?

GOT A GRIPE ABOUT THE LINE?

EACH COMMONS HAS A STUDENT SENATE COMPLAINT AND SUGGESTION BOX.

USE IT.

"You too can become one of the great Collegian Photographers."

CLASS OF 1970
EXECUTIVE COUNCIL MEETING
6 P.M. MAHAR NOV. 19
ALL ATTEND

CLASS MEETING
AT 7:00 P.M.
MAHAR NOV. 19
All members of the Class are cordially invited and urged to attend.
IMPORTANT ISSUES WILL BE DISCUSSED AND DECIDED

SPECIAL THANKSGIVING DINNER
Thursday, November 23rd
Student Union Hatch

Cranberry Juice Cocktail
Roast Turkey with Dressing
Whipped Potato Giblet Gravy
Butternut Squash Buttered Green Peas
Cranberry Sauce Roll and Butter
Coffee (all you want) tea or milk
Mints and Nuts

Price: Adults $1.95 including tax
Children under 12 years — $ .99

Coffee, sandwiches, etc. served 11:00 a.m.-2:00 p.m.
Dinner served 11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m.

Please sign up with Food Service cashier or phone 545-2530 by November 21st.

MDC Photo of the Week

A Photo Of The Week will be printed every Friday in the Collegian.

Each student is invited to submit a photograph. Editors will choose the outstanding photo.

Remember, "anything goes" when shooting your subjects.

Young Democrats Resolution Urges Cessation of Bombing

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — A coalition of anti-Johnson forces and peace-seekers introduced a resolution at the national convention of Young Democrats Thursday night calling for "the immediate and unconditional cessation of bombing in Vietnam."

The coalition, which includes college-age Young Democrats who previously had sought a strong statement calling for President Johnson to pass up a bid for re-election, gathered behind the candidacy of Allen Reed of Lincoln, Neb., for the Young Democrats' presidency.

Reed, an avowed peace candidate, said the coalition believes an immediate end of the bombing "should substantially improve prospects of negotiation while also serving the humanitarian purpose of limiting civilian casualties" in Vietnam.

Soon after the coalition force was announced, Thomas O'Brien of Boston, a spokesman for the college-age group, said he was sacrificing his draft resolution to keep Johnson from being the 1968 Democratic presidential nominee.

O'Brien said his proposal "would destroy the unity of the peace forces. To introduce something you know would be beaten under those circumstances would be fruitless."

Convention officials who support President Lyndon Johnson have called the efforts to force through a so-called peace resolution "deliberate attempts to embarrass the President."

More proposals, including two described by the chairman of the international affairs subcommittee as "hawkish," were due for presentation. A third alternative, proposed by Alex R. Seith of Chicago, a candidate for president of the group, called for establishment of "a Vietnam questions committee to begin a progressive discussion . . . on the dominating issue of the day."

LOCKSMITH SERVICES
KEYS &
RUBBER STAMPS
CHENEY LOCKSMITH
90 N. Pleasant St.
253-7010

UN Resolution To Break Deadline In Middle East

by CHARLES STORER
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Britain submitted to the U.N. Security Council Thursday a compromise resolution it hoped would break the prolonged diplomatic deadlock on a settlement in the Middle East.

Lord Caradon, British U.N. ambassador, said the alternative to effective council action is, "too terrible to contemplate. So great is the need," Caradon said, "and so great is the measure of agreement among us that I cannot believe we will fail."

The resolution provides for Israeli withdrawal "from territories occupied in the recent conflict," a reference to the six-day Arab-Israeli war in which Israel seized hundred of square miles of Egyptian, Jordanian and Syrian territory.

It also affirms the need for the termination "of all claims or states of belligerency." The Arabs have maintained a state of belligerency against Israel since the Jewish nation came into being 19 years ago.

It further makes provision for a special U.N. representative to go to the Middle East "to promote agreement and assist efforts to achieve a peaceful and accepted settlement."

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad declared that Egypt was "absolutely firm" in its demand for complete Israeli withdrawal from all captured Arab territories.

.."Under no circumstances will we compromise on this point," he said.

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban reiterated that to his government "agreement on secure and recognized boundaries is absolutely essential."

He said Israel could not "return to the shattered armistice regime or the fragile demarcation lines.

General agreement exists that a special U.N. representative should be dispatched to the Middle East to try to work out a permanent settlement, but members differ sharply on his specific assignment.

The thorniest problem has been the provision for Israeli withdrawal.

NOTICE

Those students assigned to parking area 1, who have been required to park in S lot will again be permitted to park in area 1. Those students specifically assigned to S lot will continue to park in S lot.

The Daily Collegian has added one new telephone number and changed another.

The new number, 545-0344, has been assigned to the Sports staff, while business and advertising has been changed from 549-0716 to 545-0311.

The News Desk, or "Hot Line," remains 545-2550 as does the Editor's number, 549-1311.

SENDOFF '70
Weekend Dec. 1, 2, 3, 7
Dec. 1 Bitter Send Folk House $1.50
Dec. 2 Dance, 2 Shows, 8 & 10:15
Turtles & Pilgrims $1.50
Dec. 3 Simon & Garfunkel
7 p.m., Cage $2.50
Dec. 7 Harlem Globetrotters
8:00 p.m., Cage $2.50
Sophs $2.00

Student Senate Reports

Much Progress Made By Academic Affairs

If the number of active student members is any index, Academic Affairs is easily the most popular of the Student Senate's ten standing committees. The popularity of the Committee seems to be due to the fact that the majority of student problems are academic in nature. However, many students do not realize that it is this Senate comittee which serves as the primary agency for the official registration of student academic grievances.

The accomplishments of Academic Affairs to date are many according to Senator Chris McGracken. Academic Affairs made possible the Pass-fail system which goes into effect next semester. It was instrumental in nullifying the policy which started that three final exams in one day did not constitute a conflict. And most recently, it was Academic Affairs that arranged for the re-scheduling of exams that were to be held immediately following Homecoming.

At present the Committee is researching the possible establishment of a Student Complaint Board to act as a middleman between students and faculty. Also on the semester agenda are recommendations concerning the extension of hours at Goodell and department libraries, and the elimination of the long walks between classes presently caused by faculty scheduling.

Early next semester the Committee hopes to recommend to the faculty and administration fundamental changes in the core curriculum of the University and a change in the physical education requirement: either the elimination of the present requirement or the institution of courses for academic credit.

The Academic Affairs Committee meets at 5:30 p.m. Wednesdays in the Hampden Room of the Student Union. Meetings are open to the public; students are invited to bring complaints before the Committee at any time.

Bonnie and Clyde To Live on Film

Bonnie and Clyde, a movie starring Warren Beatty and Faye Dunaway, played this month at the Amherst Cinema.

Bonnie and Clyde, two latter-day outlaws, met under unusual circumstances, make their living in an unusual way and have a most unusual love affair.

They jump from one bank to another in one stolen car after another, always announcing themselves with: "Hi, I'm Bonnie Parker!" "I'm Clyde Barrow!" "We're the Barrow gang!" "We rob banks!"

Clyde and Bonnie, joined by Clyde's brother, Buck, and his wife, Blanche, and the slow-witted C. W. Moss, travel through Texas and Tennessee, robbing when they need the money, eluding the Texas Rangers and local police and trying the rest of the time to live completely normal lives.

It is a movie of conflicting moods, a satire, a romance, a comedy, a tragedy.

It is the story of a young man's search for identity and fame and a young couple's inexpressible love for each other. It is a satire on a society which places too much emphasis on fame and renown and a comedy with a setting in the era of Model T's and double - breasted suits. It is a tragedy with a gun in the leading role. It is realistic and yet romantic. It is a movie that makes an audience laugh, cry, and most of all, makes it think.

Gay '90's Back For a Bar of Soap

Short on cash but want a different Friday night? 8 p.m. tonight at Memorial Hall (second floor) is the place for you. Admission? Bring a bar of soap, a tube of toothpaste (unused, please!!) or, in fact, any toilet article and prepare yourself for the one and only live performance of its kind.

You will be drawn into the world of the gay nineties. Witness the most heart-rending love story of the century. Will Sydney Snurd blackmail Mrs. McGillicuddy and the lovely, shy, young Mary? Will Mary find her dashing, debonair lover, Charles? Does love conquer all? See A Dastardly Affair.

Lighter (or heavier?) moments will be provided by our distinguished chorus line: all ravishing University coeds. All "proceeds" will be donated to the Belchertown State School for the Mentally Retarded. The performance is sponsored and presented by Gamma Sigma Sigma.

JFK MEMORIAL CONCERT
• MITCHELL TRIO
• JIM KWESKIN JUG BAND
• PHIL OCHS
2 P.M. — SUNDAY, NOV. 19
Tickets on sale S.U. Box Office

This Weekend at HILLEL
Friday Evening Services
7:00 P.M.
Speaker: RABBI KOWAL
Sunday Morning at 11:00
BAGELS AND LOX BRUNCH
S. U. Ballroom
PROGRAM: Readings from Jewish Humor

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

A Responsible Voice

The furor that has arisen as a result of the banning of "The Mother of Voices" from the Union lobby counter has reached exaggerated and somewhat undesirable emotional proportions.

Cries schriek from student leaders against the iron-fisted administrative control. These claims, gullably swallowed by most students, are believed because students will believe anything that is contrary to administrative policy. It is a kind of extension of the adolescent rebellion against parental authority.

It appears that Associate Dean of Students Noffsinger, in this case, acted within his rights and in accordance with his responsibilities. One of Noffsinger's defined duties is to ultimately regulate the sale of items over the public information counter at the Union. This lobby counter operates from revenue produced in the building. Its staff and equipment are all supplied by the administration. It is the public counter of a public building. Unlike most other areas of the Union, it does not fall under the jurisdiction of the Student Union Governing Board.

Seeing gross violations of public taste on both covers of the paper, Noffsinger had the moral responsibility to remove immediately the papers from the counter. One interesting, and perhaps unfortunate, result of this action is that now the Mother sales are tremendous because everyone wants to see why it was banned.

Perhaps Noffsinger should have acted through student channels but a fact of life is that in emergncy situations, urgent action is required. Feeling this responsibility both from his job and to the University community, Noffsinger acted.

The cries of censorship are unwarranted. The Mother of Voices staff was told that if they could acquire the permission of an R.S.O. group, who was allowed by the SUG Board to sell in the Union, that this group could sponsor the sale of the Mother. The Mother of Voices was being sold in the Union yesterday. Noffsinger said, yesterday, that he would protect the right of the Mother to potentially be sold in the Union but it cannot be sold through administrative channels (i.e., at the lobby counter).

The cover in question was worthy of removal—and of little else. Noffsinger acted legitimately, especially considering the urgency of the situation. Perhaps the public condemnation should not fall on the Dean but rather on those who feel that calling a publication "underground" gives it the license to violate and sacrifice standards of journalism for the sake of hip conformity, shock and ultra-coolness.

Chet Weinerman, Editor-in-Chief

"...Touche...!"

The Pulitzer Prize-winning cartoons of Paul Conrad have now become a regular feature of the Daily Collegian Editorial Page.

Conrad won the Pulitzer Prize in 1964 for the quality of his work for the entire year instead of for only a single cartoon as is usually the case. In 1963 he won the award of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society.

The trademark of Conrad cartoons is penetrating and pungent comment spiced with incisive humor. He considers himself neither a liberal nor a conservative. "I don't buy the idea that everybody has to be labeled," he says. "I look at a situation, try to decide who's right and why and go on from there."

Conrad is staff cartoonist for the Los Angeles Times and his cartoons are syndicated nationally.

Campus Comment

In Defense of "Mr. Street"

To the editor:

Re: "A Nation's Right to exist" by Mr. Tillinger and Mr. Burman Nov. 7.

Zionist propaganda stresses the large size and backwardness of the Arab land and refers to the ability of the Jews to rescue Palestine from its swampy and disease-ridden state. By extension, the Zionists thus claim a legitimate right to take over the land.

Palestine constitutes a part of that ancient birthplace of civilization—namely the Fertile Crescent. In addition Israel has been the benefactor of some 16 billion dollars in aid and contributions from abroad.

Basically the Arab States rejected the UN partition of Palestine because it violates the provision of the UN Charter which gives a people the right to decide their own destiny.

The country, after World War I, had a population of about 700,000: 574,000 Moslems, 70,000 Christians, and 56,000 Jews. Immigration of the Jews by 1948 brought Jewish population up to 33 1/3% of total inhabitants. The Arabs rejected partition on the grounds that 56% of the land of Palestine was to be given to one-third of the population.

Secondly the Arabs feared Zionist expansion while the Zionists had no reason to reject the partition.

Zionists claim that Arabs fled their home voluntarily. While the United Nations was still considering the future of Palestine, while British forces were still in Palestine before the formal partition of Israel, and before any Arab Armies entered Palestine, the Zionist forces attacked and occupied the Arab towns and villages which they were not authorized to control under the partition agreement.

The list of villages is impressive: Sasa, 16 Feb. 1948; Haifa 21 Feb.; Saiameh, 1 March; Bir Adas, 6 March; Kanna 13 March; Kastal, 4 April; Deir Yasin, 10 April; Lajjen, 15 April; Saris, 17 April; Tiberias, 20 April; Jerusalem 25 April; Jaffa, 26 April; Acre, 27 April; Safad, 7 May; Beisan, 9 May. (New York Times before May 15, 1948).

Author Jon Eimche describes the attacks as "the darkest stain on Jewish record." (The Seven Fallen Pillars p. 228) The British historian Toynbee wrote it was "comparable to crimes committed against the Jews by the Nazis." (A Study of History vol. VIII p. 290).

The Zionist Menachen Beigin, leader of the attack on Deir Yasin wrote "The massacres are not only justified, but there would not have been a state of Israel without the victory of Deir Yasin". (The Revolt: Story of the Irqun, Jewish News Letter, 3 Oct. 1960).

The 1948 war was not a war against the Jewish State but was a war against the expansion of the Jewish State.

What the refugees want is to return to the land on which they were born and lived. Yet, just a few days ago, Mr. Eshkol not only rejected the refugees "right to live on their property" but issued a world wide call for Jews to come to Israel and live on this land.

Israel is not the only country of the Middle East which is asking for peace. King Hussin speaking on behalf of Arab leaders, asserted a few days ago in his Georgetown University address, "As for us, there has always been and will always be a place for the Jews in the Arab world. We have always recognized the legitimate rights of Jews as a free people." The Arabs ask Israel to confine its geographical boundaries to the UN partition and return the Arab refugees to their land.

Perhaps this is the peace and recognition that Mr. Tillinger and Mr. Burman suggested would allow the 1,200,000 refugees to return to their homes of twenty years ago—if so, the Arabs are willing to accept.

Joan McCallum

Part 4

Suffer the Little Children . . .

"Oz! I am Oz! Ruler of the university!"

Dorothy, Glinda, and Rumplestilskin rose meekly.

"Oh great and powerful Oz," quavered Dorothy, "we have a problem with no solution."

"What is it, eight o'clock gym?" thundered Oz.

"No, Your Magnificence. It's the toy drive. How can we get people to remember to bring used toys to the Union after Thanksgiving vacation," quivered Glinda.

"No one will remember," scoffed Rumplestilskin.

"Sure they will! They can write it down in a notebook," said Dorothy.

"Or bring home a Daily Munchikin—that would remind them," insisted Glinda.

"Yes, they could, we all could," rumbled Oz, "but I'll tell you the best way to remember . . . "

"How?" pleaded Dorothy. "Tell us, please!"

"All it takes is a little thought," replied Oz. "We'll be home soon, home with family and friends. All we have to do is look across the Thanksgiving table and imagine no one sitting there, no one smiling at us, or laughing with us. And then think, that there are children whose world is that empty chair across the table. And then all we have to do is think a little more of what our used toys, given in love and friendship, would mean to those children."

The Great Oz then said goodbye and headed for his office atop Mt. Whitmore. Rumplestilskin said something about a coed in a roomful of straw and left. So Dorothy and Glinda went back upstairs.

"Did you leave the door open?" asked Dorothy.

"No," said Glinda, "but it's wide open now and somebody's in our room."

It was true! There was someone inside! Cautiously, the girls peered through the doorway.

"Oh no," exclaimed Dorothy, "its . . ."

(To be concluded Monday)

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union . . . University of Massachusetts . . . Amherst, Mass.

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Chester S. Weinerman '68

MANAGING EDITOR ..... John H. Dean, Jr. '69
BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Charles Smith '69

Sports Day Editor: Jan Curley. Editorial Day Editor: Sue Wallace
FRIDAY NEWS STAFF: Don Epstein, Day Editor; Cheryl Bezis, Al Sirota, Pam Wainshilbaum, Diana Cornell, Joan Jankowski, Pat Flanagan, Elaine Lonardo.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the Daily Collegian publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amended by the act of June 11, 1943. Printed by Hamilton I. Newell, Inc., University Drive, Amherst. Subscription: $6.00 per year, $3.50 per semester.

Offices of the Daily Collegian are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

Polis

Republican Contenders--III

By BOB BRILL
Associate Editorial Chairman

Ronald Reagan faced many political and financial problems when he took office ten months ago. He was, first of all, a political amateur with no experience in public office. He was the first Republican governor in eight years and had to deal with a legislature controlled by Democrats.

His predecessor, Edmund Brown, had avoided a tax hike during the last year of his administration for political reasons and had borrowed money from special state funds. Mr. Reagan felt that these monies had to be repaid and that because of fiscal problems left over from Mr. Brown's administration, he would have to prune state spending by a million dollars a day. He went about this in a broad front.

Mr. Reagan's first proposal was based on two areas. He asked for a ten percent acrossthe board cut in spending, pruning funds for universities and colleges, and dropping 3,700 jobs from the State's mental health agency. To complement these proposals he requested a program of taxes to bring in 865 million dollars which was approved. Taxes were raised on personal income, banks and corporations, sales, liquors and cigarettes.

The Governor went farther by proposing economies covering various state programs. Forty million dollars was cut from the State's college and university system forcing a cut in a recently granted raise to educators. With the shortage of teachers in the state and shortage of money to pay them more teachers had to be hired without higher degrees and on a part time basis causing larger classes. Mr. Reagan wanted to charge $400 in tuition for every student attending state colleges and universities. He felt that "There is no free education. It's a good tax policy to charge a certain amount to those who receive the service."

Another area Mr. Reagan applied frugality to was the state program of medical care to the aged and indigent. The cuts, amounting to 210 million dollars, were to include the shifting of the sick from private to public hospitals after eight days if they could be shifted safely. Reagan wished for changes in the eligibility requirements and the kinds of services given under the State program and he called for more state control in handling medicare implementation.

Reagan aimed his next blast at the State's welfare program. He ordered the State social-welfare board to begin a study aimed at weeding out cheats and tightening welfare procedures. He expressed his views this way: "We accept without reservation our obligation to help the aged, disabled and those unfortunates who though no fault of their own must depend on their fellow men. But we are not going to perpetuate poverty by substituting a permanent dole for a paycheck."

To cope with state problems Mr. Reagan has set up task forces staffed by over 200 businessmen to study the difficulties and suggest possible solutions.

Mr. Reagan believes in a strong "conservative" philosophy of government believing that people must help themselves and the government must, only do a limited degree, interfere with funds and other help. He wants to eliminate bigness in government and to work closely with the business community in shaping policy decisions.

Issues in Education—2

"A 19th Century Curriculum"

(The following is the second in a series of articles about philanthrophy, problems and possibilities of education. The intent is to begin to focus the dialogue about education in a way such that all people committed to education can contribute. We must be continually trying to redefine education in terms of the changing world and needs of the people. If you are at all concerned about education you will want to participate in the dialogue. —Ed.)

The educational system today poses many problems to the 20th century man, some of which were stated by Paul Goodman and Robert Theobald in last week's article. Philip Werdell, in his article, "A Student's Aims in Education," has defined the problems in this way:

"The majority of American College students are being had. Their 20th century needs are being met by a 19th century curriculum which is politically provincial, psychologically simplistic and subtly elitist."

Werdell states that the departmental style of education had its place in the 19th century in which America was striving for "its destiny of freedom, abundance and power." But, he says, "the goals and curriculum of higher education which supported these efforts are now outdated. It is no longer necessary for America to protect its isolation, to emphasize its material development or resign itself to elitism."

The question surrounding curriculum today is the question of relevance. How applicable is our present education to our lives and to the world in which we live. Not very, says Werdell. "Students taking a year off to work in the Peace Corps, service occupations or civil rights, return to campus startled to find the academic community not speaking to them, and to find themselves unable to speak back. Most of those bright students who, like those at Harvard, are choosing service occupations over business discover only after they have graduated that they have not communicated.

"Today, college and university administrators seem impervious to the actions of their own students. Do they not see the amazing vitality in students who have participated in the civil rights movement, the Peace Corps, the over 100,000 now working in campus-based tutorial programs? Do they not see the quality of personal relationships—a new style of love at once more open and free and more concerned with lasting mutual dignity?"

Werdell answers his questions by saying that administrators are more confused and frightened by this vitality than pleased. "Improved student-faculty and administration-student relations do not mean longer office hours. The contact . . . that students want is outside the office and the classroom—not as students but as maturing human beings. Just as important, however students are looking for a curriculum drawn more towards making decisions about themselves and societies than for merely providing factual and intellectual furniture for the mind.

Few colleges have risked attempts to redefine their role towards the student's personality and value development, so students must proceed in a vacuum, sometimes in contention with the

(Continued on page 6)

Campus Comment

"Completely Inexcusable"

To the editor:

The action of the associate dean of students, Mark Noffsinger, seems to me to be completely inexcusable and wholly indefensible, most particularly in a university community. It is a gross travesty of the principles which are the most basic to this sort of institution. To permit any single individual, whatever his position, to govern by fiat, simply because he finds some thought or expression personally displeasing, can lead to nothing but the deterioration of the academic and educational processes.

President Lederle has made a strong point, on more than one occasion, of emphasising the tripartile mutual - responsibility aspect of our situation here—has this failed to reach the associate dean? The arbitrary, autocratic, and anti-intellectual nature of this ban of the Mother of Voices from sale over the Lobby counter demands the same immediate and strong reaction from the Faculty Senate as made by the Student Senate.

If responsible students here, or anywhere else, are not going to be allowed to decide for themselves what newspapers they wish to read, the academic establishment might just as well fold its tent and steal silently into obscurity and oblivion. This must not be allowed to happen on this campus.

Richard W. Story

Sierra Club Thanks

To the editor:

Dr. Wayburn, President of the Sierra Club, has asked me to thank you for your articles in support of Redwood National Park published May 11 and 17, 1967.

I am sure that you are aware of the Senate passing the compromise park bill. Dr. Wayburn is quite pleased with the action but points out that the need is for a park with a greater size to insure protection to the overall park values.

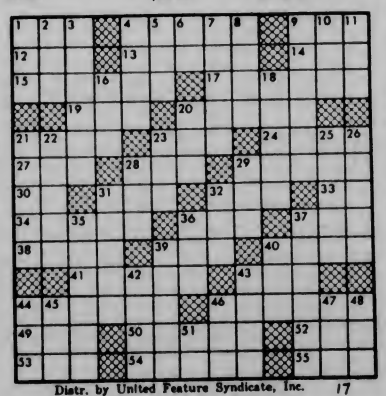
I just returned from a flight to the area and I assure you that there is definite need for additional acreage to preserve the values of Redwood Creek and that fantastic watershed.

John S. Flannery
Asst. to the President

Ride the Evening
4-College Bus
No Charge

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle



P	E	W		H	A	I	L		T	A	B
A	R	A		O	I	S	E		E	M	I	L
C	A	N	A	L	S		V	I	E		G	O
		T	R	Y		P	E	T		H	O	T
A	N	E	T		F	E	E		M	I	T	S
B	E	D		A	I	R		W	A	S
E	T		S	T	R	I	P	E	S		P	O
		U	T	E		O	A	T		C	A	D
V	I	S	A		A	D	D		W	A	R	D
A	S	E		L	I	D	S		R	A	S
S	T		T	O	D		H	U	N	T	E	R
E	L	I	A		E	R	I	N		L	I	E
E	N	D		R	E	T	S		E	R	S

ACROSS

1-Measure of weight
4-Goes by water
9-Devoured
12-Macaw
13-Boundary
14-Female ruff
15-Container
17-Excusable
19-Free of
20-Ceremonies
21-Above and touching
23-Small lump
24-Danish island
27-Condensed moisture
28-Large
29-Malicious burning
30-Preposition
31-Container
32-Pronoun
33-Enlisted man (colloq.)
34-Lassoed
36-Man's nickname
37-Pair
38-God of love
39-Small child
40-Observed
41-Wander
43-Moccasin
44-Free tickets
46-Retreat
49-Hasten
50-Bend over
52-Click beetle
53-Possessive pronoun
54-Trials
55-Female sheep

DOWN

1-Flap
2-Anglo-Saxon money
3-Restricted
4-Winter vehicle
5-Be ill
6-Prefix: not
7-Ashy pale
8-Let it stand
9-Gets up
10-Afternoon party
11-Lamprey
16-Tear
18-Approaches
20-Tattered cloth
21-Worship
22-Singing voice
23-Toupee
25-Vagrant
26-Vegetable
28-Evil
29-Goal
31-Defeats
32-Torrid
35-Armed bands
36-Plaything
37-Determine
39-Experience
40-Posed for portrait
42-Remainder
43-Invigorates (colloq.)
44-Greek letter
45-River island
46-Decay
47-Quarrel
48-Before
51-Bone

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 17

THE JURY
is back
18 Nov. S. U. 50c

Campus Wide
JUDICIAL CONFERENCE
Nov. 18th at 1:00
Student Union Ballroom
All Judiciary Members & Interested
Students Are Urged To Attend

"Who's Who"

Nominations for the seniors' "WHO's WHO" must be postmarked by Nov. 22 and accompanied by a complete rationale for each selection. Names may be sponsored by Residence Halls, RSO organizations, and interested individuals. Mail should be directed to "Who's Who", RSO office, Student Union.

Christmas Festivities Planned For Underprivileged Children

After having set the precedent of a sophomore weekend, the class of 1970 Executive Council recently disclosed plans for another community service project to benefit the underprivileged children of the college area. Tentatively dubbed "The Christmas Idea Committee," the project consists of two phases: a campus-wide used toy drive and a gala party for the children of the Belchertown State School.

The toy drive will be held the week of Nov. 27 (except Nov. 28, Counseling Day) in the Student Union lobby. From the Union, the toys will be brought to Santa's Workshop in the basement of South College. After being cleaned and repaired, they will be distributed to local orphanages and settlement houses in time for the holiday.

The party for the children of the Belchertown State School will be held in the Commonwealth Room, Dec. 17. Games, live entertainment, ice cream and cake, will highlight the afternoon. Santa Clause will be on hand to distribute Christmas "goodies."

To make this project truly a class function, membership on the Christmas Idea Committee is open to every member of the class of 1970.

EDUCATION . . .

(Continued from page 5)

traditional curriculum. Just as the classical curriculum was made obsolete by the demands of the business ethic and the Greek system, the curriculum is now being outdated by students who find as their central concern the discovery of a personal and social identity."

Or is the Eagle really the Paraclete?

Anti-Poverty Bill Passed in House By Record Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — House passage of an antipoverty bill by the biggest vote in the program's history left Republican leaders wondering Thursday what hit them.

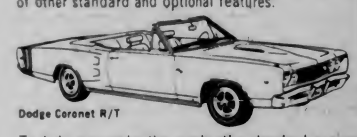
When the final vote came Wednesday night after a week of wrangling, 97 Republicans, including dozens who had never supported the program before, deserted their leades and voted for it.

Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan wound up leading a minority of 79 Republicans in opposition.

"It's the 'rat-bill syndrome,'" said a gleeful Democrat as he watched the Republicans help pass the bill by a 283-19 margin. He was referring to the political pain that afflicted many Republicans earlier when they helped kill a rat-control bill, leading them to reverse themselves later and support one.

Ford issued a statement denouncing the bill and Rep. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., who led the fight against it, said he'd do it again. But among the ranks of the GOP there is a feeling the leadership's opposition to the bill is going to hurt Republicans particularly in the cities.

The fight still is not over. The House bill authorizing $1.6 billion for one year, will have to be reconciled with a Senate bill calling for a two-year extension at $2.2 billion a year.



But the main battle has been won and Sargent Shiver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, probably is right when he says it will be the only domestic program that will wind up with an increase in authorized spending this year.

Get your bumblebee degree

Dodge CHRYSLER MOTORS CORPORATION

Enroll in one of three exciting classes. Charger R/T, Coronet R/T, or Dart GTSport. Each has its own distinctive sporty style, but all three have a lot in common. Like automatic transmissions, wide-tread red line tires, special handling packages, and a long list of other standard and optional features.

Dodge Coronet R/T

To help you make the grade, the standard engines for the Scat Pack include a 340-cu.-in. V8 for the Dart GTS. And for Charger R/T and Coronet R/T, a 440 Magnum V8. Or for a more accelerated course, you can order the optional 426 Hemi.

Dodge Dart GTSport

All three members of the Scat Pack offer distinguishing marks at no extra cost. Bold bumblebee stripes wrapped around the rear. Or Rallye stripes along the side. Or if you prefer to be a little more modest, no stripes at all. It's your choice. Ready for class? With the Scat Pack, you've got it. Why not sign up at your nearby Dodge Dealer's and get your Bumblebee Degree, today?

To add some color to campus, get your Official Dodge Scat Pack Jacket in the official "Dodge Red" Color—with the authentic embroidered "bumblebee" design on front and back. Send for yours today.

Run with the Dodge Scat Pack

FILL OUT AND MAIL TO:
Hughes-Hatcher-Suffrin, 1133 Shelby at State, Detroit, Michigan 48226. Attn.: Mr. Gus Anton.

Enclosed is a check or money order (made payable to Hughes-Hatcher-Suffrin) for $_____ to cover cost of _____ jackets at $9.95 each. Available sizes: S, M, L, XL, XXL. (Add 4% sales tax for delivery in Michigan.)

Name _____ Size _____

Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

CHARLIE WENTZ
BS, Business Administration, Lehigh, joined the Bethlehem Loop Course, was soon selling steel in our Philadelphia district. A year later he entered the service, returning to new and bigger responsibilities. After four years on the job, Charlie covers a large area of eastern Pa. Five of his customers alone account for over $8 million in yearly sales.

MANAGEMENT MINDED?
Career prospects are better than ever at Bethlehem Steel. We need on-the-ball engineering, technical, and liberal arts graduates for the 1968 Loop Course. Pick up a copy of our booklet at your placement office.

An Equal Opportunity Employer in the Plans for Progress Program

BETHLEHEM STEEL

'Mademoiselle' Editors Give Tips On Correct Make-up, Hair Styles

Outfitted in their "super-vogue fashions," the editors of Mademoiselle magazine visited our campus Monday to give beauty tips on correct make-up usage and the latest hair styles.

The representatives included Susie Parker, Assistant Beauty Editor, Andrea Quinn, Fashion Editor, and Barbara Waterston, Photographer and Author of Pull Yourself Together or How to Look Marvelous on Next to Nothing, a book of beauty hints.

In the morning, they set up a beauty clinic to "make-over" a girl from the audience. Louis Gignac, a hair stylist from Fifth Avenue, also accompanied the editors in choosing a volunteer that would best illustrate their abilities.

He demonstrated a new hair-setting method that is guaranteed to straighten curly hair for the sleek, shiny styles of today.

Developed in his salon in New York, catering to such personalities as Barbara Feldon of "Get Smart", his new "wrap-around setting" does not include any chemical straightening.

He believes that a haircut ought to be in proportion to a person's features and size. He also believes that a person should be standing when having her hair cut, as this brings his eye level and the girl's hair to a more natural focus.

In a broken French accent, Louis explained the maneuvers of "handling hair and having a health cut every few months."

Some boys present were asked what gripes they had about girl's looks on campus. Most disliked hairspray, red or white lipstick, and make-up applied so poorly that it gives the illusion of the girls wearing a pink mask. Falls and hairpieces were considered O.K., when worn properly and at the appropriate time.

During the afternoon, Mademoiselle interviewed over 60 girls interested in modeling. Later the staff contacted five girls who will appear in the February issue of Mademoiselle. The girls are: Shirley Capecci, Barbara Eisenhower, Linda McIntyre, Karen Morton, and Marjorie Zeitz.

The girls that attended were most thankful to the Revelers for bringing a little glamour to the campus.

$4,300 FELLOWSHIPS OPEN FOR GOVERNMENT STUDY

For careers in public Administration in national, state or local government, senior students are offered fellowships to study at three different universities.

Candidates must be American citizens who have completed or who will complete a Bachelor's degree with any recognized major by June 1968.

Each fellowship for single fellows has a total value of $4,300. The stipend is $3,300 and the remainder of the grant consists of the remission of fees and tuition at the three cooperating universities.

Each fellowship for married fellows has a total value of $4,700. The stipend is $3,700 and the remainder of the grant consists of the remission of fees and tuition at the three cooperating universities.

Beginning this June, fellows will serve a three-months' internship with a Goverment Agency in Alabama, Kentucky, or Tennessee such as the TVA, the Marshall Space Flight Center, or a department in one of the state governments. During the 1968-69 academic year, they will take graduate courses in public Administration at the universties of Alabama, Kentucky, and Tennessee.

Completion of the 12 months' training period entitles fellows to a certificate in public Administration. They can be awarded a Master's degree at one of the three universities upon completing a thesis and passing appropriate examinations.

For information and applications, students should write to Coleman B. Ransone, Educational Director, Southern Regional Training Program in Public Administration, Drawer I, University, Alabama 35486. The deadline for submitting applications is March 1, 1968.

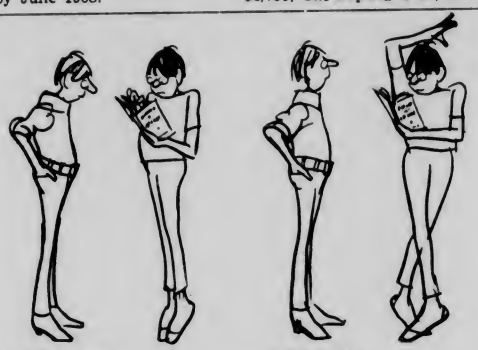
British Scholar At Smith College

Christopher Ricks, the Elizabeth Drew Visiting Professor at Smith College, will deliver three lectures at Wright Hall at 5 p.m. on successive Mondays. On November 20 he will speak on "Conventions on Character: Shakespeare"; on November 27, "Conventions and Argument: 'Lycidas'"; and on December 4, "Conventions and Style: Marvell."

Ricks, British-born scholar and critic, was educated at Oxford and lectured there in 1959. He has been a visiting professor at the University of Berkeley and at Stanford University. In 1966 he made a lecture tour in India. Next year he will hold one of the two professorships in English at the University of Bristol.

This semester Ricks holds the Elizabeth Drew Visiting Professorship which was established in 1965 through a bequest from the late Elizabeth Drew, professor emeritus of English.

Formerly a reviewer for The New Statesman, Ricks now writes regularly for The London Sunday Times. He is the author of "Milton's Grand Style" (1963) and the editor of "Poems and Critics" (1966). Having just completed an annotated edition of the "Collected Poems of Tennyson," he is now editing a Signet paperback entitled "Milton," and a Twentieth Century Views volume on Housman.



Cinema 3
Begins Wed. Nov. 15
Reflections in a Golden Eye
Starring:
ELIZABETH TAYLOR
MARLON BRANDO

Cinema 2
Gone With the Wind
Now Playing

Cinema 1
Sand Pebbles
with STEVE McQUEEN

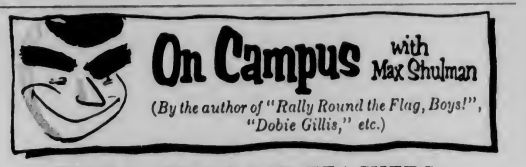
Tickets: Melody Corner Sears

1. What are you doing, Al?
Lesson 1 in "Tiptoeing Your Way To The Top."

2. What's this all about?
Preparing for the start of my business career.

3. Really?
I've learned an awful lot from "Sidestepping Middle Management and Other Fancy Footwork."

4. Sounds fascinating.
You should read "Fun Things To Do With Your First Million."



5. If you don't mind my saying so, I think you'll save time and effort by looking into the terrific opportunities at Equitable. The work is challenging, the pay good, and there are plenty of chances to move up fast.
What'll I do with "How To Play Losing Golf With Your Boss?"

For details about careers at Equitable, see your Placement Officer, or write: James L. Morice, Manager, College Employment.

The EQUITABLE Life Assurance Society of the United States

Home Office: 1285 Ave. of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10019
An Equal Opportunity Employer, M/F © Equitable 1967

THERE ARE NO BAD TEACHERS; THERE ARE ONLY BAD STUDENTS

The academic year has only just begun and already one thing is clear: you're not ready for college.

What, then, should you do? Should you throw up your hands and quit? I say no! I say you must attack, grapple, cope! I say America did not become the world's leader in motel construction and kidney transplants by running away from a fight!

To the question then: You say you're not ready for college. You're too green, too naive. You lack maturity.

Okay, the answer is simple: get mature. How? Well sir, to achieve maturity you need two things:

a) a probing mind;

b) a vest.

A probing mind will be quickly yours if you'll remember that education consists not of answers but of questions. Blindly accepting information and dumbly memorizing data is high school stuff. In college you don't just accept. You dispute, you push, you pry, you challenge. If, for instance, your physics prof says, "E equals mc squared," don't just write it down. Say to the prof, "Why?"

This will show him two things:

a) Your mind is a keen, thrusting instrument.

b) You are in the wrong major.

Ask questions, questions, and more questions. That is the essence of maturity, the heart and liver of education. Nothing will more quickly convince the teachers that you are of college calibre. And the tougher your questions, the better. Come to class with queries that dart and flash, that make unexpected sallies into uncharted territory. Ask things which have never been asked before, like "How tall was Nietzsche?" and "Did the Minotaur have ticks? If so, were they immortal?" and "How often did Pitt the Elder shave?"

(Incidentally, you may never know the complete answer to Pitt the Elder's shaving habits, but of one thing you can be positive: no matter how often he shaved and no matter what blades he used, he never enjoyed the shaving comfort that you do. I am assuming, of course, that you use Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades, a logical assumption to make when one is addressing college men—which is to say men of perspicacity, discrimination, wit, taste, cognizance, and shrewdness—for Personna is a blade to please the perspicacious, delight the discriminating, win the witty, tickle the tasteful, coddle the cognizer, and shave the shrewd.

(I bring up Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades because the makers of Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades pay me to write this column, and they are inclined to sulk if I omit to mention their product. I would not like to see them unhappy, the makers of Personna, for they are fine ruddy men, fond of morris dancing and home brewed root beer, and they make a blade that shaves closely and cleanly, nicklessly and hacklessly, and is sharp and gleaming and durable and available both in double-edge style and Injector style.

(And from these same bounteous blademakers comes Burma-Shave, regular or menthol, a lather that outlathers other lathers, brother. So if you'd rather lather better, and soak your whiskers wetter, Burma-Shave's your answer.)

But I digress. We have now solved the problem of maturity. In subsequent columns we'll take up other issues, equally burning. Since 1953 when this column first started running in your campus paper, we've tackled such thorny questions as "Can a student of 19 find happiness with an economics professor of 90?" and "Should capital punishment for pledges be abolished?" and "Are room-mates sanitary?" Be assured that in this, our 14th year, we will not be less bold.

* * * © 1967, Max Shulman

The makers of Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades (double-edge or Injector) and Burma-Shave (regular or menthol) are pleased (or apprehensive) to bring you another year of Max Shulman's uninhibited, uncensored column.

SENATE ABSENCES

According to attendance records, those absent from November 15, 1967 Student Senate Meeting were:

Tom Barrett—Grayson
Janet Brecher—Crampton
Lew Gurwitz—Married Students
Dale Hardy—Commuters
Peter Knowles—Mills
Sharon O'Brien—Crabtree
Paul Pagaluca—Commuters
Dennis Robinson—Commuters
Laura Shatz—Dickinson
Lesley Winchenbaugh—Coolidge

NOW
ENDS TUES.
TONIGHT — 6:30-8:45
Sat. and Sun.
2:00-4:30-6:50-9:05
AMHERST
Cinema
SHOW
LATE
TONIGHT
11:30 p.m.
ALL SEATS 1.25
6 ACADEMY AWARDS
"A MAN FOR ALL SEASONS"
with
PAUL SCOFIELD
as Thomas More
ALFRED HITCHCOCK'S
PSYCHO

"The Massachusetts Review" Lauded As One of Nation's Best Quarterlies

By MARYBETH GIBB
Staff Reporter

The "best literary quarterly in the country" gets its start in the basement of Memorial Hall under the guidance of its co-editors, Profs. Jules Chametzky and John Hicks of the English Dept.

The Massachusetts Review, which was launched in 1959, has won the "best" accolade from Prof. Louis Martz of Yale, on a recent visit.

Now completing its eighth volume, MR is printing from 2,500 to 3,000 copies and still growing.

In its early days, manuscripts were obtained largely from the Four-College area. Today, about 100 manuscripts each week flow unsolicited into the Memorial Hall office from all over the United States and from abroad, the editors say.

In the early issues contributors were not paid for their articles or other works. The bulk of the budget went into producing a handsome format.

With growth and increasing financial stability, token honoraria were gradually increased, until what the editors call "reasonably respectable rates" became possible. Though these do not match the rates paid by commercial, wide-circulation magazines, they correspond favorably with rates paid by such comparable quarterlies as Kenyon, Partisan and Hudson.

"No doubt this, as well as its increasing prestige among literary magazines, draws larger numbers of contributors nationwide and worldwide," according to Robert Tucker, managing editor.

Publishing the best it receives, according to the judgment of its large voluntary editorial board (drawn from faculty of the University and the other three Valley colleges), is exactly what causes MR to stand out above publications of its kind, Tucker said.

He added that the sequence in which the staff editors arrange the material for publication in each issue may also contribute to its excellence.

Dr. Tucker, an associate professor of English here, thinks that one of the great services MR has performed for American letters has been its introduction of "young, original and good" writers in its pages, along with more established writers.

"Inevitable utterance," R. W. Emerson's criterion for his Massachusetts Quarterly Review in 1847, has been MR's "desideratum" for its work in the present day, he said.

Dr. Tucker feels that good, "often previously unpublished" writers have had much to do with the high quality of material in MR from "its first issue to the last".

The content includes poetry, fiction, drama, art, public affairs, literary criticism, essays and reviews of the films, dance and book.

Speaking of articles in criticism and public affairs, Dr. Tucker elaborated, "Our work is not as scholarly—or, rather, as specialized (for often it is based on scholarly research)—as that in some 'learned journals'. Though our writing is directed to an educated, primarily academic audience, and is specific and well-documented, the approach is more comprehensive, less limited, and we look for a style suggestive of originality, somebody there, a first-hand observer."

Its independent editorial policy is in the hands of the editorial board, a non-profit corporation—"like a symphony orchestra," Dr. Tucker suggests. MR is published with the support and cooperation of the Four Colleges (with considerable University support), and with some private patronage.

Recently it has had various aids from the publisher of fine books, George Braziller, whose ac-

(Continued on page 12)

Please Remember:

TOY DRIVE

Nov. 27 - Dec. 1

Student Union

Sponsored by Class of '70

For liberal arts majors

*

PQT

Professional Qualification Test—A prerequisite to qualify for a career position with the National Security Agency.

WHEN: December 9, 1967

WHERE: Contact your Placement Office for location of test nearest you, or write to NSA (address below) right away!

If you expect to receive a liberal arts degree before September 1968 register for the Professional Qualification Test. Taking and passing the PQT doesn't commit or obligate you to anything, but we urge you—even if you are not now fully certain of your future interests—to investigate NSA career opportunities.

An Agency of national prominence, this unique organization is responsible for developing "secure" communications systems to transmit and receive vital information. How and why does that affect you? Because NSA has a critical and growing need for imaginative people—regardless of your academic major.

You will participate in programs of national importance, working in such areas as: Cryptography (the making of codes and ciphers), analytic research, language research, data systems design and programming, and administrative management.

At NSA, your professional status and earning power grow rapidly from the day you begin, without having to wait for years of "experience." Starting salary of at least $6,700 (for bachelor's degrees), regular increases, excellent advancement possibilities . . . and all the benefits of Federal employment. Another advantage is NSA's location, convenient to both Baltimore and Washington and a short drive from ocean beaches and other recreational attractions.

Plan to take the PQT. It could be your first step to a great future!

IMPORTANT: THE DEADLINE FOR PQT APPLICATIONS IS NOVEMBER 27. Pick up a PQT Bulletin at your Placement Office. It contains full details and the necessary registration form. Applicants must be U. S. citizens, subject to a complete physical examination and background investigation.

national security agency

College Relations Branch, National Security Agency, Ft. George G. Meade, Maryland Attn: M321 • An equal opportunity employer, M&F

Acceptance of China By U. N. Is "Doubtful"

By GEORGE CERULO
Staff Reporter

Communist China "probably will not be admitted to the United Nations this year because of Washington's efforts to keep her out," said Prof. Franklin Wu Houn of UMass Government Department. He was asked by the Daily Collegian to comment on the issue.

For the 17th time, the United States is confronted with the task of convincing the General Assembly that China should not be admitted to the UN. Prof. Houn believes that "this UN question is not an important issue for either Communist China or the U.S."

The U.S. is pushing for China's exclusion, he said, because many political leaders in this country "perceive a diplomatic defeat for the U.S." if Peking is admitted. "Washington's policy is intended to make them more uncomfortable," he added.

Since Communist China's test explosion of a hydrogen bomb this summer, pressure has been increasing for the U.S. to support Peking's membership in the UN. The United Nations Association of the United States of America, headed by Robert V. Roosa, former Under-Secretary of the Treasury, pointed out that the "absence from the UN leaves China out of arms control agreements on nuclear weapons that now are being negotiated," according to the New York Times (Sept. 26).

Prof. Houn was asked by The Collegian if he thought China would act responsibly if she did become a member of the UN. He replied, "All countries try to make use of it for their own benefit but no country has any success in using it effectively."

Contrary to some reports that China does not really want to join the UN, Prof. Houn believes that Peking wants to be admitted because "she regards this as her right as a sovereign nation." He also said that Peking claims that the "Taiwan government is not qualified to speak for the Chinese people."

The China issue will be decided by the 22nd General Assembly in the next few weeks. Even if China is permitted entry, all obstacles for admittance will not have been removed. China still has not modified its conditions for acceptance of a seat.

On Sept. 29, 1965, Marshall Chen Yi, Comunist China's foreign minister, made clear Peking's conditions. These conditions included:

- UN must cancel its resolutions to condemn Communist China and North Korea as aggressors during the Korean War and the blame must be placed upon the U.S.
- UN charter must be revised to permit small countries a bigger voice in UN policy.
- All independent states should be included as members in the Un.
- All "imperial puppet countries" must be excluded from membership in the UN.

Traditionally the U.S. has insisted that the admission of China is an "important question" and hence, can only be passed by a two-thirds majority. Last year the China question was defeated 57-46 with 17 abstentions. This record was an improvement for the U.S. stand over the 47-47 and 20 abstentions of 1965.

Jackie's Concern For U.S. Prisoners Noted in Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP) — A State Department spokesman expressed the gratitude of the U. S. government to Mrs. John F. Kennedy Thursday for her efforts in Cambodia on behalf of American prisoners of the Vietnam Communists.

"We are grateful for humanitarian interests that motivated her efforts," said press officer Robert J. McCloskey.

He noted that while Mrs. Kennedy's visit was entirely private, she had raised the question of the American prisoners with President Sihanouk of Cambodia.

Sihanouk was quoted Thursday as saying he could no longer serve as an intermediary between American prisoners in Vietnam and their families because the Viet Cong does not want such correspondence to continue.

McCloskey would not comment on any efofrts being made on behalf of the prisoners by Michael Forrestal, New York Lawyer and former Far East expert on the staff of the National Security Council.

Mass Media Matters

By VIOLA OSGOOD
Staff Reporter

"Without communications a society falls apart."

Dr. Barney D. Emmart said in a Collegian interview that no one can say how communications are going to affect our lives. It is obvious, however, to see how the lack of proper communication can affect the lives of every one of us, he added.

Dr. Emmart is an assistant professor of English and an instructor in journalistic studies at the University. He received his Ph. D. from the University of London.

The question today, Dr. Emmart said, is, "whether we can communicate with each other." Although war is a form of communication, Dr. Emmart continued, it is communication at its most primitive level. "War," he said, "begins when talking stops. War is communication carried on by further means. The outbursts and rages that are evident in war seem to be indicative of the fact that the proper communications are not getting through, Dr. Emmart said.

He can see no inevitable dramatic changes in communications system. "Drama," he explained, "is for playwrights." One of the most common functions of communications today, Dr. Emmart pointed out, is the satisfaction that one derives for himself from his favorite form of mass media. The media can provide reassurance and can serve to relieve one's tensions as William Stephenson's "Play Theory of Mass Communication" points out. If this is the real motive of communications, then communicators have unwittingly adopted a new approach.

We are now faced with a new and very basic problem. "This problem," Dr. Emmart revealed, is "where do we take this new approach. What do we do with our new techniques and ideas?"

Dr. Emmart said that research in communications has often been used to devise new ways of persuading the public. This means of persuasion also reinforces the "where do we go from here" question.

Dr. Emmart feels that the theory, which dominates the form that future research tech-

(Continued on page 13)

IN-CAR HEATERS
DEERFIELD DRIVE-IN THEATRE
Routes 5 & 10
South Deerfield, Mass.
Tel. 665-8746

FRI., SAT., SUN.
FIRST AREA SHOWING

LEE MARVIN
"POINT BLANK"

In Panavision and Metrocolor

also

M-G-M PRESENTS AN ALVIN GANZER PRODUCTION
David McCallum in THREE BITES OF THE APPLE
In PANAVISION and METROCOLOR

Showtime 7:30
Sun: "Point Blank" 7:30

If Mexico and Bermuda send you,
we'll send you posters of Mexico and Bermuda.
3 for $1.50.

The diver of Acapulco. The torero of Mexico. The sleek racing craft of Bermuda.

All three 30" x 40" posters are beautifully reproduced in color. And they're all yours for only $1.50.

We think you'll like them so much, you'll want to go to Mexico and Bermuda some day.

And when you do, we hope you'll go on Eastern.

So don't just sit there staring at four blank walls. Fill in the coupon below and send for your colorful posters now.

EASTERN
We want everyone to fly.

To: Eastern Airlines, Inc., Poster Offer, Box 4211, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017

Please send me the Bermuda, Acapulco, and Mexico posters, for which I enclose a $1.50 money order or check (payable to Eastern Air Lines, Inc. Poster Offer).

Name _____ Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip Code _____

☐ I would also be interested in receiving a Youth Fare Application.

The last thing Frank expected was someone running the stop sign.

The very last thing.

Stop signs don't stop cars. Drivers stop cars. Make sure you do and make sure he has. There's very little satisfaction in being dead right when you're dead.

Wherever, whenever you drive . . . drive defensively. Watch out for the other guy. He may be the kind who'll stop at nothing.

Published to save lives in cooperation with The Advertising Council and the National Safety Council

JFK

Memorial Concert

MITCHELL TRIO

JIM KWESKIN JUG BAND

PHIL OCHS

2 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 19

Tickets on sale S. U. Box Office and at the Door

UMass Dancers Join Talents With Group from New York

The New York Chamber Dance Group and the University of Massachusetts Concert Dance Group will combine talents for performances on Friday, Nov. 17, and Saturday, Nov. 18, at 8 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium.

The New York Chamber Dance Group (NYCDG) is a company of five professionally trained dancers who are advanced students or alumni of the New York University dance program.

The presentations of the NYCDG will include "Suite Teens," an exploration of the relationship between the rock-and-roll folk hero and his followers; "Revelations," a dance concerned with intimations of identity; and "Chiaroscuro," a duet about a Negro girl and a White boy. Also included will be "Imitations," an improvisational work reflecting the joy and playfulness which is part of dance.

Two of the dances will feature live music composed by Joel Press, musical director for the company. Richard Bull, a member of the New York University dance department, is the company director and choreographer and has also written music for some of the dances.

The UMass dance group will present several selections from their repertoire including "Tectum," a dance based on sharp-angular and lyrical-fluid movement. The dance was choreographed by Janet T. Craft, a junior from Hadley, Mass.

"Air is a Toy" is a light, playful dance by Lois Barclay and Carolyn B. Hougue, a sophomore from Melrose, Mass. Marilyn V. Patton, advisor to the group, choreographed "Drifting, Dazzling, Dangling" a quartet reflecting qualities of movement found in the title. The music for the dance was written by Anthony Crescione.

UMass performers will be Nancy L. Bergsma, a senior from Paramus, N.J., Elizabeth W. Rogers, a junior from Reading, Mass., and the Misses Patton and Craft.

The concert is open to the public without charge.

Art Exhibit Of Smith Prof Opens in N.Y.

A one-man exhibition of the recent sculpture of Elliot Offner, associate professor of art at Smith College, will open on November 21 at the Forum Gallery, 1018 Madison Avenue, New York, N.Y. The collection, which will be on view through December 9, will include 19 bronzes, 10 wood carvings and one terra-cotta relief. All of the sculpture has been executed by Mr. Offner during the past three years.

The sculpture ranges in size from the smallest piece, a two-inch "Austrian Head" to the largest, a 41-inch bronze "Cross of the Evangelists." Included in the exhibit are several heads on the theme of the religious crusades. In addition, there are four Auschwitz studies representing the suffering of prisoners in that Nazi concentration camp.

Sculpture by Mr. Offner has been included in many museums, university and national exhibitions, and is in the public collections of the Brooklyn Museum and the Allen Art Museum of Oberlin College. His first one-man exhibition was held at the Forum Gallery in 1964 and his first exhibition in Boston was held at the Tragos Gallery in 1967.

Mr. Offner's awards have included Louis Comfort Tiffany Foundation Grants (1964 and 1965), a National Institute of Art and Letters Grant (1965), a Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts Annual Exhibition of American Painting and Sculpture Prize (1966), and a grant from the National Council on the Arts and Humanities for 1966-67 which enabled him to take a leave of absence from his teaching duties last year.

MDC NOTICES

OPERETTA GUILD
On Sun., Nov. 19 at 8:30 in South College office there is a business meeting for all. Discuss spring show and new executive board.

GRADUATE STUDENT SENATE
On Mon., Nov. 20 at 8:30 p.m. in SU Ballroom there is an open meeting for all graduate students.

EDUCATION CLUB
Jonothan Kozol, author of Death at an Early Age will be guest speaker on Sun., Nov. 19 at 8 p.m. in Southwest Dining Commons No. 7. All invited to attend.

SMITH THEATRE CLUB
On Nov. 17 and Nov. 18 at 8:15 p.m. "Lysistrata," by Aristophanes will be presented. It is in Alumnae Gymnasium, and open to all. Purchase tickets at box office from 1 to 2 p.m. and 4 to 6 p.m., Nov. 13 thru 17 and on nights of performances. Admission is $1.00.

NEWMAN CLUB
Monday, Nov. 20 at 7 p.m. in Newman Chapel there is a John F. Kennedy, Memorial Mass.
Breakfast at Tiffan's will be shown at 6:15 and 8:30 p.m. in Social Hall. Members free, non-members 50¢.

HILLEL
Sabbath services on Fri. at 7 p.m. in Worcester Room, S.U. Rabbi Martin Kowal will speak.
Services, Sat. 9:30 a.m. in Worcester Room, S.U.
Bagel Brunch Sun. 11 a.m. in SU Ballroom. Programs of readings from Jewish humor. All welcome.

AIR FORCE OFFICERS TEST
Test will be given on Tues., Nov. 21 in Hampden Room SU. All Jan. & June Grads invited, male and female. For more information call Sgt. Charles W. Petrella, 536-0546 collect.

WINTER CARNI PUBLICITY COMM.
Meeting Nov. 19 at 7 p.m. outside RSO office has been cancelled.

LOST:
Dark blue American History notebook from rack outside bookstore. Return to June Archibald, 225 Emerson, 6-7268.
Brown men's eyeglasses in black leather case with initials H. G. Return to Harlan Godes, 1618 Washington, 546-9164.
Cathy Civic '70, Melville, to Robert Moylan '69, LCA.
Cathy Pulce '70, Thoreau to David Saporito '70, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Middlebury College, Vt.
Deborah Chase '70, KKG, to Ronald Wilbur '70, Sigma Phi Epsilon.

ENGAGEMENT:
Becky Morgan '70, Thoreau, to Ed Callahan, Virginia.
Kathy Smith '68, Kappa Alpha Theta, to David Breiten '64, Davidson College, NC., U.S. Navy.
Gail Houghton '69, to Bill Tennant, Sig Ep, UNC School of Dentistry.
Evelyn Rosen, Boston to George Adlemen '69, Webster.

Guess who forgot his NoDoz®

Even NoDoz couldn't help this guy. But it can help you, when you're overstudied or understept—or in any situation where your attention wanders and your eyelids begin to droop. It can happen to anyone. When it happens to you, pop a couple of NoDoz. NoDoz really works to help you stay alert. NoDoz is non habit-forming. Wherever you're going, take NoDoz along for the ride.

THE ONE TO TAKE WHEN YOU HAVE TO STAY ALERT.

UMass Counseling Resources To Help Windham College Students

The counseling resources of a large state university are helping students at a small, independent college this year through a cooperative agreement between the University of Massachusetts and Windham College in Putney, Vt.

Through development funds granted to Windham College by the federal government, the UMass Counseling Center now provides counseling services for the 714 students at Windham on a part-time basis.

The same grant also provides for UMass aid on program planning for the new Windham College Student Union, training of proctors for Windham residences and advising the Windham dean of students, Dr. Fred Miller, a former Unitarian minister.

The cooperative arrangement began this term and now makes two counselors available to Windham students from three to four days per week. The UMass counselors have an office in a Windham College residence hall to aid students with educational, vocational and personal problems.

Eleanor Bossi, Windham College counselor, spends Monday through Wednesday noon at the Windham campus and spends the remainder of her work week at the UMass Counseling Center. Dr. Sarah Alleman of the UMass Counseling Center staff spends one full day each week at Windham, working mainly with students who have special problems.

The cooperative plan is scheduled to run through this academic year, after which Windham plans its own full-time counseling center. Enrollment at the Vermont college is scheduled to increase in the near future to a final figure of 800.

Windham is located in southeastern Vermont, about an hour away from Amherst.

Dr. Theodore Leed Elected President At F.D.R. Conf.

Dr. Theodore W. Leed, professor of food marketing at the University of Massachusetts, was elected president of the Food Distribution Research Society for 1967-68 at the Eight Annual Food Distribution Research Conference held at Purdue University recently.

The society is a non-profit educational organization for the advancement of research in the food distribution field. Composed of representatives from government, industry and the educational field, it is in its first year of formal organization as an outgrowth of the Annual Food Distribution Research Conference.

Dr. Leed received his Ph.D. from Ohio State University in 1957 where he also completed his undergraduate work. He has been on the faculty at UMass for 10 years.

He has written several papers on food distribution and a number of articles for food trade publications.

"Lion" Flushed By Toy Poodle,

By BILL DICKENSON
Staff Reporter

Once again the "big furry thing" has been seen in Hadley. This time is was flushed out by a toy poodle.

Strangely enough the "real African lion" was spotted by a member of the same family that has been seeing it all along. Mrs. William Chmura, whose son shot at "it" Sunday night, was walking her dog Rex near her home on Lawrence Plain Rd. (This area has become known to local naturalists as "the veldt".)

Suddenly ol' reliable Rex let out a fierce growl and set out across the road. He had "real terror in his voice" according to Mrs. Chmura. "I called 'Rex, come here' and 'Rex, lie down'." Rex obeyed instantly.

Mrs. Chmura looked over to where Rex had been running and saw whatever-it-is. Apparently fearless Rex's menacing growls frightened the "thing". It disappeared into the asparagus beds not to be seen again all day.

However, a bush-beater at the Northampton barracks of the state police said that they will remain vigilant and respond to all who report seeing the "big furry thing".

Problems of the Aged Studied by Commission

The Massachusetts Commission on Aging and the UMass sociology department have begun a cooperative study of the commission's services to the aging, according to John T. Sweeney, executive secretary of the commission.

The $15,000 study, financed by the commission from funds allotted to Massachusetts from the Older Americans Act of 1965, will be directed by Dr. Everett S. Lee, head of the UMass sociology department. The Older Americans Act is administered by the Federal Administration on Aging. The UMass study will be an in-depth evaluation of selected centers and other services financed by the Commission on Aging.

"What we are trying to do is take a hard look at what is done in the communities in order to improve services to the aged," Dr. Lee said.

Concentrating on the communities of Fitchburg, Leominister, Holyoke and Pittsfield, UMass sociologists will weigh such factors as total population of elderly persons in each community, number of elderly who take advantage of services financed by the Commission on Aging, the kinds of services rendered and the cost of services in relation to the number of people reached.

Dr. Lee said that there is no question that useful services are being provided but it is possible to substitute any number of alternative services. The evaluation will try to determine whether or not the expenditures are bringing the largest possible returns.

"Such services have never been properly evaluated, not only in Massachusetts but in the country as a whole," Dr. Lee said. "We hope the UMass evaluation might provide a set of guidelines that might be widely applied," Dr. Lee added.

Mr. Sweeney said, "We hope that this study will lead to further cooperation on a broader scale between UMass and the Commission on Aging in the area of gerontology."

Daily Collegian
Hotline
545-2550

Interested in Photography?

JOIN

The Daily Collegian Photo Staff

FREE instructions in darkroom procedures. Learn to process your own film.

PHOTO STAFF MEETING

Monday 6:30 p.m. Nov. 20

New Members Welcome

Take A LEGAL Trip

THE MIND GARDENS

Best Light Show in the East

music by

THE MAGIC THEATRE

Thurs., Fri., Sat. from 9:00 p.m.
in the center of Wilmington, Vt.
Bottle Club (B.Y.O.B.) & delicatessen
OPENING THURS., NOV. 16 ADM. $2.00

The well-heeled boot

Every height of heel you can imagine! —the chic boots that take the hardest wear in their pretty stride. Keep you snug and warm. The well-heeled boots that are Fashion's favorites. So many shapes, colors, sizes to choose from!

Buy OLD MAIN TROTTERS
HUSH PUPPIES
ESKILOOS
GOLD SEAL

Mathews Shoes
39 SO. PLEASANT ST.
Open Thurs. & Fri. nights 'til 9 p.m.

"The Hugger"

Camaro SS Coupe

'68 Camaro:
Accelerates smoother, hugs the road tighter, rides quieter than ever before.

A quiet car speaks for itself. That's why Chevrolet went all out to make the '68 Camaro smoother, steadier and more silent than ever. Camaro's famous road-hugging performance has been improved with a refined suspension system. Camaro's big-car ride has been improved, too. Soft rubber cushions snuff out road noise and vibrations. Even Camaro's new Astro Ventilation works for your peace and quiet. Adjustable vent-ports built in the instrument panel let outside air circulate without wind or noise. You don't even have to open a window! It all adds up to the silent ride of quality. See for yourself. Put a hushed '68 Camaro through its paces at your Chevrolet dealer's.

All these Chevrolet quality features, too:

- Unitized all-welded Body by Fisher.
- Power team choices up to a 396-cubic-inch V8.
- Self-adjusting Safety-Master brakes with dual cylinders.
- An automatic buzzer that reminds you to take your keys with you.
- Proved safety features like the GM-developed energy-absorbing steering column and many new ones that include armrest-shielded door handles.

GM
MARK OF EXCELLENCE

CHEVROLET Be smart! Be sure! Buy now at your Chevrolet dealer's.

All Chevrolets are priced for greater value! The lowest priced 1968 Chevrolets are (models not shown): Corvair 500 Sport Coupe $2,220.00; Chevy II Nova Coupe $2,199.00; Camaro Sport Coupe $2,565.00; Chevelle 300 Coupe $2,318.00; Chevrolet Biscayne 2-Door Sedan $2,558.00; Corvette Convertible $4,320.00. Manufacturer's suggested retail prices including Federal Excise Tax, suggested dealer delivery and handling charges. Transportation charges, accessories, optional equipment, state and local taxes additional.

New England Governors Dispute Air Pollution

BOSTON (AP)—The New England governors got into a dispute Thursday on how to approach air pollution control and put off a decision until their January meeting.

The problem developed at the New England Governors Conference on a proposal the six states join the Mid-Atlantic Compact on Air Pollution rather than form their own regional control group.

"We are enthusiastic about the compact," said Gov. John Dempsey of Connecticut, who said his state has already joined. "It is a tough compact, but air pollution is a tough problem."

Rhode Island Gov. John H. Chaffee also urged joining the Mid-Atlantic group.

"It doesn't do us much good to have these smoke pollution laws if our neighbors don't have them," he said.

Chaffee said that some New Englanders question the compact because the federal government would be a partner.

"This group has the power to go into any member state and get an injunction against an industry they think is misbehaving," he said.

Gov. John A. Volpe of Massachusetts said the six state air pollution control chiefs indicated opposition to the compact.

"The New England engineers believe the New England air pollution problem is different from the New York and New Jersey problem," Volpe said.

"They recommend we establish a permanent staff to develop a program of New England air pollution control."

The governors agreed to seek expansion of the 12-year-old New England Board of Higher Education to include state colleges, technical schools and two year community colleges, in addition to state universities.

"There isn't the slightest doubt that this region is far behind the rest of the country in support of public higher education," said Alan D. Ferguson, board director.

Dr. Ferguson said private colleges and universities in New England have recently organized toward the time they believe they must approach state governments for financial aid.

The governors also endorsed, Nov. 24-30 as Project Vietnam Week in New England as a tribute to military men in Vietnam.

Book Loans To Continue

The Senate Loan Fund is entering its third semester of service to the Undergraduate community. The idea of the loan fund was conceived by then Senator Mike Garjian, who also administered the fund during its first semester.

The loan fund provides credit up to $25 in the University Store to undergraduates temporarily lacking funds to purchase books. Individuals receiving loans agree to repay the University Store within 30 days.

This semester almost 150 loans were granted and all but 30 have been repaied. The remaining loans should be repaid by November 30. Extensions on existing loans may be granted due to circumstances beyond the borrowers control by either the Student Union Business Manager or the Treasurer of the Student Senate.

The fund has provided students with short-term loans at no interest. At the same time, no expense has been incurred by the Student Senate except the risk incurred by underwriting the fund.

Freshman Class Officers Announce Exec. Council

President Joe Tabacco of the Class of 1971 announced yesterday the selections for the Freshman Class Executive Council.

He stated that 221 applications were received, and as a result "some excellent talent" had to be eliminated.

Tabacco stated that he was pleased by the enthusiasm the class had shown through the large number of applications. On the basis of this turnout, he said he would be looking for class cooperation.

The first meeting of the council will be Sunday, Nov. 19, at 6:30 p.m. in the Student Union. At this time plans will be discussed for the Christmas sing.

The members are: Andi Baremboim, Sheila Bartlett, Victor Baron, William Beddard, Sheryl Diamond, Laurence Diamond, Maureen Donahue, Martha Driscoll, Gail Egan, Ken Fine, Bette Flumere, Cynthia Giovanni, Carol Higgins, Elizabeth Hoew, Bonnie Jackson, Mimi Johnson, Harold Koltin, Suzanne Kray, Priscilla Lemire, Michelle Letendre, Alec Levine, Christine Nimyski, Marsha Posternak, Maxine Rosenbloom, Jeffrey Rudsten, Janet Shockley, Stephanie Sim, Betty Sloovie, Valerie Stanley, Karen Stone, Linda Tarlow, Linda Urbaniak, Richard St. George, Susan Phillips, Michael Katz, Norman Patch, Betty Pugh, Joan Petrowsky, Sandra Olken, Sharon Anderson, Richard Hasselbaum, Sharon Edwards, Valerie Carling, Pam Klein, Ed Norton, Margi O'Neill, Mary Maynard, Laura Shatz, Scott Lawson, Richard Tashjian, Earl Walters, Linda Pomfret, Donna Muldoon, Beth Dunlay, Stephanie Boyrbonnais, Ben Greenberg, Tom Carroll, Richard McAniff, Barbara Dolan, Kenneth Reismann, Carol Edwards, Elaine Prostak, Stephen Brenner.

MASSACHUSETTS REVIEW...

(Continued from page 8)

eive interest in the magazine Dr. Tucker indicated says much for MR's quality and increasing prestige.

The magazine has recently been given a generous grant from the National Endorsement of the Arts.

Besides providing its readers with "original, fresh material" in many areas of interest, MR has introduced young artists and authors, many of whom have then been contacted by major publishing houses and studios. In addition, foundation grants have been awarded to authors of works published in the magazine and to the magazine for having printed the award-winning works.

Juilliard Quartet To Perform Mon.

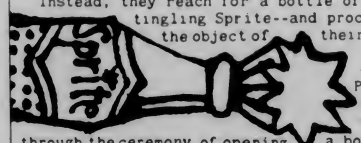
The Juilliard String Quartet will present its second concert on the UMass campus Monday, at 8:00 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium.

The Music Department is sponsoring the Quartet in a series of four concerts during the 1967-68 season.

Included in the Nov. 20 concert will be works by Beethoven, Bartok, and Dvorak. There is no admission charge for any of these programs.

Freshmen, Transfer Students and Upperclassmen

SORORITY OPEN HOUSES



Nov. 19
Dec. 2, 17
2:30 - 4:00

Hallowed tradition of "pinning" a girl is up-dated by Sprite bottle caps.

According to an independent survey (we took it ourselves), a startling new practice is becoming widespread on some college campuses.

Suddenly, fraternity men are no longer "pinning" the lovely young things that catch their eye.

Instead, they reach for a bottle of tart, tingling Sprite--and proceed to "cap" the object of their affections.

Why has this come about? Perhaps because of what happens when you go through the ceremony of opening a bottle of Sprite. It fizzes! Roars! Buzzes! Tingles! Bubbles!

All of which makes for a much more moving moment than to simply "pin" a girl.

Then, too, the intimacy of two people engaged in the act of opening a bottle of Sprite in itself leads to strong emotional involvement.

Capped off, of course, by the sharing of a few moments of delicious abandon. (Tasting the tingling tartness of Sprite, that is.)

The beauty of the idea is that if the course of true love does not run smooth, you don't have to go to the trouble of getting back your pin.

You just buy another bottle of Sprite.

MOUNTAIN PARK
RT. 5 HOLYOKE
EVERY SAT. 8 P. M.
COLLEGE MIXER
THIS SAT.
IN PERSON
HASSLES &
"You've Got Me Hummin"
Four Musketeers

SPECIAL THANKSGIVING
MIXER THURSDAY 8 P.M.
THE TECHNIQUES
NEXT SAT — IN PERSON
TIDAL WAVES
Ballroom Available for Parties
Sun. thru Fri. Call 532-4418

For Sale.

Dramatic package: William Wycherly, Anton Chekhov, G. B. Shaw, John Osborne, Eugene O'Neill, and a contemporary playwright to be chosen soon. They're part of the first season at Stage/West, Springfield's new all-professional resident theater. We'd like to pass them on to you at very low subscription rates. For $1.50, you may purchase a special STUDENT SUBSCRIPTION CARD, entitling you to purchase regular $3.50 seats for $2.00; and $2.00 seats for only $1.00. That's for performances on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Sunday and a special Saturday showing at 5:00 p.m. What a great deal for six live theatre productions! You'll be seeing "The Country Wife" (which opens November 16), "Uncle Vanya," "Candida", "The Entertainer," a new play, and "Long Day's Journey Into Night." Each play will be performed by a fully-professional company of actors for 3½ weeks. Stage/West is located on the Eastern States Exposition Grounds in West Springfield, just off Route 5. Be sure to obtain a Student Subscription Card NOW by calling Mrs. Barrows at Stage/West, 781-4470.

springfield theatre company
stage/west
Box 518, W. Spfld., Mass.

S.E.N.D.O.F.F.
Count Down
14 Days

STAMP IT!
IT'S THE RAGE
REGULAR MODEL
ANY $2
3 LINE TEXT
The finest INDESTRUCTIBLE METAL POCKET RUBBER STAMP. ½" x 2".
Send check or money order. Be sure to include your Zip Code. No postage or handling charges. Add sales tax.
Prompt shippent. Satisfaction Guaranteed
THE MOPP CO.
P. O. Box 18423 Lenox Square Station
ATLANTA, GA., 30326

Alumni Increasingly Impressed With Growth of UMass Campus

by PAUL LONGO
Staff Reporter

Freshmen are not the only people who become lost on the expanding University of Massachusetts campus.

Alumni are also wandering confused in the maze of construction which symbolizes UM growth.

"It is becoming increasingly difficult for the alumni to find their bearings," said Wesley Honey, director of Alumni Affairs, in an interview with the Collegian. He attributes this difficulty to the University's "progressing at an accelerating rate.

"Although there is an increasingly larger percentage of people who become lost, there is no immediate problem regarding numbers. Current preparations concerning scheduling are the same for 500 as they are for 50. However, space may become a factor in the future when large numbers converge on the campus."

In regard to the space factor, Mr. Honey cited the annual alumni tailgate picnic, which in recent years has increased from 300 persons to 2,000, including approximately 500 cars. These numbers will continue to increase, he said.

Mr. Honey stressed that the Oct. 21 Homecoming alumni were greatly affected by the immediate campus surroundings.

"The alumni are becoming more and more impressed by what they see. They are impressed by the physical growth of the University. They are impressed by the architectural attractiveness of the campus. And, of course, they are impressed by the football team, the game being the center of Homecoming activities."

Mr. Honey feels that there is genuine understanding between the alumni and the undergraduate student body.

"The alumni equate themselves most favorably with the undergrads," he said. "The students make a very good showing."

Two Advisers To Attend R. I. Conference

Attending the third biannual Colloquium on the Student Press, this weekend, are Collegian tutors Alvin F. Oickle and Dr. Dario Politella.

Sponsored by District I of the National Council of College Publications, the 2-day workshop for New England advisers is being hosted by the Dept. of Journalism at the Univ. of Rhode Island, Kingston.

Oickle and Politella will appear on a panel to discuss rewards for student press staffs. Politella will present an interim report on the organization of the Commission on Student Press Freedoms and Responsibilities at the national convention of NCCPA and the Associated Collegiate Press in Chicago, last month.

Advisers and journalism department heads are attending from 10 major colleges in New England. Prof. Wilbur L. Doctor of U.R.I. is co-host with Prof. Brooks W. Hamilton of the U. of Maine, Orono.

MDC Adds New Feature

Conrad Cartoon to Appear Daily

"I need politicians like Reagan, Johnson, Sam Yorty and all the rest of them," Paul Conrad says with a cynical grin. He needs them because he is a political cartoonist. His job is to find the politician's weakness, and then show it to everyone else. (His cartoon is now a regular feature on the editorial page of the Daily Collegian.)

Conrad has won the two highest honors granted by his colleagues in the newspaper field—the Pulitzer Prize in 1964 and the award of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society, in 1963.

His Pulitzer Prize award was for excellence of his work during the entire year rather than for a single cartoon as is usually the case. The cartoons on which the Pulitzer Prize was awarded were drawn while Conrad was on the staff of the Denver Post. He has since moved to the Los Angeles Times.

Conrad's work has been described as having meticulous attention to detail, with the powerful punch of simplicity, yet always with a touch of humor, the mark of a great cartoonist.

PAUL CONRAD

Five cartoons each week are syndicated worldwide. "My goal, says Conrad, "is to attempt to influence my readers." He considers himself neither a liberal nor a conservative. "I don't buy the idea that everybody has to be labeled," he says. "I look at a situation, try to decide who's right and why, and go on from there."

Conrad's comments on national and world figures and on important events are sharp, penetrating and often satiric. Yet the list of prominent persons who have requested the original drawings of cartoons depicting them reads like a roster of the important public figures of the day.

Many of his better cartoons come on days when he just couldn't think of anything. "When you get to the last minute, you're forced to reason and work one out," he explains. "If you know you have to do it, it's just like selling shoes."

Paul Conrad is a native Iowan who played string bass in dance bands while going to high school. After four years in the Army seeing action in the Pacific theater in World War II, he decided to become an architect. But he says his year at Iowa State University set its department of architecture back so far it hasn't recovered yet.

So, he transferred to the State University of Iowa as an art major and discovered his talent for cartooning when he drew editorial cartoons for the university daily newspaper for two years.

He joined the Denver Post staff in 1950 and moved to the Los Angeles Times in 1964.

Conrad is married, has two daughters and two sons. He has fun putting on the rug in his office between his games at the golf course, hunting ducks and painting in oils. His twin brother is a commercial artist.

Lack of Funds Cited As Campus Lighting Obstacle

"Night lighting on the University of Massachusetts campus is inadequate."

This is the conclusion of Meredith Goettel '68, who has surveyed co-eds, interviewed campus Police Chief Alexander Blasko, University architect William Lambert, and Director of Security, Col. John C. Marchant.

Mr. Goettel made the study as a class requirement for English 337.

Named as prime areas of "poor" lighting are all paths and roads to Orchard Hill, the Southwest Complex area, (including the parking lot), President's Hill, and the area surrounding both the Student Union and Goodell Library.

Lack of funds is the main obstacle to a stepped up lighting program according to Lambert. He says that over 1,000 new lighting units are needed. "Eventually all the present lights which are not the mercury vapor type, must be replaced."

Chief Blasko says that the youth concern with the Campus lighting problem is due to the fact that over 75 per cent of the crimes and accidents on campus occur at night.

Mrs. Goettel's report concludes that until adequate funds are provided, little can be done with the exception of providing better maintenance for the existing lighting facilities.

U. S. Senate Passes Bill To Revitalize Reserve Units

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed by voice vote and sent to the White House Thursday a compromise bill that backers said would revitalize the nation's military units.

Under the legislation, Congress would designate the manpower levels of the reserve units each year and review more closely their readiness.

Selected forces would be designated within each of the seven National Guard and Reserve Forces.

Administrative changes would give the reserves greater recognition in the upper levels of the defense organization.

The legislation stemmed from a move by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and opposed by Congress—to merge the Army Reserve into the National Guard.

The Reserve Officers Association said in a statement that the legislation was a victory for reservists who had opposed the McNamara plan.

Six Men Convicted In Anti-Castro Conspiracy Case

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A federal jury Thursday night convicted 6 men on charges of conspiring to invade Haiti and use it as a base for anti-Castro attacks on Cuba.

The jury of 11 men and 1 woman also returned a guilty verdict on a charge of attempting to export war arms to a foreign country.

U.S. Dist. Judge Ted Cabot delayed sentencing pending a report from his investigative staff. The men face maximum total fines of $35,000 each and imprisonment of up to seven years.

The charges stem from a Jan. 2 raid on a house in the Florida Keys, described by government witnesses as the base of the planned invasion. 73 battle-clad members of the invasion force were taken into custody.

MASSACHUSETTS 15TH IN SPENDING

BOSTON (AP) — Massachusetts was 15th among states in state and local spending in 1965-66, but ranked sixth in per capita state and local taxes, the Massachusetts Taxpayers Foundation announced Thursday.

The association said analysis of U. S. Census data showed only four states which depended on local government to finance state and local spending to a greater degree than Massachusetts.

These figures, however, to not show the full effect of the state's sales tax, the taxpayers' said.

MASS MEDIA . . .

(Continued from page 9)

niques will take, will tell us where to go next. This theory is synonymous, he said, to the tale of the drunkard who looked for his keys two streets over from the street where he lost them. Asked why, the drunkard could reply only that the spot where he was looking now had more light.

MDC CLASSIFIED

HELP WANTED

One rep. from each dorm to represent good deal in skiing. Good deal for rep. too. Call Jim—546-7031.

R.N. 11:00-7:00 2 nights
R.N. 3:00-11:00 2 days
If interested, call 253-7557.

FOR RENT

24 feet Room
Refrigerator, cooking facilities, center of town.
Leader Rooms
159 North Pleasant St.
Apply at Bowling Alley.
$15 a week

APARTMENT FOR RENT

- Married Graduate Students preferred
- Fully furnished
- New Washer-Dryer Appliances
- 2 Bedrooms
- 1½ miles for campus in North Amherst
- $150 month
- Call 549-1519
- Move in Thanksgiving holidays

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

Sitars, tabla, sarods, tambouras and other folk and classical instruments from India are available at reasonable rupee rates. We will deliver and demonstrate. Write, call or visit.
Emporium India
262 Thayer St.
Providence, R.I. 02906
Tel. 401-421-2283
Boston branch: Spectrum India, 157 Newbury St.

PERSONAL

Resumes reports, & manuscripts beautifully typed with IBM ribbon type. Call Amherst Secretarial Service, 253-7717.

AUTOMOBILE

$69.95—1957 Ford 2 dr. hdtp, V8, auto, snow tires for sale or trade for skiis, etc. Call Bob 549-0375.
1966 V.W. 1375.00 excellent condition. 545-2021.

FOR SALE

Royal Ultronic Typewriter 1 year-old—$135. Call 253-7717.

York "Olympic" weights 310 lbs pressing bench and other accessories $100. Russell Mundy, 44 Kellogg St., Amherst. 253-7919

Bogel B61 Turntable Sherwood S5000, 2 amplifier, Sherwood S3000 4 FM stereo tuner, 2 8 inch coaxal speakers. Perfect condition $275, 253-2492, 5-7 p.m.

Sohler Spyder Bluebird Competition skis—Nevada Toes, marker heels A Thongs cost $215 new now $100, Won Western New England Downhill Championship last year. Call 6-7567.

42 Colors of dry cleanable suede
24 Colors of dry cleanable leather
All stain-resistant, water repellant, crack-proof treated.
Buy now to easily sew for Christmas
2 hides for skirt
1 hide for vest
3 hides for skirt or shirt
$8.50 per hide
Call "Fleur-de-Lis", 549-1519

Photo by Tom Gale

Young Mike Covino shows Chairman Bob Singer and Mr. Sansouci poster of nationwide campaign beginning Sunday, Nov. 19.

Phi Sigma Delta Marches On

Alpha Mu Chapter of Phi Sigma Delta Fraternity will march in Amherst Sunday, Nov. 19 to combat Muscular Dystrophy. Members of the Fraternity and their friends have joined the Annual March against Muscular Dystrophy now being held nationally by almost a million Volunteer workers.

The Phi Sigma Delta Marchers will be identified by their Jerry Lewis Volunteer Badge. Alpha Mu Chapter President, Steve Whitken and Drive Chairman Bob Singer hope that the people of Amherst will receive their Volunteer Marcher warmly on Sunday, November 19 through the 26th.

Alpha Mu had a surprise visitor to help launch their March in — Michael Covino of Milford Mass., State Poster Child. Michael represents the thousands of Massachusetts M.D. victims.

The funds collected by the volunteers will help support the Hampden - Hampshire Counties Chapter MDAA's patient service program and the Associations world wide research program.

Brandeis Offers Israeli Program

In 1961, the Brandeis University faculty established a six-month, 16 credit program on the social and political institutions of Israel. The program enables junior and senior students of any accredited university or college to experience at first hand the laboratory of a modern nation in an academic framework similar to Brandeis. Fifty students from twenty-seven universities have participated in this program in 1967. A spring semester will be added in January-February 1969.

The group departs on or about July 1, 1968 for an Ulpan—a two-month, intensive conversation course in Hebrew—followed by three courses, taught in English, on modern history, social institutions and political institutions. Students live with Israeli families and have ample opportunity to meet leaders in government and public affairs as well as travel around the country.

The total cost of tuition, room and board and round trip air travel is $2000. Students requiring financial aid are encouraged to complete the financial aid form.

Recent Hiatt students have majored in psychology, economics, sociology, anthropology, political science. These students have expressed career interests in law, government, international relations, education, social work and community development.

Dutch Treat Taboo On First Date Here

Staff Reporter

By JANET CALDWELL

Although it may not be THE campus issue of the week, Dutch treat dating is at least an occasional thought of many students.

While most boys and girls must function on a limited budget, it is still the boy who pays for dates. And as girls are interfering more and more in this man's world, is it no wonder that dating customs may change?

In several interviews on the subject of Dutch treating with both the fair and unfair sex, the opinions of both often coincided; yet when they differed, they were as far apart as Southwest and Orchard Hill.

With the exception of one bold gentleman, neither male nor female said they favor Dutch treating on a first date. The one non-conformist insisted, however, that even on a first movie date, "Of course I'd make her pay. She'd go see it anyway. I'm no pigeon."

On the other extreme, however, one co-ed refused to pay. "If my boyfriend doesn't have any money, we'll do something that doesn't cost anything," she said.

It was also a general concensus that Dutch treating was acceptable on friendship dates and for "go-steadiers".

Most men thought that a girl, as a friend, should expect to pay her own way. And, in turn, girls usually agreed that they would offer.

Those who go steady were by far the most willing to Dutch treat. One Hills South male commented, "It's like being married." If the couple has a date for the whole week-end, "We just pool all our money and spend it." Girls, too, were in favor of this, but not quite so enthusiastically.

Asked how often they would Dutch treat their steady, they gave repiles that varied minutely from "Seldom" to "Not very often—maybe once or twice a year."

A trio of Crampton co-eds contributed to this comment: "Regular Dutch treating as a habit is like the image of the dull routine of married life — being broke, pooling money, spending it. But once in a while it would be different."

Another concerned coquette remarked, "Dutch treating would be nice if you could do it. but it's something you can't do. How can you offer to pay your own way and let the boy still feel he's the dominant figure?"

One eligible bachelor maintained along these lines, "If by chance I asked a girl out on Monday and I was broke by Saturday, I'd break the date before I'd ask her for any money. And, if after several dates with the same girl, we both wanted to go somewhere and I had no money, I'd ask her for it, but then pay her back."

The only solution to the problem, if indeed one exists, is perhaps to have more than one H.E.R. week-end a year and a few Sadie Hawkins Days, maybe on holidays in the middle of the week. But even though the idea of Dutch treating is generally considered tempting, it seems that many guys would be offended if the girls offered and many girls would be shocked if the boys asked.

Quartet Coming

The Juilliard String Quartet will present the second in a series of chamber music concerts at the University Nov. 20, at 8 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium.

Sponsored by the UMass music department, the concert is open to the public without charge.

Since 1946 the group has been quartet-in-residence of the Juilliard School of Music in New York. The musicians were appointed quartet-in-residence of the Library of Congress in Washington D.C. in 1962.

In 1961 they were the first American string quartet invited to visit the Soviet Union. Since then, they have taken several tours on both sides of the Iron Curtain, the Far East, South America, and North America.

The concert on Monday evening will be a combination of Beethoven's "Quartet in D major, Opus 18, No. 3; Bartok's "Fourth Quartet" (1928); and Dvorak's "Quartet in F major, Opus 96.

More Bombs Dropped On Haiphong Yards

SAIGON (AP) — With a break in monsoon clouds, U. S. Navy planes raided Haiphong's Shipyard No. 2 for the first time Thursday and pilots reported the western half was heavily hit.

Thick smoke rising after Navy Skyhawks loosed their bombs prevented a full damage report, U. S. military headquarters said Friday. The boat-building and repair yard is only 1.7 miles from the city's main docks, which remain immune from attack. Pilots reported they silenced a nearby antiaircraft site.

Two waves of B52 bombers hit near Dak To on Friday with new bombings of Communist base camps and infiltration routes in South Vietnam's embattled central highlands.

Haiphong's shipyard No. 2 is a construction and repair facility with three dry docks on the Tram Bac River a mile west of Haiphong's geographical center. Three similar yards farther away at the big North Vietnamese port were bombed last month.

A U. S. spokesman said the strike, which followed up 110 missions over North Vietnam on Wednesday, was made by pilots from the carrier Coral Sea. The U. S. Command made no mention of plane losses in the Haiphong raids or strikes elsewhere in North Vietnam.

Hanoi's official news agency claimed five U.S. planes were brought down, two at Haiphong and said a number of pilots were captured.

Also near Haiphong, U. S. pilots from the carrier Intrepid attacked a railroad bypass bridge 22 miles northwest of the city and reported destroying one end of it.

In one attack on a storage area 24 miles southeast of Dong Hoi, Air Force pilots reported setting off two sustained fires and destroying 20 military structures.

If you see news in the making Call the MDC Hotline 545-2550

AMHERST TOWER

New England's most complete and unique eating establishment for the WHOLE FAMILY !

99 TASTEE VARIETIES TO EAT N OR TAKE OUT

PIZZA

★ ASSORTED TASTEE DISHES . . .

★ SUBMARINE AND DELICATESSEN STYLE SANDWICHES

"YOU RING, WE BRING"

Free Delivery ($.99 minimum) within the hour
Sunday - Friday 6-11 p.m.

11 East Pleasant St. Amherst
253-7100 256-6667

Intramural Champs

Intramural football ended another wild and woolly season recently under the first-year guidance of director Ted Schmitt. PMD beat the Grayson Aces, 39-14, for the campus championship, and the fraternity all-stars beat the dorms, 12-7, but in the spirited intramural skirmishes, the only winner is the participant.

DORMITORY ALL STARS—Members of the Dormitory all star team are from left to right; Front: Fredricks (Hi-lo's), Tomas and Simonds (Aces), Doto (Colonials). 2nd Row: Deslata (Rams), Fenner (Oaks), Joudrey (Patriots), Forys (Hi-10's), Deyermond (Limes), Gediman (Aces), Dawidjian (Eagles). 3rd Row: Santos (Hoovers), Zabierek (Spartans), Craig (Smashers), Higney (Aces), Schlatka (Hi-10's), Mooradian (Lemons), Bakun (Maroons), Coach Beltis (Aces), Nealon (Birch), Coach Hall (Terrors).

WAYNE HIGNEY
Grayson Aces
Leading Passer

JOHN THOMAS
Grayson Aces
Leading Scorer

ROBERT McQUADE
Gorman Maples
Leading Pass Rusher

PAUL WHALEN
Alpha Sigma Phi
Leading Receiver

TEAM DEFENSE LEADERS — Members of the Washington Terrors are from left to right; front row: Bob McDevitt, Ken Deroeck, Ben Freitas, Edward Accomando, Bob Carleton, Don Wood. Back row: Phil McCutcheon, William Fuller, Marc Aroner, John Hall, Frank Calore, Pete Jeswald, Peter Falk, Robert Donaldson, Irwin Bamashaw.

FRATERNITY ALL STARS — Members of the fraternity all star team are from left to right; Front: Cannata and Whalen (ASP), Abbruzzese (QTV). 2nd Row: Hansen (KS), Marshal and Chambers (LCA), Pressler (BKP), Chenowith (SPE), Kallkow (TEP). 3rd Row: Coach Banachuck (PMD), McDonough (SPE), Ellard (ASP), Rigney (PMD), Freitas (KS), Diluzio (YC), Bositis (LCA), Crotty (TKE), Seibert (LCA), Coach Loughlin (QTV).

TEAM OFFENSE CHAMPIONS—Members of the Hills South Hi-Lo's are from left to right; Front: John Foris, Bill Rakita, Dick Fredricks, Don Williams, Pete Carroll, Paul Silverman. Back: Ken Steams, David Schlatka, Mike Facmen, Albert Holcomb, Dick Medieros, Frank Holcomb, David Kennally, John Walsh, James Sweeney.

Redmen Roundup...

(Continued from page 16)

ra Scholarship Monday at the Pro Quarterback Luncheon in New York.

The scholarship is being made in memory of his father for his contribution to the Giants and professional football. Chet, Sr., played center for the Giants in 1941 after his All - American years at Boston College.

This season Chet, Jr., was a two-way performer at end for Amherst Regional. Next year he plans to attend prep school before entering either UM or B.C.

Intramurals

Hoopsters Swing Into Action

Rosoff and Horgan sank 16 and 30 points respectively for the Terrors during last night's intramural basketball action. The Terrors swamped the Iron Men, 76-42.

The Spartans trounced the Monuments, 43-33, with Maloney of the Spartans scoring 16 points. The Academics won a close one over the Commanches, 47-46. The Bulldozers were squelched by the Smashers, 34-32. The Huskies whipped the Seagram 6's, 26-23.

The Moody Blues sang out a tune over the Sweet Mediums, 81-29; the Dell Vikings sank the Bismarks, 61-43; the Knickerbockers aced the Aces, 49-25; and the Tabomas bounced the Bouncing F"s, 60-17.

BASKETBALL STANDINGS

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Flaming A's	1-0	Bulldogs	1-0
Roman Numerals	1-0	Chadbourne Ind.	0-1
Accounting Assoc.	1-0	Ibis	0-1
		Highwaymen	0-1
		Toads	0-1

GRAD FACULTY LEAGUE

Squares	1-0	Chinese Club	0-1
Engineering	1-0	Chem Club	0-1
Economics	1-0	Selchsss	0-1
History	0-0

INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE

Nads	1-0	Raiders	0-1
Destroyers	1-0	Gedans	0-1
Vee Dees	1-0	Olympians	0-1

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Moody Blues	2-0	Tahomas	1-1
Dell Vikings	2-0	Knickerbockers	1-1
Bismarks	1-1	Bouncing F's	0-2
Aces	1-1

LEADING SCORERS

American		Lee (Selchsss)	6
Grover (Ibis)	21	International
Grad Faculty		Bosworth (Nads)
Hsueh (Chinese Club)	20	Grad Faculty
International		Smith (Bulldogs)	5
Bosworth (Nads)	21	Foul Shooters
Leading Rebounder		Megee (Engineer)	8
Conlan (Acc Assoc)	10	International
Grad Faculty		Ludwicsak (Veedees)	6

INTRAMURAL BOWLING STANDINGS

FRATERNITY LEAGUE

Athenian		Spartan
P.M.D.	22-2	AEP	22-2
LCA	20-4	TEP	22-2
SAM	16-8	PSD	10-6
BKP	6-10	ASP	10-14
PLP	8-16	DC	8-16
TKE	8-16	ZW	2-14
QTV	4-12	KS	0-16
SPE	4-20

INDEPENDENT LEAGUE

Invalids	16-0	Bouncing F's	8-8
Dell Vikings	14-2	Association	0-16
Chem Club	10-6	Toads	0-16

SOUTH LEAGUE

Birch	16-0	Lemons	10-6
Maroons	14-2	Cherries	0-16
Black Bears	14-2	Hi-los	0-16
Trojans	10-6	Eagles	0-16

NORTH LEAGUE

Academics	20-4	Smashers	10-14
Spartans	20-4	Leopards	6-8
Colonials	16-8	Patriots	0-24

DORMITORY SOUTH TOWER LEAGUE

Terrors	24-0	Bulldozers	10-14
Huskies	20-4	Monuments	8-16
Comanchees	12-12	Colt 45s.	6-18

DORMITORY NORTH TOWER LEAGUE

Aces	16-0	Redwoods	2-14
Grants	8-0	Barracudas	2-14
Flaming As	12-4	Oaks	0-8
Maples	8-8

Is the Eagle Really a Turkey?

Co-champs or Champs for Redmen

Redmen Go After Beanpot Trophy vs. UNH

By MARTHA CURRAN
Sports Day Editor

Frankfurts and beans head the menu Saturday night if the Redmen defeat the New Hampshire Wildcats at Durham and retain possession of the beanpot—championship trophy of the Yankee Conference. Kickoff time is 1:30 p.m. at Cowell Field in Durham, N.H.

"We've clinched a tie," says coach Vic Fusia. It's a matter of being co-champs or champs. "This is a game of pride, it necessitates the play of champions."

UNH coach Joe Yukica has prompted the Blue Wildcats to their first winning season since 1962. The Wildcats have allowed their Yankee Conference opponents 39 points, an average of 9.7 per game, and have totalled 72 points scoring for an average of 18.0 per game.

UMass has allowed 47 points to Conference opponents, an average of 11.7, and has scored 114 for a 28.5 average.

New Hampshire's diminutive duo could pose a threat to the Redmen. Bill Estey, 5'6", averages 32.4 yards on punt returns and 21.7 on kick-offs. Fusia calls senior flanker Bill Estey "a fine football player. He's small but performs big deeds." Estey's sophomore teammate Bob Rudolph, 5'5", averages 14 yards on punt returns.

Only one change in the lineup has been reported. Sophomore Dave Driscoll will replace junior cornerback Mike McArdle who will be sidelined for the last two football games with a broken ankle and torn ligaments.

Tickets for Saturday's game at Cowell Field in Durham are all sold out. Ticket Manager Walter Novak reported the sale of all 300 tickets sent by UNH.

Smoke signals — Doug Faucette reported for practice Tuesday night after missing gridiron play due to an injury.

Senior letterman Don Durkin will be ready for action on Saturday. He had his first rough workout Tuesday night since he separated his shoulder at the beginning of the season.

Proud papa Bill Carty isn't limping on a sore ankle anymore.

An irresistible force (U Mass offense) meets an immovable object (UNH defense) Saturday. Something's gotta give!

Massachusetts is represented in the UNH starting team by four lettermen: Jim Carsley, senior tackle from Stoneham; Tom Kasprzak, junior back from Melrose; Bob Paul, Junior fullback from Winchendon and Leo Sicuranza, junior middle guard from Braintree, and non-lettermen: Pete Chella, junior tackle from Quincy; Ed Walsh, junior quarterback from Dorchester.

Redmen go on the warpath against the Boston College Eagles Sat., Nov. 25. Tickets are on sale in the ticket office in Boyden until Wednesday.

DAVE DRISCOLL
Cornerback

Probable Starting Lineups

Massachusetts					New Hampshire
			OFFENSE
83 Warnock	Jr.	6'2	193	SE	81 Bartlett	Sr.	6'2	205
71 Cooney	So.	6'0	226	LT	73 McCullough	Jr.	6'0	210
63 Glogowski	Sr.	5'10	185	LG	65 Lepisto	So.	6'1	190
54 Sheehan	Jr.	6'6	258	C	51 Drewniak	So.	5'11	195
60 Santucci	Sr.	6'0	205	RG	67 Carsley	Sr.	5'11	215
74 Mitchell	Sr.	6'1	219	RT	70 Chapman	So.	6'4	210
82 Carty	Sr.	6'4	228	TE	83 Wallingford	Jr.	6'2	195
11 Landry	Sr.	6'3	200	QB	17 Walsh	Jr.	5'10	170
35 Hairston	Jr.	5'11	195	WB	32 Kasprzak	Jr.	6'0	180
20 Lovell	So.	6'0	194	TB	23 Phillips	Jr.	6'0	195
30 Cochrane	Jr.	6'0	202	FB	49 Wilson	Jr.	5'10	195
			DEFENSE
84 York	So.	6'1	202	LE	84 Vasilios	Sr.	5'11	225
72 Scheraiis	So.	6'4	230	LT	77 Martino	Jr.	6'1	225
53 Gombar	Sr.	6'0	198	MG	68 Keenan	Jr.	6'0	210
66 Stevens	Sr.	6'0	210	RT	76 Witteman	Jr.	6'0	225
89 Minar	Sr.	6'0	233	RE	85 Kott	Jr.	6'2	210
34 Campbell	Sr.	5'10	180	Chief	29 Powers	So.	5'11	185
64 Gray	So.	6'1	180	LB	55 Kouloheras	Jr.	5'9	195
65 Smith	Sr.	5'10	190	LB	63 Gordon	So.	5'9	180
24 Frye	Jr.	5'9	185	CB	18 Regis	So.	5'11	165
41 D. Driscoll	So.	6'2	-90	CB	36 Carey	Jr.	6'0	180
40 Rogers	So.	6'2	192	S	19 Vollherbst	Jr.	5'10	165

Crew, Anyone?

The UMass crews have begun their winter training program in the basement of Memorial Hall. Students interested in becoming members are invited to contact either varsity crew coach Dave Clarke or frosh crew coach Mike Faherty at the training sessions Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 4:30 to 5:30.

Redmen on the Warpath

FOOTBALL — vs. New Hampshire (at Durham, N. H., tomorrow, 1:30 p. m., WMUA 91.1 FM)
FOOTBALL (Fr) — vs. New Hampshire (at home, today, 1:30 p. m.)
SOCCER — vs. New Hampshire (at Durham, N. H., tomorrow, 10:30 a. m.)
BASKETBALL — scrimmage vs. St. Michael's (at Curry Hicks Cage, today, 7 p. m.)

Booters Try to Even Their Record In Final Clash Against UNH

A .500 record is the goal for the UMass soccer team when they travel to New Hampshire for their season's finale Saturday starting at 10:30 a.m.

Going into the game, the Redmen are 4-5 overall. A victory Saturday would even their record and give them undisputed possession of second place in the Yankee Conference.

Statistics indicate that the two teams are pretty evenly matched. Both teams have allowed 21 goals during the season. The Redmen have outscored the Wildcats by 3, 20-17.

New Hampshire has a 3-5 mark this season. The Wildcats possess a balanced scoring attack with several players who have scored three goals apiece.

Fifteen members of the soccer team will be playing their final game in Redman uniforms.

Departing seniors are Bruce Allan, Bill Allen, Gerry Cellilli, Phil Bozenhard, Gary Gibbons, Dick Hale, Frank Howard, Dave Jekanoski, Retson Kapitao, Elliott Klien, Peter Makhambera, Bob Maroney, Marty Smith, Charlie Stacey and Warren White.

W.S.

METAWAMPE'S GRID PICKS

His chance to hit the big time went up in smoke. It's enough to really upset a soothsayer of good standing. Despite last week's 40-16-2 showing, Metawampe was not syndicated in "Mother of Voices." And is he ever sore about it.

In retaliation, he is out for blood this week. Metawampe goes out on a limb in a couple of instances, although not as far as a certain bird at Chestnut Hill. With bowl time rapidly approaching, here is this week's offering:

UMASS 31, NEW HAMPSHIRE 6 — Why does Estey look so grim? Someone's gonna step on him.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA 17, UCLA 7—With vodka, orange juice has its kicks, but roses make a better mix.

YALE 30, PRINCETON 21 — The single wing is now old hat, as Elis will make sure of that.

TEXAS, EL PASO 21, WYOMING 13—Untouched Cowboys show disgust, as Miners make them bite the dust.

TENNESSEE 17, MISSISSIPPI 9—"Swamp Rat" Warren has a goal—to take the Vols into Orange Bowl.

SYRACUSE 35, BOSTON COLLEGE 15 — "Our bird is tough," the Eagles pray. But it's a turkey, Orangemen say.

INDIANA 16, MINNESOTA 12 —Who has made the Hoosiers meaner? Why, the little old lady from Pasadena.

OKLAHOMA 21, KANSAS 0— Sooners want Miami trip, and Jayhawks give them little lip.

CLEMSON 10, NORTH CAROLINA STATE 9 — Wolfpack lost their first last week — now their conference hopes look bleak.

RHODE ISLAND 32, CONNECTICUT 14 — Number Two is URI—"We try harder" is their cry.

Holy Cross 17, Rutgers 14
Vermont 25, C. W. Post 16
Harvard 37, Brown 12
Dartmouth 20, Cornell 8
Columbia 25, Pennsylvania 23
Buffalo 27, Colgate 0
Penn State 29, Ohio 15
Army 16, Pittsburgh 6
Navy 17, Vanderbilt 13
Delaware 26, Bucknell 16
Temple 33, Akron 28
Lafayette 18, Lehigh 17
Alabama 14, South Carolina 3
Duke 10, North Carolina 0
Wake Forest 21, Maryland 0
Tulane 30, Virginia 8
West Virginia 21, Davidson 6
William & Mary 23, Richmond 15
East Carolina 13, Marshall 8
Citadel 27, Furman 13
Auburn 33, Georgia 21
Florida 21, Kentucky 0
LSU 17, Mississippi State 0
Notre Dame 33, Georgia Tech 12
Purdue 28, Michigan State 7
Ohio State 14, Iowa 13
Wisconsin 21, Michigan 14
Northwestern 16, Illinois 13
Toledo 27, Dayton 20
Xavier 7, Kent State 6
Miami 14, Cincinnati 8
Bowling Green 26, Northern Illinois 11
Texas 20, Texas Christian 0
Arkansas 14, SMU 6
Texas A&M 27, Rice 8
Texas Tech 13, Baylor 0
Houston 31, Idaho 7
West Texas State 28, Wichita 14
Colorado 21, Kansas State 6
Missouri 14, Nebraska 9
Oklahoma State 7, Iowa State 0
North Texas State 31, Tulsa 29
Arizona 26, Air Force 12
Brigham Young 33, Arizona State 30
Utah 26, Utah State 20
New Mexico State 42, New Mexico 12
Oregon State 24, Oregon 7
Stanford 24, California 10

Boston College Eagles to Try Again

By PETER PASCERELLI
Sports Day Editor

Boston College's Blush-and-Gold, fresh from a stalwart effort before hundreds of nuns against powerful V.M.I. last weekend, takes on Eastern power Syracuse tomorrow, highlighting the games of UMass' opponents.

Reports from the Eagles' coop have it that a large contingent of wild-eyed alumni will be chanting "Goodbye, Jimmy," to beleagured head coach Jim Miller, whose record for the past two years is an eye-catching six wins and 11 losses.

Connecticut travels to Rhode Island in a "key" Yankee Conference game. A Rhode Island win or tie will assure UMass of the Conference championship, while a UConn win coupled with a Redman loss will create a tie for the top spot.

Dartmouth, with Ivy League title hopes still alive, entertains Cornell at Hanover. Dartmouth can still tie for first place if Yale should lose a game.

Rutgers plays Holy Cross in a battle of Eastern independents. The Crusaders, after a mauling by Syracuse, will be sharpening their spears in preparation for their annual joust with the soaring Boston College Eagles.

Maine and Boston University have mercifully ended their seasons.

Redman Roundup

Cross Country Snowed Out in Meet

Bill Russell wasn't the only one caught in the storm that swept eastern New England this week. The UMass cross-country team, scheduled to play its last dual meet of the season yesterday at New Hampshire, had the day off because six inches of snow fell on Durham.

The harriors compete in the IC4A's Monday at Van Cortland Park, New York City. It will be the last UMass competition for Co-captain Greg Bowman.

* * *

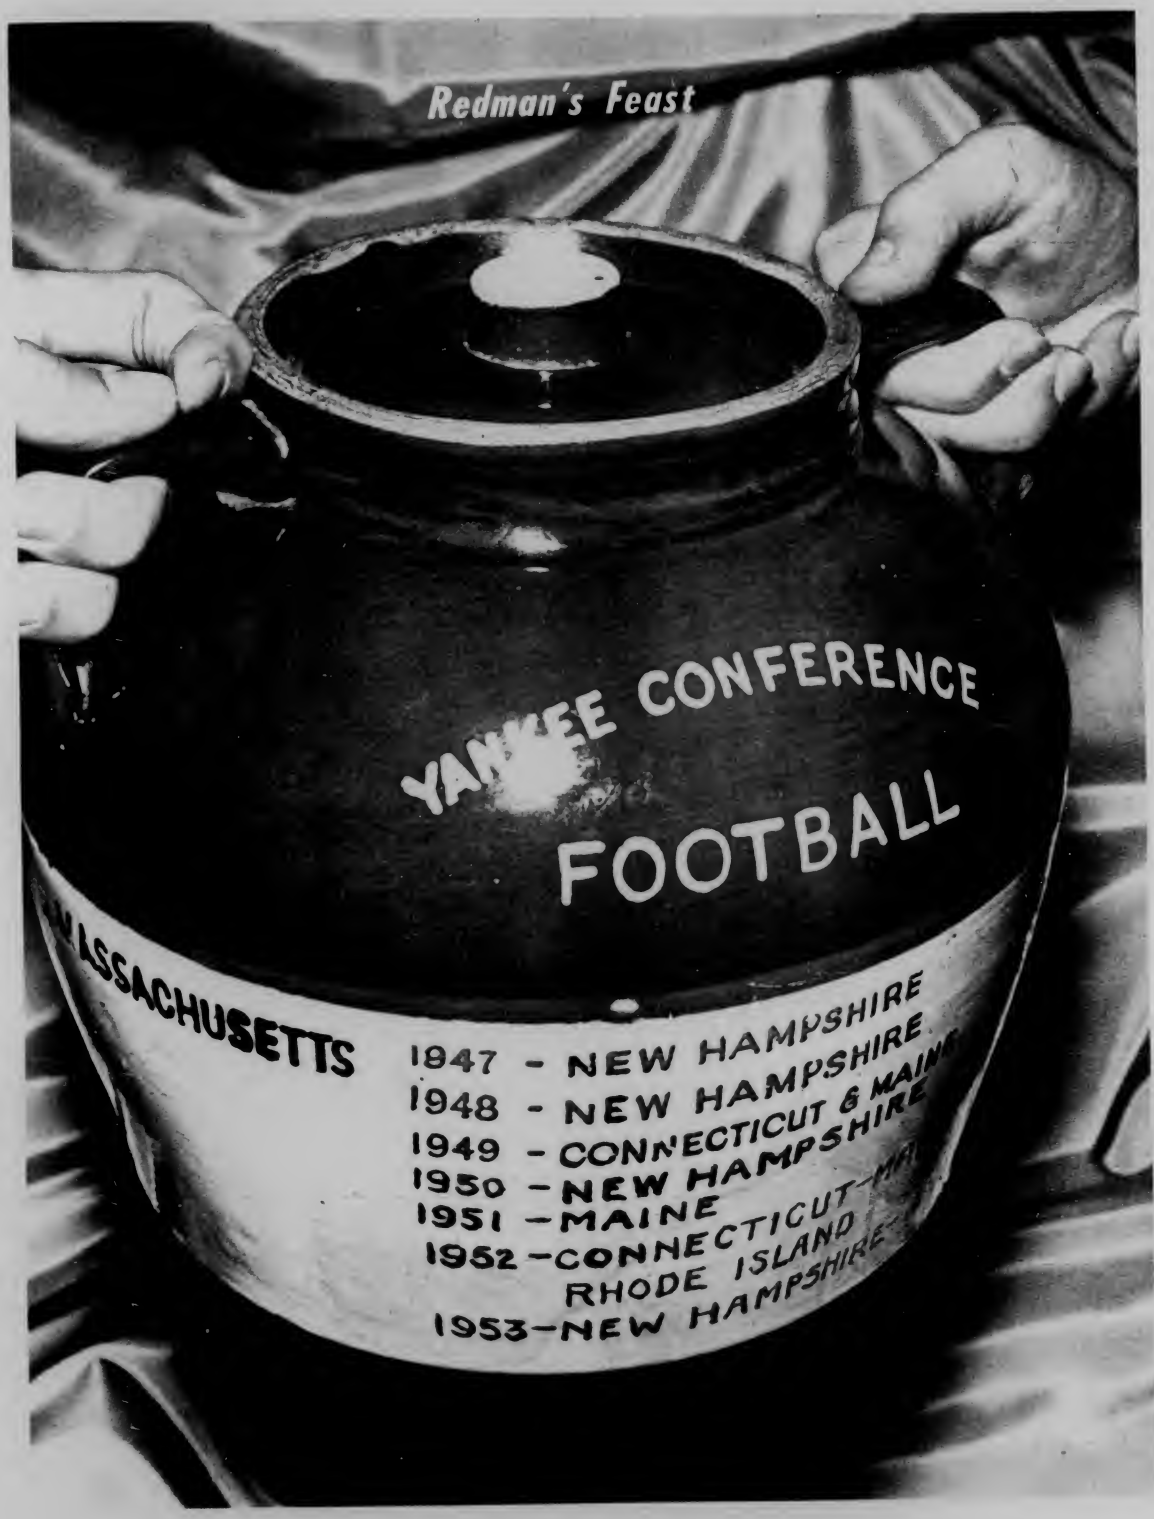
Seeking their second victory in six starts, the frosh gridmen meet the New Hampshire freshmen today at the Stadium at 1:30 p.m. Several UMass players are sidelined with injuries, making the task for the Little Redmen even tougher against the Little Wildcats, now 3-1.

Both starting offensive guards, Ed Flaim and Dick Hogg are definitely out and backs Neil Hering and Tom Semino are doubtful starters. Quarterbacks Dick Dyer and Joe Lang will alternate in leading the offense, which features the running of Bob Toole and Pat Scavone.

It will be the last game of the year for the frosh, under first-year coach Dave Kelley.

* * *

No dunks will be allowed when the UM basketball team tests the new rule in addition to St. Michael's from Winooski, Vt., in a scrimmage tonight at the Cage. Coach Jack Leaman plans to give all the Redmen plenty of court time in the game, which starts at 7 p.m.



Gladchuk

* * *

Chet Gladchuk, Jr., son of the late UMass assistant athletic director and a senior at Amherst Regional High School, will be awarded the New York Giants' seventh annual Timothy J. Ma-

(Continued on page 15)

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

A Pot of Beans, Turkey—Then Roast Eagle

(See Page 2)

Daily Collegian Photo by John Kelly

MASS(IVE) RETALIATION — New Hampshire's Tom Kasprzak is stopped by Paul Milnar (89) and Kent Stevens (66) of UMass in sloppy going at Durham.

Redmen Rise from New H'mpshire Mud To Bring Beanpot Trophy Home Again

By MIKE CURRAN
Staff Reporter

DURHAM, N.H. — UMass topped New Hampshire, 14-13, here Saturday thereby copping the Yankee Conference Beanpot for the forth time in the last five years, but not before the upset-minded Wildcats gave the Redmen an awful scare.

A packed house of 10,500 cheered their favorites on as they splashed their way down the mud-covered "football field" while the powerful visitors were forced to take to the airways.

Late in the fourth quarter the hungry Wildcats drove for their second touchdown to make the score 14-13. The moment of truth was at hand as UNH lined up for a 2-point conversion attempt. Luckily for the Redmen, quarterback Ed Walsh lost control of the snap, slipped, and fell.

An onside kick paid off for the home team but a late field goal attempt by Kurt Voolherbst was stuffed by Paul Campbell to preserve the victory and UM left this snow-covered village knowing they had experienced one heck of a nightmare.

There was still plenty of snow on the field as the afternoon began. Marty Scheralis' kickoff bounced off a UNH lineman's leg and Jim Nangle's recovery gave the UM offense the ball at the Wildcat 44.

On the ensuing set of downs, Landry and company were unable to move the ball on the swampy field and were thrown back to the Redmen 44. This was typical of the UM offense's frustration and Nick Warnock's punt was only the first of 10 well-placed boots he pounded out during the afternoon.

Both teams had trouble hanging onto the ball during the first period but neither side could take advantage of the breaks. Al Becker was a Johnny-on-the-spot when Bob Rudolph fumbled at the UNH 1. Two plays later, however, the hungry Wildcats stole the ball from Tim Driscoll.

Early in the second quarter, Steve Parnell's 17-yd. punt return finally got the Redmen rolling. After Landry ran for one first down, he faded back and tried to hit Becker with a scoring strike.

A pass interference call gave UM first-and-goal at the one and Gerry Grasso put 6 points on the scoreboard seconds later. Ed Sherman's kick made it 7-0 and gave the giant junior the Redmen record for the most consecutive extra points, 24 which he later added to.

In the meantime the UM defense was holding the Wildcats in check with some bone-crunching line play.

Later on, a 44-yd. pass to Warnock set the Redmen up at the 9-yd. line, but a third down Landry toss slipped out of Craig Lovell's grasp so the field goal unit took over.

(Continued on page 16)

You Are Eligible.

As a member of a group living or working in Massachusetts, you are eligible for SAVINGS BANK LIFE INSURANCE, the choice of 400,000 prudent men and women with an eye for exceptional value. And once you become a SAVINGS BANK LIFE INSURANCE policyholder, you can keep your policy, no matter where you work or live.

To take advantage of this unique opportunity now, visit your Mutual Savings Bank and ask for personal counselling about the best SAVINGS BANK LIFE INSURANCE policy for you. It could be the most important step you ever take toward personal financial security.

Founded in 1907 as a public service, SAVINGS BANK LIFE INSURANCE is sold only through Mutual Savings Banks direct, for low cost. And although not guaranteed, dividends have been paid every year since 1908, to reduce cost still further.

SAVINGS BANK SBLI LIFE INSURANCE

Only your Mutual Savings Bank offers you Savings Accounts, Mortgage Loans, and Savings Bank Life Insurance.

New Delay in U.S. Funds For State Medical School

The federal government has slapped a new delay on the proposed plans for the UMass Medical School as it rejected a $16 million request for funds for construction.

With the snag came the further recommendation that a dental school be added to help alleviate the shortage of dentists in the state.

University officials stated that the application could not be resubmitted until next March. "This will mean a delay of four months," Dean Lamar Soutter said. "It could be as much as a year. It's terribly demoralizing for everyone."

The federal government rejected the present application in order to save money. However, a delay of just half a year would increase the cost of construction by an estimated $1.3 million.

Specifically the government wants the school to simplify its design, hence cutting costs. It also stated that the teaching hospital was attached to the wrong part of the school and the design of the library and student areas was inefficient and uneconomical.

The total cost of the complex has been estimated at $4.5 million. Of this amount the University is seeking some $24 million in federal funds.

Dean Soutter speculated, that this delay might be caused by a lack of funds. The federal government has been cutting back funds on a number of projects due to the Vietnam War.

The dean termed it as unfortunate that the government should call for a revision of the architectural plans since they were satisfied with them. The delay could put off occupancy of the school until the fall of 1971, a year behind schedule. There will be no delay in starting the first class, he said, as the University is negotiating to buy a building on the corner of the Medical center site in Worcester which will be used to house the first class temporarily.

General Court Reaches Decision in Garjian Case

Paul DeMariano, Chief Justice of the General Court, issued last night to the Daily Collegian a statement on the majority concerning the case of Michael Garjian versus Dr. Noffsinger.

The statement read by John Robinson, Justice of the Court stated: "While the Court is in general agreement that any student duly vested with authority to conduct certain student affairs is expected to assume responsibility for such conduct, and that irresponsible conduct might well be a violation of the underlying spirit of the code of student conduct, it seemed clear that there had been no violation of the specific charge brought against Mr. Garjian. The section of the code which the defendant was charged with violating dealt specifically with an individual's proper authority to represent the university or any other recognized student organization. It's the concensus of the court that, while an authorized person might well be censured for not taking proper steps to insure against what might be a potentially embarrassing situation to the University community, the defendant was not charged with citing irresponsibility but rather with acting without authority, the General Court finds for the defendant."

Ochs Review

Ochs Not Ready to Branch Out

By CHET WEINERMAN
Editor-in-Chief

A new Phil Ochs, interested in expanding his dimensions as a performer, headlined the JFK Concert yesterday afternoon at the Amana-Hicks Deep Freeze. The Boston folk singer, however, still has quite a ways to go to become a professional before he can ever consider expansion.

Ochs concentrated on plugging his new album, Pleasures of the Harbor, singing five numbers from that recording, which, with its ragtime piano and elaborate orchestration, is a far cry from the Ochs of In Concert and I Ain't Marchin' fame. Clearly, without the help of the orchestra, Ochs was uncomfortable singing his new songs. He is not an expert guitarist in the first place, and his insecurity only compounded his ills. In several songs, he displayed awkardness in his chord changes. Of course, this may well have been due, at least in part, to the polar conditions of the grand concert hall.

Perhaps the nadir of the concert came at the third song "Flower Lady", which is poignant commentary on the ignorance of aesthetics in today's materialistic and war-oriented society. Throughout the concert, Ochs was attempting to tune his guitar, but suddenly, in the middle of "Flower Lady", he stopped singing and meekly offered the excuse that he had to tune the guitar more precisely.

It seemed quite obvious that not only was his Gibson out of tune, but that indeed Ochs had forgotten the words to his own song. On several other occasions, Ochs had to skip a few beats in order to pick up the next line of his lyrics.

While his voice had its usual good power and range, Och's voice cracked and squeaked in several places, most notably in "Changes" and "Flower Lady".

"I'm Going to Say It Now" and "Changes" were the two best songs of the concert; he sang them the most effectively and the audience reacted to them the most favorably. It is no small coincidence that these are two of his older songs—and also his most popularly requested songs. He knows these songs the best, and this confidence was communicated to the audience. Most Ochs fans were disappointed that he also did not do perhaps his greatest number, "There But For Fortune," made famous by Al Capp amour Joan Baez.

Contrarily, when Ochs announced his new song "The Party," he began singing another song, and then offered a feebly unprofessional, "Oops, wrong song."

Nonetheless, Ochs gave an adequate concert. His songs have genuine depth and his voice has quality. It's just that somehow, after hearing the power and glory of some of his earlier recordings, one was hoping for something more dynamic than what and who actually appeared.

For J. F. K.

Two of the groups that performed at yesterday's J.F.K. Memorial Concert at the Curry Hicks Cage were the Jim Kweskin Jug Band (left) and the Chad Mitchell Trio (right). See review on opposite page.

Review

Ariel and Masquers Make 'Tempest' Big Success

by JOHN WOJNOS
Staff Reporter

Barry Keating's magnificent portrayal of Ariel, ran away with the show as the Amherst Masquers opened their fall season last weekend with Shakespeare's Tempest at Kirby Memorial Theater. From the opening scene in the tempest at sea to Prospero's liberation of Ariel, the audience was captivated by superb acting and theatrical device which gave the production a professional tone, at least.

The action opens on board ship at sea, where despite the able boatswain, played by William Hart, a tempest brings the ship's survivors to an uninhabited island. Here, Bruce Boyer as Prospero with his magical robe and staff assures his fair Miranda, portrayed by Sherry Stetson, that no harm has come to the men on board.

Keeping in mind that the representation of Ariel can either make or break a production of The Tempest, reassurance came as Barry Keating gracefully made his entrance. With glowing skin and careful and exact movement he became the center of attraction at each appearance. He proved to be a brilliant contrast to the savage and deformed slave, Caliban, played by Stephen Barker. In a harsh, brutish manner, painted in silver and green, Caliban played the part well of a savage, half man, half fish, as the jester Trinculo, comically brings to light.

Stephen Collins as Ferdinand, carries timber in hopes of winning beautiful Miranda who delights at the sight of the first young, handsome man her eyes have met. Royalty enters with Alonso, Sebastian, Antonia and their court who show their bewilderment at all the bizarre occurrences including orange-eyed spirits prancing about stage who set food and drink before the guests which later vanishes before their very eyes.

Here we meet Eugene Gaddis as the honest, old councillor, Gonzalo, who provides a striking contrast to his ignoble and shrewd companions. A drunken butler, Stephano, played by David Stewart, joined by Thomas Miller as Trinculo, and Caliban brings tears of laughter as they stumble across stage with their words as well as their feet.

At Prospero's command, the characters find themselves together on stage, where father and son, Alonso and Ferdinand embrace with joy, announcement of Miranda and Ferdinand's nuptials is made, and Prospero regains his dukedom as he forgives his usurping brother. This strange and bizzare play ends in a joyous reunion of all the personae as Prospero casts off forever his magical powers and announces that their ship awaits them intact.

A second performance of The Tempest will be held December 1, 2, 3, and 4, at Kirby Memorial Theater, Amherst College.

NOTICES

SKI CLUB OUTING CLUB FIRST AID
Paul Whitney of National Ski Patrol, American Red Cross, etc. will lecture and show a movie on winter survival. All members of Ski Club, Outing Club, ROTC, etc. are welcome. Mandatory for Advanced First Aid Course. At Educ. Aud., Mon., Nov. 20 from 7-10 p.m. To get there, go to Ed. Bldg. take north driveway, go in main North entrance, swing left into Aud. See you there.

NEWMAN CLUB
Meeting Mon. at 8:15 p.m. in Newman classroom, Enquiry class.

SPA
On Mon. at 6:30 p.m. in Machmer W-14 important meeting to discuss picketing legislation, CIA, etc.

BRIDGE CLUB
Club will be closed Monday, Nov. 20 and all subsequent Mondays until further notice.

AIR FORCE OFFICERS TEST
Test given Tues., Nov. 21 in Hampden Room, S.U. All male and female grads for Jan. and June invited. For more info call Sgt. Petrella 536-0546 in Holyoke collect.

GRADUATE STUDENT SENATE
Mon., Nov. 20 at 8:30 in S.U. Ballroom there is open meeting.

CHEMISTRY SEMINARS
Robert A. Diahman on "Cryoscopic Titrations", on Tues., Nov. 21 at 11:15 a.m. in Goessmann 151.
Prof. A. B. F. Duncan, on "Rydberg States of Molecules" on Tues., Nov. 21 at 11:15 a.m. in Goessmann 152.

PSYCHOLOGY COLLOQUIUM
"Cognitive Factors in Adaptive Level" will be topic, by Dr. Harry Helson, on Mon. at 4:30 p.m. in Bartlett 61.

LOST:
Black & brown wallet lost at party in North Amherst Sat. nite. Valuables in it. Please return, no question asked. Janet Rossenbloom, 1616 J.Q. Adams.
Gold and jade ring, on Tues. in vicinity of SBA. Call Ann Buyer at 545-2513. Reward.
Find the wallet, keep the money. Six dollars doesn't matter to me, but identification does. Brown billfold lost Nov. 15. Call Dick McKever, 253-9113, or 256-6368.

Wednesday Is Set as Deadline For 'Who's Who' Nominations

Nominations for "Who's Who Among Seniors of American Colleges and Universities" are presently being accepted. Selections will be made on the basis of academic merit and concern with the welfare of fellow students and the University as a whole. Seniors shall be recognized not specifically for posts on offices held, but for what was accomplished while in a specific position.

The selection committee wishes to emphasize that nominations may be sponsored by Residence Halls, Greek Houses, RSO organizations, or any interested members of the University community.

The written nominations should include: description of academic standing and any special academic work, i.e. honors work; numeration of activities participated in; and most importantly, rational on how the nominee has benefited his peers and the University. Selections shall be made public later this year upon release by the "Who's Who" book company.

Nominations must be postmarked by Wednesday and mailed to "Who's Who", RSO Office, Student Union, UMass.

University Services During Vacation

The following comprise a list of services that will be available to all students beginning on Wednesday, November 22, through Sunday, November 26.

I. Dining Commons
The Dining Commons will close after the evening meal, Wednesday, Nov. 22. They will open again for breakfast on Monday, Nov. 27.

II. Student Union
The Student Union will be open during the recess period on the following schedule:
Wednesday, November 22 — 7 a.m. to 7:30 p.m.
Thursday, November 23 — 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.
Friday, November 24 — 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.
Saturday, November 25 — 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.
Sunday, November 26 — 9 a.m. to 11:30 p.m.

III. Infirmary
Infirmary out-patients hours during the Thanksgiving vacation are as follows:
Wednesday, November 22 — 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.
Thursday, November 23 — Closed
Friday, November 24 — 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.
Saturday, November 25 — 8:30 a.m. to 11:30 p.m.
In case of an emergency, contact the University Operator, who will refer your call to a representative of the Health Services.

IV. Library
The library hours during Thanksgiving recess are as follows:
A. Main Library
Wednesday, November 22 — 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.
Thursday, November 23 — Closed
Friday, November 24 — 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.
Saturday, November 25 — Closed
Sunday, November 26 — 8 p.m. to 10 p.m.

B. Departmental Library
For information regarding library hours, check with each Departmental Library

SENDOFF '70

Weekend Dec. 1, 2, 3, 7

Dec. 1 Bitter Send Folk House $1.50

Dec. 2 Dance, 2 Shows, 8 & 10:15
Turtles & Pilgrims $1.50

Dec. 3 Simon & Garfunkel
7 p.m., Cage $2.50

Dec. 7 Harlem Globetrotters
8:00 p.m., Cage $2.50
Sophs $2.00

THINKING OF GETTING ENGAGED?

Student Diamond

BUYING SERVICE
(WITH SPECIAL PRICE CONSIDERATION) by
HERB COHEN
in association with his father

NATHAN COHEN
Jeweler & Diamond Merchant
"In the Bowles Building"
Room 206 - Second Floor
1016 MAIN STREET, SPRINGFIELD 3, MASS.
Established 1912 Phone RE 2-5244

Dear Student,

"A diamond engagement ring--one of the most personal and important purchases in an individual's life--is often one of the most difficult.

"I believe that young adults in general, and university students in particular, would welcome a straight-forward unembellished presentation of the facts by someone qualified by training and experience, who is sincerely interested in assisting them in making an intelligent and informed selection."

Qualifications:
N. Y. U. — B. S. Marketing
G. I. A. (Gemological Institute of America)—Specialized Diamond Training

MDC CLASSIFIED

HELP WANTED

One rep. from each dorm to represent good deal in skiing. Good deal for rep. too. Call Jim—546-7081.

R.N. 11:00-7:00 2 nights
R.N. 3:00-11:00 2 days
If interested, call 253-7557.

FOR RENT

24 feet Room
Refrigerator, cooking facilities, center of town.
Leader Rooms
159 North Pleasant St.
Apply at Bowling Alley.
$15 a week

APARTMENT FOR RENT

- Married Graduate Students preferred
- Fully furnished
- New Washer-Dryer Appliances
- 2 Bedrooms
- 1½ miles for campus in North Amherst
- $150 month
- Call 549-1519
- Move in Thanksgiving holidays

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

Sitars, tabla, sarods, tambouras and other folk and classical instruments from India are available at reasonable rupee rates. We will deliver and demonstrate. Write, call or visit.
Emporium India
262 Thayer St.
Providence, R.I. 02906
Tel. 401-421-2288
Boston branch: Spectrum India, 157 Newbury St.

PERSONAL

Resumes reports, & manuscripts beautifully typed with IBM ribbon type. Call Amherst Secretarial Service, 253-7717.

AUTOMOBILE

$69.95—1957 Ford 2 dr. hdtp. V8, auto. snow tires for sale or trade for skils, etc. Call Bob 549-0375.

1966 V.W. 1375.00 excellent condition. 545-2021.

FOR SALE

Royal Ultronic Typewriter 1 year-old—$135. Call 253-7717.

York "Olympic" weights 310 lbs pressing bench and other accessories $100. Russell Mundy, 44 Kellogg St., Amherst, 253-7919

Bogel B61 Turntable Sherwood S8000, 2 amplifier, Sherwood S3000 4 FM stereo tuner, 2 8 inch coaxal speakers. Perfect condition $275. 253-2492, 5-7 p.m.

Sohler Spyder Bluebird Competition skis—Nevada Toes, marker heels A Thongs cost $215 new now $100. Won Western New England Downhill Championship last year. Call 6-7567.

42 Colors of dry cleanable suede
24 Colors of dry cleanable leather
All stain - resistant, water repellent, crack-proof treated.
Buy now to easily sew for Christmas
2 hides for skirt
1 hide for vest
3 hides for skirt or shirt
$8.50 per hide
Call "Fleur-de-Lis", 549-1819

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Pass-Fail

As the Undergraduate Handbook points out, students shall be allowed for the first time to take "pass-fail" courses next semester. It is also carefully explained that if a student does satisfactory work in his one pass-fail course, the "P" grade will not be computed in his cume, but if he fails the "F" will count.

Although the handbook doesn't go into detail explaining the purpose of having such courses here, it enumerates the types of courses that cannot be taken on a pass-fail basis. These exceptions are core and distribution requirements and courses in one's major (unless the department rules it permissible). Thus, one might conclude that the pass-fail system is designed to allow students to take courses, outside of their special field of interest and beside the seemingly limitless number of requirements, just because they want to...and without worrying about the grades.

Surprisingly enough, even though if one flunks a pass-fail course it goes into his cume, this narrow purpose is the specific reason that the University has instituted a pass-fail system, according to the report which accompanied the recommendation (of the Faculty Senate Academic Matters Committee).

We would agree that the rationale is one of several good reasons for having "grade-less" courses, but we would prefer having the system extended to all requirements outside of the major department.

But whatever the exceptions are to what courses can and cannot be pass-fail courses, we believe that the freedom from worrying about grades is destroyed when the student must fear that he may receive an "F." Why would any student enroll, in what would be a difficult course for him, under the present limited pass-fail system when he could as easily, and with less worry, audit the course ?

Perhaps, it is that those who favor pass-fail systems think college students should receive University-bestowed credit for passing courses. Perhaps, they feel that a student benefits more from a course when he participates in all its class-meetings, assignments, and testing than when he audits or hears some of the course.

We would agree. But, given the miserable collection of requirements that the University imposes—which invariably hurt a person's cume—how can any student in his right mind endanger that precious standard of admission to graduate and professional schools and employment, by willingly signing up for an enrichment course—that he might flunk ?

We don't think that it is intelligent for the "F" to count. We are disappointed, as were the former and present chairmen of the Student Senate Academic Affairs Committee, that between last spring and this fall, the "F" was made to count. The indications last year were extremely hopeful that UMass, at least, was getting a pass-fail system.

The pass-fail plan was not the one that the students asked for. The plan is not one that should be continued.

We urge students to support the recently-approved Student Senate resolution that the "F" be not computed by writing to the Academic Matters Committee of the Faculty Senate.

— THE EDITORS

Conclusion

Suffer the Children

"Cindy Rella!" exclaimed Dorothy.

"Oh, hi. Have you seen my other shoe," said Cindy. "I left it somewhere, probably at Prince, but I haven't got time to go over there. My ride is here."

"Going home for Thanksgiving already?" said Glinda.

"Uh huh." replied Cindy.

"Don't forget the Christmas toy drive!" chorused Dorothy and Glinda.

"I won't," assured Cindy. "I've got it all written down here: Union lobby, Nov. 27th through Dec. 1st—don't worry, I'll remember...where the heck is my shoe?"

"Here," said Dorothy, "take these." She reached down under the bed and brought up a pair of sparkling red shoes which immediately fixed themselves to Cindy's feet.

"They're a perfect fit," cried Cindy. "Thanks."

"Use 'em right and you won't need a ride home," murmured Dorothy.

"Bye!" shouted Cindy.

"Goodbye!" shouted Dorothy.

"Remember," called Glinda, "the toy drive!"

"I will!" answered Cindy.

WILL YOU ?

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union ... University of Massachusetts ... Amherst, Mass.

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Chester S. Weinerman '68

MANAGING EDITOR ..... John H. Dean, Jr. '69
BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Charles Smith '69

City Editor ..... Jim Foudy '68
News Editor ..... Richard S. Kline '70
Editorial Chairman ..... Pat Petow '68
Sports Editor ..... Tom Fitzgerald '69
Assistant Sports Editor ..... Glenn Briere '69
Advertising Managers ..... Dot Silvia '69
Sharon Kramer '69
Photo Editors ..... Paul Bolliver '68
John Griffin '68

MONDAY'S NEWS STAFF: Jan Curley, Day Editor; Alissa Greenberg, Sheila Goodman, Daryl Francis, Marcia Levisen; Sports Day Editor: Peter Pascarelli; Editorial Day Editor: Bob Brill

Sports Day Editor: Jan Curley, Editorial Day Editor: Sue Wallace
FRIDAY NEWS STAFF: Don Epstein, Day Editor; Cheryl Bezis, Al Sirota, Pam Wainshilbaum, Diana Cornell, Joan Jankowski, Pat Flanagan, Elaine Lonardo.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the Daily Collegian pubilshes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amended by the act of June 11, 1945. Printed by Hamilton I. Newell, Inc., University Drive, Amherst. Subscription: $6.00 per year, $3.50 per semester.

Offices of the Daily Collegian are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

..I have not been brainwashed...I have not been brainwashed..

Guest Editorial

Victory?

By RONALD A. RUBEL, Asst Professor
School of Engineering

I personally saw very little difference between the first two choices, unlimited escalation and the present policy, being given the students on the recent Poll.

Those who advocated increased military pressure in Vietnam speak of "victory," a concept quite undefined in the context of the Vietnam War. They argue that one quick blow will defeat the North Vietnamese and actually reduce the number of American casualties.

I have only to remind you of instances where the spokesmen for a military solution have advocated certain policies which, when subsequently adopted, did not bring the promised results.

Remember that two and a half years ago the American people were told that the bombing of North Vietnam would surely bring the war to a close. Now, after more bombs have been dropped on North Vietnam than were dropped on Nazi Germany in World War II, we see that this is not the case. Our casualties in South Vietnam have not decreased. On the contrary casualties are now 70% higher than those of last year.

The North Vietnamese have not been bombed in submission, but seem more determined than ever to continue the battle. The status of the war in the South is obviously a stalemate, in spite of the protestations of Administration spokesmen.

Rather than admit that they were wrong, the spokesmen for a military solution now are talking of the need for an armed invasion of North Vietnam and the removal of all restrictions on the bombing of that country, moves which would most surely bring about Chinese intervention.

It seems as though there are some reckless men who are eager to bring the Chinese into the war because we would then have the opportunity to destroy them. When General Curtis LeMay was asked what our policy would be in case of Chinese intervention, he told his audience that he would (quote) "nuke" them. Surely, in all conscience, we cannot approve of such a policy.

The Administration position is not stated in these terms. We hear talk of a "limited war", being conducted "prudently". Yet when the actions of the Adminstration are examined, they indicate that the Administration is in fact following a policy of unlimited escalation.

There seems to be a lag of about one-half year between the time when a "hawk" suggests a certain course of action and the time when the Administration adopts it. We have only to think back to the various suggestions offered by Barry Goldwater in 1964. Within a half year after the election all suggestions that had been offered by Mr. Goldwater had been adopted by the Adminstration, with the single exception of allowing local commanders to decide whether to use nuclear tactical weapons.

We are bombing the North, destroying Hanoi and Haiphong, defoliating the jungle, all the acts that seemed so odious in 1964.

The third policy offered in the local poll is a far more sane policy. Those who advocate some form of de-escalation include the leaders of most of the nations in the world.

We should stop the bombing, not merely pause and wait for some response. We must acknowledge that we cannot bomb the North Vietnamese into submission and we should turn back to the real war, that being fought in the South.

There we should make every effort to bring about negotiations between the government of South Vietnam and the Viet Cong, for I am sure that this would be the only way to bring the war to an end.

The fourth policy in the poll, that of immediate withdrawal, does not have many advocates these days. Arthur Schlesinger terms it "disorderly and humiliating". Yet Mary McCarthy, in the current issue of The New York Review of Books, writes as follows: "There is no honorable exit from a shameful course of action . . . The mirage of an honorable exit remains the deceptive premise of the liberal opposition . . . In politics retreat is honorable if dictated by military considerations and shameful if even suggested for ethical reasons . . . The immense American superiority of arms in itself becomes an argument for staying in Vietnam".

Those who are responsible for the utterly shameful, dishonorable, course that the United States has been following in Vietnam should be equally responsible for plotting the mechanisms of American withdrawal from Vietnam. Anyone who is capable of landing 500,000 men in Vietnam should be equally capable of removing them. There is no "honorable" way out of Vietnam;we should give up that ghost.

Thus I feel that there are really two choices open to us in Vietnam: escalation or withdrawal. I believe that the time has come for the United States to plan its exit from Southeast Asia.

The truth is that educational problems cannot be considered in isolation from the aspirations of the great bodies of men and women for whose sake alone it is that educational problems are worth considering at all—H. P. Smith

Campus Comment

Rest

To the editor:

If you like riddles, here's a good one: When is a vacation not a vacation? Answer: When it's a vacation from UMass.

This Wednesday, nearly all the students at UMass will leave for what they think will be a few days vacation. Nothing could be further from the truth—especially if they have been attending their classes just prior to vacation.

Several of my teachers, out of the kindness of their hearts (or whatever you want to call it, have given me specific vacation homework assignments. I estimate that I have enough vacation homework so that it doesn't even pay to go home! The rest of my teachers haven't given me any special assignments, but the usual work load continues right through vacation.

I realize that, as college students, we have to cover an awful lot of material, but I object to the educational cramming that now rules every minute of our lives. I need a vacation every once in a while if, for no other reason, to preserve my sanity! I suppose in the panic of getting a higher education "at any price," there isn't much I can do about this, but, nevertheless, I appeal to all teachers to make our next vacation a real vacation and not just a school-away-from-school.

Jeffrey Drucker

Last Minute

To the editor:

A funny thing happened to me Tuesday afternoon. A friend of mine had just returned from a class which I had cut. My friend informed me that during the class, which was at 2:30, we were told about a lecture which we were strongly urged to attend that evening at 8 p.m.. I could not attend the lecture on such short notice because I had five classes the next day in which homework was due.

However, required lectures are not the subject of my letter. Rather, I am writing about professors who do not seem to realize or care about assigning last minute exams and papers which are not included in the initial syllabus, or requiring students to "drop everything" and rush to a lecture which the professor seems to think is important enough to penalize a student for not attending it.

But even requiring attendance at a lecture which we were told about only 6 hours before it was to be held, does not seem as unfair as, for example, my English teacher saying Wednesday that he has decided to give us one more exam before the end of the semester; or my lab instructor who told us this morning that we "must" have a lab final before the end of the semester.

Neither of these teachers had mentioned these exams to us earlier in the semester, so that we could plan our time accordingly. Instead, both of them arbitrarily decided to impose this extra amount of studying on us, apparently without regard for our other papers and exams which were assigned to us at the beginning of the semester.

It seems to me that the student, especially the conscientious student, is at the mercy of his professor's whim. If he tries to plan ahead, basing his plans on the requirements given him by his professors at the beginning of the term, his efforts are completely frustrated by inconsiderate professors who impose extra, last minute work on him. Thus, the student who plans ahead is hurt, while the student who could care less is completely unaffected.

I fully realize the English exams and lab finals are necessary evils in the process of education. But I also feel that we are supposed to be learning responsibility and consideration for others, both of which I find lacking in many of the University's professors.

Jane Cotton '68

Truth?

Editor's note: The following is a copy of a letter being sent to the Editor of The Record American.

To the editor:

I have reason to believe objective reporting has been sacrificed for sensationalism with regards to a news article appearing on pg. 6 of the Nov. 18 Record American.

It is my opinion that the article contains factually incorrect material coupled with slanted reporting.

On Wednesday of last week a so-called underground newspaper appeared at the lobby counter of the Student Union at the University of Massachusetts. Associate Dean of Students Mark Noffsinger, under whose jurisdiction the lobby counter is run, found the newspaper personally offensive and inappropriate for sale from what may be termed the official University "newsstand."

However, Noffsinger went on to defend the right of the editors of the newspaper to sell the publication at a table in the S.U. lobby providing they received permission from the Student Union Governing Board, a student group which allocates space for recognized student organizations in the Union.

As of Sunday evening, Nov. 19, the situation was still not cleared up and a meeting of the S.U. Governing Board will be held after the Thanksgiving Holiday to decide the matter.

I feel that the Record American has misrepresented the entire situation including the official student newspaper, and myself, a member of the editorial board of the student newspaper quoted in the article.

The names of both publications in the article were misspelled which seems to indicate more than the freak of a printer's error. The underground newspaper in question is Ye Mother of Voices, not Mother's Voice as was printed in the article, and the official student newspaper of the University is The Massachusetts Daily Collegian not The Daily Collegiate.

The headline itself is misleading as the Mother's Voice (sic) was not banned from campus by the University administration as the headline implies. It was in fact, only taken off the main lobby counter of the S.U. as a result of the actions of one administrator.

The article claims that the paper was still being sold by "defiant students" after its ban from the lobby counter. The fact is, the students were not defying anyone but were merely exercising their right to sell in the Union at a place other than at the lobby counter. Dean Noffsinger, by whose order Ye Mother of Voices was taken off the lobby counter, stated he would defend this right.

Statements made in the article concerning the Daily Collegian are erroneous. I feel that the reporter stated to be fact in the article what are only assumptions on his part. To further qualify, I feel the report had no facts to prove his statement that a Daily Collegian editorial "blasted" the new publication.

When I was interviewed over the phone by the reporter late Friday morning Nov. 17, I explicitly told him that our editorial's main point concerned the right of the Associate Dean of Students to make the decision of banning the sale of the underground newspaper at the lobby counter. I further stated that the editorial stand concerning the actual content of the newspaper consisted of no more than a rebuke of the journalistic taste of the Editors of Mother of Voices.

At no time did I even hint of an editorial "condemnation" of the underground newspaper. Yet the Record American article states that "The official campus newspaper Daily Collegiate (sic) has condemned the new publication" and later states "The Daily Collegiate (sic) blasted the new underground newspaper in an editorial." I feel this to be a total misrepresentation as to my knowledge the reporter could not have had access to the editorial and therefore could not possibly be able to comment on its content.

Concerning my personal quotes: although I did say that the paper "had gone overboard in journalistic freedom," I at no time "charged" anything. Concerning the nature of the article I feel that the use of such an emotional word as charge in place of a more neutral word is merely another example of sensationalized news reporting.

I feel that this article is by no means an isolated incident. Only a few weeks ago a Record American headline read "Nude Dancer at UMass Party." The incident in question concerned the appearance of a polka dot clad dancer in a professional show presented in the S.U. Ballroom over Homecoming Weekend.

A paper that boasts on its flag that it has the "Largest Daily Circulation in New England" should keep in mind its responsibility to its readers to present objective and factually correct news articles.

Ronald J. LaBrecque
Special Projects Editor
Massachusetts Daily Collegian
University of Massachusetts

Sam Spark Speaks Out

Everyone Knows It's Windy

Yesterday's concert with the Mitchell Trio, Jim Kweskin's Jug Band, and Phil Ochs was marred by the inadequacy of the Cage. It was difficult to understand much of the lyrics, but the most interesting aspect of the concert was the temperature difference outside and inside the Cage. Periodically during the concert I had to go outside to warm up.

I immediately became suspicious of the weather upon entering the concert, when a squinty-eyed lass with a white fur coat came up to me and started to rub noses. This frightened me so I skated to my seat, carefully avoiding the snow drifts along the way.

When the concert began, I noticed that seven members of the audience had a pile of snowballs ready to throw at the entertainers if they didn't like them. Fortunately these seven, who constituted 33⅓ of the entire audience, were pleased and the concert continued without a hitch, for a while.

The first sign of trouble came when the Mitchell Trio finished their performance. The audience was intending to give them a standing ovation in tribute to their scathingly satirical melodies. But this was found to be impossible since everyone was frozen to his seat.

The Jug Band was enthusiastically received with thunderous applause. But this exceptional reception was probably due to a desire on everyone's part to keep warm, rather than appreciation for the talent.

The final act of the concert, Phil Ochs, sang a rendition of protest songs. However, Ochs had to stop in the middle of one of his songs to break the icicles off his guitar strings. The concert ended as the audience rushed to the comparative warmth of the howling November winds.

Meanwhile, the infirmary awaits an epidemic run of pneumonia.

All letters to the editor must be typed at 60 spaces and double-spaced. They should not exceed 60 lines. Letters are subject to editing and condensation. The writer's signature and address must be on the letter. Letters which are unsigned will not be printed. Names will be withheld on request. Letters not printed will be answered, except when they do not meet the above requirements.

Next Collegian

Monday,

November 27

Conrad Makes Deadline Late, But Remains Calm In The Process

by DANIEL YERGIN Yale Daily News

Shortly after nine o'clock, Monday morning, Paul Conrad enters his office in the corner of the editorial suite at the Los Angeles Times.

Leaving the office door open, as is his habit, he settles his lanky frame behind the desk and begins to thumb through the Times. The wall along the corridor is glass. On the cork wall next to Conrad are pinned cartoons, sketches, and plain ink splotches.

Back copies of the Los Angeles Times, the New York Times, and the news-magazines are piled on top of the cabinets that line the opposite wall. Suspended on the back wall, above the drafting table, is a long shelf filled with books.

Conrad's job: to take a news event and transform it into a funny, witty and pungent combination of picture and short text called the "editorial cartoon."

This editorial cartoon will be used to fill three columns, center-top, on the main editorial page of tomorrow's Los Angeles Times, along with space on the editorial pages of 140 newspapers around the country including the Daily Collegian.

Conrad, chief editorial cartoonist at the Times, Pulitzer Prize winner in 1964, does this six times a week, and he is considered one of the very best cartoonists in the country.

But today, Monday, Conrad comes in without an idea of tomorrow's cartoon.

The deadline for the next day's cartoon is 12:30 in the afternoon. During the week, he works out an idea for a cartoon in the afternoon, two days before the cartoon will run.

However, he has learned from experience that, with four children at home over the weekend, he can expect to come in without an idea on Monday. As he looks through the paper, Conrad says, "I set up what I know from experience are the conditions for creative thought, and when I set out in search of a cartoon, I have faith that the idea is there. It's blind trust."

But this morning, the search is going to be difficult.

None of the lead news—a Marine batallion mauled by Viet Cong, an uprising of white mercenaries in the Congo, the death of a famous golfer—sets off that peculiar chain reaction which produces an idea.

From the Los Angeles Times, he turns to the New York Times, loosening his tie as he reads.

The deadline gets closer, and he still does not have an idea.

He turns back to the Los Angeles Times and carefully reads a report by Times' Washington staffer John Averill on a Midwest barnstorming trip by President Johnson. The headline is "Friendly Midwest Evoked Johnson's Assault on Critics." The cartoonist thinks about the article for a minute and then says, "Mr. Johnson seems to be saying that, if you don't buy his policies, you're unpatriotic."

Those words might sound angry from somebody else, but Conrad is an easygoing man who sometimes drawls and does not get angry, or at least has too much fun when he's drawling to stay angry for very long.

After sixteen years of cartooning, Conrad, however, does admit to occasional frustration and a good deal of cynicism regarding the pronouncements of politicans.

This Johnson trip to the Midwest, Conrad decides, will be the general subject for tomorrow's cartoon, but it's 11 a.m., and the deadline for the finished cartoon is only an hour-and-a-half away. Conrad, however, does not get anxious. "In fact," he says, "I work better with deadline pressure and I doubt that I could do without it."

A Johnson attack on his critics is really an old story, and what Conrad needs is a new handle.

In the thirty-first paragraph of Averill's story, he finds that handle.

Johnson is quoted: "I may be a bit old fashioned, but I still believe that most things my government does are right." That's the handle—Johnson's almost absolute identification of himself with the government.

Now Conrad sketches out a few different approaches on 9x12 scratch paper. Finally, he finds an approach with which he is satisfied.

A man is addressing an unseen audience from a platform. Sitting on the platform next to him is Uncle Sam, a figure that Conrad has avoided in his cartoons for the last seven years. But this Uncle Sam is special. His face is identical to that of the speaker, Lyndon Johnson.

The caption: "I may be a bit old fashioned, but I still believe that most things my government does are right."

It's now 11:40. Conrad shows the sketch to a political writer and to the national editor, watching their faces for reactions.

"Criticism of his own work," says Conrad, "is the toughest thing a cartoonist can do, and he needs criticism as much as anything. He needs someone who will look at a rough and say, 'It's good' or 'No, it isn't, and here's why'."

Both the political writer and the national editor like the cartoon, and Conrad now shows the rough to James Basset, editorial director at the Times, and the man with the final yes or no. The Times permits the liberal cartoonist what he describes as "close to complete freedom."

But he adds good-naturedly, "Jim Basset and I have gone to the mat several times over cartoons, mostly on matters of taste. Sometimes he wins, sometimes I do, but I'm a patient man, and if a cartoon is valid now, it'll be valid later on."

Tacked to the wall next to his desk is one rough that didn't make it and, most likely, never will. It's a sketch of Jesus Christ, and it's autographed to "My old pal Julius Klein." Klein is Senator Tom Dodd's lobbyist friend.

But Basset likes this Johnson cartoon, and with forty-five minutes to go, Conrad begins sketching out the actual cartoon. Working at this drafting board with ink and brush, he draws the finished cartoon on 10½" x 12½" paper, staying close to the rough. "Ideas and visualization usually work best on first impression," he points out.

He finishes at 12:45. It is 15-minutes over deadline, which is good for a Monday and bad for any other day.

The cartoon is rushed to the Times' engraving department and is prepared for mailing to the Register and Tribune Syndicate, which distributes his cartoon.

"I may be a bit old fashioned but I still think my government does most things right!"

Paul Conrad was born in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, in 1924. He began dawing at age six, prompted by his father, an amateur but avid water colorist. By his junior year at the University of Iowa, he was an art major.

"But I had no idea where I was headed," he says. "I did have some political beliefs, but I never was one who could stand up on a stump, although I might have made a good political placard painter."

At the time, the campus newspaper, the Daily Iowan, was receiving cartoons from a syndicate. They weren't particularly good.

The editor of the paper, a friend of Conrad, knew of his double interest in politics and art and met him one day at a local beer parlour to discuss the paper's cartoon problems. Finally the editor asked, "Why don't you go home and draw one for tomorrow's paper?"

Conrad drew his first cartoon that night, it was well received the next day, and—as they say—he's been doing it ever since.

After graduating from the University of Iowa in 1950, he set off for Florida to find a job. He didn't find one, and so he sent several hundred samples of his work off to the Denver Post.

It's puhlisher, Palmer Hoyt, hired him. Conrad says, "I owe a great deal to Palmer Hoyt. He put up with poor stuff for several years because he could see that something was there."

Conrad now estimates that, for those first few years, his output was 20 percent good and 80 percent bad, with those figures reversed for his current work. What displeases him are cartoons that, in retrospect, are poorly thought out, poorly executed or overlabled.

Conrad once lost a large number of potential friends by telling a magazine interviewer that you could count the number of good cartoonists in this country on one hand, and probably a small hand at that

He still stands by that opinion: "Most cartoonists deal with trite themes — cost of living, highway safety, and the gold outflow. Who's to say they're right or wrong. A person looks at one of those and shrugs, and says—well?

Two cartoonists that he does praise strongly are Bill Mauldin of the Chicago Sun Times and Herblock (Herb Block) of the Washington Post. "They have something to say, and they say it well."

What Conrad wants from the newspaper reader is a reaction. "I want a reader who will take a look at the cartoon, agree with me and say 'Conrad took care of that son-of-a-bitch'. Or for that matter, I want the lady out in Orange County (California's conservative Eden) to say, 'Well, Conrad, that son-of-a-bitch cartoonist'."

To get that reaction, Conrad searches for the most direct way of communicating, which means that he prefers a relevant personality, a Tom Dodd, to an abstract symbol or a figure labeled "Senatorial Ethics."

He adds that he would not have used an Uncle Sam in the aforementioned cartoon unless he could, as he did, personalize him in some way (i.e. President Johnson's face).

Conrad says that his own conception of cartooning is "changing rather unconciously towards the more subtle, the more refined."

His drawing line is lively, and figures seem to burst with energy. These qualities, in addition to making for amusing drawings, also represent the tension that is central to the satirist's art.

For Conrad, as any satirist, deals in irony, which means that he is especially concerned with depicting the distance between appearance—in Conrad, what the politicians say, usually found in the caption—and reality, stated plainly by Conrad in his drawing.

Thus, in one cartoon, the underline is: "The Anti-Poverty Program Gets Rolling In Major US Cities." The fact is different, for the picture shows not the War on Poverty but National Guard trucks rolling into a riot-torn slum.

That caption saves a lot of words, and the impact is undeniably greater.

Conrad says, "I would love to write and have done a couple of speeches, but it's just different, less direct; I'm attuned to the pictorial statement.

He adds, "I'm fortunate to have this outlet—to know that I can wake up in the morning and say something important. That way, I don't have to clout the wife, beat the kids, or for that matter kick the dog."

at
Winn Jewelers

GET YOUR PERSONALIZED
Pinky Ring

WITH YOUR INITIALS

A lovely pinky ring, so popular now, engraved with your initials. Choice of satin or polished finish.

In 10 kt. Gold or Sterling Silver

NOW
ENDS TUES.
ON SCREEN
6:30 - 8:45
AMHERST
Cinema
"A MAN FOR ALL SEASONS"
with
PAUL SCOFIELD
as Thomas More

John F. Kennedy
Memorial Mass
Monday—November 20—7:00 p.m.
Newman Center Chapel

Juniors Go on Trip LSD!!

Yes, the class of 1969 is Leaving

Shortly for

D. C., Washington

INTERSESSION, JAN. 16 - 19, $35.00

TRAVEL: Bus from Boston and Springfield

ACCOMMODATIONS: 3 nites, 4 days, Hotel America, plush hotel, indoor heated swimming pool

SPECIAL TOURS: White House, State Dept., FBI Building, US Senate & House of Reps., Arlington National Cemetery

PRIVATE MEETINGS WITH: Mass. Congressmen, Senators Kennedy and Brooke

NITE LIFE: Georgetown–Wow!

ALL FOR $35.00

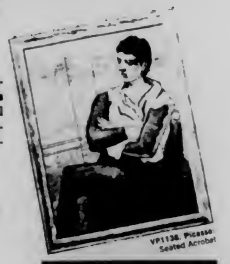
Deposits due at Student Union Lobby Table, $5.00, November 27 - December 1

THE UNIVER

preser

10th Annual Boo

November 27th through December 6th



SALE! Brush-Stroke Reproductions of THE WORLD'S GREAT PAINTINGS

The best of PICASSO, REMBRANDT, RENOIR, DEGAS, BREUGHEL, VAN GOGH, MATISSE, COROT, GOYA, UTRILLO, CEZANNE, MODIGLIANI and other masters

Choose from a tremendous selection of landscapes, seascapes, still-lifes, portraits — every subject and style from medieval religious paintings to way-out abstracts. Each superb reproduction is in full color, giant size (up to 20" x 24"), mounted on heavy board and varnished. The price is incredibly low for reproductions of this outstanding quality, so rush in and see our fabulous collection!

VP607. Modigliani: Woman with Red Hair

VP1138. Picasso: Seated Acrobat

NEW! Mural-Size Reproductions

Breathtakingly beautiful reproductions that measure an extra-large 30" x 24" — will dominate any wall in your dorm or home. They are all major works by famous artists, reproduced in four-to-six colors, mounted, varnished, with raised brush-strokes.

VP1097. Renoir: Girl at Piano

Smaller Brush-Stroke Art Prints

All the fine quality and custom finishing of the prints above, but in smaller sizes (11" x 14" to 13½" x 15½"). Perfect for imaginative grouping and whole wall arrangements. Large selection of fine and popular art subjects.

VP1020. Breughel: Flower Piece

Special! Gallery-Style Frames

The framing service is FREE, while you wait!

Choose from a variety of sturdy, handsome frames that will bring out all the beauty of your reproductions. These frames were designed by an art gallery consultant and made by a leading custom-framing house. Offered at special low prices to go with this great art event!

VP1143. Rembrandt: Self Portrait

Special! Gallery-Style Frames

The framing service is FREE, while you wait!

Choose from a variety of sturdy, handsome frames that will bring out all the beauty of your reproductions. These frames were designed by an art gallery consultant and made by a leading custom-framing house. Offered at special low prices to go with this great art event!

VP885. Feininger: The Church

VP1118. Renoir: The Rower's Lunch

VP1119. Van Gogh: Room at Arles

VP1103. Homer: The Herring Net

VP1102. Utrillo: Winter Tiled Church

SITY STORE

ts its

k and Print Fair

Commonwealth Room — Student Union

BOOKS

usands of titles Many reduced 50-70%

Art – Fiction – Humor – Travel – Juveniles

Many Special Gift Editions

POSTERS

arge selection – Contemporary – Travel – Sports

RECORDS

A fine selection including classical and top ten artists, all at reduced prices pen daily 9:00 a.m.-5:30 p.m.—Sat. 9:00 a.m.-2:00 p.m.

Borrowing a car for a joyride isn't the biggest crime in the world. But it's a start.

When a kid takes a car for a joyride he's heading one way — to a reformatory.

And after that maybe to jail.

He may not be a bad kid, just a weak one. And that key you left in your ignition is one temptation he can't pass up.

But the minute he hops behind that wheel and turns the key, his life may be ruined.

He'll drive around for a few hours, endangering the life of every man, woman and child who crosses his path.

He might be caught the very first time he takes a car. Or if he's not caught by the police he'll leave your car somewhere and decide to do it again, and again, until the day he does get caught.

Teen-agers steal more than 1,000 cars every day.

The U. S. Department of Justice and your state and local law-enforcement agencies are concerned.

They know that taking a car for a joyride is just the first step.

Our prisons are filled with men who started out this way. They went on to become thieves, muggers, and even killers.

You can do something to help solve this terrible problem.

Whenever you get out of your car, even for a second, take your keys. Lock your car.

Look at it this way.

Every time you do this you may keep a good boy from going bad.

Don't help a good boy go bad. Lock your car. Take your keys.

UMass Alpha Pi Chapter of Omicron Nu, national home economics honor society, recently initiated new members. They were selected on the basis of leadership, scholarship, and research. Shown are Margaret Herrmann of Adams, Mass., president of the Alpha Pi Chapter; Chung Ja Lee of Seoul, Korea, graduate student in nutrition and foods; Linda Lewis of Milton, Mass., senior in child development; and Shirley Jean Inouye of Honolulu, Hawaii, senior in fashion merchandising.

Georgia-Pacific Corporation Charged With Logging in the Redwood Park

SAN FRANCISCO—Sierra Club President Dr. Edgar Wayburn charged that the Georgia-Pacific Corporation has begun logging operations in a key part of the Redwood National Park approved recently by the Senate. He said the operation was started before the expiration of a moratorium agreement.

At a press conference in San Francisco, Dr. Wayburn presented a series of aerial and ground photographs showing that Georgia-Pacific has moved its chain saws more than a quarter of a mile into the park on a ridge between McArthur and Elam creeks. Trees twelve feet through are being felled in a 40 acre area that has been cleared, he stated.

"The cutting is now within three-quarters of a mile of Redwood Creek, which is a main feature of the projected national park. Logging roads circle a ridge above it and new skid trails are only half a mile from the creek. It seems clear that the company intends to haul more logs out over these trails. In fact, it has filed cutting plans with the California Division of Forestry on six sections of land within the Senate approved park," Dr. Wayburn declared.

Georgia-Pacific was one of four companies that agreed to withhold logging within the park until the Senate voted, which was on November 1. "Despite this pledge, made on October 18, new cutting within the boundary was observed only a few days later. The area cut has expanded since," the club president announced.

Dr. Wayburn called upon the company to "respect the democratic process by withholding logging for another year."

Wilson Explains Devaluation of Pound As Only Alternative; U. S., Israel React

LONDON (AP) — Forced to devalue the pound, Prime Minister Harold Wilson told the British people Sunday night they now have the chance to "break out of the straitjacket" of boom and bust which has held back their economic growth for 15 years.

Wilson went on nationwide television to explain Saturday's devaluation of the pound by 14.3 per cent against $2.80 to $2.40. He looked worn and tired after a week of crisis that marked the collapse of his government's three-year struggle to save the pound.

The economic policy represents a gamble that a cut-rate currency will boost overseas sales and bring back prosperity. First returns from Britain's trading partners indicated the gamble might pay off. Most held their own currencies steady to give Britain at least a temporary competitive advantage.

Although Wilson did not mention it, President Charles de Gaulle's France is believed to have held out against a loan for Britain on any but the stiffest conditions.

The British are furious that even after devaluation, France still refused to join in a short-term credit of $1.6 billion to support the pound against fresh speculation, although the French said Sunday night they accepted the idea of joining in the long-term loan of $1.4 billion that might be negotiated through the International Monetary Fund.

Israel devalued its currency 16.6 percent—from 3 to 3.5 to the U.S. dollar—in the wake of Britain's cut back in the value of sterling.

Government announcement of this came after a night of discussion by financial experts and government leaders following London announcement.

Reacting to devaluation of the British pound, the Federal Reserve Board announced Sunday an increase from 4 to 4½ per cent in its discount rate, effective Monday.

The discount rate is the interest banks pay for borrowing funds under Federal Reserve control.

CLASS, CLUB,
ORGANIZATION, DORM, FRATERNITY AND
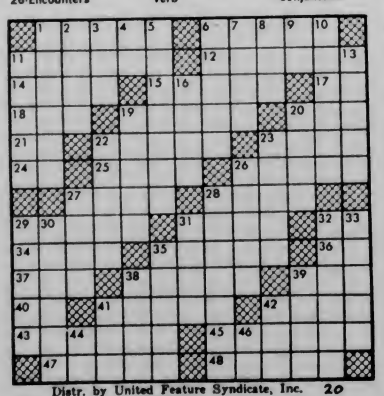
SORORITY PRESIDENTS:

During the Thanksgiving vacation, an important letter concerning Winter Carnival '68 will be mailed to you. Look for it when you come back.

S.E.N.D.O.F.F.
Count Down
12 - Days



CROSSWORD PUZZLE

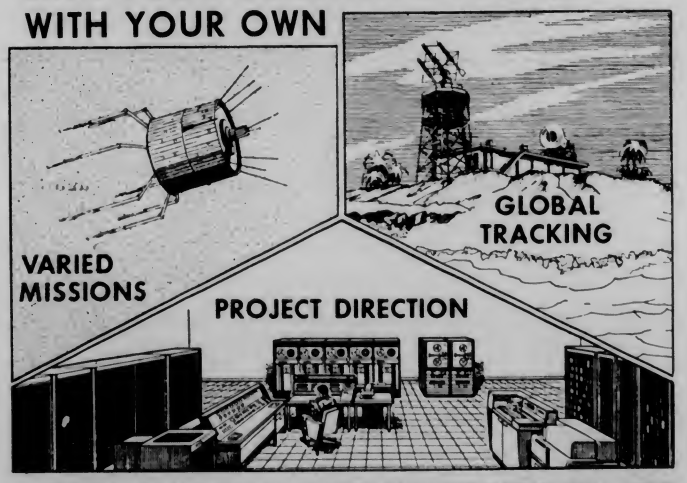
ACROSS

1-Commonplace
6-Vital organ
11-Author
12-Commonwealth
14-Strikes
15-Illuminated again
17-Preposition
18-Devoured
19-More unusual
20-Place
21-Behold!
22-Morning prayer
23-Head of Catholic Church
24-Printer's measure
25-Heroic event
26-Distance runner
27-Levantine vessel
28-Secluded valley
29-Remain erect
31-Sense
32-Rupees (abbr.)
34-Containers
35-Floats
36-What? (colloq.)
37-Free of
38-Rents
39-Parent-teacher organization (init.)
40-Man's nickname
41-Broaden
42-Dirt
43-Perfumed ointment
45-Expel from country
47-Flowers
48-Look fixedly

DOWN

1-Marine snail
2-Ceremony
3-Possessive pronoun
4-Symbol for tellurium
5-Eccentric
6-Girl's name
7-Arabian chieftain
8-Likely
9-A state (abbr.)
10-Body of performers
11-Sea mammal
13-Go in
16-Man's name
19-Swift
20-Take a vote
22-Denotes
23-Pellets
26-Encounters
27-Pulverized rock
28-Guards
29-Fragment
30-Clothesmaker
31-Price of passage
32-Retreat
33-Old auxiliary verb
35-Is borne
38-Conceal
39-Indigent
41-Existed
42-Resort
44-A state (abbr.)
46-Latin conjunction

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 20



GROW WITH THE SPACE AGE AT

NASA

GODDARD SPACE FLIGHT CENTER
GREENBELT, MD.

ENGINEERS-SCIENTISTS-MATHEMATICIANS

LINK YOUR COUNTRY'S FUTURE WITH YOUR OWN

A GODDARD SPACE FLIGHT CENTER REPRESENTATIVE WILL VISIT YOUR CAMPUS TO DISCUSS YOUR CAREER OPPORTUNITIES WITH THIS GROWING NASA CENTER ON:

On Other Campuses

By J. GUIDO GRAIFF
Exchange Editor

MIAMI—DADE JUNIOR COLLEGE

Guards have closed down students' part time job. They were selling stolen textbooks. The three young men, according to Campus Security Chief Robert Swaney, preyed upon students at South Campus. They stole their books, selling them to bookstores in Coral Gables and at North Campus.

Two of the men involved were not students and denied knowing anything about the stolen books. The student involved admitted selling the books, but denied stealing them.

The student was suspended for one week.

WASHINGTON STATE UNIVERSITY

Are there still wild Indians? According to the Evergreen, the student newspaper, a "flaming arrow" soaked in gasoline was shot into the Alpha Kappa Lambda Fraternity Homecoming sign Saturday night and burned about half of it.

In a similar incident, the Goldsworthy and Kruegel-McAllister Homecoming sign was burned Sunday night.

UNIVERSITY OF ALASKA

Food commons here at U of A attract freeloaders.

People sneaking through the Commons' food lines have been costing meal-ticket holders about $200 each day, says Bob Mathison, manager of the Commons.

Approximately 14 persons sneak through the food lines each meal he says, and night cooks have reported cooking for an additional 60 people.

Because of this rising problem students must now show their meal tickets to the cashier.

UNIVERSITY OF VERMONT

Here as at many other colleges curfews become an issue.

Last Wednesday night, Nov. 1, there were mass demonstrations by both male and female students.

The demonstration started with a panty raid by the females in retaliation for the male's raid on Halloween. As the girls moved on, the group grew to about 1,200 (police estimate 1,000; mob estimate 2,000).

The masses then moved to President Rowell's house, who told them that if they put their spirit into good English and put it in the Cynic (school newspaper) they would achieve their aim. Nothing more was said, and the crowd dispersed to Redstone.

At Redstone the crowd milled about and grew in size at 11:30 (curfew), until Dean Patzer addressed the mob. He stated that the problem has been brought to the attention of the faculty and that the proper channels should be employed to facilitate the change.

THE HOTEL SALES MANAGEMENT ASSOCIATION welcomed to their last meeting Ronald Galluccio from the College Motor Inn in Amherst. Seated: Mr. Galluccio; Robert I. Singer, President; Letha Picanzo, Treasurer. Standing: Frank Kempisty, Vice-President; Robert Magwood, Secretary.

Postmaster Urges Use Of Correct Addresses

Postmaster C. A. Jewett, Jr. urges the residents of Amherst to be sure to use the correct address on their letters and packages going to servicemen overseas to avoid serious delays in delivery.

The Post Office Department reports that millions of letters and packages going overseas have been delayed because they were insufficiently addressed. They state that one of the biggest problems has been the failure of persons to include the very important five digit APO number in the military address. Mail not containing this number is incorrectly addressed.

Last year more than nine million pieces of mail were delayed in delivery. Of this number, three and one-half million pieces failed to include the complete five digit APO or FPO number in the address. This improperly addressed mail had to be sent to a military locater directory where time consuming searches were made to determine the proper address.

"As the Christmas mail volume going overseas is expected to increase up to 30 percent or over four million pounds above last year, every precaution should be taken by friends and relatives of servicemen to address their letters and packages properly to assure rapid delivery to its destination".

The four essential elements to an overseas military address are: the serviceman's identity (grade, full name and service number; his complete military unit; Gateway Post Office, either, New York, Seattle or San Francisco; APO or FPO, a five digit number.

When any one of these elements is missing the letter or package will be delayed in delivery.

The Post Office has available in the lobby a complete Zip Code book for looking up correct zip codes.

Debaters Sponsor Public Debate On Marijuana

The University Debate Team will present tonight the second of the series of public debates in Mahar Auditorium at 8:00 p.m. The topic to be discussed in this evening's debate will be "Resolved: That the Federal government legalize the use of marijuana."

Taking the affirmative position will be Mark Raskind a sophomore and treasurer of the Debate Team and Jim Tripp, also a sophomore, Vice President of the Debate Team and a member of the Student Senate. On the Negative will be John Putnam a senior and President of the group and Sue Zwilling, a sophomore and Secretary of the Debate Team.

It is hoped that those interested in marijuana and its problems and use on the campus will attend the debate. the next in the series of Public Debates will be held Wednesday, December 13, at 8:00 in Mahar Auditorium.

Ferry to Read Poetry at Smith

David Ferry, professor of English and chairman of the department at Wellesley College, will read selections from his own poetry at Smith College November 29 at 8 p.m.

The poetry reading, which will take place in the Browsing Room of the William Allan Neilson Library, is being sponsored by the Student Lecture Committee. The public is invited to attend.

Mr. Ferry was graduated from Amherst College in 1948. He received his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Harvard University in 1949 and 1955. He has been a member of the English faculty at Wellesley College since 1961. He is the author of "The Limits of Mortality" (1959) and "On the Way to the Island" (1960).

CONRAD—

PULITZER PRIZE WINNER

Outstanding among today's editorial cartoonists is Paul Conrad, winner of the Pulitzer Prize and Sigma Delta Chi award, highest accolades his colleagues can bestow.

His brilliant, penetrating comments on the leaders, the problems and the news of the day . . . his striking and forceful style . . . his delightful humor . . . all these put him at the top of his profession.

Enjoy his distinctive cartoons regularly on the Editorial Page of

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

THE JURY
is back
18 Nov. S. U. 50c

Please Remember:

TOY DRIVE
Nov. 27 - Dec. 1
Student Union
Sponsored by Class of '70

PMD Wins Extramural Title from UNH, 18-12

By JOHN GEDSUDSKI
Staff Reporter

In a sudden death playoff PMD, UMass Campus Champs, edged Gibbs House, Campus Champs from the University of New Hampshire, by a score of 18-12 in the annual Extramural Touch Football Game.

PMD hopped off to a quick 6-0 lead in the first period. After a long Ray Rigney pass to Jim Hatherley at the four yard line, Rigney scrambled around the right side for the score.

Later in the first half, after Mike Panchuk's third interception, Rigney found Mike Nadler a one in the endzone for a 12-0 lead. However, Gibbs House scored to cut the lead to 12-6 at halftime.

In the second half, with the field a complete quagmire, play was slowed down considerably. Neither team could move the ball well until Gibbs tied the score at 12-12 with 20 seconds left in the game, forcing a sudden death playoff.

Gibbs won the ensuing toss of the coin but lost the ball when a crucial fourth down pass was deflected. As a result, PMD claimed ownership of the pigskin deep in Gibbs' territory. After one play, Rigney spotted Frank Guidara in the endzone to end the game 18-12.

The victory was notable in that the UMass champs had never played under the U.N.H. nine-man rules before, and also because it was the first time that the UMass champs had won at New Hampshire.

Intramurals

This Week's Schedule

BASKETBALL

Monday

Time	Court	Teams
6:30	1	AEP vs. PMD
	2	DC vs. TKE
	3	ASP vs. LCA
	4	Cherries vs. Chestnutss
	5	Broncos vs. Birch
	6	Granta vs. Bears
7:30	1	PLP vs. PSK
	2	ATG vs. QTV
	3	SAM vs. KS
	4	Hemlocks vs. Panthers
	5	Hawks vs. Rams
	6	Buffaloes vs. Bruins
8:30	1	Hicks vs. Trojans
	2	Maples vs. Oaks
	3	Hoovers vs. Hi-lo's
	4	Elms vs. Pines
9:30	1	ZN vs. SPE
	2	TEP vs. APO
	3	TC vs. BKP
	4	Maroons vs. Eagles
	5	Aces vs. Limes
	6	Lemons vs. Phallies

Tuesday

6:30	1	Qedaks vs. Olympians
	2	Destroyers vs. Nads
	3	Raiders vs. Vee Dees
	4	Economics vs. Eng. Plus
	5	Chem Club vs. Chinese
	6	Squares vs. History
7:30	1	Flaming A's vs. Toads
	2	Ibis vs. Highwaymen
	3	Chad. Indep. vs. Acc. Assoc.
	4	Numerals vs. Bulldogs
8:30	1	Colt 45's vs. Leopards
	2	Cougars vs. Panthers
	3	Lions vs. Jaguars
	4	Colonials vs. Patriots

BOWLING

Monday

Time	Alley	Teams
6:30	1&2	PMD vs. SPE
	3&4	BKP vs. LCA
	5&6	APO vs. TKE
	7&8	SAM vs. PLP
8:30	1&2	ASP vs. ZN
	3&4	PSD vs. AEP
	5&6	DC vs. TEP
	7&8	Toads vs. Assoc.

Tuesday

6:30	1&2	Patriots vs. Leopards
	3&4	Colonials vs. Smashers
	5&6	Academics vs. Spartans
	7&8	Huskies vs. Commanchees
8:30	1&2	Terrors vs. Colt 45's
	3&4	Bulldozers vs. Monuments
	5&6	Chem Club vs. Bouncing 'F'
	7&8	Vikings vs. Invalids

Booters Close Season with Easy 5-1 Crushing of UNH

By WALT STACHURD
Staff Reporter

Five second half goals led the UMass soccer team to a 5-1 trouncing of New Hampshire Saturday afternoon at varsity field.

Two goals in the third quarter and three more in the last quarter enabled UMass to capture the victory. The win finished the season for the Redmen with a mark of 5 wins and 5 losses.

Gerry Cellilli opened the scoring for the Redmen early in the third quarter with a high shot into the corner from about 25 yards out.

Dave Jekanowski increased the margin six minutes later with a goal similar to the one Cellilli got. Jekanoski's goal closed out the scoring in the third quarter.

New Hampshire's Robert Barret narrowed the margin to one goal at the 1:50 mark of the final quarter. He converted from a scramble in front of the U-Mass net after a corner kick.

Ten minutes later, Marty Smith took Cellilli's lead pass and broke in alone on Blanchard. Smith faked Blanchard and tucked the ball into the corner of the net.

Frank Howard tallied the fourth UMass goal from a scramble in front of the net following a corner kick. The goal was his first of the year.

Sam Meinick closed out scoring matters fifteen seconds after Howard's goal. A high crossing pass deflected off his chest into the New Hampshire net.

UMass outshot the Wildcats 39-23 for the whole game. Steve Kramer was forced to make 13 saves while Fletcher Blanchard came up with 18 saves.

The game was originally scheduled to be played at New Hampshire. However, the Durham campus received some 6 inches of snow during the week and officials decided to play the game at Massachusetts.

Collegian Photo by John Kelly

RUN FOR DAYLIGHT — Greg Landry (11) breaks through the New Hampshire line for a sizeable gain. The New Hampshire defenders are Mike Kott (85) and a sprawling Ed Savage (74).

Intramural Standings and Stats

Basketball

FRATERNITY DIVISIONS

Athenian		Spartan		Trojan
SPE	1-0	AEP	1-0	ATG	1-0
TEP	1-0	LCA	1-0	PSD	1-0
ZN	1-0	TKE	1-0	QTV	1-0
APO	0-1	ASP	0-1	KS	0-0
TC	0-1	DC	0-1	PLP	0-1
BKP	0-1	PMD	0-1	PSK	0-1
				SAM	0-1

Leading Scorers

Lagoie—ZN	33
Frisbee—TKE	18
Marshall—LCA	17
Cannata—ASP	16
Falk—ASP	16

Leading Rebounders

Falkind—AEP	30
Anton—PSD	12
Anderson—TEP	11
McShane—AEP	10
Frisbee—TKE	10
Lagoie—ZN	10

Leading Foul Shooters

Powers—PSK	4
Dune—AEP	4
Elliot—LCA	4

DORMITORY SOUTH LEAGUE

	W	L
Maples	1	0
Hoovers	1	0
Trojans	1	0
Hi-lo's	1	0
Elms	0	1
Hicks	0	1
Oaks	0	1
Pines	0	1

Leading Scorer

Courtney—Pines	18
Ewick—Elms	16
Holcomb—Hi-lo's	16
Lawson—Trojans	17
Rendal—Trojans	17

Leading Rebounders

McManus—Pines	7
McGarry—Hoovers	7
Markham—Hoovers	6
Alward—Hoovers	6

Leading Foul Shooter

F. Holcomb—Hi-lo's	7
Asci—Elms	6

DORM. NORTH TOWER LEAGUE

	W	L
Panthers	1	0
Jaguars	1	0
Cougars	1	0
Lions	1	0
Leopards	0	1
Patriots	0	1
Colonials	0	1
Colt 45's	0	1

Leading Scorers

Healey—Cougars	20
Brenner—Panthers	19
Racine—Lions	19
Brito—Panthers	17

Leading Rebounders

Healey—Cougars	23
Swartz—Panthers	15
Mees—Leopards	10

Leading Foul Shooters

Brenner—Panthers	9
Doto—Colonials	6
Hasselbaum—Jaguars	5

DORM. SOUTH TOWER LEAGUE

	W	L
Bulldozers	1	0
Huskies	1	0
Spartans	1	0
Academics	1	0
Terrors	1	0
Smashers	0	1
Seagrams	0	1
Monuments	0	1
Commanchees	0	1
Ironmen	0	1

Leading Scorer

Belliveau—Commanchees	25
Ratz—Ironmen	17
Rosoff—Terrors	16
Hogan—Terrors	30
Maloney—Spartans	16

Leading Rebounder

Lagoy—Bulldozers	9
Tursky—Monuments	8
Swiatkowsky—Monuments	7
Fuller—Terrors	31
Freitas—Terrors	12
Klein—Terrors	10

Leading Foul Shooters

Little—Little	3
Ratz—Ironmen	3
Chuluda—Academics	3
Hogan—Terrors	6
Freitas—Terrors	3

DORMITORY EAST LEAGUE

	W	L
Birch	1	0
Broncos	1	0
Black Bears	1	0
Cherries	0	1
Granta	0	1
Chestnuts	0	1

Leading Scorers

Goldberg—Birch	13
Kucab—Cherries	16
Kurtin—Cherries	13
Juwa—Black Bears	24
Lewis—Chestnuts	20
Calhoun—Chestnuts	16

Leading Rebounders

Fronczek—Birch	10
Carlsen—Birch	8
Muldoon—Birch	9
Kimball—Cherries	10

Leading Foul Shooter

Calhoun—Chestnuts	4

DORMITORY WEST LEAGUE

	W	L
Lemons	1	0
Maroons	1	0
Phallies	0	1
Limes	0	1
Phallies	0	1
Eagles	0	1

Leading Scorers

Lewis—Lemons	18
Hawkins—Lemons	14
Shapiro—Limes	18
Crowley—Maroons	16
Murphy—Maroons	15
Tonkins—Aces	14

Leading Rebounders

Dennison—Lemons	10
Crowley—Maroons	15

Leading Foul Shooters

Murphy—Maroons	5
Crowley—Maroons	2
Chausse—Aces	2

GRAD. FACULTY LEAGUE

	W	L
Eng. Plus	1	0
Least Squares	1	0
Economics	1	0
Chem Club	0	1
Chinese Club	0	1
Selohssas	0	1

Leading Scorers

Hauch—Chinese Club	20
Minoque—Selohssas	11
Hand—Eng. Plus	21
Magee—Eng. Plus	18

Leading Rebounders

Lee—Selohssas	5
Olson—Economics	5
Racheotes—Economics	4
Kecock—Economics	4
Burns—Economics	4
Salo—Squares	5
Rokysak—Squares	5

Leading Foul Shooters

Chu—Chinese Club	2
Lee—Selohssas	3
Magee—Eng. Plus	3
Bongiovanni—Eng. Plus	3
Hand—Eng. Plus	3
Salo—Squares	4
Rokysak—Squares	4

INDEPENDENT AMERICAN LEAGUE

	W	L
Bulldogs	1	0
Numerals	1	0
Flaming A's	1	0
Acc. Assoc.	1	0
Ibis	0	1
Chad. Indep.	0	1
Toads	0	1
Highwaymen	0	1

Leading Scorer

McDonough—Acc. Assoc.	18
Grover—Ibis	21
Colobello—Numerals	20
Vercollone—Numerals	16

Leading Rebounder

Conlon—A. Assoc.	8
Vercollone—Numerals	8

Leading Foul Shooter

O'Connor—Numerals	3
Smith—Bulldogs	5

DORM. INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE

	W	L
Nads	1	0
Destroyers	1	0
Vee Dees	1	0
Raiders	0	1
Qedaks	0	1
Olympians	0	1

Bowling

Dormitory North League

	W	L
Aces	16	0
Flaming A's	18	6
Granta	10	6
Maples	14	10
Barracudes	10	14
Redwoods	4	20
Oaks	0	16

Dormitory South League

	W	L
Black Bears	22	2
Maroons	20	4
Lemons	18	6
Birch	18	6
Trojans	10	14
Hi-lo's	8	16
Eagles	0	24
Cherries	0	24

Independent National League

	W	L
Invalids	24	0
Chem Club	18	6
Bouncing F	16	8
Dell Vikings	14	10
Association	0	24
Toads	0	24

SPECIAL DANCE

TUESDAY NOVEMBER 21

8—12

ON THE BANDSTAND

BOB FRENCH & ORCHESTRA

Q - CLUB

Tel. 253-9214

Dianne –

Sans toi
je n'existe pas.

STEVE

Double Feature Nite
Next Monday
27th

ZULU - Under the Yum Yum Tree

He: Hortense . . . they're playing our song!

She: Yes, Edgar, it brings back those wonderful days when we first met in the lobby of the Sheraton-Atlantic Hotel . . . seven years ago.

He: Seven wonderful years . . . and every college vacation since then we've been coming back to New York and the Sheraton-Atlantic. For Thanksgiving, Christmas, Mid-years. Spring vacations . . .

She: And the Sheraton-Atlantic has such convenience to theatres, museums, libraries, Lincoln Center, Fifth Avenue shops, and with such swinging restaurants right in the Hotel and dancing nightly and such low prices . . . no wonder we students always make out best at the Sheraton-Atlantic.

He: You were always such a romantic, darling.

STUDENT-FACULTY RATES*

Single	$11.00 per person
Twin	7.50 per person
Triple	6.00 per person
Quad	5.25 per person

For reservations contact your Sheraton Student Representative or in Springfield dial (413) 734-3141 for immediate confirmation of student rates.

*Student-Faculty rates apply weekends and school vacation periods, subject to availability. (Not offered March 16, 17, 1968.)

SHERATON -ATLANTIC HOTEL Broadway and 34th St., N.Y., N.Y. 10001 (212) PE 6-5700
Ralph Hitz Jr., V. P. & Gen. Mgr.

Will He Ever Explode?

B.C.'s McCarthy Remains a Mystery

By PETER PASCARELLI
Sports Day Editor

Boston College fullback Brendan McCarthy has this year eclipsed every Eagle rushing record. The bashing, bruising runner passed illustrious Joe Johnson and Harry (The Thump) Crump of Boston Patriot fame on the career rushing lists.

To date, McCarthy has gained 1841 yards in his collegiate career. Yet, to many of the thousands of B.C. fans, this has not been enough.

McCarthy came out of Washington, D.C., where he attended DeMatha Catholic High School. His high school career was an illustrious one. In addition to being All-American in football, Brendan was also tremendous in basketball, baseball, and track. He reportedly was offered a scholarship to 200 schools.

With a keen eye to a successful and winning college career, and with a keen eye to tradition (he would be following in the footsteps of fellow DeMatha star John Austin of basketball fame), Brendan chose Boston College.

McCarthy began his college days in brilliant fashion. He gained over 900 yards in his sophomore season and was named E.C.A.C. sophomore of the East. Brendan had the additional honor of winning the O'Melia trophy as the outstanding performer in the B.C.-Holy Cross annual game.

Drums then began to beat for him in the off-season of his sophomore year. The rabid B.C. alumni, well-known for their unguarded optimism built up McCarthy to superman proportions. They envisioned McCarthy as the man to lead their Eagles to bowl games and beyond.

The communications media did its part in building the McCarthy legend. Sport Magazine selected him as a definite All-American possibility. The Boston newspapers were filled with predictions of a brilliant junior year for the Eagle star.

To the surprise of all, McCarthy proved to be a human being. He had a good season by normal standards, gaining 594 yards. Injuries were the main reason for the decline, but when the B.C. fans say you are the next Jimmy Brown, you should gain 1000 yards if it means walking on water.

With injuries healed, this was supposed to be the year that bashing Brendan, would finally live up to his reams of press clippings and become the finest fullback in the country. The Boston College publicity department called McCarthy "one of the best fullbacks in college football today." The only problem this year has been that he has not played like one of the best fullbacks in college football today.

This season McCarthy has gained 442 yards in 112 carries, an average of not quite four yards per carry. While this is a fine performance, it is hardly of the magnitude predicted. Therefore, today he remains an enigma.

Built up to be a super star, he has turned out to be no more than a good solid performer. Whether he explodes this Saturday against the Redmen is a good question.

But remember one thing: If you listen to the B.C. radio broadcast and the voice of John "Snooks" Kelly wafts across the air waves, "McCarthy busts through and bowls over the U-Mass line," take his spirit with a grain of salt. Because "Snooks" is one of B.C.'s many super-star makers.

BRENDAN McCARTHY
Big weakness — walking on water.

Frosh End Season with 24-13 Win Over UNH

By PETE CARROLL
Staff Reporter

UMass' Little Redmen won their first 'mythical' Yankee Conference freshman championship with an exciting 24-13 victory over the U.N.H. frosh in their last game of the season at Alumni Stadium on Friday afternoon. UMass shares the 'title' with the frosh from U.N.H. and UConn, all having 2-1 conference records. The frosh's overall record is 2-4 for the year.

Things looked bleak for U-Mass when the Little Wildcats scored on a 65 yard drive in the second quarter and took a 6-0 lead into the locker room at halftime.

However, the Little Redmen went on the warpath in the second half. Dick Heavey started it off by bursting over the goal line from one yard out. Ed Sapienza missed the conversion (ending his streak at seven) and the score was tied 6-6. The frosh came right back with Heavey again going in from the one to give UMass a 13-6 lead.

U.N.H. was far from dead, coming back with a touchdown to knot the score at 13-13. After the TD, the Little Wildcats tried an outside kick, but George Zguris made a fine play on it to set up a 39-yard field goal by Sapienza and a 16-13 lead.

Defensive halfback Jimmy Rindell capped the scoring with an interception when only five minutes remained in the game. In one of the prettiest plays of the year, Rindell ran the interception back 30 yards to the five yard line where it appeared that a U.N.H. player was going to cut him down.

Rindell, however, had desire and leaped five feet up, covered the 15 feet to the goal in the air, and landed in the endzone in front of his flabbergasted would-be-tackler to give UMass the 24-13 victory.

Dave Walsh, defensive end, also came up with a clutch interception to end a fourth quarter UNH drive.

Coach Kelley was very pleased with the team's performance. "Their desire to win was evident from the first play of the game; they felt they had to prove themselves and they did. It took a lot of pride to come back and win after being beaten so severely by UConn last week."

Offensively, blocking was the key to victory. The team had had blocking problems ever since the Army game. Kelley decided, in a move that really paid off, to shift John Neri to the backfield and use him, along with fullback Bob Toole, as blocking backs.

He used a multitude of halfbacks to do most of the running: Neil Hering, Pat Scavone, Paul Jacobs, Tom Semino, and Dick 'heavy hitting' Heavey. Dick was outstanding scoring two touchdowns; and fullback Toole also shone averaging five yards a carry.

Up front, both starting guards were out and their replacements, Zguris and Jeff Milianette, did great jobs opening up gaping holes. Kelley also praised the work of center Frank Mossiello and tackle Pete Johnson.

Although the team moved the ball well in the first half, it was not able to score. The key to the second half was the pass-blocking for quarterbacks Joe Lang and Dick Dyer, who both played well.

End Nick McGarry showed varsity potential in catching several passes. The other end, John Ayleward, hauled in a 60-yard bomb that almost went all the way. Ayleward had a fine day going both ways, at end and defensive tackle.

The defense turned in another fine game. Kelley said, "Their execution was very good for frosh." He cited ends Russ Wood and Dave Walsh; halfbacks Sapienza, Rindell, and Tom Cassidy; and linebackers Bill Byron, Bill Sroka, and Mike Konstansky for their fine play.

COMING THROUGH—Freshman halfback Dick Heavey (22) breaks through New Hampshire line. Heavey scored twice in frosh win.

Redmen Eager for Boston Trip

By MARTHA CURRAN
Sports Day Editor

The Yankee Conference Beanpot is secure in the trophy showcase at Boyden, but the Redmen, still hungry, go on the warpath in a revenge game against Boston College Saturday.

The darlings of the Boston news media let fly their Eagles against UMass at 1:30 p.m. at Alumni Field in Boston.

Boston area members of the Redmen squad are of one mind: "We've got to beat 'em; we're going to beat 'em."

"I've lived in the shadows of B.C., literally and figuratively for years," said fullback Bruce Cochrane. The Brookline junior grew up playing football near the Heights. High school friends at B.C. and neighbors will be watching the game—more than enough incentive for Cochrane.

Senior offensive guard Bob Santucci, lives about a mile from B.C., in Newton. "It's my first game against B.C. I'm looking forward to Saturday."

Jim Mitchell, tackle from Stoneham, plays his last collegiate football game Saturday. "The whole season rests on this game," the senior co-captain said. "We'd really like to win."

A personal rivalry is involved in senior Bill Carty's reaction to the game. The tight end from Malden faces Eagle John Salmon, "a good friend," in action at Alumni Field. "B.C. is the big game of the season for prestige. It's a name school and has a reputation in New England as the best independent. We have to beat them to be number one."

Bridgewater's Ed Sherman also calls this the biggest game of the year. Sherman a junior, set a new record Saturday at UNH, kicking his 25th straight conversion.

Marty Scheralis has been in rivalry with Boston College since his days at South Boston High when he played B.C. High. The sophomore will be starting at defensive tackle before his hometown fans.

"Sure, the game is more significant," said Dave Driscoll, and his brother Tim echoed his words. Dave, soph cornerback, will play Saturday against friends at B.C. Friends, home in Bridgewater for Turkey Day vacation, will be watching as the Eagles and the Redmen battle. Say the Driscoll brothers, "It would be great to knock 'em down."

Craig Lovell, soph tailback from Wellesley, summed it up for his teammates. "We want to win, and we're going to."

Harriers On To N. Y.

By JOEL FOX
Staff Reporter

Experience in the big meet is the main reason why the UMass harriers travel to New York to compete in the 59th annual IC4A cross-country championships today.

Both head coach Bill Footrick and assistant coach Ken O'Brien feel that with teams like Villanova, Notre Dame, and Penn State, the UMass squad does not have much of a chance of finishing very high. However, they hope that team individuals will fare well.

Coach Footrick is looking for his one-two punch of Charlie Lang and Paul Hoss to finish in the front 25. Likewise coach O'Brien is looking for his freshman stars Ron Wayne and Leo Duart to finish in the top 20-25.

Charlie Messenger, defending champ from Villanova, is favored to repeat as the winner over the rough five-mile Van Courtland Park course. However, coach Footrick personally feels that Georgetown's Steve Stageberg, who beat Messenger earlier this year, will take top honors.

He also believes that the top New England entry in the University division will be Holy Cross star Art Dulong, who placed second in the New England's. Amley Burfoot, the Wesleyan runner who won the New England's will compete in the College Division.

Teamwise Footrick feels that Villanova will easily defend its crown. The only possible New England team up there will be Harvard. Footrick said, "It's hard for a New England to win. We only finished seventh in the IC4A when we were New England champs in 1961."

The coaches hope that the experience will be beneficial to the boys for next year, when they expect that the runners will form one of the top teams in New England.

WILL 'TURKEY DAY' BE 2 DAYS LATE?

B.C. (2-6)—A Ghost of Years Gone By

By GLENN BRIERE
Assistant Sports Editor

January 1, 1940. Boston College defeats Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl, 19-13, to cap off an undefeated season. Almost 28 years later, those same Eagles are struggling with a 2-6 record. How the mighty have fallen.

It is this pitiful ghost of years gone by that provides UMass with its final opposition of the year at Chestnut Hill Saturday at 1:30. It will be Greg Landry's last game and it should mean far more to the Redmen than it will to the hapless Eagles.

B.C. has won two games this year. They lucked out in their first game a 27-24 victory over Villanova. The second win was a 56-0 mauling of hapless Maine. Otherwise, the boys from the Heights might as well have transferred to Northeastern.

Being big and slow, this is a typical B.C. team. Although both the offensive and defensive lines average over 225 pounds, their relative immobility against a faster team has hurt them. For instance, the opposition has penetrated the defensive line for an average of close to 200 yards a game.

The offense has looked good on occasion, but by and large it has been marked by inconsistency. Most important is the fact that Coach Jim Miller has been unable to find a steady quarterback.

He has employed three quarterbacks this season. One of them, Captain Joe DiVito, started the season after wowing the fans last year with his performance against Holy Cross. However, the 6'2, 205-pound senior has failed to come up with a good, consistent performance.

Possible starter against U-Mass may be soph Mike Fallon, who is a fine runner and an average passer. However, Fallon has a habit of throwing interceptions. If Miller doesn't use these two, he will use last year's starter, senior Joe Marzetti.

Dave Bennett, a 195-pound junior, is an adequate running halfback. His counterpart, Terry Erwin, is returning after a virus and should give some speed to the B.C. backfield. A senior, Erwin is a good receiver.

Number 44 will do most of the running. He is none other than the "DeMartha Dynamo"—Brendan McCarthy. The Eagles' fabulous fullback is discussed elsewhere in this section.

The Eagles best receiver, junior Barry Gallup, returned to action at split end against Syracuse after an ankle injury. A 6'3, 205-pounder, Gallup is a fine all-around end with good speed, moves and hands.

A close second to Gallup in the receiving department is tight end Jim Kavanagh, a 6'2, 205-pound senior and a star on the B.C. track team.

On the offensive interior line, B.C. is high on sophomore Bob Bouley, a 235-pounder. His father was a star tackle on the B.C. teams of the early '40s. The other tackle, 240-pound junior Jerry Ragosa, started last year.

One of B.C.'s better linemen is senior guard Jim Garofalo, a 220-pounder who has been a regular for three years. The other guard is 220-pound junior Bud Kruger, who can play both offense and defense and whose name typifies the B.C. fans.

The Eagles' regular center, Mike Evans, is sidelined by an injury. His replacement will be 220-pound senior Al Borsari, who has seen a lot of action in two years but who has had to play second fiddle to Evans and Bob Hyland, now with the Green Bay Packers.

One of Miller's few pleasant surprises on defense has been end Ed McDonald, a 185-pound sophomore. The other end is 205-pound senior Carter Hunt, who saw little action prior to this season.

The tackles are two of the biggest in New England, and possibly two of the slowest. Sophomore John Fitzgerald (6'5, 260) returned Saturday after being out with an ankle injury. The other tackle, 240-pound senior Ron Persuitte, is strong but is hampered by lead feet.

At middle guard is Dick Kroner, a 6'1, 225-pound junior who played mostly at linebacker last year.

The top linebackers, Gary Andrachik, is a 200-pound junior who has also returned after an injury. He has good speed, considering he plays for B.C. The other linebacker, 210-pound sophomore Jim McCool, has relegated starter John O'Connell to the second team.

Miller has been revising the defensive backfield in spite of the fact that it has given up less than 100 yards passing per game.

One of the newcomers is sophomore Gary Matz, who has been given a shot at cornerback. The other cornerback, Dave (the Dart) Thomas, started at quarterback last year but suffered a shoulder separation in the third game.

One of the better pass defenders in New England is safety John Salmon, a 6'0, 180-pound junior. He is helped out by the other safety, Harry Pierandri, a 6'2, 185-pound senior who saw some action last year as a junior.

On paper, Boston College seems to have some talent. Why, then, the dismal season? Some say it's the coach, others say it's the schedule. Wherever the blame lies, it looks like Turkey Day comes two days late for UMass this year.

Probable Starting Line-ups

OFFENSE

MASSACHUSETTS				BOSTON COLLEGE
83 Nick Warnock	Jr.	6'2	193	SE	87 Barry Gallup	Jr. 6'3	200
71 Mike Cooney	So.	6'0	226	LT	70 Bob Bouley	So. 6'3	235
63 Don Glogowski	Sr.	5'10	185	LG	64 Jim Garofalo	Sr. 5'11	220
54 Bob Sheehan	Jr.	6'6	258	C	51 Al Borsari	Sr. 6'1	220
60 Bob Santucci	Sr.	6'0	205	RG	66 Bud Kruger	Jr. 6'2	220
54 Jim Mitchell	Sr.	6'1	219	RT	72 Jerry Ragosa	Jr. 6'3	240
82 Bill Carty	Sr.	6'4	228	TE	81 Jim Kavanagh	Sr. 6'2	210
11 Greg Landry	Sr.	6'3	200	QB	3 Joe DeVito	Sr. 6'2	205
35 Fred Hairston	Jr.	5'11	195	WB	27 Dave Bennett	Jr. 6'1	195
20 Craig Lovell	So.	6'0	194	TB	22 Terry Erwin	Sr. 6'0	190
30 Bruce Cochrane	Jr.	6'0	202	FB	44 Brendan McCarthy	Sr. 6'3	215
DEFENSE
84 Tom York	So.	6'1	202	LE	80 Ed McDonald	So. 6'3	220
72 Marty Scheralis	So.	6'4	230	LT	76 John Fitzgerald	So. 6'5	260
53 Bruce Gombar	Sr.	6'0	198	MG	55 Dick Kroner	Jr. 6'1	225
66 Kent Stevens	Sr.	6'0	210	RT	73 Ron Persuitte	Sr. 6'2	250
89 Paul Milnar	Sr.	6'0	233	RE	88 Carter Hunt	Sr. 6'2	205
34 Paul Campbell	Sr.	5'10	180	Chief	23 John Salmon	Jr. 5'11	180
64 Dennis Gray	So.	6'1	180	LB	52 Jim McCool	So. 6'0	210
65 Ernie Smith	Sr.	5'10	190	LB	60 Gary Andrachik	Jr. 6'2	200
41 Dave Driscoll	So.	6'2	190	CB	34 Gary Matz	So. 5'11	185
24 Bill Frye	Jr.	5'9	185	CB	5 Dave Thomas	Jr. 6'2	200
40 Steve Rogers	So.	6'2	192	S	21 Harry Pierandri	Sr. 6'2	185

B.C. Alumni May Have Last Say on Coach Miller

By JOHN SULLIVAN
Staff Reporter

Jim Miller is deep into his sixth season as head grid mentor at Boston College. He arrived at the Eagle camp in 1962, fresh from the University of Detroit, where he enjoyed three successful seasons as head coach.

His Detroit teams garnered 18 victories against 10 setbacks; their best year was 1960, when their record was 7-2.

In 1962, Miller led a B.C. team that was coming off two consecutive losing seasons to a fine 8-2 campaign. His following three squads produced fine records as well.

Then came 1966, and Miller's Eagles slipped to a disappointing 4-6 record. Miller's present edition has been even less productive, trudging along at a 2-6 pace as they prepare for the Redmen's invasion.

The poor performance of B.C. last season and this, has caused much concern among the ever-alert Eagle alumni. Coach Miller has a year to go on his present contract, and it is believed that the alumni will pay him his dues before 1968 ever rolls around.

Miller played his college football at Purdue. He lettered at guard for three years and captained the 1941 Boilermakers. After his graduation in June of 1942, he served for three and a half years as a Lieutenant in the Navy Air Corps, during which time he was a Flight Instructor and Assistant Engineering Officer.

The coaching career of Jim Miller had its beginning at Monticello High School (Ind.), and continued through Wabash College, Niagra University and the University of Buffalo. From Buffalo, he wandered back to Purdue to become freshman coach in 1954.

The following year Boilermaker head coach Jack Mollenkopf, appointed Miller to the position of defensive line coach. The immediate result was the emergence of strong Purdue defensive teams, most notably the 1958 squad that was ranked second in the nation.

But those days are long gone, and it is rumored that, with traditionally tough opponents such as Navy, Army, Tulane, Penn State and Syracuse on next season's B.C. schedule, a "For Sale" will soon be appearing on the Dover home of Jim Miller.

JIM MILLER
Last season at B.C.?

UM-BC Series (Only 5 Games) Dates to 1899

By PETER PASCARELLI
Sports Day Editor

In regard to longevity, the UMass-Boston College rivalry is not one seeped in tradition. In fact, last year's contest was the first between the two schools in over 40 years.

The two schools first met in 1899 when the Redmen were the Massachusetts Aggies. B.C. won this first meeting, 18-0. The Aggies rebounded in 1901 for an 11-0 triumph, followed the next year by a 30-0 UMass win. There was then a 10-year layoff between the two schools before they met again in 1912, resulting in a UMass romp of 42-0.

After 1912, however, the series was terminated for over 40 years. Boston College felt their teams to be expanding into national prominence and therefore ended relations with UMass.

The renewal of hostilities can be attributed to two possible reasons: the fact that the Eagles found themselves over their heads facing the likes of Syracuse, Army, Penn State and Cincinnati, or the fact that Boston College has finally recognized UMass as a football power to be reckoned with.

Last year's game was a thriller all the way. Paul Della Villa, a departed Eagle, scored first on a short touchdown run. After a missed conversion, B.C. gained a safety and then a field goal by Mike O'Neil. The Redmen got on the board on a touchdown pass from Greg Landry to 5' 7" Bob Detore. However, another O'Neil field goal iced a 14-7 Boston College win.

This, the sixth meeting between the two schools finds UMass with a 3-2 lead. With last year's loss still remembered, the Redmen are optimistic to extend their series lead and defeat the Screamin' Eagles for the first time in 43 years.

Redmen Are Champs Again

Edge Tough U. N. H., 14-13, in Thriller

GET OFF MY BACK — Redmen Alan Becker recovers an important New Hampshire fumble. The fumble was made on a punt by Bob Rudolph (38).

(Continued from page 2)

Sherman's attempt was blocked and U N H took possession. Walsh completed one pass, but Steve Rogers' interception killed that drive to preserve the 7-0 halftime lead.

By this time the field was in such poor shape that the UNH marching band was requested not to work it over anymore during the break.

An 11 play, 80-yd TD drive by the Wildcats knotted the score in the third period. A 28-yd. Walsh to Bill Phillips pass in a third down situation was the big play of the march.

Tom York's spectacular interception was the only bright light for the Redmen in this quarter. The sophomore defensive end batted a Walsh aerial into the air, then turned to snag the pass.

In the hectic fourth period a picture play 43-yd. Landry to Warnock pass gave UM a TD lead. Sherman's extra-point was deflected but went through the crossbass to make it, 14-7.

UNH came right back as Tom Kasprzak ran from the Wildcat 45 to the Redmen 1. Two plays later Phillips plowed over.

Then came the crucial 2-point conversion attempt which failed and the blocked field goal. UNH fumbled the last time they had the ball. Marty Scheralis recovered and UM ran out the clock.

The field conditions had a very definite effect on the game. Each of the three Wildcat bobbles was pounced on by the alert UM defenders while the Redmen fumbled 9 times, losing possession on 4 occasions. The usually sure-handed Landry fumbled the snap five times.

The Redmen fumbled nine times, six on center snaps, and lost the ball four times.

On the plus side, Fusia said, "We came up with the big plays when they were necessary." Of course, there were only two big plays, both long bombs by Greg Landry. The first was to Alan Becker and set up the Redmen's first score. Becker leaped between two UNH defenders in the endzone and although he only gained full possession out of bounds, interference was called against the Wildcats and the ball was placed at the one yard line. Jerry Grasso delivered the yard, and Ed Sherman connected on his 24th straight conversion to beat the UMass record, held jointly by Jerry Whelchel and present defensive backfield coach John Bamberry.

The second big UMass play was also the most important Yanke Conference play of the year. In the fourth quarter, with the score tied, 7-7, Landry found Nick Warnock behind the UNH secondary and dropped the pigskin on the money for a 43-yard touchdown. Sherman's conversion kick was good although it was partially blocked. In the locker room, big Ed said if it hadn't been blocked it wouldn't have made it through the uprights.

"New Hampshire played a fine game," said Fusia. "The field hurt them as much as it hurt us." The Wildcats were also hurt by UMass' stingy strategy of keeping the ball away from UNH's kick-off and punt return Titans, 5' 6" Bill Estey and 5' 6" Bob Rudolph. Rudolph saw the ball twice, handing off to Estey once on a kick-off and fumbling on a punt. Estey made two returns both for short yardage. The rest of the time Warnock was punting out of bounds and Marty Scheralis' line-drive kick-offs were landing far in front of the two half-pints.

"We weren't going to give them a chance," said Fusia. "This has been a team that has won games all year with the long plays, on the kick-offs and punts."

Landry, a New Hampshire boy himself, spent much of the game lying on his homeland as his pass blocking broke down against the fired-up Wildcats. He netted one yard in 24 carries for an average of one-and-a-half inches per carry.

Although the quarterback said it was the worst field he had ever played on, he added, "You can't take anything away from them. They played a heck of a game. They were playing everything else so tightly they ended up giving us the long pass."

UNH-UMass Final Statistics

	UNH	UMASS
First Downs	11	11
Rushing Yardage (net)	188	53
Passing Yardage (net)	85	125
Return Yardage (net)	6-86	9-87
Passes	16-6-2	14-6-0
Punts	8-32.75	10-34.5
Fumbles lost	3	4
Yards Penalized	8-88	1-15

BOWLING

Intramural bowling matches scheduled for Wednesday have been postponed until Monday, Feb. 12.

METAWAMPE'S GRID PICKS

When Metawampe loses, he loses big. Last week he posted a meager 36-20-1 record. But it's not because our haruspex is losing his prognostication powers. Metawampe has other things on his mind.

At this time of the year his thoughts turn to his famous ancestor Squanto, who helped the Pilgrims so long ago at Plimoth Plantation. Metawampe, not the type to be upstaged by anyone, even illustrious progenitors, has turned his thoughts to roast eagle, dressing and cranberry sauce. The roast eagle is considered a delicacy in Boston.

Our famous soothsayer has made a Thanksgiving resolution and come up with a new set of predictions.

UMASS 21, BOSTON COLLEGE 7 — The Eagle was a bird so proud. Redmen make it stink out loud.

YALE 35, HARVARD 15—Elis send Crimson howling, on a passing thought by Dowling.

UCLA 35, SYRACUSE 21—Far past the heights the Orange were staring. But O. J.'s flight left Uclans raring.

NOTRE DAME 20, MIAMI 7 (Fri Night)—Ara, Lord bestow thy whamy, against the devils of Miami.

TENNESSEE 7, KENTUCKY 0 —Orange Bowl on Vols' New Years docket, They'll do proud to Davy Crockett.

TEXAS A & M 21, TEXAS 17 (Thurs.) — Bradley's arm is now forgotten, Aggies have their Bowl of Cotton.

PURDUE 28, INDIANA 20 — Unchained keys unlock collisions, and shackles Hoosiers' Rosy visions.

MINNESOTA 21, WISCONSIN 7—Gophers have Roses well in hand, After sending Badgers to never-never land.

OKLAHOMA 14, NEBRASKA 0—In their field, Huskers are outstanding, Until there comes a Sooner landing.

CLEMSON 14, SOUTH CAROLINA 13—At flying, Dietzel's gamecocks fail, With Tigers hanging from their tails.

Thursday

VPI 27, VMI 21
Toledo 14, Villanova 0

Saturday

Columbia 22, Brown 16
Holy Cross 14, UConn 8
Penn State 32, Pittsburgh 18
Cornell 35, Pennsylvania 20
Dartmouth 21, Princeton 13
Rutgers 12, Colgate 0
Florida State 30, Florida 14
LSU 28, Tulane 3
Virginia 26, Maryland 7
Memphis State 22, No. Texas 20
Mississippi 10, Vanderbilt 0
Iowa 21, Illinois 14
Kansas 7, Missouri 0
Michigan State 25, Northwestern 6
Michigan 23, Ohio State 12
Oklahoma State 7, Kansas State 0
Houston 37, Tulsa 8
Arkansas 27, Texas Tech 14
Baylor 8, SMU 7
TCU 17, Rice 0
Colorado 29, Air Force 18
Arizona State 28, Arizona 21
Brigham Young 30, San Jose 7
Colorado State 35, Wichita 14
Utah State 21, San Diego State 10
El Paso 20, Utah 9
Washington 16, Washington State 7

Cobwebs on Beanpot: Not Enough Anymore

DURHAM, N.H.—Yale won the Ivy League title Saturday, and it meant a banner day in New Haven, boola-boolas all around and the top story in the New York Times sports section.

UMass won the Yankee Conference Beanpot Saturday, and its coach, standing in a quiet, mud-filled locker room at the University of New Hampshire, said, "The only thing good about this trip is the price of cigarets."

Vic Fusia's teams have won the Conference 4 times in the last five years. The Redmen have needed the breaks but then since Fusia came to Amherst in 1960, they've only lost titles by field-goal margins. Now UMass has won 14 straight Conference games. It also has realized a sad truism: As far as prestige goes, it is no longer enough for cobwebs to form on the Beanpot in the Boyden trophy case. The Redmen must win all their Conference games — convincingly.

Saturday's 14-13 victory was hardly convincing. In fact, Connecticut, a team that was winning at Rhode Island Saturday but that UMass had shellacked a month ago, came within a slip in the mud or a blocked field goal try of tying the Redmen for the championship.

The slip in the mud occurred after the Wildcats had reduced the margin to 14-13 on a fourth-quarter touchdown. Quarterback Ed Walsh lost his footing before he could roll out to find the receiver or the blocker who could provide the two-point conversion and a UNH victory.

"They did the right thing going for two," said Fusia. "Oh, yes, I would have done the same thing. Now, if they had been in contention for the title, it might have been a different story."

The blocked field goal happened a few minutes after the conversion failed. Although New Hampshire's on-side kick attempt was as shocking as Romney's campaign announcement, the Wildcats recovered and moved into field goal range. Kurt Vollherbst's try hit the chest of diving game-saver Paul Campbell.

"We're not mudders," said Fusia in reference to the treacherous Cowell Stadium turf, which looked like the Rifle Range after the last Spring Day. Six inches of snow fell on Durham Wednesday night, and a UNH crew was working up until almost game time to make the field livable, if not playable.

The UMass Marching Band had practiced all week for the trip, which was to be its second, and last of the year, but Friday the rhythmic Redmen learned that U. N. H. officials wouldn't allow their appearance because of the field condition.

"We fumbled more today than we had all year," the coach said.

Yankee Conference Standings

	W	L	T
Massachusetts	5	0	0
Connecticut	4	1	0
Rhode Island	2	2	1
New Hampshire	2	3	0
Vermont	1	3	1
Maine	0	5	0

KAHUMA

UConn Drops URI, B. C. Loses Again

Quarterback Pete Petrillo led Connecticut to a 26-18 victory over Rhode Island highlighting action among UMass grid opponents. Petrillo scored on a 74-yard touchdown run and pitched 43 yards for another score to firmly entrench UConn in second place in the final Yankee Conference standings.

The Huskies finished with a league mark of 4-1, the Rams ended at 2-2-1. Had UMass lost to New Hampshire a tie for the title with Connecticut would have resulted.

Boston College now owns a 2-6 record after having dropped a 32-20 decision to Syracuse and Larry Csonka. The hulking fullback of the Orangemen ran and rambled through the Eagle defense for 154 yards in 30 carries.

Dartmouth was edged by Cornell 24-21. Big Red quarterback Bill Robertson tossed a 12-yard scoring strike to Chris Ritter with just one minute, 12 seconds left in the contest.

Rutgers suffered its fifth defeat at the hands of Holy Cross, 22-10. Crusader signalcaller Phil O'Neill had a fine afternoon, passing for two touchdowns and scoring one himself.

Vermont was beaten by a C. W. Post team, 7-0, whose defense held the Catamounts' Bob Mitchell to a net gain of only 42 yards. The lone touchdown of the game was registered by C. W. Post's Paul Sindell on a 42-yard jaunt from scrimmage.

More Turkey Talk on Pages 13, 14 and 15

FORECAST
COLD AND SNOW
FLURRIES

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

NEW ENGLAND'S
LARGEST
COLLEGE DAILY

VOL. XCVI, NO. 52 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | MONDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1967

The Eagle Was The Paraclete

Redmen Drop Soggy Finale to DeVito and Eagles, 25-0

By MIKE CURRAN
Staff Reporter

CHESTNUT HILL—A sleeping giant awoke Saturday and crushed the Redmen, 25-0, before 16,200 hungry fans here in Alumni Stadium.

Boston College, with a meager 2-6 chart entering the game, put everything together, good passing, hard running, and a bone-crushing defense, to topple the Yankee Conference champions.

The shutout, UMass' first in 45 contests, was a dismal ending to an otherwise fine season which saw the Redmen rack up seven wins against two losses.

The outcome might have been different if UMass had been able to put a few points on the board early. Twice in the first period, the Redmen marched into Eagle territory only to be stopped by BC's defense and their own mistakes.

After a Greg Landry to Nick Warnock pass had given UMass a first down on the Boston College 18, an incompletion, a run for no gain and a fumble on the snap made it fourth down. Ed Sherman's field goal attempt was off to the right and the Redmen lost a chance to go out in front.

Early in the second quarter, the Eagles tallied three points on a Bob Gallivan kick after the passing combination of quarterback Joe DiVito and end Barry Gallup had set up the field goal.

A fine defensive stand by the Redmen went down the drain later on in the period when the offense again failed to move the ball. DiVito passed BC back up to the ten yard line where Brendan McCarthy took it in from there. A missed conversion attempt kept the score at 9-0.

Landry's passing to Bill Carty and Warnock gave Redmen fans hope for a closer score at halftime but time ran out with Gerry Grasso scampering to the

(Continued on page 8)

Boston Colleges to Vote In Vietnam Referendum

A referendum on the Vietnam war will be held Wednesday and Thursday in major universities throughout the eastern United States.

The vote is sponsored by the New England Universities Referendum on Vietnam, a non-partisan, non-profit organization founded and administered by Harvard undergraduates.

A computerized ballot will consist of 21 questions covering major issues connected with the war. The referendum was conceived as a way people . . . could express their views on the war," stated a Harvard senior and referendum coordinator.

"It is a legislative channel of opinion that may be more satisfying and less destructive than other alternatives," stated Marshall.

A preliminary summary of the voting will be released in early December. Boston institutions expected to take part in the referendum are Harvard, Boston University, Brandeis, Simmons College and Emmanuel College.

A poll of 2,038 Northeastern University students taken last week on the Vietnam question indicated that 53.9 percent favored either escalation or the administration's current policy.

Of the undergraduate students voting, 45.9 percent chose either an end to the bombing or immediate withdrawal from the choice of four on the ballot.

The referendum was held to determine the feeling of the entire student body compared to the vocal activists. The Inter-Fraternity Council of Northeastern sponsored the poll.

Chairman of the poll was Stan DiOrio of the class of '68. DiOrio reported the poll results and the breakdown of voting results according to classes.

"What might be significant is the senior class showed a marked shift from the average." DiOrio noted that this group favored negotiation and pull-out by a majority of 51 percent.

"War has a more immediate effect on them," he stated and cited the fact that most were 21, of voting age and facing the draft or the effects of the conflict.

At the opposite end, the freshmen and youngest students favored descalation and the present administration policy by a majority.

Draft Law Affects Grad Students

Unless there is a change in the new draft law, UMass could experience a decrease of 25 per cent in the number of its graduate students by next fall.

That is the gloomy prediction of Edward C. Moore, dean of the university's graduate school.

He was among seven deans in Massachusetts who responded to a survey by the Boston Globe on the question.

All seven condemned the law passed by Congress last summer, which defers college undergraduates in good standing and graduate school students who will complete their second year by next June, but makes most other students subject to the draft.

Exceptions are made for those studying medicine, dentistry, veterinary medicine, osteopathy and optometry.

All universities will have trouble planning how to meet the crisis, then spokesmen report, but expanding institutions such as UMass could be hurt particularly hard.

A 25 per cent drop in graduate students at UMass would have "serious implications", according to Dean Moore, "because it will mean, of course, that there will be fewer graduate students turned out two or three years from now and also because in the meantime there will be fewer graduate students to act as teaching and laboratory assistants."

The drain on the graduate school will be compounded by the fact that undergraduate enrollments will continue to increase, he added.

Dean Moore told the Globe he has high hopes that the law would be changed so that the duty of serving in the armed forces could be shared more equitably through the student population.

"We don't want to see graduate school become a way of avoiding the draft," he said. "We do want to avoid catastrophe, but this law comes very close to inviting it."

U.S. to Defend Dollar Rate

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Heads of banks from seven countries pledged full support to the United States yesterday in its commitment to defend the dollar rate against heavy buying of gold.

Governors of the central banks of Belgium, Britain, West Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Switzerland and the United States were at the meeting in Frankfurt.

They said afterwards that the volume of gold and foreign exchange reserves at their disposal guaranteed that the gold exchange rate would remain at $35 an ounce.

In a brief statement they also said that participation of other nations' banks in helping defend the rate would be welcomed.

The statement added that the governors took decisions on specific measures to ensure by coordinated actions orderly conditions in the exchange markets and to support . . . the fixed price."

"The volume of gold and foreign exchange reserves at their disposal guarantees the success of these actions," the statement said. There was no elaboration on the specific measures taken.

Last week after Britain's devaluation of the pound sterling, President Johnson said: "I reaffirm unequivocally the commitment of the United States to buy and sell gold at the existing price of $35 per ounce."

Justice Douglas to Speak For DVP Wednesday

William O. Douglas, Associate Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, will speak at the UMass Student Union ballroom Wednesday at 8 p.m.

The talk is part of a series of lectures sponsored by the University students' Distinguished Visitors Program. Justice Douglas will speak on "The Rule of Law and Survival."

After graduation from Columbia Law School, Justice Douglas served on the faculty for four years before joining the staff of Yale Law School. During the depression he conducted a number of studies on bankruptcy, and in 1937 he became head of the Securities and Exchange Commission. Two years later President Roosevelt nominated him for the position of associate justice of the Supreme Court.

The Inside Story

LSD TRIP—Dr. Laert cuts Psychedelic record ..... page 2
WHAT'S HAPPENING—Notices ..... page 2
WHO CONTROLS THE MONEY?—Senate finances ..... page 3
EDITORIALS AND CAMPUS COMMENT ..... page 4
EDUCATION INNOVATIONS—New learning concept developed ..... page 5
PEACE CORPS DEFERMENTS—Peace Corps to intervene for draft deferments for overseas ..... page 5
CHRISTMAS CARDS—Panhellenic Council to sell Christmas cards for UNICEF in the Student Union ..... page 5
VALLEY PEACE CENTER—New home, draft counciling, clothing drive ..... page 5
FASHION AND STUDENTS—Home Economics students get first hand experience ..... page 6
GOURMET NEWS—Dining Commons Menu ..... page 7
SPORTS—More on the BC game and Hockey preview ..... page 8

Dr. Leary Cuts New Psychedelic Record Based on LSD Trip

CHICAGO — "Turn On, Tune In, Drop Out," the original soundtrack recording of Dr. Timothy Leary's "psychedelic celebration," is being released by Mercury Records.

The LP is based on an imaginary LSD "trip" featuring Dr. Leary as the "guide."

Leary, the former Harvard University clinical psychologist, is a proponent of the hallucinogenic drug.

Irwin H. Steinberg, Executive Vice President of Mercury Record Corp., said the record will help further the public's knowledge about the controversial drug.

"In order to define one's own values, we have to be exposed to the changing values from knowledge rather than from a lack of it," Steinberg explained. "This Timothy Leary LP exposes us to an area of knowledge regarding the thinking of a segment of our national community."

Besides Leary as the "guide," the motion picture and the Mercury soundtrack features Ralph Metzner as the "voyager" and Rosemary Woodruff as the "divine connection."

The soundtrack is bolstered by the sound of the ancient veena, a stringed instrument found only in India. Playing the instrument is Maryvonne Giercarz, an instructor at UCLA who reportedly is the only artist in the Western world who can perform on the veena.

The film takes the audience via visual and audio means on the trip.

If you see
news in the making
Call the MDC
Hotline
545-2550

NOTICES

SKI CLUB
Meeting, Mon., 8 p.m. Earn money to pay for winter ski trips. All members please attend this meeting in Morrill Aud. Pick up candy to sell and newsletters. Sign up for trips. Free movie.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF UNIVERSITY PROFESSORS
Meeting Mon., 8 p.m., SHA 120. Provst Oswald Tippo will speak and answers questions on state universities. Members and non-members welcome.

STUDENTS FOR POLITICAL ACTION
Tonight's meeting cancelled.

SCIENCE FICTION CLUB LIBRARY
Science fiction, fantasies, magazines, comic books, old exam file, tapes of lectures and more available Mon.-Fri., 6:30-8:30 p.m. in 109-111 Hampshire House near SW.

SCHOOL OF PHYSICAL ED.
Dr. Clayton Thomas will deliver a lecture on "Physical Activity and the Female" on Tues., Dec. 5, at 8 p.m. in Engineering East Aud.

NEWMAN ASSN.
Father Walsh of Brandeis Univ. will deliver a lecture at Smith College, Nov. 29.

ASTRONOMY DEPT.
Four-college colloquium Tues., Nov. 28. Hasbrouck 20. Prof. Gerald Hawkins, chmn. of the B.U. Astro. Dept. will deliver a lecture on Astro-archaeology. Open to the public.

PRE-DENTAL, PRE-MEDICAL AND PRE-VETERINARY
Students who expect to graduate in 1970 or earlier who wish to change to one of the above professional majors or to register with the Pre-medical Advisory Committee but major in one of the academic depts., should file an application with the committee no later than Dec. 15. Applications forms and further information may be obtained at the Pre-med Office, 321 Morrill Sci. II.

GERMAN DEPT.
Dr. and Mrs. Ellert will give a lecture and present slides on "The Freiburg Program—Past, Present and Future". Tues., Nov. 28, 8 p.m. in the Council Chambers, Student Union.

INORGANIC CHEMISTRY SEMINAR
Ohiko Hyodo will talk on "The Transistion Metal Hydride Complexes", Wed., Nov. 29, 12:20 p.m., Rm. 51, Goessmann Lab.

EDUCATION CLUB
The Fall Convention of the Massachusetts Student Education Association will be held Saturday at Eastern Nazarene College in Wollaston, Mass.
The morning session will center around a panel discussion on "Strikes or Sanctions". The afternoon session

(Continued on page 7)

'How To End The Draft' Doesn't Criticize Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the title — "How to End the Draft: The Case for an All Volunteer Army"—the book contains nothing critical of the Selective Service System says one of the five congressional co-authors.

"Selective Service is vital to the country and should be retained," Rep. Robert T. Stafford, R-Vt., said in an interview.

"We do believe, however," Stafford said, "that the essence of democracy is to have a volunteer army and not one partly conscripted."

The draft would be needed only in periods of national crisis, he said.

The book, which Stafford, a member of the Armed Services Committee, wrote with four other GOP representatives, contains 31 recommendations for making the military a well-paid, volunteer corps.

"If they are followed, the draft call would be reduced to zero in normal times," he said.

The main argument of the book, Stafford said, "is to make service pay commensurate with what a man could make in private industry."

The plan would involve an additional cost of about $4 billion annually, he said.

The lowliest recruit, for example, would get a pay raise of $800 yearly to bring him up to the federal minimum wage, Stafford said.

He pointed to a recent Gallup Poll showing that 80 per cent of the nation favors a well-paid, volunteer army.

MAN'S ABILITY TO LIVE WITH MAN:

"THE JEWS . . . FROM THE VERY BEGINNING CONCEIVED THEIR HISTORIC MISSION TO BE SANCTIFICATION NOT ONLY OF MAN'S INDIVIDUAL LIFE, BUT ALSO OF HIS SOCIAL LIFE."

All of the above is relevant to those employed in the Jewish Community Center/YM - YWHA field.

If you're a Soph, Junior or Senior and would like information about jobs, careers and graduate social work scholarships. . .

CONTACT THE U. OF M. PLACEMENT & FINANCIAL AID SERVICES FOR AN APPOINTMENT with
Henry B. Stern
NATIONAL JEWISH WELFARE BOARD
(national association of Jewish Community Centers & YM- YWHAs)

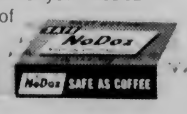
College Relations Director
c/o Sheraton-Park Hotel, Washington, D.C. 20008

Please send me a Sheraton Student I.D. so I can save up to 20% on Sheraton rooms.

Name_____
Address_____

Reservations with the special low rate are confirmed in advance (based on availability) for Fri., Sat., Sun. nights, plus Thanksgiving (Nov. 22-26), Christmas (Dec. 15-Jan. 1) and July through Labor Day! Many Sheraton Hotels and Motor Inns offer student rates during other periods subject to availability at time of check-in and may be requested.

Sheraton Hotels & Motor Inns
155 Sheraton Hotels & Motor Inns in Major Cities



Guess who forgot his NoDoz®

As Rip Van Winkle failed to learn, there's a time and a place for sleeping. If you find yourself nodding off at the wrong time or in the wrong place, reach for your NoDoz. (You do carry some with you at all times, don't you?) A couple of NoDoz and you're with it again. And NoDoz is non habit-forming.

NoDoz. When you can't be caught napping.

THE ONE TO TAKE WHEN YOU HAVE TO STAY ALERT.

MDC CLASSIFIED

PERSONAL

Resumes reports, & manuscripts beautifully typed with IBM ribbon type. Call Amherst Secretarial Service, 253-7717.

WANTED

Females — to write lonely G. I. in Vietnam. Sgt. Gary A. Blair AF11447466, 1880th Comm. Sq. (AFCS) APO San Francisco, Calif. 96320

AUTOMOBILE

1966 V.W. 1375.00 excellent condition. 545-2021.

FOR RENT

24 feet Room
Refrigerator, cooking facilities, center of town.
Leader Rooms
159 North Pleasant St.
Apply at Bowling Alley.
$15 a week

APARTMENT FOR RENT

- Married Graduate Students preferred
- Fully furnished
- New Washer-Dryer Appliances
- 2 Bedrooms
- 1½ miles for campus in North Amherst
- $160 month
- Call 549-1519
- Move in Thanksgiving holidays

HELP WANTED

R.N. 11:00-7:00 2 nights
R.N. 3:00-11:00 2 days
If interested, call 253-7557.

FOR SALE

Royal Ultronic Typewriter 1 year-old $135. Call 253-7717.

York "Olympic" weights 310 lbs pressing bench and other accessories $100. Russell Mundy, 44 Kellogg St., Amherst, 253-7919

Bogel B61 Turntable Sherwood S5000, 2 amplifier, Sherwood S3000 4 FM stereo tuner, 2 8 inch coaxal speakers. Perfect condition $275, 253-2492, 5-7 p.m.

Sohler Spyder Bluebird Competition skis—Nevada Toes, marker heels. A Thongs cost $215 new now $100. Won Western New England Downhill Championship last year. Call 6-7567.

12 Colors of dry cleanable suede
24 Colors of dry cleanable leather
All stain - resistant, water repellent, crack-proof treated.
Buy now to easily sew for Christmas
2 hides for skirt
1 hide for vest
3 hides for skirt or shirt
$8.50 per hide
Call "Fleur-de-Lis", 549-1519

Three Committees Control Senate Money

Dial the MDC's Hot Sportline 5-0344

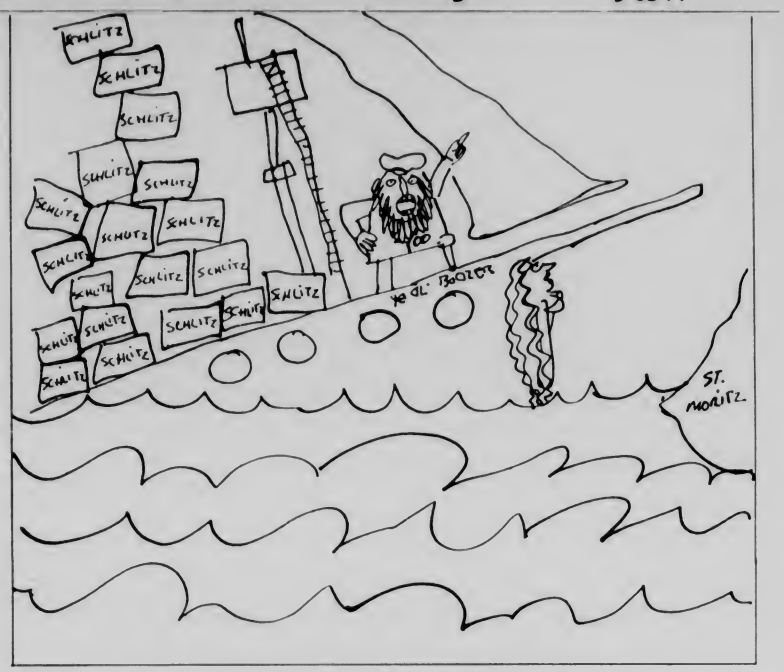
Finances are big business in any organization. The student Senate is no exception. In the Senate the money is controlled by Budgets, Finance and Ways and Means.

Budgets makes recommendations and reviews proposed budgets for the coming year. Obtaining a budget is the first step for any Senate supported organization.

In the last year the major accomplishment of Budgets has been the increased budget for the campus radio station WMUA which enabled them to expand services to the college community. Budgets also advocated support of the Crew Team when it became evident they would not receive support from any other source.

Finance hears further requests from budgeted R.S.O. groups for funds. Non-budgeted R.S.O. organizations may also petition for emergency funds or for money for the present fiscal year.

The Senate Finance Committee has been primarily responsible for the Daily Collegian receiving permission to purchase and operate a motor vehicle.



The Ways and Means Committee oversees the spending of funds by R.S.O. organizations Ways and Means sees that binding clauses and other financial restrictions are conformed to by Senate sponsored groups. It is also their duty to make recommendations on future policies regarding Senate funds.

These three committees act as recommending boards for the Student Senate. Any undergraduate of the university is eligible to serve on them. Any member can make recommendations on any matter before them. Any one interested in serving on these committees should contact Brad Johnson (Budgets), Jim Moran (Finance) and Tim Roche (Ways and Means.)

Prof. Wright to Speak at Smith

Arthur Frederick Wright, Charles Seymour Professor of History at Yale University, will speak in Wright Hall, Smith College November 28 at 8 p.m. His lecture, "Chinese Leadership: Traditional and Modern," is being sponsored by the Student Lecture Committee, and it is open to the public.

Among the books written by Mr. Wright are "Buddhism in Chinese History" (1959), "Confucianism in Action' (1959).

The beer-runner wouldn't call "quits"
When his ship floundered off St. Moritz;
He cried, "Sink if we must,
It seems only just
That the captain go down with his Schlitz."

Schlitz

© 1967 Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co., Milwaukee and other cities.

No Class Tomorrow??
TONITE
Mahar Aud. – 8:00
ZULU
Under the Yum Yum Tree
ADMISSION: 50¢ a person

Juniors, Take a Trip
Washington, D. C.

INTERSESSION, JAN. 16 - 19, 4 DAYS, 3 NIGHTS

We will be staying at the plushest hotel
in the district at group rates, the HOTEL AMERICA
(indoor pool heated at 80 degrees–mmm)

TOTAL COST (everything but meals) $35.00

Deposit of $5.00 due Nov. 27 - Dec. 1, Student Union Lobby

Housing for Two Students

The priorities employed by the University in Renting University-owned apartments are geared more to heirarchy than to the real need of the individual. Faculty members topping the priority list are often those who could better afford to rent or buy elsewhere.

Married graduate students coming next on the list, though having a greater need than do the faculty members, can better afford housing elsewhere than the married undergraduate student.

Of about 150 total apartment units in Lincoln and University Apartments, approximately half are occupied by faculty members and half by married graduate students with only two units occupied by married undergraduate students.

About 500 to 600 married undergraduate students are involved in this situation. According to Housing Office statistics there has been a steady 5% married undergraduate population for the last several years out of the total undergraduate enrollment.

As a result of this priority system the students who can least afford it are forced to look elsewhere for low rent housing which most find nonexistent outside of the University.

We are by no means hinting that a mere priority change would solve the entire housing problem; only the building of additional low rent units could possibly bring to an end the entire crisis.

At present there are individuals in the University and the town, who are very much concerned over the housing problem and who are attempting to establish new programs to alleviate the situation. Unfortunately, these programs require months of planning and years of actual construction.

We feel that something must and can be done now. A new approach reviewing each application on the basis of need alone would go a long way in getting things off the ground and into action for the present.

We further recommend that an entirely new system be adopted so that first priority is given to married undergraduate students, second priority to married graduate students, and third priority to faculty.

— Keith Bromery, Editorial Staff
Pat Petow, Editorial Chairman

Gym

Recently the Faculty Senate was requested by the Board of Admissions and Records to review the merits of the present physical education graduation requirement, with special attention to the effect of the physical education requirement on older students. However, the proposal was defeated in the Faculty Senate by a vote of 25-24.

This is significant for the closeness of the vote indicates that there is a considerable opinion within the Faculty Senate in favor of considering the redefinition of the P.E. requirement. But it is even more significant that the Faculty Senate abdicated its collective responsibility to us by refusing the attempt to probe the reasoning behind the requirement.

At first, this writer considered the Faculty Senate's avoidance of duty quite reprehensible. But I can understand the reason. It seems that the Faculty Senate is part of the administrative structure of the University, and as such it (along with the rest of the hierarchy) delights in regressive use of "in loco parentis".

They apparently feel it their duty to oversee us even to the extent of the welfare of our bodies. To any who object to their dicta, they reply that P.E. is good for everyone because it keeps one in condition.

Whether or not the P. E. program helps us to stay in shape is totally irrelevant. The bone of contention here is whether or not a public university should hold the passing of 4 semesters of P.E. and the demonstration of the ability to swim as necessary for graduation.

It is not the University's function to look after the physical conditioning of its students. The University's sole responsibility should be to provide the facilities and teachers conducive to the attainment of individual stability, intellectual identity, and cultural commitment. If it exceeds these guidelines, it is exceeding its responsibility.

I am not against the idea of personal fitness. Neither am I opposed to the athletic establishment of this University. But I do take strong exception to wasting several hours a week, time which could better be used for academic or personal matters, because of administrative adherence to "in loco parentis".

It is necessary to draw a line of demarcation between the individual's right to use his free, i.e., nonacademic, time as he wishes and the administration's still-present collective desire to force him to exercise his body with some of it.

All students, instead of having physical education force-fed, should instead be free to use the athletic facilities anytime as their schedule and inclination dictates.

We can only hope that the Faculty Senate will stop confusing the emotional need to act as "in loco parentis" with the sound and objective judgment needed to effect long-overdue reforms in the physicial education requirement.

— Kent William Barclay
Editorial Staff

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union . . . University of Massachusetts . . . Amherst, Mass.

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Chester S. Weinerman '68
MANAGING EDITOR ..... John H. Dean, Jr. '69
BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Charles Smith '69
MONDAY NEWS STAFF: Jan Curley, Day Editor; Peter Pascarelli, Sports Day Editor

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the Daily Collegian publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amended by the act of June 11, 1943. Printed by Hamilton I. Newell, Inc., University Drive, Amherst. Subscription: $6.00 per year, $3.50 per semester.

Offices of the Daily Collegian are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

"I hear four hundred thousand head are being recalled. . . defective horns!"

Academic Reform I — Philip Lerner

At UMass

The following is the first of a series of interviews relating to core curriculum and number of courses per semester.

The questions below on the two issues were asked of William Venman, Assistant to the Provost.

Question: Why do we have a 5-course load system and what advantage does it have over a 4-course system (with 4 credits per course) ?

Answer: "I hold no brief for either system. I don't think there's that much value in one over the other to make a switch." There are a number of professional schools here that find it easier to get in subject matter in the 5-course system. It would be more feasible for Arts and Sciences to make a switch. But there has been no concerted move on the part of the faculty to change to 4-courses —which is why we have not changed.

Question: Don't you think the core curriculum needs reform and could you indicate when this reform might take place ?

Answer: Our present core curriculum (requirements) is over 10 years old and is "a scattering of courses with tenuous thread". It is not possible to indicate when revisions might be made until after the report of the Coke Committee of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Our core curriculum might be explained in the manner that Harvard College was once described: Harvard it was said consists of 57 autonomous departments strung together by a common heating system.

In my opinion, there is little chance of the plan at UMass-Boston being implemented here. According to that system, students take 4 courses in their first two years and 5 in the last two.

"But a study of academics and requirements is beneficial because it asks us to look deeply into the educational process and to do our best to be responsive to the new and growing needs of education. It makes everyone think about why we are here."

(No. II in this series will be an interview with George Mair, Assistant President of Smith College. Dr. Mair was one of the people most responsible for the implementation of core requirement reform and a four-course load.)

Campus Comment

University College Committee

To the editor:

The University College Committee has published its report. Instead of being a radical new approach to education, it reads more like the policy booklet for the present University. Very few innovative approaches are suggested.

Not one student sat on this committee as a full-fledged voting member. A student delegation should have been present at every meeting of the committee actively participating in the debate and decisions on the ultimate contents of this report. Instead, there was only a "student consultative committee" existing on the periphery, working alone, with the sole charge of soliciting campus opinion.

Perhaps it was because the committee felt that "there is little evidence to indicate that University of Massachusetts students are basically dissatisfied with their curricular or extracurricular experiences during their four years as undergraduates" (p. 61 of the report). One wonders how the committee arrived at such an opinion.

I have yet to discuss education as presented on this campus with any fellow students without hearing some note of dissatisfaction.

It is not too late to alter the report. By expressing our grievances with the present system, presenting our ideas for a genuinely new, more meaningful approach to education and demanding future representation on any University College Committee, we can exert influence.

Roslyn Diamond

Directories

To the editor:

Eighty-five cents for a student directory ? Six years ago they cost thirty-five cents, and I thought that was too high; student directories ought to be available without cost to all students. I would be willing to venture a guess that the initial cost of these directories is slight — and quite probably absorbed by the University.

Ann B. Hahn 'NC

Researchers Develop New Learning Concept

WASHINGTON (AP) — Researchers have come up with a new concept of learning which federal officials are convinced has the potential for revolutionizing the nation's educational system in the years ahead.

It's called Individually Prescribed Instruction (IPI). It means that each student works mostly on his own with materials specially suited for him.

Dr. Richard L. Bright, director of research for the U.S. Office of Education, calls it the greatest educational breakthrough of recent times. The claims he makes for IPI explain why federal officals are so sold on it. Here are some:

—Youngsters of all ability levels would learn more. And they would enjoy school far more, thus reducing discipline problems.

—There would be no need for compensatory education for deprived children, on which the federal government now is spending $1 billion of its $4 billion annual education budget.

—The dropout problem would largely be licked.

—Teachers would cease being mere dispensers of information and would be free to tutor students individually and encourage youngsters to think and to express themselves.

—Parents could take children out of school for vacations any time during the year without disrupting their learning process.

Although it sounds like something for the distant future, Bright predicts that IPI will be ready for partial use throughout the country in two or three years.

Within 25 years, says Secretary John W. Gardner of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, "virtually all instruction in the schools will be individualized instruction."

The U.S. commissioner of education, Harold Howe II, says research on IPI holds "the promise that a truly individualized education will soon be possible for each child."

So far, the system has undergone thorough trials in only one school: Oakleaf Elementary in the Baldwin-Whitehall suburb of Pittsburgh, where it has been in use three years. Five more schools adopted the system last year and 21 took it on this fall.

Now, about 1,000 systems around the country are asking that the system be set up in their schools.

"Our problem right now is to turn people off on the idea," says Dr. James W. Becker, director of the U.S. Office of Education's regional education laboratory in Philadelphia, which helps the schools adopting IPI.

Becker explains that the system, developed mainly by University of Pittsburgh researchers with federal help, needs more refinement before it is ready for general use. But he said in a telephone interview that laboratory officials may help another 100 schools enter the program next year.

The main limitation now is the instructional materials, said Becker, which are mainly in booklet form.

IPI requires vast quantities of materials for teachers to draw upon to fulfill the various learning needs of individual students. Teachers find out what the students need through constant testing: Placement tests, pre-tests, tests imbedded in the materials, and post-tests.

The materials, costly and difficult to develop, use a technique called programming. This involves presentation of a small amount of information to the student and then requiring him to make a response. It's devised so the student almost always gives the right response—and is told so immediately.

Cadets View Saturn Launch

Seven UMass Air Force ROTC Cadets were on hand at Cape Kennedy to witness the first launch of the Saturn rocket Nov. 9.

The cadets, Ronald Andreas, Thomas Paradis, Judd Ostrom, William Haiainen, Ernest Jennings, Robert Ryan, Michael Paysan and Michael Starsiak boarded an Air Force transport at Westover AFB Nov. 8 along with cadets from Trinity and UConn for the trip.

The launch was observed from Cocoa Beach, about seven miles across the bay from the firing pad.

After the launch, the cadets were conducted on a tour of the facilities on Cape Kennedy. The Saturn launch pad was inspected along with the rocket assembly building and the control blockhouse.

Valley Peace Center Moves Into Permanent Facilities

The Valley Peace Center has opened permanent facilities in Amherst at 203 North Pleasant St.

Volunteers and staff will man the office from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The building has been painted and cleaned up. Furnishings are being supplied by donations of used or discarded items.

The Peace Center shares its new home with the Valley Center. Both groups wish to make space available for any group that needs rooms for meeting or social gatherings.

The Valley Peace Center has initiated a counseling and information program on military service and the draft.

Persons interested in this service will be able to arrange an individual meeting with a counselor at the Peace Center. Trained counselors will be available in the afternoons and evenings. Some persons may be referred to counselors at their respective offices and homes.

This service is available to anyone concerned about the Selective Service system. Counselors have met with men and women who have had previous experience with draft counseling and have studied laws and cases pertaining to this problem.

There is a wide range of sentiments expressed by the people working in this program, both on the selective service system and on the present military conflicts in the world. Anyone making inquiries will be referred to the most appropriate counselor.

The Valley Peace Center is also sponsoring a clothing collection for Vietnamese children.

This drive is being made in response to a letter printed in the Dear Abbey column from Sgt. Bill Thompson, a soldier in Vietnam. He said that what he wanted most for Christmas was clothing for these homeless victims of the war.

Collection points will be maintained at the Amherst Peace Center, and in Northampton at the Fauxpas. Clothing may be dropped off between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. Anyone who would like to have their contribution picked up may arrange this by calling 256-6616.

Panhellenic Council to Sell UNICEF Cards for Christmas

By JOAN FITZGERALD
Staff Reporter

The festive season really belongs to the children, it is their time of year. But for two-thirds of the world's children who live in developing countries, there is no festive season.

The whole year is the same—not enough to eat, no medical attention, no schools. The United Nations Childrens Fund is working to bring all these necessities and a little joy into the lives of these children.

UNICEF, Christmas cards and engagement calendars will be sold by Panhellenic Council in the lobby of the Student Union today through Friday between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Proceeds from the sale will be donated to the United Nations Children's Fund which received the Nobel Peace Prize in 1965. The organization helps plan programs designed to meet the needs of children in 120 countries.

The designs are the creations of 20 of the world's leading artist. Each card reads "Merry Christmas" in four different languages.

MILLER . . .

(Continued from page 8)

erywhere: "Oh, my god. Those penalties. There's nothing worse than a penalty. That first-and-15 situation after a penalty. And we've done it so much this year."

Someone asked him about the Redmen. "They've been a helluva team," he said, leaning back in his chair. "But you know, there's the difference in schedules. You play some teams and you get geared to their type of play."

So UMass was knocked off its "Beyond-the-Beanpot" image of itself and became perhaps the only college team in the country to win its league championship while losing the two most important games of its season.

Smoke Signals — At least two observers thought the key to BC's win was the rush on Landry. "The defense did a great job of rushing the passer," said Brendan McCarthy. "And the offense maintained the ball much of the time. Unfortunately, we missed a couple of good scoring opportunities." He said that although BC only last year returned to competition with U-Mass, the rivalry is almost as intense as that between BC and Holy Cross... Joe DiVito agreed that the defensive rush on Landry was a big factor because Landry "had to carry the whole team on his back, and although they couldn't score, he was moving the club." The win "wasn't as easy as it looked, but we just started to jell today."

Peace Corps To Assist Volunteers To Seek Draft Deferments Overseas

WASHINGTON — The Peace Corps announced it will intervene on behalf of Volunteers seeking draft deferments for two years of overseas service.

Agency Director Jack Vaughn, concerned by mounting induction calls to volunteers serving overseas, said he will take an "active role" in seeking future deferment cases before the Presidential Appeal Board—the court of last resort for draft reclassifications.

In the past the agency performed a largely informational function—advising Volunteers and trainees of Selective Service laws and procedures and confirming to local boards the fact of the Volunteer's service.

In future appeals, Vaughn will write letters to the board describing the circumstances in each case and urging board members to grant a deferment until completion of the Volunteer's overseas tour.

"We have a serious situation," he said. "The problem of induction notices to overseas Volunteers is becoming a major concern for us. Pulling a Volunteer off a productive job at mid-tour is unfair to the nation, the host country, the Peace Corps and the individual."

Vaughn said Peace Corps Volunteers have lost about 60 deferment appeals before the three-man board in the last six and one-half years. While adverse rulings by the national board have involved less than one-half of one per cent of the estimated 15,000 draft-eligible men to have served in the Peace Corps, "virtually all of these have occured in the past year," he said.

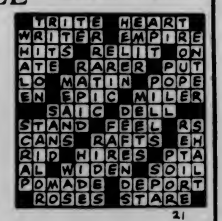
The vast majority of Peace Corps Volunteers are granted deferments for two years of overseas duty because their service is deemed by their local boards to be "in the national interest," as recommended by Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, the draft director.

However, some local Selective Service boards refuse deferments even though Peace Corps service does not relieve Volunteers of their draft obligations. If the local board is upheld by the State Appeal Board, the case may reach the Presidential Appeal Board which makes the final decision.

The appeal process often takes months to be resolved and the Peace Corps frequently sends Volunteers to their overseas sites while their appeals for deferment are pending.

Vaughn said, "So long as the chances for deferment are good this system makes sense, but as more and more Volunteers lose their appeals we may have to reconsider the process and keep them, a wasting asset, in the United States until their cases are resolved."

He also said induction calls for Volunteers overseas "disrupts the continuity of carefully planned projects by host country governments who also have invested a large amount of time and money in the program."



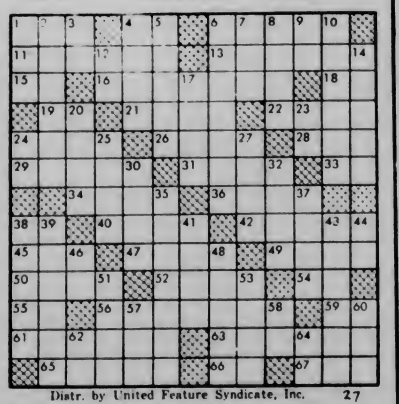
Vaughn also noted that in a number of cases, host country governments have been unable to replace drafted Volunteer teachers.

S.E.N.D.O.F.F.
Count Down
5 Days

BATTLE OF UMASS BANDS
DECEMBER 15th
Applications in R.S.O. Office
Deadline Dec. 5

CROSSWORD PUZZILE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle



ACROSS

1-Simian
4-Preposition
6-Swift
11-Doctrine
13-Kite
15-Printer's measure
16-Explained
18-Symbol for tantalum
19-Symbol for cerium
21-Partner
22-Stalk
24-Suits
26-Unchaste
28-Anger
29-By oneself
31-Harvest
33-Steamship (abbr.)
34-Memorandum
36-Delineate
38-Preposition
40-Part of room
42-Snares
45-Preposition
47-Part of foot
49-Woody plant
50-Liberate
52-British prison
54-Note of scale
55-For example (abbr.)
56-Roomer
59-Postscript (abbr.)
61-Fame
63-Empower
65-Belief
66-Saint (abbr.)
67-Without end (poet.)

DOWN

1-Man's nickname
2-Writing implement
3-Spanish article
4-Abound
5-Refuse
6-Renovated
7-Beverage
8-Cushions
9-Preposition
10-Hinders
12-Cyprinoid fish
14-Domesticates
17-Roman road
20-Short jacket
23-Note of scale
24-Note of scale
25-Winter precipitation
27-Arrow
30-Greenland settlement
32-Separate
35-Fastidiously tasteful
37-Section of hospital
38-Present
39-Neglect
41-Shakespearian king
43-Persons
44-Compass point
46-Note of scale
48-Mine veins
51-Black
53-Period of fasting
57-Be in debt
58-Sun god
60-Weight of India
62-Compass point
64-Exist

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 27

UMass Fashion, Design Students Create Amherst Window Displays

Five Amherst store windows took on a new look when UMass home economics students tried their hand in display design.

The pilot project was part of a seminar in creative display, taught by Herbert Paston, assistant professor in the UMass School of Home Economics. It gave students majoring in fashion merchandising and interior design an opportunity to put classroom work into practice.

The girls in the Home Economics Department got a taste of practical experience when they arranged exhibits in Amherst store windows. Catherine Crow, coordinator of the fashion merchandising program, shows Lois Chooljia, Kathryn Delibro and Joyce Rauseo how to set up a display in a store window.

Proprietors of five Amherst stores volunteered their windows for four weekly displays, Paston said, and students submitted a sketch of their plans before constructing displays.

"The emphasis was on originality," Paston said. "I encouraged individual initiative in making props rather than having students use commercial manikins. The results were quite interesting."

Stores involved in the project were Ann August, Brown's, The Cricket Shop, Pied Piper and Thompson's.

The class begins an eight-week internship shortly in department stores and merchandising concerns in metropolitan areas including Boston and New York. "This is when the classroom work really gets up to the test," Paston said. "The students work in their specialized field before graduating—similar to students practice teaching."

Some 40 men and women took part in the UMass program that began with basic art and design training in September. The students were taught the fundamentals of design and its application to window displays.

The second step in the program was practice. Students set up dummy displays during class before they tackled their first store windows.

Paston plans to expand the program next fall to include a larger variety of stores and more students. "We also hope to have the owners come into the classroom," Paston said, "to explain their ideas on window displays.

Herbert Paston, assistant professor in the School of Home Economics, shows Elise Lauziere and Bonnie Cooper how to select hats for a display in an Amherst store.

Wilson Seen Pressured by Left Wing

LONDON (AP) — Vain right-wing moves to replace Harold Wilson with James Callaghan as prime minister find Britain's leader indebted Sunday to his leftist followers.

Informed politicians forecast that consequently Wilson was likely to meet fresh pressure to inject more socialism into his policies. Among key left-wing demands:

- A stiffer attitude toward the U.S. position in Vietnam.
- A more substantial cutback of the nation's defense program than any so far. This would include cuts in Britain's nuclear-weapons program and in orders for 50 American F111 swing-wing strike bombers.

But there was no sign Wilson would be prepared to yield as a means of insuring his leadership.

Equally, some of Wilson's opponents believe his position could quickly crumble if left-of-center Labor lawmakers—a third of the parliamentary party—turn their backs on him.

ART EXHIBIT

Greenfield Community College is sponsoring an exhibit of Joan Hopkins paintings in the auditorium which will last until Friday. The exhibit is open to the public. Miss Hopkins is an instructor of Design at UMass.

He: Hortense . . . they're playing our song!

She: Yes, Edgar, it brings back those wonderful days when we first met in the lobby of the Sheraton-Atlantic Hotel . . . seven years ago.

He: Seven wonderful years . . . and every college vacation since then we've been coming back to New York and the Sheraton-Atlantic. For Thanksgiving, Christmas, Mid-years, Spring vacations . . .

She: And the Sheraton-Atlantic has such convenience to theatres, museums, libraries, Lincoln Center, Fifth Avenue shops, and with such swinging restaurants right in the Hotel and dancing nightly and such low prices . . . no wonder we students always make out best at the Sheraton-Atlantic.

He: You were always such a romantic, darling.

STUDENT-FACULTY RATES*

Single	$11.00 per person
Twin	7.50 per person
Triple	6.00 per person
Quad	5.25 per person

For reservations contact your Sheraton Student Representative or in Springfield dial (413) 734-3141 for immediate confirmation of student rates.

*Student-Faculty rates apply weekends and school vacation periods, subject to availability. (Not offered March 16, 17, 1968.)

SHERATON -ATLANTIC HOTEL Broadway and 34th St., N. Y., N.Y. 10001 (212) PE 6-5700
Ralph Hitz Jr., V. P. & Gen. Mgr.

The Souper Dress.

Now's your chance to get the one, the only Souper Dress ...a smashing paper put-on that could only come from Campbell.

It's red, white and bright all over with eye-poppin' Campbell cans coming and going. To get your Campbell Paper Dress, send $1.00 and your size (the Souper Dress comes Small/5-8, Medium/9-12, or Large/13-16) with your name and address (remember your zip code!) to Dress Offer, Box 615, Maple Plain, Minn. 55359. Offer expires March 31, 1968. Good only in the United States and Puerto Rico.

Campbell's Souper Dress. On you it'll look M'm! M'm! Good!

We employ some 14,000 engineers, scientists, mathematicians. Know about us?

Is our name familiar? Probably not. Few college men and women realize the enormous range of fine career opportunities available through our central recruitment offices. Or the advantages of civilian employment with the Department of the Army.

In no other work is the "need to achieve" greater — nor more strongly backed with top personnel, funds and facilities. It would be hard to name a specialization you could not pursue in depth at one of 30 installations across the country, or elsewhere . . . even around the world.

Excellent salaries, advancement, superior Civil Service benefits, choice working conditions and atmosphere. Simplify career-hunting! Request "Creative Careers," an eye-popping booklet . . . and/or send your resume.

Campus Interviews
December 7
Contact your Placement Office
For Interview Appointment

U.S. Army Materiel Command
Technical Placement Office
Suite 1322, 1015 Chestnut Street
Philadelphia, Penna. 19107

An Equal Opportunity Employer, M & F

Dining Commons Menu

MONDAY

BREAKFAST
Pineapple Juice
Grapefruit Sections
Oatmeal
Cold Cereals
Fried Eggs
Marmalade Coffee Cake
LUNCH
Chicken Vegetable Soup
Spaghetti—Meat Sauce
Green Beans
Fruit Salad Plate
French Bread
Cottage Cheese
Potato Chips
Tossed Salad
Jellied Applesauce
Plum-Apricot Salad
Maple Walnut Cake
DINNER
Roast Turkey—Gravy—Dressing
Cranberry Sauce
Baked Ham—Cherry Fruit Sauce
Whipped Potato
Broccoli
Pineapple Salad
Cottage Cheese
Tomato Salad
Lemon Sponge Pudding
Peanut Butter Cookies

TUESDAY

BREAKFAST
Grapefruit Juice
Grapes
Farina
Cold Cereals
Omelet
Blueberry Muffins
LUNCH
Corn Chowder
P.L.T. Sandwich
Potato Chips
Swedish Meatballs
Buttered Rice
Sliced Carrots
Combination Fruit Salad
Cottage Cheese
Lettuce Wedge
Strawberry Shortcake
DINNER
Pot Roast—Gravy
Pork Chops—Scalloped Apples
Parsley Potato
Buttered Beets
Grapefruit-Orange Salad
Jellied Cole Slaw
Cucumber-Radish Salad
Chocolate Cream Pie

WEDNESDAY

BREAKFAST
Grape Juice
Oranges
Pettijohn
Cold Cereals
French Toast/Syrup
LUNCH
Scotch Broth
Hamburger—Roll
French Fried Potatoes
Sliced Bermuda Onion
Egg Salad Plate
American Cheese
Potato Chips
Tomato Salad
Jellied Grapefruit Salad
Pineapple Salad
Orange Cake
DINNER
Fried Shrimp—Hot Sauce
Cube Steak
Whipped Potato
Wax Beans
Waldorf Salad
Cottage Cheese
Green Salad
Baked Custard
Ginger Cookies

THURSDAY

BREAKFAST
Orange Juice
Purple Plums
Maltex
Scrambled Eggs
Doughnuts
LUNCH
Garden Vegetable Soup
Frankfurts—Rolls
Potato Chips
Beef Turnover—Gravy
Buttered Peas
Pear-Plum Salad
Cottage Cheese
Cucumber-Radish Salad
Congo Bars
DINNER
Roast Veal—Gravy
English Brown Potatoes
W. K. Corn
Ham-Cheese-Egg Plate
Potato Chips
Garden Salad
Jellied Fruit Cocktail
Apricot Salad
Apple Pie

FRIDAY

BREAKFAST
Apple Juice
Grapefruit Half
Oatmeal
Cold Cereals
Fried Eggs
Hot Biscuits
LUNCH
N.E. Clam Chowder
Fish Fry Plate
Scallops
Fish Square
Fr. Fr. Potatoes
Ravioli
Green Beans
Cole Slaw
Jellied Blueberry Salad
Combination Fruit Salad
Marble Cake
DINNER
Baked Swordfish—Lemon Slice
Meatloaf—Mushroom Gravy
O'Brien Potatoes
Buttered Lima Beans
Peach Salad
Cottage Cheese
Tomato Salad
Butterscotch Cream Pie

SATURDAY

BREAKFAST
Orange-Grapefruit Juice
Bananas
Farina
Cold Cereals
Pancakes/Syrup
LUNCH
Beef Barley Soup
Hot Meat Sandwich—Gravy
French Fried Potatoes
Chicken Noodle Casserole
Buttered Peas
Pineapple Salad
Cucumber-Carrot Salad
Cottage Cheese
Peach Cobbler
DINNER
Stuffed Cabbage Roll
Country Steak
Potato Chunks
Sliced Carrots
Green Salad
Jellied Sunshine Salad
Grapefruit Salad
Brownies

NOTICES

(Continued from page 2)

will feature Dr. Gertrude L. Wyatt speaking on "Preparing to work with Disadvantaged Youths".

Also included on the agenda will be elections for president and vice president of the 1968-69 school year. All persons interested in attending should contact Mike Glickman (546-7646), Jeff Wood (546-7650), Jean Tranbolme (549-1219) or Theo Snyder (546-8480). The Education Club has funds to cover the cost of transportation and meals.

LOST:
Scarab bracelet at Sat. nite dance near. Please contact Donna, 6-7460. Reward.

Gold initial ring with the letters S.S. on it. Believed lost in Southwest between T-4 and T-5. If found, please contact Stuart Schneiderman, 1312 Washington, 6-9104.

FOUND:
GM key on broken chain between Whitemore and Southwest in the parking lot. Call 546-8364.

PINNINGS
Lariee V. Capps '68, Patterson House to Frank Pantaleo '69, Maxey Brotherhood, Univ. South Carolina.

Diana Haucke, Sunderland to Jim Clapprood '68, Lambda Chi Alpha.

Pamela Buzard, Buffalo, New York to Allan Seibert '69, Lambda Chi Alpha.

Linda Spencer '69, Crampton to Ken Branco, TEP.

Lea Mabie '69, Crampton to Gary Bianchi '69, TEP.

Terry McDonough '69, Crampton to Jeff Black '70, Greenough.

Margie Tucker '69, Van Meter to Thom Arison '68, APO.

Lucille Oberlander '70, SDT to Hagan Anderson '68, TEP.

ENGAGEMENT
Anne Ingram '68, Chi Omega, UNH to Tim Porter '69, Kappa Sigma.

Labor Relations Center to Hold Anti-Poverty Training Program

The anti-poverty labor training program of the UMass Labor Relations nd Reserch Center gets down to brass tacks today in Northampton with a week-long session for 150 unionists from all over New England.

The federally financed program, sponsored by the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), was established to promote more union participation in anti-poverty programs.

Two-day workshops have already been held in each of the New England states. These dealt with special poverty projects and programs of each locale. Three additional two-day sessions will be held during the year along with one more full week program.

"We can get all the help we need to send rockets to the moon," William Kemsley, director of the project said, "but dedicated people to help the poor get off welfare are hard to find. We are fortunate to have a fine group of trainees in the program," he said, "with a high level of understanding and concern for the poor. They are anxious to help break the cycle of poverty in their communities."

Highlighting the program will be group sessions with Robert Gidez, director of the New England Regional Commission; Dr. James Carper, director of community action and training consultants, Washington, D.C.; Julius Rothnan, coordinator of the AFL-CIO anti-poverty programs; and Maurice X. F. Donohue of the Department of Welfare.

Norman Hill, assistant director of the A. Philip Randolph Institute, will address the group tonight on "The History and Culture of Poverty."

The 150 labor leaders at the training session will visit slums in the Springfield and Holyoke area Wednesday to study the conditions and needs of the poor. Trainees will also visit various OEO agencies to see what is already being done in poverty areas.

Of the overall program, Mr. Kemsley says, "We hope to broaden trainees' understanding of the needs of the poor. These union leaders are ideally suited to the task of fighting poverty on all fronts."

PRE-LAW STUDENTS
Dean O'Toole from the Northeastern School of Law will discuss the cooperative program of legal education at Northeastern on Tuesday, November 28 at 7:45 p.m. in the Middlesex Room of the Student Union. All pre-law students are urged to attend.

Amherst Winter Parking Restrictions
Beginning December 1, 1967, all-night parking on all town streets and ways will be prohibited in Amherst. Vehicles parked on streets after 2 a.m. will be towed under authorization of Chapter 40 of the General Laws (Section 22D as amended), adopted in 1962. The winter parking ban has been in effect each year since that time to allow more efficient snow-removal operations. This ban remains in force until March 31, 1968.

Engineers, Mathematicians:

you should consider a career with NSA

. . . if you are stimulated by the prospect of undertaking truly significant assignments in your field, working in its most advanced regions.

. . . if you are attracted by the opportunity to contribute directly and importantly to the security of our nation.

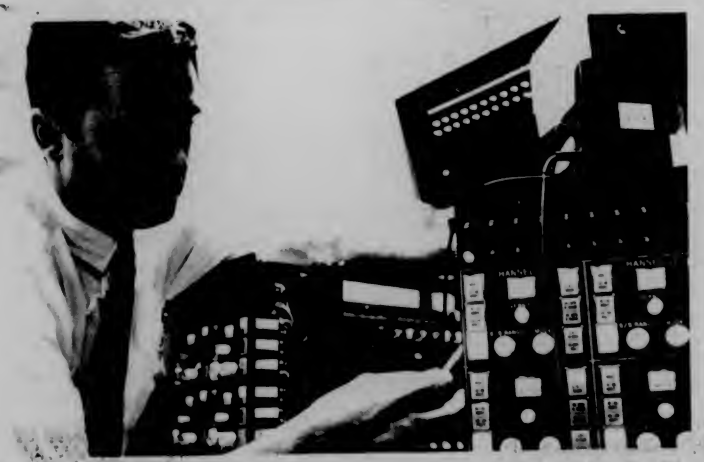
. . . if you want to share optimum facilities and equipment, including one of the world's foremost computer/EDP installations, in your quest for a stimulating and satisfying career.

The National Security Agency is responsible for designing and developing "secure" communications systems and EDP devices to transmit, receive and process vital information. The mission encompasses many aspects of communications, computer (hardware and software) technology, and information recording and storage . . . and provides a wealth of career opportunities to the graduate engineer and mathematician.

ENGINEERS will find work which is performed nowhere else . . . devices and systems are constantly being developed which are in advance of any outside the Agency. As an Agency engineer, you will carry out research, design, development, testing and evaluation of sophisticated, large-scale cryptocommunications and EDP systems. You may also participate in related studies of electromagnetic propagation, upper atmosphere phenomena, and solid state devices using the latest equipment for advanced research within NSA's fully instrumented laboratories.

MATHEMATICIANS define, formulate and solve complex communications-related problems. Statistical mathematics, matrix algebra, and combinatorial analysis are but a few of the tools applied by Agency mathematicians. Opportunities for contributions in computer sciences and theoretical research are also offered.

Continuing your Education?
NSA's graduate study program may permit you to pursue two semesters of full-time graduate study at full salary. Nearly all academic costs are borne by NSA, whose proximity to seven universities is an additional asset.



Salaries and Benefits
Starting salaries, depending on education and experience, range from $8,000 to $13,500, and increases follow as you assume additional responsibility. Policies relating to vacations, insurance and retirement are liberal, and you enjoy the advantages of Federal employment without Civil Service certification.
Another benefit is the NSA location, between Washington and Baltimore, which permits your choice of city, suburban or country living and allows easy access to the Chesapeake Bay, ocean beaches, and other summer and winter recreation areas.

Campus Interview Date:
December 6

Check with the Placement Office now to arrange an interview with NSA representatives on campus. The Placement Office has additional information about NSA, or you may write: Chief, College Relations Branch, National Security Agency, Ft. George G. Meade, Maryland 20755, ATTN: M321. An equal opportunity employer, M&F.

national security agency

. . . where imagination is the essential qualification

B.C. Stuns Redmen, 25-0

Defense and DeVito Key Shutout Win

MONDAY, NOV. 27, 1967
Page 8 Vol. XCVI, No. 52

(Continued from page 1)

Eagle ten after picking up a bad pass from center on a Sherman field goal atempt.

Still another opportunity to get back in the game arose. With fourth and one on the BC 37, Landry ran around left end for the first down. A clipping penalty on the other side of the field, however, forced the Redmen into a punting situation.

Senior halfback Terry Erwin Sparked Boston College's second touchdown march with gallops of seven, nine and eleven yards. McCarthy got credit for the score as he bulled his way in off left tackle from one yard out. Gallivan's conversion made it 16-0.

Steve Parnell took the ensuing kickoff at his own goal line and rocketed down the left sideline behind a wall of blockers all the way to the BC 32. Landry hit Ed Sarno on a flare pass and the sophomore fullback broke two tackles as he moved down to the Eagle 11 for a first down.

Suddenly there was hope. Two minutes remained in the third period and two touchdowns with two point conversions could have salvaged a tie.

Boston College took time out, regrouped its defenses, collared Landry and his receivers, and the ball game was over for all practical purposes.

UMass' tired defenders held the Eagles on downs, but the offense couldn't get rolling.

DeVito's passing brought BC its final score in the fourth quarter as he hit McCarthy and Gallup with accurate tosses. Erwin plunged over for the final touchdown.

A high snap from center to punter Warnock who was standing in the end zone resulted in two more points for the Eagles. The ball went off Warnock's hands and out the end zone for a safety to make the final score 25-0.

In one final attempt to save face, UMass moved to the BC 20 behind Landry and Adams' passing to Carty but a goal line interception by Mike Robertson killed the drive.

As night fall descended, Boston College ahead 25-0, BC went for two bombs. Dave Driscoll intercepted the second one as the clock ran out.

A misty rain fell during most of the game but the field was in good overall condition because it had been covered all week.

The huge Eagle lines were really the determining factor in the contest. Landry was dumped for a loss six times, dropped six times getting off passes, and chased an additional six times around the backfield only to escape for short gains.

UMass couldn't move the ball at all on the ground.

Daily Collegian Photos by Bob Gasciminski

A RAY OF SUNSHINE IN THE FOG—Ed Sarno (31) snares a Greg Landry pass and is pursued down the left sideline by B.C. defenders Larry Daniels (84) and Harry Pierandri (21), in the top photo. In the bottom photo, Sarno is knocked out of bounds by Eagle defensive man Bob Racioppi (35).

Final Statistics In B.C. vs. UMass

	BC	UMass
First downs	19	14
Net yards rushing	198	34
Passes attempted	27	29
Passes completed	11	12
Passes had intercepted	1	1
Net yards passing	161	142
Total offense	351	176
Punts/average	8/36	9/32.8
Penalties	12	5
Yards penalized	129	70
Fumbles/fumbles lost	2/1	4/1

Rutgers, UConn And Dartmouth All Gain Wins

A 34 yard field goal by senior guard Roy Lawrence in the first period held up for the whole game, as Connecticut upset the Crusaders of Holy Cross, 3-0, Saturday at Storrs. The Huskies checked the Holy Cross offense with a fired-up performance that thwarted every scoring thrust by the Crusaders, who were caught looking ahead to their annual classic with Boston College.

Dartmouth clinched second place in the Ivy League with a 17-14 win over Princeton. Kicking specialist, Pete Donovan won the game for the Indians with a 25 yard field goal with just eight seconds remaining in the game.

Rutgers squandered a 24-0 lead and needed a last minute Bruce Van Ness to Bryant Mitchell pass to defeat Colgate 31-28 at New Brunswick. Colgate had gone ahead on the passes of Ron Burton, but Rutgers came back with a 72 yard, four play march that was culminated by Van Ness' third scoring strike.

THE EVIL EAGLE—Boston College captain, Joe DiVito, passed for 161 yards in completing 11 of 24 passes. His air strikes sent the Eagles winging in all their scoring marches, as DiVito had his finest performance in his starry collegiate career.

Miller--'Difference in Schedules'

By TOM FITZGERALD
Sports Editor

CHESTNUT HILL — Someone mixed a drink for the large man who entered the small office with his neat, olive suit and engaging smile and took his seat at the mahogany desk. The face under the gray hair looked wind-burned after the long but fruitful afternoon.

Beleagured BC head coach Jim Miller didn't look beleagured.

While the dozen friendly faces in front of him provided their opinions of the game, he puffed on his cigar between sips on his drink. It's nice having an open bar for your press conferences and its also nice having more than two dozen full scholarships at your disposal each year. After Saturday's game, Vic Fusia probably wished he had either the bar or the scholarships.

Eddie Miller, who has had the unenviable job of disseminating information on BC's 3-6 team this fall, read a statement from Fusia that went something like, "The game was won up front. They were too big and too strong for us. They made few mistakes and gave us few opportunities to capitalize. They really chased Landry down."

"But he was getting away from them," Miller offered. With the Boston press in front of him, he of course chose his words with exceeding care, even in victory. He was trying hard to be a good sport. The fact was that Landry, who in three years has given as big a lift to UMass football as Mary Quant has to fashion, spent enough time running for his life at Alumni Stadium to replace Ben Gazzara on television.

"We've been frustrated playing against some damn good football teams," Miller said. "Just put it in big print: 'it feels great to win'."

His paper cup was refilled. "BC kids got the stuff to stick in there and try to do a good job. That's one of the big things to come from this season." He probably realized the fact that if the Eagles had played all season as they did Saturday their record would be at least 6-3, not 3-6. They would have beaten Buffalo, Cincinnati and VMI.

Miller praised Brendan McCarthy (74 yards in 21 carries for two touchdowns), Terry Erwin (90 yards in 15 carries for one touchdown), Captain Joe DiVito (11 completions in 24 attempts for 161 yards) and Barry Gallup (seven catches for 112 yards). Erwin had averaged 2.4 yards a carry this year, and DiVito had split quarterback duties with Mike Fallon and Joe Marzetti because of injuries and inefficiencies (eight interceptions).

The Eagles "have made it rough against every team," said Miller, forgetting about the Penn State game. "But this was our best defensive performance of the season."

He took time-out from his reverie to intone on one source of displeasure to BC fans ev-

(Continued on page 5)

JIM O'BRIEN

JOE DECICCO

DON ROBINSON

ICEMEN ARE COMING—Redmen hockey begins this week when UMass takes on Vermont on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at Walter Orr Memorial Rink. The rink, located on South Pleasant Street, is on the Amherst College campus at the far south end, next to the Amherst Cage. The Orr Ring serves as the UMass home rink and therefore its location should become more familiar.

Redmen Overlooked (?) In All-American Polls

NEW YORK (AP)—Top-ranked Southern California placed three men Saturday on the 22-man All-Star college football team picked by the football Writers Association.

They are O. J. Simpson, running back; tackle Ron Yary and linebacker Adrian Young. Yary was a repeater and was also awarded the 1967 Outland Trophy as the best interior lineman.

North Carolina State was the only other school to be honored with more than one man. The Wolfpack had Dennis Byrd, an interior lineman, and Fred Combs, a deep back, on the defensive unit.

The offensive backfield consisted of Gary Beban of UCLA, quarterback; Simpson, Leroy Keyes of Purdue and Larry Csonka of Syracuse.

OFFENSE

Ends-flankers—Dennie Homan, Alabama; Kenneth Hebert, Houston.

Interior linemen — Edgar Chandler, Jr., George T., Ron Yary, Southern Calif. T.; Gary Cassells, Indiana C.; Harry Olszewski, Clemson C.; Bob Johnson, Tennessee C.

Backs — Gary Beban, UCLA QB; O. J. Simpson, Southern Calif.; Leroy Keyes, Purdue; Larry Csonka, Syracuse.

DEFENSE

Ends—Ted Hendricks, Miami, Fla.; Bob Stein, Minnesota. Interior linemen — Dennis Byrd, North Carolina State T.; Mike Dirks, Wyoming T.; Granville Liggins, Oklahoma G.; Wayne Meylin, Nebraska G.

Linebackers—Corby Robertson, Texas; Matt Young, USC.

Deep backs—Frank Loria, Virginia Tech; Fred Combs, North Carolina State; Tom Schoen, Notre Dame.

WEATHER
FAIR
AND COLD

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

SMILE—
IT'S COUNSELING
DAY

VOL. XCVI, NO. 53 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1967

Johnson Nominates McNamara For President of World Bank

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara has been nominated by President Johnson to become the next President of the World Bank the Washington Post said Monday night.

The nomination was submitted to the bank's 20 directors at an informal meeting last week, the paper added.

Neither the White House nor the Pentagon would confirm that McNamara is on his way out and would not comment on the report that Texas Gov. John Connally may succeed McNamara in the Defense Department.

If it is approved as expected by the Bank's 106 member nations, McNamara probably will begin his new career early next year, The Post said.

Connally, however, flatly denied the report Monday night, saying, "there is not a word of truth in it," The Post said.

McNamara's departure from the Johnson administration has been rumored for months. According to the Post, a long-time friend of the McNamara family said, "He's been wanting to leave for so long. And he needs it, too. He's dead."

That McNamara has now finally decided to move on was confirmed by sources within the international financial community, the Post reported, adding that one of the World Bank's directors said the nomination was submitted last week by Livingston Merchant, United States representative on the bank board.

Merchant earlier had told The Associated Press that "it is not a matter I can discuss."

"It was submitted," the Post source said, "as the final choice of the United States. Other names had been considered earlier but McNamara was the one decided upon."

Eugene R. Black, a former World Bank president, commented: "I think it's a perfectly marvelous appointment and I'm very happy about it."

The first news of the selection —which has been rumored in financial circles since September— was published Monday in the London Financial Times on the basis of information supplied by a World Bank director. McNamara, said the London paper, was chosen over several other possible nominees including David Rockefeller of the Chase Manhattan Bank, David Bell, former administrator of the Agency for International Development, and C. Douglas Dillon, former Secretary of the Treasury.

"The Rule of Law and Survival" will be the topic of Associate Justice William O. Douglas' lecture at the UMass Student Union ballroom Wednesday at 8 p.m. Following graduation from Columbia Law School, Justice Douglas served on the faculty there before joining the staff of the Yale Law School. He was nominated to the posftion of associate justice by President F. D. Roosevelt.

Moss Raps Hershey on Draft Recommendations

"Your response further supports my opinion that you are no longer fit to serve as the director of the Selective Service System." With these words Rep. John E. Moss, head of the House government information sub-committee, answered to Gen. Hershey's defense of his actions.

General Hershey has been persistent in his recommendations to local draft boards that they remove exemptions of students involved in antidraft demonstrations.

Moss also criticized Hershey for refusing to make public the names of local draft board members.

Hershey answered these accusations with the point that all the questions that Moss has raised were "resolved by specific actions of the Congress in the recent extension of the Selective Service induction authority."

But Moss told Hershey that "under the provisions of the 1967 draft act, including those involving interferences with draft operations, should be measured and punished under, and be subject to the criminal procedures and protections of the criminal law, and that neither you nor the local Selective Service boards have any authority to use that draft classification process as a device to punish a person for expressing his views or even violating the law."

Rat Control

BOSTON (AP) — Gov. John A. Volpe has signed a bill to help set up rat control programs in cities and towns.

The bill would allow the Public Health Department to make matching grants to communities which launch rat control programs, subject to appropriations.

WHAT'S-IT

The Collegian WHAT'S-IT contest has officially returned, and anyone can enter. All you have to do is come to the Collegian office and guess what the WHAT'S-IT picture is. Deadline is one week from today at noon. The winner will receive a free 8 x 10 black and white portrait of themselves or anyone that they choose.

Student Senate Seats Open

The Public Relations Committee of the Student Senate has announced that there will be a special election to fill 17 vacant Senate seats on Thursday, Dec. 7.

Nomination papers can be picked up in the R.S.O. office at any time; they are due on Friday, Dec. 1, at 5:30 p.m.

There is one seat vacant in each of the following: J. Adams Lower, J.Q. Adams Middle, Chadbourne, Coolidge Lower, Dickinson, Hamlin, Hills South, and Johnson. There are also two seats open for the fraternities and seven for the commuters.

On Dec. 7, dormitory residents will vote from 6 to 9 p.m. in the dorms; the commuters and fraternities will vote in the Union from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Appearing with the Turtles on Saturday night of S.E.N.D.O.F.F. (Dec. 2) will be the Pilgrims, a well known group hailing from Boston (see story on page 5).

"Mother" Publishes Friday; Separate Sales Area Asked For

By RICHARD S. KLINE
News Editor

The board of editors of Mother of Voices has announced that their second issue went to press yesterday and will go on sale Friday.

The Student Union Governing (SUG) Board, which was supposed to rule on the issue of Mother selling in the Student Union on Monday night, postponed their meeting until Thursday eve. As a result, the question of whether the publication can be sold in the building will not be decided until just before it is scheduled to hit the stands.

The editors of Mother are hoping to get permission from the

(Continued on page 5)

Turkish Demands Accepted by Greece

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—A political leader emerged from a meeting with Premier Suleyman Demirel Monday and said Greece had accepted Turkey's basic demands in the Cyprus crisis. He added that only differences over application of the agreement remain.

Irfan Aksu, chairman of the New Turkey party, and other opposition leaders met with Demirel during a recess in a Cabinet meeting called to discuss the latest Greek proposals. Demirel had called in all opposition leaders to get a national consensus.

Aksu said the Greeks had agreed to the key Turkish demand that Greece withdraw some 12,000 troops Turkey claims are stationed on the Mediterranean island nation in violation of the Zurich agreement setting up the independent Cyprus republic in 1960.

Greece agreed to pay compensation for the 25 Turkish Cypriots killed Nov. 25 in fighting with Greek Cypriot forces at two villages, Aksu added. This battle brought on the latest crisis.

Aksu said the Greeks had withdrawn Gen. George Grivas from Cyprus. The Turks blamed Grivas, a Greek who commands the Cypriot armed forces, for the attack on the villages and demanded his ouster. He has been in Athens since shortly after the crisis erupted.

The latest Greek proposals were brought to Ankara from Athens, by President Johnson's personal envoy, Cyrus R. Vance.

He prepared to return to Athens carrying Turkish answers to the latest Greek proposals.

Vance was completing his third round trip between the two capitals in five sleepless days and nights of mediating.

Informed officials say the disagreements which remain are a matter of face-saving and timing. The substnce of the diplomatic negotiations are being kept secret. However it is believed the remaining issues are:

- Will Greece begin withdrawing the troops on Cyprus first or will Turkey make a gesture to ease its powerful threat to invade Cyprus.
- How long a period will be allowed Greece to withdraw its troops from Cyprus.

Turkey has insisted all along that Greece make the first move.

Draft Affects Grad School Enrollment

How's Your II-S?

Many students at the University are jeopardizing their II-S draft deferments through ignorance of the procedures for reclassification according to University Veterans' Coordinator, George E. Emery.

It is Mr. Emery's job to notify local Draft Boards of the scholastic status, not grades or rank, of each registrant on campus. For him to do this it is necessary for the registrant to fill out a card at the Placement Office. Many students have not done so and as a result have not been reclassified II-S.

The new draft law, enacted July 1, 1967 makes it imperative for any student not in possession of a II-S classification from his board to request such a classification. A simple note or post card addressed to the board will suffice.

This is a step necessary beyond the student's completing the I.B.M. card which serves to verify his presence on campus.

Draft Hits Grads

Three hundred graduate teaching assistants may be "lost" next fall, says Dean Edward C. Moore of the University Graduate School.

A new draft law will severely reduce the number of graduate students serving as teachers and research assistants, he said.

Dean Moore said that ordinarily about 1,200 new students would be admitted in the fall. Of these, he estimated, 300 will not enter as a result of the new law.

Dean Moore said approximately 50% of those admitted ordinarily serve as teaching and research assistants. The predicted result is that some 300 teaching positions designed to serve the undergraduates will be eliminated.

Dr. Moore said this will severely hamper the expansion of many undergraduate courses.

The serious shortage of graduate teaching assistants will cause many professors and instructors to take on additional duties. Dr. Moore said present teachers will have to spend more time at that level and the professors themselves will have less time to do their own research and train undergraduates.

Hershey's Stand Stirs Amherst; President Asked to Ban Recruiters

423 students and 15 professors petition president Plimpton to ban military recruiters here at Amherst.

The statement in the petition said in part, "We feel that a failure to enact this resolution can only be construed as the College's acceptance of the use of the Selective Service System as a means of stifling dissent.

"Although most of us feel that the Amherst campus should be open to all groups under normal conditions, we feel that Hershey's statement makes it imperative that the College define its position as one supporting freedom of expression."

Andrew Nagorski '69, sponsor of the petition stated "After reading about President Plimpton's apparent unwillingness to pass College Council's resolution, I felt that we had to show the strength of campus sentiment against having any recruiters on campus as long as Hershey's statement is not rescinded." He indicated the possibility of direct action.

Workshop Planned

A Draft Counseling Workshop to inform young men and those who work with them how selective service operates, to clarify the 1967 draft act, and to present the alternatives to the draft will be conducted in Amherst this week.

A training session for experienced counselors in Western Massachusetts will precede the student-teacher draft workshop on Dec. 2 at the First Congregational Church of Amherst from 9 a.m. to noon. The new draft laws and special student problems will be discussed. The student-teacher workshop will be conducted from 12:45 to 5 p.m.

"Young men . . . often know little about the selective service," said Mrs. Thomas Crowe, an American Friends Service Committee member and one of the organizers of the workshop. "They need to know how to choose intelligently between the draft and enlistment, or between immediate military service or college."

"The workshop is designed not only for those who seek C.O. status," Mrs. Crowe pointed out, "but for all students wishing to understand the operation of the draft, their rights, and the deferments available to them."

The workshop fee is 50 cents for students and one dollar for adults. Registration may be made in advance by writing to Mrs. Ethel DuBois, R.D. 3, Amherst.

Sponsors are the Hampshire-West Clergy Association, the Valley Peace Center, UMass. Hillel Foundation, UMass United Christian foundation, A.F.S.C., Woman's International League for Peace and Freedom, Greater Springfield Peace Committee, and Mt. Toby Monthly Meeting of Friends.

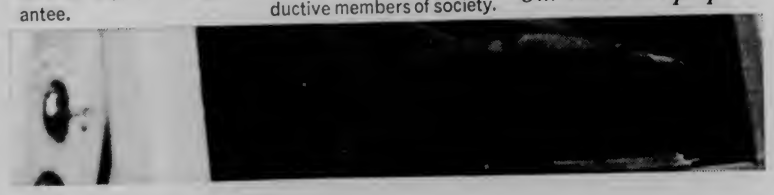
WHY DID ÆTNA AGREE TO BOND EX-CONVICTS IN A PIONEER EXPERIMENT?

Men with prison records generally have been considered poor employment risks. Employers are chary of assuming such a risk without some kind of guarantee. In the past insurance companies have been reluctant to supply that guarantee.

Ætna Life & Casualty decided that at last one insurance company should.

Today, in cooperation with the Federal government and civic leaders, pilot programs are underway in two major cities.

We undertook this revolutionary step of bonding "unbondables" to help people with criminal records to become self-supporting, productive members of society.



We constantly try to act like a good corporate citizen.

Our business may be selling insurance.

But our concern is people.

Ætna LIFE & CASUALTY

Our concern is people

College Drug announces a new exclusive addition to our cosmetic line

Bonne Bell

We Also Carry

FOR WOMEN	FOR MEN
Revlon, Shalimar,	British Sterling,
Faberge, Coty,	Bay Rum,
Dubarry, many more	9 Flags

An equal opportunity employer

Growth
Challenge
Achievement

. . . you'll find them all at

CHICAGO PNEUMATIC

"INTERESTING and REWARDING" . . . these words possibly best describe a career with Chicago Pneumatic. Listed among "Fortune's" 500 largest American corporations, the Company has world-wide manufacturing and sales divisions, a wide diversity of product, and a sound record of progressive policies providing opportunities for young men seeking growth, challenge and a chance to prove themselves.

We are seeking dedicated, down-to-earth ENGINEERS who desire above-average career opportunities in:

- Design & Development Engineering
- Application Engineering
- Field Engineering
- Industrial & Manufacturing Engineering
- Sales Engineering.

Equally rewarding opportunities are available for BUSINESS & MANAGEMENT majors, in:

- Industrial & Manufacturing Engineering
- Technical Sales

Formal and OTJ training programs lasting up to one year prepare for starting work assignments.

Pick up Chicago Pneumatic literature from your Placement Office and sign up for an interview. Our representative will be on campus:

CHICAGO PNEUMATIC TOOL COMPANY, NEW YORK, N.Y. 10017

Air and Gas Compressors • Automotive Service Tools • Diesel Engines Pneumatic, Electric and Hydraulic Tools • Construction and Mining Equipment Electric Motors and Actuators.

January 1968 Final Examination Schedule

Students with DIRECT CONFLICTS (i.e., two or more examinations at the same time) are to report to the Schedule Office, 168 Whitmore Hall, for resolution of the problem.

By vote of the Faculty Senate Committee on Academic Matters, the following policy on more than two examinations in one calendar day has been extended to the January and May, 1968, final examination periods: If a student is scheduled to take THREE (OR MORE) FINAL EXAMS IN THE SAME DAY, the faculty member running the (chronologically) middle exam shall be required to offer a make-up exam.

In either the DIRECT or MORE-THAN-TWO-IN-ONE-DAY conflict situation, students are to REPORT the problem to the Schedule Office, 168 Whitmore Hall.

Solutions were arranged for the DIRECT conflict situations and verification forms issued for the MORE - THAN - TWO - IN - ONE - DAY cases.

CODE

Day Identifications
1. Thu., Jan. 4
2. Fri., Jan. 5
3. Sat., Jan. 6
4. Mon., Jan. 8
5. Tue., Jan. 9
6. Wed., Jan. 10
7. Thu., Jan. 11
8. Fri., Jan. 12
9. Sat., Jan. 13

Period Identification
A. 8:00-10:00 A.M.
B. 10:20 A.M.-12:20 P.M.
C. 1:10-3:10 P.M.
D. 3:30-5:30 P.M.

Illustration:
A&F EC 110 1B
Represents examination for A&F EC 110 at 10:20 A. M. on Thu., Jan. 4

TIMETABLE
JUNIOR — SENIOR COURSES
(i.e., numbered "200" and above)

MWF	8:00 4C
MWF	9:05 6C
MWF	10:10 2C
MWF	11:15 4A
MWF	12:20 1A
MWF	1:25 6A
MWF	2:30 3C
MWF	3:35 2A
MWF	4:40 5A
TUTHS	8:00 8C
TUTHS	9:05 7C
TUTHS	10:10 5C
TUTHS	11:15 1D
TUTHS	12:20 1A
TUTH	1:00 7A
TUTH	1:25 7A
TUTH	2:30 3A
TUTH	4:00 8A
TUTH	4:40 8D
Any Evening	1C

FRESHMAN-SOPHOMORE EXAMINATION SCHEDULE — i.e., for courses numbered below "200".
(Additions to original schedule have been underlined.)

A&F EC	110	1B
ACCTG	125	8B
ACCTG	126	8B
ACCTG	127	3A
AIRSCI	111	5B
AIRSCI	121	6D
AN SCI	121	1B
ANTH	103	8D
ANTH	104	2B
ART	115	*
ASIANS	150	3B
ASTRON	101	7B
BOTANY	100	2D
BOTANY	101	9B
BOTANY	125	9B
BUS AD	100	*
C E	100	9A
C E	101	8D
C E	140	4B
C E	141	6D
CH E	125	8B
CHEM	101	7B
CHEM	111	7B
CHEM	113	7B
CHEM	127	3D
CHEM	140	7B
CHEM	165	1B
CHINSE	101	*
CHINSE	107	*
COMSCI	122	7B
COMSCI	131	1D
COMSCI	150	*
DANISH	101	*
E E	141	8D
ECON	125	6B
ECON	126	6B
ENGIN	103	9B
ENGIN	104	9A
ENGIN	105	7A
ENGL	111	3D
ENGL	112	5B
ENGL	113	4D
ENGL	125	4D
ENGL	126	5B
ENGL	128	5B
ENT	126	9B
ENT	140	1D
FRENCH	003	5D
FRENCH	101	5D
FRENCH	102	5D
FRENCH	107	5D
FRENCH	108	5D
FRENCH	125	8B
FRENCH	126	8B
GEOG	135	8B
GEOL	101	1D
GEOL	102	1D
GEOL	103	1D
GERMAN	101	9A
GERMAN	102	5D
GERMAN	107	9A
GERMAN	108	5D
GERMAN	109	6D
GERMAN	111	8B
GOVT	100	8D
GOVT	150	8D
GOVT	160	8D
GREEK	101	5B
GREEK	107	4D
GREEK	120	4B
HEED	100	4B
HIST	101	4B
HIST	150	4B
HTLMGT	100	2D
HTLMGT	102	8D
I E	151	8D
ITAL	101	5D
ITAL	107	5D
JAPAN	101	3D
JAPAN	107	2A
LATIN	101	7B
LATIN	107	8B
M E	100	6A
M E	135	8B
MATH	011	9A
MATH	021	8B
MATH	111	7D
MATH	112	9A
MATH	113	7D
MATH	121	8B
MATH	123	7D
MATH	124	7D
MATH	135	2B
MATH	136	7D
MATH	151	7D
MATH	173	7D
MATH	174	7D
MATH	185	7D
MATH	186	2B
MATH	187	6B
MEN PE	121	1D
MEN PE	141	9A
MEN PE	143	5C
MICBIO	140	9B
MUSIC	101	*
MUSIC	111	8D
MUSIC	113	6D
NF	127	5B
NF	130	6D
NF	141	7D
NF	156	3B
NURSE	100	2D
NURSE	110	6D
PHIL	105	1B
PHIL	110	1D
PHIL	125	1B
PHIL	161	8D
PHYSIC	101	2D
PHYSIC	103	8B
PHYSIC	105	2D
PHYSIC	106	1D
PHYSIC	107	8D
PHYSICS	111	8B
PHYSIC	113	3D
PLSOIL	110	7C
POLISH	101	9A
POLISH	107	1A
PORT	101	9A
PORT	107	9A
PSYCH	101	3B
PSYCH	105	3B
PUB HL	123	5D
REC	101	7B
REC	112	6D
RUSS	101	9A
RUSS	107	5D
RUSS	109	5D
RUSS	111	6C
SOCIOL	101	2B
SOCIOL	102	8D
SPAN	101	5D
SPAN	102	5D
SPAN	107	5D
SPAN	108	5D
SPAN	109	5B
SPAN	125	8B
SPEECH	101	6D
SPEECH	115	6B
SPEECH	135	3D
SPEECH	140	8B
SPEECH	142	3D
STATIS	121	1B
TCEA	123	8D
TCEA	124	1B
TCEA	128	5B
TCEA	141	3D
WO PE	105	7D
WO PE	122	4B
WO PE	130	6D
ZOOL	101	9B
ZOOL	125	3D
ZOOL	135	2D
ZOOL	137	8D

*Courses to be examined by sections according to the JS Timetable.

Experimental Philosophy Offered To Honor Students This Spring

An experimental section of Introductory Philosophy will be offered for honors students in the Spring semester 1968. The section will be limited to about fifteen students. Since the students will be selected for their high academic ability and motivation it will be possible to devote the class meetings to sustained and penetrating discussions of vital philosophical issues.

The subject matter will be varied and include issues in morality, metaphysics, the theory of knowledge, education and politics. Readings are chosen from a small number of great philosophers of past and present. There will be some flexibility in the choice of readings to accommodate the group's special interests.

The instructor's main function will be to insure the student's progress in the skill of critical inquiry. He will also aid the student's understanding of the subject matter and of the methods of philosophical thought; but this will be done in tune with the course of the discussion and according to the group's need rather than by means of formal lecturing.

It is expected that the students will have the results of their readings and research and contribute to the discussions in accordance with the forms of dialectical inquiry. Since the success of the course requires consistent preparation and participation, and since, because of the relatively small size of the group, the instructor will be able to keep informed about each student's progress, the need for examinations may be diminished or eliminated.

The section is scheduled for MWF, 11:15-12:05. The instructor is Mr. L. H. Ehrlich. Any student with a cum. of at least 2.8 who would like to join this section should register for Philosophy 106—not Philosophy 105.

Daily Collegian
Hotline
545-2550

S.E.N.D.O.F.F.
Count Down
4 Days

Daily Collegian
Hotline
545-2550

ART EXHIBIT
Greenfield Community College is sponsoring an exhibit of Joan Hopkins paintings in the auditorium which will last until Friday. The exhibit is open to the public. Miss Hopkins is an instructor of Design at UMass.

BATTLE OF UMASS BANDS
DECEMBER 15th
Applications in R.S.O. Office
Deadline Dec. 5

CAREERS IN STEEL

BETHLEHEM STEEL

Our representative will be on campus

DECEMBER 14

to interview candidates for Bethlehem's 1968 Loop Course training program.

THE LOOP COURSE trains selected college graduates with management potential for careers with Bethlehem Steel. The Course begins in early July and consists of three phases: (1) orientation at our headquarters in Bethlehem, Pa.; (2) specialized training in the activity or field for which the Looper was selected; and (3) on-the-job training which prepares him for more important responsibilities.

OPPORTUNITIES are available for men interested in steel plant operations, sales, research, mining, accounting, finance, and other activities.

DEGREES required are mechanical, metallurgical, electrical, chemical, industrial, civil, mining, and other engineering specialties; also chemistry, physics, mathematics, business administration, and liberal arts.

If you expect to be graduated before July, 1968, and would like to discuss your career interests with a Bethlehem representative, see your placement officer to arrange for an interview appointment—and be sure to pick up a copy of our booklet "Careers with Bethlehem Steel and the Loop Course." Further information can be obtained by writing to our Manager of Personnel, Bethlehem, Pa. 18016.

BETHLEHEM STEEL

An Equal Opportunity Employer
in the Plans for Progress Program

Sikorsky Aircraft

REPRESENTATIVES WILL BE ON CAMPUS TO GIVE SENIORS AND GRADUATES COMPLETE DETAILS ON

ENGINEERING OPPORTUNITIES

WITH THE PIONEER AND LEADING MANUFACTURER OF VTOL AIRCRAFT

See your College Placement Office now for an appointment on:

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 1

SIKORSKY AIRCRAFT, Stratford, Conn. • Division of United Aircraft Corp. • An Equal Opportunity Employer

Registration

The day of misadvice, no advice, appointments and sometimes worthless talk is here.

Students in the College of Arts and Sciences are fortunate — more fortunate than students at the other UMass schools. At the beginning of this semester, an alternative to the hazards of Counseling Day was created.

It is called the College of Arts and Sciences Center for Information, Advice and Counseling and is located at the "C" entrance to South College. There any student in the Liberal Arts can go for academic counseling. Full time help is available to provide this much needed service.

The creation of CASCIAC coupled with the elimination of the necessity of an advisor's signature on pre-registration, add and drop cards last year gives some students the responsibility of their own course selections.

Unfortunately the students at other schools of UMass are not afforded this privilege. For people who will be expected to make their own adult decisions in a few years, it seems contradictory for their collective hands to be held by the paternal hands of their advisors. They are not allowed to make their own course decisions without the signature of an advisor indicating his approval.

The availability of counseling and advice is very important. Such a service should be available when it is sought but only on a voluntary basis not as a compulsion.

We commend the College of Arts and Sciences for setting up CASCIAC and giving students the responsibility of making their own choices. We urge the other Schools of UMass to follow this lead, abolish the required advisor's signature and provide people to staff a central advisory body. We feel that every student should have the responsibility of choosing his courses without the useless necessity of an advisor's signature.

— Bob Brill
Associate Editorial Chairman

NAPOLEON OVERLOOKING THE STRAITS OF DOVER

Views on the War

Are We Dangerous?

(The following is the first in a series of articles on the Vietnam war contributed by individual students and faculty members.)

"This is the established order of Things, when a Nation has grown to such a height of Power as to become dangerous to Mankind, she never fails to lose her Wisdom, her Justice and her Moderation, and with these she never fails to lose her Power; which however returns again, if those virtues return".

John Adams was speaking of the British Empire in 1778, but his message has meaning for the United States in 1967. We are now the richest, most powerful nation, and now we are dangerous to mankind. The war in Vietnam is simply a manifestation of the political insanity and moral insensitivity which has plagued us throughout our history.

We should not assume that Vietnam is an isolated and temporary irritant and that, once the war has ended, things will be fine once again. Nevertheless, a full understanding of the U.S. position in Vietnam is essential to understand the deeper problems which lie beneath it.

It is quite clear that, there is absolutely no valid reason for American participation in the Vietnamese conflict.

But at least part of the Vietnam problem is in the rhetoric. It is hysterical, vitriolic and unbelievably super-patriotic. This apparently harmless rhetoric has led to the deaths of over 14,000 Americans.

The harsh fact is that the United States has become a modern-day imperialist power. We have more than 500,000 combat troops in South Vietnam. Neither China nor the Soviet Union has active troops fighting in Vietnam.

Our yearly expenditure in Vietnam is well over $30 billion, yet Secretary Rusk views with alarm the fact that the Soviet Union recently announced she was increasing her assistance to North Vietnam to $1 billion.

The Johnson Administration ceaselessly reminds us of its vigilant search for peace. Yet, we now know that the Administration has rejected offers of negotiations from the North Vietnamese.

We are committing and experiencing the consequences of the same kinds of grave errors in judgment which have characterized American foreign policy since 1898. As Senator George McGovern (D.-S.D.) said last April, "We seem bent upon saving the Vietnamese from Ho Chi Minh even if we have to kill them and demolish their country to do it".

The government's policy can be validly attacked on two levels, the moral level and the political level. And this raises the most important question for those who are opposed to the war—namely, how to effectively stop it. The traditional and indeed, almost automatic response to this question is that change must come through established political channels.

We have signed petitions and written to Congressmen. We have held teach-ins and sit-ins. We have written indignant letters to newspapers. In spite of all this furious activity, the war and the killing continue at an even greater pace than before.

Since peaceful protest hat not been effective, it appears that the only alternative is to actively resist

SNCC field worker Julius Lester, in an article which will be printed in this column at a later date,writes, "To resist is to become alive, for the first time. It is to say not only will I not accept what you are doing, I will stop you from doing it. No one shall sleep peacefully again until you cease, desist and abdicate".

In the face of the continuation of the war and the continued inability of the government to adequately handle the real and terrible problems of racism and poverty, we may have reached the point where Mr. Lester's position is the only valid one.

Philip Johnston '69

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union . . . University of Massachusetts . . . Amherst, Mass.

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Chester S. Weinerman '68
MANAGING EDITOR ..... John H. Dean, Jr. '69
BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Charles Smith '69

TUESDAY NEWS STAFF: Sally Dolgin, Day Editor; Bill Dickinson, Claudia Hamberg, John Wojnas, Marty Glendon, Marybeth Gibb
Editorial Staff—Dick Gelkie, Day Editor

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the Daily Collegian publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amended by the act of June 11, 1943. Printed by Hamilton I. Newell, Inc., University Drive, Amherst. Subscription: $6.00 per year, $3.50 per semester.

Offices of the Daily Collegian are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

Academic Reform--2

Philip Lerner

At Smith

George Mair, assistant President of Smith College, was instrumental in reforming aspects of its academic system two years ago. The following interview was conducted in an effort to find out why the 4-course system was implemented and what its results have been.

Question: Why did Smith have a 5-course system until the fall of 1966?

Answer: It was simply a matter of tradition—it was there. But the 5-course system has proved a dissatisfactory system of education.

Question: When did you decide to change to a 4-course load?

Answer: Smith decided to change in the spring of 1965 to be implemented in 1966 upon the recommendation from a faculty ad hoc committee.

Question: What advantages does a 4-course load have over a 5-course load?

Answer: (1) Students coming to Smith are usually better prepared.

(2) Students coming here are more varied and have prepared differently than in previous years.

(3) We decided that, with this caliber of potential student, Smith should be more flexible. Out of this flexibility came the 4-course load.

(4) The students are generally doing more advanced work in their courses demanding more work and greater depth. This was becoming increasingly the case, even under the old 5-course system.

(5) We feel, with the new course load, in any given week the student's time is not divided into so many pieces—there are fewer changes of activity and ability to concentrate with four courses rather than five. The result is that the student has more time for each course.

(6) A further result would be a small net saving of the student's time. This time could be used for outside reading or just for slack.

Question: Have you changed your core-curriculum as well as the course load?

Answer: Smith gave up the idea of core curriculum (distribution requirements) at the same time as changing to 4-courses. Up to this time there were 7-8 requirements (fine arts, social science, natural sciences, literature, English, philosophy, and the classics . . .) Many students come to us well-prepared in these areas from their secondary schools and to take these courses again as requirements would be redundant.

Enrollments in courses formerly elected as a 5th course, e.g., art and music, have dropped no more than 10%-15%, yet, with permission, students can still take a fifth course or audit a course for no credit.

Question: Was reforming the core requirements more important than changing to a 4-course system or is it a combination of both?

Answer: Our view was that the entire academic program had to be looked at as a whole—course load, field exams, and requirements.

Question: Can a student who is limited to four-courses get as much from the educational process as in the previous system?

Answer: There is a risk that the student could voluntarily become narrow. But there is a risk in any system or in any innovation. We feel that if the student chooses to do so, she can easily get a well-rounded education.

(The next article in this series is an interview with Frank Greve, assistant to the Dean of Admissions, Amherst College. An Amherst graduate, he was a student during Amherst's transition from a 5-course load to a 4-course system.)

An Angry Young Man

To the Editor:

I am an angry young man in an even angrier land. I am writing this brief narrative because I feel compelled to defend myself and the many others like me.

I will take the offensive. People have a disregard for the hippy because he is a dropout from society. In other words a hippy doesn't like work. Neither does anyone else. But we will continue to work because we are afraid of society's backlash. We lack the nerve to experiment with different, non-conformist ways.

If I was to say that I enjoyed killing, people would not think very highly of me. But it is quite all-right to drop bombs on helpless villagers because it is a necessity. I hope that I don't have to watch a helpless baby go up in smoke and turn to ashes. It might be an interesting experience to kill someone, and killing an enemy such as a V.C. would be tolerated by the American public.

And so what do I do to avoid all this? I go to college. Oh, I have convinced myself that this is not the reason for my going to school. I have come to college for an education, but everyone knows that no one goes to "college for knowledge" anymore. It is in this noble institution where you can have one hell of a social life. At first, you are interested in the broads and the booze. But after awhile, you become disgusted with the booze; the opposite sex becomes a meaningless substitute for nothing; you are once again thoroughly disgusted.

It is now that I would like to try to rise from this hole by associating myself with some worthwhile cause. I believe that I have a right to my freedom of speech because I will be fighting to preserve this freedom in a short while. I am fighting for it now . . .

Once again I find myself drifting in a void.

John Kozikowski, Class '70

Turtles Featured

S.E.N.D.O.F.F. Saturday Night

By JOHN WOJNAS
Staff Reporter

S.E.N.D.O.F.F.'s Saturday night (December 2) brings to campus one of the most promising and currently popular groups in the pop singing world, the Turtles.

Appearing in two shows, 8 p.m. and 10:15 p.m. along with the Pilgrims, the Turtles have enjoyed success most recently with SHE'S MY GIRL.

The first of the two shows will be during the UMass-UNH basketball game and the second just following it. The game is the UMass basketball season opener.

The group's first big hit was in 1965 (IT AIN'T ME BABE) and this year they again skyrocketed to success with HAPPY TOGETHER.

The two year span between these extraordinary successes consisted of the usual "growing pains" of any new group who achieve overnight success.

"We needed those two years to grow to have a chance at becoming a super group instead of just another good group," said lead singer Howard Kaylan. "We are not quite there yet," he continued, "but we think we will be . . . and we are continuing to project toward that goal."

The Turtles would like to broaden their audience to include adults as well as teenagers. Howard feels that the time has come to bridge the gap existing between the musical tastes of adults and teens.

As he expressed it, "The boundary lines are fading . . . in time, there will be little distinction between pop and contemporary music . . . the popular music catagory will encompass all age levels . . ."

The success which the Turtles have achieved has been heightened by their first overseas tour where they made appearances in England, France, Germany, Denmark, Belgium and Holland. They have reached their American audience by nationwide appearances on such television shows as Shindig, Hullabaloo, Hollywood Palace, Smothers Brothers and the Ed Sullivan Show.

Lead singer, spokesman and musical mentor Howard Kaylan sees his main objective "to make The Turtles happen." He likes to compose, rest and listen to records. He finds it difficult to set separate goals for himself, but knows that he wants to stay in the business, perhaps in the record production end.

To epitomize the "happiness sound" of The Turtles is the role of member Mark Volman. He likes to see people enjoy themselves and the easiest way to accomplish this is "from a stage." When Mark has any free time, he likes to spend it with his wife . . . "just being together."

A great planner and one who thinks that "music is something I was born with" is Al Nichol. He plays lead guitar with The Turtles but in the recording studio, will often provide the necessary organ, piano, harpsichord and special effects accompaniment.

An art major and radio/TV minor in college, Jim Pons began playing bass for the Turtles less than a year ago. He likes to paint, compose and listen to all kinds of music in his spare time, and plans to remain in some aspect of the entertainment business.

John Barbata, the final member of the group, worked as a free lance drummer before joining the group. Although he's never had a lesson, he has not only mastered the drums technically, but has developed a unique "show" style which adds a considerable amount of visual impact to The Turtles in-person concerts. In the future John would like a career as a studio musician.

MOTHER . . .

(Continued from page 1)

SUG Board to have their own table in the S.U. lobby rather than continuing the system of selling it through the Students for Political Action (SPA), used to distribute the first issue, according to editor ("mother-in-law") Fred Pilon and Co-production manager ("auntie") Eric Kramer.

If they are unable to get their own table, the editors plan to continue the use of the SPA table (with the permission of the SUG Board and are attempting to get permission to sell in the University store.

According to Kramer, the second issue will contain more "feature" material than the first and will be a "little less political." He said that there would be more material pertinent to the four college area.

He stated that there will be more photographs in the second issue and that the type size would be larger to make the paper easier to read.

Pilon emphasized that the first issue was a financial success and that they "experienced a ten per cent increase in subscriptions," since the release of the first issue.

PRE-LAW STUDENTS

Dean O'Toole from the Northeastern School of Law will discuss the cooperative program of legal education at Northeastern on Tuesday, November 28 at 7:45 p.m. in the Middlesex Room of the Student Union. All pre-law students are urged to attend.

Friday Last Day Of Toy Drive

The class of 1970 is sponsoring a toy drive for a group of young underprivileged children of the area. A party will be held in the Commonwealth Lounge for them on December 17, where they will be given the collected toys.

Toys may be brought to the collection center in the Student Union Lobby until December 1.

FREE DELIVERY TO UNIVERSITY—6 to 11 p.m. every night

RAPP'S DELICATESSEN

AND RESTAURANT
— Two Locations —

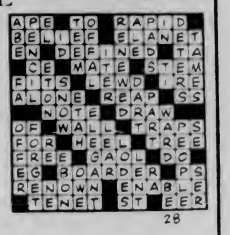
AMHERST, MASS. Next to Peter Pan
STORRS, CONN. Rts. 195 & 44A—Next to A&P

SANDWICHES

Corned Beef	.85
Pastromi	.85
Roast Beef	.85
Tongue	.90
Rolled Beef	.85
Salami	.70
Bologna	.65
Liverwurst	.65
Turkey	.85
Tuna Salad	.55
Egg Salad	.50
Bagel with Cream Cheese	.35
Bagel with Cream Cheese and Lox	.75
American Cheese	.45
Swiss Cheese	.55
Chopped Liver	.85

SALADS

Potato Salad	.25
Homemade Coleslaw	.25
Sauerkraut	.20
Macaroni	.20



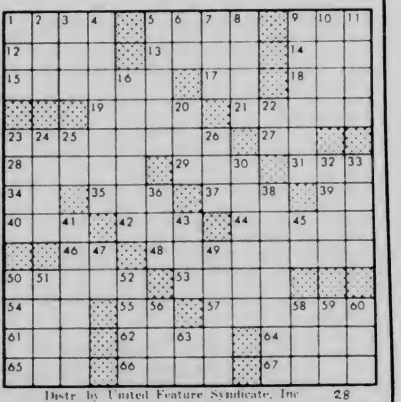
DESSERTS
Cheesecake
Almond Horns Almond Tarts
Choc. Chip Cookies Brownies
Eclairs Cake Others

BEVERAGES
Canned Soda .20
Pepsi — Sprite — Coke — Grape
Root Beer — Orange — Ginger Ale
Diet Pepsi

Order a Pickle
Try Swiss Cheese, American Cheese or Coleslaw on your Sandwich—Be Brave
"ENJOY AT RAPP'S"
Phones: Amherst 256-6759 — Storrs 429-6429

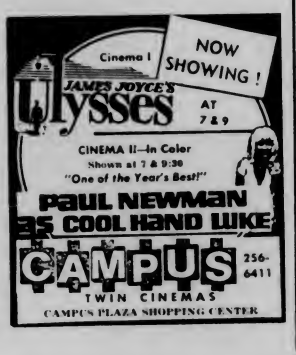
CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Saturday's Puzzle



ACROSS

1 Money
5 Headgear (pl.)
9 Prohibit
12 Region
13 In addition
14 Macaw
15 Crucial times
17 Pronoun
18 Scold
19 Allowance for waste
21 Vapid
23 Afflictions
27 Indefinite article
28 Merits
29 Ventilate
31 High card
34 Symbol for silver
35 Place
37 Dry, as wine
39 Near
40 Decay
42 Condensed moisture
44 Slogan
46 River in Siberia
48 Setback in rank
50 Domesticated
53 Pigeon
54 Period of time
55 Sun god
57 Mock
61 Perform
62 Century plant
64 Sacred image
65 Chinese leader
66 Planet
67 Nobleman



8 Drunkards
9 Fruit
10 Sea in Asia
11 Rant
16 Wiped out
20 Afternoon party
22 Symbol for tantalum
23 Loved one
24 Shakespearian character
25 Senior (abbr.)
26 Relative (colloq.)
30 Take away
32 Roman statesman
33 Short jacket
36 Spread for drying
38 Group of persons
41 Fruit
43 Marry
45 Note of scale
47 Exist
49 Fashions
50 Athletic group
51 Alms box
52 Apothecary's weight
56 A state (abbr.)
58 Mountain in Crete
59 Click beetle
60 Cloth measure
63 Conjunction

DOWN

1 Moccasin
2 Be mistaken
3 Hawaiian wreath
4 Ties
5 Crates
6 Man's nickname
7 Greek letter

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 28

NOTICES

EDUCATION CLUB
All interested in attending Fall Convention of Mass. Student Education Assoc., to be held Sat., Dec. 2, at Eastern Nazarene College in Wollaston, Mass., should contact Mike Glickman, 6-7646, or Theo Snyder, 6-8440. Cost of transportation and meals will be provided.

NEWMAN LECTURE
Lecture supposed to be held at Smith College on Nov. 15 by Father Walsh of Brandeis University will be held on November 29.

ASTRONOMY COLLOQUIUM
Four college colloquium on Tues., Nov. 28 at Hasbrouck 20, given by Prof. Gerald Hawkins, of BU Astronomy Dept. Subject is Astro-Archaeology. It is open to public.

GERMAN PROGRAM
On Tues., Nov. 28 at 8 p.m. in Council Chambers of S.U. Dr. and Mrs. F. C. Ellert will speak and show slides on "The Freiburg Program — past present and future". All interested in the Program are welcome to attend. Refreshments will be served.

CHEMISTRY SEMINAR
On Wed., Nov. 29 at 12:20 pm. in Room 51 Goessmann, Onioko Hyodo will speak on "The Transition Metal Hydride Complexes".

OPERETTA GUILD
On Tues., Nov. 28 at 4 p.m. in South College there is important constitutional meeting. All please attend. Voting on Exec. Board and Spring Show.

SCUBA CLUB
On Wed., Nov. 29 at 7 p.m. in Curry Hicks there is a regular pool meeting. Info on new and better process for equipment.

HILLEL
On Tues., Nov. 28 at 8:30 p.m. in Plymouth Room SU Dr. Milton Cantor of the History Dept. will speak on "What's New in the New Left". All invited.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORG.
Tues., Nov. 28 at 6:45 p.m. in Worcester Room there is a meeting. All welcome.

INTERVARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP
Informal meeting with prayer fellowship and singing on Tues., at 7 p.m. in Memorial Hall.

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA
On Nov. 28 in Middlesex Room there will be exec. board meeting at 6 p.m. and a general meeting at 6:30.

HEYMAKERS SQUARE DANCE
Gathering at 7:30 in WoPe Gym on Wed., Nov. 29.

YAHOO
On Tues., Nov. 28 at 8:30 p.m. in Berkshire Room, all interested in the rebirth of campus humor magazine are invited to attend a meeting.

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS
There will be no bus this Saturday.

LOST:
Scarab bracelet Sat. nite near Lambda Chi. Please contact Donna, 6-7460. Reward.
Gold initial ring with letters S.S. lost in Southwest between T4 and T5. Contact Stuart Schneiderman, Washington 1312, 6-9104.
History notebook lost, please return to T-2, or call 546-8037.

FOUND:
GM key on broken chain in parking lot between Whitmore and Southwest. Call 546-8364.

S.E.N.D.O.F.F.
Weekend Dec. 1, 2, 3, 7

Dec. 1 Bitter Send Folkhouse $1.50
Jackie Washington
Times Square Two

Dec. 2 Dance 2 shows 8 & 10:15
Turtles & Pilgrims $1.50

Dec. 3 Simon & Garfunkel
7 P. M. Cage $2.50

Dec. 7 Harlem Globetrotters
8:00 P. M. Cage $2.50
Sophs $2.00

China Lecture Series Commences At Amherst College This Evening

The first two lectures in a series on "China: Implications for U.S. Policy" will be presented at Amherst College Tuesday and Thursday (November 28 and 30) at 4:30 p.m. each day in Johnson Chapel.

The speaker Tuesday, on "China and the West: A Century of Cultural Conflict," will be John K. Fairbank, Higginson professor of history and director of the East Asian Research Center at Harvard University. His talk will provide the historical background for consideration, during four following lectures and a panel discussion, of specific areas of concern today in our understanding of China's political development and aims.

The lecture series will continue over a 10-day period at the College, concluding December 8.

Professor Fairbank is the author most recently of "China: The People's Middle Kingdom and the U.S.A." (1967) and co-author with Edwin Reischauer and Albert Craig of "East Asia: The Modern Transformation," published in 1954.

On Thursday, the second lecture in the series, by Lucian W. Pye, professor of political science at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will deal with "The Leadership Crisis in China."

Professor Pye is a specialist in comparative political behavior, particularly in Asian and other developing countries.

The China series has been organized by the faculty lecture committee at Amherst as one of two major programs during the current academic year on subjects of major concern for public policy nationally and internationally. During the second semester, Robert C. Weaver, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, will open a discussion on "Governing and Developing the American City."

Lectures to follow those by Professors Fairbank and Pye in the China series are:

- "The Attack on Organization and Ideology in China," Ezra F. Vogel, Harvard, Monday, December 4, 8 p.m.
- "Chinese Policies in Southeast Asia," David Mozingo, Cornell University, Wednesday, December 6, 8 p.m.
- "American Counterstrategy for China's 'Wars of National Liberation,'" James C. Thomson, Jr., Harvard, Thursday, December 7, 8 p.m.

The concluding panel discussion on "The Future of Sino-American Relations" will be Friday, December 8, beginning at 7:30 p.m., with Leonard C. Meeker '37, legal adviser to the Department of State as moderator. Panelists will include Professor Thomson, speaking on the conditions under which the U.S. and China might restore diplomatic relations; Dwight Perkins of Harvard, on China's nuclear weapons development; and A. Doak Barnett of Columbia, on the likely nature of post-Mao leadership in China.

All sessions are open to the public without charge or ticket and all will be held in Johnson Chapel on the campus.

SENATE
PUBLIC HEARING
on
VENDING MACHINES

To plan for unified action
we need all the sides and facts

Dec. 4, Monday, 7:30
Council Chambers

BILL COSBY TO BROADCAST NIGHTLY RADIO COMEDY

A new sound is coming to radio —laughter. Bill Cosby has signed to do a nightly, all new, all-Cosby, five-minute comedy series created expressly for The Coca-Cola Company. THE BILL COSBY RADIO PROGRAM will be aired Monday through Friday evenings on the leading Top Forty radio stations throughout the country. The venture will cost The Coca-Cola Company one million dollars, an investment of unprecedented magnitude in radio nowadays.

The details were announced November 17 by Ira C. Herbert, Vice President of The Coca-Cola Company. The series will be heard in 500 cities, at times and stations still to be chosen.

The series will present all new material, none of which has been used previously on records or in concert and night club appearances. Each five-minute program will consist of one major comedy feature.

Among the regular features will be: "Spooky Stories," a spoof on terror tales; "Animal Interviews," in which Mr. Cosby is interviewed as though he were an animal—anything from an insect to an elephant; "Oh WOW," in which he answers imaginary letters. Cosby will usually be the only performer, although he will sometimes be assisted on the air by Frank Buxton, producer of the radio series.

Cosby expressed his enthusiasm for the opportunity to create for radio. "Radio is a wild, unfettered medium that is just right for contemporary humor. The medium is an open invitation to the listener's imagination and a blank check for the writer," he said.

The premiere broadcast in each market will take place Monday, January 15, 1968. Production has started. The series will be taped in Hollywood, or wherever Cosby happens to be—on location abroad for his I SPY television series or touring the U.S. for concert or night club appearances.

AIAA Forms Campus Chapter

A student chapter of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics (AIAA) has been formed on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Any full-time graduate or undergraduate student may become a member of this student branch of the AIAA.

Students apply for membership through this local branch and pay annual national dues of $3.00 a year plus local branch dues of $2.00 a year. Members receive the monthly magazine Astronautics and Aeronautics and the quarterly AIAA Student Journal on a personal mailing basis directly from the national office as part of their membership services.

Interested students should contact Professor Day in Gunness room 16 or attend the next meeting on Wednesday, December 6, 1967, at 8 p.m. in the Engineering Auditorium.

Juniors, Take a Trip Washington, D. C.

INTERSESSION, JAN. 16 - 19, 4 DAYS, 3 NIGHTS

We will be staying at the plushest hotel
in the district at group rates, the HOTEL AMERICA
(indoor pool heated at 80 degrees—mmm)

TOTAL COST (everything but meals) $35.00

Deposit of $5.00 due Nov. 27 - Dec. 1, Student Union Lobby

World News Roundup

From the Wires of the Associated Press

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The nearby Yucca colony's nudists threw on some clothes to help volunteer firemen fight a brush fire Sunday that threatened the nudists' $16,000 clubhouse.

One fireman said the five-acre blaze was under control before he realized he was in a nudist colony.

"They were wearing pants," volunteer Hale Knight, a bank executive, commented.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy now leads President Johnson by a 52-32 per cent margin when voters are asked whom they would prefer as the Democratic nominee for president next year, the Louis Harris Poll reported Monday.

Meanwhile, the latest Gallup Poll found Johnson's popularity taking an upswing for the first time since June. George Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion found 41 per cent of those interviewed approving the way Johnson is handling his job.

The Gallup Poll also found Johnson winning back disaffected Democrats, with 63 per cent of the Democrats questioned approving Johnson's performance in the latest poll compared to 53 per cent in October.

Readers Theatre Opens Fantasy Tonight

Dandelion Wine, a fantasy by Ray Bradbury, one of America's leading science fiction writers, will be presented in an adapted version by the Speech Department Readers Theatre tonight, Wednesday and Thursday at UMass.

Tonight's performance will be in the Emily Dickinson lounge, Orchard Hill, at 8 p.m. Wednesday's performance will be given at 7:45 in the 12th floor lounge of Calvin Coolidge Tower and Hall auditorium.

An aura of fantasy pervades Dandelion Wine as it unfolds the discovery of life and death through the eyes of David Spaulding, 12, in the summer of 1928 in Greentown, Ill. Bradbury has chosen the age of 12 for his main character because that is the "timeless" age in a boy's life, when commonplace things become the exceptional and the exciting.

The performance is in two parts and lasts 65 minutes.

The company of readers includes Pedro Silva. Elin Youngberg, Larry Jakmauh, Janie Helman and Mike Prusky. Direction and adaptation of the story are by Jerry DeSpain, who directed the Readers Theatre production of Feiffer last year. Three of the five readers in Dandelion Wine were also in the Feiffer production.

Admission to Readers Theatre productions is free and all members of the University community are welcomed.

Recital Tomorrow Features New Work by Faculty Member

A First performance of a work by Charles Fussell of the music department will be featured at a University of Massachusetts faculty recital of chamber music Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Bartlett Hall.

The recital is the second in this season's series by the UMass music department and is open to the public without charge.

To be featured is the Fourth Movement of Fussell's Symphony No. 2 for Soprano and Large Orchestra (1967), reduced for two pianos and percussion. Miss Dorothy Ornest will be the soloist, Fussell and Robert Stern will be the pianists and UMass music students Jay Gondelman, Bruce MacCombie and Ronald Shepard will be the percussionists.

The program will open with Monteverdi's Three Canzone from Scherzi Musicali (1632). Performers will be Joel Krosnick, cello; Miriam Whaples, harpsichord; Miss Ornest, soprano; and Julian Olevsky, violin.

Olevsky and Howard Lebow, piano, will play the Sonata in G Major, Opus 78 (1880) by Johannes Brahms to end the first part of the program. After intermission, the Fussell work will be heard, followed by the concluding selection, Chopin's Sonata in G Minor, Opus 65 (1846), for cello and piano. Performers will be Mrs. Whaples and Krosnick.

Foot-Kisser in Yale Vicinity

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—In a musty niche deep in the book stacks of Yale University's Sterling Memorial Library sat a pretty graduate student absorbed in her books.

Footsteps. She ignored them. But it seemed to her that someone was standing above her for a long time.

"All of a sudden I felt somebody kissing my feet," she told Yale authorities and the Yale Daily News.

"Here was this guy on his hands and knees kissing me.

"I screamed but everybody ignored me."

"I've had some pretty strange passes made at me," she told the News, "but never anything like this."

Three of the foot-kissed girls have been graduate students. The fourth was a professor's wife.

ENGINEERING OPPORTUNITIES

for Seniors and Graduates in MECHANICAL, AERONAUTICAL, ELECTRICAL, CHEMICAL, CIVIL, MARINE, INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERING, PHYSICS, CHEMISTRY, METALLURGY, CERAMICS, MATHEMATICS, STATISTICS, COMPUTER SCIENCE, ENGINEERING SCIENCE, ENGINEERING MECHANICS

CAMPUS INTERVIEWS

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 6

Appointments should be made in advance through your College Placement Office

Pratt & Whitney Aircraft

DIVISION OF UNITED AIRCRAFT CORP.

UA

An Equal Opportunity Employer

SPECIALISTS IN POWER . . . POWER FOR PROPULSION—POWER FOR AUXILIARY SYSTEMS.
CURRENT UTILIZATIONS INCLUDE AIRCRAFT, MISSILES, SPACE VEHICLES, MARINE AND INDUSTRIAL APPLICATIONS.

STUDENT SPONSORED

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS PROGRAM

University of Massachusetts

presents

SUPREME COURT JUSTICE

WILLIAM O. DOUGLASS

in lecture

"The Rule of Law and Survival"

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 29 — 8 P.M.

STUDENT UNION BALLROOM

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
Sports
TUESDAY, NOV. 28, 1967
Page 8 Vol. XCVI, No. 53

No Tomorrows: Just 'Fine' Year

By TOM FITZGERALD
Sports Editor

"We make no excuses. We had all the time in the world to prepare for the game. We were mentally, physically and spiritually ready."

Vic Fusia didn't go further into the reasons for the Redmen's dismal 0-25 finale at Boston College, whether they were scholarships, as the UMass alumni chimed in unison after the game, or something else.

"I thought the equalizer would be a fast field, along with our quickness. And we counted on them to have their average of three fumbles and three interceptions a game.

"But they came up with their best game of the year, by their own admission. They beat us on the board, they beat us in the statistics and they beat us physically."

No coach with a 7-2 team, however, is going to beat a pillow till his fists are red. In seven years as Redman grid boss, Fusia has a record of 47-15-1. His teams have won the Yankee Conference title four of those years. Fusia's record in the Conference is 31-3, and those three losses, all by field goals, cost the Redmen the Beanpot each year.

A coach's version of his team's season may or may not be the most accurate. But when Fusia says, "It was a fine season although it ended on a sorry note," he doesn't start too many arguments.

"We had fine leadership from Greg Landry and Jim Mitchell, and in fact all the seniors played the part of leaders. A lot of the Credit for the fine esprit de corps we had must go to them."

The seniors were Landry, Mitchell, Bill Carty, Bob Santucci, Don Glogowski, Bruce Gombar, Kent Stevens, Ernie Smith, Paul Mlinar, Paul Campbell, Bruno Debiak, Doug Faucette (who sat out the last month with a leg injury) and the forgotten man, tailback Don Durkin, who suffered a shoulder separation in preseason practice and observed the whole season from press boxes. That makes an unlucky 13 players, an ominous sign for next year's team, in which there will be gaping holes to fill in the offensive and defensive lines and, of course, at quarterback.

Next year's squad should have power to burn in the backfield with perhaps a dozen capable running backs, several from this year's frosh, but beef in the line will be at a premium.

"We came a long way from the Maine game," said Fusia, although that was one of the most thorough victories. At 30-9, it was somewhat surprising in light of the Redmen's traditional Silky Sullivan starts.

"Truthfully," Fusia went on, "I don't think Dartmouth beat us. We beat ourselves." The 28-10 loss was a bitter pill, particulary with the television cameras moving in on every UMass flaw. The Redmen were beaten by a team they were sure they would beat.

"In the two weeks after the Dartmouth game, we grew into manhood," said Fusia. "We had a fine show against a strong Connecticut team (35-14) and then we showed we could come from behind in beating Rhode Island (28-24), which had a strong defensive and an excellent passing attack.

"We went into Boston and beat a team that was physically stronger (B.U., 24-0). And although I felt we would have some sort of letdown, we beat Vermont (21-0), which gave as fine an effort as I've ever seen on a football field.

"We put several things together against Rutgers (30-7), with big plays by both the offense and the defense. Then we travelled to New Hampshire and although we showed we're not mudders, we came out with a victory (14-13) and our fourth title in five years." Then came the disappointing finale, another game that the Redmen had fully expected to win.

UMass outscored the opposition, 192-120, this year, after scoring only 117 in the hair-raising 1966 season.

Captain Bill Tindall and Coach Jack Leaman are ready for the start of the 1967-68 basketball season. First game is at 8:00 p.m. Saturday at the Cage.

'M' Club Stars

Greg Landry and Kent Stevens were named the UMass offensive and defensive players of the week by the Varsity "M" Club at today's Quarterback Luncheon at the Newman Club.

It was the second time that each has been honored. Nick Warnock and Tom York have also been two-time winners.

Although ruffled by Saturday's Boston massacre, Metawampe took solace in the fact that his job as the Daily Collegian's football forecaster appears more secure than that of say Robert McNamara.

The old injun was 28-11 with last week's picks, to end his season with a tremendous 318-114-9 mark, for a .736 showing. "It was a very good year," he said frankly.

GOAL-HUNGRY—Junior Jeff Sanborn and the rest of the UMass hockey team face off against Vermont tomorrow night at 7:30 at Orr Rink on the Amherst College campus. Coach John Canniff will be beginning his first year.

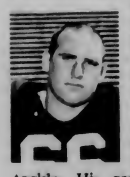
Dial the MDC's Hot Sportline 5-0344

WRESTLING

Varsity wrestling coach Homer Barr has announced that the final eliminations to an open house for both the freshmen and varsity will be held in the Auxiliary Gymnasium at Boyden Building on Tuesday, November 28th at 7:30 p.m.

A Tale of Two 'Saints'

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — A Roman Catholic nun asked a catechism class to name two saints.



One bright-eyed youngster, aged 9, furiously waved his hand and shouted, "I know, sister. I know. Jimmy Taylor and Gary Cuozzo."

Both play football with the National Football League's New Orleans Saints.

Stevens Shines On Defense

For the second time this season, senior tackle Kent Stevens was selected by the Varsity "M" Club as defensive player of the week. He was one of the few bright spots on a Redmen defense that surrendered 25 points to a Boston College team which entered the fray with a meager 2-6 record.

Stevens played at middle guard and at tackle on last year's UMass defense. However, with Bruce Gombar handling the middle guard chores exclusively, Kent was able to put full concentration in the defensive tackle. His contribution to the success of the 1967 Redmen eleven speaks for itself.

Beban, Simpson Top Star List

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Gary Beban of ULCA and O. J. Simpson of Southern California led the all-star team announced Monday by the American Football Coaches Association and Kodak.

The other members of the offensive backfield are fullback Larry Csonka of Syracuse and flanker Dennis Homan of Alabama.

The rest of the offensive team includes ends Ted Kwalkick of Penn State and Ron Sellers of Florida State, tackles Ron Yary of Southern California and Edgar Chandler of Georgia, guards Harry Olszewski of Clemson and Rich Stotter of Houston and center Bob Johnson of Tennessee.

The defensive team lists ends Ted Hendricks, of Miami and Ted Ressovich of Southern California and John Garlington of Louisiana State; tackles Dennis Byrd of North Carolina State, Greg Pipes of Baylor and Jon Sandstrom of Oregon State; middle guard Wayne Meylan of Nebraska; linebackers Andrian Young of Southern California and Granville Liggins of Oklahoma, and defensive backs Bob Johns of Alabama, Tom Schoen of Notre Dame and Frank Loria of Virginia Tech.

SPORTS STAFF

Meeting Tonight At 6:30

Anyone interested in joining the staff is invited to attend!

WEATHER
FAIR
AND COLD

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

NEW ENGLAND'S
LARGEST
COLLEGE DAILY

VOL. XCVI, NO. 54 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1967

Budget for Senior Week Voted On by Senate

Taxing powers and sum allocation of Senior Week for the Class of 1968 was the main issue brought before a Constitutional Convention held last evening in the Council Chambers at 7:00 p.m.

At the meeting the class of 1968 presented its fiscal plans for 1967-68. The main problem with the Senior Class Budget brought up revolves around just how the needed money is to be raised.

According to Class President Dick Wood the amount needed ($30,000) would call for the direct subsidation of Senior Week by the Class of 1968 at large. This means each member in the class will be taxed to the extent of twelve dollars, whether he or she plans to attend or not.

Twenty-one dollars is needed from each student, eight of which has been collected on this semester's bill.

Wood maintains that "the whole question of taxing powers comes to light in this issue. Senior week financing without a partial subsidy would run around $40.00 for each participating senior."

Speaking for the Executive Council of the Class of 1968 the President stated: "The number of our class members who could afford such a week would be very prohibitive and Senior Week would be nothing more than 'a retreat for a very few wealthy participants'.

The proposal as it goes to the Constitutional Convention this evening provides for all seniors an attractive offer." He feels that "the Senior Week proposal as it now stands has the credentials to substantiate its passage."

Wood himself believes that attendance figures alone will determine final success of 1968's Senior Week.

Senate President James Collins expressing his attitude on the chances of this tax proposal and budget being passed,, said "'if a good majority (students) wants it, they (Executive Council) will get it."

The Student Senate President said, referring to Senior Week at Grossingers (New York), "Personally I would like to see it happen. But it's expensive and I don't think the whole class should subsidize it unless they all go."

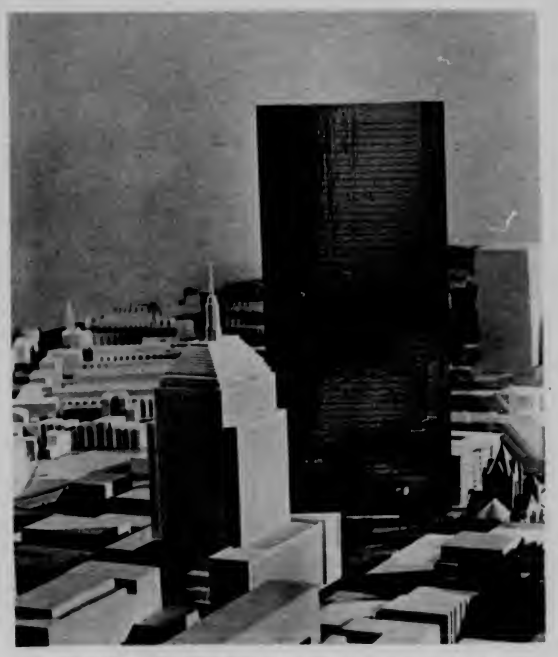
He further stated that the Executive Council (reps. Class of 1968) in this matter has a "duty to its members and what they want."

In bringing before the Student Senate and Class Officer its budget for 1967-68 the Senior class plans to make a proposal that $30,000 be allocated for Senior Week activities.

Reasons for justification of this figure are that last year's class allocated approximately $15,000 for its activities a sum that was not able to accommodate all seniors interested in going. As the Class of 1968 is one third larger than its predecessor, the Executive Council (according to Dick Wood) "decided early that our plans would have to digress very much from those of the Class of 1967 and previous senior classes.

The proposal passed by the Class of 1968 Executive Council to be brought up tonight includes:

1. A three-day-two-night junket to Grossingers Country Club in Grossinger, New York.



2. Grossinger's includes facilities of all sorts; indoor and outdoor swimming pools, golf courses, tennis courts, night clubs and banquet halls. Accommodations are up to 2000.

3. The package deal would cost the average senior in attendance around $18.00 for the entire stay. Included in this fee would be all food and room costs. The sum allocation from the Senior Class treasury would allow for this price.

Summing up the senior class's intention of having its activities at Grossinger's, Senior Week chairman Henry Barr stated that it would provide for a "centralization of activities with "closeness" and a "real sense of class spirit."

Barr further stated that detailed information would be sent to all seniors before the start of second semester and that reservations would begin as early as March.

Also brought up at the regular Student Senate meeting, was the Senate's budget, bylaws and picketing.

New Hancock Tower will be erected in Copley Square.

Hancock Will "Top" Prudential in 1971

Prudential will lose its title as the tallest building in Boston to the John Hancock Life Insurance Company. Hancock announced Monday plans for a $75-million office building in Copley Square to be completed in 1971.

This 60-story Tower will be eight stories higher than the present Prudential building. The Tower is designed to reflect sunlight and artificial city lights at night. It will be rhomboid in shape and sheathed in glass.

President Robert E. Slater stated that the building reflected management's faith in the future growth of the Boston area. "It is our desire to create and provide jobs here, to contribute to the economic well-spring of the state and city," Slater said.

"We hope, at the same time," he continued, "to find in the years ahead a balance in fiscal responsibility and enlightened tax reform, not for the sake of John Hancock alone, but for any company conducting its business within the Commonwealth or Boston's city limits."

The Tower is expected to meet company space requirements until 1990. Commercial space will be available for rental.

The 105-year-old Hancock Company, one of the oldest in New England, currently employs 6300 people. It expects to create 1500 new jobs next year.

Cambridge Residents Support Vietnam Policies

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Cambridge voters turned down a referendum question calling for withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam.

With the count of all 11 of the city's wards completed Tuesday the vote showed 17,742 voters supporting President Johnson's policies, while 11,349 said they wanted American troops pulled out of Vietnam.

The question was on the Nov. 7 municipal election ballot, but counting was delayed until Tuesday to allow for absentee ballots.

The anti-Vietnam forces discovered that they were in trouble when they carried Ward 4 by only 95 votes. The ward encompasses Harvard and Central Sqs., centers of activity for the Cambridge Neighborhood Committee on Vietnam which offered the referendum.

The resolution read in part: "Whereas thousands of Americans and Vietnamese are dying in the Vietnam war; whereas this war is not in the interests of either the Americans or the Vietnamese people; therefore be it resolved that the people of the city of Cambridge urge the prompt return of American soldiers from Vietnam."

Three weeks ago, voters in San Francisco rejected a similar referendum by a 2-1 margin.

Final results of the balloting showed that antiwar forces came out on top in only four of the city's wards—all of them in the so-called "academic sections" of the city.

Both sides claimed a victory of sorts.

Mrs. Carolyn Carr, co-chairman of the Cambridge Neighborhood Committee on Vietnam, said the results showed "a distinct trend in the repudiation of the administration."

State Sen. Francis X. McCann, D-Cambridge, said he received a phone call from Presidential Assistant John Roche. McCann quoted Roch as saying he was "delighted" with the outcome, and that he would inform Pres. Johnson.

GM Is Next On UAW List For Contracts

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers, with Ford and Chrysler new contracts all wrapped up, moved on to General Motors Monday with indications that automation and use of computers would be major problems.

UAW officials distributed a 24-pg. release in which they accused GM of trying to remove some auto jobs from UAW category by putting them into computerized fields with white collar, non-union workers.

Setting the battle line for some anticipated hardnosed bargaining, the UAW told GM: "The union never has complained of automation. In fact, it has staunchly defended automation, often in spite of membership belief that automation is good for the economy and the total community.

"The union cannot continue to defend it if it is coupled with continuous displacement and erosion of the union with the new method arbitrarily assigned to salary."

GM V.-Pres. labor relations Louis G. Seaton had told newsmen earlier Monday as he emerged from a preliminary meeting with the U A W that he was optimistic.

Out-of-Staters Need Auto Decal

Non-resident students who drive out-of-state registered motor vehicles for more than 30 days between Sept. 1 and Aug. 31 must display a Registry of Motor Vehicles indentification decal on the upper center of the windshield.

Such students must file a statement in triplicate which includes the following information:

- License plate number and state or country of registration.
- Make and style of motor vehicle.
- Name and address of owner of motor vehicle.
- Name of student operator, his legal residence, and his residence while attending school or college.
- The names and addresses of all insurers providing liability insurance covering operation of the motor vehicle.

A fine of not more than $50 is provided for students who reglect to file. Forms and decals are available at the University Police Department.

This requirement is in addition to the motor vehicle registration which the University requires.

WORLD NEWS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In the news from around the world:

GENEVA (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union are considering important amendments to their joint draft treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons, informed sources reported Tuesday.

HONG KONG (AP) — A Chinese police constable was ambushed and stabbed to death Tuesday in a resettlement area troubled by Communist violence since last May.

KIEL, Germany (AP) — The 10th and most modern submarine of the West German navy was commissioned at a ceremony Tuesday at this Baltic Sea port.

MOSCOW (AP) — Red Guards have resumed their riotous ways in Peking after a quiet period and in Communist China's far western Sinkiang Province have had serious clashes with the army, Tass reported Tuesday.

S.E.N.D.O.F.F. Highlighted by Simon and Garfunkel Concert

By DICK KLINE
News Editor

The major musical highlight of the S.E.N.D.O.F.F. weekend will be the appearance of Simon and Garfunkel. Recently hailed by critic Robert Shelton of the New York Times as "the fastest-rising popular vocal duo in the land," they will appear on Sunday, Dec. 3 at 7 p.m. in the Cage.

This remarkably gifted team came up via the typical route of Greenwich Village coffeehouses and moved on to performances at the Edinburgh Folk Festival and the Troubador and Enterprise in London.

They have been seen on various television shows and are currently presenting a series of concerts on college campuses throughout the United States and Canada.

The duo became famous when their first Columbia single, "The Sounds of Silence," became the country's best-selling record and subsequently won a Gold Record for sales of over 1,000,000 copies. Other singles, "Homeward Bound," "I Am a Rock," "The Dangling Conversation" and "A Hazy Shade of Winter," have all been hits.

They have also done three best-selling albums for Columbia: "Wednesday Morning, 3 A.M.," "Sounds of Silence" and "Parsley, Sage, Rosemary and Thyme," the latter currently among the top five LP's in the nation.

A testimony to their popularity was the capacity audience of 14,000 present for their concert this past summer at the Forest Hills Stadium in New York. In demand for concerts throughout the country, they also appear frequently on television and have been seen on such programs as "The Ed Sullivan Show," "Hullabaloo" and "The Red Skelton Show."

A European tour in the summer of 1966, including television and concert performances in France, the Netherlands, Sweden and England met with enormous enthusiasm, and plans are now underway for a tour covering Australia, Hawaii, the Philippines and Japan.

Most of all, "They are busy," as Robert Shelton further remarked, "saying more—in music and lyrics—in the new pop idiom they are helping to define and popularize." What they say is about alienation, loneliness, lack of communication and other problems of urban society.

Sometimes referred to as folk-rock performers, Paul Simon and Art Garfunkel object to such facile categories. "We just sing about the things we see going on around us," they say. "They're really no labels for it."

They began singing together when they were about thirteen spending their time after school in long, serious rehearsals, listening to each other's pronunciations and working at matching and balancing their voices. "We started doing some stuff at school and went around to a couple of record companies, but then it was time for college."

The two went their separate ways, Paul to major in English literature at Queens College, and Art to Columbia University, where he is now a graduate student.

During their early college years, what they now call a "dig-yourself competition" led to a breach in their friendship, but "we got over it and got back together." In the meantime, Paul had begun to do his own song-writing and, following his graduation, had gone on the first of his frequent jaunts to Europe.

Periodically, Art, in between exams, term papers and other demands of student life, joined Paul, and the two became quite well known in England. The release of "The Sounds of Silence," in a reversal of the usual sequence of events, brought them to the forefront in their own country.

Loosely described, their songs are in the mold of traditional folk with rock overtones, and at their center are preoccupations with loneliness, illusory existence, the pain of time passing and lack of communication. And this is what will be presented to the UMass audience on December 3.

UNICEF
CHRISTMAS
CARD SALE
Nov. 27,-- Dec. 1, 1967
9-5 p. m.

Black Power Advocate Indicted

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Fred Horace Brooks, 21, the Black Power advocate who directed Nashville's "Liberation School" during the summer, was indicted Tuesday on a charge of dodging the draft.

No trial date has been set.

He lost his student deferment when he was suspended from Tennessee A&I State University following riots in the campus area last April.

Brooks testified before a Senate subcommittee last week he thought Negroes should gain power by "any means available."

IKE Favors "Pursuit" In Demilitarized Zone

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said Tuesday night he would approve of invading the demilitarized zone in Vietnam and of engaging in "hot pursuit" of Red ground forces into Laos and Cambodia and by air even into Red China.

Eisenhower said he believed in hot pursuit by both ground and air forces, and he discounted the possibility of major intervention by the Soviet Union or Red China.

He said another 100,000 men should be sent to Vietnam "to just clean that thing up more quickly."

He spoke in a taped interview on the CBS television network.

The former Republican president and Allied commander in World War II appeared with the nation's only other living five-star general, Omar N. Bradley.

Eisenhower said he opposed the idea of a "sacresanct line" on a map which U.S. troops cannot cross.

"As far as I'm concerned," he said, I would be for what we call 'hot pursuit' even in the air, if . . ."

"Or on the ground?" asked Bradley.

"Or on the ground, that's right. And if you're chasing some people and they just step over into Cambodia or Laos, I wouldn't—it wouldn't bother me. I'd go at 'em as long as they'd come in there in the first place.

"And in this same way, the air. If an airplane attacked me, and we wanted to chase him, I'd go in wherever his base was, as far as I'm concerned."

"Including China?" asked CBS newsman Harry Reasoner.

"Yes, wherever his base comes," replied Eisenhower.

At another point, Eisenhower said he discounted any intervention by Russia of China, "on a major basis."

"I discount it," he said, "because Communists operate on the basis of their own plans. Whether they be aggressive or for the moment they want to be quiescent—whatever. They do not do this by reaction, or some first action they see elsewhere."

Morrisey Returns from Advisory Trip

Robert J. Morrissey, director of placement and financial aid services at UMass, has returned from a four-day study of the career counseling and placement program at St. Augustine's College in Raleigh, N.C.

This is the ninth predominantly Negro college Morrissey has visited in the past two years as a member of teams provided by the College Placement Service, Inc. The educational, advisory and service organization offers its assistance at no cost to developing colleges and universities.

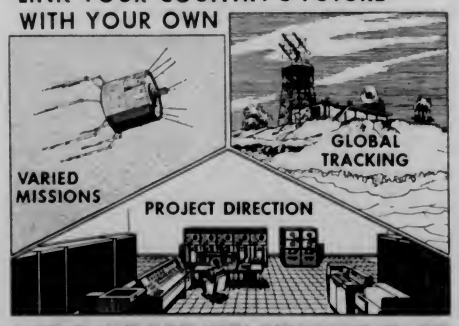
The College Placement Service Operates with funds from a three-year $310,000 grant from the Ford Foundation.

Morrissey was assisted by Nathaniel Dickerson, employment specialist, General Foods Corporation; Miss Fannie Mitchel, director of placement, Duke University; and Robert P. Alexander, director of placement, Marshall University.

Greeks Reach No Decision

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — An urgent Greek Cabinet meeting on the Cyprus crisis failed Tuesday night to produce agreement to Turkish demands. Western alliance mediators immediately decided on new visits to Ankara, Turkey and to Cyprus to deal with points of difference.

Foreign Minister Panayiotis Pipinelis emerged from the Athens talks over Turkey's demands and said: "There has been no approval yet."



This came after a long day and night of consultations from which the government earlier had promised a decision one way or the other, as a spokesman put it, for peace or possible war.

The foreign minister told newsmen, "No agreement has been reached with the Turks." He said he saw the situation as "delicate and dangerous."

Asked if he thought war possible, Pipinelis appeared thoughtful and replied: "Yes, it is possible. It is less of a possibility now."

If you see
news in the making
Call the MDC
Hotline
545-2550

GROW WITH THE SPACE AGE AT NASA
GODDARD SPACE FLIGHT CENTER
GREENBELT, MD.
ENGINEERS-SCIENTISTS-MATHEMATICIANS
LINK YOUR COUNTRY'S FUTURE WITH YOUR OWN

A GODDARD SPACE FLIGHT CENTER REPRESENTATIVE WILL VISIT YOUR CAMPUS TO DISCUSS YOUR CAREER OPPORTUNITIES WITH THIS GROWING NASA CENTER ON: December 6

WOMEN OF SOUTHWEST
Selections for Area Judiciary
will be held in the Union
on Thursday, Nov. 30
from 6:30 to 8:30
You Are Needed!

There Will Be
Special Express Buses
To Boston after
Simon & Garfunkel Concert

Fewer Than One in Ten Know the Kicks; Nine out of Ten Realize the Risks

By WAYNE SOINI
Staff Reporter

Girls either take them on the sly or abstain. Boys acknowledge them when scared. "They" are drugs and the boys and girls are men and women of the four colleges in the area.

All-girl Smith and Mount Holyoke Colleges have found no problem. All-boy Amherst College declines to estimate. Co-ed University of Massachusetts has received more drug patients than Amherst at its infirmary but has no evidence that any more than one out of 10 of its students have ever tried any illegal drug. All four campuses offered education in drugs by pen last semester. Two of them, Mount Holyoke and Amherst, continue the program by podium this semester. Smith and UMass depend on student-initiated lecture and book withdrawls for their program this semester. Here is the full report.

"There is not a drug problem at Smith to my knowledge," Dean of Students Helen Russell told The Collegian. "I'd say most of us here are drug virgins," one Smithie estimated. Dr. Elizabeth Grimm, Infirmary head at Smith, said that Smith has no drug problem.

Last spring a medical fact prepared by the Smith Infirmary was distributed to students and faculty. It contained definitions and listed effects of various drugs. "We felt that students were reading distortions and inaccuracies about drugs in the lay press," Dr. Grimm said of the need for such a fact sheet.

Since many books are available from the Infirmary library, a special supplement or re-issuance of the sheet is not considered necessary at present at Smith.

Mount Holyoke Acts

Last semester, Mount Holyoke College at South Hadley issued this statement from its Dean of Students Ruth E. Warfel: "We do not have—to the best of our knowledge—a problem in the area of drug usage." Nonetheless, to counteract "the kinds of generalizations about drugs being made in some areas of the public press," the school distributed U.S. Food and Drug Administration information about drugs to all students and faculty.

This month in a telephone interview, Dean Warfel confirmed that Mount Holyoke still has no drug problem to the best of the administration's knowledge. She said the educational program is being continued and that at least one drug lecturer will be at the college this semester at the invitation of a combined student-faculty committee. "'No problem' does not mean that no preventative measures need be taken," the dean commented. "Any drug problem existing here would not necessarily be known to the administration."

Amherst Educates

Doctor Stephen Brown of the Amherst College Health Office stated that the extent of illegal drug usage at the school is impossible to determine mathematically although he believes that marijuana and LSD have been used on campus. "The two or three students I have seen with regard to drug problems in the past two or three years had taken LSD," the doctor said. "I have not heard of any narcotic-affecting drugs such as opium or morphine extracts being used here, nor do students confide that 'speed' or methedrine is being used here."

Amherst conducted a combined individual lecture-symposium program with four nationally-recognized drug and drug problem authorities on an October week-end. The series was well-attended, according to the Amherst Student office. Last spring a committee of deans, chaplains, doctors and psychologists issued a report on drug dangers. It was distributed to all students.

UMass Trips Lightly

"I don't think any accurate information is available for this campus," said Dean of Students William F. Field in estimating illegal drug usage for the Collegian. "Ten per cent is the percentage of affirmative answers to an anonymous questionnaire asking students whether they had tried a drug at one time or another," he said. Since only about a third of the student body returned the questionnaire, less than three per cent of the entire enrollment admit even anonymously to having ever used drugs illegally.

"The students we see are the frightened ones. They've had an unpleasant experience, gone through an unanticipated reaction. The vast majority have been on pot," Dr. Robert W. Gage, director of the University Health Service, said in describing the drug users he sees. Declaring that no accurate percentage or numerical estimate can be made, Dr. Gage said: "Comparing notes with physicians from other schools I can say that this university has less drug trouble than might be expected for a school of its size."

The Infirmary conducts a student-initiated lecture system on any health problems. Several doctors have been requested by various dorms to lecture on drugs. Last spring, 1,500 copies of drug fact sheets (differing from the Smith College sheets in including a bit of legal information as well) were distributed on a pick-up basis in the Infirmary lobby. Fact sheets on hallucinogens are available at the Infirmary now.

The informational program at UMass also consists of 50 or so books at Goodell Library. "Public interest and controversy caused a great production rate in these books in the past few years," said Acting Head of Acquisitions David Shavit. "Since 1962, our annual budget has been multiplied many times over. Consequently, every book of some merit, regardless of subject, will be acquired by the library." Ninety per cent of the Goodell drug books were published since 1960.

Four-College Contrast

Drug abusage on the four campuses would seem to run in an order from safe Smith and Mount Holyoke to larger problems at Amherst and UMass. The University probably has the largest numerical, if not proportional, problem. Amherst and Mount Holyoke continue an administration-based educational program while Smith and UMass have a student-initiated program in effect.

Comments from students at the four colleges would seem to indicate recognition of medical dangers by almost all students. Their comments ranged from the fanatic, "You're almost killing yourself taking some of those durgs," to the bored, "I don't read the drug stuff anymore," to the sick-humorous, "I'd rather fight than twitch," to the cynical "It's their health," to the rational, "Kids should know what they're in for, the risks and the kicks."

Mayor Flynn's Goal: Best, Not the Youngest

By JUDY LEONARD
News Day Editor

William G. Flynn, major-elect of Fitchburg, and a graduate student in government at UMass, states that his major only "gives depth into the pitfalls of the election process, but at the polls it doesn't make any difference. Voters still mainly vote on personalities." A major in government helps once the candidate is in office, however, he indicated in a Daily Collegian interview.

Flynn, a former teacher, at 25 will be the youngest mayor of Fitchburg, where he was formerly the youngest city councilman at 23.

"Politics is a fascinating area and not half as bad as everyone makes it out to be," said Flynn.

As a result of telling his students that "it is important to become involved in politics", he threw his hat in the ring for city councilman to prove that a dignified and successful campaign could be run. In his recent election as mayor, Flynn had no campaign manager but used a softsell approach, disproving the old theories of the need to belong to numerous organizations to be a successful candidate.

"I feel that I have changed the approach to campaigning in Fitchburg," he stated. Flynn did not present the voter with a detailed platform of plans for city government. He believes that "it is naive to be specific in a campaign", as it is impossible to know the extent and intricacies of the problems before taking office. Only general plans can be outlined in advance.

Flynn is concerned with the need for recognition of the of the growing value of professionalism in government. "You can't take a man off the street anymore and tell him to run the show. It is a profession now in governing a city."

It is for this reason that Flynn is an advote of city management, but this type of government requires a great deal of preparation, which will take time, he indicated.

"Municipal government is the weakest of all types", he said, "and much of it has failed because of the weakness in professionalism". Municipal government can't be on a person to person basis, although a proper administrator has good communications with his constituents.

Flynn, who plans a career of public administration, finishes his graduate courses this semester, although he will still write a thesis on some phase of municipal government. He said that although it is unusual to be a mayor at 25, this will not be a detriment. "I would rather not be known as the youngest mayor, but as the best."

Martial Law Declared In Malaysia

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—The government declared limited martial law in northwestern Malaysia Tuesday in the fifth day of growing racial rioting between Chinese and Malays.

BATTLE OF UMASS BANDS
DECEMBER 15th
Applications in R.S.O. Office
Deadline Dec. 5

HOUSE GOVERNMENTS
Be Sure You Have A Representative
At the Public Hearing on
VENDING MACHINES
Monday, 7:30, Council Chambers S.U.
UNITED ACTION CAN GET RESULTS

ENGINEERING OPPORTUNITIES
for Seniors and Graduates in MECHANICAL, AERONAUTICAL, ELECTRICAL, CHEMICAL, CIVIL, MARINE, INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERING, PHYSICS, CHEMISTRY, METALLURGY, CERAMICS, MATHEMATICS, STATISTICS, COMPUTER SCIENCE, ENGINEERING SCIENCE, ENGINEERING MECHANICS
CAMPUS INTERVIEWS
WEDNESDAY, DEC. 6
Appointments should be made in advance through your College Placement Office
Pratt & Whitney Aircraft
DIVISION OF UNITED AIRCRAFT CORP.
An Equal Opportunity Employer
SPECIALISTS IN POWER... POWER FOR PROPULSION—POWER FOR AUXILIARY SYSTEMS.
CURRENT UTILIZATIONS INCLUDE AIRCRAFT, MISSILES, SPACE VEHICLES, MARINE AND INDUSTRIAL APPLICATIONS.

Polis

A Viable Solution

Since the Arab-Israeli War of last June, there has been constant debate in the press and elsewhere as to who was responsible for the outbreak of hostilities. Talk has gone beyond that point and attempts have been made to show that this party did or did not have legitimate claims to the land. Reference was made to historical precedents such as the Balfour Agreement of fifty years ago and even the Bible to prove points.

The fact remains that all of the parties are there, the war is over, and continued bickering will not bring about a resolution of the inherent difficulties. It is time, instead, for the necessary negotiations to begin to end once and for all the possibility of another war in that sensitive part of the world.

Direct negotiations are the requisite of any solution. Such negotiations will give Israel the national recognition that is one of basic issues at hand. Face to face negotiations will allow the opponents to work out their differences and provide for a lasting solution. The absolute necessity for the Arabs and Israelis to solve their own problems is quite obvious. The repeated failure of the UN to bring lasting peace to the area in the past leaves no other choice.

Israel should withdraw from her newly won territories only when a reasonable solution has been worked out and not before that time.

Such a solution must include the following points: 1) recognition of Israel's right to exist and her national sovereignty; 2) An end to the state of belligerence which has caused numerous border incursions for the past 19 years; 3) The permanent demilitarization and supervision of: the Golan Heights in Syria to prevent their use as an artillery position to rain fire on Israeli settlements in the valley below and the Gaza Strip to prevent its use a guerilla base; 4) Internationalization of Jerusalem under permanent UN supervision to allow people of all faiths to worship there without interference; 5) A provision to allow unhindered international shipping through the Gulf of Aqaba and the Suez Canal under permanent international supervision.

Another very serious problem necessitating direct solution is the tragedy of the Palestinian refugees. This situation will be resolved when the parties involved agree to work together for the return of these unfortunates to their homes. Neither side can claim that it doesn't have the money necessary to fund this resettlement. If only a small part of the money that was spent on the June War had been diverted, instead, to providing for these refugees, the problem would no longer exist.

If both parties will cooperate, the Middle-East "situation" can be brought to an end. It is hoped that the UN representative being sent to the Middle-East can "establish and maintain contact with the states concerned in order to promote agreement and assist efforts to achieve a peaceful and accepted settlement." Then and only then will the people of the Middle-East be able to live undisturbed by the threat of war.

Bob Brill
Associate Editorial Chairman

Foreign Students

The foreign student program of the United States is a dismal disgrace in many ways, and we, the people, are to blame.

First, we require foreign students who come to America to be able to speak English fluently and they must be able to support themselves These facts make it obvious that only wealthy students can come to the U.S. for study. But the leaders of tomorrow in underveloped lands are the poor as well as the rich, yet we ignore the great mass of foreign youth. It should also be remembertd that foreign countries are likely to allow only students with pro-government views to leave their land, so many of thbose who are working for change in foreign lands are often lost to American influences.

Secondly, foreign students in America suffer mightily from alienation and loneliness. The Boston Globe recently stated that foreign students in America have a hard time finding housing and essential services. Colleges and the government do little to aid the foreign student in America in finding comfort and happiness here. Nor do we, students or adults, do our part in making our foreign guests feel comfortable here.

Not only professors but doctors, lawyers, milkmen and clerks must be warm to our visitors. Not only is it in our self-interest to have these young leaders of tomorrow like America, but think how you'd feel alone in a strange country, you'd want hospitality and friendship too. Moreover, foreign students who run out of funds in America or are enterprising enough to come here without funds are prohibited from working here.

They are denied many of the privileges we are so proud of showing to the world we have in America. Our laws and requirements are very restricting with regard to foreign students, and we, the people, are not concerned enough.

If we contrast this situation with that in other countries we would be amazed. In Russia, and Red China, foreign students are subsidized, are provided with housing as good as any available, and are picked from all classes of society. In France or Russia classes are taught in the language of the student, and he has easy access to religious and cultural centers of his own land, as well as being invited to participate in the culture of their host land. These lands do not try to change the students' entire way of life as we do in part, but merely try to earn his good will. They are investing in the future while we are lagging badly.

A feeling of "America First" and isolationism is occuring in America today, liberalism and internationalism are being ignored. Those who feel this way do not realize that it is through student exchange programs and the like that the interests of America, foreign countries, and peace are served. The best hope for international cooperation and the conquest of disease, poverty and prejudice, is through efficient foreign student programs

It is time the government woke up to this fact and began aiding students as well as getting with the spirit of reform America once championed. Meanwhile we, especially collegiates, must do our part to make sure the future prime ministers of the world don't hate us, they are our generation and our friends, and their good will is an investment in our future and that of the world. America has, or should I say once had, something to give the world; let's help get it across to the people of their lands as well as learning from them.

(The international club meets at 6:30 PM on Wednesdays, try it, you may learn something.)

David Baskin
Editorial Staff

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union . . . University of Massachusetts . . . Amherst, Mass.

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Chester S. Weinerman '68
MANAGING EDITOR ..... John H. Dean, Jr. '69
BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Charles Smith '69

News Day Editor: Jon Mickelson, Editorial Day Editor: Nancy Bourgoin, Sports Day Ed.: Martha Curran

City Editor ..... Jim Foudy '68
News Editor ..... Richard S. Kline '70
Editorial Chairman ..... Pat Petow '68
Sports Editor ..... Tom Fitzgerald '69
Advertising Managers ..... Dot Silvia '69, Sharon Kramer '69
Photo Editors ..... Paul Boliver '68, John Griffin '68

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the Daily Collegian publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amended by the act of June 11, 1943. Printed by Hamilton I. Newell, Inc., University Drive, Amherst. Subscription: $6.00 per year, $3.50 per semester.

Offices of the Daily Collegian are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0811 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

"...TROUBLE!...You've got TROUBLE!...Right here in ANY CITY...!"

Sam Spark Speaks Out

Common Dining Menu

MONDAY

Breakfast
Orange Jello juice
Scrambled Jello
Bagels with jello
Hot jello
Lunch
Whipped creme of jello soup
Sloppy jello
Jello chips
Jello and lettuce salad
(First five customers receive apple pie)
Red Jello with whipped topping
Dinner
Breaded jello cutlet
String jello
Diced gellatin
Jello and grapefruit sections
(First five customers receive chocolate cake)
Orange Jello with whipped topping

TUESDAY

Breakfast
Yellow jellojuice
French jello
Jello buns
Hot jello
Lunch
Jello noodle soup
Jello a la king
Stuffed jello
Jello salad with orange peel
(First five customers receive almond cookies)
Yellow jello
Dinner
Mystery jello
Mashed jello
Jello and cottage cheese salad with olive
(First five customers receive chocolat brownies)
Green jello with whipped topping

WEDNESDAY

Breakfast
Purple jellojuice
Poached jello
Toast and jello-jelly
Hot jello
Lunch
Manhattan Jello loaf
French fried jello
Lima jello
Jello and pineapple ring salad
(First five customers receive vanilla cake)
Purple jello cube
Supper
Daisy Jello with pineapple
Scalloped jello
Jello and cheese salad
(First five customers receive jelly role)
Jello role

THURSDAY

Breakfast
Clear Jellojuice
Sunny side jello
Jello squares
Buttered jello
Hot jello
Lunch
Jello grinder
Jello chips
Jello salad with jello
(First five customers receive spamoni)
Black jello with whipped topping
Supper
Mystery Jello or Braised Jello
Jello au gratin
Candied jello
Lettuce au jello
(First five customers get cupcakes)
White jello squares

FRIDAY

Breakfast
Water with jello crystals
Three-minute jello or Hard boiled jello
Hot cross jello
Hot jello
Lunch
Jello chowder
Jello 'n chips or
Jello salad plate
Jello-on-the-cob
Jello salad with assorted jello
Brown jello with beat-up topping
Dinner
Jello patties or
Filet of jello
Steamed gelatin
Jello in the half shell
Jello salad with bananas and cucumber end slices
Rainbow jellow with Rise

Campus Comment

In Response

A Response

This letter is in response to Jane Cotton's "Last Minute" comment. A senior who "cuts" classes and is hard pressed to attend a required lecture is only fooling herself as far as academic maturity is concerned. It is not the professor's time and money that is being wasted, but rather her own. When a person realizes that an education is presented for his benefit, and that true success is achieved though hard work, tolerance, and a few headaches, he can honestly receive his degree with pride.

Education is a highly competitive endeavor, and I'm sure Miss Cotton realizes that there are many less fortunate people who would really appreciate being in her place.

Doug Perry '71
Greenough

Boys

Boys from Chadbourne, Greenough, Baker
Why are you such big noisemakers ?
Why must you continue mayhem
Every evening until 2 A. M. ?
Is recreation here so lacking
That you must major in firecracking,
Or are your 4.0 cumes so strong
That you can rampage all night long ?
How about some peace and quiet
Without the threat of raid or riot,
So we can study, sleep again
And let our nerves and eardrums mend.

The Girls of 4th Center Van Meter North

1967 S.E.N.D.O.F.F. Queen Candidates

By BOB GORMAN

Last night the Sophomore Queens judges for S.E.N.D.O.F.F. weekend chose the queen out of the five finalists. The queen will be announced Friday evening during the Jackie Washington-Times Square Two, Bitter send coffee house show.

The five finalists, whose pictures and brief background are given on this page, were selected from the original 38 entries.

The entries were nominated by sororities, fraternities and dormitories. All 38 girls were interviewed by the Queens Judges which selected the 15 semi finalists.

The finalists were then elected in a campus poll held in the Student Union.

The unannounced queen was selected last night after the judges interviewed each finalist for five minutes, after the girl gave a five minute oral reading. All the finalists were then interviewed together for another five minutes.

The five finalists will be presented with Paul Revere Bowls during the Sunday afternoon Simon and Garfunkel concert. Also, the queen will be given roses Friday night and she and the court will be presented with corsages.

Their reign will start Friday night and will run through to Thursday, Dec. 7, when the Harlem Globetrotters top off the event.

PAT DIRSA

Nominated by John Adams Middle, Pat is a sister of Chi Omega. She comes from Methuen and is a Home Economics here. Pat lives in Johnson House.

CAROL VICKERS

Carol lives at Kappa Kappa Gamma, which nominated her for queen. She comes from Duxbury and is an English major here.

SUE DILLON

Sue comes from Natick. She is a sister of Chi Omega, which nominated her for SENDOFF queen. An elementary education major, Sue lives in Van Meter.

TAMMY LIPSTEIN

Being an out of stater hasn't hurt Tammy much. Coming from Wilmington, Del., she is majoring in Physical Education here. She was nominated by Alpha Chi Omega, where she lives.

FLORENCE BRYAN

Flo comes from North Weymouth. She lives in Dwight, which nominated her. Flo is an English major here.

HALLMARK, RUSTCRAFT and GIBSON
Christmas Cards
GIFT WRAP
and
FOIL
A. J. HASTINGS, Inc.
Newsdealer & Stationer
Amherst, Mass.
Open
Daily 5 a.m. to 9 p.m.
Sunday 5 a.m. to 1 p.m.

S.E.N.D.O.F.F. '70 WEEKEND

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 1 — BITTER SEND FOLK HOUSE--$1.50
JACKIE WASHINGTON
TIMES SQUARE TWO

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 2 — THE TURTLES
THE PILGRIMS
S. U. BALLROOM 8:00 and 10:15--$1.50

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 3 — Simon and Garfunkel
7:00 P. M. CAGE--$2.50

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 7 — HARLEM GLOBETROTTERS--$2.50
SOPHS $2.00

Young Republicans Club Will Help GOP in '68

By PAUL MURRY
Staff Reporter

A Young Republican Club has organized with Martin Tinker president; William Singleton, first vice-president, Arthur Levesque, second vice-president; Ellen McKay, secretary; Thomas Limero, treasurer, and Peter Miller, publicity committee chairman.

Appointments to chairmanships and to committees will be made tonight at 8:30 at the Student Union.

The purposes of the club are to stimulate an active interest in Republicanism on the campus and to help the party organize for the 1968 elections.

The Young Republicans will try to raise funds, in one way by having prominent speakers on campus next semester. These speakers will speak on political topics including the GOP and its new image in American politics.

The club plans to help local and state organizations by sending delegates to Massachusetts Young Republican Association functions. The club also will send its members to state and local Republican meetings.

On Nov. 19, five members attended the state party conference.

Young Republicans of the state, including Pres. Tinker, urged, for the resolution calling for the lowering of the voting age to eighteen. It was passed only after college age delegates worked hard for its passing. The GOP is actively interested in American youth and seeks them to become interested in the party and in voting.

The members who went to the conference met high ranking state officials and talked with Senator Edward Brooke. They also learned how a political convention operates.

Brooke Upset By HEW Delay In UMass Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Edward M. Brooke, R-Mass., said Monday he has asked Surgeon General William H. Stewart to explain the delay in federal approval of plans for the University of Massachusetts medical school.

Brooke released a letter in which he said he was shocked to learn that the National Advisory Council for Manpower of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has rejected the university's plans.

Brooke said he understood last month that a review committee had approved the plans and that $19.2 million in federal funds had been earmarked to help finance construction of the school.

"It is imperative that an early and favorable decision be reached on this matter," Brooke said.

He urged Stewart to meet with state officials "to review and resolve whatever problems are delaying approval of the medical school."

Professor of Phys. Ed. Has Book Published

Current concepts relating to the physiology of movement is the subject of Dr. Benjamin Ricci's new book "Physiological Basis of Human Performance," published by Lea and Febiger.

Dr. Ricci, professor of physical education at the University of Massachusetts, serves as director of the laboratory of applied physiology.

According to Dr. Ricci, man is both a biochemical and mechanical being. "Certain things happen to his circulatory and respiratory system when he exercises, be it athletics or work." The book points out what happens to the heart, lungs and fluids during this physical exercise.

The author introduces his subject in a practical yet theoretical manner for those whose studies include premedicine, industrial engineering, physical education, nursing, zoology, dietetics, physical therapy and physiology. Emphasis is placed on an interdisciplinary approach throughout the text with discussions drawn from the disciplines of physics, chemistry, engineering, and mathematics to supplement the study of exercise physiology.

Much of the research discussed in the book and illustrated with pictures was conducted at the UMass applied physiology laboratory, one of the most up to date in the country.

Dr. Ricci, a member of the UMass faculty since 1950, received his bachelor's, master's and doctorate degrees from Springfield College. He has studied under Dr. Peter Karpovich, renowned research professor in physiology at Springfield College and Dr. Rodolfo Margaria, M.D., director of the Institute of Physiology, School of Medicine, University of Milan, Italy. The author of many articles for professional and research journals, Dr. Ricci has written the book, "Physical and Physiological Conditioning for Men."

He is a member of the Board of Trustees of the American College of Sports Medicine and is their Eastern regional membership director. Dr. Ricci is also president-elect of the UMass chapter of Sigma Xi, national scientific honor society.

Freshmen, Transfer Students
and Upperclassmen:

SORORITY OPEN HOUSES

IMPORTANT !
CHANGE OF DATE
From Saturday, Dec. 2
2:30 - 4:00
To Sunday, Dec. 3
2:30 - 4:00
Also: December 17
2:30 - 4:00

Make Your Reservation Now
For Spring Vacation

BERMUDA $185
NASSAU $215
FT. LAUDERDALE $65

$25 REFUNDABLE DEPOSIT TO HOLD A RESERVATION

Contact: Dick Bloom, 18 Kellogg Ave., Amherst
253-7780

Round Trip Jet Transportation, Accommodations and College Week Activities

March 23-30

SPECTRUM
MANDATORY
Editorial Board Meeting
Thursday, Nov. 30—9:00 p.m.
Franklin Rm.

Juniors, Take a Trip
Washington, D. C.

INTERSESSION, JAN. 16 - 19, 4 DAYS, 3 NIGHTS

We will be staying at the plushest hotel
in the district at group rates, the HOTEL AMERICA
(indoor pool heated at 80 degrees—mmm)

TOTAL COST (everything but meals) $35.00

Deposit of $5.00 due Nov. 27 - Dec. 1, Student Union Lobby

Ranger Andy a Threat?

UMass Freshman Performs Magic Tricks

By PAULA SWENSON
Staff Reporter

Ranger Andy, a threat? To Mike Roberts, a freshman anthropology major, he is. Each time Ranger Andy demonstrates a trick on his children's television show, Mike has to cross one trick off his list.

Mike Roberts, who lives in Florence, earns money while going to UMass by performing magic stunts for children and adults in the area. Roberts, who will perform for his dorm mates at Wheeler in December, does not consider himself a professional magician, because he does not use a large repertoire of table magic, or sleight of hand tricks. His act consists mainly of stage magic or the use of devices, popular among children.

"Little kids like rapid fire magic," says Roberts. "The older ones want explanations." He uses large boxes, colorful silk scarves and large cards that appeal to children. He says rabbits are very popular among the younger set, and he usually gives the rabbit that he has produced from his top hat to one of the children in the audience, often to the chagrin of the parent.

"Few people realize the preparation that goes into a show before it is performed," he said. He spends at least two hours before a show, ironing silk scarves and putting paraphanalia in order. After the show, they must be cleaned up and repacked, he said. "Magicians rates are considered steep for a half an hour of magic," said Roberts. "Sponsors don't realize the total time involved for one show."

Being a magician is a very expensive proposition, he claims. To defray the cost, Roberts makes much of his own equipment, working out ideas from catalogues. He puts $5 to $10 toward new equipment for every three shows he performs and tries to add one new act to each show. He started working with magic when he read a book about Houdini.

It was not until his sophomore year at Northampton High School that he performed for the public, at a high school play intermission. In the past year and a half, Mike has had tutoring in the technical aspects and stage presentation of magic.

He has learned how to handle a lively group of youngsters and enjoys working with them. Keeping one step ahead of the children, he notes, has become difficult with children's magic kits on the market. He often does tricks from these kits and carries them one step further to maintain the youngsters' confidence.

There are so many books out about magic and television shows like Ranger Andy's that it is hard to fool people, says Mike Roberts. As a true magician, he never reveals a trick.

U. S., France Differ In Gold Standard

WASHINGTON (AP)—A return to a gold monetary standard as suggested Monday by French President Charles de Gaulle is considered impractical, if not impossible, by U.S. officials.

Such a move, it's felt in some quarters, could lead to a contraction in world trade, increased unemployment and sharp swings in domestic economic activity.

Some officials express doubt that even De Gaulle really would welcome a return to a strict gold standard where currencies can be exchanged freely for gold.

At the present price of $35 an ounce, the free world's supply of gold-listed by the International Monetary Fund at roughly $43 billion in official government holdings would be far them sufficient to finance world trade. . .

At his Paris news conference, De Gaulle said devaluation of the British pound from $2.80 to $2.40 may lead back to the gold standard.

The U.S. Treasury Department declined to comment officially on De Gaulle's remarks.

But U.S. officials to the man oppose any return to the gold standard. In some quarters it is thought De Gaulle's remarks may have been at least partly political since they were coupled with this statement:

"There is an American takeover of our business but this doesn't come as much from the structural superiority of the United States as it does from expertation of inflated dollars."

A return to the gold standard could conceivably cut U.S. investments abroad.

But officials said a strict gold standard would mean also that all countries must be willing to buy and sell gold at a fixed price and the United States is now the only nation doing so—at $35 an ounce.

Britain Won't Retract Bid For Entrance into ECOM

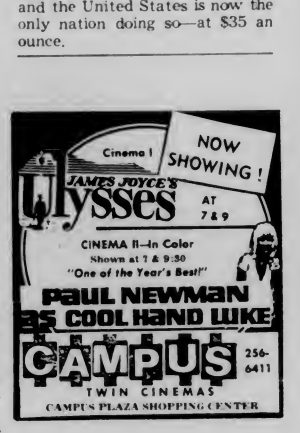
LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson stonily declined Tuesday to withdraw Britain's bid to join the European Common Market because of a new veto from France's President Charles de Gaulle, but Western Europe took a generally gloomy view of Britain's chances.

Wilson declared that "we have slapped our application down on the table, and there it will remain," despite De Gaulle's restatement of determination to keep the British out of the six-nation trade community.

The other five nations in the community — West Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg—were reported working on a strategy which might keep British's membership bid alive longer than the 77-year-old de Gaulle.

A meeting of Common Market foreign ministers is scheduled Dec. 18 to review the British case and De Gaulle's objections.

De Gaulle's new blast at Britain in his Monday news conference, along with his swipes at the United States, Israel and Canada, brought widespread repercussions and sharp criticism of the French leader even among some elements in France which ordinarily support him.



The Socialist newspaper Le Populaire said in Paris, "In 100 minutes, Gen. de Gaulle in the name of French called for secession of French-speaking Quebec in Canada, tossed England out of Europe, threatened the Common Market with destruction, called the United States the principal enemy and suavely knifed Israel."

Smith-Amherst Concert Sunday

The Smith-Amherst Orchestra, conducted by Edwin London, will present a concert at John M. Greene Hall, Smith College at 8 p.m. December 3. Lory Wallfisch of the Smith music faculty will appear as soloist in the performance. The public is cordially invited to attend without charge.

The program will open with a work entitled Hymn, Fuguing and Holiday by Ross Lee Finney who was professor of music at Smith College from 1929 to 1949.

Two other major works will complete the program. Mozart's Piano Concerto No. 13 in C Major (K. 415) in which Mrs. Wallfisch will be soloist, and Schubert's Symphony No. 7 in C Major.

Art Committee Makes Reading Room an Art Room

The Reading Room in the Student Union now has a new purpose due to the efforts of the Art Committee. It will no longer be a study room but will have the combined function of a reading room and art gallery.

The art corridor is inadequate for many types of shows due to the risk of theft.

In the future many of the art shows in the S.U. will be displayed in the reading room.

A guard will be stationed there for the protection of the shows.

NOTICES

NOTE: PINNINGS AND ENGAGEMENTS WILL NOT GO IN UNLESS THE CORRECT ONE IS CIRCLED ON THE FORM)

EDUCATION CLUB
All interested in attending Fall Convention of Mass. Student Ed. Assoc. held on Sat., Dec. 2, at Eastern Nazarene College in Wollaston, Mass. should contact Mike Glickman (6-7646) or Theo Snyder (6-9490). Cost of transportation and meals will be provided.

STUDENT SENATE
Senate will meet this evening at 7 p.m. in Council Chambers of Student Union. Meeting is open to the public.

SCUBA CLUB
On Wed. at 7 p.m. in Curry Hicks, there is a regular pool meeting. Information on new and better prices for equipment.

MATH CLUB
On Thurs., Nov. 30 at 6:30 p.m. in Arnold first floor lounge, there is a meeting. Dr. Cook will speak on graduate schools for mathematics majors. Coffee and donuts will be served.

SPA
On Wed. at 6:30 p.m., there is an important meeting to discuss action for Resistance-Week of Dec. 4. Check spaghetti board for room.

RUSSIAN CLUB
On Thurs., Nov. 30 at 7 p.m., there is an important meeting to discuss plans for International Food Fiesta. Refreshments. Meet at Salvic Dept. of South College.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB
On Wed., Nov. 29 at 6:30 in Governor's Lounge, there will be a slide lecture on Holland. Coffee hour. All invited.

HILLEL
On Nov. 30 at Hillel office, there is a coffee hour from 2-4 p.m. All welcome.
On Nov. 29 at 6:30 p.m. in Plymouth Room, S.U. there is an Exec. Bd. meeting. All Hillel members invited. A VISTA representative will address the meeting.

LECTURE OF PHYSICAL ACTIVITY
On Tues., Dec. 5 at 8:00 p.m. in Engineering East auditorium, Dr. Clayton Thomas will speak on "Physical Activity and the Female".

LOST:
Gold initial ring with S.S. on it. Lost between T4 and T5. Please contact Stuart Schneidermann, 1312 Washington 6-9104.
Scarab bracelet, Sat. nite near LCA. Please contact Donna 6-7460. Reward.
Round-rimmed glasses in plaid case, lost near Newman Center or Amherst Mon. afternoon. Contact Ruth Williamson, 111 Van Meter So.

FOUND:
GM key on broken chain in parking lot between Whitmore and Southwest. Call 546-8364.

PINNINGS:
Marsha Porta '70, J.Q. Adams to Chris Fredericks '70, APO.
Elaine Levine '69, Mary Lyon to Buddy Fox '68, Northampton.
Lucille Oberlander '70, SDT, to Hagan Andersen '68, TEP.
Margie Tucker '69, Van Meter, to Thom Arrison '68, APO.
Lynn Smith '70, Pi Beta Phi to Bruce Erikson '70, Phi Sigma Delta.
Michele Taylor '69, Pi Beta Phi, to Richard Moorehouse '69, Sigma Phi Epsilon.
Tammy Pomeroy '69, SDT, to Michael Mantis '70, Northeastern Univ.
Ann Thatcher '71 J.Q. Adams to Carl R. Adams, Jr. '71, Fitchburg State College.

ENGAGEMENTS:
Susan Pensaner '68, SDT, to Sandy Layton '62, TEP.
Sherry Rubsten '68, SDT, to David Calef '68, TEP.
Kathleen Sullivan '70, Field, to Normand Sanborn '67, Phi Mu Delta.
Anne Ingram '68, Chi Omega, U.N.H. to Tim Porter '69, Kappa Sigma.
Grace Bennett '71, Coolidge, to Kenneth Barton, Palmer, Mass.
Ginny Rochi '68, Pi Beta Phi, to Ron Peterson '68, Sigma Phi Epsilon.
Sara Mulofsky '68, SDT, to Daniel Steinbock '68, Yale.
Donna L. Hayes '69, Melville, to Rod M. Brooks '67, Kappa Sigma.

ART EXHIBIT
Greenfield Community College is sponsoring an exhibit of Joan Hopkins paintings in the auditorium which will last until Friday. The exhibit is open to the public. Miss Hopkins is an instructor of Design at UMass.

S.E.N.D.O.F.F.
Count Down
3 Days

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE

1962 Chevrolet convertible 283 V-8 automatic transmission power steering, power brakes, 2 new tires, winterized excellent buy only 50,000 miles asking $650. Call Lydia, 546-9631.

4-door hardtop sedan '55 Oldsmobile power steering and brakes, has sticker $50.00 or best offer. Call Greg at 253-9157.

1966 Sunbeam Alpine 1725cc conv., 4 sped, wire wheels, w.w., radio, will trade. Call Ed 546-9208.

1967 Honda 305 scrambler like new—must sacrifice. Tel. from 4 to 9 p.m. Granby, Mass., HO 7-2567

4 piece slinger and drum set. champagne pink. Zyldjian cymbals (4). All hardware. Excellent condition. $425. Call Jim Collins, 6-8843; 1709 John Adams.

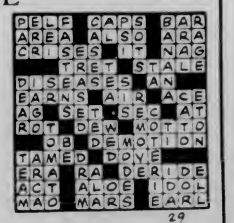
FOR RENT

24 feet Room
Refrigerator, cooking facilities, center of town.
Leader Rooms
159 North Pleasant St.
Apply at Bowling Alley.
$15 a week

3 room apartment, stove and refrigerator heated, $70 a month. South Deerfield, 8 miles from campus. Call 665-3758.

PERSONAL

Will babysit in our home near Amherst center. Call 256-6076.



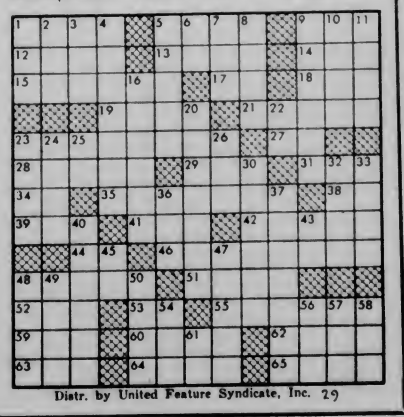
WANTED

Females — to write lonely G. I. in Vietnam. Sgt. Gary A. Blair AF11447466, 1880th Comm. Sq. (AFOS) APO San Francisco, Calif. 96320

DAILY COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED ADS
BRING RESULTS

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle



ACROSS

1-Servant
5-Dillseed
9-Chapeau
12-Monster
13-Arm bone
14-Time gone by
15-Looked slyly
17-Roman gods
18-Mire
19-Dry
21-Cripples
23-Ungrateful persons
27-Symbol for tellurium
28-Pillages
29-Dry, as wine
31-Take unlawfully
34-Behold!
35-Continued stories
38-Hebrew letter
39-Nahoor sheep
41-Sink in middle
42-Having more ice
44-Negative
46-Scoffing
48-Carried on
51-Rational
52-Lubricate
53-Near
55-Makes resolute
59-Poem
60-Additional
62-Algonquian Indian
63-French plural article
64-Body of water
65-Heed

DOWN

1-Cleaning utensil
2-Mature
3-Anger
4-Leaves
5-Examination of accounts
6-Baseball organization (abbr.)
7-Goal
8-Caudal appendage
9-Carpenter's tool
10-Chills and fever
11-Bushy clumps
16-Wipes out
20-Outlines
22-Near
23-Misfortunes
24-Midday
25-Proceed
26-Ocean
30-Subscriber
32-Unlocked
33-Mass of ice
36-Ethiopian title
37-Piercing scream
40-Corners
43-Two (Roman number)
45-Faroe Islands whirlwind
47-Artist's stand
48-Kind of cloth
49-Assistant
50-Wet
54-Also
56-Before
57-Meadow
58-Weight of India
61-Artificial language

29

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 29

Icemen, Under New Management, Open Slate

Young Squad Faces Vermont at Orr

By TOM FITZGERALD
Sports Editor

Coach John Canniff, whose first UMass hockey team opens its season tonight, is the first one to admit his charges won't be the world-beaters of New England. "The first is usually the most important, I've found," he says, so the proof of the pudding may be evident when the Redmen meet Vermont at Orr Rink at 7.

Icemen Cometh

HOCKEY SCHEDULE

Nov. 29	Vermont	home, 7:30 p.m.
Dec. 2	M.I.T.	home, 7:30 p.m.
Dec. 6	Amherst	home, 7:00 p.m.
Dec. 8	Colby	Waterville, Me. 9:00 p.m.
Dec. 9	Bowdoin	Brunswick, Me. 4:00 p.m.
Dec. 14	A.I.C.	Spfld., 8:00 p.m.
Dec. 20-21	Cod Fish Bowl at Boston Arena, Boston:	20th-7 p.m. 21st-9 p.m.
Dec. 27-28	Yan Con Tourney at	Burlington, Vt.
Jan. 26	Colby	home, 7:30 p.m.
Jan. 27	Williams	home, 7:30 p.m.
Feb. 3	Vermont	Burlington, Vt., 7:30 p.m.
Feb. 9	Army	home, 7:30 p.m.
Feb. 14	UConn	home, 7:30 p.m.
Feb. 17	Holy Cross	home, 4 p.m.
Feb. 21	Amherst	away, 7 p.m.
Feb. 24	Norwich	Northfield, Vt., 7 p.m.
Feb. 27	Holy Cross	Worcester, 8:30 p.m.
Mar. 1	UNH	home, 7:30 p.m.

Redmen on the Warpath

HOCKEY—vs. Vermont (at Orr Rink, Amherst College, tonight, 7:30 p.m.)

A highly successful coach in 11 years at Gloucester High, Canniff was named to the post last spring, given the rights to the first scholarships ever for hockey at UMass and sent out to find his fortunes in a hockey program that is based in another school's rink. Orr Rink is located on the Amherst College campus, on South Pleasant St.

Canniff's appointment followed the resignation of Steve Kosakowski, who called it quits because of an eye illness after two decades of leading UMass' undernourished hockey program. Canniff inherits a team that finished an 6-8 season last year with five straight losses.

The blond, 36-year-old coach, who played at Boston College from 1952 to 1954, still looks fit enough to score a few "hat tricks," but he hopes his players have the go-power to last through the 20-game schedule. His team, which has been working out since Nov. 2, plays in two Christmas tournaments, the Cod Fish Bowl at Boston Arena Dec. 20-21 and the Yankee Conference tourney at Vermont Dec. 27 - 28.

Several new faces dot the line-up, led by Captain Frank Buckler. This first line, which Canniff thinks is "physically strong and by far the fastest line," consists of junior Charlie Hanifan at center and soph Bill Fallon and junior Greg Stone at the wings.

A left wing last year, Hanifan "seems to be adapting to the new position," the coach said. Canniff is counting on the Malden native to light a fire under his less experienced linemates. Fallon, an All-Western Mass. pick from Springfield, two years ago, was a top scorer for last year's frosh. "Mike isn't big," said Canniff, "but he's rugged and he's got a good shot."

Stone, is from Needham, is "probably the hardest working player on the team," he said.

Starting at defense will be junior Joe Decicco, the team's only veteran defenseman, soph Doug Powling, Canniff is high on Powling, a former All-Western Mass. performer from West Springfield High School. "Playing with Joe should help him," said the coach. "Once he gains experience he's going to be a good one."

Either of two sophomores, Pete Scoville and Joe Smith, will start in the goal, Canniff said. "I haven't made up my mind yet," he said.

The second forward line will be centered by Don Robinson, a junior who, according to the coach is "a good play-maker, very unselfish." On the wings will be two more juniors, Tom Johnson and Jeff Sanborn, who are being depended upon for goal production. Sanborn reported in excellent shape and is sporting "some fine moves," Canniff said.

Sophomore center Mike Coine, one of the most versatile players on the team, will anchor the third line, and the wings will be Captain Buckler and junior Jim O'Brien. "He's one of our better scorers," the coach said of O'Brien, who stands a hefty 6'1-190 pounds. "His problem is getting in shape."

A fourth line will consist of junior Jim Karathanasis at center and senior Charlie Eaton and soph Pete Dawson at the wings. Karathanasis tried out as a defenseman, said Canniff. "He can play both positions. He might be money in the bank." Eaton is a veteran and a workhorse. he said, and Dawson "could develop into a good scorer."

Two newcomers comprise a second defensive unit. Bill McMann, a transfer from UMass-Boston, is perhaps the best stickhandler on the team, and one of the best shots, according to the coach. Soph Dave Sparks has impressed Canniff with his hustle. "It's the first time in two or three years that he's been on the ice," he said, "but he's in fine shape and has great enthusiasm for the game."

The squad beat Lowell Tech 7-2, in a scrimmage Nov. 17, but with only two seniors, it may be a building year for the rookie coach.

Sports Hotline

545-0344

UMass Stats Final Roundup

SCORING	TD	PAT(1)	PAT(2)	FG	PTS
Landry,qb	8	0	0	0	48
Grasso,wb	6	0	0	0	36
Sherman,dt	0	25(26)	0	3(7)	34
Hairston,wb	4	0	0	0	24
T.Driscoll,tb	3	0	0	0	18
Warnock,se	2	0	0	0	12
Cochrane,fb	1	0	0	0	6
Decembrele,tb	1	0	0	0	6
Lovell,tb	1	0	0	0	6
Safety	0	0	0	0	2
UMASS	26	25(26)	0(0)	3(7)	192
Opponents	16	12(14)	1(2)	2(4)	120
				2 Safeties
				AVE/

PASSING	ATT	COMP	INT	YDS	TD	PCT	COMP
Adams	5	3	1	32	0	.600	10.7
Landry	148	74	5	991	6	.500	13.4
Coltin	3	1	0	18	0	.333	18.0
UMASS	156	78	6	1041	6	.500	13.3
Opponents	201	96	14	1214	3	.477	12.6

PUNTING	NO	YDS	AVE	LG
Warnock	55	1999	35.6	52
Rogers	2	66	33.0	33
UMASS	58	2065	35.4	52
Opponents	59	2079	35.2	59

INTERCEPTIONS	NO	YDS
McArdle,cb	4	28
Rogers,s	3	65
Smith,lb	3	16
York,e	2	12
D.Driscoll,cb	1	15
Mlinar,e	1	12

RUSHING	ATT	GAIN	LOSS	NET	AVE	LG
Landry,qb	177	941	213	728	4.1	73
T.Driscoll,tb	67	241	27	214	3.2	20
Lovell,tb	65	229	22	198	3.0	28
Tutino,tb	35	147	3	144	4.1	14
Grasso,wb	34	130	5	125	3.7	18
Hairston,wb	24	95	10	85	3.5	17
Cochrane,fb	19	60	0	60	3.1	7
Decembrele,tb	22	53	13	40	1.8	6
Sarno,fb	7	31	3	28	4.0	10
UMASS	456	1930	308	1622	3.6	73
Opponents	391	1520	258	1262	3.2	65

PASS RECEIVING	NO	YDS	TD	AVE	LG
Warnock,se	29	424	2	14.6	44
Carty,te	15	213	0	14.2	24
Grasso,wb	14	245	3	17.5	37
Hairston,wb	5	64	1	12.8	18
Cochrane,fb	5	24	0	4.8	7
Sarno,fb	3	25	0	8.3	21
Young,se	2	17	0	8.5	14
Lovell,tb	2	14	0	7.0	8
T.Driscoll,tb	2	0	0	0.0	2
Tutino,tb	1	15	0	15.0	15

PUNT RETURNS	NO	YDS	TD	AVE	LG
Farnell	32	335	0	10.5	40
Frye	3	19	0	6.3	12
Rogers	3	8	0	2.7	11
Porter	1	12	0	12.0	12
UMASS	40	380	0	9.5	40
Opponents	34	319	0	9.4	36

KICKOFF RETURNS	NO	YDS	TD	AVE	LG
Farnell	15	436	0	29.1	68
Frye	5	78	0	15.6	20
Hairston	2	38	0	19.0	19
Grasso	2	22	0	11.0	14
Cochrane	2	17	0	8.5	12
UMASS	26	591	0	22.7	68
Opponents	34	568	0	16.7	49

FUMBLE RECOVERIES
York, de	3
Becker,oe	2
Scheralis,dt	2
Mlinar,de	2
Smith,lb	1
Gomar,rg	1
Stevens,dt	1
McArdle,cb	1
Nargle,qt	1

TEAM SUMMARIES	UM	OPP
Total First Downs	148	132
by rushing	87	74
by passing	47	54
by penalty	14	4
Own Fumbles	30	25
own fumbles lost	11	14
No. Penalties	52	58
yds lost penalties	471	538

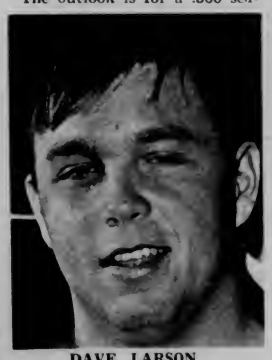
MermenMayLackDepth, Take First Plunge Sat.

Eleven miles a week, a mile and a half a day—the UMass Mermen, swimming in Boyden Pool, prepare to open their season here this Saturday, Dec. 2, at 4 p.m. vs. Tufts University.

Joe Rogers, who begins his 37th year as a coach of swimming at the University, will be seeking his 15th consecutive victory over Tufts. This year competition is intensified—Tufts will be strengthened by the addition of last year's fine frosh team.

The UM team, captained by junior Bob Asquith, must maintain the season record without former standouts and '67 grads Dick Lennon, Steve Levy, and Ted Severn.

Asquith, recordholder in four events, and "Diver Dave" Larson, both qualified in the 1967 New Englands. Freestylers Flip Morton and Mark Miller; and breaststrokers Al Northup and Brian Leach will back them up.



FRED ANDERSON

The only senior on the squad is hard - working Fred Anderson, who has been improving consistently throughout his swimming career.

The grueling butterfly event is the sole property of Rich "Cancer" Doneghue.

The outlook is for a .500 season. Depth is a big problem, and the lack of a strong relay team could hurt the Redmen. League competition is at its best: Amherst, last year's New England champion, Wesleyan, MIT, and UConn are on the UM schedule.

DAVE LARSON

BOB ASQUITH

Tonight's Intramurals

Court	Time	Teams
1	6:30	Hi Lo's vs. Elms
3	6:30	Trojans vs. Maples
4	6:30	Pines vs. Hicks
5	6:30	A E Pi vs. PMD
2	7:30	Numerals vs. Bulldogs
4	7:30	Hemlocks vs. Bruins
5	7:30	Redwoods vs. Buffaloes
6	7:30	Panthers vs. Rams
1	8:30	PSK vs. KS
2	8:30	PSD vs. SAM
3	8:30	Oaks vs. Hoovers

Gymnastics Set

WOMEN'S GYMNASTIC SCHEDULE

Dec. 2	6:30 p.m.	Montclair YWCA
Dec. 9	1 p.m.	So. Conn. State
Jan. 27	Away	Springfield Coll.
Feb. 3	Away	Salem State Coll.
Feb. 9	6:30 p.m.	Gr. Mtn. S. C.
Feb. 16-17	Away	W. Chester S.C.
Feb. 23-24	Away	Penn. State & Ithaca
Mar. 2	all day	UM Regional gymnastics championships
Mar. 29-30	Away	So. Ill. Nat'l Championships for Coll. women

Zorro, Mudcat at L.A.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers Tuesday night traded catcher John Roseboro and pitchers Ron Perranoski and Bob Miller to the Minnesota Twins for shortstop Zoilo Versalles and pitcher Jim "Mudcat" Grant.

Beban Gets Heisman Trophy

New York (AP) — Gary Beban, UCLA's record-setting quarterback, won the Heisman trophy Tuesday. The trophy is awarded annually to the outstanding player in college football.

Beban polled 369 first-place ballots and 1,968 total points to beat out O. J. Simpson, Southern California's dynamic running back. Beban will receive the Heisman Trophy, the 33rd, on Dec. 7 at the Downtown Athletic Club.

He earned the trophy this year with a spectacular season, gaining 1,586 yards in total offense and accounting for 19 touchdowns passing and rushing. He finished his career with 10 UCLA offensive records.

"It is inconceivable that anyone could be of more value to a team than Beban is to ours," said his coach, Tommy Prothro. "He can be a loser for 56 minutes but keep you poised for the big play that will make you a winner."

A scrambler, Beban relies on his ability to run almost as much as his passing. "I've always admired scrambling quarterbacks like Fran Tarkenton," he says. "I think they are the wave of the future in football."

Selected by the National Football Foundation as one of its Scholar - Athletes, Beban is an outstanding B student, majoring in history.

"He is our man in the clutch," said UCLA Athletic Director J. D. Morgan. "And to the players in the huddle, he is God."

"There's something about the way he manages things out there," says fullback Rick Purdy, "that gives everyone confidence. You just know whatever he calls is right."

He finished his three-year varsity career with over 5,000 yds. gained in total offense and established himself as the top career quarterback at UCLA.

Constitutional Convention Passes $30,000 Budget for Senior Week

By SANDY BORNSTEIN
Staff Reporter

Last night the Constitutional Convention passed a $30,000 budget for Senior Week activities. The week's events are to be held at Grossinger's Country Club in New York's Catskill Mountains. The basic median price per student would be $20 based on Mr. Burns estimates of expected attendance.

An estimated attendance of 1250 would warrant the subsidy of $30,000, which was passed tonight. The total cost is estimated at $57,000. Each student attending Senior Week activities would pay $18, but all Senior's would have to pay a $12 tax, whether they attended or not.

Before this budget was passed heated debate took place among the senators. During the debate Senior class President Wood clarified yesterday's publication of senate proceedings. Due to lack of publicity for the Senior class budget, President Wood attempted to get out a rushed story which resulted in oversights by both Wood and the Daily Collegian.

Senate President Collins favored passing the budget in accordance with the findings of the Arbitration Board. The Arbitration Board moved that the Senior class budget be accepted unanimously as long as it was publicized well in advance.

Senator Roach was opposed to this budget because many Seniors unable to attend the week would not benefit from their $12 tax. Senator Miller pointed out that the tax money would be used for other events as well as Senior Week. He further indicated that the proposed plans would enable anyone who wanted to go, to do so in contrast to last year's Senior Week.

The Executive Council plans to publish a newsletter before Christmas vacation giving details of the upcoming Senior Week.

Collegian Photo by Bill Dickinson
JUSTICE WILLIAM O. DOUGLAS

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOL. XCVI, NO. 55 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1967

18 and Warm

VISTA Recruits Volunteers

by BILL DICKINSON
Staff Reporter

"The University and the state of Massachusetts are among the top in providing qualified VISTA volunteers, so we come back." These were the words of Mary Grace Concannon, recruitment director for the Northeast Regional Office of VISTA. She and others are on campus this week to sign up volunteers for the program.

Recruiting she said, is going, "very well. This is our third day and we've given out 70 or 80 applications. Last year we gave out about 80 all week." Only about 20 of the 80 applications were returned last year, Miss Concannon said.

Recruiters interview each applicant with an eye toward telling him of his or her chances of being accepted.

The pamphlets put out by VISTA say that an applicant only has to be "18 and warm". More realistically, however, Miss Concannon said the program wants people who are 'mature and sensitive to people." They should "be able to understand the differences between their own culture, which is usually middle-class, and that of the people they're working with."

She also stresses that the volunteer should be able to take "a great deal of frustration" which can come from working with people who are apathetic or from fighting forces in the community which support the status quo.

Prospective volunteers can state geographic and project preferences. Assignments are available in almost all states and the work varies from community action organization to work with migrant workers to helping the mentally ill.

Miss Concannon and her two recruiters are in the Student Union lobby from 9 to 5 today and tomorrow. As part of the program, a movie, "While I Run This Race", is being shown in the Plymouth Room at 11, 1 and 3.

The Northeast Regional Office of VISTA is on campus this week recruiting volunteers for the program. Representatives will be in the Student Union lobby from 9 to 5 today and tomorrow.

Senate Passes Pay Raises

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate passed two bills Wednesday night giving federal civilian employes and members of the armed forces pay raises that will cost about $3.5 billion a year and increasing postal rates by $916 million a year.

Both measures follow substantially the same lines as legislation already passed by the House. Differences will have to be worked out by Senate-House conference committees.

First the Senate passed 85 to 2 a bill that will give postal workers a 6 per cent wage increase and other federal civilian employes a pay raise of 4.5 per cent retroactive to Oct. 1.

Postal employes will get another 5 per cent increase next

(Continued on page 2)

McNamara Resigns; Accepts World Bank Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara announced Wednesday night he is resigning to become president of the World Bank.

President Johnson followed through with a statement that major defense policies are clearly defined and "the course of our participation in the war in Vietnam is firmly set."

The two men issued statements shortly after the executive directors of the bank voted unanimously to offer McNamara the presidency of the 107-nation lending agency, a $40,000 a-year post.

Johnson, said of McNamara "I shall miss him greatly as a member of my cabinet, as one of my closest colleagues and as my valued friend."

The President thus obviously moved quickly to counter speculation that McNamara's departure might lead to a harder war line in Vietnam.

The Chief Executive said that while no precise date has been fixed for McNamara's departure, "I have asked him to remain at least long enough into next year to complete the work on the military program and financial budget for fiscal year 1969."

Johnson said McNamara had assured him, even while saying he was interested in the World Bank post, that he was willing to remain as secretary of defense "so long as the President considered it to be necessary."

However, Johnson also said the defense chief expressed the view to him some time ago that he believes the military service "would benefit from the appointment of a fresh person."

The President said that "I could not justify asking Secretary McNamara indefinitely to continue to bear the enormous burdens of his position nor could I, in justice to him and to this nation's obligations to the World Bank, refrain from recommending that he be selected as president of the bank."

Johnson predicted that "it will be possible for Secretary McNamara's successor to continue his able an effective administration of the defense establishment and our program without loss of momentum or effectiveness."

Johnson was lavish in his praise of McNamara saying that his service as a cabinet member and counselor "has been unexcelled."

McNamara, in a separate statement telling of his plans also said no date had been set for his departure, but had agreed to remain long enough to complete work on the new defense budget.

Justice Douglas Criticizes U.S. International Policy

By BOB GORMAN
Staff Reporter

AMHERST..."As we travel around the world, we see that prospects of democracy are dim."

This was the underlying point of a speech given last night by U.S. Supreme Court Justice William Douglas who spoke at the Student Union.

Throughout his speech, Justice Douglas often times did not go into details on the ideas he presented, because of his position as a justice.

He emphasized the need for more judicial powers in the U. N.—to prevent wars and nuclear holocaust.

"The U. N. has handled no more than four or five cases in recent years, and I think of the U. S. Supreme Court which handles 60 cases a week...Think of all the international wrongs that aren't properly tried," said Justice Douglas.

He often times questioned about the actions of this country in international affairs, and he openly criticized some policies of the U. S.

This country laughed at Premier Khrushchev when he proposed the Soviet Union, the U.S. and a third country for a board to review world problems. However, not until this country agrees with that idea will the world be secure, according to Douglas.

He went on to say that any international tribunal should be able to handle complaints against foreign countries filed by individual citizens. (Presently the U. N. only tries cases involving two countries.)

The tribunal should basically handle border complaints and certain set disputes involving the big powers, said the Justice.

Student Senate Holds Meeting On Picketing

A campus wide Public Hearing on picketing will be sponsored by the Student Matters Committee of the Student Senate on Tuesday, Dec. 5th, at 7:00 p.m. in Hasbrouck 20.

Student Matters has been charged with studying and improving the picketing bill passed by the Faculty Senate Ad Hoc Committee on Picketing and presented to the Faculty Senate at its last meeting.

At the same time Student Matters is discussing picketing, the Faculty Senate Ad Hoc Committee is meeting so that one unified policy can be obtained. Close communications between the two groups has been established with the Student Matters meeting on Sunday, Dec. 3, Picketing Committee Mon., Dec. 4, Public Hearing Dec. 5, Picketing Committee Thurs., Dec. 6, and Student Matters Dec. 6 and 10.

A final report will be going to the Student Senate on Dec. 13 and Faculty Senate on Dec. 14.

It cannot be over emphasized that an attempt is being made to solicit all opinions in order to come out with a policy that will protect every segment of the campus community. All members of the University Community are urged to attend the hearing and express their views.

PROPOSED POLICIES
Preamble

The Committee on Picketing believes that any member of the University community has the right to attempt to communicate ideas to his fellows by any means he selects, including picketing and other forms of demonstration, as long as the communication does not disrupt the environment from which the ideas flow. With the end in mind, then, of protecting and promoting an environment within which there may be a spirit of free inquiry and free exchange of ideas, we offer the following motions.

The Committee on Picketing moves adoption of the following resolutions.

Resolved

(Continued on page 2)

The Students' Senate

Activities Committee

The Activities Committee of the Student Senate has the responsibility to oversee the Senate policy concerning student activities.

Within the scope of this responsibility, the committee evaluates all charters and amendments to charters of all campus organizations desiring Recognized Student Organizations (RSO) status, recommends action on these charters to the Senate, reviews charters of organizations to be sure that they are followed, and reviews the Senate policy dealing with RSO constitutions, sometimes recommending reforms and changes.

Last year the Activities Committee was delegated the task of reviewing and helping to rewrite all of the residence hall constitutions as well as regular RSO constitutions.

This year the Activities Committee is following through in its task of assisting the residence halls in obtaining viable constitutions. Some of the problems faced by the Activities Committee stem from lack of knowledge on the part of those drawing up constitutions concerning University policy and problems of constitutional form.

Membership to the Activities Committee is open to any interested student of the University.

Always eager to help any group wishing to become a Recognized Student Organization, the Activities Committee meets every Monday at 5:30 p.m. in the Hampden Room of the Student Union. For additional information contact:

Ray Taylor — 6-9134
Paul Anderson — 6-8931
Ellen Moran — 6-9624

ART EXHIBIT

On display in the reading room in the Student Union is a Four-College Art Exhibit which opened Sunday and will run for three weeks.

Faculty members in the art departments from the Four-College area were invited to submit a sampling of their own works to be displayed.

Although the response was not as large as expected, the quality and variety of the work is excellent.

Draft Information Available To Concerned Students

In response to recent changes in the Selective Service Act and increasing concern of students over their draft status, the American Friends Service Committee has radically expanded its draft information service in Cambridge.

A new office, at 5 Longfellow Park, is open 40 hours a week to give advice and answer the questions of students who are concerned about the draft.

According to Steve Hedger, AFSC peace intern for the New England region, "Many students are not aware of the basic changes that have occurred in the Selective Service System due to legislative and judicial action. Between the position of the man who willingly accepts a 1-A classification and that of the draft card burner, there is an ocean of doubt and misunderstanding."

Hedger mentions several cases of confusion: undergraduate student deferments are no longer up to the discretion of the individual draft boards, but are mandatory for any student who is satisfactorily pursuing a full course of study in an accredited school. Furthermore, anyone who has asked for and received a student deferment since July 1, 1967, is no longer eligible for a mandatory fatherhood (III-A) deferment.

The most significant change has affected those who seek exemptions for conscientious objection. A recent Supreme Court decision in the case of U.S. versus Seeger clarified the draft law on the requirement of belief in a Supreme Being. Draft boards now recognize that "any sincere belief, which, in (one's) life fills the same place as belief in God fills in the life of an orthodox believer," may qualify one for conscientious objection.

Hedger says it is because the AFSC has had a long history of involvement with draft issues, including personal experience with the choices men have to make, that it can give competent counsel on these matters. In addition to the staff of 30 counselors in Cambridge, the AFSC has trained over 900 counselors for work on campuses and with independent groups throughout the New England area.

The American Friends Service Committee was organized in 1917 by American Quakers and has sought to give conscientious objectors to war, and others, a constructive alternative to military service since World War I.

ENRICO IV TICKETS

The Bowker Auditorium box office is now open for the sale of tickets to Enrico IV, a University Theatre production scheduled for performance December 6-9.

The box office is handling sales to the general public daily from 9 to 5 and is also filling mail orders from season subscription holders. The telephone number is 545-2149.

On Other Campuses

By J. GUIDO GRAIFF
Exchange Editor

WESLEYAN: Townies are revolting with Wesleyan students. The first incident happened when two Wesmen were standing on a corner when a carload of youths sped by yelling obscenities. The Wesmen replied in kind, which so enraged the youths that they piled out of the car and started a scuffle. No one was hurt, but many ugly threats were uttered.

A second incident happened in the same vicinity and the same pattern prevail; the exchange of threats and a scuffle.

Both incidents took place on the night of October 21 between 11:00 p.m. and midnight.

A proposal was made to the Board of House Presidents to ask the police to patrol the campus boundaries, but nothing came of the proposal.

SALEM STATE COLLEGE: A Salem State co-ed was assailed by an undentified man. The girl reached the school, and related the incident to Dr. McGinnis.

The Campus Security Police and the Salem Police were contacted and they searched the area.

Dr. Mauriello, Dean of Women, has informed the Women's Physical Education Department to warn all Freshman and Sophomore women against walking alone to the parking lots.

TEXAS A&M: No exposure this year for the Texas A&M football team.

Without giving any reason, the Texas A&M Board of Directors at a meeting last Tuesday announced that there would be no telecast of the Texas A&M football game on Thanksgiving.

The Battalion, A&M student newspaper, had written an editorial critical of the decision for Tuesday's issue but it was withheld at the suggestion of Lane Stephenson a member of the board.

One reason presented was that not enough cameras could be set up because of the amount of seats sold.

PICKETING . . .

(Continued from page 1)

1. That members of the University community have a right to demonstrate outside University buildings so long as they neither block free entry or exit from buildings, nor interfere with the free movement of any person on University grounds, nor interfere with the normal conduct of University affairs.
2. That demonstrating inside University buildings is prohibited.
3. That interference with demonstrating by other than duly constituted authorities is prohibited.
4. That the penalty for violation of above rules may be separation from the University or such lesser sanctions as may be judged appropriate. The determination of guilt and penalty shall be by due process.
5. That procedures to be followed by duly constituted authorities in the event of the infraction of rules governing demonstrations are as follows:
   - A. An attempt will be made to persuade the demonstrators to desist from practices in violation of the rules.
   - B. If the demonstrators fail to respond in accordance with the rules, they should be warned of the consequences and be given a reasonable period of time to desist.
   - C. After expiration of the reasonable period of time, duly constituted University authorities may request names of those who are acting in violation of the rules.
   - D. If persuasion and warning fail, the University police may be employed to put an end to the infraction of the rules.
   - E. If the University police are unable to cope successfully with the infractions, then the appropriate authorities may request assistance from the State police.

SENATE PASSES . . .

(Continued from page 1)

July 1 and other civilian employes at least 3 per cent. A third round of pay increases would take effect July 1, 1969.

The bill also increases postal rates in January of 1968. The cost of mailing a letter will go up from 5 cents to 6 cents and the price of airmail stamps will be 10 cents instead of 8 cents.

Passage of this bill was followed by 83-0 approval of a measure that would increase the compensation of armed services personnel by 4.5 per cent, also retroactive to Oct. 1.

The bill also provides that in the future the armed forces will automatically receive pay raises equal to those provided for civilian employes of the government.

If you see
news in the making
Call the MDC
Hotline
545-2550

Cinema I NOW SHOWING!
JAMES JOYCE'S Ulysses AT 7 & 9
CINEMA II—In Color
Shown at 7 & 9:30
"One of the Year's Best!"
PAUL NEWMAN AS COOL HAND LUKE
CAMPUS 256-6411
TWIN CINEMAS
CAMPUS PLAZA SHOPPING CENTER

The Welcome Mat
is always out
For the Students and Their Folks
who come to Northampton from North or South or East or West
Northampton is famous for its schools. . . and its favorite sons. . . AND, of course,
Jack August's
Where Sea Food is a Specialty
Open Tues., Wed., Thurs. to 7:30 p.m.
Fri., Sat. to 8:30 p.m.
Sunday to 8 p.m.
Bring your out of town guests to our famous restaurant; we'll take the "fuss" and "muss" out of your life, and your friends will like it, too!

Win a Rose Bowl Weekend for two

Mail to
INA Football Sweepstakes
P.O. Box 1901
Philadelphia, Pa. 19105

I say ____ (write in the team you think will win) will come out on top

The final score will be ____

The winning team will make ____ first downs

Name ____ Class of ____

College or university ____

My address ____

Send it off! Nobody will bug you.

7 days and 4 nights at the Festival of Roses. All expenses paid, including air fare round trip, hotel, meals, sight-seeing and evening entertainment. Studio tours. Nothing to buy. No strings. Runners-up win suit travel bags.

Just pick the winning team in the game listed below. Fill in the coupon and complete the tie breakers. And mail your entry. Read the contest rules and be sure to follow them.

FLORIDA vs. MIAMI (Sat., Dec. 9)

There must be a catch? None at all. We're sponsoring this contest in return for letting us tell you about opportunities at INA—Insurance Company of North America. No one will bug you. That's a promise.

This isn't the way most companies go about college recruiting. But then we're not like most companies.

Official Rules

1. Complete entry blank or facsimile by indicating winner or tie. Also predict final score and number of first downs of winning team.
2. Entries must be postmarked by Friday before game received by Friday after game.
3. Five winners per school will be determined each week in random drawings from among all correctly answered entries. In the event that there are no correct entries, winners will be determined by random drawings from among all entries received.
4. All winners will be included in final sweepstakes in which 25 winners of trips for two persons will be determined by random drawings. (All judging is being done by an independent judging organization.)
5. Contest is for full-time undergraduates and graduate students of the school where this newspaper is distributed except employees of INA and their families.
6. Winners will be notified by mail. For complete list of winners, send stamped, self-addressed envelope with your entry.
7. Void where prohibited. All federal, state and local regulations apply.

INA
Insurance Company of North America
The company that brings you NFL A.A. Football on TV every Saturday

SORORITY DECLAMATION COMPETITION
Monday
Dec. 4
7:00 P.M.
Mahar'

AT LAST !!! AMHERST HAS A BOOT CELLAR
AT BOLLES SHOE STORE
For Gals
Golo
Br. Brevitts
For Guys
Verde
Frye
and others

Job Interviews Coming to University

DECEMBER

FRIDAY 1

Sikorsky Aircraft
FMC Corporation
Carrier Air Conditioned
Pub. Service Gas & Electric
Worcester City Bank
N.Y. Air Brake
Geigy Chemical
Touche, Ross, Bailey & Smart
General Service Ad.
United Illuminating
U.S. General Accounting
Springfield, Mass.
Congoleum Nairn Company

MONDAY 4

Naval Research Laboratory
Jamesbury Corporation
U.S. Department of Navy
Factory Mutual Engineer
Parke, Davis & Co.
Worthington Corporation
Altantic Richfield
Haskins & Sells
DeLaval Turbine
Itek Corporation
National Jewish Welfare

TUESDAY 5

Ford Motor Company
Mobil Oil Corporation
N.J. Zinc Company
American Electric Power
Metcalf & Eddy
Babcock & Wilcox
Union Carbide Res.
Heald Machine
Firestone Plastics
Firestone Rubber & Latex
Parke, Davis & Company

WEDNESDAY 6

Ford Motor Company
Gulf Res. & Dev.
Iowa Highway
NSA
Pratt & Whitney
Morgan Construction
Standard Oil
Union Carbide Res.
Airborne Instruction
NASA-Goddard Space
Gulf-U.S. Operation
Wayne, N.J. schools

THURSDAY 7

Johnson & Johnson
Rohm & Haas
General Tire & Rubber
Standard Oil
Chandler Evans, Inc
General Electric
N.Y. Highway
U.S. Arm. Material
General Foods
M. W. Kellogg Company
Howard, Needles, Tammen & Bergendoff

FRIDAY 8

General Electric
U.S. Army Engineering
Union Carbide—I
Shell Companies
Burndy Corporation
David Taylor Model
U.S. Gypsum Company
Digital Equipment
Naval Air Test Center
Newport News Shipbuilding & Drydock
Computer Applicant
Orchard Hayes Company

Art Needed For N.E.S. Auction

The Northern Educational Service, Inc., a free tutorial service for economically and culturally deprived students, is seeking works of art for their auction to be held December 4, 1967, at 7:30 p.m. at the Jewish Community Center in Springfield, Mass.

Persons wishing to donate please call RE 3-2238 in Springfield to arrange for delivery.

WOMEN OF SOUTHWEST

Selections for Area Judiciary
will be held in the Union
on Thursday, Nov. 30
from 6:30 to 8:30

You Are Needed!

S.E.N.D.O.F.F. BUTTONS

AND POSTERS ON SALE

IN UNION 25c

The Simon and Garfunkel Concert will begin at 7:00 not 7:30 as stated on tickets.

1. What's a math major doing with "The Complete Guide to the Pruning of the Breadfruit Tree"?

It was a terrific buy.

2. That's what you said about the spelunking outfit you bought last week.

Listen—that was marked down 50%.

3. And the condor eggs?

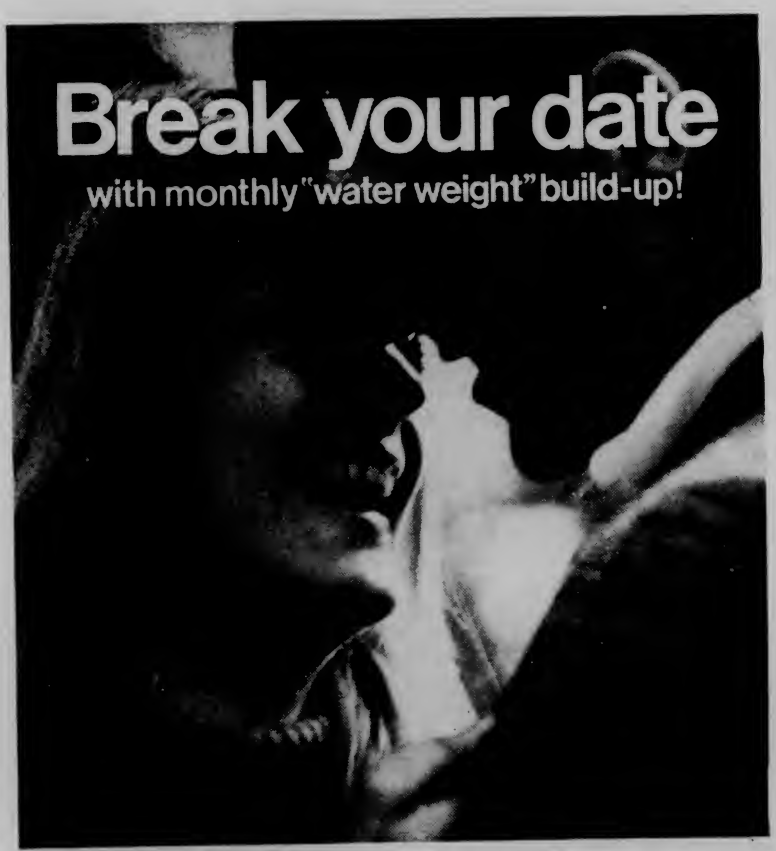
Could you refuse 2 dozen for the price of one?

4. No wonder you're always broke.

But look at the buys I get!

5. If you want a good buy, why don't you look into Living Insurance from Equitable? At our age the cost is low, and you get solid protection now that continues to cover your family later when you get married. Plus a nice nest egg when you retire.

I'll take two!



For information about Living Insurance, see The Man from Equitable. For career opportunities at Equitable, see your Placement Officer, or write: James L. Morice, Manager, College Employment.

The EQUITABLE Life Assurance Society of the United States

Home Office: 1285 Ave. of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10019
An Equal Opportunity Employer, M/F © Equitable 1967

Break your date

with monthly "water weight" build-up!

Pre-period tablet helps relieve that 2 to 7 pound monthly "water weight" gain that can cause pain, nervousness, irritability.

Discover Pamprin®, the medical formula that helps relieve your normal periodic weight gain. You see, in those 4 to 7 days before your period, your body begins to retain extra water weight. You look puffy, feel stuffy. The extra weight puts pressure on delicate tissue causing simple headaches, irritability, nervousness.

Pamprin gently relieves your body of the extra water . . . puffy look . . . stuffy feeling. Works before and during your period.

Get Pamprin now and be ready to break your date with monthly water build-up!

Pamprin

Now at the drug section of your store

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Double Jeopardy

A high level of discussion between the students, through their representatives, and the administration exists at this University.

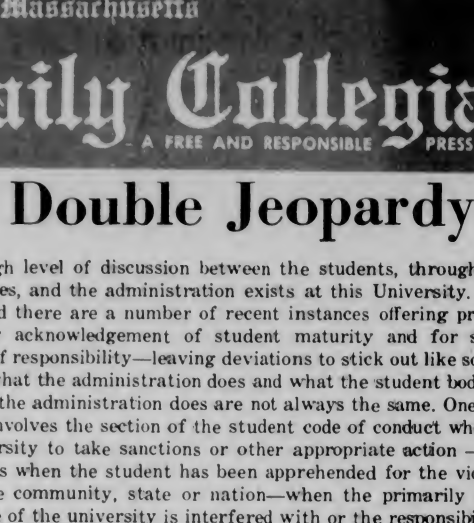
Indeed there are a number of recent instances offering precedent for University acknowledgement of student maturity and for student acceptance of responsibility—leaving deviations to stick out like sore thumbs.

But what the administration does and what the student body is willing to believe the administration does are not always the same. One disturbing example involves the section of the student code of conduct which permits the University to take sanctions or other appropriate action — including those cases when the student has been apprehended for the violation of a law of the community, state or nation—when the primarily educational experience of the university is interfered with or the responsibility of protecting the health and safety of persons, property, living accommodations, records, and activities of the University community is interfered with.

Like all of the code, this disciplinary section relies on procedural fairness for enforcement, i.e. the student judiciaries.

There are two ways to interpret the section, above, —one way, believed by some students to be the practice, we think more restrictive and another way, we think more liberal, which is the interpretation followed.

The University does not bring a case against a student every time he is involved in a court proceeding off-campus. Every case of possession of marijuana, for example, is not repeated before the student judiciaries.



The University policy is not to leave the question of whether the outside cases might also come under University jurisdiction solely to the judiciary. No case is brought by the administration unless the administration is first convinced that the case is applicable. Then the judiciary must consider this point and concur or not hear the case.

Dean of Students William Field told the Daily Collegian that he was not aware of a single case this year involving, on campus, trial for the same offense as off campus. He explained, however, that there may have been cases involving the same episode of action but not the same offense. He cited one case in which the student faced with court action asked for an opinion as to whether he was also subject to University action and the court said he was not.

An example of the same episode but different offense might be when a student is apprehended by town authorities for driving to endanger and brought before University judiciary for destruction of property.

It is sad that those subject to authority make that authority more restrictive than it is. It is equally sad, that students who assumed the more restrictive interpretation of the section offered no protest.

—Pat Petow Editorial Chairman

George Wallace for president ? . . . Oh dear, I thought this was for Ronald Reagan.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union . . . University of Massachusetts . . . Amherst, Mass.

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Chester S. Weinerman '68
MANAGING EDITOR ..... John H. Dean, Jr. '69
BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Charles Smith '69

City Editor ..... Jim Foudy '68
News Editor ..... Richard S. Kline '70
Editorial Chairman ..... Pat Petow '68
Sports Editor ..... Tom Fitzgerald '69
Advertising Managers ..... Dot Silvia '69, Sharon Kramer '69
Photo Editors ..... Paul Boliver '68, John Griffin '68

THURSDAY NEWS STAFF: Day Editors, Marjie Flanders, Dick Boucher, staff: Carolyn Foland, Sandy Bornstein, Karen Bruni, Jeanne Orenn, Marilyn Young
Editorial Staff—Ellie Skinner, Day Editor, Sports Staff: Murry, Day Editor

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the Daily Collegian publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods, three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amended by the act of June 11, 1943. Printed by Hamilton I. Newell, Inc., University Drive, Amherst. Subscription: $6.00 per year, $3.50 per semester.

Offices of the Daily Collegian are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

Polis

As Individuals

By DAVE BASKIN

The recent investigation of drugstore prices in Negro areas as compared to white areas carried out by Harvard Medical School points out a sad fact in American life, and particularly in Massachusetts.

Ecomonic exploitation of the Negro exists in the North as well as the South. He is held down and kept from developing his talents by subtle discriminatory practices even in Massachusetts. He is kept in ghettos and educated in rat infested schools due to racial prejudice and the fact that less money is spent on schools in Negro areas. The entire "system" in Massachusetts and probably in the country, works to keep the Negro politically, economically, and educationally, unequal to whites.

This state of affairs, leads one to realize how vicious discrimination is. Because of the degraded state of the average Negro, we tend to feel that all Negros are somehow inferior. This attitude of prejudice and unfair generalization is carried to other groups also. People tend to categorize groups, saying "all Italians are gangsters or all Irish are drunks or all Jews are cheap."

It is a sad situation that such discriminations occur, that people feel that one group or another is inferior. Not only do people fail to see the cause of group characteristics, but they magnify them all out of proportion and perpetuate unfounded prejudices.

We must learn to look at men as individuals not as categories, we must provide equality of opportunity for all men regardless of race, creed or color. So far America, and Massachusetts have failed. Extremists push hate pamphlets, "good" men and women nourish their own pet prejudices and pass them on to their children, and the color of a man's skin, or his last name can hinder his chance to be successful.

Luckily progress is being made. The very fact that the drugstore survey was made shows that individuals are concerned with the problem of prejudice in America. Hopefully, this spirit of liberality and concern with men's rights and well being will continue to grow in the state and country, and hopefully individuals will take action to make sure they are not discriminated against will help themselves up to equality; hopefully Americans will become less prejudiced and insular, more liberal and equalitarian in their views as time goes on. A start has been made, lets help it continue for its up to us, the nations youth, to make sure it does succeed.

Campus Comment

Manners?

To the editor:

Several things have called to my attention the fact that this University seems to have among its students many who have not the mental capacity of a three year old ape.

The first event was the destruction of a tree which had only been in place three days at the most. It was a sapling planted at the corner of the Morrill Science Building.

The tree was planted to beautify the area surrounding the building. Its destruction was a needless act of pure ignorance.

The one has now been replaced with three of a different variety.

How long will it be before one of our educated (?) apes goes for a swing through all three ?

Also speaking in threes, the less than intelligent fools who broke the three windows in the South Commons are to be commended.

Each window costs at least two hundred and fifty dollars. With labor added in, it will cost the Commons about a thousand dollars to repair the damage done. I hope with such a good arm you go out for baseball. They need a weak-minded bat boy.

The final act of this three-act melodrama came about Friday. I met with Mr. Blanchard, Manager of the South Commons. He showed me something that made me really proud of my fellow students.

Several youths (?) had taken their meals and dumped them on a tray. I was told usually this great group dumped it on the floor or table.

Oh yes, it's not because the food is so bad. They always eat first, then they go up for more food to play their challenging games with.

If you don't like the food don't eat it. But please don't show your inbred ignorance of table manners by playing foolish games and wasting it.

T. Roche

CANDIDATES' FORUM

There will be a Candidates' Forum in the Daily Collegian on Tuesday, Dec. 5 for the candidates in the Student Senate elections to be held on Thursday, Dec. 7 to fill vacancies.

All letters must be typed at 60 spaces, must not exceed 40 lines, shall be subject to editing, and must be signed by the writer. The name of the constituency should also be indicated.

The deadline is Monday, Dec. 4 at 5 p.m.

"One World"

To the editor:

Wendell Wilkie was right as he wrote his book "One World." In this day and age, mankind cannot permanently prosper as long as it is divided among mutually antagonistic nations, which obey no common law. This has been realized by statesmen and thinkers for more than a century; millions have dimly felt it.

So, we got the League of Nations and the U.N. But experience has demonstrated the impotence of both and, indeed, the lack of wisdom inherent in both. I would add, as an unprovable postulate, that collective multi-national leadership is bound to fail if tried again.

Now, if we grant that global leadership is needed, and that collective leadership is bound to fail, then there is only one alternative left, namely that of leadership by a single nation. And among all those that might aspire to leadership, there is only one which could possibly assume it, namely the United States of America.

I am convinced that the vast majority of Americans will reject this suggestion out of hand. But I want those concerned to take a second look at it. Is their rejection not due to an excessive humility with which they have been brought up? Or is it due to traditional isolationism or unwillingness to pay the price? Please remember, painful as it may be, that this was once called God's Own Country. Does this simply mean that you are to have more automobiles per capita than everyone else, and color TV and the rest, or is there more to it?

To me, there is no worse crime than that of a government equipping bands of so-called liberators, who are in fact murderers and arsonists scientifically trained in the art of disrupting society, and sending them across borders to practice their skills in neighboring countries. This is what Bulgaria and Yugoslavia once did in Greece; Syria and Egypt in Israel; the Sudan in the Congo; Cuba all over Latin America, and North Vietnam in South Vietnam.

I view all this as an outsider. I am not an American. But I am grateful to Americans who fight in Vietnam, and to those who in any way pay the price of trying to maintain law and order among nations.

Mogens V. Herman

NOTICES

RUSSIAN CLUB
On Thurs., Nov. 30 at 7 p.m. in South College Slavic Dept there is important meeting to discuss plans for International Food Fiesta. Refreshments.

PHYSICAL FITNESS LECTURE
Dr. Clayton Thomas will speak on "Physical Activity and the Female" on Tues., Dec. 5 at 8 p.m. in Engineering East Aud.

LOST
Round rimmed glasses in plaid case, lost near Newman Center Monday afternoon. Call Ruth Williamson, 111 Van Meter So.

Scarab bracelet lost Sat. nite, near LGA. Call Donna, 6-7460. Reward.

Gold initial ring with letters S.S., in Southwest. Call Stuart Schneiderman, 1312 Washington, 6-9104.

Brown notebook in hatch Wed. call Karen Schmidt, 584-0469. Reward.

FOUND
GM key on broken chain in parking lot between Whitmore and Southwest. Call 546-8364.

PINNING
Janet Caropreso '68, Melville, to Don McLean '69, Phi Mu Delta.

Gayle Fleming '69, Johnson & Wales, to Richard Mongeau '71.

Kathleen Toomey '71, Dwight, to James H. Collins '70, College of the Holy Cross.

EDUCATION CLUB
All interested in attending Fall Convention of Student Educ. Assoc. held on Sat., Dec. 2 at Eastern Nazarene College in Wollaston, Mass. should contact Mike Glickman, 6-7646 or Theo Synder, 6-8480. Cost of transportation and meals will be provided.

UNIVERSITY CHRISTIAN WORSHIP
On Sunday, at 11:00 a.m. in Mahar Aud., there will be a celebration of advent. Coffee served after.

MATH CLUB
On Thurs. at 6:30 p.m. in Arnold, first fluor loung there is a regular meeting. Dr. Cook will speak on graduate schools for math majors. Coffee and donuts served.

SCIENCE FICTION LIBE
Libe is open Mon-Fri from 6:30-8:30 in 110 Hampshire House, near SW. Come and relax.

PRE-DENT, MED AND VET.
Students graduating in 1970 or earlier who wish either to change to one of the above pre-professional majors or to register with Pre-Med. Advisory committee but major in other academic dept. should apply with committee no later than Dec. 15. Information obtained at Pre-Med Office, 231 Morrill.

ENGAGEMENT
Susan E. Bailey '70, Dwight, to James H. Dufur, Jr., Falmouth, Mass.

Vicki Shirn '69, Thoreau, to George Harvey, U.S. Army.

Mary E. DeSando '68, Coolidge, to Basil W. Robinson '65.

CAR REGISTRATION DEADLINE

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Richard E. McLaughlin reminds Motor Vehicle owners that the Registry cannot guarantee delivery of validating stickers, registration certificates or plates by January 1, 1968 if applications are received by mail after the close of business on December 8.

After that date (December 8) all 1968 registration applications—properly filled out and endorsed by insurance companies—should be taken to the nearest Registry office for immediate processing.

Four-College Bus Changes Schedule

The Five College Student Coordinating Committee announced Tuesday night that the Four College Evening Bus schedule will change as of Friday, Dec. 1. It is hoped that the new times will be more convenient for University students.

The bus makes two round trips each evening. Its purpose is to provide free student transportation between Smith, Amherst, and Mt. Holyoke Colleges and the University. Hopefully it will enable University students to attend lectures and other academic and social events at the other schools.

The bus runs at the following times seven nights per week:

	Cir. 1	Cir. 2
Smith (John M. Greene)	6:10	9:50
U. of Mass. (Student U.)	6:35	10:20
Amherst (Converse)	6:45	10:30
Mount Holyoke (Mary Lyon)	7:05	10:50
Amherst	7:25	11:10
U. of Mass.	7:35	11:20
Smith	8:00	11:50

Canada Changes Immigration Laws

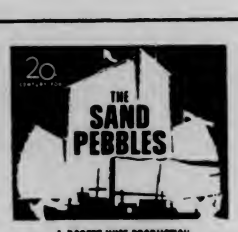
WASHINGTON, (CPS) — The factors used by Canadian officials in judging young Americans migrating to Canada have now been revised and codified in a point system.

Any immigrant scoring 50 out of a possible 100 "assessment units" will now be admitted to Canada.

Whereas in the past an individual would have been rejected on account of a single factor, 'the new regulations use a combination of factors in such a way that some of them may compensate for relatively low qualifications in other factors."

S.E.N.D.O.F.F.
Count Down
2 Days

Beautiful weddings begin with
MODERN BRIDE



Pick the world's prettiest wedding dress from MODERN BRIDE's big preview of the spring bridal fashions... learn how to make yourself lovelier than you ever dreamed in a special beauty feature... plan your honeymoon in the sun with a travel guide to Bermuda and the Bahamas. The big December/January issue brings you all this, plus a host of Modern Bride exclusives, including tips on how to make your home express you... how not to fight about money... the art of making two really one in marriage... making your first dinner party perfect... and very much more. Before, during and after the wedding, you'll be glad you didn't miss the new
MODERN BRIDE

At your newsstand now.

BATTLE OF UMASS BANDS
DECEMBER 15th
Applications in R.S.O. Office
Deadline Dec. 5

AMHERST Cinema
Now Showing
On Screen at 7:45
Sat. and Sun. 1:30-4:45-8:00
at Reduced Rates

A ROBERT WISE PRODUCTION
STEVE McQUEEN
Next • "Reflections in A Golden Eye" - Liz Taylor

"We're crooks (honest)! We resolve to make the world a better place to steal in!"

Filmways presents
MELINA MERCOURI | PETER USTINOV | MAXIMILIAN SCHELL
Topkapi
(where the jewels are!)
ROBERT MORLEY AKIM TAMIROFF MONJA DANISCHEWSKY ERIC AMBLER
MANOS HADJIDAKIS JULES DASSIN COLOR UNITED ARTISTS
Nonite! 7:00
THEATRE
Student Union Ballroom

1968 Graduates:
Engineering • Science • Business Administration
Liberal Arts

RESERVE
TUESDAY, DECEMBER 12
for an in-depth question and answer session with Xerox

That's the date you can "brainstorm" with our representative on your campus. Use this interview to find out what's going on in your field of interest ... be it research, engineering, manufacturing, programming, accounting, finance, statistics or marketing/sales.

Ask him how Xerox fits into the entire spectrum of graphic communications. Probe into the publishing aspects. Inquire about information storage and retrieval. Put your questions on a global basis and relate them to the knowledge explosion that's going on all over the world. And, don't be surprised if you begin to form some new ideas about Xerox. Xerox is that kind of company.

If you want to be a little more specific, question him about LDX (Long Distance Xerography). Find out what it is today and what role it will play in tomorrow's scientific and business communities. From this, engineers and scientists will realize the interplay of many scientific disciplines in developing new products, while the business-oriented graduate can discover the excitement of new challenges and opportunities that are emerging.

We're looking forward to meeting you and answering your questions. As well as posing some of our own.

To arrange an appointment, see your Placement Director.

XEROX
An Equal Opportunity Employer (M/F)
XEROX AND LDX ARE REGISTERED TRADEMARKS OF XEROX CORPORATION

Season Begins Saturday For Women Gymnasts

Linda Binney and Sue Clancy, co-captains of the Girls Gymnastics team lead their teammates Saturday in the squad's opening competition against Montclair (N.J.) YWCA at 6:30 p.m. in Boyden Auxiliary Gymnasium

Last year the team placed sixth in the National College Competition in Illinois. Talented freshmen will fill in for five members who graduated in June, among them is national YWCA all-around champ Marge Sims.

The next meet is on Dec. 9 at 1 p.m. vs. Southern Connecticut.

Last Night's Intramurals

KS 68, PSK 28
PMD 44, AEP 26
Hi-Los 45, Elms 28
Pines 37, Hicks 36
Trojans 61, Maples 52
Rams 53, Panthers 41
Buffaloes 39, Redwoods 34
Bulldogs 31, Roman Numerals 24
Bruins over Hemlocks, forfeit
PSD 40, SAM 30
Oaks 45, Hoovers 39

Photo by Pat Lempart

UNLUCKY 13—Members of the women's gymnastics team, which opens its season Saturday at 6:30 p.m. against Montclair YWCA in the Boyden Auxiliary Gym, are (front row, from left) Linda Binney, Ruth Morse, Dorey Finn, Laurel Milch, Janet Wozniak, Janice Smith, Ellen Clark; (second row) Nancy Johnson, Karen Haffner, Hillary Haendle, Marjorie Sims, Sheri Skinner and Patricia Sullivan.

Freshmen, Transfer Students
and Upperclassmen:

SORORITY OPEN HOUSES

IMPORTANT !
CHANGE OF DATE
From Saturday, Dec. 2
2:30 - 4:00
To Sunday, Dec. 3
2:30 - 4:00
Also: December 17
2:30 - 4:00

FREE DELIVERY TO UNIVERSITY—6 to 11 p.m. every night

RAPP'S DELICATESSEN

AND RESTAURANT
— Two Locations —

AMHERST, MASS.
Next to Peter Pan

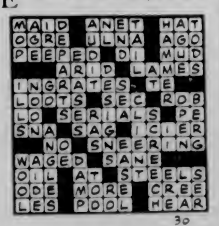
STORRS, CONN.
Rts. 195 & 44A—Next to A&P

SANDWICHES

Corned Beef	.85
Pastromi	.85
Roast Beef	.85
Tongue	.90
Rolled Beef	.85
Salami	.70
Bologna	.65
Liverwurst	.65
Turkey	.85
Tuna Salad	.55
Egg Salad	.50
Bagel with Cream Cheese	.35
Bagel with Cream Cheese and Lox	.75
American Cheese	.45
Swiss Cheese	.55
Chopped Liver	.85

SALADS

Potato Salad	.25
Homemade Coleslaw	.25
Sauerkraut	.20
Macaroni	.20



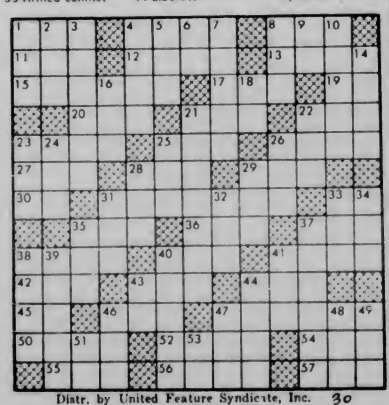
DESSERTS
Cheesecake
Almond Horns — Almond Tarts
Choc. Chip Cookies — Brownies
Eclairs — Cake — Others

BEVERAGES
Canned Soda .20
Pepsi — Sprite — Coke — Grape
Root Beer — Orange — Ginger Ale
Diet Pepsi

Order a Pickle
Try Swiss Cheese, American Cheese or Coleslaw on your Sandwich—Be Brave
"ENJOY AT RAPP'S"
Phones: Amherst 256-6759 — Storrs 429-6429

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle



ACROSS

1 Pronoun
4 Doom
8 Haze
11 Suffix adherent of 12 Tart
13 Exchange premium
15 Spite
17 Dine
19 Exist
20 Perform
21 Danish land division
22 Affirmative
23 Poker stake
25 Resort
26 Urn
27 Baker's product
28 Uppermost part
29 Goal
30 Latin conjunction
31 Capable of being held
33 River in Italy
35 Emerge victorious
36 Soak
37 Mournful
38 Break suddenly
40 Fondle
41 Bundle
42 Ventilate
43 Hindu cymbals
44 Suitable
45 Symbol for tellurium
46 Soak up
47 Painter
50 Reverberation
52 Ireland
54 Fish eggs
55 Lamprey
56 Repetition
57 Female sheep

DOWN

1 Pronoun
2 Greek letter
3 Tell
4 Datum
5 High card
6 Note of scale
7 Dropsy
8 Obese
9 King of Bashan
10 Flouts
14 Bacteriologist's wire
16 Frozen water
18 Near
21 Clothing
22 Sweet potato
23 Simian
24 Insect egg
25 Offspring
26 Contend
28 Number
29 In music, high
31 Gratuity
32 Wager
33 Crony (colloq.)
34 Poem
35 Armed conflict
37 Sarcasm
38 Satiate
39 Relative
40 Document
41 Small amount
43 Preposition
44 Liberate
46 The sun
47 Skill
48 Seed
49 Golf mound
51 Pronoun
53 Maiden loved by Zeus

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 30

Class of 1971

STUDENT UNION GOVERNING BOARD ELECTION

Pick up Nomination Papers in R.S.O.
Due Thurs., Dec. 7

This new Norelco Rechargeable Tripleheader packs the longest charge in history. Or economics. Or math. Or wherever you shave.

And it delivers twice as many shaves per charge as any other rechargeable. All you have to do is charge it overnight for two weeks of close, fast, comfortable Norelco shaves.

And you can use the Rechargeable Tripleheader 45CT anywhere because it works with or without a cord.

Either way you'll get Norelco shaves that are 35% closer. So close, we dare to match them with a blade.

But comfortable too because Norelco Microgroove™ floating heads' and rotary blades stroke your whiskers away without a nick or a pinch.

There's a pop-up trimmer for sideburns. Altogether, more features than any other shaver.

Elective II: the Norelco Tripleheader 35T. The closest, fastest, most comfortable shaver on wheels with a cord. The Norelco Tripleheaders. The biggest wheels on campus.

The close, fast, comfortable electric shave. © 1967 North American Philips Company, Inc., 100 East 42nd Street, New York, N. Y. 10017

Game Preparations--Chewing Gum in Helmet, Tape on Socks

By MARTHA CURRAN
Staff Reporter

"I'm not superstitious," each claims, but many of the players on the Redmen football squad had a private tradition, an idiosyncracy to bring good luck during the recently completed season.

To Steve Parnell, promoting good luck meant sitting in the same seat at every pre-game meeting and putting a stick of unchewed gum in his helmet.

Don Glogowski sat in the same seat during the Friday night movies. After the movie, the Redmen snacked on brownies and cocoa or milk — a tradition established by Coach Fusia.

"I tried not to deviate from the schedule from Friday afternoon to game time Saturday," said Bruce Cochran. But he added philosophically, "If something works one time it doesn't necessarily work the next."

The Registered Student Organizations (RSO) has announced that all bands on campus should register with them before December 20.

The office is now compiling a list of all of the bands on campus, to be provided to all organizations seeking a band for a function. The RSO office is the principal 'agent' for the bands on campus.

All bands, whether presently registered with the office or not, are urged to register before the closing date.

Dennis Gray comes from Salem where superstitious townspeople burned witches three centuries ago. Gray doesn't believe in witches, but he taped his socks up and wrapped more tape around both wrists before every game this year.

Taping up socks was a tradition shared by Craig Lovell and Bill Frye, too. Lovell also changed his shoelaces before every game.

Bob Santucci never stepped on a line going out on the field. A chocolate sundae with mint chocolate chip ice cream was the usual bill of fare on Friday nights for Ken Hughes, who always sat in the same seat on the bus travelling to away games.

Tim Driscoll wore the same sports coat to away games. Brother David said he was not superstitious but believed the outcome of the game depended on the way the first play went.

Jim Mitchell had to "feel sick before each game." If he didn't, he worried. Talking to his teammates and wishing them all good luck was important to Marty Scheralis.

Ed Sherman unbuckled the chin strap on his helmet just before he kicked the extra point after touchdown, and broke the previous U M record with 25 straight conversions.

Rifle Team Beats Stockbridge

Despite a shaky performance, the UM rifle team scored a convincing 1223-1177 win over Stockbridge Tuesday night at the Dickinson range, in the first match of what promises to be an excellent season for the Redmen hot-shots.

Lever of Stockbridge was top scorer with totals of 99 in the prone category, 86 kneeling, and 75 offhand, for a 260-point show.

The scoring: UMass—Gallagher, 252; Galierani, 249; Terrio, 244; Coons, 240; Wagenfeld, 238; Stockbridge—Lever, 260, Sears, 232; Clough, 235; Luther, 228; Proctor, 222.

S.E.N.D.O.F.F. '70 WEEKEND

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 1 BITTER SEND FOLK HOUSE--$1.50
JACKIE WASHINGTON
TIMES SQUARE TWO

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 2 THE TURTLES
THE PILGRIMS Tickets at the door
2 Shows, 8:00 and 10:15--$1.50

SUNDAY, DECEMBER 3 Simon and Garfunkel
7:00 P. M. CAGE--$2.50

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 7 HARLEM GLOBETROTTERS--$2.50
SOPHS $2.00

Juniors, Take a Trip Washington, D. C.

INTERSESSION, JAN. 16-19, 4 DAYS, 3 NIGHTS

We will be staying at the plushest hotel
in the district at group rates, the HOTEL AMERICA
(indoor pool heated at 80 degrees—mmm)

TOTAL COST (everything but meals) $35.00

Deposit of $5.00 due Nov. 27 - Dec. 1, Student Union Lobby

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
Sports
THURSDAY, NOV. 30, 1967
Page 8 Vol. XCVI, No. 55

Puckmen Lose Opener, 8-5, to UVM

By BILL FRANCIS
Staff Reporter

If last night's game at Orr Rink is any indication of things to come, it's going to be a wild season for UMass' young hockey team. But the Redmen lost to Vermont, 8-5, in the debut of Coach John Canniff.

Junior Jim O'Brien scored a three-goal "hat trick," for UMass but the Redmen's overall play was sloppy with only six returning lettermen and a dozen new faces on the ice for UMass.

As a near capacity house looked on, O'Brien scored the game's first goal halfway through the first period on an assist by Mike Coyne and Captain Frank Buckler but the Catamounts moved ahead, 2-1, on goals by Lee Roy and Jack Semler before the first period ended.

With only 18 seconds elasped in the second period, Jeff MacLaughlin bagged the first of his three goals for Vermont, but Greg Stone notched an unassisted tally to close the gap to 3-2 only 29 seconds later. After UMass' Jeff Sanborn failed to convert a breakaway bid, Bob Schroeder made it 4-2 at 8:31 of the period.

A wild- and-woolly third period included seven goals, begining with Curt Tobey's tally at 4:27. At 8:59, Steve Lane notched a power play goal, before Sanborn's unassisted marker at 9:47 reduced the margin to 6-3.

MacLaughlin's second goal came on a power play at 12:43, but O'Brien's second goal made it 7-4. Both scored again, MacLaughlin at 15:59 and O'Brien at 19:20

The Redmen meet M.I.T. Saturday night at 7:30 at Orr Rink in a scheduling quirk that puts the hockey game at the same time as the New Hampshire basketball game.

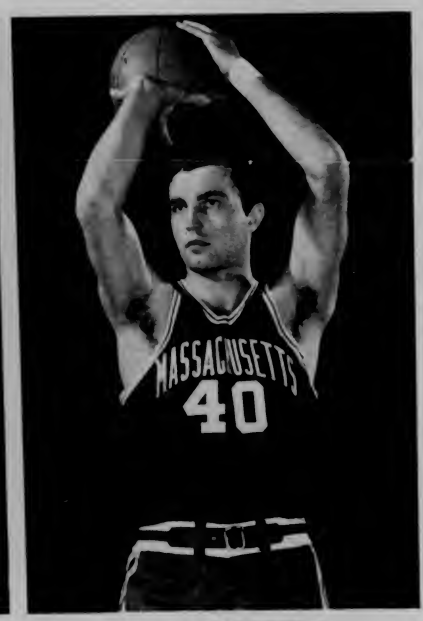
COYNE RETURNS—UMass' Mike Coyne closes in on Vermont goal in last night's action at Orr Rink. The Redmen lost, 8-5, in the season opener.

More Sports
Pages 6 and 7

WMUA to Carry 20 Hoop Games

With Glenn Briere and Chet Wronski at the mike, WMUA is planning its most extensive coverage of UMass basketball ever, starting with Saturday night's opener against New Hampshire at the Cage.

The station will carry the live play-by-play of 20 of the 25 contests on the schedule, home and away. All of the games except the two UConn Classic contests, which fall during the Christmas vacation and the Holy Cross, New Hampshire and Vermont away games, during intersession, will be broadcast.



Among the games to be broadcast are the two games in the Steel Bowl Tournament at Pittsburgh Dec. 8 and 9. The opening round game, against Pittsburgh, will be carried live Friday, Dec. 8, at 8:55 p.m

If UMass wins Friday night, the championship game against the winner of the Air Force-Duquesne game will be broadcast at 8:55 on Saturday night. If the Redmen lose Friday night, the consolation game will be carried Saturday at 6:55 p.m.

Air time for most games on the schedule will be ten minutes before the start of the game. All of the home games start at 8 p.m., except for the Maine game on Saturday afternoon, December 16.

JOE DISARCINA

RON NOWAKOWSKI

Cagers Open Saturday

'Rhody Team to Beat' in YC--Leaman

By STEVE RASS
Staff Reporter

"We should be a pleasure to watch this year," assessed Coach Jack Leaman of his Redmen. In his sophomore season at the helm, the former BU star plans to build around the nucleus of Captain Bill Tindall and junior Joe DiSarcina.

The other three starters are center Pete Gayeska, corner Rick Perkins and John Shockro in the backcourt.

This year the Redmen play a 25-game slate which includes such powerhouses as Boston College, Holy Cross, Fordham, Yale, St. John's and Providence. Yankee Conference rivals Connecticut and Rhode Island also figure very strong.

"Rhody is definitely the team to beat," said Leaman, but UConn and our team will not make it easy for them. An unfortunate scheduling quirk has the Redmen facing the Rams at Kingston this Tuesday. Somebody is going to be in the hole after Tuesday and the only one to benefit will be UConn.

Leaman remarked, "DiSarcina and Tindall are improved 100 per cent over last year." When one evaluates that pair's contribution to UMass basketball last year, the Redmen's hopes are high. Shockro returns to the court after sitting out last year with a broken jaw suffered in an off-campus incident.

Perkins played occasionally last year and Gayeska was groomed with spot duty to help with the rebounding chores manned last year by Tim Edwards, who is now sorely missed.

The bench will rely heavily on Dick Samuelson, Jim Sulesky, Ron Nowakowski, Greg Rand and Ray Ellerbrook. Samuelson and Ellerbrook were last year's outstanding frosh players, while Rand and Nowakowski are holdovers from last year's varsity.

Sulesky is a transfer from St. Gregory's Junior College of Shawnee, Okla.

This year's unit will play a pattern offense similar to last year's. The improvement will have come from outside shooting, which was often absent last season. Thus far in practice, the shooting has been sharp, and the St. Michael's scrimmage gave Leaman a measure of hope.

It may be a rough season, it may be a great one, but it won't be a dull one.

BASKETBALL SCHEDULE

Dec. 2	New Hampshire	Home, 8 p.m.
Dec. 5	Rhode Island	Kingston, R.I., 8 p.m.
Dec. 8 & 9	Steel Bowl Tournament (UMass, Pittsburgh, Air Force, Duquesne)	Pittsburgh, 9 p.m.
Dec. 13	Fordham	Bronx, N.Y., 8 p.m.
Dec. 16	Maine	Home, 2 p.m.
Dec. 19	Rider College	Home, 8 p.m.
Dec. 28	Texas Christian	Storrs, Conn., 7 p.m.
Dec. 29	William & Mary	Storrs, Conn., 7 p.m.
Jan. 17	Holy Cross	Worcester, 8:15 p.m.
Jan. 20	New Hampshire	Durham, N.H., 8 p.m.
Jan. 23	Vermont	Burlington, Vt., 8 p.m.
Jan. 25	Providence	Home, 8 p.m.
Jan. 27	Yale	New Haven, Conn., 2 p.m.
Jan. 31	Connecticut	Home, 8 p.m.
Feb. 2	A.I.C.	Springfield, 8:15 p.m.
Feb. 6	Boston College	Chestnut Hill, 8:15 p.m.
Feb. 10	Vermont	Home, 8 p.m.
Feb. 14	Holy Cross	Home, 8 p.m.
Feb. 17	Connecticut	Storrs, Conn., 8 p.m.
Feb. 20	St. John's	Home, 8 p.m.
Feb. 22	Rhode Island	Home, 8 p.m.
Feb. 24	Maine	Orono, Me., 7:35 p.m.
Feb. 27	Northeastern	Boston, 8:15 p.m.
March 2	Boston Univ.	Home, 8 p.m.

All games, except for the five that fall during Christmas vacation and intersession, will be broadcast on WMUA, 91.1 FM.

McArdle and Warnock Named '68 Co-captains

By MARTHA CURRAN
Staff Reporter

"Heads or tails? You have won the toss. Do you elect to receive or kickoff? Defend north or south goal?"

Come September, Nick Warnock and Mike McArdle will answer such questions before game time as they take their place as co-captains of the 1968 football squad. They were elected Monday night by their teammates. The selections will be officially announced at tonight's Boston Alumni banquet in Waltham.

Coach Fusia said, "I couldn't think of two finer young men to lead the Redmen next fall. Mike and Nick have helped us win two straight Yankee Conference titles. They are excellent leaders and outstanding athletes."

Warnock, 6'2", 193 lb. end from Berwyn, Pa., earned his varsity letter last year. He was a four-sport letterman at Episcopal Academy in Pennsylvania, competing in football, basketball, baseball and track.

A hotel and restaurant management major, may go into business after graduation, but pro scouts, impressed with Warnock's punting (a 35.6 average) and receiving (29 catches for 424 yards and two touchdowns) will be keeping an eager eye on him next season. Should the opportunity arise, Warnock would like to play pro ball, he says.

Warnock was chosen to the ECAC All East team after the Rutgers and New Hampshire games, twice won the Varsity "M" Club's offensive awards and was chosen Yankee Conference offensive player of the week after the UNH game. As a soph he caught 16 passes for 164 yards.

McArdle, a history major, comes from Millbury. The 6', 185 lb. safety was co-captain of the Millbury High football team in 1965.

He lettered last year on the Redmen squad and made five key interceptions. On his way to breaking the seven interception record set at UMass by Leo Biron in 1965, McArdle had four interceptions before he was injured in the Rutgers game. He was out on action against UNH and BC.

He received the Varsity "M" award as the top defensive player in the Connecticut and Vermont games and was chosen Conference defensive player of the week after the Vermont game.

Studying, intramurals and Kappa Sigma house activities keep him busy during off-season. After January 5, when the cast on his broken ankle comes off, McArdle will spend his spare time in the gym, playing basketball and working out.

Although he plans to attend graduate school, Mike's interests lie in football and he wants to be affiliated with the sport in the future.

Both co-captains are already optimistic about the '68 season although the Redmen play 10 games next fall and the other Yankee Conference teams will be aiming for the Redman more than ever.

NICK WARNOCK

MIKE McARDLE

Joint Senate—Class Meeting Next Week

by JOHN WOJNAS
Staff Reporter

Last night, James Collins, President of the Student Senate, called a Constitutional Convention for next Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the Council Chambers. The purpose of the Convention is to allow a motion of reconsiderations which would re-open discussion of the Senior class proposal for an additional $10,000 subsidy for Senior Week.

An open meeting for the entire Senior Class will be held next Tuesday at 11:15 a.m. in Bowker Auditorium in order to hear all Seniors' thoughts on the proposed Senior Week and additional $10,000 subsidy. According to Dick Wood, Pres. of the Senior Class, "We considered the student budget wrapped up as of last night," but that "an executive and class meeting will be held to discuss in further detail any objections and criticisms concerning Senior Week." In a joint session with Pres. Wood and Collins, it was decided to hold the meeting under joint sponsorship of the Senate and the class of '68. The findings will then be reported to Wednesday's Constitutional Convention if the reconsideration motion is passed.

Last Spring, the $10,000 was deleted from the proposed $30,000 Senior Week category. Lack of specific planning for the Senior Week activities was the reason for this action. The classes have the prerogative of contesting the results of these spring meetings by bringing the accepted budget back to their Class Executive Council and re-voting another proposed change. The proposed change then goes to an arbitration board, consisting of senators, class officers, and the Coordinator of Student Activities. This Board reports on the proposed change to a Constitutional Convention, which again reviews the budget and gives a final decision on the proposed change.

The Class of 1968 Executive Council voted to re-petition the Constitutional Convention for the $10,000 this fall. Approximately 50 members of the 100-member Council voted almost unanimously, i.e., one abstention, to endorse this proposal. This Arbitration Board also voted unanimously to endorse the $10,000 with the stipulation that Senior Class officers provide extensive notification of the proposed change to class members through the Daily Collegian. The proposal then went to last Wednesday's convention and was voted upon favorably.

The senators wishing to reconsider the monetary addition to the budget hold the following opinions: seniors were not notified enough in advance of the proposed plans to finance Senior Week, and that there are mathematical miscalculations in the proposed addition; and, since only about an attendance figure of 1,250 is expected out of a 2,500 member class, total class taxation for the event should not be enacted without endeavoring to ascertain in a concrete manner the feelings of the whole class. If the subsidy addition remains, all seniors will be paying for a larger portion of senior week, whether they attend or not.

According to the President and Vice-President of the Senate, "all Seniors are urged to attend the opening meeting on Tuesday in order that an enjoyable and fairly subsidized Senior Week can be created. Seniors should also speak to their Student Senators and Class Officers so that the actions taken next Wednesday will reflect the will and be in the interests of all seniors."

WEATHER
COLD
AND SNOW

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

DRESS WARMLY
AT THE CAGE
THIS WEEKEND

VOL. XCVI, NO. 56 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | FRIDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1967

UMass Senior Claims VISTA Gave Him Belief in Radical Change

by BILL DICKINSON
Staff Reporter

Drop out of school for a year and join the VISTA program. The experience gained in that year will give a person an entirely new view on the world around him.

Several ex-volunteers interviewed by the Daily Collegian expressed this opinion. They should know they did it.

One of them, Wayne Dorris, is a senior at UMass.

Dorris dropped out of the University at the end of his sophomore year. Immediately he went into the VISTA training program in Baltimore for six weeks. Following his course in "urban community development" he was assigned to a bail-bond project in San Francisco sponsored by the San Francisco Bar Association. The purpose of the project was to test the feasibility of releasing indigent suspects awaiting trial on their own recognizance since they could not afford the services of a bailbondsman.

Photo by Bob Goscminski

Each morning, Dorris and other volunteers would go to the city jail and interview prisoners before they were to appear in court for a hearing. He would help them fill out a questionnaire and then he would check out the responses with three of the references the prisoner had given.

If the references substantiated what the prisoner had said, a project official would recommend to the judge that the person be released without bail. "We would recommend release for about 35% of the prisoners interviewed and of those we recommended the judges would release 95%," said Dorris.

"The bailbondsmen hated us. I think we put two out of business."

The project had a much lower rate of persons who didn't show up for their trials—3.5% as compared to 8% for the bondsmen.

All who were concerned with the project agree that it was successful, even the police who were initially suspicious, according to Dorris.

Dorris returned to school last year and picked up his studies as a junior. He also changed his major from history to sociology and plans to go to graduate school to study in social work.

"You can't go into VISTA and come out without a strong belief in radical change," Dorris maintained. He also said he would be happy to talk to anyone interested in joining to give some idea of what life in VISTA is like.

"Mother" Editor Says Attitudes, Not Subjects, Count

by JANICE ALBERGHENE
Staff Reporter

"I have no desire to proselitize any ideology, any ethic."

Instead, according to the editor of the Mother of Voices, Bart Kaplan, his paper's concern is with the "individual's trying to articulate something about his own sense of experience."

Kaplan says the American public has no confidence in its political leaders, police and priesthood, and has no gods, no beliefs, only its unlicensed egotism. "But we're rich. The machine does supply money," he added. This money functions in a mechanical, habituated culture that uses the Gross National Product as a measure of change. Faced with this indifferent society, Mother of Voices is deliberately "provocatorious."

The response of the administration and many students has been the association of what Kaplan calls an "absurd notoriety" to the Mother of Voices, an underground newspaper. The response of most students, he said, was to turn the front page upside down and see a four-letter word.

A woodprint on the back cover of Mother's first issue, produced additional shock and indignant protest. The print has hung in four art shows, he said. Kaplan describes the print's content as human and somewhat satirical: "The subject isn't sex, it's attitudes toward sex."

Does Mother arouse an angry reaction because the paper is immoral or because it questions society's long established attitudes?

Explaining the belief of autonomous inquiry, Kaplan defended Mother's writers' choice of vocabulary, because "a certain voice develops out of the act of writing, and not of the defense. Anger is one of the most relevant motives for writing. Coupled with decisiveness (it yields) emotional clarity."

Joint Announcement on Cyprus Problem to Be Issued Today

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Greece and Turkey spiked their guns Thursday and three international peacemakers who headed off a possible war between them over Cyprus either left for home or were preparing to depart.

Greek leaders were struggling with the communique that is supposed to be issued in Athens and Ankara at the same time. It is expected to be issued by Friday at the latest.

The task was more difficult for the Greeks, having given up more on the surface—withdrawal of illegal troops from Cyprus. The Turks surrendered only the threat to invade the eastern Mediterranean island where 420,000 Greek Cypriots and 180,000 Turkish Cypriots live.

The form of the announcement was important because of the steps which then must be taken. These include withdrawal of some 8,000-10,000 Greek soldiers, infiltrated to Cyprus in small batches over many months in violation of treaties, and indemnity for Greek Cypriot attacks on two Turkish villages which touched off the crisis November 15.

The speed of withdrawal appeared to be one of the more ticklish points to spell out. The Turks want it rapidly. The Greeks are not well-equipped to do so in ships or planes and resist any steps that seem to show undue haste.

Some quarters speculated that the U.S.A.F. may be asked to help in the withdrawal.

American sources said such a request had not been received but agreed it would be reasonable since Greece and Turkey are partners in N.A.T.O.

McCarthy Announces Primary Entries

WASHINGTON (AP) — Minnesota Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy posted his Vietnam war challenge to President Johnson Thursday, announcing he will enter at least four presidential primaries in 1968—and hinting that Sen. Robert F. Kennedy could become the political beneficiary.

McCarthy said he will enter the primaries in Wisconsin, Nebraska, Oregon and California, and possibly those in Massachusetts and New Hampshire as well.

"I believe there's a good chance that we can win two or three primaries," he said.

The White House was silent on McCarthy's announcement. So was Kennedy, for the moment.

McCarthy said his determination to run was stiffened by "announcements from the administration of plans for continued escalation and intensification of the war in Vietnam.

He said he hopes his candidacy will lead Johnson to alter that policy.

"If not," he said, "I think the challenge would have to go all the way to a challenge for the nomination for the presidency.

McCarthy described his Vietnam prescription as a phased, scheduled withdrawal of U.S. forces, with periodic efforts at settlement.

"As I'm sure I shall be charged, I am not for peace at any price but for an honorable, rational and political solution to this war," he said.

"I am hopeful," he said, "that this challenge, may alleviate the sense of political helplessness and restore to many people a belief in the process of American politics and of American government.

"I do not see in my move any threat to the unity and the strength of the Democratic party, whatever the unity today may be and whatever strength it may be," McCarthy said.

McCarthy said he hopes to enlist delegate support in states which choose their representatives to the Democratic National Convention at states conventions.

McCarthy denied he entered the presidential race as a stalking horse to pave the way for Kennedy, the New Yorker who earlier had said he would support Johnson for re-election.

Would he step aside should Kennedy seek the nomination? "I don't know whether it would be a question of stepping aside," he said. "It might be less voluntary than that."

UMass Group to Support McCarthy

A campus group for McCarthy will be setting up a table in the S.U. lobby Friday and Monday to take names of those interested in aiding his campaign. The group feels that the chances are good that McCarthy will run in the Massachusetts primary in April. Both students and faculty are urged to sign up. Similar organizations are being set up at the other area colleges. Those interested could also contact Nick Akerman at 546-9313 or Neal Whitman at 546-9268.

The Students' Senate

Services Committee

The Services Committee of the Student Senate is concerned with all matters not covered by the other standing committees of the Senate. It deals primarily with student aids and commercial operations such as housing, food services, physical plant, parking, and vending machines.

The Committee's primary function is to answer all complaints received from students concerning these areas. Chairman Cindy Olken stresses that any student with a complaint should write it out and leave it in the Services Committee tray in the Student Senate office or in the suggestion boxes in all Dining Commons.

Presently Service Committee is working on such areas as the inter-transferability of commons tickets in the Southwest area, the problem of lighting around construction projects, the proposed new high-rises in the Quad., parking problems, and off campus housing for undergraduate students. The committee is also co-sponsoring a public hearing on vending machine complaints from which corrective legislation will be formulated by Services and the Public Relations Committees.

Further information about the committee concerning complaints of membership may be obtained by contacting Cindy Olken through the Student Senate office in the Student Union. Telephone 5-2832.

Editors of Yahoo will be working hard to erase the old and to erect a new image of the campus humor magazine.

University Chorus To Give Concert In Williamsburg

Under direction of Alan Harler, the University Chorus undertakes its third year as an independent choral group sponsored by the music department. Beginning in September, 1965, as an eighty-member mixed voices ensemble, the Chorus now boasts twice that membership as it prepares for its second off-campus performance, scheduled for Dec. 15 in Williamsburg.

A fifty-member group, the Girls' Glee Club, also under direction of Mr. Harler, will also perform in Williamsburg. Both choral ensembles will be featured in the annual campus Christmas Concert to be presented in Bowker Auditorium, Dec. 17, at 4:00 p.m.

Madrigal, a select group of Chorus members, will also perform at the Christmas Concert, as will the Chorale and Chamber Singers. The public is invited to attend without charge.

From the Christmas Oratorio by Bach, the Chorus will present "Break forth, O beauteous, heavenly light" and "Thee with tender care": Also to be performed are Graun's "Surely He Hath Borne Our Griefs," "Pitoni's Cantate Domino," "Haydn's Kydie Eleison", "Britten's Saint Nicholas", and the "Christmas Oratoria" by Saint-Saens.

Executive Manager, Richard Cheney, heads the Chorus Board, with Armen Dohanian as Assistant Manager. Other board members include Marietta Lalikos, Secretary-Treasurer; Constance St. Hilaire, Publicity Manager; Robert Cappiello, Librarian; and Joseph Smith, Physical-equipment Manager.

200 Parking Spaces in S Lot

According to information received by the Student Senate Services Committee, there are now approximately 200 parking spaces available in S lot for those students who request them. Priority will be given to those with valid reasons however, all requests will be reviewed. Send the request to Mr. Kittle, Treasurer's office, Whitmore.

U.S. Withdrawal of Aid To Go Unnoticed in Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP — Fifteen years ago this country tottered on the edge of economic and political disaster. Thursday the U.S. aid mission comes to its official end, but Iran with its new-found muscles will hardly notice.

After spending close to $1 billion in aid, half grant and half loan, Washington several months ago decided to remove Iran from the list of needy countries as of Nov. 30. The nation now is so strong politically and economically that it deals with both Western and Communist blocs without trying to play one against the other

The last of the mission's directors, Edward F. Tennant, says: "Without the Iranian government's cooperation, the great achievement would not have been possible."

The mission began in 1950. It was impeded for a time by the policies of an anti-American premier, Mohammed Mossadegh, but picked up steam after Mossadegh's departure.

Of all the joint projects undertaken with the Iranian government, Tennant says, the outstanding one has been the strengthening of the public administration structure.

In this program, a mission staff of 2,000, including Iranian nationals, and 2,500 Iranians trained in the United States and Europe, built the administrative foundation to permit Iran's rapid growth.

Apart from that, the program encompassed a wide range of activity, ranging from improvement of livestock strains to construction of Iran's largest dam in Khuzistan.

"We have been a stimulating force rather than a directive one," Tennant says. American participation was heavy in the early stages of the mission but thereafter Iranians shouldered larger responsibilities.

Even Soviet experts concede that U.S. aid played an important role in helping Iran stand on its own feet and prevent a Communist takeover in 1953, when the danger was most imminent.

University Research Hurt By Cut in Federal Funds

By NANCY DUDLEY
Staff Reporter

The progress of knowledge may well be slowed if there is a cut in federal funds to United States colleges and universities, according to Edward C. Moore, dean of Graduate Students at UMass.

In an interview with the Collegian, Dean Moore said that as a result of university-based research since World War II, knowledge of physics and chemistry has been doubling itself every five to 10 years, and more medical knowledge has been developed in this period than in the entire history of man up to 1945.

Federal grants to UMass this year total about $1,800,000, covering faculty research projects, graduate fellowships and building construction. If the proposed cut gets through Congress, 10% of the present funds will not be received in future years, the dean said.

Until last year, said Dean Moore, there was no federal fund support of humanities studies. Money was given to research in botany, chemistry, math, physics, psychology, sociology and zoology. Now, along with these science studies, there is a "very small budget" for English and history.

"We need 10 times as many Ph.D.'s as we turn out," stated Dean Moore. If the cut occurs fewer projects will approved, less money will be given to existing projects and, most important, feels Dean Moore, fewer Ph.D.'s produced from graduate fellowships.

If you see news in the making Call the MDC Hotline 545-2550

STUDENT SENATE

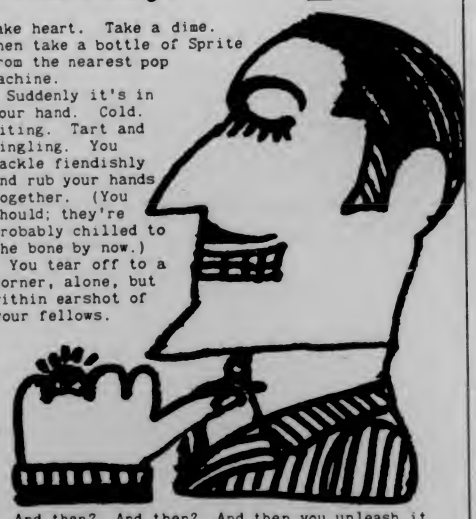
PICKETING and DEMONSTRATIONS

PUBLIC HEARING

STATE YOUR VIEWS ON
THE PROPOSED LEGISLATION

DEC. 5 — TUESDAY 7:00

HASBROUCK 20



This is your chance, Student #7026941. Drink Sprite and be somebody.

MR. BIG

Take heart. Take a dime. Then take a bottle of Sprite from the nearest pop machine.

Suddenly it's in your hand. Cold. Biting. Tart and tingling. You cackle fiendishly and rub your hands together. (You should; they're probably chilled to the bone by now.)

You tear off to a corner, alone, but within earshot of your fellows.

And then? And then? And then you unleash it.

SPRITE! It fizzes! It roars! It bubbles with good cheer!

Heads turn. Whisperings. "Who's that strangely fascinating student with the arch smile. And what's in that curious green bottle that's making such a racket?"

And you've arrived! The distinctive taste and ebullient character of Sprite has set you apart.

You're somebody, uh...uh, whoever-you-are.

Sprite

SPRITE. SO TART AND TINGLING, WE JUST COULDN'T KEEP IT QUIET.

SPRITE IS A REGISTERED TRADE MARK

EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES FOR ENGINEERS

ME, EE, IE, ChE

Mr. Richard Harple of De Laval will be on campus December 4, 1967 to interview those students interested in considering a career with De Laval.

DE LAVAL TURBINE INC

TRENTON, N. J. 08602

Cinema I NOW SHOWING!

JAMES JOYCE'S Ulysses AT 7 & 9

CINEMA II—In Color Shown at 7 & 9:30 "One of the Year's Best!"

PAUL NEWMAN AS COOL HAND LUKE

CAMPUS 256-6411 TWIN CINEMAS

CAMPUS PLAZA SHOPPING CENTER

LOCKSMITH SERVICES

KEYS &

RUBBER STAMPS

CHENEY LOCKSMITH

90 N. Pleasant St.

253-7010

Jobs Abroad Accepts UMie

Phyllis Coyne, class of '70, has recently been accepted as a participant in the 1967 JOBS ABROAD work program. Phyllis will be employed in a European country for the summer of 1968.

She will be one of 1000 students joining the international work corps of JOBS ABROAD.

All of them will hold salaried jobs, learning and living side by side with Europeans of many ages and class backgrounds. Some will do farm work in Switzerland, wait on tables in English, Swiss and French resorts, or package cigarettes in a Belgian factory.

Most will find their jobs require hard work, but this will be more than compensated for by cultural fringe benefits.

In the past five years, ISIS/ISTC has placed 2200 young people in English, French, German and other language areas. Positions are also available in such remote places as Japan and Turkey.

Most jobs—in factories, hospitals, construction, restaurants, hotels, on farms and as camp counselors, or mothers' helpers—pay from $30 to $275 monthly. There are a few special jobs in offices and classrooms for those with necessary skills.

Eisenhower-Nixon

NEW YORK (AP)—Julie Nixon, the daughter of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, and David Eisenhower, grandson of former President Eisenhower, became engaged last weekend, Nixon's office said Thursday night.

A spokesman in Nixon's New York law office said young Eisenhower, 19, gave Miss Nixon, 18, a ring. No wedding date has been set, he said.

The former vice president, a leading, although undeclared, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said Julie received the ring during the Thanksgiving holiday.

The ring belonged to the late Mrs. John S. Doud of Denver, the mother of Mamie Eisenhower.

Julie is a student at Smith College, David, son of retired Army Lt. Col. John Eisenhower, is a student at Amherst.

National Guard Stops Recruiting

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army National Guard has suspended all recruiting of young men without previous military service in an effort to get down to authorized strength of 400,000 by next summer, a Guard bureau spokesman said today.

All states were notified of the action earlier this week. It was effective immediately.

The Guard action still leaves open the recruiting of men who have important skills.

On Nov. 6, Sec. of Defense Robert S. McNamara announced that he was authorizing both the Army Guard and the Army Reserve an additional 3% above the planned levels.

The McNamara announcement on Nov. 6 implied that the additional 3% he was authorizing was necessary to meet strength goals.

University Store Aim To Serve Students

"In spite of limited storage space and the stocking of items for which there is little demand, we try to serve our customers as well as possible," said Winthrop L. Cummings, manager of the University Store, in an interview with the Daily Collegian.

Not long ago the Daily Collegian received a letter from a freshman who was concerned with the great difference in price between sundry items sold in the University Store and those sold in an area chain-store supermarket.

Such items as toothpaste, shaving cream and soap powder cost considerably more in the University Store. Studying a list of comparative prices Cummings said, "We pay more wholesale for most of these items than they (the chain-stores) charge the customer. We can't possibly match their prices.

"We tried to lower our prices. Last summer we considered changing our supplier. However, we found that there would be no advantage in changing. In fact, one prospective supplier told us that to switch from our present buyer to him would not be worth the trouble."

However, when the prices of sundry items in the University Store are compared with those of local independent markets and drug stores, they are about the same. "Smaller local merchants," said Cummings "do business with wholesalers unlike large supermarket chains who buy directly from the manufacturer."

"We are primarily a bookstore, not a dealer in sundries. We are not attempting to compete with local merchants. We carry many items simply for the convenience of the students. For example, we keep nylon stockings on hand. We are not trying to build a market for them, but stock them so that girls can buy them in a pinch for such things as interviews without having to run back to the dorm.

The primary business of the University Store is to sell books and school supplies. In this area the prices of the Store are comparable and, in many cases, often lower than those of local merchants. "There are, however," said Cummings, "many items over which we have little control. They come to us prepriced and we must sell them at that price.

"Even the sale of used textbooks is, to a great extent, controlled by national supply and demand. We are no different than any other major university in this respect; we do business according to a nationally established policy."

The University Store belongs to the University; it is not a private company. "There is," said Cummings, "no reason for us to be anything but fair in our pricing. No individual or group, save the students, profit from our sales."

"Profits are turned back into the Student Union. The Store keeps money for future expansion.

"Where there is no bookstore or food service, the students are forced to pay a much higher student tax. The Store not only supplies the students, but it eliminates at least one expense."

When the Student Center is built, the Store will move. Cummings hopes to have more demand items on the shelves, but he does not expect to change the present policy. "I doubt," he said, "that the University Store will ever become a supermarket."

Flashback '67

On Dec. 2, 1967, campus radio station WMUA will present a special program entitled Flashback '67. The host for this production will be "The Flash", Dick Jandrow, who is relinquishing his country and western program in order to present this speical show.

The show will feature popular music between the years 1955-1962. This will include all the original sounds of Bill Haley, Buddy Holly, Little Richard, etc.

The show begins at approximately 9:30 p.m. after the basketball game which WMUA will broadcast, and will last until 12:30.

Student Senate Seats Open

There will be a special election to fill 17 vacant Senate seats on Thursday, Dec. 7.

Nomination papers can be picked up in the R.S.O. office at any time; they are due on Friday, Dec. 1, at 5:30 p.m.

There is one seat vacant in each of the following: J. Adams Lower, J.Q. Adams Middle, Chadbourne, Coolidge Lower, Dickinson, Hamlin, Hills South, and Johnson. There are also two seats open for the fraternities and seven for the commuters.

On Dec. 7, dormitory residents will vote from 6 to 9 p.m. in the dorms; the commuters and fraternities will vote in the Union from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

JOINT STUDENT — SENIOR CLASS MEETING ON SENIOR WEEK AT 11:15 A. M., TUESDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1967 IN BOWKER AUDITORIUM THOSE INTERESTED SHOULD ATTEND

Previews of coming attractions at Umieland.

Tax Increase Rejected By House Ways and Means

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's tax increase proposal was ruled dead for 1967 Thursday, but given a chance of enactment next year — provided the administration cuts spending much deeper than it has yet proposed.

The verdict was rendered by Chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee, which controls tax legislation.

The administration submitted a tax-economize package proposing spending cuts estimated at $4.1 billion. Mills told administration spokesmen before his committee, elaborating for newsmen afterward, that the economizers should be able to do $2 billion or $3 billion better than that.

Such action, the Arkansas Democrat said, "would enhance the acceptance of a tax increase by the American people."

Johnson is asking a 10 per cent surcharge on individual and corporate income taxes, with a corporate tax speedup and maintenance of excise tax levels.

Together, these moves are estimated to produce $7.4 billion additional revenue during the rest of the present fiscal year. Mills especially emphasized the $11.9 billion figure, demanding assurances that the government would not simply step up spending to absorb it.

Budget Director Charles L. Schultze said he would have to make a reservation only in case of a presently wholly unforeseen major stopup of the Southeast Asia war.

Mills told reporters he thinks the administration's next stop should be to appear before the House Appropriations Committee prepared to work out further spending cuts.

Because the tax-economy package would involve three House committees — Ways and Means for the tax aspects, Appropriations for spending and Government Operations for a proposed long-range study of government programs — it is impossible to complete action on it this year, Mills said.

Meanwhile in the House the chairman of the Appropriations Committee, Rep. George H. Mahon of Texas, said "I applaud the administration for its resolve to make further reductions in government spending."

He said a resolution on expenditure limitations which has been tied up since mid-October by Senate-House disagreements might provide a vehicle for reopening the subject. The senior Republican member of the committee, Rep. Frank Bow of Ohio, agreed.

BATTLE OF UMASS BANDS

DECEMBER 15th

Applications in R.S.O. Office
Deadline Dec. 5

S.E.N.D.O.F.F. '70
WEEKEND IS HERE

TONIGHT: BITTER SEND FOLKHOUSE $1.50
7:30 S.U. Ballroom

TOMORROW: "THE TURTLES"
THE PILGRIMS $1.50
Tickets at the Door
2 Shows 8:00 & 10:15

SUNDAY: "SIMON & GARFUNKEL"
7:00 p.m. Cage $2.50
Tickets at the Door

DEC. 7: HARLEM GLOBETROTTERS
Cage 8:00 p.m.

Hertzfeld Appointed New Treas. at Amherst

AMHERST, MASS. — Kurt M. Hertzfeld, Vice President and Treasurer of Boston University, today was appointed Treasurer of Amherst College, effective February 1 next year.

As chief financial officer of the College, Mr. Hertzfeld will succeed the late Stanley F. Teele, who died May 29. Mr. Teele, an Amherst alumnus and a former Trustee, had served as Treasurer since 1964. He was formerly Dean of the Harvard Business School.

Mr. Hertzfeld came to Boston University in 1959 as Vice President, responsible for fiscal, organizational, corporate, and administrative affairs, after serving since 1950 as Business Manager of the University of Rochester. Earlier this year he also became Treasurer of the University and a member of its Board of Trustees as well as of the Trustee Council of the Boston University Medical Center.

A magna cum laude graduate of Harvard College in economics (1941), Mr. Hertzfeld is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and the holder of an M.B.A. degree from the Harvard Business School, where he was a George F. Baker Scholar.

He is a former vice president and director of the National Association of College and University Business Officers and a former secretary and president of the Eastern Association of that organization as well as the present chairman of its professional development committee.

Since 1964 Mr. Hertzfeld has served by appointment of the Governor as a member of the Massachusetts State Educational Facilities Commission. He is also a former treasurer and now vice president of the Massachusetts Association of non-Profit Schools and Colleges, a member of the executive committee of the Association of Independent Colleges and Universities in Massachusetts and of the finance committee of the College Entrance Examination Board, and an overseer of Harvard College and a member of its visiting committee on administration and finance.

In addition to his experiences in university finance and administration, Mr. Hertzfeld has held positions in private industry with Fasco Industries of Rochester, New York, and with the Ford Motor Company. He has also been a part-time lecturer in business administration at the University of Detroit and at the University of Rochester, where he was coordinator of the evening business-administration curriculum.

Freshmen, Transfer Students
and Upperclassmen

SORORITY OPEN HOUSES

IMPORTANT !
CHANGE OF DATE

From Saturday, Dec. 2
2:30 - 4:00

To Sunday, Dec. 3
2:30 - 4:00

Also: December 17
2:30 - 4:00

MOUNTAIN PARK
RT. 5 — HOLYOKE

EVERY SAT. 8 P. M.

COLLEGE MIXER

THIS SATURDAY — IN PERSON

RAMRODS of Boston

BALLROOM AVAILABLE FOR PARTIES
SUN. thru FRI. — CALL 532-4418

Book Review

Logan's Run

by DAVID M. GIZA

Logan's Run. By William F. Nolan and George Clayton Johnson. New York: The Dial Press, Inc., $3.95 (Sept. 15, 1967).

Dedication: "To all the Friends we grew up with" — Frankenstein, Mickey Mouse, Fu Manchu, King Kong, Superman, Lil' Abner, etc. The preface to another one of those tantalizing tidbits of English literature — the comic book? No. Perhaps the stirring words of a Disneyland-to-be? No. What then? Would you believe that dedication of a serious English novel? No. Then hold on because a dynamic duo has written such a beginning to their book.

And, surprisingly enough, the novel itself tends to complement this odd dedication. For example, there is a bloodthirsty group of youngsters, the "Cubscouts," who are virtually invincible. They have "Muscle" on their side. Furthermore, senior youths can join this mad world by fighting each other with such crazy innovations as "Popsickle" and "homer."

The reader finds his own special delights: he is confronted by chapter ten first and works his way down to chapter zero — a definitely dramatic countdown. Oh, yes! You'll never guess where the good guys go. To Sanctuary, naturally!

Such fragmented sentences are a natural part of the book's fast moving style: verbs are understood, words are substituted for sentences, and brevity replaces most flowery language. Although one may not find the book particularly profound in meaning, the story is very interesting and oddly original. Enjoyment is the key word when this book is read.

C. E. SENIORS

YOUR FUTURE CAN BE IN TRANSPORTATION

Challenging Opportunities available in our expanding which include ½ billion dollar highway construction program

No Exam—Generous fringe benefits including tuition refunds

Our recruiter will be here on THURSDAY, DEC. 7 Visit your Placement Office NOW for brochures and SIGN UP to hear the full story.

New York State
Dept of Transportation
Bureau of Recruitment & Training
State Campus Building No. 5
Albany, New York 12226

Hippies Seek Tradition?

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30— "The hippies — our romantic young—are saying to us parents that our kind of modernity is old-fashioned and unsatisfactory," a noted Jewish scholar said here today, explaining that the hippies show "an unfamiliar thirst for spirituality and religion."

Milton Himmelfarb, Director of the Jewish Information Service of the AMERICAN JEWISH COMMITTEE, who is co-editor of the American Jewish Year Book and a contributing Editor of Commentary magazine, added that "these young people are telling us that we have foolishly, cleverly, and arrogantly abandoned precisely those values that a human being needs for maintaining his humanity in the midst of bigness and impartiality and machinery."

A recent survey by the United Jewish Community Centers in San Francisco found that 20 to 25 per cent of the hippie population of the Haight-Ashbury section—one of the two major concentrations of hippies in the U.S., the other being the East Village section of Manhattan, in New York City — were Jewish.

"Two generations or even one generation ago," Mr. Himmelfarb continued, "young people in effect were telling their elders to become more modern. But now the young are telling us that we went too far. They are telling us to backtrack and recover some of those things that we thought were useless ballast, but that we see now were no less essential than those things we retained."

Himmelfarb explained, "Our modern Judaism is too unphysical, too unemotional, too impersonal. No congregation should be as big as many are. We have lit-button mentality. In some of our synagogues we actually push a button to open the Ark when it is a push-button society that the young are protesting against.

"And we exclude Hebrew—why pray in a language we don't really understand?—yet the hippies chant in Sanskrit!"

Howard Erlanger, a panel discussant working toward a doctorate in the sociology of law at the University of California at Berkeley, disagreed with Mr. Himmelfarb. A self-styled humanist, Mr. Erlanger expressed the belief that hippies were leaving home "because their families put more emphasis on status and on things than on love."

"The hippie tribal structure," he added, "appears to be a new extension of the family, one that gives love."

Mr. Joel Rosenberg, a graduate of the University of California at Berkeley now in his second year at Hebrew Union College, Los Angeles, commented, "I am not troubled by the claims that it is difficult for youth to justify God today. I expect to be in and out of atheism. One does not have to be consistent in an entire lifetime. I understand things imperfectly. While we cannot explain an Auschwit (site of a notorious Nazi concentration camp) in terms of God, I am also concerned that man has not learned to build out of the ashes of Auschwitz. That is the tragedy to me."

Brazilian Literature Is Discussed

By FRANCES CLINE
Staff Reporter

"After Modernism: New and Old Directions in Brazilian Literature" will be the lecture topic of Professor Gregory Rabassa, guest lecturer from Columbia University, on Monday, December 5 at 8 p.m. in SBA 120. Dr Robert L. Bancroft, Spanish Department Head, announced. Refreshments will be served by the University Spanish Club immediately after.

Brazil, one of the largest countries in the world in population and territory, has produced a vigorous literature widely read and admired throughout the world. Dr. Bancroft explained that one reason for arranging the lecture is that students should have the opportunity of increasing their knowledge of the important subject.

The University Book Store has in stock several novels and other books pertinent to the subject. One novel, The Apple in The Dark by Clarice Lispector, has an introduction by Professor Rabassa.

CORRECTION

Simon and Garfunkel Sunday Concert

Will Begin at 7:00 p. m.

NOT 7:30 p. m. as stated on tickets

On-Campus Job Interviews for Remainder of the Year

JANUARY

TUESDAY 2

READING DAY

WEDNESDAY 3

READING DAY

THURSDAY 4

FINAL EXAMS BEGIN

FRIDAY 12

SEMESTER BREAK

MONDAY 22

GRAD. SCHOOL REGISTRATION

WEDNESDAY 24

UNDERGRAD. REGISTRATION

THURSDAY 25

Lycoming Div. AVCO
Grand Way Department Store
Norden Div. -U.A.
AVCO-Missiles & Space
U.S. Food & Drug
Edwards & Kelcey
U.S. Army Corps of Engineers

FRIDAY 26

Pratt & Whitney
Sanders Association
N.E. Electric System
Bristol Company
UMass Physical Plant

MONDAY 29

Naval Propellant Plant
General Motors
Marine Midland Trust
D. of C. Highway
H. P. Hood & Sons
R. G. Vanderweil
Fisher Body Division
Conn. Welfare Department

TUESDAY 30

Grumman Aircraft
Factory Ins. Association
General Motors
Campbell Soup Company
Improved Machinery
Bureau of Federal Credit Unions
Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Company
Bostick Company
Norton Company
Niagara Mohawk Power
National Life Insurance Co.
Weyerhauser Company

WEDNESDAY 31

W.Va. Pulp & Paper
Olin (tech-non-tech)
Campbell Soup
Connecticut Highway
Combustion Engineering
Western Union Telegram
Union Carbide-Carbon Prod.
M&M Transportation
Stone & Webster Service
N.Y. Department of Ment. Hygiene
S. D. Leidesdorf

FEBRUARY

THURSDAY 1

Olin (tech-non-tech)
John Hancock Insurance
Agway, Inc.
Foxboro Company
Ebasco Services
Union Carbide-Carbide Prod.
Sperry Gyroscope
U.S. Plywood

FRIDAY 2

NSA
Continental Insurance
Pan American
Texas Instruction
Uniroyal-Chemical Division
U.S. Rubber Co.
Markem Machine
Stauffer Chemical
N.E. Mutual Life

MONDAY 5

Kendall Company
Honeywell
Zayre
Carnation
Morse-Borg Warner
J. T. Baker Chemical
Worcester Telegram
Vet. Admin. Hospital
Du Pont-Non-tech.

TUESDAY 6

Hooker Chemical
Carnation
N.E. Merchant Bank
Wyman Gordon
Penn. Railroad
Charles F. Rittenhouse & Co.
F. W. Woolworth
Equitable Life
Gillette

WEDNESDAY 7

Upjohn—Sales
Carnation
Jones Division—Beloit
International Paper
U.S. Electrical Motors
Filene's
IBM—non-tech.
U.S. Dept. of Navy-Supvr. of Shipbldg
Standard Brands

THURSDAY 8

Bell Systems
Humble Oil
Union Card—UTD
N.E. Telephone & Telegram
Joseph E. Seagrams
Dewey & Almy
St. Str. Bank
Gimbels
Prudential Insurance

FRIDAY 9

Aetna Life
Bell Systems
Humble Oil
U. S. Envelope
A. W. Chesterton
Boston, Dickinson
First Nat'l City Bk.
Badger Company
Rex Chainbelt
N. E. Tel & Tel.

MONDAY 12

Raytheon — non-tech.
Armstrong Cork
Texaco, Inc.
U. S. Dept. of Agric.
Mutual Life Ins.
Bailey-Meter Corp.
Allstate Insurance

TUESDAY 13

Star Market
Johns-Manville
Scott Paper Co.
Hotel Corp. of Am.
Phoenix of Hartford
U. S. Dept. of Transportation
Texaco, Inc.
McGraw-Hill Book
Phil. Naval Shpyd.

WEDNESDAY 14

Perkin Elmer
Raybestos
R C A
Goodyear Tire & Ru.
Swift & Company
Elec. Boat/G. D.
Electronics/G. D.
Quincy/Gen. Dynamic
Chic. Bridge & Iron
Banker Trust Company

THURSDAY 15

Dow Chemical
Shell Companies
Internat'l Silver
State Mutual Life
Anaconda Amer. Brass
Chase Manhattan Bk.
Stouffer Foods
No. 3 M Company

FRIDAY 16

Dow Chemical
Stop & Shop
Union Carbide — Lind.
Alco Products, Inc.
C F & I Steel
Hartford Hospital

MONDAY 19

Nestle Company
American Cyanamid
City of L. A. — Bureau of Eng'g.
Sears, Roebuck & Co.
Bristol Lab.
Mutual Benefit Life

TUESDAY 20

E. G. & G. Co.
Boeing Company
Sears, Roebuck
Union Camp Corp.
American Cyanamid
Defense Intell. Ag.
Proctor & Gamble
Conn. Gen. Life Ins.
Gibbs & Cox, Inc.

WEDNESDAY 21

Vitro Lab.
Army & Air Force Exchange Ser.
D I A
Stone & Webster Eng.
Central Maine Power
Paul Revere Ins.
Wyoming Highway
Port of N. Y. Auth.

THURSDAY 22

HOLIDAY

FRIDAY 23

Jordan Marsh
Westinghouse Elec.
Liberty Mutual
Nat'l Shawmut Bank
Fisher Scientific
N. Y. Life Ins. Co.
Admin. of Nat'l Bk.

MONDAY 26

Raytheon — Tech.
S. S. Kresge Co.
Chevron Chem. — Sales
Polaroid Corp.
N. E. Utilities
Travelers Insurance

TUESDAY 27

Raytheon — Tech.
N V F Company
Ayerst Lab.
N. Y. Central Syst.
Metropolitan Life
Supermarkets Gen.
Fed'l Aviation Ad.

WEDNESDAY 28

Wilson, Inc.
G. Fox & Co.
Portsmouth Naval Shipyard
Amer. Hospital Sup.
American Can Co.
G. E.
U. S. Dept. of Pub. Health

THURSDAY 29

G. E.
Amer. Arma Bosch
Ralston Purina Co.
Ortho Pharmaceutical
N. Y. Medical Ctr.
Conn. Mutual Life

MARCH

FRIDAY 1

Eastman Kodak
L. Grossman

MONDAY 4

Mass. Mutual Life
Republic Steel
Penn. Highway
Calif. St. Per. Bd.
Amer. Express Co.
Harvard Univ.

TUESDAY 5

Stanley Works
Railway Express
Harvard University
Naval Ship Sys. Com.

WEDNESDAY 6

C A R C O, Inc.
W. T. Grant
Philco Ford Corp.
A R A Slater
United Airlines

THURSDAY 7

Arthur D. Little
N. W. Mutual Life
Jackson & Moreland
Allied Chemical
Animal Medical Ctr.
Beneficial Finance
J. J. Newberry Co.
United Airlines

FRIDAY 8

Hahne & Company

MONDAY 11

Nat'l Ctr. for Health Statistics
Hot Shoppes

TUESDAY 12

Boston Gas Co.
Bloomingdale
Trane Company

WEDNESDAY 13

B. F. Goodrich
Allied Mills
Hunt-Wesson Foods
Brunswick Corp.
Proctor & Gamble
N. Y. St. Elec. Ser.
U. S. Dept. of Agric.
Firestone Tire & Rub.
Lord & Taylor

THURSDAY 14

Proctor & Gamble
U. S. Dept. of Com.
W. Va. Highway Com.

FRIDAY 15

U. S. Air Force
Electronics Ser.
Hartford Ins. Group

TUESDAY 19

Kellogg Company
Naval Air Develp.
Washington Highway.
Syracuse Food Ser.

FRIDAY 22

Detroit Civil Ser.

Daily Collegian

Hotline

545-2550

CAR REGISTRATION DEADLINE

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Richard E. McLaughlin reminds Motor Vehicle owners that the Registry cannot guarantee delivery of validating stickers, registration certificates or plates by January 1, 1968 if applications are received by mail after the close of business on December 8.

After that date (December 8) all 1968 registration applications—properly filled out and endorsed by insurance companies—should be taken to the nearest Registry office for immediate processing.

Illinois Board of Governors Condemned: Refusal to Appoint Lynd to Chicago State

A group of individuals nationally prominent in public, academic and cultural fields have condemned the refusal of the Board of Governors of State Colleges and Universities to appoint Staughton Lynd to Chicago State College as a sign that "a new McCarthyism may emerge from the tensions of the Vietnamese war, blighting once again the intellectual and political life of the country."

Signers of the statement include Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., former aide to President John F. Kennedy; Rev. Martin Luther King; Bishop John Wesley Lord of the Methodist Church; Norman Thomas; Julian Bond, member of the Georgia Assembly; John Hersey, the novelist; and Edward Schwartz, President of the National Students Association. Pointing out that many of the signers "completely disagree" with Lynd's opinions and activities, the statement condemns the Board on the grounds that its action is "'chilling in its consequences for academic freedom" in American colleges.

The Board acted in mid-July, rejecting the recommendation of the faculty and President of Chicago State College to appoint Lynd, associate professor of history. Lynd has since filed a suit against the Board, charging a violation of his constitutional rights and a breach of contract.

Other signers of the statement include leading faculty members at Yale University, nationally prominent scholars, and well-known cultural figures. Since the statement was issued Lynd has charged that political considerations entered into a decision not to grant him tenure at Yale University.

The signers of the statement make three general criticisms of the Board. The Board rejected Lynd because of his "public activities," including his advocating "non violent civil disobedience":

First, they claim that non-violent civil disobedience": "forms a part of the American tradition . . . and the tradition of Protestantism, Catholicism and Judiasm" . . . "Surely there is a place for the advocates of this venerable tradition in the colleges and universities of America," they argue.

Second, they insist that the advocacy of civil disobedience "is constitutionally protected under the first Amendment" and the courts have held that public employment cannot be denied to a person for exercising constitutional rights.

Third, they point to the possible effects of the Board's action. Will future candidates for appointments to the state universities in Illinois be held up," they ask, "while Board of Governors inquire into their political activities and opinions? Will teachers already employed in state universities be investigated to see if their public activities resemble Lynd's? What will be the effects of such scrutiny on the political life of the country."

The Illinois Statement criticizes the Board on the grounds that it "exceeds its authority" when it disregarded the principle that the faculty and administrators are "the best judges of the professional qualifications of their members." Secondly, it argues that a teacher should not be judged, as the Board judged Lynd, on the basis of his "public activities". And it concludes by pointing to the threat to recruiting new teachers to the state universities when the Board rejected an appointment already entered into by the officials of the college.

S.E.N.D.O.F.F.
Count Down
1 Day

STAMP IT!
IT'S THE RAGE
REGULAR MODEL
ANY $2
3 LINE TEXT
The finest INDESTRUCTIBLE METAL POCKET RUBBER STAMP
Prompt shipment. Satisfaction Guaranteed
THE MOPP CO.
P. O Box 18623 Lenox Square Station
ATLANTA, GA. 30326

Gone with the Wind
Ticket Reservations at SEARS -:- AAA

1 Frank Sinatra is
TONY ROME
Daily at 1:30, 3:30
5:20, 7:30, 9:45
Seats Not Reserved

2 In Stereo and 70 mm.
Gone with the Wind
TODAY AT 8:30 P.M.

3 M. Brando - E. Taylor
Reflections in a Golden Eye
at 1:30, 3:50, 5:20, 7:30, 9:45

FREE PARKING CINEMA 1&2
733-5131

AMHERST Cinema
Now Ends Tues.
Fri. at 7:45 | Sat. and Sun. 1:30-4:45-8:00
20th Century-Fox
THE SAND PEBBLES
A ROBERT WISE PRODUCTION
STEVE McQUEEN
RICHARD ATTENBOROUGH · RICHARD CRENNA · CANDICE BERGEN
NEXT WED. "Reflections in a Golden Eye" LIZ TAYLOR

Guest Editorial

Christmas Poll

by CHRISTOPHER McGAHAN, Chairman, Academic Affairs

A number of students will be selected at random to fill out a Student Senate poll on the academic calendar proposal for 1969 - 70. We have tried to present three distinct alternatives to choose from, one with a "lame duck" period, one without and one that starts earlier than usual and finishes finals before Christmas, combining Christmas vacation with inter-session.

When the calendar for 1968-69 was passed by the Faculty Senate, a great uproar was made because students had been ignored in the deliberations. That will not happen this year. We are giving students the opportunity to express their feelings, both through the poll and by direct contact with the Student Senate Academic Affairs Committee.

We will soon be offering a proposal representing student feeling on the calendar to the Faculty Senate. Now is the time to make your views known.

Issues in Education—Part 3

Student Power

by PROFESSOR ANN F. BRENTLINGER, Philosophy Department

In the middle ages and earlier the idea of a University was of a small community of scholars organized around professors who provided the inspiration for research as well as critical dialogue between student and teacher, conducted as between peer and peer.

Today, the few remaining places where such dialogue takes place is in small liberal arts colleges with intensive honors seminars and in graduate seminars. Even now, contemplated change in the University in an attempt to provide such an atmosphere of learning is in terms of a small elite college within the University, University College, which leaves the large majority of the students with no change at all in their stilted, boring lecture class education.

The large university of today has of course the problem of size to contend with, but it also has the problem of funds to be wheedled out of a basically conservative and suspicious public who wish to see "results" (and not rebellion and long hair) for their money. Since results can best be measured by the prestige of faculty members (measured by lists of publications) and the number of grants received from government and corporation sources for research and graduate training, undergraduate teaching and program tends to be sadly neglected.

What can be done about the shift in the university's role from intellectual center of ideas to factory for handing out college degrees necessary for entering the world of business?

The answer I think must be a student revolution of sorts—a revolution in attitude as well as tactics. Practically speaking, if the student desires a meaningful education in which he himself is a responsible member of the process, in which he himself is a responsible member of the process, in which there is the sort of intellectual excitement and growth that comes from dialogue and good teaching, he himself must institute the pressure needed to get this sort of education. There are many reforms that can be suggested to accomplish this aim. For example, an obvious first step would be to institute smaller classes with an example on discussion and independent thought.

Secondly, pressure for better teaching and less authoritarian structure in the classroom could be achieved by eliminating the carrot of grading as the motivation for learning and substituting a universal pass-fail system (except perhaps in the major field in the last two years as an aid to evluating students for graduate school). With no grades the teacher must make the course and subject matter interesting enough on its own merits to hold students' attention and elicit thought from them. Furthermore, some student evaluations of faculty success in teaching (with appropriate objective checks built into the system of evaluation to weed out biased comments) could be used as considerations for promotion and tensure. Finally, curriculum offerings and requirements should be reduced and changed in a way commonsurate with student interest.

Such suggestions for reform and criticisms of the present system are useless, however, unless there is effective student pressure brought to bear to force such changes. The pressures from the outside community on the administration and desire by many faculty to maintain the status quo (after all, it would be an additional hardship to be pressure to teach well if one would rather spend one's time in research!) are conservative forces against such reforms.

There are indeed many faculty members who would support radical changes in the educational structure if they could point to an obvious need and desire of the students for such changes. If the students are silent and acquiescent, however, not only is there no clear case to be shown for the need of reforms; but there is no effective to protect their interests.

The radical civil rights advocates of Black Power discovered that liberals talk a lot but move slowly; so some independent political power is needed to change the status quo in any reasonably rapid way. Just so, students must realize that they need a vocal radical group to pressure the University to changes. Granted that the majority of students are also conservative, image-conscious and against boat-rocking, they can be moved to action by a well organized radical protest group, and can influence the administration to change policies—witness the curfew change effected last year by the University Reform Committee.

Where are you now, URC? We need some public actions on your part—including such tactics as class boycotts for smaller classes, demonstrations for a universal pass-fail system, public meetings to discuss needed curriculum change, and so forth. Without such pressures, we renegade radical faculty members are voices crying in the wilderness! The way to change the system is not to drop out of it and "do your thing", or to give up and join it; but rather to fight it and bring intelligent pressure to bear to force changes.

Editorials signed "The Editors" represent the views of this paper, decided upon by a majority vote of the editorial board. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, and letters represent the personal views of the writers.

Every man of action has a strong dose of egotism, pride, hardness and cunning. But all these things will be forgiven him if he can make of them the means to achieve great ends.

Charles de Gaulle

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union . . . University of Massachusetts . . . Amherst, Mass.

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Chester S. Weinerman '68
MANAGING EDITOR ..... John H. Dean, Jr. '69
BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Charles Smith '69

City Editor ..... Jim Foudy '68
News Editor ..... Richard S. Kline '70
Editorial Chairman ..... Pat Petow '68
Sports Editor ..... Tom Fitzgerald '69

Advertising Managers ..... Dot Silvia '69, Sharon Kramer '69
Photo Editors ..... Paul Boliver '68, John Griffin '68

THURSDAY NEWS STAFF: Day Editors: Marjie Flanders, Dick Boucher, staff: Carolyn Foland, Sandy Bornstein, Karen Brunt, Jeanne Orsini, Marilyn Young
Editorial Staff—Ellie Skinner, Day Editor, Sports Staff: Murry, Day Editor

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the Daily Collegian publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amended by the act of June 11, 1943. Printed by Hamilton I. Newell, Inc., University Drive, Amherst. Subscription: $6.00 per year, $3.50 per semester.

Offices of the Daily Collegian are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0811 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

"C'mon boy . . . speak . . . !"

Observer: DeGaulle All the

by RUSSELL BAKER

President de Gaulle's announcement that France would withdraw from earth was hardly unexpected. As Andre Malraux had written in his diary eight months before, "Il n'y a pas de quoi." ("There is nothing left for France to withdraw from," or, more freely, "Today the International Gold Pool, tomorrow the world.")

Nevertheless, few believed that de Gaulle would actually follow the logic of his policy to its ultimate conclusion. In the final analysis, they reasoned, he would yield to the temptation to betray logic for the satisfaction of retaining the big world audience which he loved to astound and infuriate.

A MAJOR PREMISE

How poorly they understood their man. How badly they underestimated the French passion for logic. But then, the rest of the world had never been able to understand either de Gaulle or French logic. Indeed, this pervasive global slow-wittedness was an important cause of the ultimate French withdrawal.

"Enfin," de Gaulle told his final new conference, "on doit ouvrir la fenetre de sa tante." ("How can France live surrounded by dumbness, without catching the infection?")

There were other causes, of course. President de Gaulle outlined them lengthily for the press. France, he said, had been outraged by the hospitality that much of the earth had shown to the English language. He had made it clear from the beginning that France could not continue to associate itself with a world that used the tongue of the Anglo-Saxons, yet the world had refused to mend its speech.

Almost as grave was Britain's insistence upon continuing to exist. On this point, he noted, he had made extradordinary concessions. He had abandoned his demands that Britain be towed into the Indian Ocean and sunk.

Instead, he had offered to let Britain become part of France, after a suitable apprenticeship in which the Anglo-Saxon mentality might be honed sufficiently to grasp the beauty of French logic.

This generous offer had been ignored. There was no doubt, he said, that British truculence had been encouraged by the barbarism of the United States and of Israel, both of which had grossly offended civilization by refusing to "listen to the voice of France."

It had always been unthinkable, he went on, that a nation as superbly led as France could long remain on the same planet with a nation such as the United States. Nevertheless, he said, France, "generous perhaps to a fault" ("toujours l'amour") had sought an accomodation.

He had asked only two conditions: First, that the United States dismantle its monetary system and accept an international currency system based on perfume. Second, that the United States become a province of Quebec.

American refusal to consider either of these conditions had made it impossible to continue its asso the planet. There factors behind his d as he told his news there was no point i these since the rest showed no signs of its senses anyhow

The Grand Plan

Then, standing deeply, the general his last words to e dames et messieu ("And now you wo Gaulle to kick a more.")

The next day, in with an elaborate technological plan, a enormous balloon ba to all that is Fran vines of Burgundy an of the Seine, to the E the Cathedral of N

Polis

Use of Confessions

by SUE WALLACE, Editorial Day Editor

The Senate Judiciary Committee has proposed a bill which would amend the Supreme Court's decision on confession cases. The bill would return the court to its previous stand (before the Miranda vs. Arizona decision) of the "voluntariness" test on the use of confessions as evidence. In this test, the decision to admit confessions as evidence depended upon whether or not the confession was voluntary "under the totality of the situation" of the interrogation. The question of a defendant's awareness of his constitutional rights was not involved.

The "Miranda" ruling, currently in effect, requires the police to inform a suspect of his constitutional rights immediately when he is taken into custody. The new bill would also prevent the Supreme Court from reviewing cases involving confessions that have been found valid in the state supreme courts.

For those who feel that the police departments have been severely handicapped by the Miranda ruling this may be an "about time" blessing. However, the idea that the Miranda vs. Arizona ruling practically sounded the death knell for effective police action is absurd.

Two recent studies, one conducted by sociologists at the University of Michigan and the other by the Yale Law Journal, have pointed to the fact that the confesion was relatively unimportant to law enforcement agencies. The Michigan study especially shows that arresting officers had evidence separate from interrogation and that voluntary confessions, either out of fear or confusion, were far more frequent than those under questioning.

Two specific findings show the lack of the effectiveness of the confession in police efficiency. Again in the Michigan study, of the 831 cases witnessed in patrol situations, only one-third involved interrogation. And of these, only 14 per cent resulted in an admission. Several of these "confessions" were made before questioning and, in the majority of cases, without the suspects' awareness of legal rights.

The Yale study, regarding police station interrogations rather than patrol questioning, reconfirms the Michigan results. Of 90 cases studied in which nearly half of the suspects made confessions, only in three of them did the police need to rely upon the admission to secure evidence.

If confessions really aren't significantly useful in police action and if the Miranda ruling does protect a suspect's civil rights, why return to the past. The present ruling is not the epitome of legal law, but it is a start.

By forcing the police to rely on strong, physical evidence rather than the unsure confession, we are creating a better means of law enforcement which will, despite present problems, be to our benefit.

Position Clarified

To the editor:

I would like to clarify my position at the Constitutional Convention concerning debate on the Senior Week tax increase. As quoted in yesterday's Collegian, I was in favor of the subsidation increase of $10,000 "in accordance with the findings of the Arbitration Board."

However, these "findings" were that significant publicity was to be given to the Seniors concerning the proposed Senior Week activities and then asked for $10,000. In speaking on the matter, I argued that this requirement of publicity and of seeking class opinion had not been fulfilled, and therefore I was, and still am, against the $10,000 increase.

The Senior Class administration had from last spring, when the original request for additional funds was defeated, until late this fall to notify the Senior Class concerning Senior Week. Such a lack of legitimacy is unexcuseable when a Class administration is responsible for such large sums of money.

When one considers that if the projected attendance figure of 1250 students is correct and that there will be no Senior Week activities for the other 1250 members of the Senior Class — although all 2500 people will be paying the tax increase, communication with all members should have been carried out far in advance and in depth.

Innovation in the planning of any class event is commendable, but with innovation goes the added responsibility of justification of new ideas—justification presented as a result of active solicitation of class opinion.

James G. Collins
President, Student Senate

Might Refuse to Pay

To the editor:

Concerning Senior Week:

WOW ! ZAP ! WHEE ! Seniors — Come to Senior Week 1992 ! ! ! A five day junket to the Bahamas ! ! Something for EVERYONE ! ! ! !

Reserving the Bahama Hilton exclusively for U Mass's hard-working Grads ! ! !

Dancing, swimming in that warm Caribbean sea ! !

Sporting and cultural activities of all kinds ! !

Generous supply of the world's best booze — enough to last the entire week ! ! !

Meals at the famous TIKI TUM-TUM Lounge, exotic topless, bottomless, shoeless (etc.) waitresses ! !

For the more adventurous, a nightly raid on Cuba — the U. S. S. Integrity, world's second largest destroyer is at U Mass's disposal ! ! !

This great deal brought to the U Mass senior for only $504.67 for the entire week ! ! WHEE ! !

Even you, Dick Wood, HAVE to be kidding. What's with this habit U Mass has of insisting that one "bash" must be bigger, BETTER, more B-A-R-N-U-M and B-A-I-L-E-Y than the last?? I assure you, the last was Barnum and Bailey enough ! ! You guys ever heard of quality not quantity ? ? ? And what's all this garbage about "class unity" ? ? Hate to spoil it for you, Dick, baby, but how can you find at the end of four years what was never there ?

If you think that we have paid tuition for this long, sat in cramped, stuffed, institutional-green classrooms, and struggled through asinine requirements for four years just to spend $40.00 a head to watch our great student leaders and sundry others get bombed at the biggest bash of the year, you're out of your cotton-pickin' TREE ! ! ! ! !

Remind me to subtract $8.00 from my next semester's bill.

Pat Groth '68

Despicable Behavior

Editor's Note: The following letter was received by President Lederle following last week's BC game.

To the editor:

My 10 year old son and I were present as spectators at the recent Boston College-University of Massachusetts football game. What I saw and heard at the game prompted my sending this note. Five young men, apparently UMass students, were sitting on the Boston College side of the field openly drinking hard liquor and noisily making their presence felt. I personally have no objection to the drinking; however, during the second half of the game, the quantity of spirits they consumed apparently took effect. In unison and in cheerleader fashion, all began directing the most vulgar obscenities I have ever heard in public, to the Boston College team. My embarrassment was heightened by the fact that women, children and priests were seated in the immediate area, as well as some "future" clients of mine who were well aware of my sympathies in the football contest.

We all know it takes but a few misguided, idiotic malcontents to undermine the good character and fine qualities of an entire student body. I also know that the University has no direct control over a situation such as I have described. However, I felt an obligation to direct your attention to this incident because it promulgated an erroneous impression of the typical University of Massachusetts student to those Boston College students and fans who were unfortunate to have been witness to this kind of dispicable behavior.

M. C.

Reconsider

To the editor:

Last Wednesday a Constitutional Convention voted to approve a $21 dollar tax levied by the Senior class on every senior at the University. This means each senior would pay a $13 tax to the class second semester.

The tax, which was approved by the Executive Council of the Class of '68, and therefore the officers of the class claim the proposed tax schedule has the approval of the majority of the seniors.

We feel that this assumption is false. The Executive Council does not communicate effectively enough to all class members to warrant the lack of publicity this proposed $66,135.00 budget has received.

For this reason, the budget should never have been considered until all members of the Senior Class had been notified of the proposed budget and had been given a chance to present their views.

Therefore we support the move, sponsored by several Senators to reconsider this budget this Wednesday and urge all Seniors to attend the public hearing on the budget this Tuesday at 11:15 in Bowker Auditorium.

Bruce R. Balboni,
President, Class of '70
Peter A. Ward,
Chairman, Senate P.R.

Monstrous

To the editor:

Developments on the matter of "Senior Week" caught me by surprise, as I imagine they did many other seniors too. Now that the full story on the plans for the three day trip to Grossinger's is out, I wish to register one senior's strong reaction. I can no more imagine spending the enormous sum of $30,000 for a three day drunk than I can consider flying. For the president of this class to have the audacity to propose such a venture strikes me as nothing short of monstrous.

Sit back, for a minute or two, and think of the great good that the senior class could do this University with a $30,000 gift — books for the library, a lecture series running over several years, equipment — the list could go on for quite a while.

Yet Mr. Wood proposes, rather than anything even remotely tinged with value, a three day, two night binge at Grossinger's!

And the Executive Council has apparently gone along with this incredible scheme, lending its support to the effort to get Senate approval. It seems to me that it only compounds the horror of the crime that more than one individual has been taken into this scheme.

I gather, on the basis of the two Collegian reports to date, that every senior is to be assessed $12, whether or not he plans to attend! Can any more farfetched idea be imagined? I wish to put myself on the public record as of this date as standing unequivocally and unalterably opposed to the madness of a $30,000 drunk in the Catskills.

I hereby serve notice that I will refuse, unquestionably, to pay a $12 assessment helping subsidize the madness of this trip.

I cannot say whether I would have attended senior week or not, had any other plans been made; but now that the word is out, my decision is made and firm. I urge any other distressed senior to join with me in attempting to raise a voice against this enormous travesty which we are presented as "senior week."

Richard W. Story

A dull mind, once arriving at an inference that flatters a desire, is rarely able to retain the impression that the notion from which the inference started was purely problematic.

—Silas Marner*, George Eliot

Rat deserting a sinking ship ?

If you see news in the making
Dial the MDC Hotline
545-2550

OFF CAMPUS PARKING AVAILABLE ON PHILLIPS STREET

CALL 253-2089
256-6015
REDMEN REALTY

SORORITY
DECLAMATION
COMPETITION

Monday
Dec. 4
7:00 P.M.
Mahar

STUDENTS

Give Your Opinions
at the Public Hearings

"NO VENDING MACHINES"

Monday 7:30 Council Chambers

Campus Job Interviews for December

MONDAY 11

Du Pont
Chicopee Pneu. Tool
Rogers Corporation
Graflex, Inc.
Line Material Ind.
Maryland Highway
Naval Ordnance Lab.
United Airlines
Arthur Young & Company
U.S. Army Audit Ag.
Clinton, Conn.

TUESDAY 12

Du Pont
Ingersoll Rand
Grinnell Corporation
Hamilton Standard
Algonquin Gas Trans.
Xerox Corporation
Arthur Andersen
Camp, Dresser & McKee
Boston Naval Shipyard
Borden Chemical
Internal Revenue
Eastman Kodak

WEDNESDAY 13

Du Pont
U.S. Public Health
Hamilton Standard
CIBA Corporation
Leeds & Northrup
N.E. G. & E.
City of Philadelphia
Underwriters Laboratory
Spark, Mann & Company
Eastman Kodak
Post, Marwick & Mitchel

THURSDAY 14

IBM—tech.
Bethlehem Steel
Chicopee Manufacturer
Sprague Electric
Monsanto
Allis-Chalmers
Hercules, Inc.
U.S. Naval Underwater Weapons
Riley Stoker
Link Group
U.S. Forest Service

FRIDAY 15

Monsanto
Bell System—Tech.
American Sugar Company
United Fruit Company
Gilbert Association
Foster Wheeler
National Starch & Chem.
Lybrand, Ross Bros. & Montgomery
Naval Ship Engineering
Heath Survey Cons.

MONDAY 18

Kidder Press
Atlantic Refining
Torrington Company
Diamond Alkali
Atlas Chemical
Central Hudson G & E
Interchemical Corporation
Amperex Electronic
City Engineer Office
Michigan Chemical Corporation

TUESDAY 19

York Corporation
United Shoe Machine
Simonds Saw & Steel
United Nuclear Corporation
Sylvania Electric
N.Y. Department of Health
Ernst & Ernst
CIA
Tennessee Gas Transmission Company
American Optical
Hitchiner Manufacturer

WEDNESDAY 20

CIA
U.S. Geology survey
United Aircraft Corporate System
American Optical
Anaconda Wire & Cable Company
Pricewaterhouse
Metropolitan District
General Service Department
Computer Usage Company

THURSDAY 21

CIA
U.S. Department of Agric.

Class of 1971

STUDENT UNION GOVERNING BOARD ELECTION

Pick up Nomination Papers in R.S.O.
Due Thurs., Dec. 7

Advance, and be recognized

Parke-Davis is a company where the individual and medical science progress together; where challenges evolve into solutions for the betterment of man; and where ideas and hard work bridge to broadening professional responsibilities.

Step forward — and put your talent, knowledge and ambition where they will recognized — and rewarded.

PARKE-DAVIS will be interviewing on December 4 and 5

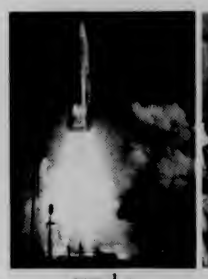
for
- SCIENTISTS
- ENGINEERS
- PHARMACISTS
- ACCOUNTANTS
- BUSINESS MAJORS



very interesting assignments in
- RESEARCH
- QUALITY CONTROL
- PRODUCTION
- ADMINISTRATION

You may obtain further information and arrange for an interview by contacting the Placement Office.

PARKE, DAVIS & COMPANY
Joseph Campau at the River Detroit, Michigan 48232

An Equal Opportunity Employer

Come to Burndy and help...

send a rocket to the moon . . .

this artificial kidney save a man's life . . .

keep atomic power plants under control . .

Because all these activities depend on electrical connectors—and Burndy is the largest, oldest, and most inventive manufacturer of electrical and electronic connectors, terminals, and installation equipment in the world. We're the best in our business at Burndy, and we're the best in many businesses, from the far-out fringes of outer space to the way-in wonders of microminiaturization. You can't turn on a light, ride a plane, work a computer, or watch TV without using the services of hundreds of our connectors. Small wonder it's such an exciting, important, and rewarding world at Burndy.

To find out more about how you can help put a rocket on the moon and yourself into an excellent engineering or sales job at our Norwalk headquarters, talk to the Burndy personnel specialist who'll be on your campus next week.

BURNDY
NORWALK, CONNECTICUT

An Equal Opportunity Employer

NOTICES

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS
CORRECTION: There will be a bus this Saturday at Newman Center. All welcome. No expense. 1:15 to 4:30 p.m.
More volunteers are needed for helping the children and adults at this State School for Mentally Retarded, make Christmas decorations.

PRE-DENTAL, PRE-MED, PRE-VET
Students expecting to graduate in 1970 or earlier who wish to either change to one of the above pre-professional majors or to register with the Pre-Med Advisory committee but major in one of the academic depts. should file an application with the committee no later than Dec. 15, 1967. Further information in Pre-Med Office, 321 Morrill.

UNIVERSITY CHRISTIAN WORSHIP
On Sunday at 11:00 a.m. in Mahar Aud., there is a celebration of advent. Coffee.

MOVIE ON INNER SPACE
The Move Destination: Inner Space will be shown in Mahar, on Tues., Dec. 5 at 3:30 p.m. Admission free to members of Science Fiction Club, 50¢ to others.
Libe hours, Mon-Fri 6:30-8:30 in 110 Hampshire House. We have a complete Burrough's Mars, Venus, Tarzan Series.

POETRY READING
This Sunday the Southwest College Council presents an evening of poetry by four of New England's most creative poets. Miss Jeannette Nichols, Mr. Richard Weber, Mr. Donald Junkins and Mr. Joseph Langland will present some of their most interesting and creative works.
The program begins at 8:00 p.m. in Dining Commons No. 7 and is free to the public. This program will be most beneficial to students interested in creative writing.

HILLEL
Sabbath services Friday, at 7 p.m. in Worcester Room. Dr. R. D. Ware of History Dept. will speak on "Language and Culture".
Sat. morning services are at 9:30 a.m. in Norfolk Room.
Talmud class at 11:30 a.m., Sat.
Intercollegiate Hillel Colloquium at BU Hillel House, to include a dance Sat. evening and breakfast, lunch and lectures on Sunday. Topic of Colloquium will be War, Peace & Judaism. Registration at Hillel Office required. Fee $2.00 transportation provided. Sat. noon is deadline for Registration.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORG.
Weekly meeting on Tues., Dec. 5 at 6:45 p.m. in Worcester Room. All invited.

STUDENT RELIGIOUS LIBERALS
On Sunday, Dec. 3 at 12:30 at 15 Hallock St. there is meeting at home of faculty advisor, Mr. James Turner, for lunch and discussion entitled "Thoughts."

ECONOMICS LECTURE
On Tues., Dec. 5 at 8 p.m. in S.U. Ballroom. Dr. Lawrence Abbott of Union College, Schenectady, N.Y. will speak on "Growing Pains of Economic Growth." All invited.

OUTING CLUB
Those interested in Mt. Greylock hike this Sunday should see bulletin board for details and sign-up sheet.
Anyone writing a trip report, please turn it in as soon as possible.
General meeting on Monday, Dec. 4 at 6:30 p.m. in Middlesex Room.

PSYCHOLOGY COLLOQUIUM
Topic is "Differential Conditioned Suppression as a Function of Shock Intensity and Incentive." It will be given by Dr. John J. B. Ayres, on Monday, Dec. 4 at 4:30 p.m. in Bartlett 61.

AFRO-AMERICAN ORG.
On Dec. 6 at 7 p.m. in SBA 120 Dr. Darrity will be guest speaker.
Please bring $2.00 for dues. Be prompt.

LOST:
Gold initial ring with S.S. in Southwest between T4 and T5. Please contact Stuart Schniederman 1312, Washington. 6-9104.
Scarab bracelet Sat. nite, near LCA. Please contact Donna 6-7460. Reward.
Round rimmed glasses in plaid case, lost near Newman Center. Contact Ruth Williamson, 111 Van Meter South.
K E slide rule. Name inside. Nov. 30. at S.U. Call 6-7726.

FOUND:
North Commons meal ticket: pick up at S.U. Lost and Found.

PINNINGS:
Marilyn Townsend '70 Van Meter, to William Robbins '69, Webster.
Lois Markiewicz '70, Coolidge, to Gregory Bazinet '68, Worcester Jr. College.
Susan A. Bubien '70, Coolidge, to Glenn R. Thomas '70, John Adams.
Jean Forward '70, SDT, to Thomas Stockwell '70, LCA, Univ. of Miami, Florida.
Christine M. Crowley '68, Amherst, to Bill Anderson, Grad, Sunderland.

ENGAGEMENT:
Betsy Miltovan '68, Van Meter, to Gregory MacDonald '70, Greenough.
Linda C. Greene '70, Crampton, to Robert Merry, U.S. Coast Guard.
Kathleen F. Toomey '71, Dwight, to James H. Collins '70, Holy Cross College.

Sophomores
End
November
December
Opens
For Fun

NOMINATION PAPERS

Nomination papers for Commuter Senator may be picked up in the R.S.O. Office Friday, Dec. 1.

AP Is 92 Years Old

NEW YORK (AP) — A bronze plaque was unveiled in the lobby of The Associated Press Building Wednesday to mark the start of mass communication networks 92 years ago.

The Associated Press leased the wire in 1875 to send stories simultaneously to newspapers.

Wes Gallagher, AP general manager, said "We are particularly proud of the foresight of our predecessors who started the move toward modern communications for this broadcast and newspaper era."

COMMUTERS

Seven Senate seats are open for commuters. Nomination papers are available in RSO offices.

Due Dec. 1

Vote on Dec. 7

Who does he think he is, Patrick Henry?

You'd better believe it.
If only because he does. That's enough
For his countrymen: belief in him
And in Liberty.
The Spirit of '76 . . . in '67
It won't take him as long as it took us
To be heard;
To be listened to.
The United Nations will see to that.
His vote, as big as ours
Or Russia's or Holland's will see to that.
Which was the whole idea in San Francisco
Wasn't it?
You, of all people, must believe it.
You are our life insurance.

Phoenix Mutual
LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY
HARTFORD, CONNECTICUT

Dial the Hot Sportsline, 545-0344

Women Gymnasts to Compete In Eight Scheduled Meets

Saturday is the first day of woman's gymnastic competition as they open an eight meet schedule against a Montclair, N.J., Y.M.C.A. team. The meet starts at 6:30 p.m. in the Auxiliary Gym at Boyden.

The eight meet schedule culminates with the National Championships in Southern Illinois during March vacation.

The women's team has expanded from two girls five years ago to 16 girls today. The team is coached by Mrs. Kitty Kjeldsen, wife of the UMass men's varsity gymnastics team coach.

The most important home meet is scheduled for Sat., Dec. 9, at 1 p.m. against a strong Southern Connecticut College team which boasts 2 national champions and a prospective Olympian.

The team is lead by co-captains Sue Clancy and Linda Binney. Margie Sims, a freshman, is also a national Y.M.C.A. champion.

Other team members are Ruth Morse, Dorey Finn, Laurel Milch, Janet Wozniak, Janice Smith, Ellen Clark, Nancy Johnson, Karen Haffner, Millary Haendle, Sheri Skinner and Patricia Sullivan.

Coach Kjeldsen says this "is the strongest team ever and we're looking forward to a good season." Last year the team finished sixth in the national championships and she hopes the team "will do as well as better than last year."

The team this year also has two assistant coaches, Marit Johnson, a former physical education teacher from Norway who is now doing graduate work here, and Fred Petersen, who works with the girls on the uneven parallel bars.

The team will be hostesses to the Regional Championships for College Women Sat., Mar. 2 The event will last all day in the Auxiliary Gym.

ENRICO IV TICKETS

The Bowker Auditorium box office is now open for the sale of tickets to Enrico IV, a University Theatre production scheduled for performance December 6-9.

The box office is handling sales to the general public daily from 9 to 5 and is also filling mail orders from season subscription holders. The telephone number is 545-2149.

I won't go into business when I graduate because:

☐ a. I'd lose my individuality.
☐ b. It's graduate school for me.
☐ c. My mother wants me to be a doctor.

Can't argue with c), but before you check a) or b)—pencils up! There have been some changes. Drastic changes in the business scene. But changes in the vox populi attitude regarding business . . . especially on campus . . . just haven't kept pace.

Take the belabored point that business turns you into a jellyfish. The men who run most of the nation's successful firms didn't arrive by nepotism, by trusting an Ouija board, or by agreeing with their bosses. Along the way, a well-modulated "No" was said. And backed up with the savvy and guts today's business demands.

In short, individuality is highly prized in much of the business world—the successful much. Even when the business is big. Like Western Electric, the manufacturing and supply unit of the Bell System.

We provide communications equipment for our Bell System teammates, the Bell telephone companies. This takes a lot of thought, decisions, strong stands for our convictions, (and sometimes some mistakes . . . we're human, every 160,000 of us).

Individuality pays off. Not only in raises, but in personal reward as well. Like an engineer who knew deep down that there was a better way to make a certain wire connector —and did. Or a WE gal who streamlined time-consuming office procedures, and saved us some $63,000 a year.

Rewards and accolades. For saying "No." For thinking creatively and individually. For doing.

Not every hour is Fun Hour, but if you've got imagination and individuality—you've got it made. With a business like Western Electric. We'll even help you answer b) with our Tuition Refund program. Come on in and go for President!

Western Electric
MANUFACTURING & SUPPLY UNIT OF THE BELL SYSTEM

Prepared by Cunningham & Walsh Inc., to appear in College Newspapers 1967

Friday, December 8.
explore an engineering career on earth's last frontier.

Talk with Newport News On-Campus Career Consultant about engineering openings at world's largest shipbuilding company—where your future is as big as today's brand new ocean.

Our half-a-billion-dollar backlog of orders means high starting salary, career security, with your way up wide open. It also means scope for all your abilities. We're involved with nuclear ship propulsion and refueling, nuclear aircraft carrier and submarine building, marine automation. We've recently completed a vast oceanographic ore survey. We're a major builder of giant water power and heavy industrial equipment. We're starting to apply our nautical nuclear know-how to the fast expanding field of nuclear electric power generation. We're completing competitive systems designs for the Navy's $1 billion plus LHA fleet concept.

Interested in an advanced degree or research? We're next door to Virginia Associated Research Center with one of the world's largest synchrocyclotrons, offering advanced study in high energy physics. We're close to Old Dominion College and University of Virginia Extension Division, where you can get credits for a master's degree, or take courses in Microwave Theory, Solid State Electronics, Nuclear Engineering and other advanced subjects. Ask about scholarships, tuition grants, study and research leaves to implement these opportunities.

Ask, too, about the pleasant living and lower living costs, here in the heart of Virginia's historic seaside vacation land, with superb beaches, golf, fishing, boating, hunting.

IMMEDIATE ENGINEERING CAREER OPENINGS

Mechanical Engineers
Electrical Engineers
Marine Engineers
Industrial Engineers
Systems Analysts
Naval Architects
Nuclear Engineers
Civil Engineers
Metallurgical Engineers

See our representative
Henry Flood
Friday, December 8

He'll be at the Placement Office to answer questions, discuss qualifications, take applications for fast action.

Newport News
NEWPORT NEWS SHIPBUILDING AND DRY DOCK COMPANY, NEWPORT NEWS, VIRGINIA
An Equal Opportunity Employer

Landry Named to AP All-N. E. Team

UMass quarterback Greg Landry was named to the first string of the Associated Press All-New England football team it was announced today.

Landry, who gained a record 4700 yards in total offense during his three years at UMass, edged Yale's Brian Dowling for the honor, as chosen by sports writers and sportscasters from New England.

Two other Redmen made the second team. Offensive tackle Jim Mitchell, a senior, and junior defensive halfback Mike McArdle were named to the second squad.

Three Ivy League powers — Harvard, Yale and Dartmouth, dominated the rest of the first squad. Harvard placed five men on the team, champion Yale three and Dartmouth four.

Dowling, injured early in his sophomore season, was knocked out of action at the start of the 1967 campaign, but came back to lead the Elis to the Ivy title and an over-all 8-1 record.

Chosen from Harvard were pass-receiving ace Carter Lord, blocking tackle Bob Brooks, high-scoring halfback Vic Gatto, linebacker Don Chiofaro and defensive back Tom Williamson.

Dartmouth is represented by offensive Paul Paulson and end Randy McElrath, linebacker Norm Davis and cornerback Gordie Rule on defense.

Winning top honors from Yale were center Fred Morris and hard-hitting fullback Don Barrows on offense and tackle Glenn Greenberg on defense.

Rounding out the backfield with Landry, Gatto and Barrows is Vermont's Bobby Mitchell, who led the Yankee Conference in rushing although slowed by an ankle injury in mid-season. Mitchell and Davis also were All New England choices last year.

Frank Geiselman of Rhode Island, like Lord one of New England's top scorers, moved up from the 1966 second team to an end spot.

Northeastern's Mike Donovan, a member of the 1966 All-team, and Connecticut's Roy Lawrence captured the guard positions.

The defensive unit is led by middle guard Glenn Grieco of Holy Cross and tackle Ray Norton of Boston University, both repeaters from last year. Chiofaro and Lawrence moved up from the second team.

Others on the defensive unit are Northeastern end Craig MacDonald; linebacker Ross Wilson of Williams, and safety Dick Farley of Boston University. Wilson is the biggest surprise, but he earned the honor by taking part in 18 tackles a game in Williams' 7-0-1 record.

On the second offensive unit with Dowling are ends Jeff Ruhman of Vermont and Bruce Weinstein of Yale, tackle Bob McWeeney of Boston University, guards Al Bersin of Harvard and Skip Small of Dartmouth; center Mike Evans of Boston College; halfbacks Cal Hill of Yale and Glenn Dumont of Aerican International, and fullback Brendan McCarthy of Boston College.

The second team on defense includes ends Bob Hoffan, Harvard, and Bill Vasilios, New Hampshire; tackles Wilson Whitty, Boston University, and Ron Persuitte, Boston College; middle guard Dick Kroner, Boston College; linebackers Ken Kuzman, Rhode Island, Tom Whidden, Brown, and Sal Spinosa, Bates, and defensive backs Bill Cobb, Harvard, and Bob Tousignant, Springfield.

Honorable mention also went to several UMass players. Included in the offense list were Nick Warnock, end; Bob Santucci, guard. On defense were Paul Mlinar, end; Kent Stevens, tackle; Bruce Gombar, tackle and Ernie Smith, linebacker.

Frosh Hoopsters Face 'Battle of the Books'

By PETER PASCARELLI
Staff Reporter

The Student Union faces a Battle of the Bands on Dec. 15, but the freshmen basketball team, which opens against Rockwood Academy of Lenox, Mass., Saturday at 6:15, in the Cage, faces a "Battle of the Books". So says, Coach Peter Broaca of the frosh.

"We face 13 of our 18 games in the second semester," said Broaca, "and we'll need all our players down the stretch." "I've been pleased with our progress up to this point", added Broaca, "but everyone will have to stay healthy academically."

Marks allowing, the depth of the frosh is the team's strong suit. "We have nine boys," enthused Broaca, who are fighting for starting berths." Up front are five players, who in the coach's words, "have all pleased me and are all battling equally for starting positions".

Included in this front court contingent are Ken Mathias, a 6'6 product from Lodi, New Jersey, Lou Griffith, a 6'5 boy from Framingham, Jim Ryan, 6'4 from Somerville, Frank Schaffeld, 6'5 out of River Edge, New Jersey and Stan Kinard, 6'2 from Brooklyn, New York who has been hampered by a broken finger.

In the backcourt are four boys, who, in the words of Coach Broaca, "I can start any two of the four". hese performers include, Bob Dempsey, 5'11 from Fall River, Jon Kruper, 6', who comes out of Union Town, Pa., Bill Greely, 5'8 from Melrose and Bob Nelson, 6' from Lawrence.

Also singled out by Coach Broaca, are forwards Charlie Shaffer and Tom Nally and guards Mike Korpita and Tom Hellen.

In the coach's words, "this is a pretty good team." Coach Broaca also said that "this team is a team, all from winners". The high school records of the team bear this statement out.

Dempsey played for a State Championship team at B.M.C. Durfee high school, Greely on State Title team of Melrose High School, and Ryan played for a Eastern Mass. finalist team from Somerville High School. All three were Eastern Mass. All Scholastics.

Kruper, the Union Town, Pa. boy, played for 24-2 high school team. Griffith, played for Worcester Academy, who won the New England Prep School Championships. Kinard's Tilden High School squad was league champion, while Mathias was chosen first team All-County from Bergen County, New Jersey.

Asked for any weakness in his team, Broaca said, "Our lack of speed is my main concern. We are not as quick as I'd like."

The main value in a freshman team lies in its supplying of varsity material. Broaca said that "any of our top nine players have varsity potential." In closing, however, Coach Broaca again alluded to the academic problems of freshman teams. "The ones who make the varsity will be the ones who develop both athletically, and scholastically."

FRESHMAN BASKETBALL

Dec. 2—Rockwell Acad.	Home 6:15 p.m.
Dec. 5—Westfield State JV's	Away 8 p.m.
Dec. 9—St. Anselm's	Away 6:30 p.m.
Dec. 19—Chamberalyne	Home 6:15
Jan. 25—Providence	Home 6:15 p.m.
Jan. 27—Yale	Away 4 p.m.
Jan. 31—Connecticut	Home 6:15 p.m.
Feb. 2—A.I.C.	Away 6:30
Feb. 6—Boston College	Away 6:15 p.m.
Feb. 8—Springfield	Away 8:15 p.m.
Feb. 10—Franklin Pierce	Home 6:15 p.m.
Feb. 14—Holy Cross	Home 6:15 p.m.
Feb. 17—Connecticut	Away 6 p.m.
Feb. 20—Worcester	Home 6:15 p.m.
Feb. 22—AIC	Home 6:15 p.m.
Feb. 24—Dean Junior College	Away 2:30 p.m.
Mar. 2—Boston Univ.	Home 6:15 p.m.

Icemen Hope to Rebound Against M. I. T. in Second Game

By WALT STACHURA
Staff Reporter

Hoping to bounce back from Wednesday's opening game loss to Vermont, the UMass hockey team will face off against Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) Saturday at Orr Rink starting at 7:30.

Being new at the UMass hockey scene, Coach John Caniff doesn't know what to expect from the Engineers. The game Saturday will be MIT's opener.

Caniff attributed his squad's 8-5 loss to Vermont to a lot of basic mistakes. He added that once the team eliminates these basic errors, they will get on the winning trail.

However, the coach was impressed by the hustle of his team. "They never quit and showed a lot of desire even in the third period when they were down four goals."

No lineup changes are planned for Saturday's game. Charlie Hanifan will center for wingers Greg Stone and Bill Fallon. Soph Mike Coine will pivot for team captain Frank Buckler and three goal scorer Jim O'Brien. The Tom-Johnson-Don Robinson-Jeff Sanborn line also will stay intact.

Caniff hopes that as large a crowd will be present Saturday as for the Vermont game when Orr Rink was filled to near capacity.

Juniors, Take a Trip Washington, D. C.

INTERSESSION, JAN. 16 - 19, 4 DAYS, 3 NIGHTS

We will be staying at the plushest hotel
in the district at group rates, the HOTEL AMERICA
(indoor pool heated at 80 degrees—mmm)

TOTAL COST (everything but meals) $35.00

Deposit of $5.00 due Nov. 27 - Dec. 1, Student Union Lobby

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
FRIDAY, DEC. 1, 1967
Page 12 Vol. XCVI, No. 56

Varsity Rated Third in East

Gymnasts Meet Strong S. Conn. Team in Opener

By JAN CURLEY
Sports Day Editor

Tomorrow is the opening day for the UMass gymnastics team. Starting at 11:30 the freshmen meet Southern Connecticut State College followed by the varsity meet at 2:00 p.m. The events will take place in the Auxiliary Gym of Boyden.

The varsity gym team has been rated third in the Eastern League by experts in pre-season picks. Coach Kjeldsen said he hoped to have the best team and a chance for third place. But to do this the team will have to beat Army, Navy and Springfield College.

The Eastern League includes Temple, Penn State, Army, Navy, Springfield, Syracuse and Pittsburgh. Temple and Penn State have been rated as the class of the league. UMass will be bucking against Army, Navy, and Springfield for one of the next four places.

In a preview scrimmage, the varsity beat the Coast Guard Academy. Although the team scored 157 points in posting the victory, Coach Kjeldson said they would need 165 or higher to win in a league competition, but for a pre-season meet "we accomplished what we wanted and we should be where we want in the league".

The most important home meets will be Sat., Jan. 27, against Penn State and Feb. 17, against Navy. The first two meets are non-league meets. Besides the Connecticut meet the three way meet Dec. 9 with Long Island University and West Chester State College is the final non-league meet. The Dec. 16 meet against Temple University ends the pre-Christmas action. The Eastern League Championships will be held at the U.S. Naval Academy Mar. 1 and 2.

Southern Connecticut College is an independent in New England competition. The team is coached by Abe Gresfelt, a three time Olympian. Although the team has not been strong in past competition, Coach Kjeldsen expects a close meet from a much improved team. The team captain James Aerlen represented the U.S. at pre-Olympic games in the fall.

The UMass team is led by co-captains Fred Babaklan (side-horse). Steve Brown (long horse, parallel bars and high bars) and Bob Leclair (long horse and side horse). Babaklan and Leclair qualified for the nationals last year and should form the nucleus of a strong side horse team.

Other seniors are Clarence Fraser, Toby Kasavana, Michael Koffman and David March. Tim Steves, also a senior has been lost for the season due to knee injury.

Junior Dick Delgalle on the rings should be a threat for the league championships in that event. Dick Dauphinais will not be competing this year because he has not recovered from an injury sustained at the Eastern Championships last year.

Sophomore team members are Joe Reed, an all around man, and Joe Godwin, floor exercises and parallel bars. Bill Bean, William McCauley and Frank Dean are also sophomores.

Coach Gundershein, opening his sixth year as gymnastics coach, also has a strong freshman team.

The freshman team roster consists of Tim Chase, Dennis Deschu, Dana Hastings, Robert Henry, Ed Jones, Steve Margil, Gene Palmer, Ken Perkins, Robert Riley, John Stanchfield, Glen Silvert, Robert Theriaque, Norman Vexles, Mike Peloquin, Bruce and Ken Maglie.

BOB LECLAIR—Co-Capt.

STEPHEN BROWN—Co-capt.

Gymnastics Schedule

Dec. 2 Southern Connecticut College Home 2 p.m.
Dec. 9 Westchester and L.I.U. L.I.U. 2 p.m.
Dec. 16 Temple Univ. Away 1 p.m.
Jan. 27 Penn State Home 8:15 p.m.
Feb. 3 Army Away 2 p.m.
Feb. 10 Pittsburgh Home 2 p.m.
Feb. 14 Springfield Away 8:15 p.m.
Feb. 17 Navy Home 8:15 p.m.
Feb. 24 Syracuse Away 2 p.m.
Feb. 29 E.I.G.L. champ
Mar. 1 & 2 Annapolis

FRESHMAN GYMNASTICS

Dec. 2 Southern Connecticut College Home 11:30 a.m.
Dec. 16 Temple University Away 3 p.m.
Feb. 3 Army Away 4 p.m.
Feb. 10 Long Island University Home 4 p.m.
Feb. 14 Springfield College Away 6 p.m.
Feb. 23 Lowell Tech Institute Away 6 p.m.
Feb. 24 Plymouth S.C. Home 2 p.m.

Redmen on the Warpath

BASKETBALL — vs. New Hampshire (at home, Curry Hicks Cage) tomorrow, 8 p.m.
BASKETBALL — vs. Rockwood Academy (at home, Curry Hicks Cage) tomorrow, 6:15 p.m.
GYMNASTICS — vs. Southern Connecticut College (at home, Auxiliary Gym, Boyden) tomorrow, 2 p.m.
GYMNASTICS (FR.) — vs. Southern Connecticut College (at home, Auxiliary Gym, Boyden) tomorrow, 11:30 a.m.
WRESTLING — vs. Miami, O., Brockport, Pa., and Clarion, Pa. (away at Brockport)
HOCKEY — vs. MIT (at home, Orr Rink, Amherst College) tomorrow, 7:30 p.m.
SWIMMING — vs. Tufts (at home) tomorrow, 4 p.m.

More Sports Pages 10 and 11

Dribblers to Start Season Against New Hampshire

By GLENN BRIERE
Assistant Sports Editor

It's not often that a college basketball team opens up its season with two conference games. Such is the case for UMass as the Redmen open up their 1967-68 season against a vastly improved New Hampshire team at the Cage tomorrow night at 8 p.m.

After the UNH game, the Redmen play the team that is a heavy favorite to win the Yankee Conference title, Rhode Island on Tuesday. But the Redmen cannot look past New Hampshire tomorrow night.

"They'll be tough enough to give us problems," said UMass coach Jack Leaman. The Wildcats, under second-year coach Bill Haubrich, have several promising newcomers as well as an outstanding player who has returned after a year's absence.

UNH is expected to improve on last year's 10-12 record, and one of the reasons is 6'3" forward Jeff Bannister, who averaged 26.5 points for the freshmen two years ago but was academically ineligible last ear.

This year Bannister is back and is expected to be the Wildcat's answer to Wonderful Wes. He is an outstanding shooter and although his year's absence might have affected him, there is plenty of reason to believe that he is back on his form of two years ago.

Another fine shooter is senior captain Denny Hodgdon, a 6'1 guard who led the Wildcats in scoring last year with an average of 16.9. That includes 21 points against UMass in a game that UNH lost by only four.

The other forward spot is ably filled by 6'5 junior Bob Glover, who averaged 13.9 last year. Haubrich is especially high on his new center, 6'7, 225-pound sophomore Bob Schultze, who averaged 16.9 with last year's frosh. The biggest man ever to play for UNH, Schultze will carry the bulk of the rebounding load.

Helping out Hodgdon in the backcourt will be either 6'3 sophomore Tom Cushman, who averaged 12.5 for the frosh last year, or 6'0 junior George Branscombe. These two will alternate as the ballhandler.

New Hampshire, for the first time in years, has some bench strength. Backup center Steve Seay, a 6'5 senior, started in the pivot last year and averaged 11.1. Like Hodgdon, Seay hit for 21 points in UNH's near-upset of the Redmen last year.

Haubrich also has the luxury of two 6'6 reserves on the bench. Jeff Bussey, a junior forward, is a letterman and Phil Blum, a sophomore forward, hit for 14.6 points a game with last year's 10-5 freshman team.

Other reserves who might see action are guards Jim Kerschner, a 6'0 junior letterman, and promising sophomore Brian Peters.

This is undoubtedly the biggest New Hampshire team in many years, and with shooters like Bannister and Hodgdon it has the necessary firepower. The Wildcats can be expected to fast break quite a bit, while on defense they play a zone defense which will often fall back to a press if the situation arises. Look for UNH to use the zone press a lot.

Leaman will be going with a starting lineup of Captain Billy Tindall, a 6'5 senior, and Rick Perkins, a 6'3 junior, at forwards; 6'9 junior Pete Gayeska at center and 5'11 junior Joe DiSarcina and 6'2 soph John Shockro in the backcourt.

He also indicated that 6'5 forewards Jim Sulesky and Greg Rand will see a lot of action along with guards Ron Nowakowski, 6'4 and Ray Ellerbrook, 6'1. The latter is a sophomore.

Leaman expects this year's team to be more offensively minded to go along with its characteristically aggressive defense. With more experience and much better outside shooting, the offense will not be as deliberate as last year. "We will run as much as possible," Leaman said.

The success of the team will undoubtedly lie in the rebounding. If players like Gayeska and Sulesky can come through off the boards, then less of the rebounding will depend on Tindall who will be able to play more in the corner where he is ideally suited.

The Redmen have a formidable task in opening with two Conference games, especially with Rhode Island looming on Tuesday. But Leaman is optimistic, and Redmen fans will get a chance to see how justified he is tomorrow night. Game time at the Cage is 8 p.m. and only student ID's are needed for admission.

Landry Picked to Play In North-South Game

WALTHAM — Greg Landry has been named to the Shriners North-South All-Star game to be played in Miami, it was announced at last night's football banquet of UMass' Boston Alumni Association.

Landry also received an award from the alumni group as the best Redman back of the season and another from the Varsity "M" Club as the best offensive player. Ernie Smith received the defensive award from the "M" Club, and Kent Stevens received the alumni award as best lineman.

Nearly 200 attended the fete at the UMass Field Station here and heard President John W. Lederle say "We're proud of our excellent football record in the last three or four years. Although we're losing one of the best quarterbacks in the East(we're confident of success in facing the odds in the future.

"One of these odds is playing outside the Yankee Conference. The Conference should move up in quality. I've talked to people for years on this, and I'm going to continue to work to this end."

Mike McArdle and Nick Warnock were formally announced as co-captains of the 1968 Redmen.

Intramurals

Tabomas Win In Hoop

By DON LARIVEE
Staff Reporter

Led by the shooting of Steven Upton, the Tabomas buried the Redunders, 75-10, to highlight last night's intramural basketball action. Upton scored 41 points.

In other Independent League action, the Del Vikings aced the Aces, 79-36, the Moody Blues sank the Bismarks with Forys scoring 24 points, and Nick's bounced the Bouncing F's, 56-23.

In dorm play, the Monuments swelted the Ironmen, 39-31, and the Academics downed the Seagram 6's, 35 - 16. The Terrors trounced the Smashers as Fuller of the Terrors grabbed 26 rebounds.

In other games, the Spartans wiped the Huskies, 53-28; the Bulldogs bit the Commanches, 52-28; the Panthers slashed the Lions, 49-46; the Leopards took the Cougars, 38-32; the Jaguars beat the Colonials, 41-28; and it was the Colt 45's over the Patriots by forfeit.

WEATHER
SUNNY
AND COLDER

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

NEW ENGLAND'S
LARGEST COLLEGE
DAILY

VOL. XCVI, NO. 57 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | MONDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1967

Controversy Swirls Around Senior Week

News Analysis

Budget Reconsideration Moved

by PAUL SILVERMAN, Student Senate Treasurer

A formal reconsideration of the Class of 1968 budget will be moved at the Constitutional Convention Tuesday. Part of the reasoning behind the motion for consideration being proposed is that the report and rationale entered before the Constitutional Convention that passed the Budget Change was very misleading.

The rationale provided by the Senior Class President led the Constitutional Convention to believe that the cost figures were all inclusive but in fact gratuities and tax were not included in the figures presented. These figures create a difference between the cost per person as presented by Mr. Wood and the actual cost per person going to Senior Week. Both sets of figures are presented below:

The Convention Chart is part of the documentation which was presented to last week's Constitutional Convention by the Senior Class President to support his motion to add $10,000 to the Senior Week subsidy. The figures in this chart were not part of the motion which was voted on. Wood emphasized yesterday that the chart was given to the Convention as an approximation. Chart A is a more detailed chart prepared by the 1968 president to explain the Convention chart which was simplified.

Participants	Total Cost	Subsidy	Cost/Sr.	Amt. Tax. @ Senior
1 - 500	$19,000.00	$10,000.00	$18.00	$4.00
501 - 1000	38,000.00	25,000.00	10.00	10.00
1001 - 1500	57,000.00	30,000.00	18.00	12.00
1501 - 2000	76,000.00	30,000.00	23.00	12.00
2001 - 2500	95,000.00	30,000.00	26.00	12.00

2509 Members Senior Class 1968
Tax — $21.00
$ 8.00 1st semester
13.00 2nd semester
* $20,000.00 returned to Class Reunion Treasury
 5,000.00 returned to Class Reunion Treasury

SILVERMAN CHART — Figures include gratuity and tax

No. Part.	St. Wk. Tax	Total Cost	Total Amt. Sub.	Ave. Cost Per Sr.	Trans. Cost	All Inc. Cost
0- 500	1) 4.00	$19,788.00	10,000	1)$19.50	approx.	1)$31.50
				3) 39.57	$8.00	3) 47.57
501-1000	1) 8.00
	2)10.00	42,636.00	1)20,000	1) 22.63	approx.	1) 38.63
			2)25,000	2) 17.64	8.00	2) 35.64
				3) 42.64		3) 50.64
1001-1250	1) 8.00
	2)12.00	54,060.00	1)20,000
			2)30,000	1) 27.24
				2) 19.24	approx.	1) 43.24
				3) 43.24	8.00	2) 39.24
						3) 51.24
1251-1500	1) 8.00	65,484.00	1)20,000
	2) 12.00		2)30,000	1) 30.32	approx.	1) 46.32
				2) 23.36	8.00	2) 43.36
				3) 43.65		3) 51.65

1. Figures at $20,000 subsidy (original budget)
2. Figures at $30,000 subsidy
3. Figures at no subsidy

* All seniors taxed this amount whether going or not over the whole year
 Includes transportation and tax

The Senior Week Tax item in the graph refers to the amount of money being spent for senior week from each senior whether attending or not. That is if 1,250 Seniors attended, they will each be taxed but the other 1,250 that do not go will be taxed as well.

Also, it was not made specifically clear in the rationale behind Senior Week that individual seniors would be responsible for their own transportation. Although buses will be made available they will be at an additional cost of $8.00 per person (approximate figures per Peter Pan), or they might form car pools on their own. This amount must be added into the total cost of the trip when deciding on its feasability.

In the rationale behind the senior week tax increase it was stated, "...Our site location insures that every interested Senior will be able to attend. It is their right to do so." The contract which Grossinger's has signed at the present time states that 1500 people is the maximum number of people which may stay at Grossinger's.

A personal conversation with Mr. Howard L. Bern, Director of Sales at Grossinger's would create "crowding to the point that no-one would enjoy it." Although beds might be available in other motels near Grossinger's, they would not be included in the Senior Week Activities to the same extent. Also, there is no way of telling the costs incurred if more than 1500 people were to attend, because their costs would not be the same as

(Continued on page 2)

Budget History

First semester bill: seniors assessed and paid $8 for Senior Week. Second semester bill: seniors assessed $8 and facing a proposed assessment of $4 more.

- Original request of $30,000.00 Senior Week prepared and passed Exec. Council vote, unanimously, May 1967.
- Constitutional Convention ratified Budget with exception of Sr. Week Category. New allocation of $20,000.00 was passed by a majority vote.
- Senior Class officers sought Arbitration Board decision.
- Budget reviewed by Exec. Council, November of 1967, passed unanimously (1 abstention and sent to Arbitration Board.
- Arbitration Board on Nov. 17 reviewed Budget Proposal of Class of 1968 voted in favor, unanimously, with stipulation calling for advance publication of Budget to Senior Class membership.
- Arbitration Boards decision ratified by Constitutional Convention on Wed., Nov. 29, 1967. Those in favor-37; those against-26.

SUG Board Grants 'Mother' Table In Union Lobby

The Student Union Governing Board has given permission to the underground newspaper "Mother of Voices" to set up a table three days a week in the Student Union lobby.

In an 8 to 5 vote Thursday evening, SUG Board approved the table on the grounds that the publication was chiefly a service group. Earlier in the evening, SUG Board turned down a motion to petition the Administration to allow the paper to be sold at the lobby counter.

According to the Chairman Neil Whitman, SUG Board feels that the decision as to what should be sold at the counter needs professional expertise. SUG Board has left the task to the professional staff of the Union.

The motion to petition the Administration was brought up at request of the "Mother of Voices" editors. The editors do not feel that the Administration has a right to decide what products should be sold in the Union. Dr. Mark Noffsinger, Associate Dean of Students, banned the publication from the counter after the first issue appeared.

The vote approving the table came after discussion of whether or not "Mother of Voices" was a commercial or service publication.

Whitman explained that last Spring SUG Board decided only registered RSO groups would be allowed to conduct commercial activities in the lobby. It was also decided that non-RSO groups would be allowed to sell in the Union only if they were a service group.

The editors of the publication

(Continued on page 2)

Wood Makes Policy Statement

by DICK WOOD, President of Class of 1968

Senior Class President Dick Wood came out tonight in a policy statement sharply denouncing the activities of Student Senate Treasurer Paul Silverman.

Said Wood, "Since this whole question of Senior Week has exploded in the last few days, I've been amazed at the amount of knowledge upon which this Budget is based. The Senate 'leaders' have only added fuel to this fire of doubt and ambiguity by their one sided attack on the class." Wood's sentiments come at a time when there is growing concern over the entire senior week budget.

"The Senate Treasurer has dealt in poor faith with the Class Officers and Senior Week Chairman, Henry Barr. A full length planned 'investigation' has been organized to discredit our budget proposal before it gets a proper voice before the Class at large." Wood's remarks were aimed at Silverman's budget analysis which was released today.

Wood went on to say, "the Senate Treasurer has taken some of our facts and figures which at the time of our last Convention were merely approximations. We've strived honestly to present the most complete and explicit budget to the Class of 1968 as is possible. We hope that we've begun to clear the air over the misconceptions."

Wood's remarks were in reference to the official Class of 1968 explanation and itemization of Senior Week expenditures. He concluded, "It was our budget to begin with. We know what is involved. We know what is meant. We don't need the Student Senate Treasurer to misstate our own proposals."

Site: Grossinger's Country Club, Grossinger, New York
Accommodations: Grossinger's has facilities up to 1,850 beds. The Class of 1968 has been guaranteed 1,500 beds for its senior week activities. By arrangement, if there are in excess of 1,500 Seniors interested in Senior Week 1968, accomodations will be provided for in the Grossinger area.
Dining accomodations at Grossinger's are quite adequate up to 2,000 people.
Charges: By special arrangement with Grossinger's the following convention rates have been set.
1,250 beds at $20.00 per person per night
250 beds at $14.00 per person per night
these rates are food and lodging charges
Gratuities: By special arrangement with the management, the following rate was established to cover all tips and such.
$2.40 per person per day.
New York State Sales Tax of two (2) percent.
Therefore charges for two days accomodations complete are:

12,500 beds, gratuities, etc.
	20.00
	20.00
	2.40
	2.40
	.80
	$ 45.60 (for purposes of clarification — $46.00.)
250 beds, gratuities, etc.
	14.00
	14.00
	2.40
	2.40
	.68
	$ 33.48 (for purposes of clarification — $34.00.)

Subsidies and ultimate charges per participating Senior:

(Continued on page 2)

Daily Collegian Photo by John Griffin

S.E.N.D.O.F.F.—The weekend started off with a bang during the performance of The Times Square Two. For more pictures and text on the weekend, see pages 6 and 7.

Senate Treasurer Gives Figures For Senior Week

(Continued from page 1)

at Grossinger's. Yet the rationale provided by Mr. Wood gave figures for the costs of up to 2500 people staying at Grossinger's, when this is an impossibility.

The above facts and figures were found by using the contract provided by Grossinger's. The actual cost should be used by the Senior Class, The Senior Class Executive Council, and the Constitutional Convention in deciding the issue of a change in the Senior Class Budget.

Had Mr. Wood supplied the Constitutional Convention with all the facts concerning Senior Week, a good part of the reconsideration problem would have been eliminated.

In summary, the Constitutional Convention and the Senior Class is faced with a new decision based on new fact and figures which were previously withheld.

Senior Class Budget Presented

(Continued from page 1)

CHART A:
No subsidy senior week allocation

No. Beds	4:3 Sub. Summations	Indiv. Subsidy	Total Cost	Indiv. Cost w/Subsidy
1250 @ Rate A	$ .00	.00	$46.00	$46.00
250 @ Rate B	.00	.00	34.00	34.00

CHART B
Sum allocation of $20,000.00 Subsidy

No. Beds	4:3 Subsidy Summations	Indiv. Subsidy	Total Cost	Indiv. Cost w/Subsidy
1250 @ Rate A	$17,391.40	$13.91	$46.00	$32.09
250 @ Rate B	2,608.71	10.43	34.00	23.57

Total Sub.	$20,000.11
Total Cost of Senior Week under Chart B		$66,000.00
Total Revenue Received including Subsidy		$65,992.50
Tax per individual Senior for Senior Week		$ 8.00

CHART C
Sum allocation of $30,000.00 Subsidy

No. Beds	4:3 Subsidy	Indiv. Subsidy	Total Cost	Indiv. Cost w/Subsidy
1250 @ Rate A	$26,087.00	$20.87	$46.00	$25.13
250 @ Rate B	3,913.05	15.65	34.00	$8.35

Total Subsidy	$30,000.00
Total Cost of Senior Week		$66,000.00
Total Revenue Received Including Subsidy		$66,000.00
Tax per individual Senior for Senior Week		$ 12.00

Thus for an additional tax of $4.00, costs will be seven dollars and five dollars, respectively, less expensive.

'Mother' May Sell For Three Days a Week

(Continued from page 1)

claim they are a service group because all the money goes back into the printing operation. They reasoned that since there was no profit, the paper was not a commercial organization.

Whitman said that the issue of commercial vs. profit was the only question raised. He said that he instructed the Board not to let the question of content enter into the decision.

Under the SUG Boards decision, the financial records of "Mother of Voices" will be opened to the professional staff of the Union. Whitman said that this is a standard policy with all groups that sell in the Union. Information from the books would be used to determine the extent of sales by the publication should the newspaper apply for an extension of their three day selling limit.

The decision to allow "Mother of Voices" to sell can also be recalled by SUG Board and brought back for another vote at anytime according to Whitman. He said he believes that SUG Board members who voted in the minority will probably keep close watch on the newspaper to determine if their policy changes from a service to commercial organization.

Whitman said that an indication of this would be if "Mother of Voices" hired a commercial company to distribute the paper.

Editors of the paper are not entirely pleased with the results of the vote, however. Editor, Arthur Cohen, said that it will be difficult to staff a table because of a shortage of manpower.

Cohen also disagrees with SUG Boards decision to leave the counter in the hands of the Union staff. Cohen feels that SUG Board was "afraid to use its power in governing the lobby counter" and he plans to raise the issue before the Student Senate.

Other College Campuses

UNIVERSITY OF SOUTH CAROLINA: Apparently there are others who want more exposure.

Four of seven cases of exhibition on the USC campus have ended in the arrest of a non-student male, said Campus Police Chief Huston E. Robinson.

The accused was tried, fined $100 or 30 days in jail and sent to S. C. State Hospital for psychiatric examination.

A student was apprehended last weekend in connection with an attempt to take the attorney general's reserved parking sign from the State House grounds.

The offender chose to pay a $50 fine instead of spending thirty days in jail.

JOINT STUDENT — SENIOR CLASS MEETING ON SENIOR WEEK AT 11:15 A. M., TUESDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1967 IN BOWKER AUDITORIUM THOSE INTERESTED SHOULD ATTEND

College Relations Director
c/o Sheraton-Park Hotel, Washington, D.C. 20008
Please send me a free Sheraton Student I.D. Card:
Name:
Address:

We're holding the cards.

Get one. Rooms are now up to 20% off with a Sheraton Student I.D. How much depends on where and when you stay.

And the Student I.D. card is free to begin with.

Send in the coupon. It's a good deal. And at a good place.

Sheraton Hotels & Motor Inns
155 Hotels and Motor Inns in major cities.

Class of 1971

STUDENT UNION GOVERNING BOARD ELECTION

Pick up Nomination Papers in R.S.O.
Due Thurs., Dec. 7

IT'S NOT A PLANE... NOT A SUPERMAN... IT'S A BIRD!

THE PENGUIN BOOK OF COMICS. George Perry and Alan Aldridge. Here is a fascinating, fun-filled history of strip cartoons—of the artists who created the characters, and of the characters who took charge of their creators. Here is the true tale of Popeye, and Li'l Abner, of Batman, Superman, and Peanuts—and of all the characters who live in cages but rule the world ...or the better half of it. Fully illustrated, a big 8½ by 11 inches, with a colorful vinyl-coated cover, this book offers 256 pages of fun, nostalgia, and fascinating information. Relaxing reading for the holidays...and a perfect Christmas gift. 2802. $4.50

Fly off now for your campus bookstore and a copy of THE PENGUIN BOOK OF COMICS.

PENGUIN BOOKS INC
3300 Clipper Mill Road Baltimore, Md. 21211

ENGINEERING OPPORTUNITIES

for Seniors and Graduates in MECHANICAL, AERONAUTICAL, ELECTRICAL, CHEMICAL, CIVIL, MARINE, INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERING, PHYSICS, CHEMISTRY, METALLURGY, CERAMICS, MATHEMATICS, STATISTICS, COMPUTER SCIENCE, ENGINEERING SCIENCE, ENGINEERING MECHANICS

CAMPUS INTERVIEWS

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 6

Appointments should be made in advance through your College Placement Office

Pratt & Whitney Aircraft DIVISION OF UNITED AIRCRAFT CORP.
An Equal Opportunity Employer

SPECIALISTS IN POWER... POWER FOR PROPULSION—POWER FOR AUXILIARY SYSTEMS.
CURRENT UTILIZATIONS INCLUDE AIRCRAFT, MISSILES, SPACE VEHICLES, MARINE AND INDUSTRIAL APPLICATIONS.

Off-Campus Senators to Resign

At least three student senators representing the constituency of older off-campus, students will be quitting the Student Senate this week in protest over what they term, "lack of representation" by the Senate of their constituency's needs.

According to Ray Wilson, a 30 year old married commuter, the student government is not set up to represent the needs of older commuter students. Wilson said that most of the events and activities scheduled by student government on campus do not appeal to older students.

One of Wilson's complaints is that although these events do not appeal to this group they are forced to pay for them through the student tax

Wilson has scheduled a meeting of "adult commuters" tonight in the Union Ballroom to discuss the issue The students have also consulted a lawyer and may bring an injunction against the University to prohibit their being hit with the student activities tax.

Wilson said that Senators Paul Papaluca, Dale Hardy and Dennis Robinson are planning to quit the senate.

According to Wilson, "Student Government at UMass is not a government at all but a union as far as off-campus students are concerned. We feel we should have a choice of unions and we want an adult senate."

Wilson said that the argument for taxing the minority for the good of the majority doesn't hold up. "It implies that both the majority and minority are part of a bigger group defined by the fact that we are all students."

Wilson feels that student government as presently organized can do nothing for older students that the administration can not do. He feels that his group will receive a sympathetic ear from the Administration.

"The proposal for Senior Week is the straw that broke the camel's back,' Wilson said explaining that "Older commuter students are not apt to participate in Senior Week and the tax should be optional for students off-campus."

Wilson and his group intends to start a petition for exemption from the student tax and requesting a rebate of last semester's tax. Wilson said that he was unafraid to take the case to court if it came to that.

Greenfield Rep Asks Explanation On 'Mother of Voices' Publication

Rep. Allan McGuane, D-Greenfield, has requested the UMass administration for an explanation of the circumstances surrounding the recent publication of a student underground newspaper, Mother of Voices.

McGuane said he believes there should be a clearly defined area of responsibility by the administration over the dissemination of questionable publications on campus. He has asked Dean Leo F. Redfern informally for the university's position in the general matter of restricting the sale of doubtful publications and a moral code for the school.

McGuane is referring particularly to the Mother of Voices first issue whose cover was of an outlined naked woman against a design that contained a barely discernible four - letter word. The university administration banned the newspaper from the stand in the lobby of the Student Union where newspapers are usually sold, but the student promoters of Mother of Voices set up a table nearby and have sold hundreds of copies there without interference from school authorities.

"Does that mean I can go down and start selling newspapers and dirty books from a table in the Union lobby?", McGuane asked.

"There should be some ground rules, but there don't seem to be any," he remarked.

UM is a state institution, supported with public taxes and its moral standards are a concern of citizens, students, parents and prospective students, said McGuane. He has received a few inquiries and heard a great deal of talk about the apparent liberality of the school in matters of this kind and feels that the public has a right to be heard in the management of the university.

He said if he does not receive a satisfactory answer from university officials he will press for a deeper inquiry into the situation, McGuane stated.

Last year a legislative uproar developed over some cartoons, writings and what one state senator charged was a cartoonish slur against his Roman Catholic religion in Yahoo, the campus humor magazine. The magazine was published only once after that now famous incident and a group of students have been pressing for its restoration, but without success to date.

Journalist to Present Views On Obscenity in Student Papers

A noted area journalist will present his views and those of the off-campus public on the question of obscenity in student publications tonight at UMass.

Thomas W. Merrigan, an outspoken critic of profanity of student publications will speak tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Colonial Lounge of the Student Union. The discussion is being sponsored by Alpha Phi Gamma, the campus honorary journalism fraternity and is open to the public, according to Pres. Jim Foudy.

Merrigan is an education-government writer for the Greenfield Recorder and a member of the Greenfield Board of Selectmen. His topic, "Obscenity and Profanity in Print" will be aimed specifically at student publications and the role that the Administration should play in controlling the student press, Foudy said.

A graduate of the University's journalism program for New England Newspaper Fellows, Merrigan will present his opinion and those of others about what they call "offensive" material in student publications.

The discussion on obscenity in print was initiated by APG last month to tie in with efforts to republish Yahoo on campus.

The humor magazine has not appeared since May of 1966 when the Administration withheld funds following a complaint of obscenity in Yahoo by members of the state Senate.

Recently, two other student publications, Hobbit, published by students in Orchard Hill and Mother of Voices, an off-campus underground publication, have been criticized for profanity in print.

A general business meeting of APG will be held before the talk and students interested in joining the journalism society are invited to attend.

Foudy said that sophomores with a 2.0 cume or better who have served one full semester with a student publication are eligible for membership.

Stockbridge Senate Seeks Support from Members

Unknown to many of the Stockbridge students, there exists a governing organization known as the Stockbridge Student Senate. Members of the Senate are elected from each club and major in Stockbridge.

The Senate's main objective is to work for their fellow students. They find that without co-operation this can not be done. Unfortunately, last week's meeting exemplified this, when out of a total membership of 27 senators, only 19 attended. Those who failed to attend were: Frank Cadillac, Kathy Cornell, Tom Rose, Chris Gredler, David Cooper, Daniel Atkins, Peter McErlain.

Those clubs and majors presently not represented are:

Restaurant and Hotel
Food Distribution
Turf Management Club
Innkeepers Club

To hold successful meetings and to have an effective year, the senate will need the co-operation of all the membership. The officers hope that all members will be there to cast their votes and offer their suggestions and criticisms.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, December 5, 1967.

Amherst College To Host Boston Resistance Groups

The Resistance, the anti-draft movement which began last October, has planned more activities for the month of December and next year.

An open discussion will be held Tuesday at Converse Library at 8 p.m. concerning The Resistance. Representatives from the Boston Resistance will be there to discuss what this movement means and what it intends to do in the future.

If you see
news in the making
Call the MDC
Hotline
545-2550

STUDENT SENATE

PICKETING and DEMONSTRATIONS

PUBLIC HEARING

STATE YOUR VIEWS ON
THE PROPOSED LEGISLATION

DEC. 5 — TUESDAY 7:00

HASBROUCK 20

The Registered Student Organizations (RSO) has announced that all bands on campus should register with them before December 20.

The office is now compiling a list of all of the bands on campus, to be provided to all organizations seeking a band for a function. The RSO office is the principal 'agent' for the bands on campus.

All bands, whether presently registered with the office or not, are urged to register before the closing date.

NOW
ENDS TUES.
ON SCREEN
At 7:45
AMHERST
Cinema
20th CENTURY FOX presents
THE SAND PEBBLES
WED. - REFLECTIONS
IN A GOLDEN EYE 6:30-9:00

SORORITY
DECLAMATION
COMPETITION

Monday
Dec. 4
7:00 P.M.
Mahar

AT THE 103 SHOPS 103 N. PLEASANT
OPEN 11AM-11 PM
FRI SAT TIL 1 AM
Real
Italian
Submarine
Sandwiches
the Hungry-U
Real Italian style, with straight - from - the old world flavor. The Hungry - U is exclusively submarine sandwiches. Only quality ingredients are used, imported meats, cheeses, selected breads and special Italian seasoning, to make up the finest take - out sandwiches available.
SANDWICHES
Made to order
PHONE 256-6350

Pay for Your Own Fun

The heated controversy over Senior Week should not manifest itself in whether or not the Senior Class should be allowed to tax the class an additional $10,000, but rather in whether or not there should be any subsidization of Senior Week at all.

If a person wishes to take a vacation, he ought to pay for that vacation himself. What the '68 Executive Council asks is that half the class relieve the great portion of the financial burden inherent in a gala weekend for the ease and comfort of the other half of the class.

The idea of a Senior Week is good; those members of the class who wish to spend a final weekend together ought to be able to do so. But the people who want to go ought to pay what it costs to attend, and the people who do not want to go or cannot go should not have to pay for those who do attend. If the Executive Council feels that subsidization is the only way Seniors will go or will be able to go to Senior Week, then perhaps a somewhat less plush extravaganza is worthy of investigation. Otherwise, let the people who want to sun 'n fun at Grossinger's pay for the services and style inherent in such an establishment.

Those who agree that each person should be financially responsible for his own vacation and those who are against paying twelve dollars for someone else's vacation are urged to attend the joint Senate—Class meeting tomorrow to air your views.

Chet Weinerman
Editor-in-Chief

"Bronze, hell!...That's 24 karat U.S. gold...!"

Defeat the Subsidy

Among the basic questions to be considered regarding the Senior Week controversy is the one asking should there be such a week. The Executive Council of the Class of 1968 assumed that the Class wanted such an event.

It was established to the Council that last year's Senior Week was a poor one: it was limited to about 950 participants; it involved driving about 350 miles in this area; the subsidy spent on it ($15,000) was not justified.

Thus, a new approach was tried: the Senior Week would be open to every interested member of the Class; there would only be the coming and going transportation—once you got there you would not have to drive home for an hour and drive back for the next day's activities; the costs would not be prohibitive; the subsidy would be in keeping with the above points.

Some of those who oppose Senior Week argue that the Class should have been more informed of the event and what it would cost in terms of the compulsory class tax. This argument can only be answered in two ways: one, that the Class wants a Senior Week regardless of tax-cost or two, the Class wants a Senior Week but doesn't want to know it is paying for it — so its representatives, the Executive Council, must act in the best interests of the Class, and impose the tax for the Class' own good.

But some other questions have arisen leaving no doubt in any reasonable mind, that the move to reconsider the question of the ($10,000) subsidy was a good and necessary move.

• Senior Week at Grossinger's could accommodate only about 1,500 class members at the country club—while additional students might stay at nearby accommodations, they could not participate in the full Grossinger facilities.

• Senior Week, even with the full $30,000 subsidy, when transportation (about $8.00) and gratuities and the 2% sales tax are all added in will cost more than $20.00 per individual. The cost of drinks is also to be added.

The individual costs may very well be prohibitive now that it is realized that this $10 or so must be added to the $20 (per individual going) and the $20 (per the Senior tax).

The issue of how much a senior would be willing to pay for his Class event is extremely important. The rationale for adding $10,000 (that is adding $4 to the second semester tax) to the subsidy fund (approved last Spring as $20,000 based on $8 of the Senior tax each semester) was that a Senior would be willing to spend not more than $20 for the event out of his pocket. Grossinger's was cited, at the Convention, as asserting that one-third of the expected participants would not go if they had to pay more than $20.

On the basis of this new information, the reconsideration of the budget should result in the defeat of the $10,000 subsidy and a rescinding of the previously-granted $20,000 subsidy unless one fact can be demonstrated.

The Senior Week proposal should be scratched unless overwhelming class support can be demonstrated.

Unfortunately, Mr. Wood has not allowed himself enough time to drum up such support from the people—the decision must be given to the Treasurer's Office on Dec 7.

Thus, the plan must be defeated.

Pat Petow
Editorial Chairman

And . . .

Mort Groff, and Messers Ballou, Collins and story all hit the nail on the head in Friday's Daily Collegian. We can add nothing except pledge to resist the tax for Senior Week.

Jim Foudy
City Editor

Sam Spark Speaks Out
Animal Farm Revisited

And so it came to pass that on a fateful Spring day in the year of our Lord 1966, Ritchie the fox was elected manager of the farm.

As you remember, Ritchie the fox defeated Booby the pig in a stunning upset by successfully hanging a number of charges on poor Booby. First and foremost, weasled Ritchie, "Booby has turned class government into a huge social committee."

If he were elected, Ritchie promised to rectify the situation by having the classes become actively involved in extra-social activities such as the University Reform Committee, of which Ritchie had been an active member for almost two days. Ritchie charged also that the executive council was not representative of the class as a whole. Ritchie promised to select a truly representative body.

And so the animals of the farm rejected Booby's social committee and handed the reins of the farm to Ritchie who would bring the farm back to all of the animals.

Ritchie's first problem upon assuming office was that of a planning of Winter Carnival. So, Ritchie decided to produce the greatest extravaganza ever. When one brave wolf reminded Ritchie of his campaign to de-emphasize the social aspect of class government, Ritchie logically responded by denying he ever criticized Booby for overemphasizing class social activities. And to prove his point, Ritchie resigned from the University Reform Committee. As a result of Ritchie's planning, the farm held the largest Winter Carnival in history.

Ritchie and his committee, bouyed by the success of Winter Carnival, began planning for other social extravaganzas. In order to plan for a truly successful event, Ritchie proposed that a few of his most trusted animals join in over a large feast at the Lord Jeffie to discuss future farm events. This and other such feasts, naturally, were paid for out of the farm tax.

Ritchie defended spending the farm's money on lavish feasts for the most important members of his farm's social committee with his usual irrefutable logic. "The farm as a whole will benefit from our collective genius. Why shouldn't they pay for our food and drinks?" Ritchie asked rhetorically. And who could argue with logic like this, for what came out of these dinner discussions was a revolutionary concept in Senior Week.

"This is my plan," said Ritchie to his farm council as a huge portrait of Ritchie's idol, Booby the Pig, loomed overhead.

"We'll have our Senior Week out in the lush green woods of New York. It will only cost about sixty thousand dollars," Ritchie assured his farm council.

It was obvious that all the chickens and sheep in the council shared Ritchie's sentiments. But a few wondered how such an extravagant plan would be financed.

As usual, Ritchie had the answer. "We'll tax everyone on the farm. That way the ones who don't go will help pay for the ones who do go," said Ritchie foxily.

"Marvelous," mooned the cows.

"Brilliant," cooed the doves.

"Terrific," blurted the sheep.

The motion to ratify Ritchie's plan for Senior Week was passed unanimously by the Farm board. And, the motion met little opposition in the farm senate from all the pidgeons in the farm senate who were affectionately becoming known as birdbrains. The birdbrains reasoned that Ritchie's farm body obviously knew what was best for his farm as a whole being the representative body that it was.

And so, as the second exciting episode of Animal Farm 1968 comes to a crashing climax, Ritchie and his farm board prepare for a glorious week in the Catskills.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

Student Union . . . University of Massachusetts . . . Amherst, Mass.

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Chester S. Weinerman '68
MANAGING EDITOR ..... John H. Dean, Jr. '69
BUSINESS MANAGER ..... Charles Smith '69

City Editor ..... Jim Foudy '68
News Editor ..... Richard S. Kline '70
Editorial Chairman ..... Pat Petow '68
Sports Editor ..... Tom Fitzgerald '69
Advertising Managers ..... Dot Silvia '69, Sharon Kramer '69
Photo Editors ..... Paul Boliver '68, John Griffin '68

MONDAY NEWS STAFF: Jan Curley, Jim Foudy, Day Editors; Peter Pascarelli, Sports Day Editor; Sue Wallace, Editorial Day Editor.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, the Daily Collegian publishes five times weekly Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation and exam periods; three or four times a week following a vacation or exam period or when a holiday falls within a week. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 8, 1879, as amended by the act of June 11, 1948. Printed by Hamilton I. Newell, Inc., University Drive, Amherst. Subscription: $6.00 per year, $3.50 per semester.

Offices of the Daily Collegian are on the second floor of the Student Union on the University campus. Phones are 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0311 (business and advertising), and 549-1311 (editor).

CANDIDATES' FORUM

There will be a Candidates' Forum in the Daily Collegian on Tuesday, Dec. 5 for the candidates in the Student Senate elections to be held on Thursday, Dec. 7 to fill vacancies.

All letters must be typed at 60 spaces, must not exceed 40 lines, shall be subject to editing, and must be signed by the writer. The name of the constituency should also be indicated.

The deadline is Monday, Dec. 4 at 5 p.m.

The Daily Collegian requires the writer of every letter to the editor to sign his name. If the name is not legible, it should be typewritten as well. But the writer does not fulfill the signature requirements by simply typing his name.

Campus Comment

The Senior Class Budget

To the editor:

In regard to the three letters of last Friday in condemnation of the proposed Senior Class Budget, I would like to clarify my stand and the stand of my fellow officers.

Since early last April, the Senior Class officers, in consultation with the Executive Council, have dealt with the preparation, passage and final ratification of the Senior Class Budget. We have acted in what we feel has been the best interests of our class.

Criticism of Senior Week has evolved around a basic confusion of (1) previous Senior Week experiences, (2) proposed tax levies and (3) general lack of communication between the class officers and the class itself. No tax is ever popular. The rationale behind taxation of everyone for the few or for the money is an extremely complex presentation. Time has not afforded an adequate discussion of the proposed Senior Week tax. The time alloted in this letter cannot afford a proper presentation.

On Wednesday, November 29th, an accurate presentation was made to the Constitutional Convention which ratified our Budget proposal. VOTE: 37 aye, 26 nay. On Tuesday, Dec. 5, there will be an open meeting of the class of 1968 to discuss in detail this proposal. I urge you not to make any hasty decisions, such as were made in the three letters of last Friday. The grave failure of those three authors was their lack of concern over any presentation their class officers would wish to make.

Finally, your class officers are committed to your representation. If you honestly feel either in favor or against the proposed Senior Budget, we would like your attendance at the Open Hearing. Your class government is the question at hand and those that feel that it has acted in bad conscience will express their disapproval. Those of you who would hold the opinion of concern and doubt about this budget, I would welcome as well. The Class of 1968 could have no better test of its vitality and "class unity."

Richard Wood
President, Class of 1968

Thanks "Charlie"

To the editor:

Football championships are won by good coaching, good athletes, hard work, dedication and an enthusiastic team spirit. Also involved are the dedicated personnel who provide for the ballplayers by treating their injuries, maintaining their equipment and caring for the playing fields. Unfortunately these people are often overlooked. A dramatic example of this dedication occurred November 18 and we the members of the 1967 Football Team feel that it should not be overlooked. We wish to express our gratitude to 'Charlie' Safron and Mr. Smith, UM 1963, who made it possible for us to take the field against UNH and successfully defend our championship.

'Charlie' is the football equipment manager. The job he does is always of the highest caliber and deeply appreciated by the members of the squad. That Saturday morning on the way to Durham, N.H. with all our equipment, he was involved in an accident on Rte. 2 which completely demolished his truck. Luckily, he was not seriously injured.

'Charlie' was stranded in a gas station in Westminister, Mass., when Mr. Smith happened to drive in with his pick-up truck. 'Charlie' approached him and explained the situation he was in. Mr. Smith identified himself as an alumnus of UMass and volunteered to drive 'Charlie' and our equipment to UNH. So as a result of 'Charlie's' dedication and Mr. Smith's selflessness, the equipment arrived well before game time.

This is just an example of the wonderful attention we have received all year from everyone associated with our team from the doctors to the managers. So once again we wish to say thanks for the little things which to us meant a great deal—a championship.

Thanks 'Charlie',
1967 Redmen Football Team

Saturnalia

To the editor:

During the past week the Executive Council of the Class of '68 has come under serious fire from many University seniors. The problem: a hastily approved, unpublicized budget of $30,000 to subsidize Senior Week, 1968. Dissent, coming from all quarters—and for a variety of valid reasons — indicates that both the representative quality of the Executive Council and the entire concept of a subsidized Senior Week deserve a long-overdue re-evaluation.

I would like to consider the concept of a subsidized pagan festival—the essential character of the proposed three-day binge at Grossinger's Country Club. The idea is ludicrous: why should students who cannot afford the additional $18.00 in order to make the trip be forced to contribute $21.00 toward the cost of those who can afford it. We willingly subsidize a concert series, an athletic series and a Student Union—but why a three-day drunk?

Let's re-examine our values. Is the entire senior class willing to pay $30,000 knowing that many individuals will get absolutely no return on an investment they cannot afford to make? This deserves reconsideration by all seniors — even those planning to attend Senior Week.

I urge everyone who has a stake in the final decision concerning Senior Week to attend the open class meeting in Bowker Auditorium, Tuesday, December 5, at 11:15 a.m. Voice your opinions and make this a forum which is truly representative of the Class of 1968.

Patricia Pfeiffer Class of 1968

Open Letter to the Class of '68 Executive Council

Fellow Members:

The question of the additional $10,000. subsidy for Senior Week has aroused substantial concern among the members of the Class of 1968 and, hopefully, all opinions on the subsidy will be voiced Tuesday at the Open Meeting.

However, above and beyond the specific question of the subsidy, I believe, as a member of the 1968 Class Executive Council, that certain basic questions should be raised:

1) Are we, as members of the Executive Council that approved the $10,000, prepared to defend our votes on the basis of a conviction that we attempt to solicit the opinions of fellow classmates? I doubt it, since we were presented the specific plans for senior week on the same evening we chose to cast our votes for them.

2) Following the Executive Council endorsement, a meeting of the Arbitration Board, consisting of class officers, senators and the Acting Coordinator of Student Activities was held. The budget received favorable endorsement with the very important stipulation that adequate publicity be given before the Constitutional Convention voted. I ask you, Class Officers, is one article in the Collegian on the day of the convention "adequate" publicity for such an innovation?

3) Now that the open meeting initiated by the Chairman of the Constitutional Convention has been scheduled, why was such a ridiculously one-sided announcement circulated among members of the Senior Class? Phrases such as "If you want a Senior Week, please come and voice your opinion . . ." and "Your attendance means a Senior Week," with fifteen exclamation points, seems to convey the impression that the Executive Council wishes to discourage criticism of Senior Week. It seems that a few individuals have made a decision and are now molding public opinion around it. The Executive Council should be seeking either reinforcement or reversal of its decisions from the members of the class.

Are we afraid of criticism?

Regardless of the outcome of the meeting, I feel one important lesson has been learned. When we make decisions involving thousands of dollars of our class tax, attempts must be made to get opinions of people who are paying the money. Only in that fashion can a justifiable decision be made.

Frances Boronski
Class of 1968

THE WASHINGTON TRIP IS OPEN TO ALL CLASSES

ONE HUNDRED SPACES OPEN TO NON-JUNIORS.

JAN. 16-19, Hotel America (4 days, 3 nites) Round trip bus transportation, free tours, meetings with Mass. Congressmen, and Senator Kennedy.

DEPOSIT ($5.00) due by Dec. 8
TOTAL ($35.00) due by Dec. 20
STUDENT UNION LOBBY

Have Fun — Will Travel?

Highlights of S

S.E.N.D.O.F

By BOB

The Sophomore Class provided the S.E.N.D.O.F.F. this weekend. Throughout mendously to the events, according to Br

The entertainment ranged from the Turtles, and the moving sound of Simon a

The events began in a candle light Friday night with the Bitter Send Folk He dy team, and folksinger Jackie Washingto hour show.

Floren
Send O

The show was a steady stream of ta co-eds and Scrolls.

In a quick move before the show, the all the yellow tableclothes that had been room.

The evening was highlighted by the S.E.N.D.O.F.F. Queen.

Saturday night the Redman reinforce victory over the New Hampshire Wildcat

At the same time on the other side Ballroom during dances at 8 and 10:15. known Turtles and the rising Boston ba

Last night Simon and Garfunkel app of 4500. The audience response was eve campus two years ago during Winter Car

Bruce Balboni was very happy with formers. He said that the events won't lem Globetrotters come to the Cage.

Simon an

Before a capacity crowd last captured the audience's atte who have appeared at UMas thoughtful songs which result

The Turtles

The Saturday Concert

By CHRIS J. SCHMITT

Saturday night's S.E.N.D.-O.F.F. show December 22, brought to the Student Union Ballroom one of the most popular sounds in pop music, that of the Turtles. Also featured were the Pilgrims, a popular soul group from the South Shore area.

The Turtles, who have just released an album entitled "The Turtles' Golden Hits" on White Whale records, provided the audience with straight-from-the-record renditions of all their hit songs from their first, Bob Dylan's "It Ain't Me, Babe (1965) through their latest success, "She's My Girl."

In addition, the Turtles blended the sounds of lead singer Howard Kaylan, guitarist Al Nichol, bass guitarist Jim Pons, drummer John Barbata, and tambourine player-clown Mark Volman into typically Turtles versions of "The Guide for the Married Man," off their "Happy Together" album, and a unique arrangement of the old standard "We'll Meet Again."

The Pilgrims, who provided the near-capacity crowds at both the 8:00 p.m. and 10:15 p.m. shows with a sound distinctly their own, performed such soulful favorites as "Shotgun," "Ain't too Proud to Beg," "Satisfaction" and "You've lost That Loving Feeling."

The Pilgrims' ex-Marine lead singer, backed up by two saxophones, a bass, a drum, and a guitar provided the crowd with a rendition of "Dead End Street" that would have made Lou Rawls himself jealous. In addition, the Pilgrims provided two originals entitled "Heartbeats of Time" and "Misty Eyes."

An interesting display of talent was provided when lead guitarist Gerry Shebeck broke his guitar strap in the middle of "Satisfaction." When the entire group failed to get straightened out (without so much as missing a beat) Shebeck turned to one of our UMass Auxiliary Policemen, who got him back on stage in no time.

In an interview with Albie McDonald, tenor sax man for the Pilgrims from Berkely School of Music in Boston, and drummer Ricky Nelson (really) it was learned that the Pilgrims, together since September, are currently auditioning for a recording contract with such names as MGM, Mercury, and Twentieth Century Fox. Also expressing an interest in the group is Koppleman-Rubin Associates, producers of the Lovin' Spoonful.

The Pilgrims

.E.N.D.O.F.F.

.F. Roundup

ORMON

basketball team with the first official the weekend the campus responded tre- ce Balboni, Sophomore Class President. omical Times Square Two, to the rocking l Garfunkel.

tmosphere of the Student Union Ballroom ise. The Times Square Two, a unique comic along with two campus groups gave a four

e Bryan
ff Queen

ent with exotic drinks served by sophomore

Amherst Fire Dept. ordered the removal of rovided for the individual tables in the ball-crowning of Sophomore Florence Bryan as l the theme of the weekend with their 88-67

campus, two rock groups performed in the The dance was a blend of music of the well d Pilgrims.

eared in concert at the Cage before a crowd warmer than when the two performed on ival.

he warm reception of the campus to the per- over until Thursday night, when the Hard Garfunkel

ight, Simon and Garfunkel totally ntion. The two folk-rock singers, before, filled the Cage with deep, ed in great applause.

The Time Square Two

The Bitter Send

By LINDA RICHARDSON

Amidst a waxed bottle, the hypnotic flicker of a candle's flame, and a chilled glass of a sour lemon drink, the first performance of the Bitter Send folk house began Friday night in the Student Union Ballroom.

The Times Square Two, an unusual off-Broadway comedy team, succeeded in setting the mood for the evening with their extraordinary act.

Clad in blue, double-breasted, pin striped suits, and black patent leather shoes with spats, they introduced a skit usually typical to the thirties.

Together for three years, they have amused audiences on such television programs as the Johnny Carson and Merv Griffin Shows.

Shortly after them, Jerry Bussiere, one of the new breed of freshmen, mounted the traditional 'folk stool' with such innate confidence that he radiated a refined quality that is seldom found in beginners.

Hailing from Westport, his songs were a moderate mixture of folk and rock. Jerry is surely someone here to stay.

Adding to the folk music of the evening, Stephanie Fiore and Sprague Davis made one of their first performance's together.

Other than the microphone being too far away to pick up Stephanie's voice, they proved to be a mildly entertaining couple.

The many moods of Jackie Washington are an odd combination of a Cosby-like humor and original translations to children's songs.

He possesses an uncanny trait of complete involvement with the audience. Jackie's dialogue is spontaneous and unprepared but it openly demands the audience's participation.

Jackie creates an almost electric excitement, that only polished performers acquire. His "verbal diaheria," flows from anything to "baby's bent-up banana legs" and "breast feeding, according to the singer."

Jackie has just released an album on Vanguard that includes his recent hit 'Morning Song'.

He also has a Sunday morning Children's Hour called, 'Elephants and Things' on WNAC in Boston.

Highlighting the evening was the crowning of the SENDOFF queen. Chosen to reign over the sophomore weekend, was Florence Brian, a pretty Sociology major

Jackie Washington

Photos by John Griffin

Shipping Dept. Supplies University

By GEORGE CERULO
Staff Reporter

It has, among other things, housed frogs, rats, mice, turtles, snakes, nuclear "stuff," gases, films, seeds, strawberries, parcel post and IBM equipment. What is it ?

John P. Barrett, property officer at UMass, calls it a "big post office," but to Joseph Sarna it has occupied a good part of his life for the past 44 years.

The UM Shipping and Receiving Houses on the west side of campus near the main power plant, amidst a maze of steel, brick and mortar Sarna, head store keeper, manages to work around a score of construction workers and continues to keep the University supplied with materials. "It has not been an easy chore," said Sarna, "keeping up with the University's astronomical growth."

The new building addition, which is nearing completion, will give Shipping and Receiving five new truck bays and storage area on the second floor. The remaining space will be utilized as storage for the University Store and office room for the physical plant.

Sarna said he has learned to "grow up with the place" and welcomes the much needed storage space. He came to the University in 1923 when the Shipping and Receiving Department was a one-man operation in South College. Today it has expanded to a full-time, seven-man operation which handles an average of 400 to 600 pieces of freight a day.

Barrett, property officer, said "the added workload reflects the growth of the University". He also said that freight volume has increased by 75 per cent over last year. He had nothing but admiration for Sarna, whom he described as a man who has "adapted to the growth" and "earns his salary five times over".

Sarna received an award from the University in 1964 for over 40 years of devoted service. He once boasted that he knew everyone on campus, he said, but those days have long passed. He commented on the diversity of freight that has passed under his inspecting eye. It has ranged in size, he said, from a walk-in refrigerator to a single ball-bearing. Barrett said he "protects the University" by making sure it "gets dollar for dollar for what is spent".

As the most unusual freight he has handled, Sarna recalled a sweat shirt he received accompanied by a $2 check. A woman sent this item to the chemical analysis laboratory to determine whether the stain on her husband's sweat shirt was blood or lipstick.

Despite the increasing responsibility Sarna has had to contend with over the years, he has fared well. He does not have a visible gray hair, and he appears to enjoy his work. He still handles all paper work for the operation in addition to his other chores.

TOY WORKSHOP HOURS
Now through Thursday
7-11 p.m.
South College Basement
All Welcome!

PRE-LAW STUDENTS

Tuesday representatives from the University of Detroit School of Law will discuss the New Urban Law Program with interested students at the Provost's Office from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Established in 1965 through a grant from the Office of Economic Opportunity, this innovative program was formulated specifically to meet the challenges of urban expansion through the discovery of legal solutions to new social and political problems. Part of the Program is the Urban Law Office, which provides practical experience for second and third year students, who are called upon to provide legal services to Detroit's poor under the supervision of a full time staff of practicing attorneys.

Students should sign up for one of four group discussions in 7362 Whitmore.

NOTICES

PRE-MED, PRE-DENT, PRE-VET

Students who expect to graduate in 1970 or earlier and wish either to change to one of the above pre-professional majors or to register with the Pre-Medical Advisory Committee but major in an academic dept. should file an application with the committee by Dec. 15. Application forms are in Pre-Med Office, 321 Morrill.

TALK ON AERONAUTICS

On Wed., Dec. 6 at 8 p.m. in Engineering Aud., Dr. R. L. Stoplingboff will speak on "New Horizons in Aeronautics & Space" and Mrs. S. L. Board, Jr. of the Woman's Auxiliary to A.S.M.E. will make a scholarship presentation. Refreshments.

SCIENCE FICTION MOVIE

"Inner Space" will be shown on Tues., Dec. 5, at 8:30 p.m. in Mahar. Admission is 50c to nonmembers and members are admitted free.

Libe hours are Mon-Fri from 6:30-8:30 p.m. in 110 Hampshire House.

EDUCATION CLUB

Christmas cards designed by children of Rangpur India will be sold in the Union lobby on Wed. and Thurs., Dec. 6 and 7 by the Education Club and Education Honor Society Kappa Delta Pi. Proceeds are for the "Send a Child to School" Plan in India.

NEA and MTA journals will be distributed to members on Wed. and Thurs., Dec. 6 & 7 in Union Lobby. Membership cards must be shown in order to receive them.

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA

There will be an exec. board meeting at 6 on Dec. 5 in Middlesex Room, and a general meeting and elections at 6:30 p.m.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORG.

Meeting Tues., Dec. 5 at 6:45 in Worcester Room. All welcome.

HEYMAKERS SQUARE DANCE

Meeting Wed., Dec. 6 at 7:30 p.m. in S.U. Ballroom.

LOST:

Silver necklace with pendant with star and raised points. Please call Adrienne, 6-8413.

Slide rule. Name inside Call 6-7726.

Pair of tortoise shell glasses. Call Kathi, 546-7338.

ENGAGEMENTS

Susan Ruckstuhl '68, Alpha Chi Omega, to William Beardman '68, Phi Mu Delta.

Eileen O'Neil '70, Alpha Chi Omega, to Sgt. Robert Sullivan, U.S.A.F.

Hotline
545-2550

Dining Commons Menu

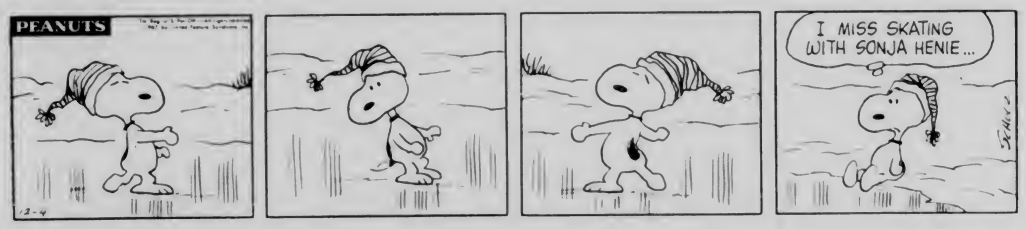
MONDAY

BREAKFAST
Maltex
Cold Cereals
Scrambled Eggs
Doughnuts
LUNCH
Cream of Celery Soup
Frankfurts—Rolls
Baked Beans
Fruit Salad Plate
American Cheese
Potato Chips
DINNER
Roast Lamb—Gravy—Mint Jelly
Whipped Potato
Braised Beef
Buttered Rice
Asparagus

TUESDAY

BREAKFAST
Oatmeal
Cold Cereals
French Toast/Syrup
LUNCH
Consomme
Barbecued Beef—Roll
Mushroom Omelet
Buttered Beet Slices
F. F. Potatoes
DINNER
Baked Haddock
Veal Cutlet—Tomato Sauce
Green Beans

WEDNESDAY



BREAKFAST
Farina
Cold Cereals
Fried Eggs
Cinnamon Coffee Cake
LUNCH
Vegetable Soup
Cold Cut Grinder
Potato Chips
Manhattan Meat Roll—Gravy
W. K. Corn
DINNER
Meatballs and Spaghetti
Parmesian Cheese
Baked Ham—Raisin Sauce
Candied Sweet Potatoes
Buttered Peas

THURSDAY

BREAKFAST
Pettijohn
Cold Cereals
Pancakes/Syrup
LUNCH
Tomato Macaroni Soup
Veal Chow Mein
Buttered Rice
Dry Noodles
Cold Meat Plate
Potato Chips
DINNER
Roast Pork—Gravy—Spiced Apples
Salisbury Steak—Gravy
Whipped Potato
Green Beans

FRIDAY

BREAKFAST
Maltex
Cold Cereals
Omelet
Date Muffins
LUNCH
Fish Chowder
Tuna Salad Plate
American Cheese
Hamburger—Roll
Sliced Bermuda Onions
F. F. Potatoes
DINNER
Seafood Newberg—Biscuit
Pot Roast—Gravy
Whipped Potato

Engineering Students

In the Pursuit of Excellence, the IOWA STATE HIGHWAY COMMISSION will be interviewing on campus
December 6, 1967

J. R. COUPAL, Jr., left, the Iowa State Highway Commission top administrative officer, shows the Commission's two top recruiters, Don Carlson, center, and Personnel Director, William Pelz, right, a map of Maine as they discuss the Highway Commission's expanded recruiting program. Coupal assumed the position of Director of Highways after serving 12 years as city manager at Bangor, Maine. (Iowa State Highway Commission Photo)

OPENINGS IN
DESIGN — CONSTRUCTION — PLANNING
MATERIALS — RIGHT OF WAY — MAINTENANCE

Choice of rotational training or assignment to a chosen field.
Location assignments available throughout state of Iowa.

Junior Year in New York

Three undergraduate colleges offer students from all parts of the country an opportunity to broaden their educational experience by spending their

Junior Year in New York

New York University is an integral part of the exciting metropolitan community of New York City—the business, cultural, artistic, and financial center of the nation. The city's extraordinary resources greatly enrich both the academic program and the experience of living at New York University with the most cosmopolitan student body in the world.

This program is open to students recommended by the deans of the colleges to which they will return for their degrees. Courses may be taken in the School of Commerce

School of Education
Washington Square College of Arts and Science

Write for brochure to Director, Junior Year in New York

NEW YORK UNIVERSITY
New York, N.Y. 10003

WMUA Programs

MONDAY
3:00 pm Afternoon A Go Go
5:30 Music Theater
6:00 International Almanac
6:30 News, Sports
7:00 Educational Feature
8:00 News
8:05 The Art of Jazz
9:30 Musicale
11:30 News
11:40 Night Sounds
1:00 am News

TUESDAY
3:00 pm Afternoon A Go Go
5:30 Music Theater
6:00 International Science Report
6:30 News, Sports
7:00 Educational Feature
7:50 Basketball—UMass at URI
9:30 Musicale
11:30 News
11:40 Night Sounds
1:00 am News

WEDNESDAY
3:00 pm Afternoon A Go Go
5:30 Music Theater
6:00 United Nations Reports
6:30 News, Sports
7:00 Southwest Focus
8:00 News
8:05 The Art of Jazz
9:30 Musicale
11:30 News
11:40 Night Sounds
1:00 am News

THURSDAY
3:00 pm Afternoon A Go Go
5:30 Music Theater
6:00 International Almanac
6:30 News, Sports
7:00 Educational Feature
8:00 News
8:05 Folk SpotLight
9:30 Music Through The Ages
11:30 News
11:40 Night Sounds
1:00 am News

FRIDAY
3:00 pm Afternoon A Go Go
5:30 Music Theater
6:00 International Science Report
6:30 News, Sports
7:00 Old Tunes
8:30 Friday Night Survey Show
8:55 Basketball—UMass at Pittsburgh in Steel Bowl
10:30 Friday Night Survey Show
1:00 am News

SATURDAY
9:00 am Children's Hour
10:00 News
Swingin' Saturday
1:00 News
1:05 Potpourri
4:00 News
4:05 The Art of Jazz
7:00 The Sounds of Now
8:00 News
8:05 Standing Room Only—folk music by request
8:55 Basketball—Steel Bowl at Pittsburgh (If UMass is in the consolation game, air time will be 6:55)
10:30 Standing Room Only
11:00 News
11:05 Night Ride—WMUA's all request program

SUNDAY
10:00 am The Sounds of Sunday
12:00 News of the Week in Review
12:30 Poets' Corner
1:00 News
1:05 Showcase
4:00 Sunday Afternoon Opera
6:30 Musicale
8:30 Classics—classical music by request
12:00 News

WMUA Music Survey

No.	Titles	Last Week
1.	HELLO GOODBYE/I AM THE WALRUS—BEATLES	2
2.	DAYDREAM BELIEVER—MONKEES	1
3.	MASSACHUSETTS—BEE GEES	5
4.	INCENSE & PEPPERMINTS—STRAWBERRY ALARMCLOCK	28
5.	BOOGALOO DOWN BROADWAY—FANTASTIC JOHNNY C	4
6.	EVERLASTING LOVE—ROBERT KNIGHT	6
7.	THE RAIN, THE PARK, AND OTHER THINGS—COWSILLS	7
8.	YOU BETTER SIT DOWN KIDS—CHER	13
9.	BACK ON THE STREET AGAIN—SUNSHINE COMPANY	11
10.	GLAD TO BE UNHAPPY—MAMAS & PAPAS	3
11.	CAN'T STOP LOVING YOU—LAST WORD	12
12.	IN AND OUT OF LOVE—SUPREMES	9
13.	WILD HONEY—BEACH BOYS	17
14.	SHE'S MY GIRL—TURTLES	23
15.	NEON RAINBOW—BOX TOPS	32
16.	SAY A LITTLE PRAYER—DIONNE WARWICK	24
17.	DIFFERENT DRUM—STONE PONEYS	30
18.	WOMAN WOMAN—UNION GAP	15
19.	SHE IS STILL A MYSTERY—LOVIN' SPOONFUL	25
20.	OKALONA RIVER BOTTOM BAND—BOBBIE GENTRY	8
21.	I CAN SEE FOR MILES—WHO	19
22.	KEEP THE BALL ROLLIN'—JAY & TECHNIQUES
23.	HONEY CHILE—MARTHA & VANDELLAS	33
24.	BEND ME SHAPE ME—AMERICN BREED
25.	AN OPEN LETTER TO MY TEENAGE SON—VICTOR LONDBURG	10
26.	STAG-O-LEE—WILSON PICKETT	16
27.	OUT OF THE BLUE—TOMMY JAMES & SHONDELLS	31
28.	I SECIND THAT EMOTION—SMOKEY ROBINSON & MIRACLES	39
29.	PAPER CUP—5TH DIMENSION
30.	SUMMER RAIN—JOHNNY RIVERS	20
31.	HOMBURG—PROCOL HARUM
32.	NOBODY BUT ME—HUMAN BEINZ
33.	JUDY IN DISGUISE (With Glasses)—JOHN FRED & HIS PLAYBOY BAND
34.	IT'S YOU THAT I NEED—TEMPTATIONS	22
35.	BY THE TIMES I GET TO PHOENIX—GLEN CAMPBELL	47
36.	I'M SO PROUD—KEITH	36
37.	DEAR ELOISE—HOLLIES	35
38.	WEAR YOUR LOVE LIKE HEAVEN—DONOVAN	18
39.	WATCH THE FLOWERS GROW—4 SEASONS
40.	STORYBOOK CHILDREN—BILLY VERA/JUDY CLAY	40
41.	PEACE OF MIND—PAUL REVERE & RAIDERS	44
42.	YESTERDAY—RAY CHARLES	48
43.	WHT'S IT GONNA BE—DUSTY SPRINGFIELD	50
44.	GOIN' BACK—BYRDS
45.	FLOWERS IN THE RAIN—MOVE	21
46.	PLEASE LOVE ME FOREVER—BOBBY VINTON
47.	CIAO BABY—ETERNAL FLAME	27
48.	BEAUTIFUL PEOPLE—BOBBY VEE/KENNY O'DELL	37
49.	TO SIR WITH LOVE—LULU
50.	INSANITY COMES QUIETYLY TO THE STRUCTURED MIND—JANICE IAN

PICK HIT: SUSAN by the BUCKINGHAMS

Country and Western Survey

Position This/Last	Title	Artist
1 4	Gardenias In Her Hair	Marty Robbins
2 1	You Can't Have Your Kate & Edith Too	Statler Bros.
3 2	It's The Little Things	Sonny James
4 5	It Takes People Like You	Buck Owens
5 3	Turn The World Around	Eddy Arnold
6 8	A Dime At A Time	Del Reeves
7 11	Burning A Hole In My Mind	Connie Smith
8 10	Bottle, Bottle	Jim Ed Brown
9 12	Piney Wood Hills	Bobby Bare
10 22	By The Time I Get To Phoenix	Glenn Campbell

Heart Transplants Planned in Future

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Navy researcher in the field of organ transplants said yesterday "there is quite a definite chance" that the world's first recipient of a heart transplant might survive "at least two years or more."

Dr. Kenneth Sell of the U.S. Naval Medical Research Institute said that at least several dogs, which had received heart transplants from other dogs, still are alive two years after the surgical transfer.

But he cautioned in talking to a newsman that prospects for such long-term success in the case of the patient in Cape Town, South Africa, could only begin to be evaluated some 10 to 11 days from now.

This is when he said the "next critical period in this case would take place"—that is, the time when the first signs of immunological rejection of the implanted heart might ordinarily be expected to show up.

However, Sell said that in the dog experiments, the animals—with the help of so-called Immunesuppressive drugs—have apparently combated such a rejection action to some extent.

Entomology Professor to Write Collier's Encyclopedia Article

Dr. Frank Robert Shaw, professor of entomology at UMass, will write a special article for the 1968 Collier's Encyclopedia, it was announced recently by William D. Halsey, editorial director.

Dr. Shaw will write an article on "Beekeeping." He has previously written two definite textbooks on beekeeping and more than 160 articles for journals and other publications.

Prof. Shaw is one of the 4,000 distinguished educators, statesmen, business and religious leaders and scientists who have contributed some 25,000 articles to the 24-volume general reference work.

Daily Collegian
Hotline
545-2550

S.U. BILLIARD TOURNAMENT

Entries for the FRESHMAN BILLIARD TOURNAMENT are now being taken in the Student Union Games Area.

Tropies will be awarded for first and second places. Entries are limited.

SPECIAL CHRISTMAS RATE

1-YEAR GIFTS
OF TIME
FOR A FRIEND
FOR YOURSELF

$6.00
EACH SUBSCRIPTION

TIME

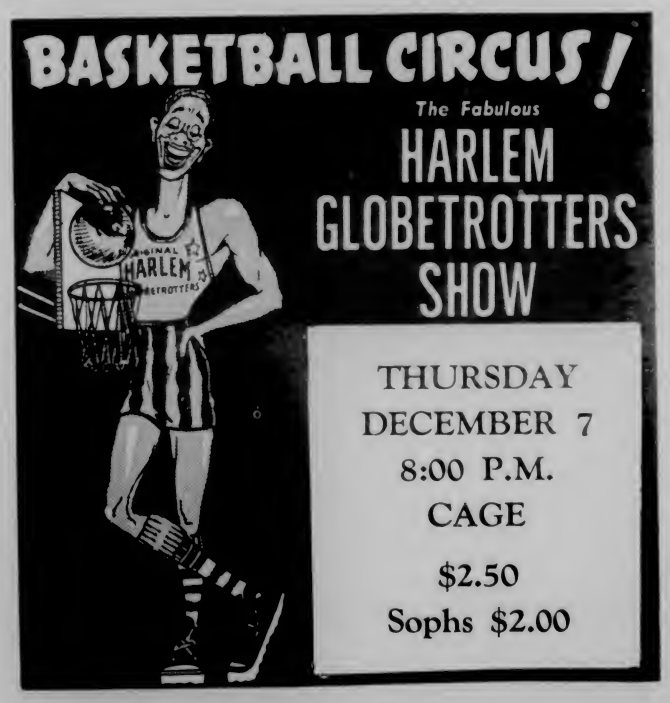
Miss
Mrs
Mr
Your Name (please print)
Address
City State Zip Code
Check to order a new ☐ or renewal ☐ subscription for yourself.
PLEASE SEND A YEAR OF TIME AS MY GIFT TO THE FOLLOWING
Miss
Mrs
Mr
Name (please print)
Address
City State Zip Code
Check if giftee is a College Student ☐
Miss
Mrs
Mr
Name (please print)
Address
City State Zip Code
Check if giftee is a College Student ☐
SIGN GIFT CARDS: FROM
Special Christmas Rate applies in U.S. and Canada only
Time will bill you in January 1968
Complete and Mail to:
University Magazines, P.O. Box 722, Amherst, Mass. 01002

For a pizza or spaghetti
Good to eat,
Bell's Pizza House cannot be beat.
To order a grinder on a nice, hot bun
Call 256-8011
Or come on down to 65
That pizza house on University Drive.

Bell's Pizza House

south of Alumni Stadium
open Monday through Thursday 11 a.m. to 11 p.m., Friday and Saturday to 1 a.m.

C. E. SENIORS



YOUR FUTURE CAN BE IN TRANSPORTATION

Challenging Opportunities available in our expanding which include ½ billion dollar highway construction program

No Exam—Generous fringe benefits including tuition refunds

Our recruiter will be here on THURSDAY, DEC. 7 Visit your Placement Office NOW for brochures and SIGN UP to hear the full story.

New York State
Dept of Transportation
Bureau of Recruitment & Training
State Campus Building No. 5
Albany, New York 12226

Women Gymnasts Defeat Montclair

By PAT LEMPART

The Women's Gymnastics Team defeated their competitors from Montclair (N. J.) YWCA in their season's opener on Saturday by a score of 87.2-82.75. Although the Montclair participants are young (ages 10-17), they put on a great show against the UMass girls.

Montclair placed first on the uneven bars, second in vaulting and third in floor exercise and balance beam competition.

There was a tie for first place in floor exercise between Ruth Morse and Laurel Milch, both of UMass, with a score of 7.6. W. MacLeod of Montclair took third with 7.5, only one-tenth of a point behind the high scorers.

In vaulting, Sue Clancy of UMass placed first with 8.6 followed by Linda Binney also of UMass, and 8.05 and M. Rodriguez of Montclair, 7.5. Sue Clancy also took first place on the balance beam with a score of 7.95.

Second was Ruth Morse of UMass with 7.55 and third was Rodriguez with 6.3. The Montclair girls took their only first on the uneven bars with a score of 7.9 earned by J. Markell. UMass placed second and third in the event, with scores of 7.75 and 6.95 by Sue Clancy and Karen Haffner respectively.

The team hopes that Marge Sims, their all-around YWCA champ who missed the Montclair meet due to a toe injury, will be able to help them defeat So. Conn. in Boyden at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Collegian Photo by Pat Lempart

POETRY IN MOTION — Ruth Morse of the UMass Women's Gymnast team strikes a graceful pose during competition Saturday at Boyden.

Hoop Begins for Foes; UConn, RI, Vermont Win

On this, the first basketball weekend, many of the Redmen's future opponents saw action on the hardcourts.

In the biggest game on the local hoop scene, Connecticut scored a 70-62 win over Yale at the torture chamber in Storrs.

The Huskies led all the way as they completely dominated both backboards. Seniors Bob Steinberg and Bill Berley were high men for Connecticut with 23 and 20 points respectively.

Friday night, Vermont stopped Dartmouth, 67-65 as Bill Liber, Frank Martiniuk and Dave LaPointe all hit double figures.

Boston University, on a last second basket by sophomore John Hayes, beat Harvard, 78-77. Hayes scored 25 points in the come-from-behind victory

Joe Cruz pumped in 19 points as Villanova bested Providence, 58-54. The Friar's Stu Kerzner was high for the game with 21.

American International opened its season with a 72-55 verdict over Brown. Jim Niel, Larry Freed and Curtis Mitchell were all in double figures for the Yellow Jackets.

In other opponent action, Rhode Island crushed St. Anslem's, 83-63, Rutgers bombed Pittsburgh, 100-74, West Virginia buried William and Mary, 83-66 and Assumption, 98-63.

Tonight's Hoop

Court	Time	Teams
1	6:30	DC-PMD
2		ASP-AEP
3		TKE-LCA
4		Chestnuts-Birch
5		Grants-Cherries
6		Broncos-Bears
1	7:30	PSD-ATC
2		PSK-SAM
3		KS-QTV
4		Rams-Redwoods
5		Hemlocks-Buffaloes
6		Bruins-Hawks
1	8:30	Oaks-Pines
2		Hoovers-Trojans
3		Elms-Hicks
4		Hi-lo's-Maples
1	9:30	APO-SPE
2		TC-ZN
3		TEP-BKP
4		Aces-Eagles
5		Lemons-Maroons
6		Limes-Phallics

Intramural Summary

FRATERNITY DIVISION

Athenian		Spartan		Trojan
TEP	2-0	TKE	2-0	QTV	2-0
SPE	1-0	AEP	1-0	PSD	1-0
ZN	1-0	LCA	1-0	KS	1-0
BKP	1-1	ASP	0-1	ATG	1-1
APO	0-2	PMD	0-1	PSK	1-1
TC	0-2	DC	0-2	PLP	0-2
				SAM	0-2

Leading Scorers
Lafoie—ZN 33
Frisbee—TKE 32
Garfield—QTV 30
Rubin—TEP 27
Corradi—TKE 25
Leading Rebounders
Hammond—ATG 37
Falkind—AEP 30
Frisbee—TKE 26
Leading Foul Shooters
Frisbee—TKE 6
Powers—PSK 6
Connelly—BKP 6

DORMITORY SOUTH LEAGUE

	W	L
Hi-lo's	3	0
Trojans	3	0
Maples	2	1
Pines	2	1
Oaks	1	2
Hoovers	1	2
Elms	0	3
Nicks	0	3

Leading Scorer
Rendall—Trojans 63
Paul—Maples 49
F. Holcomb—Hi-lo's 44
Leading Rebounders
Condon—Pines 21
F. Holcomb—Hi-lo's 19
A. Holcomb—Hi-lo's 18
Alward—Hoovers 18
Leading Foul Shooters
Rendall—Trojans 16
F. Holcomb—Hi-lo's 11
Paul—Maples 9

DORMITORY NORTH LEAGUE

	W	L
Buffaloes	3	0
Rams	3	0
Redwoods	1	1
Bruins	1	1
Panthers	1	2
Hawks	0	2
Hemlocks	0	3

Leading Scorers
Ohlson—Buffaloes 51
Sinnamon—Panthers 41
DeSisto—Rams 38
Leading Rebounders
Ohlson—Buffaloes 44
Pelegri—Buffaloes 26
Webster—Buffaloes 21
Leading Foul Shooters
Begley—Hawks 7
Sinnamon—Panthers 6
Foster—Panthers 6

DORMITORY WEST LEAGUE

	W	L
Maroons	2	0
Phallics	2	0
Lemons	1	1
Aces	1	1
Eagles	0	2
Limes	0	2

Leading Scorers
Rose—Phallics 45
Murphy—Maroons 38
Crowley—Maroons 28
Hawkins—Lemons 28
Leading Rebounders
Crowley—Maroons 33
Nyman—Lemons 12
Leading Foul Shooters
Murphy—Maroons 10
Bakun—Maroons 6

DORMITORY EAST LEAGUE

	W	L
Birch	2	0
Broncos	1	1
Black Bears	1	1
Grants	1	1
Cherries	1	1
Chestnuts	0	2

Leading Scorers
Kucab—Cherries 38
Curtin—Cherries 29
Lewis—Chestnuts 22
Leading Rebounders
Fronczek—Birch 17
Carlsen—Birch 15
Muldoon—Birch 24
Tufts—Broncos 20
Leading Foul Shooters
Calhoun—Chestnuts 4
Muldoon—Birch 4

SOUTH TOWER LEAGUE

	W	L
Bulldozers	2	0
Spartans	2	0
Academics	2	0
Terrors	2	0
Huskies	1	1
Monuments	1	1
Ironmen	0	2
Commanchees	0	2
Seagram 6's	0	2
Smashers	0	2

Leading Scorers
Maloney—Spartans 25
Lagoy—Bulldozers 23
Stewart—Bulldozers 27
Horgan—Terrors 18
Rosoff—Terrors 42
Ratz—Ironmen 32
Leading Rebounders
Fuller—Terrors 57
Freitas—Terrors 16
Klein—Terrors 19
Maloney—Spartans 13
Lagoy—Bulldozers 36
Leading Foul Shooters
Horgan—Terrors 8
Ratz—Ironmen 6

NORTH TOWER LEAGUE

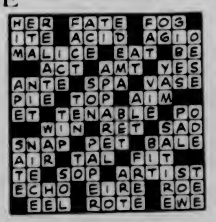
	W	L
Panthers	2	0
Jaguars	2	0
Leopards	1	1
Colt 45's	1	1
Lions	1	1
Cougars	1	1
Patriots	0	2
Colonials	0	2

Leading Scorer
Mees—Leopards 34
Brito—Panthers 32
Brenner—Panthers 30
Leading Rebounders
Schwartz—Panthers 36
Healy—Cougars 23
Leading Foul Shooters
Brenner—Panthers 12

INDEPENDENT NATIONAL LEAGUE

	W	L
Moody Blues	3	0
Dell Vikings	3	0
Tabomas	2	1
Knickerbockers	2	1
Aveca	1	2
Bismarks	1	2
S. Weedunda's	0	3
Bouncing Fig	0	3

Leading Scorers
Upton—Tabomas 82
Devitt—Moody Blues 75
Forys—Moody Blues 73
Bernado—Knicks 55
Kelley—Moody Blues 53
Leading Rebounders
Kelley—Moody Blues 50
Devitt—Moody Blues 47
Forys—Moody Blues 36
Alberti—Tabomas 24
Leading Foul Shooters
Devitt—Blues 11
Schmidt—Aveca 8
Kelley—Blues 7
Bernado—Knicks 5



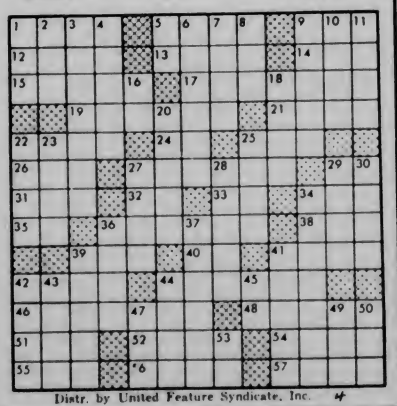
(Continued on page 11)

CORRECTION

NOTE: An error was made in the compiling of intramural statistics this week. Therefore two leagues, the Independent International and Independent American leagues are not included in this week's statistical summary.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle



ACROSS

1 Weakens
5 Virginia willow
9 Knock
12 Oriental nurse
13 Expired
14 Macaw
15 Gem weight
17 Make happy
19 Wipes out
21 Comfort
22 Departed
24 Teutonic deity
25 Deface
26 In music, high
27 Reply
29 Christian Science (abbr.)
31 Footlike part
32 Road (abbr.)
33 Pronoun
34 American essayist
35 Babylonian deity
36 Went by
38 Brown kiwi
39 Metal fastener
40 Conjunction
41 Trade for money
42 Seed coating
44 Puts on one's guard
46 Cajole
48 Bacteriologist's wire (pl.)
51 Permit
52 Frolic
54 City in Nevada
55 Declare
56 Longings
57 Paradise

DOWN

1 Algonquian Indian
2 Wine cup
3 Father and mother
4 Portion
5 Cyprinoid fish
6 Striped animals
7 Lampreys
8 Girl's name
9 Warning device
10 War god
11 Sheet of glass
16 Symbol for tantalum
18 Loved one
20 Dispatches
22 Stare open-mouthed
23 Genus of olives
25 Reward
27 Island off Ireland
28 At what place?
29 Self-possessed
30 Fur-bearing mammal
34 Ironed
36 Heap
37 Awe-inspiring
39 Fidelity
41 Cubic meter
42 Carpenter's tools
43 American ostrich
44 Century plant
45 Artificial language
47 Arid
49 Compass point
50 Offspring
53 Postcript (abbr.)

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

TEACHERS COLLEGE

The Graduate School of Education of Columbia University invites you

to meet with its representatives

Mr. Joseph P. Wells

Director

Student Information Center

and

Miss Violet Denison

Associate Admissions Officer

Wednesday, December 6, 1967

1:00 p.m. - 5:00 p.m.

to discuss the programs offered by Teachers College in Elementary, Secondary, and College Teaching, and allied fields (e.g. Administration, Psychology, Speech Pathology, Guidance, and Nursing Education).

APPOINTMENTS MAY BE MADE THROUGH THE Office of Assistant Dean, Amherst College

Call Miss Mullins, 542-2296

Frosh Hoopsters Win in Overtime

Defeat Rockwood Academy, 105-96

By PETER PASCARELLI
Sports Day Editor

Scoring 19 points in overtime, the UMass freshman basketball team weathered a sensational 52 point performance by Rockwood forward Henry Searight, to defeat Rockwood Academy 105-96, in a seat-squirmer at the Cage.

Lou Griffith and Bob Dempsey each had 28 points to lead the Little Redmen scorers, with Frank Schaffeld chipping in 15 clutch points. Jim Ryan and Ken Mathias each had nine.

Supporting Searight in the Rockwood attack were Mike White with 19 points and Joe Baron with 11.

Leading, 80-70, with 4:16 left to play, the Little Redmen appeared headed for an easy win. However, the Rockwood contingent would not fold as they sank eight consecutive points to close the margin to, 80-78, with 2:15 left.

Two free throws by Bill Greeley and a field goal by Sheffeld sent UMass to 86-82 lead. However, Searight then took the game in his own hands. He stole the ball and made a twisting layup from the right, with 16 seconds left, and was fouled.

Searight, a New York boy, then intentionally missed the foul shot, hoping to grab the rebound. But, Lou Griffith brought down, what proved to be an important rebound for the Little Redmen.

After two missed fouls by UMass, however, Searight drove and sank a hoop with three seconds left to send the game into overtime. The early going of the extra session proved close, as Searight hit on two shots from the left corner.

However, Bob Dempsey sank two baskets to send the Little Redmen out in front to stay. Rockwood's final gasp was extinguished as Searight fouled out at the 1:56 mark.

The capacity Cage crowd rose to give Searight a two-minute standing ovation in tribute of his sensational performance. His performance, as great as it was, still could not overshadow a truly outstanding team effort by the Little Redmen.

Rockwood led from the outset and did not relinquish the lead until 6:03 of the first half, on a basket by Bill Nelson, which capped a ten point run by UMass. Once UMass took the lead, they never lost it save for the early moments of overtime.

UMass was ragged for most of the first half, committing several floor mistakes and shooting poorly. Lou Griffith kept the Little Redmen close with a fine 16 point first half effort. UMass eked out a 41-36 halftime lead.

The Little Redmen threatened to turn the game into a rout at the beginning of the second half. Frank Shaffeld scored all his points (15) in the second half and played a strong game on the boards. It was the clutch play of Shaffeld and Bob Dempsey that held the Redmen steady against the oncoming Rockwood team.

Dempsey, who played a strong floor game throughout, had 16 points in the half. His ball handling, and that of Bill Greely who was a fine floor general, withstood a zone press by Rockwood.

UMass led by as much as 12 points on two occasions in the second half but could not hold the lead. However, the Little Redmen had the necessary ability to beat back Rockwood and gain a hard-earned victory.

Indicative of the wild play, that had the frigid Cage crowd almost warm, were two near-brawls in the second half. Rockwood was also hit by two technical fouls.

The Little Redmen, who proved to be an exciting five, played without their coach, Peter Broaca, who was away on a scouting trip. His position was filled by grad student Jack Apjar, whose baptism to coaching was a memorable one.

UMass now goes on the road for two contests, at Westfield against the Westfield SU's on Tuesday and at Manchester, New Hampshire against the St. Anselm's frosh on Saturday. The Little Redmen return home on Saturday afternoon to play the Westfield JV's again.

UMass Frosh	B	F	Pts
Ryan	3	3	9
Mathias	3	3	9
Griffith	13	2	28
Dempsey	10	8	28
Greeley	0	6	6
Schaffeld	6	3	15
Nelson	2	2	6
Kinard	2	0	4
Totals	39	27	105

Rockwood Acad.	B	F	Pts
Jn. Clark	3	0	6
Searight	20	12	52
Baron	3	5	11
Jim Clark	3	2	8
White	8	3	19
Ostrander	0	0	0
Hannon	0	0	0
Bdykwiez	0	0	0
Totals	37	22	96

Collegian Photo by Frank Guri

ITS ALL MINE—Jim Sulesky (54) grabs a rebound from UNH center, Phil Blum (43). Other players in the action are Bill Tindall (number obscured) and John Shockro (22).

Gymnasts Lose to So. Connecticut

Led by a brilliant one-man performance by U.S. team member, Joe Amerien, Southern Connecticut defeated UMass, 174-168, in gymnastics action on Saturday.

The Redmen were able to garner two first places. Bob LeClair won the side horse with a score of 9.05 and Joe Leed won the long horse vault with a score of 9.1.

Amerien won all the other events in a magnificent performance.

UMass kept the meet close, showing fine depth. Dick Regelle placed second in the still ring with a 9.15. Joe Leed took second in the parallel bars, scoring 8.85.

Joe Godwin placed second in floor exercises, while Steve Brown placed third in the parallel bar.

The meet was the cause of one man being too much for a well-balanced team. UMass performed well, but could not overcome the effort of Amerien.

The Redmen's next meet will be December 9 against Long Island University and Westchester State at Long Island.

INTRAMURALS

(Continued from page 10)

GRADUATE FACULTY LEAGUE

	W	L
Engineering	2	0
Least Squares	2	0
Economics	1	1
Chem Club	1	1
Selohasna	0	1
Chinese Club	0	2
History	0	1

Leading Scorers

Hand—Engineering	40
Hsuch—Chinese Club	34
Magee—Engineering	30

Leading Rebounders

Rokysak—Squares	19
King—Squares	15

Leading Foul Shooters

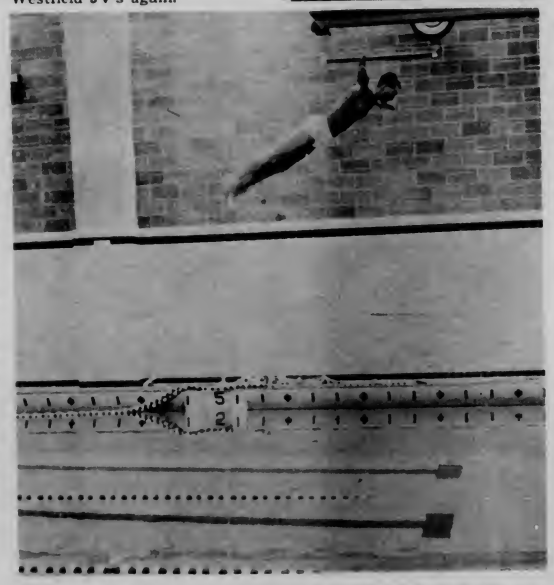
Magee—Engineering	10
Rokysak—Squares	6

Swimmers Defeat Tufts

Win Last Event for Victory; Asquith Cops Two Events

Winning the final relay event, the UMass swimming team repelled the depth of the Tufts swimmers and defeated the Jumbos, 54-41, at Boyden Gymnasium on Saturday.

Although winning first places in eight of eleven events, the Redmen were faced with a "must" situation in the final event, the 400-yard freestyle relay. Tufts had gained valuable points in all events by placing second or third. Therefore, the outcome of the meet hinged on this final event.



The UMass team of Phil Morton, Geof Senior, Mark Miller and Bob Asquith, taking the lead from the start, hung on to win the relay and the meet.

Asquith was the star of the meet. He won the 200-yard backstroke and the 200-yard individual medley, besides swimming the anchor leg of the decisive relay.

Also singled out for their fine performances by coach Joseph Rogers were relay members, Morton, Senior, Miller and also Al Northrup. The coach also had special praise for diver Dave Larsen, who Rogers said, "gets better all the time."

In this their first meet, the Redmen swimmers showed individual strength as evidenced by their eight wins. However, lack of over-all depth hurt them and nearly caused defeat.

UMass travels all the way to Amherst to swim against the Lord Jeffs on Wednesday at 7:00 p.m. in their next encounter. More on the swimming team and this meet later in the week.

Collegian Photo by Pat Lempart

LIKE A BIRD—Dave Larson, diver on the Swimming team performs a perfect swan dive during action on Saturday.

MDC CLASSIFIED

FOR SALE

One 72 cu. in. scuba tank and a two-hose regulator, call 546-9178.

1967 Honda 305 scrambler like new—must sacrifice. Tel. from 4 to 9 p.m. Granby, Mass., HO 7-2567

4 piece slinger and drum set. champagne pink. Zyldjian cymbals (4). All hardware. Excellent condition. $425. Call Jim Collins, 6-6848; 1709 John Adams.

PERSONAL

To the girls of first floor Van Meter North:
The E-Weed is Sweet.

If you are faced with Selective Service problems and need accurate advice, phone or visit.
Draft Information Service
Valley Peace Center
203 North Pleasant Street
Amherst, Mass.
253-9979
10-4:30 Daily

AUTOMOBILE

VW deluxe sedan 1960; rebuilt motor. Call 256-8278.

1966 Sunbeam Alpine 1725cc conv., 4 speed, wire wheels, w.w., radio, will trade. Call Ed 546-9208.

4-door hardtop sedan '55 Oldsmobile power steering and brakes, has sticker $50.00 or best offer. Call Greg at 253-9157.

1962 Chevrolet convertible 283 V-8 automatic transmission power steering, power brakes, 2 new tires, winterized excellent top only 50,000 miles asking $650. Call Lydia, 546-9631.

WANTED

Will babysit in our home near Amherst center. Call 256-6076.

DAILY COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED ADS
BRING RESULTS

University of Massachusetts Theatre presents

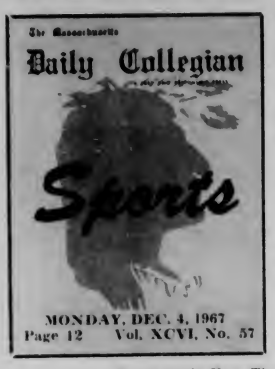
ENRICO IV

December 6-9 8:30 p.m.
Bowker Auditorium
Reserved Seats 1.50
Box Office 545-2149



Matmen Lose New York Action

BROCKPORT, N. Y. — Captain Gene Paltrineri placed second in the 137 pound class and sophomore Mike McKenna placed third in the 145 pound class, but the UMass Wrestling Team finished last in the Fourth Annual Interstate Quadrangle Wrestling Meet, held here Saturday.

Miami (O.) University, which UMass coach Homer Barr called one of the top 20 teams in the country won the meet, edging Clarion (Pa.) State College, 81-80. Brockport St. placed third with 56 points and the Redmen scored 32 points.

Coach Barr was nevertheless pleased with the individual performance of his team against the top-notch competition. "We knew we were going to be outclassed," he said.

Redmen Crush UNH, 88-67, in Hoop Opener

By MIKE CURRAN
Staff Reporter

Coach Leaman's five put together a smooth passing offense and a pressure defense and came up with a surpringly convincing, 88-67, win over New Hampshire in the Yankee Conference hoop opener, as a capacity crowd of 4000 looked on.

The Redmen, as expected, were led by Captain Billy Tindall, who scored 27 points and picked off 20 rebounds, and Joey Di Sarcina's all-around play which resulted in 20 points, 8 assists and a number of steals.

Probably the most encouraging aspect of the game, however, was the outstanding performance by center, Peter Gayeska. The 6'9 junior came through with 15 points and 14 rebounds. His improvement may pave the way for a fine season as UMass foes may no longer be able to concentrate on Tindall with a big shooting centerman also around.

DiSarcina's push shot from the corner gave the Redmen a quick 2-0 lead and they never were headed. Tindall's shooting and Jim Sulesky's rebounding gradually increased the margin while the Wildcats were being stymied by a ball hawking UMass defense.

At halftime, the Redmen led 45-31.

The second half was almost an exact duplicate. New Hampshire couldn't get shots off let alone move the ball effectively and when they did shoot, Gayeska and Tindall were always around to wipe the boards clean.

Gayeska's jump shot with 12 minutes left in the contest gave UMass a 26 point edge and a successful Redmen basketball opener was assured.

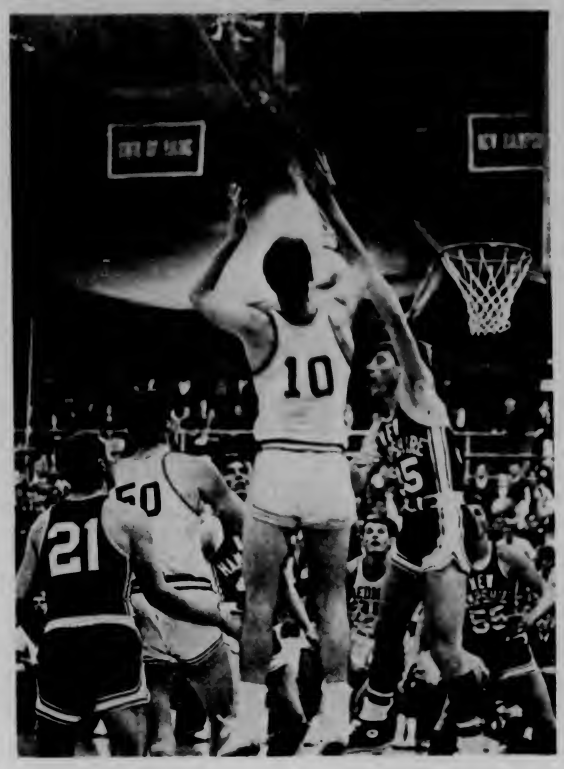
In the closing minutes of play, Leaman was able to get a look at his bench strength which could be a key factor during the season.

Jeff Banister, New Hampshire's highly touted sophomore was held to 16 points, ten of them from the foul line. Rick Perkins, Ron Nowakowski and Tindall did a fine job of keeping the balls away from him.

John Shockro and Ray Ellerbrook canned three jumpers in his varsity debut.

Nowakowski was also in double figures, as he hit on five of nine attempts.

Besides Bannister, Denny Hodgon was the only other Wildcat in double figures with 12 points. This is a very young team, however, and once sophomores like Brian Peters, Phil Blum and Bob Schultze get some experience, New Hampshire will be a lot harder to deal with.



The statistics showed UMass making 36 of 78 shots and garnering 64 rebounds as opposed to the Wildcats managing only 17 of 45 filed goal attempts and 38 rebound.

Two flaws in the otherwise perfect picture were the 31 fouls picked up by the Redmen and a Chamberlain performance from the line. UMass shot .471 at the stripe and needless to say, they won't be able to get away with that kind of percentage in some games.

Tuesday's game at Rhode Island should clean up the foggy Yankee Conference crystal ball Sports Illustrated had in their current issue.

	Field Goals Made	Att	Free Throws Made	Att	Total Pts	Rebs	Fouls	Asts	Mins. Played
Tindall	12	20	3	8	27	20	2	1	37
Perkins	0	1	1	1	1	3	4	3	18
Gayeska	7	13	1	5	15	14	3	5	25
Shockro	1	5	0	0	2	0	2	4	29
DiSarcina	5	10	10	14	20	3	4	8	36
Sulesky	1	7	1	2	3	7	2	0	12
Nowakowski	5	9	0	2	10	5	4	0	7
Ellerbrook	3	6	0	0	6	0	3	1	11
Rand	1	4	0	0	2	0	4	1	13
Gasperack	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	4
Samuelson	1	1	0	0	2	2	1	0	3
Girotti	0	1	0	2	0	1	1	0	3
Gallagher	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	2
Team						8
UM TOTALS	36	78	16	34	88	64	31

	Field Goals Made	Att	Free Throws Made	Att	Total Pts	Rebs	Fouls	Asts	Played Mins.
Bannister	3	10	10	14	16	4	4	2	37
Glover	2	3	3	4	7	6	2	0	29
Blum	1	4	0	0	2	8	3	0	27
Hodgdon	4	11	4	6	12	1	3	1	33
Branscombe	1	3	1	1	3	0	2	1	22
Schultze	2	3	4	5	8	5	5	0	13
Peters	3	6	3	6	9	1	2	0	12
Kerschner	0	0	0	0	0	0	2	2	7
Seay	1	3	4	7	6	2	1	0	10
Cushman	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	5
Sargent	0	1	0	0	0	0	2	1	3
Bussey	0	0	2	2	2	0	0	0	1
Lasch	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1
Team						11
UNH TOTALS	17	45	33	47	67	38	26	8

Collegian Photo by Frank Gori

OVER THE BANNISTER—Joe DiSarcina (10) arcs a one-hander over the outstretched hand of Jeff Bannister (35). Other players in the action are Peter Gayeska (50), Dennis Hogdon (21), Bob Schultze (55), and Greg Rand (30).

Collegian Photo by Frank Gori

A ROUND OF APPLAUSE—Bill Tindall appears to be clapping his hands as Dennis Hodgon and George Branscombe (13) of New Hampshire watch a UMass basket, which was scored by Joe DiSarcina (not in picture).

Pucksters Massacre M.I.T., 15-0

By WALT STACHURA
Staff Reporter

Red was the favorite color of the UMass hockey team Saturday night as they turned the red light on 15 times in whitewashing Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Orr Rink, 15-0.

Jeff Sanborn and Don Robinson led the scoring barrage with three goal "hat tricks." Tom Johnson was top man in assists with five while Sanborn added four assists to end up with seven points for the night.

It was the first win for new coach John Canniff.

Sanborn started scoring matters at the 8:30 mark of the first period when his shot trickled through MIT goalie Steve Eriksen's leg pads.

Two minutes later, Bill McMann's shot slipped through Eriksen's pads into the net. Greg Stone notched the Redmen's third goal of the period firing home a rebound of a Charlie Hanifan shot.

Crisp passing between Sanborn and Robinson resulted in the prettiest goal of the night. Robinson took Sanborn's cross goalmouth pass and had a wide open net to put the puck into.

Joe DiCicco fed Tom Johnson a perfect lead pass at the red line and Johnson had no trouble beating Eriksen on the breakaway at 3:00 of the second period.

Sanborn and Mike Coyne tallied goals 37 seconds apart with Coyne's shot a beauty just catching the left corner of the goal.

Defenseman Bill McMann's 40-foot wrist shot threaded its way through a maze of players high into the goal over Eriksen's shoulder.

Jim O'Brien scored the ninth Redmen goal at 19:29 of the second period when his shot hit a MIT defenseman and slowly slid into the goal.

Robinson flashed the light at 4:25 of the third period and 28 seconds later Sanborn completed his "hat trick" scoring on a breakaway.

MIT coach Ben Martin's switch of goalies did no good in stopping the UMass firepower. Robinson finished his "hat trick" when he swept around the back of the net and tucked the puck into the unguarded corner.

Rapid fire goals by Jim O'Brien and Charlie Eaton 29 seconds apart added icing to the cake. Eaton's goal was his first of the year. Pete Dawson finished the rout when he scored on a 2-0 breakaway.

UMass goalie Pete Scoville stopped 20 shots in his shutout effort while the MIT goalies were bombarded with 58 shots.

ICE CHIPS . . .

Charlie Hanifan snakebit by hitting the post twice . . . Stone and O'Brien also hit the post . . . Eaton was hustler all night and threw several good bodychecks as well . . . Scoville made nice split save on blue line slap shot to keep shutout . . . DiCicco saved breakaway with poke check after winger Michael Harris had gotten by him . . . only five minor penalties called during the game.

Coach Canniff had all-defense man line playing up front near end of the game . . . MIT may have the only bearded college hockey player in the country in forward Michael Talalay . . . next game for the Redmen Wednesday at 7 against Amherst at Orr Rink . . .The win evened the Redmen's record at 1-1.

Cartwright on North Squad

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — John Cartwright, Navy quarterback, was selected to play for the North team in the College All Star football game in the Orange Bowl Christmas day, it was announced yesterday. UMass quarterback Greg Landry has already been selected for the North squad.

More Sports on Pages 10 and 11

Collegian Photo by Frank Gori

ATOM BOMBS—Rookie cheerleader, the Atom, made his debut at the Cage Saturday, where he performed side-by-side with the Phantom, a seasoned veteran. The Atom stands only 5'5 and is even more difficult to see in the yellow aura of the Cage.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOL. XCVI, NO. 58 | UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS | TUESDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1967

Wood Flares as Senior Week Issue Catches Fire

By BILL DICKINSON and JOHN WOJNAS

"We should get the idea of compromise out of our heads."

The Executive Council of the Class of '68 overwhelmingly endorsed this attitude at a meeting held last night.

The hastily called Executive Council meeting was open to the public in Hasbrouck 20 and there were approximately 85 people in attendance. Senior Class President Dick Wood chaired most of the meeting which centered on the heated controversy over the $30,000 subsidy for Senior Week.

The debate centered on how the Executive Council will utilize the results of today's open hearing at 11:15 in Bowker Auditorium. The hearing is sponsored jointly by the Senior Class and the Constitutional Convention. The purpose of the meeting is to gauge class sentiment over the question of the subsidy and Senior Week in general.

As one council member stated, the problem concerns itself with four basic questions:

1. A $30,000 subsidized Senior Week
2. A compromise of a $20,000 subsidation
3. A plan whereby each senior would finance his or her own Senior Week individually
4. No Senior Week at all.

There was much confusion on the part of the council members as to the actual purpose of the meeting held last night. The views ranged from whether or not the Council is truly representative of the Class to public censure of the President and Vice-President of the Student Senate.

For reasons which he never stated, President Wood introduced and later withdrew a motion of public censure of President Collins and Vice-President Boronski.

President Wood admitted that the issue of Senior Week "has undergone a great misunderstanding," stating "that on bended knees he pleaded" that the Daily Collegian present only the facts not opinion concerning the issue. While referring to the Daily Collegian as "blatant trash" he praised Editor-in-Chief Weinerman for "doing his best to present both sides of the issue.

—Bill Dickinson Photo
Senior Class President Wood

"The whole situation is a crying disgrace," he flared angrily.

Stating that he has "failed to communicate" with his constituency, Wood vehemently vowed "I will resign" as President of the Class of '68 if today's meeting shows a majority opposition to the proposed Senior Week plans.

President Collins of the Senate and Wood agreed upon the basic format of today's open meeting. Although being open to the each class, it was decided that seniors would be given priority for seating followed by members of the other classes. Wood then stated that "only the will of the seniors will be respected" in the straw vote. Collins agreed.

In closing Wood addressed his Executive Council concerning other people present at the meeting opposed to Senior Week as it stands. Referring to them as the "negative voice on this camus" he urged the council to get out and work so that all Seniors in favor of the proposed Senior Week attend the open meeting at Bowker Auditorium.

Opposition Circulates Petition

A group of approximately 15 Seniors set up a table in the Student Union yesterday to gather signatures on a petition opposing the "lack of advance publicity and lack of solicitation of Senior opinion concerning the planning of Senior Week". Pat Pfeiffer, who wrote the petition, said that "we are opposed to the methods that were used subsidizing for this kind of Senior Week is reverse subsidation."

The group, which belongs to no one specific organization, has attempted to contact a majority of the Seniors to urge them to attend the open meeting today.

An alternative to the present plan suggested by the group is that the special tax be dropped; that those who want to will pay for the trip to Grossinger's.

An alternative petition was also offered at the table: that of opposition to Senior Week as proposed.

The Class of 1968 Executive Council made available yesterday a printed clarification of the proposed Senior Week. An enumeration of the facilities at Grossinger's followed an explanation of the Senior tax increase.

The Senior meeting being held at 11:15 in Bowker today is sponsored by the Budget Committee of the Constitutional Convention, which is composed of members of the four classes and the Student Senate.

"Half-a-Coke?!"

Vending Service Director Discusses Problems

By PATT FRANCIS
Staff Reporter

"The only way we can do anything to rectify complaints about the vending service on campus is if my office hears about them." This is what Jim West, Director of Vending Services told the Student Senate Services Committee at a hearing on vending service last night.

West clarified many aspects of present policies, and why they are being followed.

Points he discussed were:

- There are three separate venders: Coca-Cola, Snow's Dairy, and Canteen, who service the pastry, cigarette, and candy machines.
- Route schedules are governed by demand. Therefore, if the companies discover that a machine in a given dorm is running out quickly, they will change the schedule of the way that machine is filled.
- Part of the reasons that service has been bad is isolated boycotts occurring across campus: if a service man sees that a product hasn't been selling, he won't come as often.
- Fifteen-cent pastries were introduced because of a rise in the cost of producing the product, and labor.
- A written request from a representative body, such as a house council, indicating a house's desire for a previously stocked product, is the best way of getting the product back.
- Half-full cokes are caused by adjustments in the carbon dioxide tanks (necessary because of the cold weather). The company will service machines as soon as possible after receiving the complaints.
- Hot food machines are forthcoming, a few at a time.
- The milk and ice cream problem will be solved, one way or the other, by about January first. This includes the machines, servicing, and products.
- Grinder wagons are illegal presently, because of a decision of the Dean of Students, following the vote of the Board of Trustees, against solicitation of campus roads.
- The main reason for poor service is that no one is notifying the vending machine office.

Merrigan Calls Four-Letter Words 'Lousy' Way for Students to Protest

By JIM FOUDY
City Editor

The view held by the outside society that student publications, which defy standards of decency, should not be allowed at a University was presented here last evening by Thomas W. Merrigan, reporter for the Greenfield Recorder and a selectman in that town.

Speaking as an individual with no particular affiliations, Merrigan said that he was "confused about the University's policy which would ban "Mother of Voices from the lobby counter but would allow it to be sold at a public table in the Union."

Merrigan told the group that obscenities and four-letter words had no place in a University publication. About thirty students heard the lecture sponsored by Alpha Phi Gamma, the honorary journalism fraternity.

According to Merrigan, the University should be preparing students for what he termed "the aduit world". Merrigan said that the type of material that appeared in "Mother" is not consistent with the norms of society in general and should not be allowed to be published openly on campus.

The government-education reporter for the Greenfield Recorder cited the 1965 California Supreme Court decision which asserted the power of Regents of the University of California to impose rules and codes for the students. Merrigan said that if the Administration had been censoring Yahoo the issue that erupted over the magazine would never have taken place.

Although Merrigan admits there are many "imperfections" in what he called the "adult society" he does not feel this is a justification for abandoning all of society's standards.

"If someone wishes to read a paper like the "Mother of Voices" they can seek it out," Merrigan said, adding, "It should not be on display in a public building."

Much of the discussion between Merrigan and the students boiled down to basic, yet unanswerable, questions as to the nature of a free University in society.

Merrigan stuck to his statement that the 20th century Academe should serve to prepare students for the adult world. The students leaned toward the view that the University serves to foster an atmosphere of free expression for the questioning of society's norms and literary standards.

One student, Jane Roland, said that for her and many other students activities of the adults are considered offensive. "A simple word is much less offensive and does a great deal less harm than the present war," Miss Roland said.

Another student, an editor of the "Mother of Voices", disagreed with Merrigan's classification of students as non-adults.

Steve Kirinsky said, "We are as much adults as you are and we should have a say in the affairs of the University."

Merrigan's final point was that, while he agrees with student protest he feels that using four-letter words is a "lousy" way of doing it and suggested that students use a more logical, conventional approach to get their message across.

—Bill Dickinson Photo
THOMAS MERRIGAN

Area Colleges Offer Lectures On Space, Peace, and Geology

Horizons in Space

Dr. Raymond L. Bisplinghoff, head of the Department of Aeronautics and Astronautics of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will speak at a joint meeting of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics (AIAA) and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers (ASME).

The meeting will be held tomorrow, Wednesday, December 6, 1967, at 8 p.m. in the Engineering Auditorium.

Dr. Bisplinghoff, whose speech is sponsored by AIAA, will speak on "New Horizons in Aeronautics and Space" and will discuss the developments in both these fields as he sees them by the turn of the century. These will be discussed not only from a standpoint of what can be done in a technical sense but also what is likely to be supported by the general public.

Among his many credits Dr. Bisplinghoff served as associate administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) from 1962 to 1966.

At this same meeting Mrs. Samuel S. Board, Jr., Treasurer of the Woman's Auxiliary to the American Society of Mechanical Engineers will present the Marjorie Roy Rothermel Memorial Scholarship, an award of $1,000, to Mr. Laurence E. Reinhart, Class of 1967, presently enrolled in the University of Massachusetts Graduate School.

U.S. Asia Policy

